

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE
ONE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED AND NINETY-FOURTH MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Columbus, Ohio, July 9, 1993

The Board of Trustees met at its regular monthly meeting on Friday, July 9, 1993, at The Ohio State University Fawcett Center for Tomorrow, Columbus, Ohio, pursuant to adjournment.

July 9, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

The Chairman, Ms. Casto, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on July 9, 1993, at 11:00 a.m. She requested the Secretary to call the roll.

Present: Deborah E. Casto, Chairman, John W. Kessler, Milton A. Wolf, Leslie H. Wexner, Alex Shumate, Theodore S. Celeste, George A. Skestos, David L. Brennan, Hiawatha N. Francisco, Jr., and Amira N. Ailabouni.

Ms. Casto:

I am pleased to have the opportunity to welcome Ms. Amira Ailabouni as our new Student Trustee. Amira is a junior, from Columbus, majoring in criminology with a minor in sociology.

She plans to pursue a career with either the FBI or the Drug Enforcement Agency after graduation. She currently works part-time at Children's Hospital and also tutors inner-city youth at the Godman Guild.

She is also the community service coordinator for the Women's Panhellenic Association and is an active member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority here on campus. Amira will be serving a two-year term and we are delighted to have her join this Board. Amira, welcome.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Ladies and gentlemen, welcome. We are delighted to have all of you with us today. Let me first add my welcome to Amira as a member of this Board. We are delighted to have you here. As you know, we have been fortunate to have outstanding student representation on the Board of Trustees. And as you can tell from her credentials, Amira will add significantly to the deliberations and decisions of this body.

Let me note over in the corner, Dr. Tom York, who is the new Chair of the Senate Steering Committee. Tom is a Professor in the Department of Engineering. We have taken the opportunity to have the leadership of our faculty now act as resource people and to participate in the deliberations of the Board. Tom, welcome, you will be a familiar figure there for this year, but we are delighted to have you here.

Although we are in the heat of summer, the university campuses remain lively centers of activity. Of course, we are in the midst of summer quarter. Preliminary figures indicate that our enrollment for summer is up a little over last year. For this we should thank the deans and department chairs who have maintained course offerings for the summer quarter.

As you may have noticed while coming here this morning, there are hundreds of young people on campus for a number of sports camps. Our Young Scholars are also back for their summer classes and workshops. It is hard to believe that the first class of scholars is about to enter their senior year of high school!

PRESIDENT'S REPORT (contd)

President Gee: (contd)

Ohio State is the site of several large conferences and programs during the summer, including major meetings of the 4-H and Future Farmers of America. We hosted 16,000 athletes for the Ohio Special Olympics Summer Games. And the national association of college and university housing directors will be here in conference later this month.

Certainly, a very important group of visitors this summer are the members of our incoming freshman class and their families who are here for orientation. I had the opportunity to visit with family members last week. I was reminded of the trust they place in us by sending us their sons and daughters. They are counting on us to provide the opportunity for a quality education for each of our incoming students. I assured them and I reaffirm our commitment today that we will do just that: provide quality education. As we move forward in our academic planning process, we face significant challenges and will continue to make important choices.

The presentation of the 1994 operating budget this morning reflects some of those challenges and emphasizes the importance of informed decision making within the context of our mission and vision for the future of this University. And, I believe, after all is said and done, that it reinforces the importance of strong and effective leadership for our various academic and academic-support units.

In that regard, I am very pleased today to recommend to this Board three outstanding individuals for senior appointments. Professor David Williams -- who is not with us today because he is chairing our program in Oxford, for the Law School -- has given exceptional leadership to the Office of Minority Affairs. He is first a teacher, committed to students and to enhancing the quality of their experience at Ohio State. I look forward now to his innovative leadership in the Office of Student Affairs.

Professor Beverly Toomey is being recommended as Acting Dean of the College of Social Work. Professor Toomey is a member of our Academy of Teaching, and is a past recipient of the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching. Her scholarly work has focused on homelessness among the mentally ill and in rural settings. An active university citizen, Dr. Toomey will provide effective leadership for the college.

Also today, you have before you the appointment of Ms. Sherri Geldin as Director of the Wexner Center for the Arts. She comes to us from the Los Angeles Museum of Contemporary Art. Ms. Geldin combines a passion for contemporary art -- and those of you who have met her know that -- with proven administrative ability. The entire university community will be enriched by her dynamic presence.

So even in times of challenge -- especially in times of challenge -- we must have the processes and people in place to not only protect the interests of our students and faculty, but more importantly to advance them as well. We are working together to do that. Furthermore, I believe that we are making some progress in convincing the people of this state and their elected representatives that support for higher education is truly an investment in the future of Ohio. We are grateful to the General Assembly and the Governor for a biennial operating budget which guaranteed that this university would receive at least a 3 percent instructional subsidy increase in fiscal year 1994 and 2 percent in 1995. It is important to note that the leadership of this state acknowledged that the Regents' funding formula did not work well in an environment of stable and/or capped enrollments, and has called for a review of the subsidy formula. Faced with a continuing difficult fiscal picture for the state, a number of elected officials advocated vigorously for higher education. And, thankfully, this year we have at least stopped the hemorrhaging. Now, the healing must begin. We are already hard at work, making our case for higher education within the State of Ohio over the next several years.

Visiting the people of northern Ohio two weeks ago, I saw their belief in the importance of this university in their lives. The residents of a Cleveland housing project told me how important Ohio State University Extension has been in improving the quality of their lives through programs for their children and through urban gardening and entrepreneurship initiatives. Charter boat captains in Erie County emphasized the university's role in the resurgence of tourism along Lake Erie. And, one of the world's leading flower growers told me that Ohio State's graduates dominate the field of floriculture, providing leadership in the industry world-wide. You will start hearing that in all of my alumni speeches now!

Our graduates, of course, are our most important contribution to the future of our communities. They leave this university not only with an Ohio State diploma, but with the knowledge and skills necessary for life. Some will reach great heights in business and industry. A few will literally reach great heights, like Nancy Sherlock, a 1980 Ohio State graduate, who was a mission specialist on the most recent space shuttle flight, the Endeavor.

A very exceptional Ohio State graduate, in the class of 1950, Dr. Rajammal Devadas -- our first Ph.D. in nutrition and biochemistry -- took the knowledge she gained at Ohio State back to her native India where she has been a leader in nutrition and literacy programs and is a university president. That brings some of her intellectual capability into question -- but nonetheless, an advocate for the education of women. She returned to Ohio State last week to consult with our faculty on establishing a college of health, physical education, and recreation in southern India. At the age of 74, she continues to provide leadership in addressing some of India's most pressing social problems.

Our graduates, in every county in Ohio and nearly every country in the world, are contributing members of their communities and informed citizens of the world. Their examples continue in this particular time to inspire all of us. And, through the committed efforts of all of us here today, their Ohio State degrees will continue to grow in value.

With that report for the summer, I thank you very much, Madam Chair.

Ms. Casto:

At this time I would like to call on Professor Charles Ross, from the College of Social Work, who wishes to address the Board.

July 9, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

Professor Charles O. Ross:

Thank you very much. President Gee, members of the Board, University officials, faculty, staff, students, and citizens of Ohio, I have a prepared statement which I have provided the members of the Board. Since I have prepared this statement, there has been a major development and I need to raise a more fundamental question before I address this Board.

I came here today because I saw this Board as one place where I might appeal my case. I had written to the Provost about a month ago and asked her whether I had any administrative right of appeal in this matter and she went on vacation and I did not get an answer until yesterday. I was not clear myself on what right of appeal faculty members have, staff members, students, etc., in matters that come before the Provost. Yesterday, I received a correspondence from the Provost and she indicated that her office was the office of last appeal. And so I need to ask you before I proceed -- my attorneys have suggested to me something about standing. Do I have standing here at this Board meeting? If I do not have standing, there is no need for me to make my statement, Mr. President.

President Gee:

Professor Ross, that is an interesting question. I am a lawyer --

Professor Ross:

Yes, I know that, Sir.

President Gee:

I won't act in my own behalf, we have a lawyer here. I would suggest that you had asked to address the Board -- we have a policy which says that when people want, under circumstances, to address the Board that they have the right to do so. The question you have asked is whether the Provost is the final arbitrator within the realm of the University's decision-making process on appointments of deans or acting deans. The answer to that is yes.

Professor Ross:

Okay. So in this matter your office has no responsibility for review? I am just trying to get you on the record, Mr. President.

President Gee:

Yes. As a matter of fact, my office does not have, as a matter of policy, a review over these types of appointments.

Professor Ross:

Okay. So in other words, when the Provost makes a decision of an administrative nature, tenure, any other issues of that kind, those matters may not be appealed to your office.

President Gee:

The Rules of the University Faculty are somewhat complex in that regard. In certain instances they can be appealed and in other instances they can't. I think that we would have to take a look at each particular case, but generally speaking the Provost's office is the appeal of last resort in academic matters. The University President's office has a responsibility to make certain that the process that is in place is an appropriate one and that it has been followed. But in terms of the substance of the decision, the answer is that the Provost's office is the place of last resort in that regard. Am I not right about that, Bob?

President Gee: (contd)

Judge Duncan:

I think that is right.

Professor Ross:

Okay. So, Mr. President, you are assuring me that in this matter your office has no responsibility? The Provost has spoken on this matter and your office has no responsibility for review in this case? I am not talking about the hundreds of other cases, this is a specific case.

President Gee:

In this case, the Provost's office is the decision point and she has that responsibility. I would also note, to be on the record, that I thoroughly support that decision.

Professor Ross:

Okay. With that, Mr. President, my attorneys have advised me to simply take this matter administratively as far as I could take it to assure that I have exhausted all possibilities for a resolution of this matter within the institution. So, with that in mind, I think it would be out of order for me to ask this Board to speak to this matter since I gather from what you have said this Board has no responsibility whatsoever for review of decisions made by the Provost. The Provost on this campus, with regards to academic matters, is a czar.

President Gee:

Professor Ross, I did not say that. What I said was in terms of administrative appeal -- this Board is the ultimate policy-making authority. They have the right to review anything that they want to and will do so as they deem it necessary. Again, you have to understand that you are talking to the ultimate policy makers of the University.

Professor Ross:

This group?

President Gee:

This group that you are appearing before has responsibility and they do not take that review lightly. And they do carefully review the actions of the Provost. Now you asked the question administratively within the context of the University's administration and the Provost does have that responsibility, but all authority ultimately resides in the Board of Trustees. They can change the rules and regulations, and they can develop the rules and regulations as they do on matters of general policy on a continuing basis.

Professor Ross:

Can they review and overturn decisions made by the Provost?

President Gee:

Oh, absolutely.

Professor Ross:

Can they or can they not? I am trying to get you on record, Mr. President.

Amb. Wolf:

This is not a trial.

Mr. Kessler:

You're not on trial.

Ms. Casto:

This is not a trial. Mr. Ross, we gave you ten minutes to address this Board. If you would like to address this Board, please do.

Professor Ross:

I am using my ten minutes -- I am addressing it right now. I am asking some basic fundamental questions that I want to understand.

Amb. Wolf:

This is not a court.

Ms. Casto:

Well, then maybe you need to make an appointment with President Gee. If you would like to address this Board, then address this Board. If not, maybe at another time.

Professor Ross:

Well, at this point if I could just get clarity I would cease and desist from any discussion. If you say this Board -- I will address this Board if you tell me this Board has responsibility in this area.

Ms. Casto:

Of course we have.

July 9, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

Professor Ross:

If you tell me they have no responsibility, I am not going to address the Board. I am talking to the wrong people.

Mr. Kessler:

Mr. President, we've allotted ten minutes and we are into five minutes of it. I suggest that Professor Ross read his statement if he would like to, or address us and we should get on with our Board meeting.

Professor Ross:

I would only want to read the statement if this Board will declare that it has responsibility in this area and is prepared to hear my case.

Judge Duncan:

Mr. President, I advise you to not continue to interchange in this discussion of the applicable law, that is a matter for the lawyers. And if lawyers want to contest this matter, let them do so. But right now it seems to me that the Board has afforded an opportunity for Mr. Ross to be heard and not to question this Board concerning legal matters. There is a way to do that and that way ought to be followed. Today is not that day in my judgement.

President Gee:

You can either address the Board on the substance or move to another level.

Professor Ross:

Well, Mr. President, since I have gotten a mixed response, I am not clear on your responsibility. I want to be on the record and I am going to take my chance and address the Board. [The following is a prepared statement read by Professor Charles O. Ross to The Ohio State University Board of Trustees.]

May I thank you for this opportunity to address The Ohio State University Board of Trustees. I am here today because I have been an employee of this University for 23 years. During those 23 years, I have received "Professor of the Year" awards in teaching. I am nationally known for my work in the area of social change and community development. I have been an active member of the College of Social Work serving and chairing just about every committee. I think I am a household name in Columbus and across Ohio for my efforts to end institutional racism and to help build a society based on hard work, competence, freedom, and justice for all.

I cite these career experiences to simply share this information with those of you who do not know me.

I have come here today because I am outraged by the Provost's decision to reject my nomination to become Acting Dean, after being so recommended by the Social Work faculty. You have received correspondence from me regarding the decision of Provost Joan Huber. I am here today to request that you investigate and reverse this decision since the Provost has acted in a racist, capricious, and very arbitrary manner.

Professor Ross: (contd)

Let me outline quickly what has occurred.

- Our Dean, Richard Boettcher, resigned after serving the College with distinction for ten years. It was, therefore, necessary to name an Acting Dean.

- The Social Work faculty sent three faculty members to meet with the Provost and agree on a process for selecting an Acting Dean. The Provost was asked if she had guidelines for the process. She said that the process was an informal one. As a member of the delegation meeting with the Provost, I was somewhat shocked that there were no written guidelines.

- The Provost continued by pointing out that she did not know the internal politics of the College of Social Work and she preferred if we could reach some internal accord on this matter. This would make her job easier she said. She said she did not want to get involved in our politics. The Provost continued by suggesting that she had only two directives which she issued in a written statement dated March 29, 1993:

- (1) You should select a person who is a tenured professor.
- (2) You should send me one or two names.

- The Provost came and met with our faculty and restated these guidelines. The College of Social Work faculty took the Provost's recommendations to heart and organized what I will call a primary and general election. Four candidates ran in the primary:

- (1) Karen Harper, Associate Professor
- (2) Beverly Toomey, Full Professor
- (3) Keith Kilty, Full Professor
- (4) Charles O. Ross, Associate Professor

- Toomey and Ross received the highest number of votes and campaigned for the general election. Ross was the clear winner.

- The faculty was united and expected the Provost to appoint Ross who was the clear winner. Most faculty members were shocked to learn of the Provost's unilateral decision which was in opposition to the faculty's choice in the case. The faculty was not only shocked by the decision, but they were even more shocked that the Provost did not even extend to them the courtesy to meet with the faculty to explain her rejection of their candidate.

- I wrote the Provost immediately and asked her if I had any right of appeal in this matter; a copy of this inquiry was sent to President Gordon Gee and also to Bob Duncan. This was almost a month ago, and I received a reply from the Provost yesterday. She says that I have no right of administrative appeal.

The decision of the Provost is wrong, and I am asking the Board of Trustees to investigate this wrong before you approve a contract for the Provost's recommendation. If this Board approves the Provost's recommendation, I am prepared to take this arbitrary and capricious decision to a court of law. In my communication with you, I pointed out that Dr. Leonard Jeffries received some $400,000 in a recent settlement in a similar capricious and arbitrary case. With the budgeting crisis facing this University, I don't believe that this Board can afford to throw away thousands of dollars to protect what appears to be a racist and

Let me remind you, I have been on this Campus for 23 years. I have gotten to know very well the leadership of this University. I am not one to make derogatory statements about people, but I must call to your attention that Provost Joan Huber has the reputation across this Campus for being the most incompetent, the most offensive, the most confusing, and the most insulting human being to ever hold such a high office at this University. I don't know one person who has ever complimented the Provost for leadership, vision, program ideas, and those qualities that we expect in top level leadership.

I have heard recently that the President has plans to make the Provost a consultant to the incoming Provost. The new Provost, I understand, is protesting!!!! Can you imagine a person who is such a poor administrator being selected and given thousands of dollars to advise a Provost who comes to the University with sterling credentials.

I am not the first one to challenge the capricious and arbitrary behavior of this Provost:

- (1) The undergraduate students were outraged when the Provost indicated that these students did not have enough sense to serve on University committees.
- (2) The Dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine has refused to resign as Dean, another capricious and arbitrary decision made without proper documentation.
- (3) Faculty and staff members continue to shake their heads in disbelief that this person could hold such high office at this University.

I think I am over my time, but let me conclude by saying that I am more than outraged by the Provost's arbitrary and capricious decision to ignore the process that was approved for selecting the Acting Dean. I am even more outraged by public statements made by the Provost to cover up this capricious administrative decision. The Provost's office has made public statements to the press that she appointed Professor Toomey because the Acting Dean on this Campus had to be a person with a Ph.D. and a full professor. According to The Lantern, the Provost has indicated that no person should be Acting Dean unless they were a Ph.D. and a full professor -- this is from the Provost's office. You need to know, members of this Board, that the College of the Arts has a Dean who has served for five years and was recently reappointed this year by Provost Huber. Professor Donald Harris has a master's degree in music. This is why I say that the Provost's behavior has been arbitrary and capricious. One is forced to conclude that racism is the ugly force driving the administrative machine.

Again, I ask this Board to do the right thing. There must be some place on this Campus that we can turn when top administrators act in a racist, capricious, and arbitrary manner.

I thank you for this opportunity to address the Board.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you for your comments.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

You will notice that you all have reports at your places for the month of May 1993 grants and contracts. A summary received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the month of May can be found at Tab 1 in this report. Total funding from all sponsors has improved from last month and is only down 2.68 percent. There are significant increases in funding from the National Science Foundation, Department of Education, National Institutes of Health, and the Department of Labor.

At Tab 2 you will find expenditure summaries for the month of May. Total expenditures have increased over last month to 7.4 percent and it is noteworthy that both federal and non-federal expenditures are following this trend.

Some new projects of special interest that were funded in the month of May are listed at Tab 3. I thought you might be interested that Professor Yasuko Rikihisa, from the Department of Veterinary Pathobiology, has received $187,847 from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases to study a new bacterial disease. She will investigate the basic mechanism of disease caused by bacteria and how the parasite changes the intracellular environment from hostile to supporting and how the characteristic pathological changes are induced.

Professors Maria and Norton Neff, from the Departments of Psychiatry and Pharmacology, have received $150,111 from the National Institute on Aging to study the effects of a natural product on aged rat brains. GM1, a normal constituent ganglioside of brain membranes, will be investigated for its therapeutic potential for treating neurochemical deficits and the loss of cognitive ability associated with aging.

Professor Betty Anderson and four colleagues in the Department of Electrical Engineering received funding from the National Science Foundation to establish an undergraduate optics laboratory. Optoelectronics and optics are fast becoming an integral part of electrical engineering. With this new laboratory our students will learn contemporary optical engineering through 8 individual lab projects.

Yesterday, I met with Professor Russell Pitzer, Chairperson of Chemistry, and two of his colleagues, Dr. David Hart and Dr. Terry Miller, to discuss research activity in his department. The Chemistry Department, as you all know, has an excellent national reputation from their many outstanding junior and senior faculty members. While there we also talked about the impact on the various budget cuts in their department and discussed the close relationship between teaching and research at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in their department in particular.

At Tab 4 is the list of all projects funded in May.

At Tab 5 is a report of progress payments received by the Engineering Experiment Station for projects remaining with them and terminating before July 1993.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT (contd)

Mr. Celeste: (contd)

And, finally, Tab 6 includes press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-1

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for May 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation and the Engineering Experiment Station of The Ohio State University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein, and the acceptance of the reports from the Engineering Experiment Station during the month of May 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

The University Hospitals Board and its Professional Affairs/Education/Research Committee met on June 24. Dr. Seth Kantor informed the Professional Affairs Committee about curricular changes being developed by a College of Medicine task force. Initiatives include more active learning in a clinical context and more exposure to primary care, ambulatory care, chronic illnesses, and societal needs.

The Professional Affairs Committee approved the annual plan and goals of the Clinical Quality Management Committee, which serves both University Hospitals and the James Cancer Hospital to ensure high quality of care and appropriate use of resources. The Committee also endorsed the April, May, and June medical staff appointments, and a hospital-wide policy on restraint and seclusion measures if they become necessary to keep patients from harming themselves or others. Mr. Fraley presented statistics on licensure and certification, turnover, vacancies, performance appraisals, and information gained from exit interviews.

The Hospitals Board voted unanimously to endorse the medical staff appointments, subject to final approval by the Board of Trustees. The Board also approved the annual plan and goals of the Clinical Quality Management Committee. Mr. Fraley presented the May financial and statistical summary, recommending that this year's capital investment be increased by approximately $3 million. The Hospitals Board unanimously approved the recommended increase.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT (contd)

Dr. Charles Bush informed the Board about the advantages of the new Excimer laser in treating cardiology patients. Mr. Bruce Pontious updated Board members about Medical Center contribution receipts through the month of May. The Board passed a resolution of appreciation to Dr. Bush for his leadership during the past two years as Chief of Staff.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Francisco:

I would like to welcome Amira to the Student Affairs Committee and as the new Student Trustee. I would also like to recognize Wesley Bishop as the new President of IPC.

Today, Chris Norman, President of USG, reported that USG is working on gaining access to different radio stations for students majoring in communications to obtain internships. They are also planning to attend the Big Ten Conference on Leadership for Students at Purdue, July 23-25. Their last concern was regarding the budget. They feel that students are taking the bulk of the cutbacks. Every time there is a cutback more things are taken from the students.

Cherie Bayer, Vice President of CGS, reported that their concerns are the budget and graduate associateships. In regards to graduate associateships they would like to maintain the present number. Also, a lot of graduate students are being held in limbo because the budget hasn't come out and the letters don't go out until later on this month or maybe not until August. So a lot of students don't know if they are going to have associateships for next year and that is a concern. Increase in pay is also a concern. The pay increase is very minimal when you compare it to the increase in health insurance, traffic and parking, dining, and living on campus. Everything else goes up, but our increase in pay is very minimal.

Cherie also reported that CGS is in support of the benefits for same sex domestic partners. They also support and welcome David Williams as the new Vice President for Student Affairs.

The last report was presented by Wes Bishop, President of IPC. Wes reported that IPC is currently working on developing a new constitution to be more representative of the five different colleges and to get more people actively involved. For the upcoming year, IPC will be working on preparing a project for networking professional schools and also to get involved in the mentoring program with Lee Jones. Wes also reported that IPC supports David Williams' new appointment as Vice President for Student Affairs.

The last thing that the Committee talked about was planning for the upcoming year. Ted suggested that the Trustees and students switch roles for a day. The idea being that we would select a name out of the hat -- including the President -- and that person would follow the student around all day. You would go to class or lab with the student, and then in return the student would do the same with a Trustee and your day.

We also had an idea about having an informal rap session one evening early in September, so the Student Trustees would have a little more contact with students. We would break down into subgroups so students could voice any concerns that they have. This would be informal so students would be more at ease to ask questions.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

This morning the Educational Affairs Committee heard a report on "Diversity and Campus Climate -- Issues and Responses" by Linda Tom and Nancy Rudd. Also, Ed Ray discussed Cooperation Between the Newark Campus and COTC. I would like to present the following resolutions:

AMENDMENT TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY

Resolution No. 94-2

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the approval of the following amendment to the Rules of the University Faculty.

WHEREAS the University Senate pursuant to rule 3335-1-09 of the Administrative Code is authorized to recommend through the President to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty as approved by the University Senate; and

WHEREAS the proposed changes in the Rules of the University Faculty were approved by the University Senate on June 5, 1993:

Amended Rule

3335-5-484 Council on student affairs.

(A) Membership.

The council on student affairs shall consist of eighteen members.

(1) and (2) unchanged.

(3) Four administrators. Each administrator shall be appointed for a one-year term and shall be eligible for reappointment.

(a) The dean of student life, non-voting.

(b) A student affairs staff member from a regional campus, appointed by the vice president for student affairs, non-voting.

(c) A college office student affairs staff member appointed by the vice president for student affairs, non-voting.

AMENDMENT TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

Amended Rule (contd)

(d) The vice president for student affairs or designee, ~~voting only in case of ties~~ NON-VOTING.

(B) Unchanged.

(C) Organization.

(1) ~~The vice president for student affairs, or designee, shall be the chairperson of the council and shall report as requested to the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost~~ THE CHAIRPERSON SHALL BE ELECTED FROM AMONG THE VOTING MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE.

(2) The council shall establish operating procedures to conduct, in an orderly fashion, the legislative, advisory, and policy approval functions of the council.

(3) As a standing committee of the senate, this council is also governed by the provisions of rules 3335-5-46 and 3335-5-48 of the Administrative Code.

Balance unchanged.

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing amendment to the Rules of the University Faculty be adopted as recommended by the University Senate.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

RENAMING OF DEPARTMENTS

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the renaming of the Departments within the College of Nursing.

WHEREAS the College of Nursing in its process of reorganization has determined that its current departmental names no longer reflect the teaching and research activities of the current departments; and

WHEREAS areas of instruction and faculty interests were often split between the two current departments; and

WHEREAS 13 faculty of the College of Nursing have petitioned to change their departmental affiliations to reestablish instructional and research interest coherence in the departments, and these transfers have been approved by the Office of Academic Affairs; and

WHEREAS the faculty of the College of Nursing has voted to approve changing the departmental names from the Department of Life Span Processes to the Department of Adult Health and Illness Nursing, and from the Department of Family and Community Nursing to the Department of Community, Parent-Child, and Psychiatric Nursing; and

WHEREAS these proposed changes has the approval of the Council on Academic Affairs, and were approved by the University Senate at its June 5, 1993 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the above mentioned Departmental name changes within the College of Nursing are hereby approved, effective July 1, 1993.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Mr. Shumate:

I have a question? We are voting on the Personnel Actions?

Mr. Kessler:

Yes.

Mr. Wexner:

I'm sorry, I missed that. Debbie, could I interrupt? I have a thought -- I think the comments that Mr. Ross made are serious and he is a long standing member of the faculty. I do not believe that this institution at any level, the Provost, the President, or the Trustees, acts capriciously, arbitrarily, or are part of any kind of racist institution. That notwithstanding, I believe the charges that he brings forth are so serious that we should, in our responsibility, table the appointment of Dr. Toomey. We should have a subcommittee of the Board review things as soon as possible -- today, certainly over the weekend -- just to be sure that in fact we've acted as responsibly as we can as a Board.

Ms. Casto:

I appreciate that.

PERSONNEL ACTIONS (contd)

Judge Duncan:

Mr. President, we, Dr. Huber and I, would be prepared to meet with such a group -- as a personnel matter in executive session -- any time. We are ready today.

President Gee:

Well, I think we do need to resolve this matter. Mr. Wexner, I understand and I do think that we take all these issues seriously. I think it is also fair to say that we have listened to this for some time. I think it is also fair to say that the leveling of those charges are to me difficult not to comment upon. I believe they are without merit. I believe not only are they without merit, but also I believe that in many ways that they are directed toward one of the most important and one of the most significant members of our University family who has served this University very well. If by doing what you are suggesting, we also clearly make a statement that these kinds of charges will not be tolerated by this University. And in leveling them that we take seriously that when people do so that we expect them to accept responsibility for doing so. I would suggest that we ought to therefore do it, but I believe that that caveat is entirely appropriate. Because I think that those statements were so outrageous and so unbecoming to a member of this faculty, that they ought to be dealt with and dealt with forthrightly and in that manner. And under those circumstances, I think that we ought to do that and do that quickly.

Ms. Casto:

Okay.

Mr. Scott:

Madam Chairman, if the resolution is amended as Mr. Wexner suggested with the caveats that the President has suggested as part of the process, shall I start over again with the roll call?

Mr. Kessler:

Yes.

Mr. Scott:

Mr. Brennan --

Amb. Wolf:

Excuse me -- can you articulate the revisions of this motion?

Mr. Scott:

That the recommendation to appoint Professor Beverly G. Toomey to the position of Acting Dean be temporarily postponed, not acted upon. And so that is not a part of the action we are taking today, albeit that is in the book.

PERSONNEL ACTIONS (contd)

Mr. Skestos:

I have a question. Assuming a positive note that the committee that meets and decides that she is an appropriate person to be deemed Acting Dean, this Board does not meet again until September. How do we act on this? Can it wait until September?

Mr. Wexner:

I think what I would propose is that we can vote positively -- or subject to the Committee's approval?

President Gee:

Why don't we amend it under that and follow Mr. Wexner's statement which is that these appointments be approved, subject to the review by the appointed subcommittee, which will take place as quickly as possible, and based upon their determination that the appointment will be completed. Is that fair?

Mr. Scott:

Is that satisfactory? Mr. Brennan --

Mr. Brennan:

Well, it didn't work the first two times. I will vote aye and yes.

Mr. Skestos:

Yes.

Mr. Celeste:

Yes.

Mr. Shumate:

Yes.

Mr. Wexner:

Yes.

Amb. Wolf:

Yes. And I would like to make just one observation. I think it would have been more complete and informative if Professor Ross would have included his curriculum vitae with his morning statement, because he is requesting the Board to examine something without giving complete data that any educational and academic body would need. So I would also like to see a copy of his curriculum vitae with his research work and his publications.

Mr. Scott:

We can supply that, Sir. Mr. Kessler --

PERSONNEL ACTIONS (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

Yes.

Ms. Casto:

Yes.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-17

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the approval of two Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

Clarice E. Bloom

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 12, 1993, of Clarice E. Bloom, Associate Professor Emeritus in the Department of Family Resource Management.

Clarice Bloom was born March 6, 1912, in Orleans, Nebraska. She attended both elementary and secondary schools in Nebraska completing her work in 1929. She attended the University of Nebraska from 1929-1936 where her course work involved programs in education, math, and home economics. She graduated in 1936 with a B.Sc. in Home Economics. She attended The Ohio State University, completing a Masters degree in Home Economics-Household Equipment in 1953.

Clarice Bloom was employed as a high school and rural teacher during and after her coursework at the University of Nebraska. She was employed at the Wheat Flour Institute in Chicago, Illinois, and Frigidaire Corporation in Dayton, Ohio, prior to joining the faculty at The Ohio State University.

Professor Bloom joined the faculty on January 1, 1955, as Assistant Professor in Home Management and Housing. Ms. Bloom had initiative, drive and a willingness to give her all to her teaching. She brought new ideas, new vision, and a renewed spirit to the division. She was considered an excellent teacher and was awarded the Professor of the Year - School of Home Economics in 1958.

She was a member of two honorary societies in home economics, Omicron Nu and Phi Upsilon Omicron. She was very well regarded in the field of household equipment and researched time use and cleanliness for machine dishwashing. Her research also included other laboratory studies of household appliances and laundry equipment. Clarice Bloom was a member of The American Home Economics Association, Ohio and Franklin County Home Economics associations, Electrical Women's Round Table, Inc., and a member of National Fellowship Committee. During her career Professor Bloom served on committees and held offices in many of the national, state, and local associations and honoraries. She was also highly sought after as a consultant in household equipment research.

Clarice E. Bloom (contd)

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

James A. Rumbaugh

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 29, 1993, of James A Rumbaugh, Assistant Professor Emeritus in the College of Dentistry.

Assistant Professor Rumbaugh was born on February 20, 1911, in Millersburg, Ohio, to Dr. George A. and Edith Armstrong Rumbaugh. He received his B.S. in 1933 from Wooster College and he received his D.D.S. in 1941 from The Ohio State University. He was a dental intern in 1941-42 after his graduation. He was selected for membership into Omicron Kappa Upsilon, dental honorary fraternity, for his excellence in education at the College of Dentistry.

Dr. Rumbaugh was a veteran in World War II, having served as a Captain in the U.S. Army Dental Corps. After the war, he practiced dentistry for many years in Westerville, Ohio. He was also a sports enthusiast and an avid outdoorsman throughout his life.

He began his teaching career at the College of Dentistry, The Ohio State University, in October 1963 as an Instructor. He was promoted to Assistant Professor in October 1965, in the section of Removable Prosthodontics. He retired on June 30, 1976, as Assistant Professor Emeritus.

Dr. Rumbaugh was very interested in the education of the students at the College of Dentistry. He donated heavily, both of himself and his resources to further that education.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Assistant Professor Rumbaugh its deep sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Boards heartfelt sympathy.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

The Investments Committee met this morning and the report in the Board book indicates that through May 31, the reporting period, gifts receipts are 27 percent ahead of the amount of gifts received during the same period one year ago. Also, individual giving is very strong this year and this indicates a 46 percent increase over last year. This increase is, in part, the result of five major gifts totalling $8.2 million. The total dollars contributed from donors giving $100,000 or more are up 119 percent over the comparable period of one year ago. Also, very encouragingly is the 25 percent increase in gift dollars from corporations.

In addition to the gift report, The Ohio State University Foundation Board met on May 21. The Board reviewed total giving to the University, both current and historical, and the Foundation Board also discussed the planning process for the next campaign, and agreed upon the responsibilities of the Foundation Board. These responsibilities are outlined in a document at the end of the University Development Report that is in the Board book. We believe this is an important step in that it clearly delineates the expectations and the roles of the Foundation Board Members, as we move ahead in the future and as they relate to our fundraising programs. Are there any questions about the two gift receipt summary reports?

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-7

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for May 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of eleven (11) new named endowed funds and amendments to three (3) endowment funds:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of May 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

(See Appendix I for The Ohio State University Foundation Board Responsibilities, page 51.)

The Melton Coalition for Creative Interaction

The Melton Coalition for Creative Interaction was established July 9, 1993, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Samuel Mendel Melton Foundation.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The entire annual income shall be used to fund The Ohio State University's portion of the development and activities of a coalition of the three Melton Centers for Judaic studies (Jewish Theological Seminary of America, The Ohio State University, and The Hebrew University, Jerusalem) per the Memorandum of Understanding with the Samuel Mendel Melton Foundation. All expenditures are to be made upon the recommendation of Ohio State's representatives to the Coalition in consultation with the Director of the Melton Center for Jewish Studies and the approval of the Dean of the College of Humanities.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the Coalition in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the fund shall revert to the Samuel Mendel Melton Foundation as outlined in the Memorandum of Understanding.

The National City Bank Scholarship Endowment Fund

The BancOhio National Bank Scholarship Endowment Fund was established November 2, 1990, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from BancOhio National Bank Corporation. The name of the fund and description were revised July 9, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide scholarships in meaningful amounts for full-time students with substantial academic promise enrolled in the University's College of Business, and scholarship recipients shall be known as "National City Bank Scholars." To be eligible, students must have a minimum grade point average of 2.75 and demonstrate a need for financial assistance.

It is the donor's wish that recipients be selected from among graduates of high schools located within those counties of Ohio in which the donor, or any successor donor, conducts retail banking activities. It is the donor's further preference that special consideration be given in the selection process to members of racial minority groups and that the recipients are not receiving scholarships/ support from other corporations. The University shall, however, have sole authority to award these scholarships subject only to the approval of the Dean of the College of Business in cooperation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Shumate:

Also, Madam Chair, the Investments Committee heard the Monthly Endowment Summary Report for the period May 21, 1993, through June 18, 1993. The market value of the Endowment Fund on June 18, 1993, was $458.8 million. This total was approximately $2.9 million above the May 21, 1993, market value and represents an all-time high. The market value of the equity portion of the Endowment Fund decreased $1 million while the Fixed Income portion increased $1.7 million during this reporting period. Net new additions to the Endowment Fund for June totalled $2.7 million.

Since July 1, 1992, the Endowment Fund has increased over $56.8 million, including net new additions of $21 million. The current asset allocation for the Endowment is 59 percent invested in equities, 25 percent in fixed income, 8 percent in real estate, and 8 percent in cash equivalents.

Mr. Shumate: (contd)

The Investments Committee also heard the Existing Chair and Professorships Report. It was reported that there are 34 Chairs and 33 Professorships in the Endowment, while there are four Chairs and one Professorship in the Foundation, which are fully funded. The University also has 17 Eminent Scholar Funds.

AUTHORIZATION FOR DESIGNATED OFFICIALS TO BUY, SELL, ASSIGN
AND TRANSFER SECURITIES, TO DEPOSIT OR WITHDRAW FUNDS FROM BANK ACCOUNTS, AND TO DESIGNATE DEPOSITORIES

Resolution No. 94-8

Synopsis: The Investments Committee recommended reaffirmation of the Board of Trustees Resolution No. 93-14 (June 10, 1992), which authorized designated officials to buy, sell, assign, and transfer securities, to deposit or withdraw funds from bank accounts held in the name of The Ohio State University, and to designate depositories.

WHEREAS designated officials of the University buy, sell, assign, and transfer stocks, bonds, and other financial instruments owned by The Ohio State University; and

WHEREAS various financial institutions are designated as depositories for The Ohio State University; and

WHEREAS accounts at various financial institutions are opened and maintained in the name of The Ohio State University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Finance and/or the Treasurer be authorized and empowered to buy, sell, assign, and transfer any and all stocks, bonds, evidences of interest and/or indebtedness, rights and options to acquire or to sell the same, and all other securities corporate or otherwise, standing in the name of or belonging to The Ohio State University in any capacity; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Finance and/or Treasurer be authorized and empowered to designate various financial institutions as depositories for The Ohio State University and to open and maintain accounts at various financial institutions in the name of The Ohio State University, to sign Agreements for credit and non-credit bank services; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Finance and/or the Treasurer be authorized, on behalf of The Ohio State University and in its name, to sign checks, drafts, notes, bills of exchange, letters of credit, acceptances or other orders for the payment of money from said accounts; to endorse in writing or by stamp checks, notes, bills, certificates of deposit or other instruments owned or held by the University for deposit in said accounts or for collection or discount by said banks; to accept drafts, acceptances, and other instruments payable to said banks;

AUTHORIZATION FOR DESIGNATED OFFICIALS TO BUY, SELL, ASSIGN
AND TRANSFER SECURITIES, TO DEPOSIT OR WITHDRAW FUNDS
FROM BANK ACCOUNTS, AND TO DESIGNATE DEPOSITORIES (contd)

to waive, demand, protest, file notice of protest, or dishonor any check, note, bill, draft, or other instrument made, drawn or endorsed by the University.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Ms. Casto:

I am going to ask that this Board recess into Executive Session for the purpose of considering personnel matters.

The meeting recessed into Executive Session for the purpose of considering personnel-related matters.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Brennan, Ms. Casto reconvened the meeting at 12:25 p.m., by unanimous roll call vote.

Present: Deborah E. Casto, Chairman, John W. Kessler, Alex Shumate, Theodore S. Celeste, George A. Skestos, David L. Brennan, Hiawatha N. Francisco, Jr., and Amira N. Ailabouni.

Mr. Brennan:

Madam Chairman, just so there is no misunderstanding -- I am not suggesting that this requires any action by this Board, but a point for clarification. The continued presence of Professor Ross in that office confronting the University's authority is unacceptable to me, and I think to the rest of this Board. The Committee is going to meet and, I hope, will clarify that issue emphatically that that is not the conduct that we think is becoming for any professor at this University, at any time.

I do not know if a motion is necessary, but as I just said I want it in the record that I feel this way. I may have some disagreement with the rest of the Board, but I think that is the sense of the Board.

Ms. Casto:

We appreciate your comments.

1275 KINNEAR ROAD (contd)

WHEREAS for the consistency of the provision of City services, employee payroll equity, and to facilitate the move of the Business Technology Center to this Research Park facility, annexation of this property to the City of Columbus is needed; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that annexation of this property to the City of Columbus is in the best interest of the University:

NEW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University strongly supports annexation of the property at 1275 Kinneer Road to the City of Columbus and urges the City of Columbus and the Board of Commissioners of Franklin County to approve this annexation; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to act for and on behalf of the University in developing and executing the necessary legal instruments to provide for annexation of this property to the City of Columbus.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Brennan, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to now call on Mr. Shkurti to present two resolutions: the current budget project and the capital budget request.

Mr. Shkurti:

Mr. Chairman, I went over in some detail the document you have in your Board books entitled, "FY 1994 Budget Briefing," for the Committee, so I will not go over it in detail at this meeting. I will say that the briefing covered the overall revenues and expenditures for the University, which are projected to increase by 2.9 percent next year. This will give us a balanced budget because expenditures will be held to the same amount. I also explained how the $25 million problem is now a $15 million problem as a result of our efforts to increase income and reduce spending. We also talked about the impact of the fees on our students and, for example, the impact of all the fees and charges on in-state undergraduates would be 5.2 percent or about $400 off where they were this year. I also discussed what will happen next at the September 1 Board meeting.

Let me also say that if there is one element of this document that I think is important, it is on page 3, where we discussed the objectives of the '94 budget. There are two objectives, the first is to begin implementation of the priorities identified in the Academic Planning Process. And I would stress the Academic Planning Process, in terms of the academic needs of the institution and no matter what our budget problems are, it is extremely important that we continue to move to improve the academic side of the institution. The second objective is to lay the foundation to achieve financial equilibrium by the end of fiscal year 1995, so that we are in a position where we aren't looking at $15 million reallocations every year in order to do what we need to do.

I would also say, in way of summary, that this budget really is part of a transition this institution is going through, as are many similar institutions throughout the State and throughout the country. This transition will not end with this budget, but if we build the budget correctly, it will be the beginning of the end of the transition. We hope out of this will emerge a new university which will have, in all likelihood, less faculty, less staff, and less students, than we had three years ago. But it will be a better institution as a result, as long as we manage this process intelligently. So those are the principles behind the operating budget that we are presenting to you today. Mr. Chairman, I will be glad to attempt to respond to any questions.

Mr. Skestos:

Any questions of Mr. Shkurti?

Mr. Brennan:

Yes. I have one question, Bill, that I forgot to ask in the Fiscal Affairs Committee meeting. We are being asked to approve a budget that is out of balance? Is that what I am understanding?

Mr. Shkurti:

Mr. Brennan, that is not correct. What you are being asked to approve is a budget that is in balance. It will be in balance because the $15 million in reallocations that you are approving will be distributed to the various units. What we will come back with in September, are the details of which units will receive which allocations. But I would not be doing my job if I asked you to approve an unbalanced budget.

Mr. Brennan:

I was just confused, Bill. I am the new kid on the block, it takes awhile to learn.

1993-94 CURRENT FUNDS BUDGET

Resolution No. 94-13

Synopsis: The budget for fiscal year 1993-94 is being submitted for adoption.

WHEREAS the levels of resources have been identified for the first year of the 1993-95 biennium; and

WHEREAS appropriate planning and consultation within the University has been accomplished; and

WHEREAS the President is now prepared to present the 1993-94 budget:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the University's Current Funds Budget for fiscal year 1993-94, as described in the accompanying text and tables, be approved, with authorization for the President to make expenditures within the projected income levels; and

1993-94 CURRENT FUNDS BUDGET (contd)

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President, in consultation with the Provost and the Vice President for Finance, be authorized to make appropriate budget adjustments to balance the General Funds Budget and provide a list of those adjustments to the Board at their September meeting; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That tuition and fees be increased for all students beginning Autumn Quarter 1993 as specified in the Schedule of Student Fees incorporated in this resolution which is in compliance with current legislation; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That because of the late approval of the state budget and the concomitant need for sufficient time to review College/Departmental Personnel Plans and Recommendations, the annual notices of appointments as appropriate shall be issued by the Board on or about October 1, 1993. Until notices are issued, nonfaculty appointments shall continue on a month-to-month basis. When notices are issued, they will contain the customary information about quarters of service and salary for the appointment period. Faculty notices will be issued consistent with the Rules of the University Faculty.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary be instructed to incorporate all supporting documents into the minutes of this meeting, and to file these materials with the official records of this University.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

(See Appendix VII for "Current Funds Budget 1993-94" and background material, page 75.)

Mr. Skestos:

Bill, did you want to talk about the Capital Budget Request?

Mr. Shkurti:

Mr. Chairman, all I will say is this is our request to the Ohio Board of Regents for State money for the two-year period beginning July 1, 1994. Its emphasis is on renovation of existing buildings and we have discussed it in detail both with the committee of the whole last month and with the Fiscal Affairs Committee this month.

Mr. Skestos:

Any questions at all on that?

1995-96 STATE CAPITAL BUDGET REQUEST

Resolution No. 94-14

Synopsis: The 1995-96 State Capital Budget project priorities are being submitted for adoption.

WHEREAS the Ohio Board of Regents has requested each institution to submit a request for State Capital Funds for the 1995-96 biennium; and

WHEREAS appropriate planning and consultation within the University has been accomplished; and

1995-96 STATE CAPITAL BUDGET REQUEST (contd)

WHEREAS the President is now prepared to present the 1995-96 biennium priorities:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the University's State Capital Budget priorities for the 1995-96 biennium for the Columbus Campus, the Regional Campuses, the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, and the Agricultural Technical Institute are as indicated in the attached tables; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Finance shall submit the University's Capital Plan based on the above project priorities to the Ohio Board of Regents in compliance with their request; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary be instructed to incorporate all supporting documents into the minutes of this meeting and to file these materials with the official records of this University.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Brennan, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

(See Appendix VIII for "The Ohio State University 1995-1996 Capital Budget Request," page 135.)

EMPLOYMENT OF CONSTRUCTION MANAGER

Resolution No. 94-15

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS FACILITIES

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended authorization to employ a construction manager for the College of Business facilities.

WHEREAS the University desires to employ a construction manager to assist with project scheduling, cost estimating, and value engineering for the new College of Business Facilities; and

WHEREAS the total estimated project cost is $67,000,000 in 1993 dollars, and the total estimated construction cost is $52,300,000 in 1993 dollars, with funding to be provided from private donations and future State capital appropriations anticipated in the 1995-96 and 1997-98 biennia:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to select qualified construction management firms as necessary for this project and that the fees for these services be negotiated between the firm selected and the University or State of Ohio, as appropriate.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

AUTHORIZATION OF INCREASE IN TAX-EXEMPT MASTER LEASE

Resolution No. 94-16

Synopsis: Authorization to enter into an amendment to existing Master Lease Agreement for the purpose of providing tax-exempt leasing of equipment with an aggregate cost of up to $7 million for use by various departments of the University is proposed.

WHEREAS the Office of the Treasurer and the Purchasing Department have concluded that tax-exempt leasing by The Ohio State University is an advantageous form of financing the acquisition of certain equipment for use by various departments of the University; and

WHEREAS the Office of the Treasurer and the Purchasing Department issued to leasing companies and other financial institutions Requests for Proposal with respect to such leasing program; and

WHEREAS the University selected Society Equipment Leasing Company (the "Lessor") of Cleveland, Ohio, and negotiated a Master Lease Agreement with said Lessor providing for acquisition and use under the Master Lease Agreement of various types of equipment having an aggregate cost of $2 million; and

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees approved that Master Lease Agreement on December 6, 1991; and

WHEREAS the Office of the Treasurer has concluded that it would be advantageous to increase the amount of the Master Lease Agreement to $7 million; and

WHEREAS the University and Lessor have negotiated an Amendment to the Master Lease Agreement providing for such an increase;

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Treasurer be, and hereby is, authorized and directed to enter into an Amendment to the Master Lease Agreement by and between the aforesaid Lessor and this University and, in consultation with legal counsel, to execute and deliver such other certificates, instruments and other documents, as are necessary or desirable to carry out the tax-exempt leasing program for the equipment mentioned above in an amount not to exceed $7 million during the term of said Master Lease Agreement. This resolution shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its adoption.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 94-18

Mr. Brennan:

Again, although I am the new kid on the block, we have hired a new Provost effective August 1, and this is the last meeting in which Joan Huber will attend. I think this Board should give her a vote of confidence and appreciation for all she has done under very, very difficult circumstances. Reducing a budget $80 million, the weight falls on the Provost's office. I, for one, want to commend her for her wonderful services to the University and thank her. I so move that this Board adopt this resolution.

Upon motion of Mr. Brennan, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you very much.

President Gee:

And she wasn't here to hear those nice comments.

Mr. Brennan:

Is it being recorded?

President Gee:

I think everything is being recorded, David.

September 1, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

The Chairman, Ms. Casto, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on September 1, 1993, at 11:05 a.m.

Ms. Casto:

As you all know, the Secretary of the Board, Madison H. Scott, will be retiring September 7. Today this Board is electing Judge Robert M. Duncan to serve as the new Secretary of the Board, for a term beginning September 8 through the May 1996 Board meeting. We have also asked him to serve today as Acting Secretary.

She requested the Secretary to call the roll.

Present: Deborah E. Casto, Chairman, John W. Kessler, Milton A. Wolf, Alex Shumate, Theodore S. Celeste, Michael F. Colley, George A. Skestos, David L. Brennan, Hiawatha N. Francisco, Jr., and Amira N. Ailabouni.

ELECTION OF SECRETARY

Resolution No. 94-20

WHEREAS Madison H. Scott, who has served as Secretary of this Board, has decided to retire from the University; and

WHEREAS section 3335-1-02, paragraph (B) of the Administrative Code, provides for replacement of Board officers through election:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That pursuant to section 3335-1-02, paragraph (B) of the Administrative Code, Robert M. Duncan, who currently serves in the position of Vice President and General Counsel for Legal Affairs, is hereby designated as Secretary for the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, a non-salaried appointment, for a term commencing September 8, 1993, and continuing through the May 1996 meeting of the Board, and is empowered to act on behalf of this Board.

Upon motion of Ms. Casto, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

RATIFICATION OF APPOINTMENT

Resolution No. 94-21

Ms. Casto:

Following last month's Board meeting a special subcommittee of the Board met in executive session to review the recommendation to appoint Dr. Beverly Toomey as Acting Dean of the College of Social Work.

The subcommittee determined unanimously that Dr. Toomey is extremely well qualified to be appointed Acting Dean of the College of Social Work and that the appointment process did not violate University rules and regulations or any provision of law.

RATIFICATION OF APPOINTMENT (contd)

Ms. Casto: (contd)

A memorandum summarizing the meeting, dated August 10, was mailed to all the Trustees and if there are no questions, I would like to move to ratify this appointment. Are there any questions?

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Congratulations, Judge Duncan. We are delighted to have you take on this new assignment.

Today, we present to the Board a budget that focuses our resources on our highest priorities. This budget reflects our willingness to make difficult choices based upon the right priorities in order to ensure an even greater Ohio State University for the future. I would like to talk a little bit about this today and beg your indulgence for a few minutes.

As we all know, these are demanding and challenging times for this country, as sweeping changes are reshaping the American economy -- one need only read the messages from our own local newspapers whether it be Procter & Gamble, Kodak, or IBM. We do know that these are changes that are substantial and indeed do mark a spirit of change in this country. These challenges present great opportunities for us and I am greatly encouraged by the creativity and commitment that have resulted in a stronger Ohio State experience for the students and faculty about to embark on the Autumn Quarter.

Let me make a point today to everyone in this room -- and that I will continue to make -- we are clearly moving forward during this time of economic transition. Let me just cite a few examples, if I may.

Combining the Offices of Student Financial Aid and Admissions has not only resulted in substantial savings, it has improved services to students and prospective students. The waiting period for financial aid loan application processing had climbed last year to an unacceptable 13 weeks. With restructuring and good resource management, that time is now down to 1 to 2 weeks. I might note that Jim Mager, our very capable Director, with his high standards still finds that unacceptable, but that is among the best of any university in this country.

We continue to attack the problem of closed courses so that our students can take the courses they need in order to graduate and to graduate on time. And again, because we made that a high priority last year, even in our tight budget times, we have turned the corner on this issue. Based on the course demand information just completed, again this year, 80 percent of the students received all of their requested courses. That, for an institution this size, again, is truly remarkable. Of course, we cannot continue to offer all of the courses we have in the past, but we are now making certain that high priority be placed on the core courses necessary to meet degree requirements.

We have added 125 new and 214 upgraded "seats" in thirteen different academic computing labs across the University, which is giving students better access to computers. The computing age is with us and our leadership must be clear in that regard.

This year, we are beginning a program of extended hours to better serve the needs of our students. Not everyone can use the services between 8 and 5, because that is not the nature of the college student in today's world. Many students have extended hours in their jobs or in their lives and so we need to support them by making our hours different and more support and service offices will join those already offering some evening hours.

We have created an effort to reduce bureaucracy and streamline the "paper push" and it is now starting to bear real fruit. Improvements made by University Systems have reduced by 720,000 the number of pages of data that must be printed each year. That is an astonishing figure -- let me just say that again -- 720,000 pages of data that must be printed each year. The on-line wages system put in place by the Office of Human Resources has eliminated more than 50,000 paper forms. These save money -- lots of money -- they also reduce workloads and improve services at the same time. These, I might add, are not the things that we are doing, these are only a few examples of the ways that the people of this University have demonstrated creativity and energy in times of fiscal restraint.

My optimism is there, but it is in no way meant to minimize the hardships and difficulties felt across our campuses as budgets have been reduced again and again. The budget presented today reflects $15 million in reductions. Over the past two years we have reduced more than $80 million in state support from this institution. So in managing our financial difficulties, there has been significant strain and pain for worthy programs, departments, and colleges and, most regrettably, for our people. We have tried to minimize the number of layoffs, but at the same time we have lost some very good people. However, I believe the future, both immediate and long-term, is bright because of our clear objectives and firm commitment to certain principles that guide and inform our organizational and fiscal decisions.

The 1994 budget allocations in academic units were guided by our determination to: 1) maximize the capacity of departments and colleges to offer core courses required of our students; 2) to support students as fully as possible; 3) to secure the future by investing in the faculty; and 4) to achieve economies by streamlining our operations. Our focus is on the academic core and on our students -- as it must be, as it should be, and as it will continue to be.

Our priorities are illustrated by the fact that the academic support units received budget cuts averaging 6 percent, while college budgets were reduced by an average of only 3.6 percent. And I might point out that among the largest reductions in the academic support areas -- four support areas -- was the Office of the President which had a 15 percent budget cut.

One of our top priorities was to provide for modest merit pay increases for our outstanding faculty and staff -- clearly not enough. We must pay our people, we must pay them well, but at the same time we are going to continue to make this our highest priority and certainly for next year we hope to be able to solve much of that compensation issue.

We have designated more than $2 million for academic enrichment activities which will enhance the quality of teaching. We are spending some $8 million in continuing funds to increase the number of high ability students and preserve the purchasing power of existing scholarships. In short, this budget puts our money where our priorities are, focusing our attention on activities central to the academic mission of the University.

Now as I said earlier, this is a time of change in our society and many institutions are forced to respond to these new realities. This University is not exempt from that required scrutiny of all that we do. We must, therefore, redesign the University to better serve our diverse publics. We are in the process of doing that and of doing it well. We are committed to providing the national leadership that is expected from the nation's largest university.

There are many more difficult choices ahead. We are in our second phase of restructuring that includes the vice presidential areas and we are examining ways in those areas to enhance our support and efficiency, as well as our effectiveness.

The third phase of restructuring which we are already embarking on looks at academic programs and is being carried forward by the Provost of the University. As we reshape the institution and refocus our resources, we do so committed to consistently demonstrating that we are a great research university that cares about teaching. That we are a distinctive institution, unique in higher education for our academic breadth and intellectual depth. That we are a highly personal institution, responsive to the needs of all members of our community. We are planning well for the future, but I remind all of us that our work is not planning a better university, but being a better university. And I believe we are that today and see great promise for the future.

So, Ms. Casto, I thank you for allowing me the opportunity to talk a bit about what we are doing. May I remind our audience that you and I, along with several others, will be meeting members of the media immediately after this meeting to answer further questions about the budget. And, of course, Mr. Skestos and Mr. Shkurti will elaborate in the report of the Fiscal Committee.

That concludes my report, Madam Chairman.

Ms. Casto:

That was an excellent report.

CANCER HOSPITAL REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to introduce Dr. David Schuller who will present the Cancer Hospital report --

CANCER HOSPITAL REPORT (contd)

Dr. David E. Schuller:

Madam Chair and members of the Board of Trustees, the following is a summary of the recent Oversight Committee meetings of the Board of Trustees for The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute. At each meeting the Medical Director and Administrative Director of the Quality Assurance Department report on the Hospital's operations currently monitored under Quality Assurance and continuous improvement. All continuous quality improvement indicators were well below or close to threshold in all areas of health care delivery and operations. Overall, satisfaction reports from patients continue to indicate positive interactions with the James Cancer Hospital.

During the past fiscal year, the Oversight Committee authorized a purchase order to acquire Central Ohio's first stereotactic radio surgery unit. This medical device is yet another acquisition contributing to the expanding numbers of unique treatment programs at the James Cancer Hospital. Additionally, the Divisions of Orthopedic Oncology and Neurosurgical Oncology commenced operations within the James Cancer Hospital and preparation continues to include Thoracic Surgery during this current year.

Affiliations with community hospitals in Central and Southeastern Ohio are growing in collaboration with University Hospitals, allowing a vehicle for access to more patients throughout the state. There is also increased utilization of the ambulatory services as more patients are being treated on an outpatient basis. The patient distribution for the James Cancer Hospital continues to reflect an overall growing recognition rate across Ohio and beyond as out-of-state admissions now represent approximately 10 percent of all inpatients.

Finally, our 1992-93 communications plan resulted in a significantly elevated recognition rate. Awareness of the James Cancer Hospital increased from 4 percent to 14 percent in our primary service area. In families where cancer had been diagnosed in the past 24 months, awareness increased from 7 percent to 32 percent this past year. The identification of the James Cancer Hospital and its relationship with The Ohio State University now appears to be more clearly defined by people in our primary and secondary referral areas, with an increase from 4 percent to 13 percent.

The Committee reviewed activities of the Cancer Hospital throughout fiscal year 1992-93, which proved to be quite favorable as statistical and financial performance continued to support a positive variance from projections and admissions contributing to a positive net income. The unaudited statistical and financial information reflects a positive variance in admissions, net patient revenue was greater than budget, and operating expenses were kept below budget, which resulted in a net income for the institution of $6,450,000, compared to a budget of $1,968,000. Again, this is an unaudited financial performance report.

During its last meeting the Oversight Committee approved the proposed fiscal year 1993-94 operational and capital budget. This proposed operating budget, which is based on an overall increase in admissions, patient days, average daily census, outpatient activities, and units of service, reflects a $3.118 million net income from operations while maintaining a 1 percent overall rate increase.

This completes my report, thank you.

CANCER HOSPITAL REPORT (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

The Cancer Hospital, as Dr. Schuller has indicated, is doing well. I think the patients are getting excellent care which is important, but, also, fiscally, as you heard, the Hospital is doing quite well. Occupancy at the Hospital is full and I think we are doing good work. We are very pleased with the staff and the job that they are doing. As Dr. Schuller said, we are marketing the Hospital so it is an asset for this part of the country. We are getting more patients now who are recognizing it and coming to the Hospital.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, Dr. Schuller and Mr. Kessler.

Mr. Kessler:

We have a resolution to create The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board and the approval of the Cancer Hospital Bylaws and Medical Staff Bylaws. This is to mirror the Hospitals Board, which does report to this Board. We want now to have the same bylaw changes for the Cancer Hospital that we have for the regular Hospitals. It would report to this Board and would give us a broader board and more community support as the Hospitals Board has done. The Hospitals Board has been a role model for the Cancer Hospital, because it has done so well with its Board.

CREATION OF THE ARTHUR G. JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE BOARD AND APPROVAL OF CANCER HOSPITAL BOARD BYLAWS AND CANCER HOSPITAL MEDICAL STAFF BYLAWS

Resolution No. 94-22

Synopsis: An amendment to the Bylaws of the Board of Trustees creating an Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board is proposed.

WHEREAS The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute admitted its first patients in July 1990; and

WHEREAS in June 1990 the Board of Trustees established the position of Trustee Liaison to the James Cancer Hospital during its initial phase of operations; and

WHEREAS in June 1991 the Board of Trustees established the Oversight Committee for The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute to provide a formal oversight process for this unique interdisciplinary clinical and research facility and to provide continuing involvement and support by this Board for the missions and operation of the James Cancer Hospital; and

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees has concluded that an Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board is desirable to assist the Board of Trustees in meeting its responsibilities for providing health care in The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That Bylaw 3335-1-03 hereby is amended as follows:

CREATION OF THE ARTHUR G. JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE BOARD AND APPROVAL OF CANCER
HOSPITAL BOARD BYLAWS AND CANCER HOSPITAL MEDICAL STAFF BYLAWS (contd)

(W) Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board

- (1) The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board shall be responsible to the Board of Trustees for establishing policy, maintaining quality patient care and providing for organization management and planning within The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute. The James Cancer Hospital Board shall be accountable through the President to the University Board of Trustees. The bylaws of the James Cancer Hospital Board will be subject to the approval of the University Board of Trustees.
- (2) The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board shall be comprised of two members of the University Board of Trustees, the Director of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute, the Executive Director of University Hospitals, a senior physician and faculty member, two senior University administrators, and two citizens from the general public all appointed by the University Board of Trustees in consultation with the University President. The University Vice President for Health Services shall be an ex-officio member of the Board.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the attached Policy Statement on The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Governance hereby is approved as the basis for the creation of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board, its bylaws, and its operating procedures.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Brennan:

Summaries of the Grants and Contracts received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the past fiscal year and for the first month of the new fiscal year can be found at Tab 1 in your Research Foundation Report. Awards for the period July 1992 through June 1993 from federal sponsors have increased over 9 percent. Total funding from all sponsors for FY 1993 is 1.23 percent above last year. There are significant increases in funding from the National Science Foundation, 25 percent; Department of Education, 86 percent; National Institutes of Health, 11 percent; and the Department of Labor, 46 percent. The significant decreases are from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Agency for International Development, plus the decrease in the other non-federal category due to one large multiyear award received last year.

At Tab 2 the first table compares expenditure summaries for FY 1993 and FY 1992. Total expenditures for FY 1993 exceeded FY 1992 expenditures by 7.9 percent. The second table at Tab 2 compares expenditures for July of this year with July 1992. For the first month of FY 1994, July 1993, expenditures are up by 5.8 percent.

Some new projects of special interest that were funded in the month of June and July are listed at Tab 3. I thought you might be interested that Professor Sheldon Simon, from the Department of Surgery, and his interdisciplinary team has received about $700,000 from the Department of Education for a new Rehabilitation Engineering Research Center to quantify human performance. This new center is much more focused on providing direct benefit to individuals with disabilities than the previous center which was more focused on basic research.

At Tab 4 is the list of all projects funded in June.

At Tab 5 is the list of all projects funded in July.

At Tab 6 is a report of progress payments received by the Engineering Experiment Station for projects remaining with them and terminating before July 1993. According to the recent agreement between the Research Foundation and the Engineering Experiment Station, beginning with July data this report will not be separate but totally integrated into the Research Foundation report.

At Tab 7 is a summary of the proposal, award, and expenditure activity of our academic units during Fiscal Year 1993. It is noteworthy that the Colleges of Engineering and Medicine had respectively about a 34 and 16 percent increase in award dollars.

Tab 8 includes press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-23

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summaries for June and July 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation and the Engineering Experiment Station of The Ohio State University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein, and the acceptance of the reports from the Engineering Experiment Station during the months of June and July 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Brennan, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

The Strategic Planning Committee met on July 15. Most of the meeting was devoted to discussions about substantial changes that are occurring in the healthcare market, and how those changes are having an impact on academic medical centers. The Committee discussed strategies that can be implemented, and the advantages and disadvantages of each of these actions. Projections for a managed care market in Central Ohio are startling, indicating very significant declines in numbers of hospital beds and medical specialists. While the projected numbers need further refinement prior to our Strategic Planning Retreat on October 7, the downward trend is unmistakable. Dr. St. Pierre reported on the College of Medicine's Strategic Planning activities, and informed us that progress is being made with regard to raising the cap on clinical track faculty, an issue of vital importance to the Medical Center.

During the July 15 Executive Committee meeting, we discussed actions being taken at Ohio State to encourage medical students to pursue careers in primary care. We also discussed the recent announcement about the termination of PHP coverage at University Hospitals. This decision was made by PHP without any opportunity for University Hospitals to respond. Ms. Nancy Grover reported that U.S. News & World Report recently recognized OSU Hospitals as one of the nation's best, highlighting our endocrinology, otolaryngology, and rehabilitation programs. We were the only Central Ohio hospital recognized in the report.

On August 26, the Administrative/Operations Committee reviewed a proposal for a comprehensive ambulatory care facility in the west campus area, and voted to recommend that the Hospitals proceed with planning, programming, and design. The Committee also received periodic reports on the Hospitals' outreach network, internal operations, risk management activities, and malpractice claims experience.

Also on August 26, the Executive Committee voted to authorize Hospitals Administration, consistent with University policies, to proceed with planning, programming, and design of the proposed ambulatory care facility. The Committee also endorsed the June 30, July 14, and August 11 medical staff appointments and reappointments. After receiving preliminary financial/statistical reports for the month of July and for the fiscal year ending June 30, the Committee received the annual affirmative action report and reaffirmed the Hospitals' affirmative action goals and plans for 1993-94. The annual report of the Volunteers revealed that they provided almost 69,000 hours of excellent service to our patients during the past year. The Committee reviewed and approved proposed revisions to the Hospitals Service Board and Hospitals Board Bylaws. These recommendations will be forwarded to the University Board of Trustees in October. Mr. Fraley reported on organizational restructuring, the upcoming SkyMed accreditation survey, the success of Healthcare Research Systems -- a research group developed at Ohio State and housed within the College of Medicine -- and discussions with area hospitals for potential areas of collaboration.

This concludes my report.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Francisco:

I would like to call on David Williams to share his goals and visions for the Office of Student Affairs.

Vice President David Williams:

I met with the Student Affairs Committee yesterday and what is being passed out right now is the handout that we worked through yesterday. You will see that for 1993-94 our major goal is moving Ohio State to be a leader in Student Affairs and Student Services. We have listed a number of assorted things that we would like to work on this year to try and make that move forward.

I would like to skip down to number A-4 first, because we think we need to work on a 5-year plan. We think this will get us to being the leader over a number of years. These other things will be things that we will be doing this year and they will be accelerated and actually enhanced over the next 5-year period. Let me just run through them and then I will take any questions that you might have.

The first thing that we think we need to do in Student Affairs is try and make a stronger linkage with some of the other units of the University, in particular, Academic Affairs. We want to merge some of the things that have to be done for students with some of the other things that are being done on campus.

What I have done is list some examples. One example is that we run a judicial affairs unit within Student Affairs and we would like to try to bring some linkage with a unit of Academic Affairs and the Law School to help us as we go through that. Many universities now actually run their student judicial process by using law students and some of the law professors as major components of that. We consider this to be a win-win situation. There is no cost involved. The students get better representation or advice, and the law students actually get some experience. They already do this in the clinic, but not for our University students.

Assessment of Student Needs -- we would like to survey our students to find out what the students think they need to make this a better place for them. At the same time, we want to do some sort of comparisons with other universities. We are going to start on a project where we see what other universities, both in the Big Ten and nationally, do in the area of student affairs and see how they are actually funded. We hope to see what we are doing and not doing, compare that to our survey to see what we need to add to our menu, and what things we might be doing that are not important to our students or not being done elsewhere.

Restructure of Reporting Lines of Student Affairs -- very simply put we want to make sure that we have the best organizational structure for more efficient streamlining. So within the next six months we will probably have some changes as it relates to how people within Student Affairs report. Presently, there are probably 9 to 10 people who report directly to the Vice President -- some who have very, very large budgets, some with very, very small budgets, some functions that could clearly be merged and reported through another individual.

Unit Development and Planning -- once we get the restructuring done then we are going to ask each of our units and the leaders in those units to actually develop a five-year plan. So we will know where we are going, when we plan to be there, and how we are going to get there, as opposed to limping along and hoping we will get there.

I can put together -- numbers 5 and 6, Student and Student Affairs Empowerment. We strongly believe that the students have a right to and need to have more of a say in what happens to them. This doesn't necessarily mean that they will make the decision, but we need to be more proactive as it relates to listening to what they have to say and trying to work with them. And in that regard, we are going to try to put students in more positions of decision-making and influence-making. We are charged at a university to train tomorrow's leaders and we can't do that if we don't give them responsibility today. So we will be moving to try to do some of that.

Student Affairs Empowerment -- to have Student Affairs as a unit take its rightful place in the decision-making. In other words, we don't want to have situations where people from Student Affairs sit on committees and their voices are not taken as seriously as others. That is not to say it is happening, but we want to make sure that it is not happening. And if it is happening, we want to correct it.

Number 7 -- we would like to improve the climate for students. One of the things that we are going to do is that once a week we will have an open door policy where any student for any reason can come in and see the Vice President for Student Affairs -- no appointments, just walk on in. We will actually have that over in Bricker Hall so the students not only can see the Vice President for Student Affairs, but if they have a parking problem I can have them go down to see Janet. Or, if the President happens to be walking down the hall, I can tell the student to go see him.

So in other words, we would like to try to get more students in Bricker Hall. The year I spent in Bricker Hall -- coming out of a unit where I saw students every day -- I could go day in and day out and never see any students. So we are going to change the complexion of that.

President Gee:

Can we talk about that, David?

Vice President Williams:

We are also going to try and have some more activities and services for not only the students, but the University community as a whole in the areas of lectures, concerts, and things like that. And, of course, one of the problems that we have to solve is actually looking at the funding and how we are going to fund that.

Over the next year we are going to review and revise the Code of Student Conduct and our judicial process. Our Code of Student Conduct has not been reviewed in over 15 years and we all know that there have been many changes, not only in the law, but also as it relates to higher education. So we are in the process now of working with Legal Affairs and Human Resources to actually review the Code of Student Conduct and to also review our whole process with judicating student problems.

As I said earlier in regards to empowerment, we are going to have a number of committees, and I have listed three that we are presently getting ready to appoint. The first one, which has had some controversy on campus over the last couple of years, is the concept of multi-culture and the need for a multi-cultural center of some sort. What I want to stress is that committee is to be a needs assessment committee, not a committee charged with coming up with a plan for a multi-cultural center. It is a committee that is charged to assess the needs and make a determination and recommendation to the President as to whether or not we do need one and if so, how we would go about doing that.

Legislation under Title IX, which bumps up to gender equity as it relates to our athletics -- we run the risk daily of entertaining a lawsuit as it relates to Title IX. All universities do, there is nothing particular about us. We want to start the process to do our self-study to determine if we are doing what we need to be doing in the area of Title IX, and if not, how can we correct that.

Athletics and academics -- once again, a close working relationship with Academic Affairs to see if we are doing everything that we should do to provide the right sort of academic environment for our student-athletes who come to Ohio State. Those are the three projects that we will be working on over this first quarter or so.

Community Development -- I brought that out separate, although that could certainly fit under our goals and outlooks. The students actually have been the leaders in this -- particularly the Undergraduate Student Government. All we want to do in Student Affairs is join them in trying to provide -- both ourselves as a unit and ourselves as individuals in the University -- help to people who we consider to be less fortunate. Our goal in Student Affairs is to look at everybody here -- professors, staff, and students -- as basically being some of the fortunate people. There are a lot of people who are not as fortunate and we would like to give something back to the community. That also is part of trying to place Ohio State in its proper position as it relates to the community around us. There has to be a partnership between both Ohio State and the City in the adjoining area. We just want to do the things we can to be a good community neighbor, so to speak.

But one other thing that is very important is what we call the High Street and Beyond Program or problem. We want to be very proactive in trying to help solve the problems that we are experiencing on High Street and beyond. If we do not become proactive in this, Ohio State could very well in the future become a commuter's college and we don't want that. We want to try to bring the students back into the fold and to have more activities on the campus. We think one of the key things is trying to deal with the problems that we do have on High Street.

Let me go to probably the most interesting item -- and then I will turn it back over to the Student Trustees -- which is the Open Forum with Trustees. The students, very much, would like to come in and have an open forum and we second that. But more exciting than that is the change of both the Trustees and some of the Vice Presidents -- where we are going to change places with students and we are going to go to class as the students do. I have been assured that I will be a student who has no classes that day. We are going to have the students come in and actually fill our jobs. I will turn that back over to the Student Trustees because they have been very instrumental in that and will explain that more.

If you look at the bottom of the page it says, "Discussion with Provost Sisson" and that is just an example. What we are going to try to do is to set up forums where our students can interact with the leaders of the campus from an administrative point of view. We have Dr. Sisson listed there because he is the new Provost.

They have already started that process and he was the first one. We would like to have the forums where students can come in and, for example, talk to Bill Shkurti, what his roles are, and how he sees finances, and all the vice presidents, deans, and anybody else who is in a decision-making position on this campus. So the students can be better informed and understand how we make these decisions.

Any questions?

Mr. Francisco:

Thank you, David. Yesterday, we met with our Committee and Chris Norman, President of the Undergraduate Student Government, reported on the Big Ten Conference at Purdue. Twenty-two students attended and came back with some very good ideas that they are going to implement later on this year. The first one is going to be voter registration, which is going to happen the first week of school. Governor Voinovich has volunteered to come down and work to help register students.

Frank Chloupek, from the Graduate Council, reported that they are planning the orientation for graduate students. There are some concerns with T.A. training -- that some departments are much better in training their T.A.'s than other departments. The other concern is the review of graduate programs -- making graduate students a part of the process. If we are going to deactivate any programs, they are asking us to be sensible about it.

The last report was from Wesley Bishop, President of the Professional Council. He reported that they are working on planning and recruitment. They are trying to bridge the gap between their five disciplines and also between the administration and the community as a whole. Their other big issue is recruitment -- to get more students involved, because in the past they really haven't done that. Their first meeting is October 6, and they welcome any of the Trustees to attend.

That concludes my report.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS REPORT

Mr. Colley:

Madam Chairman, the Agricultural Affairs Committee will attend the Farm Science Review in London, Ohio, this month, and would like to invite other members of the Board to attend also. There will be an Ag Student Roundtable, which will be held in November, patterned after a faculty roundtable which was highly successful last year. And the Committee will visit the Piketon Research and Extension Center sometime during the balance of the year.

That completes my report.

LONG-RANGE PLANNING REPORT

Mr. Colley:

Just one announcement on long-range planning, I met with the Senior Vice Provost Ed Ray preliminarily, and the full committee, which includes Mr. Skestos, Mr. Kessler, Mr. Shumate, and myself, will meet on September 16, from 2:00-5:00 p.m. I mention that because we want to invite agenda recommendations and suggestions from all members of the Board.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

This morning the Educational Affairs Committee met with the Executive Committee of the Faculty Council for over an hour. We felt it was an excellent meeting, with give and take on comments regarding this great University. The Provost has volunteered to be the coordinator between the Faculty Council and ourselves, the Committee, to have further meetings to interface with the Faculty Council. I think I speak for all of us on the Educational Affairs Committee when I say that we enjoyed this morning very much and felt it to be educational and helpful to us. We look forward to more meetings with them.

I would also like to present the following resolutions:

EXPRESSIONS OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 94-24

Alva T. Bonda

WHEREAS Alva T. Bonda has demonstrated his commitment to strengthening public primary and secondary education by serving on the Cleveland Board of Education, as well as his dedication to higher education by serving on the Brandeis University Board of Trustees; and

WHEREAS Mr. Bonda has chaired the Ohio Board of Regents for nearly half of his tenure on that board and has given his energy and expertise to the goal of improving higher education for all institutions of higher learning in the state of Ohio; and

WHEREAS Mr. Bonda has provided strong leadership, as well as considerable knowledge and business acumen, to numerous community and philanthropic organizations:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Board of Trustees recognizes and appreciates Alva T. Bonda's contributions to higher education.

Anita S. Ward

WHEREAS Anita S. Ward, a graduate of The Ohio State University, has served her alma mater, both as an undergraduate and as an alumna, including serving as the Director of The Ohio State University Alumni Board; and

WHEREAS Ms. Ward also has served on the Bowling Green State University Board of Trustees for 15 years and held offices of vice chairman and chairman, and is one of only a small number of women who have served as chairpersons of Boards of Trustees of state universities in Ohio; and

EXPRESSIONS OF APPRECIATION (contd)

Anita S. Ward (contd)

WHEREAS she has served on the Ohio Board of Regents for nine years and served as vice chairman for more than half of her tenure of that board; and

WHEREAS Ms. Ward has held several national leadership positions in organizations related to higher education; and

WHEREAS Anita S. Ward has earned the respect and appreciation of her colleagues, locally, statewide, and nationally, for her dedication to institutions of higher learning:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Board of Trustees offers this expression of appreciation to Anita S. Ward for her steadfast commitment to the principles and goals of higher education.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HONORARY DEGREE

Resolution No. 94-25

Synopsis: Approval of awarding an honorary degree to John B. McCoy is proposed.

WHEREAS pursuant to paragraph (C) of rule 3335-3-03 of the Administrative Code, the President, after consultation with the Steering Committee of the University Senate, recommended to the Board of Trustees awarding of an honorary degree as listed below:

John B. McCoy

Doctor of Business Administration

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the above honorary degree be awarded in accordance with the recommendation at a time convenient to the University and the recipient.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Authorization

Pursuant to appropriate state statutes, the President and/or his designee is hereby authorized to purchase on behalf of Madison H. Scott prior public service credit, not to exceed a total of two years, as provided in Section 145 of the Ohio Revised Code in the Public Employees Retirement System of Ohio. The cost of such service shall be paid from unrestricted funds of the University as provided under Section 3345.16 of the Ohio Revised Code.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-27

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the approval of five Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

Morris B. Guthrie, M.D.

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 3, 1993, of Morris B. Guthrie, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Internal Medicine.

Professor Guthrie was born August 7, 1902, in Hancock County, Ohio. He attended Manchester College in North Manchester, Indiana, where he completed his B.E. in English degree in 1921 and his B.A. in Education degree in 1929. He enrolled at The Ohio State University in 1929 and received his M.A. degree in Anatomy in 1931 and M.D. degree in 1935.

Morris B. Guthrie began his career in medicine as an intern at Children's Hospital in Columbus, Ohio, in 1935. He did a residency at Akron City Hospital in Akron, Ohio, from 1936 to 1937. In 1937, Dr. Guthrie opened a private practice where he remained until entering the Armed Forces in 1942, where he served as a ward officer, section chief, chief of medical services, and outpatient chief and admitting officer. Lt. Colonel Guthrie was discharged in 1946 and returned to his private practice of medicine.

Professor Guthrie devoted much of his life to academics. He was a grade school teacher in Allen County, Ohio, from 1921 to 1927; and a student assistant and instructor in the Department of Anatomy from 1932 to 1939. In 1946, Dr. Guthrie became an Assistant Professor in the Department of Internal Medicine at The Ohio State University. He was later promoted to Associate Professor and retired as Professor Emeritus in 1973. His dedication to teaching and the field of medicine was exemplary.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his family and friends. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

David B. McCalmont

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 17, 1993, of David B. McCalmont, Associate Professor Emeritus in the Department of Economics.

Professor McCalmont was born August 9, 1909, in Franklin, Pennsylvania. A graduate from Yale University, he took his B.A. degree from Yale College in 1932; his LL.B. in 1935 at Yale School of Law, where he also served as Editor of the Yale Law Review; and his Ph.D. (with distinction) in 1960 at the Johns Hopkins University.

From 1935 to 1955, Professor McCalmont served as attorney and general counsel in several government and private institutions concerned with legal and economic matters in fields of antitrust, taxation and trade-association administration, culminating in his service in 1951-53 as Attorney-Advisor to the Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, Paul Hertzog. During these years he taught briefly in business and economics at Rutgers University, the University of Maryland, and Franklin and Marshall College. Professor McCalmont became a regular member of The Ohio State University faculty in 1964 and retired with Emeritus status in 1980.

David McCalmont was a dedicated teacher and advisor to a great number of students during his years at Ohio State, and his research and writing covered many topics in government and economics, public finance and banking, and labor relations. He was equally dedicated to service in the larger community, where he was a commentator and advocate in a variety of public concerns. In particular, for nearly two decades as founder, Executive Director and sustaining force of the Association for Freedom to Die (AFRED), he was a leading campaigner in Ohio for the rights of individuals to refuse life-prolonging treatment. The new Ohio statute on durable powers of attorney and living wills, although falling far short of his ideal, would not have been enacted but for his years of determined efforts.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to Professor McCalmont's family and to his colleagues in the University and his friends in the community. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Melvin S. Newman

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on May 30, 1993, of Melvin S. Newman, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Chemistry.

Professor Newman was born on March 10, 1908, in New York, New York, and was raised in New Orleans, Louisiana. He attended Yale University (B.S., Magna Cum Laude, 1929; Ph.D., 1932) and held postdoctoral fellowships at Yale, Columbia, and Harvard Universities. He joined the Chemistry Department of The Ohio State University in 1936 as an Instructor and was rapidly promoted, becoming Professor in 1944. In 1965, he was named one of the first three Regents Professors at Ohio State, a title he held until his retirement in 1978. Professor Newman was a distinguished teacher and researcher in Organic Chemistry. He was a superb lecturer who inspired experimental skill and research productivity in his students and his colleagues. While always carrying out his own laboratory program, Dr. Newman directed the research of 118 postdoctoral fellows, 112 Ph.D.s, 42 M.S. candidates and many superior high school science students. Many of Professor Newman's students have become outstanding academic and industrial scientists. He was the author of over 350 scientific publications and two books: Steric Effects in Organic Chemistry (Wiley, 1956) and An Advanced Organic Laboratory Course (Macmillan, 1972).

Dr. Newman's research contributions included: synthesis and the cancer-producing behavior of polybenzenoid hydrocarbons, steric acceleration and retardation in chemical reactions, new sterically-strained compounds, generation and capture of unsaturated carbenes, novel synthetic methods, advantageous preparation of vitamin A, and the effects of shape on chemical behavior. His end-on representations of molecular structure have had major effective in understanding the behavior of molecules and are known to chemistry students worldwide as Newman Projection Formulas.

Professor Newman served as a Fulbright Lecturer and a Guggenheim Fellow and was elected to the National Academy of Sciences in 1956. He received the Synthetic Organic Chemistry Award from the American Chemical Society in 1961; the Morley Medal from the Cleveland ACS Section in 1969; the Cross Medal from Yale University in 1970; the Sullivant Medal from The Ohio State University in 1975; the Columbus ACS Section Award in 1976; and the Roger Adams Award in Organic Chemistry from the American Chemical Society in 1979.

He was awarded honorary Doctor of Science degrees from the University of New Orleans, The Ohio State University, and Bowling Green State University. Professor Newman was a member of editorial boards of Organic Syntheses, the Journal of Organic Chemistry, the Journal of the American Chemical Society, and Synthetic Communications. The M.S. Newman Professorship was established at The Ohio State University in 1979. Professor Newman also served as a consultant for many major chemical companies. He was a lover of the music of Louis Armstrong, golf courses all over the world, and above all, his personal laboratory at Ohio State which he used on a daily basis until his death.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Newman its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Catharine M. Williams

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on May 24, 1993, of Catharine M. Williams, Associate Professor Emeritus in the Department of Educational Policy and Leadership.

Dr. Williams was born on February 17, 1903, in Marysville, Ohio. She earned all her degrees in Education from The Ohio State University: a B.S. in 1924; an M.A. in 1927; and a Ph.D. in 1947.

Catharine Williams was a faculty member in the College of Education for forty-three years. She began in 1930 as an Instructor in University School, and assumed responsibilities as a Research Associate in 1946 while working with the Bureau of Educational Research. She became an Assistant Professor in 1953, Associate Professor in 1963, and retired as Associate Professor Emeritus in 1973.

Dr. Williams was a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, Pi Lamda Theta, and the American Association of University Women.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family and friends of Dr. Williams its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and many friends and associates have sustained.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Amnon Zipin

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 16, 1993, of Amnon Zipin, Associate Professor in the University Libraries.

Professor Zipin was born in Haifa, Israel. He received his B.A. degree from Hebrew University, Jerusalem, in 1970; an M.A. degree from Yale University in 1972; and a MLS degree from Southern Connecticut State College in 1975. He then served as the Near East cataloger at the University of Washington Library in Seattle, Washington, from 1976-1977. He became a member of the faculty at Ohio State in 1977, and was promoted to assistant professor in 1983, tenured in 1984, and promoted to associate professor in 1988.

A born teacher and a very active participant in bibliographic instruction, he lectured regularly in classes on Hebrew and Yiddish Cultures. He also taught in the Libraries' UVC 100 program, offered workshops in the use of LCS, took part in the library orientation program for foreign students, and worked frequently on a one-to-one basis with students and faculty.

Amnon Zipin was the quintessential research library bibliographer -- evaluated by many as one of the few scholar-librarians in the United States with the invaluable combined knowledge of Hebrew, Yiddish, Arabic, Latin, and English, coupled with unsurpassed expertise in the bibliography of Jewish Studies. He was the principal architect of The Ohio State University Libraries' Jewish Studies collection, drawing on his extensive knowledge of the literature of the field and the related publishing/bookseller enterprises.

His most significant contribution to research is unquestionably manifested in the first seven volumes of the Bibliography of Modern Hebrew Literature in (English) Translation (1979-1985) and the New Series (1985-86). Supplementing this achievement is his companion work: Bibliography of Modern Hebrew Literature in Arabic Translation. Beyond this ongoing research and publication endeavor, he also authored 21 articles and was a consultant for the important Hebrew Annual Review (produced at Ohio State) since its inception in 1978.

Professor Zipin was very active in the Association of Jewish Libraries, the Middle East Librarians Association, the Council on Archives and Research Libraries in Jewish Studies, and the Association for Jewish Studies.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his family and friends. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

The Investments Committee met this morning and I am pleased to report that the total private support to the University for 1992-93 was $89.2 million, which was a 25 percent increase over the previous year.

Mr. Shumate: (contd)

Individual giving was quite good this year, increasing 44 percent. This increase was mostly the result of seven major gifts totaling $10.4 million. Also it is encouraging to note that corporate giving was up 16 percent.

Also in looking at the reports, the gift additions to the endowment reached an all-time high of $23.5 million during 1992-93. This represents an 81 percent increase over the gift additions to the endowment fund last year and is $3.3 million more than the previous one-year record.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-28

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for June 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS the funding level has been reached to establish The Irene D. Hirsch Chair in Ophthalmology; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of ten (10) new named endowed funds, and amendments to two (2) endowment funds:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of June 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT (contd)

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT FUND

ESTABLISHMENT OF NAMED CHAIR

The Irene D. Hirsch Chair in Ophthalmology

In accordance with the guidelines previously established by the Board, The Irene D. Hirsch Research Fund in Ophthalmology was established on March 6, 1987, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the estate of Irene D. Hirsch (B.S.Ed. '26). The funding level has been reached and the Chair established September 1, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The income shall provide for a Chair position within the Department of Ophthalmology to support research in diseases and treatment of the eyes. Expenditures from the Chair will be approved by the Chairperson of the Department of Ophthalmology in consultation with the Dean of the College of Medicine.

$1,348,214.90

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

The Dr. Samuel T. and Lois Felts Mercer
Professorship of Medicine and Pharmacology Fund

The Dr. Samuel T. and Lois Felts Mercer Professorship of Medicine and Pharmacology Fund was established September 1, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Samuel T. Mercer, (M.D. '29) in memory of his beloved wife, Lois Felts Mercer.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The income shall provide support for a professorship of medicine and pharmacology within the College of Medicine. Appointment to the Professorship will be recommended by the Dean of the College of Medicine.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Dean of the College of Medicine or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

The Phyllis Krumm Memorial International Scholarship Fund

The Phyllis Krumm Memorial International Scholarship Fund was established September 1, 1993, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Miss Phyllis A. Krumm, (B.F.A. '31; M.A., Fine Art '44), Associate Professor Emeritus of Art and Ohio State University faculty member of 33 years.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT (contd)

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT FUND (contd)

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds (contd)

The Phyllis Krumm Memorial International Scholarship Fund (contd)

The gift is to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income is to be awarded to one or more outstanding graduate student(s) enrolled in a formal course of study or carrying out research in a European country or in China. Preference should be given to a student who is a citizen of the United States preparing for a career in diplomatic or other governmental international service. The award may be used to defray any expenses, such as travel, which supplement a student's academic program. The student or students must be willing to travel independently. Students planning to travel in groups or in countries where relatives reside are not eligible.

Recipients will be determined by a committee headed by a representative from the Center for International Studies. Also constituting the committee shall be a minimum of three faculty members representing any two academic disciplines. Awards should be based on good character qualities and academic achievement with consideration also given to those with financial need. How often awards are made is left to the discretion of the committee.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of the University, who is then directly responsible for international studies.

Grayce M. Sills Professorship Fund

The Grayce M. Sills Professorship Fund was established September 1, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Alumni, Friends and Faculty of the College of Nursing.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be added to the Grayce M. Sills Professorship Fund's principal until the principal accumulates to $500,000. Thereafter, the annual income shall be used to provide a professorship in psychiatric-mental health nursing in the College of Nursing. Appointment to the Grayce M. Sills Professorship in Psychiatric-Mental Health Nursing will be recommended by the Dean of the College of Nursing to the Provost and approved by the Board of Trustees.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

The John Meagher, M.D. Lectureship Fund in Neurosurgery

The John Meagher, M.D. Lectureship Fund in Neurosurgery was established September 1, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University Development Fund by family, friends and students in honor of the late Dr. John N. Meagher, Clinical Professor Emeritus, Department of Surgery - Neurosurgery.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall support a lectureship in the Division of Neurosurgery as approved by the Director of Neurosurgery in consultation with the Chairperson of the Department of Surgery and the Dean of the College of Medicine.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Director of the Division of Neurosurgery, Chairperson of the Department of Surgery and the Dean of the College of Medicine, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

The Tuscarawas County 4-H Endowment Fund

The Tuscarawas County 4-H Endowment Fund was established September 1, 1993, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Tuscarawas County 4-H Committee and other friends of the Tuscarawas County 4-H Program.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support the Tuscarawas County 4-H Program. This support may include, but is not limited to, the funding of scholarships and awards for 4-H members, volunteer leaders and friends of 4-H; sponsoring seminars and programs; and purchasing material or services that will supplement 4-H programming or increase the visibility and public support for 4-H in Tuscarawas County. All expenditures from this fund shall be approved by the Tuscarawas County 4-H Advisory Committee and the professional in charge of the Tuscarawas County 4-H Program.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever, as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preferences being given to the recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of the University who is the Director for the Ohio State University Extension, in consultation with a committee representing the local 4-H donors.

The Dr. Norman Baker Athletic Scholarship Fund

The Dr. Norman Baker Athletic Scholarship Fund was established September 1, 1993, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Dr. Norman Baker, (M.D. '54) Columbus, Ohio.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to supplement the grant-in-aid scholarship costs of student athletes who are members of the men's varsity basketball team pursuing undergraduate degrees at The Ohio State University. Recipients will be selected by the Director of Athletics in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees as recommended by the Director of Athletics in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

The Demkee Dental Athletic Provider Award

The Demkee Dental Athletic Provider Award was established September 1, 1993, for the College of Dentistry by action of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Dr. Donald E. Demkee, (D.D.S. '65) and family of Wooster, Ohio.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income is to be used to provide scholarship assistance to students in the College of Dentistry who assist the varsity athletic teams' dentists in providing dental care services to student athletes at The Ohio State University. Award recipients will be determined by the Dean of The College of Dentistry and the appointed team dentists in cooperation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

The award will be given through the College of Dentistry in consultation with the varsity team dentists.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Director of Athletics and the Dean of the College of Dentistry.

The Louis Miller Scholarship Fund in Pharmacy

The Louis Miller Scholarship Fund in Pharmacy was established September 1, 1993, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Mrs. Ethel Miller of Boca Raton, Florida.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide one or more scholarships in varying amounts to deserving students in the College of Pharmacy, based on criteria established by the College of Pharmacy Scholarship Committee. The scholarship recipient(s) shall be determined by the Dean of the College of Pharmacy or his designee.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees, in consultation with the appropriate dean, department chairperson or program administrative offices, in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

R. E. "Jim" Snelson Scholarship Fund

The R. E. "Jim" Snelson Scholarship Fund was established September 1, 1993, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Ralph E. Snelson (D.D.S. '61).

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

It is the intent of Dr. Snelson to reward academic achievement and encourage a student to be the best he or she can be in the dentistry profession.

The annual income shall be used to provide one or more scholarship(s) to first year dental students who are Ohio residents and have a minimum grade point average of 3.25 at the undergraduate level. Scholarship(s) may be renewed annually, but the student must maintain a grade point average of 3.50 in dental school. It is the interest of the donor to provide continued assistance to the same student(s) during the four years of dental school. Selection of the award recipient(s) shall be made by the College of Dentistry in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Dean of the College of Dentistry in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

The John O. and Elsie Jenkins Memorial Scholarship Fund

The John O. and Elsie Jenkins Memorial Scholarship Fund was established April 7, 1978, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University Development Fund from Thomas A. Jenkins (B.S.Bus.Adm. '50) of Toledo, Ohio; Palmer L. Jenkins (B.S.Bus.Adm. '47) of Alamo, California; and John O. Jenkins, Jr. (B.S.Ed. '40; M.A. '46) of Huntington Beach, California, and relatives and friends of the Jenkins family in honor of the parents, Mr. John O. Jenkins, Sr., and Mrs. Jenkins. The description was revised September 1, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

Twenty-five (25) percent of the annual income shall be returned to principal. Seventy-five (75) percent of the annual income shall be used to provide one or more scholarships to financially needy students in the College of Education. Selection of the scholarship recipients shall be made by the Dean of the College of Education in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

The Charles and Anita King Endowment Fund

The Ohio Biological Survey Endowment Fund was established June 9, 1983 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University Development Fund from friends and supporters of the Ohio Biological Survey. The name was changed to The Charles and Anita King Endowment Fund June 5, 1992, and the description was revised September 1, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income is to be used for those purposes which will aid the publishing, research and service programs and facilities of the Ohio Biological Survey. Expenditure of the annual income is to be made upon the authorization of the Director of the Ohio Biological Survey in cooperation with the Advisory Board of the Ohio Biological Survey and with the approval of the Dean of the College of Biological Sciences of The Ohio State University.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Foundation Board in consultation with the appropriate college dean, or the Director of the Ohio Biological Survey, in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Shumate:

Also this morning, Treasurer Nichols presented the Endowment Portfolio Report, the Quarterly Endowment Report, the Quarterly Cash and Investments Report, and a report on the Endowment Income Distribution. These reports were previously mailed to the Board and during our Committee meeting there was a full and thorough analysis and discussion of these reports.

That completes the Investments Committee Report.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to call upon Vice President Pichette to present five resolutions for your adoption.

Ms. Pichette:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. This first item is our quarterly report on the Waivers of Competitive Bidding granted from April through June 1993. There were 67 waivers granted for annual purchases totally approximately $13.7 million. The greatest dollar amounts were the Merchandise for Resale and services and equipment for our Hospitals. The breakdown is shown on the exhibit included in your materials, we seek your acceptance of this report, and I would be happy to answer any questions that you may have.

WAIVERS OF COMPETITIVE BIDDING REQUIREMENTS
APRIL - JUNE, 1993

Resolution No. 94-29

Synopsis: Acceptance of the quarterly report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements is proposed:

WHEREAS the Purchasing Policy of The Ohio State University, adopted by the Board of Trustees on September 7, 1984, and revised on February 7, 1992, provides that the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration may grant a waiver from competitive bidding in the event of an emergency, when a sufficient economic reason exists, or when the goods or services can be purchased from only a single source, with a report on such waivers to be made quarterly to this Board; and

WHEREAS the Vice President for Business and Administration has submitted a report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements granted for the period of April - June, 1993; and

WHEREAS during the period covered, the Vice President for Business and Administration, at the requests of the departments making the purchases and upon the recommendation of the Purchasing Department, granted 67 waivers of competitive bidding requirements for annual purchases totaling approximately $13,749,200.00, as shown on the enclosed exhibit:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements for the period of April - June, 1993, is hereby accepted.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Brennan, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

(See Appendix XIII for background material, page 289.)

Ms. Pichette:

This resolution is for a new ambulatory care facility for University Hospitals that was mentioned earlier in the Hospitals Report. We have now reached the planning stage at which we need to finalize the site for this comprehensive facility and proceed with the design work. Once that is accomplished we will come before you, again, to request approval for bids. Reed Fraley is here today if you have any questions to ask about this new important undertaking.

Ms. Pichette:

We are requesting authorization to sell a small strip of land running along Havens Corners Road at our MedOhio Facility in Gahanna. This property is needed for road improvements to be made by the Ohio Department of Transportation, the sale will not interfere with the operations of the MedOhio Clinic or parking at the facility, and the improvements will include new side walks.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 94-32

0.0143 ACRE ON
HAVENS CORNERS ROAD, GAHANNA, OHIO

Synopsis: Authorization for the sale of approximately 0.0143 acre of unimproved real property located at 460 Havens Corners Road in Gahanna, Ohio, is requested.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees owns a tract of approximately 0.0143 acre of real property located at 460 Havens Corners Road in Gahanna, Ohio; and

WHEREAS the Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) desires to purchase this tract of land for the purpose of making road improvements; and

WHEREAS an appraisal done for ODOT, and reviewed on the University's behalf by the Ohio Department of Administrative Services, valued the property at $3,890.00, and ODOT has offered to purchase the property for that amount and to pay $880.00 for a temporary construction easement; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that this sale of property is in the best interest of the University, and it is the desire of this Board to accept this offer and sell all of the University's right, title, and interest in this property:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in the name of the Board of Trustees, to sell all of the University's right, title, and interest in this property to the State of Ohio for the Ohio Department of Transportation at a price of $3,890.00 and upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University and to execute the necessary construction easement.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to now call upon Vice President Shkurti, Provost Sisson, and Senior Vice Provost Ed Ray, to discuss the 1994 Budget Supplement. Mr. Shkurti, how do you want to proceed?

Mr. Shkurti:

Mr. Chairman, if the members of the Board will turn to the Tab "Budget" in their Board books, right behind the resolution is the "FY 1994 Budget Supplement," which is a summary. Dr. Sisson will begin with discussing the objectives and funding priorities for the University, then I will follow-up with a summary of the financial stability and financial context, and then Drs. Sisson and Ray, and I will attempt to answer any questions the Board might have.

Dr. Sisson:

Madam Chair, members of the Board, I am pleased to introduce the 1994 Budget Supplement and to set forth and elaborate for you the objectives and the academic priorities and criteria that undergird our proposals. Vice President Shkurti, as noted, will elaborate the particulars of these recommendations.

The objectives are those that define the 1993-94 current funds budget approved by the Board at its last meeting. Those two objectives are at once fundamental and simple. The first objective is to allocate resources consistent with the priorities of the academic planning process in order to improve the quality of this institution.

The second objective is to establish the foundation to achieve financial stability by the end of FY 1995 by balancing our 1994 budget, focusing on academic priorities, reducing multiyear spending plans, and streamlining bureaucracy.

The proposal before you represents a vigorous commitment to protect and, to the fullest extent possible, enhance our core academic functions. Our criteria are four, they are central, they are simple. To maximize the capacity of our departments, to offer core and general survey courses for all of our students. Secondly, to support students as fully as possible in ways already referred to by President Gee. To secure the future of this institution by continuing to nurture diversity and invest in faculty, our principal capital assets. And four, to achieve economies by streamlining our administrative operations in both academic and academic support units.

Additional funds, as noted, are recommended in six areas previously identified in the academic planning process. There is continuity here and let me draw your attention to these, and elaborate on them very briefly. First, Compensation -- to retain and to recruit outstanding faculty and staff, most of whom have not had a pay increase in two years. This is absolutely essential to enable us to compete with the very best, and to provide the highest quality learning experience possible for our students, and to contribute in fundamental ways to the productive capacity and the quality of life of our state.

Secondly, Academic Enrichment -- to improve, as noted, the quality and availability of instruction including data analysis and other elements of the General Education Curriculum, as well as continue to reduce the number of closed courses that have plagued us.

Three, Computing -- to improve this University's ability to support computer networks, to add or upgrade seats in computer labs, and to improve financial aid and course scheduling services to students. This is essential not only to assure that our students have access to up-to-date information systems and technologies, but to shorten lines for courses and financial aid and hopefully contribute in, in however small a way, shortening the time to degree.

Fourth, Diversity -- to expand our programs designed to attract and retain students and faculty from a wide variety of backgrounds. It is imperative not only to support students from underrepresented groups to find access and to achieve, but to enhance cultural awareness and learning within the campus community which is to the benefit of all.

Fifth, Research Infrastructure -- to provide space, equipment, and graduate student support essential to research, productivity of faculty, and also to support the finest training of new generations of researchers.

And finally, Scholarships -- to increase the number of high ability scholars and to preserve the purchasing power of our existing scholarships.

What has been the impact? President Gee has already referred to several and let me draw your attention to items that have already been noted in one way or another. We are providing the first pay increase in two years for most faculty, staff, and students. We anticipate fewer course closeouts. There is improved instruction in data analysis, foreign language, and second writing courses as part of our curriculum reform. There is improved capability for computer networking. We are providing, as the President has noted, improved service for student financial aid and scheduling. There is additional research support to faculty and research opportunities for our students. This is essential. We have expanded support of diversity programs and we have scholarship dollars that match tuition increases. We wish it were possible to do more. We derive some satisfaction that it was not necessary to do less. Let me now ask Vice President Shkurti to provide in more extended detail the budget and its impacts.

Mr. Shkurti:

Thank you, Dick. Provost Sisson has spoken of what the objectives are of this budget process and also the academic priorities which will receive additional funds. What I would like to talk briefly about are how we propose to achieve financial stability and also the financial contexts in which we will be operating.

I will begin on page six of the handout. It lists five elements that are part of our plan for financial stability for the institution: 1) The focus on academic priorities, which will drive our spending plans that Provost Sisson has already referred to; 2) How we propose to balance the budget for fiscal year '94, even though we are spending more money in some areas and less in others; 3) How we propose to reduce multiyear spending plans; 4) How we propose to streamline the bureaucracy; and 5) an example of how streamlining can lead to strengthened administration and improve services.

Let me turn first to balancing the budget for fiscal year '94. Provost Sisson has already spoken of the criteria that was used to allocate the budget reductions to the colleges. We are doing these budget reductions, not because we want to, but because we feel we have to in order to free up funds to do other things that are even more important. The colleges on average will receive a reduction of 3.5 percent of their budget this year and the academic support units will receive an average reduction of 6 percent. How we came to those two numbers is first of all, in regards to colleges, the deans told us that if we could on average hold their reductions to no greater than 3.5 percent, they would manage to avoid laying off any of our regular faculty. We thought that was an extremely important thing to accomplish in protecting the academic core. In other words, as a result of this budget, even though there will be reductions in the budgets of the institution it will not be necessary to layoff any regular faculty for budgetary reasons.

Now once we made a determination not to reduce the colleges by any greater than 3.5 percent, the majority of the rest of the budget are the academic support units. And to balance the budget that meant we had to reduce the academic support units by 6 percent. That means there will be some layoffs in the academic support units and I will get to that in a minute. We regret having to do that. Many of the people that will be faced with that eventuality are people who have served the University well. But above all we have to protect the academic core of the institution. Even if that means some unfortunate pain in parts of the institution, we feel we have to recommend to you what is best for the long run interest of the institution.

The other point that I would like to make -- and these are listed on page ten -- is naturally we are focusing on budget reductions. But, it is also important to remember there are areas that will be protected from budget cuts by deliberate and conscious decisions on the part of the University. Provost Sisson and President Gee have already alluded to some of these. As I mentioned, regular faculty will be protected in terms of the filled faculty positions. The closed course dollars will not be reduced, in fact they will be increased so that we can keep the number of closed courses down. The General Education Curriculum reform will not only be protected, but increased. And our registration and scheduling services will be protected.

In addition, some key academic support services will be protected. The campus police, campus crime watch, and community crime patrol will not be reduced at all.

The occupational health and safety functions will not be reduced at all. Student Financial Aid and Admissions will not be reduced at all. University Hospitals and the James Cancer Hospital, which generate their own income, will not be reduced at all due to these budget reductions. So, I think it is important to recognize that although some budgets in the University will be going down, some will be going up, and some will be staying the same as part of a conscious decision on the part of the University to focus its priorities.

If you turn to page 11, you will see some examples of recommended reductions in various budgets that will give you a sense of the various priorities. You will see, for example, the units that received the recommended highest reductions: Continuing

Education, excluding credit courses, 20 percent; International Affairs Administration, 16 percent; Graduate School Administration, 15 percent; Legal Affairs

Administration, 15 percent; and the Office of the President, 15 percent. Those are significant reductions. The common theme that you will see through that is administration. It is not that the people that are working there now are not doing a valuable service. But in light of all the other things that we need to do, we felt that those are the places that we can cut and do the least amount of damage to our students, to the institution, and to the academic core.

Now also implicit in this is that if some units are cut more, others will be reduced less. You can see Student Financial Aid will not be reduced at all; in fact, they will receive some increases. The Office of Admissions will not be reduced. The Registrar's Office will receive a very small reduction, as will our three biggest colleges: the College of Humanities, the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences, and the College of Math and Physical Sciences.

The next item is the impact of the budget reductions that I referred to and those are on page 12. One of the questions we always get at this part of the budget cycle -- and I know there is a lot of interest in it, because of the impact on the community -- is how many positions are you abolishing or how many people are you laying off? Obviously at this point of the budget cycle -- because this is a very large institution - - we can only give you an estimate based on the numbers we have and what the deans and vice presidents have told us. The actual numbers will depend on what actually happens as the units implement their cuts. But based on what we have been told and the amount of money we are taking out of the budgets -- we have made some estimates as to the number of positions that will be lost to The Ohio State University as a result of these reductions. We believe it will be 40 to 50 vacant faculty positions not filled. We estimate between another 100 to 200 staff positions, and about half of those will be filled. This means that could involve between 50 and 100 layoffs. Although our experience has been that in some cases we are able to find jobs for people who are targeted for layoffs in other parts of the University. But at this point, that is our best estimate.

In the case of students and other positions, which include graduate students, lecturers, and part-time student positions, another 50-100 positions. So in round numbers, our estimate is between 200-350 positions will be lost to the University. Now this is on top of the 1,200 positions we have lost through budget cuts previously. Although, it will not be easy on us or no easier on the people who are affected by this, the University will continue to function. We think in some key areas it will function better despite the loss of these positions. It is important though that we bring to your attention the impact these reductions will have on the Central Ohio economy and on the economy of the State of Ohio.

For example, the average faculty member at this University generates $41,000 in external sponsored research. So, if we lose 40-50 faculty positions that we do not fill that means the State of Ohio, if the averages hold true, will lose between $1.6 million and $2 million in outside research grants that otherwise would have been brought in to the State and to our State's economy. The loss of 200 full-time positions of tax paying Ohio State University employees will cost the City, State, and Federal Governments about $1 million in lost income tax revenues that would otherwise be available. I know that you might have read in the paper about the City of Columbus going through budget problems of its own. I would not want to suggest those are due entirely to what has happened at The Ohio State University, a lot of other things are going on. But my suspicion is that the loss of jobs at this institution has had a severe effect on the City of Columbus and its budget, because those income taxes are paid to the City of Columbus, where Ohio State is located.

Finally, the study that was done by our own School of Public Policy and Management points out that for every job lost at The Ohio State University, not only is that job lost to the State's economy, but at least one additional job throughout the State is lost. That is because that person at Ohio State is not going out buying a new car, or shopping at a local store, or going to a local restaurant. So there will be some ripple effects throughout the State's economy.

The third point I mentioned regarding the financial stability of the University was reducing multiyear spending plans. As the handout on page 13 indicates, in the mid-1980's the University embarked on a series of significant spending initiatives involving multiyear spending buildups -- with a number of very worthwhile projects. The problem is the spending has continued to grow even though the University's income has not. This is in some ways similar to the problem the Federal Government has faced. Unlike the Federal Government, we have found a way to cap the increase in these programs. And although, they will be protected as the language here indicates on contractual commitments and commitments made to students, the additional spending built into the budget for these programs will be capped at $6.3 million in FY '94, an additional $2.5 million in FY '95, and zero in FY '96. So this is an important part of our efforts to reach financial stability.

The next item is restructuring. The President addressed this in his discussion and Provost Sisson also mentioned it as well. The only point I would make here is that we have really started when the budget cuts began in 1990, but more intensely in the spring of 1993 and beyond, to look at ways that we can continue to provide good service or in some cases better services with less of an investment in budget resources. For example, the best one I can think of is Student Financial Aid -- as the President and Provost Sisson referred to -- where we consolidated admissions and student financial aid in January of 1993. We put a minimum of additional resources into that operation and as a result of the work of Jim Mager and his staff we have had significant improvements in service. There will also be significant improvements in service to our students that will come as a result.

Finally, let me talk about the context, because I guess it is a fact of life in the 1990's that there are short attention spans in some of the things that go over the news wires. To just briefly highlight three things: number one, that these reductions we are talking about today are on top of previous reductions the University has gone through in the last three years. I mentioned the loss of 1,200 positions previously, we have also downsized 47 programs and eliminated 15, which was reported to the Board of Trustees last December.

Number two, if you take a look at Ohio State University's tuition, it is true that we are raising our tuition 5 percent, which is the maximum provided under the caps under state law. But the tuition increase here at Ohio State is 19 percent below the average for the public Big Ten. So even though our state support has decreased more than any other institution in the Big Ten, we have not turned around and balanced the budget on the backs of our students. Rather we have tried to keep tuition down. We are a low tuition institution, and we will continue to be a low tuition institution as this comparison shows.

The third item talks about the financial impact of new government mandates. This was something I referred to in the presentation to the Board in July. I just wanted to point out that there was a story on the state-wide wires about two weeks ago where the Governor pointed out correctly that the Federal Government has a bad habit of passing unfunded mandates down to the State. We think it is important to point out that the Federal Government and the State have a bad habit of passing on unfunded mandates to The Ohio State University. And because our state aid not increase when the mandates do, we have no choice other than finding the money internally which means more budget reductions or building it into our tuition increases for our students. But we are dealing with these mandates, we will comply with state and federal laws, and we will do it within a balanced budget.

Finally, page 20 simply gives the Board a sense of what lies ahead as we continually manage our resource challenges and lay out, over the next couple of months, the kind of information we will be presenting to you.

Mr. Chairman, that concludes our formal presentation. We would be glad to respond to any questions you or the Board may have.

Mr. Skestos:

Because of the great importance of the matter presently before us, I would encourage questions from the Trustees or the audience. Michael --

Mr. Colley:

Mr. Chairman, if I understand the report correctly, for fiscal year '94 there will be no negative impact on student services?

Dr. Sisson:

I think that is true. On balance there will not be a negative impact on student services in the way that we have outlined. We feel that we are doing better in terms of the turnaround time, with respect to financial aid and also with respect to scheduling. One of the major issues has been closed courses, enabling students to get into courses that they need and then what they want. I feel that we are going to be able to certainly hold the line on that.

Member of the Audience:

I am a joint law and journalism student and I have been here eight years. I disagree with the claims that financial aid has significantly improved for students. There are currently many law students -- we started last semester -- who still have not received financial aid, and we are having difficulty receiving waivers. I personally have had four meetings with Jim Mager and other officials of the University. Myself and the other law student with me today have had significant problems since March getting our money. People can claim what they want, but I would suggest that a University-wide survey be done of students and see whether the students feel a significant improvement of financial aid and admissions has been made.

Mr. Skestos:

Thank you. Bill, do you want to --

Mr. Shkurti:

Mr. Chairman, if I could say just a couple of things. One, this is an extremely large University. Anytime a general statement is made there is going to be someone or some persons who are probably an exception. We have 30,000 students who receive financial aid. We know there have been some problems during the year. One of the reasons there has been problems is the Federal Government has been going through a process of reauthorizing the whole student financial aid package.

Mr. Shkurti: (contd)

As a result, whenever Congress goes through that all the regulations change. There were delays this time around, and some of the things that have happened in Student Financial Aid are not really anybody's fault, they are just a process of going through changing the process.

I do not know the specifics in this particular case, but I would say for most of our students the evidence indicates that the level of service they will receive from Student Financial Aid this fall will be significantly improved over what it was over previous years. It does not mean that it will be perfect. It does not mean that every student will receive the kind of service that we think they deserve. I think in general, however, we have turned the corner in where we are in Student Financial Aid in dealing with an extremely complicated system. Some of this is the Federal Government's fault and some is of our own making. I think the improvement in that area has been significant and we need to continue to do better. I know Jim Mager and his people are looking at using quality management techniques to help improve their service. Part of that is surveying regularly their customers who are the students to find out where these pockets of problems occur and how those can be addressed.

Mr. Skestos:

Thank you.

Mr. Brennan:

Just generally -- to the Provost -- the Board has gone through a lot of trouble establishing a mission statement the last couple of years. How would you relate this philosophy of reductions and change in relation to that mission statement? Are we being consistent to what we are trying to do as a University?

Dr. Sisson:

It grows out of the mission statement. The mission statement focuses on a commitment to make this a major institution of learning, with a national and international visibility and standing. To provide the finest support that we possibly can to our students and to research faculty, that is what we are trying to protect here to the fullest extent that we possibly can. There is continuity from the mission statement, the vision statement, and what we are doing here. I think, when we come to the Board after wide consultation with respect to how we will proceed in phases two and three of restructuring, you will find continuity. Proposals growing out of what has been advanced before.

Dr. Ray:

If I could add to that. After the adoption of the mission/vision statement by the Board of Trustees in December, we began consultations in January with various groups around the University -- various senate committees and other bodies -- with the idea of setting budget priorities -- themes and priorities -- and tying the academic planning and budget process together. This is not simply for a one-year period, but over a multiyear period. So we started with the idea of setting budget priorities for two years. The budget priorities that we set for fiscal '94 and '95 included: compensation, academic enrichment, computing, diversity, research infrastructure, and scholarships. I would submit that the budget consultations that we have had over the last two months, in fact, have not been about allocating budget reductions, but about the business of reallocating budgets within the University in the face of a very modest increase in overall budget to make some really genuine progress in addressing each of those priority areas.

The reason we are able to talk about putting $8 million into additional student financial aid, $600,000 in new money for statistics laboratories and second writing courses, $1.5 million into the minority scholarship program, and a number of other initiatives that are identified in this report, is because we kept the focus on the priorities that were set directly out of consultations built upon our common understanding of the mission/vision statement. We spent the time that was needed to determine where those funds could be taken from in order to make a more aggressive effort to meet the priorities we have set for ourselves. We did not accomplish as much as we would have liked. We are dealing with a financial reality that is not of our choosing. But, I think we have made an earnest effort to move forward in each of these areas that we agreed we have to move forward on.

Mr. Shumate:

Perhaps you -- in general terms -- have answered the question, but when we look at the information provided for example, we would see that one college may have been cut 5 percent and another college 2 percent. How did you go about making those kinds of decisions and distinctions?

Dr. Sisson:

Those grow out of the criteria that I articulated at the outset -- largely student driven. We have a very deep concern about being able to offer courses to our students, and, as Vice President Shkurti noted, the colleges that had the least reduction were those that have the most students.

Mr. Skestos:

Any other questions?

Mr. Brennan:

Just a political one I guess, or not political -- but when this happens typically the public outcry is that you are laying off people and giving raises to others. How would you suggest explaining that phenomenon?

Dr. Sisson:

In terms of the priorities of the institution -- this is an institution that has major commitments to a major state and society. We have to keep those major institutional interests -- the long-term as well as immediate, but also in terms of where we are going -- prominently in mind. It is really that configuration of things -- those considerations -- that have resulted in the differential kind of allocations which we recommend to the Board.

Mr. Brennan:

You have to pay the people you need to keep to keep them is what you are saying.

Dr. Ray:

I think consistently that the raise packages have been defined in merit terms for faculty, so that hard decisions had to be made about which faculty would get increases and which faculty would not. It was essentially geared to maintaining our key people in place.

Mr. Shumate:

I have one other question. When we were going through watching the State's budgeting process, one of the items that we focused on was the impact of the Regent's formula. If we just take a moment to look at the income side, Bill, what was the impact on the budget based on that formula?

Mr. Shkurti:

The impact of the Regent's funding formula for the year we are talking about right now, fiscal year '94, is minimal. The reason for that is the Legislature, with the agreement of the Governor, guaranteed us a certain increase in income from the formula this year regardless of what else happened. That increase was 3 percent. The budget overall -- the general funds budget -- is growing 2.8 percent so those are right about in sync.

What I worry about a little bit is we are balanced for this year, but as we look forward to fiscal year '95, which is a year from now, the regular Regent's funding formula kicks in because the guarantee goes off. As you know from what we said before, that formula is very highly related to enrollment. We think it is legitimate to recognize enrollment as one of the elements in what should determine what the State funds. But we also feel the Regents need to recognize that there are things other than enrollment, such as the nature and quality of the academic programs, being offered at the institution that also ought to go into the State funding formula. So we will be aggressively addressing with the Regents our concern about the funding formula and its implications on this institution. This institution is not only the largest comprehensive research institution in the State, but is also the institution that educates and graduates more undergraduates than any institution in the State. We need to make sure the State is giving us what we feel is a fair share of the pie as we move forward.

Mr. Skestos:

Any further questions? If not, I want to thank all three of you for coming here this morning and giving us some background information.

WAIVER OF POLICY ON RETIREMENT OF PRINCIPAL ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICIALS

Resolution No. 94-35

WHEREAS Mr. Madison H. Scott, Secretary to the Board of Trustees, Executive Assistant to the president, and Secretary to the University has expressed his desire to retire from the University, effective September 7, 1993; and

WHEREAS Mr. Scott, over the course of more than 25 years, has served four presidents, faculty and staff, and the University with extraordinary dedication and distinction; and

WHEREAS resolutions adopted February 6, 1959, as clarified by resolution dated April 12, 1963, provides that supplemental benefits for certain principal administrative officers other than the president and the vice presidents may be provided for individuals who retire from the University following the attainment of age 65; and

WHEREAS the designation of principal administrative officials, are codified by rule 3335-3-17 of the Administrative Code and resolution dated February 6, 1959, and resolution #77-92, dated March 4, 1977;

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the age 65 requirement as specified under paragraph (D) in the above-referenced Board resolutions is hereby waived for Madison H. Scott, Secretary of the Board of Trustees, Executive Assistant to the President, and Secretary of the University.

Upon motion of Ms. Casto, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Ms. Casto:

A resolution was presented to Madison Scott earlier this month and we would like to ratify that now.

RATIFICATION OF EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 94-36

Madison H. Scott

WHEREAS Madison H. Scott has supported his alma mater during his days as a student and since his graduation in 1958, particularly as an employee of the University for the past twenty-five years; and

WHEREAS through his foresight and initiative, he envisioned and developed the Office of Personnel Services, a comprehensive personnel function where he served in various leadership capacities, including the position of Vice President for Personnel Services, a position which he held for 15 years; and

WHEREAS through Mr. Scott's leadership the University's first Operating Manual was created, which included the first set of codified University policies for vacation and sick leave; a university-wide health plan was instituted; and in addition the first Office for Disability Services and the first Child Care Center were established; and

WHEREAS he also served as the University's first Affirmative Action Officer and, in that role, developed the University's first Affirmative Action Policy -- an action plan to address issues affecting all minorities; and

WHEREAS Mr. Scott has always been known to have an "open door policy" and has been asked for advice and counsel from literally hundreds of students, faculty, and staff members throughout the University; and, in fact, many persons have considered him as their mentor and have continued to seek his counsel, even, in some cases, after they have left the University; and

WHEREAS he is considered throughout the University community as an individual who has vigorously and steadfastly dedicated himself to the ideals and goals of this University, always acting with fairness and the very highest integrity; and

WHEREAS Mr. Scott served in the United States Armed Services, and also has served his community -- local, statewide, and national -- in various leadership positions, including being a member of several boards of directors, and receiving numerous awards and recognitions for his contributions; and

WHEREAS Madison H. Scott has served as Secretary to the Board of Trustees for 14 years, and, in that capacity, has been highly esteemed not only for his knowledge, expertise, and effectiveness, but also -- perhaps especially -- for his wisdom and counsel to several presidents of this University, as well as to dozens of members of this Board of Trustees throughout their tenure on this Board:

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Board of Trustees expresses their deepest appreciation to Madison H. Scott for having given tirelessly of his energy, knowledge, wisdom, and insight. His dedication, commitment, and especially his loyalty to this University, and the larger goals that it represents, are unparalleled. The Board of Trustees congratulates Mr. Scott for his stellar career at The Ohio State University and gives heartfelt thanks for the myriad ways that he has improved The Ohio State University, its community, and higher education in general by giving wholeheartedly and selflessly to the highest ideals of academia.

Upon motion of Ms. Casto, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

September 1, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Brennan:

As the newest and youngest member of the Board, I am speaking for myself, but I think I share the sentiment of the rest of the Board. I have said quite often how honored I am to be a Trustee of this University, and I think the fact that Bob Duncan has agreed to act in the capacity that he has makes my service that much more enjoyable to contemplate. I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart, Bob, for taking on this extra responsibility.

Judge Duncan:

Thank you very much, that was nice of you to say that and I will do the best I can.

Ms. Casto:

I think we all feel that way.

Judge Duncan:

Thank you.

Mr. Brennan:

I would like to present the following resolution:

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 94-38

Joan N. Huber

WHEREAS Dr. Joan Huber has served The Ohio State University as Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost with honor, distinction, and exceptional leadership; and

WHEREAS Dr. Huber assumed this position under the most challenging circumstances of extreme budget constraints, and made myriad difficult, but fair, decisions, always mindful of maintaining the best interests of the academic core; and

WHEREAS Dr. Huber also has served the University well, both as the Coordinating Dean of the Colleges of the Arts and Sciences, and as Dean of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences; and

WHEREAS Dr. Huber is respected nationally as a scholar of preeminence who has made outstanding contributions to the discipline of sociology, through her research, teaching, publications, and editorial and professional service; and

WHEREAS Dr. Huber is highly regarded for her forthrightness; for her honesty; for her integrity; for her selflessness and unwavering commitment to the highest ideals of academia; and is, in all circumstances, well-known for her evenhanded, thoughtful, and reflective approach to her decision-making processes; and

WHEREAS Dr. Huber, in light of the complex and arduous challenges inherent in the position of Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost, always maintained her sense of humor, her unflappable manner, and a presence of "grace under pressure":

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Board of Trustees acknowledges its high esteem of and deep appreciation to Dr. Joan Huber for her superior service to the University.

Upon motion of Mr. Wexner, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Joan, congratulations to you. There has been no one that I have felt has done the type of service and fulfilled the type of obligation, in terms of my work as University President for thirteen years, as Joan Huber. She deserves those accolades, but more importantly, she deserves the recognition of all of us here for what has been a remarkable tenure at this University for these many years. So, Joan, thank you very much.

Ladies and gentlemen, since our last meeting, the campuses of this great University have come alive with the opening of Autumn Quarter. Faculty, staff, and students are working together to make this large University a community, a home for our students, and a more personal place to be. It is important that we be a personal university, despite our size; that each person feel valued and welcomed in this community; that we be responsive to the needs of our students; and recommit ourselves to quality in the classroom and beyond.

We have been joined on our faculty this year by some very outstanding scholars and I am even more proud of the many distinguished faculty members who made the decision to stay here, despite many opportunities to go elsewhere. They believe in Ohio State and in our future. So do the very fine members of our incoming class of students. They are well-prepared -- the best in our history -- and ready to accept the challenge of college life. We are committed to providing them with an unparalleled opportunity for academic achievement and we will do so in as personal a manner as possible.

Let me give you a few examples of the ways we are making a big university small and this is really the theme of my remarks today -- I thought that I would focus on what we are trying to do in this particular area. The Office of Residence and Dining Halls led the way with their very effective planning for Move-in Days in the halls. From the greetings received at the check-in points and the cookies distributed by the Parents' Association, to the T-shirts worn by the assistants who helped unpack cars, thousands of mothers and fathers, and hundreds of thousands of boxes and suitcases were moved into the halls. As I visited with parents and students that weekend, I found them very complimentary of the residence hall staff members. Getting 8,500 people settled into their new homes over one weekend is, indeed, a massive undertaking. To do it with such enthusiasm and spirit makes a great deal of difference and sets a tone for the year.

A number of events were planned so that incoming students could get better acquainted with the University and with each other. Welcome activities included a graduate student orientation program sponsored by the Council of Graduate Students. The Marion Campus held an ice cream social for students at Ohio State Marion and Marion Tech. Welcome activities were held here in Columbus for incoming Minority Scholars and for the 150 or so new Alumni Scholars. Our second annual Freshman Convocation brought more than 3,000 freshmen to St. John Arena to mark the beginning of their academic careers. Members of the Academy of Teaching joined the academic procession as college deans welcomed the new students.

Professor Tom York, who sits here with us today, Chair of the University Senate Steering Committee, told the new students that change was upon them and things would be different. He told them that they would soon feel like Dorothy and, yes, they weren't in Kansas any more! Tom, I love that comment!

The picnic that followed the convocation gave me and other academic leaders the opportunity to meet many new students. As Provost Sisson and I walked around campus on the first day of classes, we were impressed by the energy and spirit shown by our staff members at the bookstore and in college offices. With signs and candy and people working the lines, every effort was made to personalize this institution.

I welcomed a large group of new faculty members at a reception this week and found among them the same vitality and enthusiasm for Ohio State and for our students. I sense, and I really do, a building spirit of community that will form the foundation for enhancing our strength and quality this year.

So throughout this year, you will see evidence of that theme of being a more personal university, responsive and caring about the people of our University family. They deserve nothing less and I believe that we have demonstrated that we can do that in a most effective way.

President Gee: (contd)

I would like to note a new member of our University community that has joined us at our table, Dr. Harry Allen, who is the Chair of the Faculty Council. Dr. Allen is a distinguished member of our faculty, a mathematician, and has been elected as Chair of the Faculty Council, the group representing the faculty of this University as part of our University Senate structure. I have asked Harry, along with the Chair of Steering, Dr. Tom York, to now become resource people in the context of the debate and discussion that will take place. Welcome, Harry, and we are glad to have you here.

That is my report, Madam Chair.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

I would like to call upon Mr. Nichols to present a report on the Endowment Portfolio and the Investment Managers Review conducted yesterday.

Mr. Nichols:

The Investments Committee met yesterday afternoon to review Investment Managers, but first let me give you a brief update on the Portfolio's status. As of the report at the end of last month, the Endowment was at $502.7 million, which represents an all-time high in the University. Since July 1, 1993, the Endowment has increased $9.5 million, of which $1.6 million is new additions.

The Endowment return for last year was 16.1 percent, which compares favorably to the S&P 500 at 13.6 percent and the Lehman Bond Index at 13.2 percent. I would also point out that in addition to passing half a billion dollars in the Endowment, we also passed, at the end of the fiscal year, over 2,000 individual funds that have been established by donors in our Endowment. The amount distributed by the Endowment last year to the colleges and departments for their use -- funds given by the donors was a little over $22 million and we will distribute approximately $24 million this year. Jerry and I in our excitement -- discussed last month when we crossed a half billion dollars in the Endowment that that represents the component of fundraising and also the component of Investment returns. You don't ever want to look back on a half a billion, you want to keep moving right on to a billion.

President Gee:

Jim, where does that rank us in the Big Ten now in terms of our Endowment?

Mr. Nichols:

In terms of the Big Ten, we would be third; in terms of public universities, we would be sixth; and in terms of all universities in the country, we would be about thirty-second, I believe. We have been slowly moving up over the last decade. The Endowment is approximately four times larger today than it was ten years ago.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

President Gee:

By slowly moving up -- you mean in terms of our place in line?

Mr. Nichols:

That's correct. As Mr. Shumate said, we did review Fixed Income Managers yesterday afternoon. We have tentatively set for later in the fall the review of Equity Managers, and following the completion of those reviews the Committee will discuss any changes in asset allocations or the money assigned to Managers. That completes my report, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Shumate:

Thank you, Mr. Nichols. Next, I would like to call on Jerry May to present the report on the University Development.

Mr. May:

Private support to the University for the first two months of FY '94 is about even with the figures of last year. Individual giving, however, is running about 16 percent ahead of last year at this point and time. During July-August, we received eight individual gifts of $100,000 or more totalling nearly $1 million. At this time, corporate giving is off about 14 percent compared to last year.

I should also point out that of the $5.8 million in gift receipts only $150,000, approximately 3 percent, is money that are pledge payments from the past Campaign. So that is sort of slowing down to a trickle now. What that means is that nearly all of the contributions that we have received thus far this year are new gift acquisitions. Are there any questions about the gift reports that are attached?

Mr. Shumate and Madam Chairman, I would like to recommend to the Board the establishment of ten new named endowed funds totaling $383,432 in restricted support, which are listed in your materials. I am also requesting the change in name or description of two named endowed funds, which are also listed.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-40

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for August 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of ten (10) new named endowed funds, and amendments to two (2) endowment funds:

NOW THEREFORE

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of August 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

Herman M. Martin Agriculture Student Recruitment Fund

The Herman M. Martin Agriculture Student Recruitment Fund was established October 1, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the estate of the late Herman M. Martin, an Ohio State alumnus and one of the co-founders of Bob Evans Farms. Mr. Martin served as vice president of personnel and public relations prior to his retirement in 1968. Mr. Martin earned both bachelor's (B.S. Ed. '32) and (M.A. Education '41) degrees from Ohio State. In the early part of his career, he served as a teacher and administrator in Ohio's public schools. His interest in young people and in higher education as well as service to the various communities in which he lived was exemplary.

This bequest and all gifts to this fund are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support student recruitment programs and activities. Two-thirds of the annual income shall be used for recruitment of students to the undergraduate curricula for four-year programs, and one-third to be utilized for student recruitment to technical education programs at the Agricultural Technical Institute. Utilization of income shall be at the discretion of the associate dean, College of Agriculture, and the director, Agricultural Technical Institute, with concurrence by the vice president for agricultural administration and dean of the College of Agriculture.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the University's Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor(s).

$150,000.00

The Emanuel D. Rudolph Polar Studies Fund

The Emanuel D. Rudolph Polar Studies Fund was established October 1, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund by the bequest of Dr. Emanuel D. Rudolph, third Director of the Institute of Polar Studies, currently known as the Byrd Polar Research Center, and with gifts from his family, friends and colleagues.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be distributed to the Byrd Polar Research Center and shall be administered by the Director of the Center. The income shall be used for two purposes, namely, supporting post-doctoral and graduate research students, and supporting activities of the Goldthwait Polar Library. A portion in the amount of $5,000 of the original bequest will be used to purchase shelves and cabinets to house the Rudolph Collection of polar literature.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the dean responsible for biological sciences and the appropriate department chair or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor(s).

$88,175.00

The Marvin Hoffman Innovation Fund in Business

The Marvin Hoffman Innovation Fund in Business was established October 1, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund designated for support of the College of Business from the estate of Dr. Marvin Hoffman (M.B.A. '49; Ph.D, Business Organization '57).

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be distributed to the Dean of the College of Business to fund new projects and activities which further the interests of the College. Allocations from this fund will act as catalysts for new program developments and be based on competitive review processes.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor(s).

$25,000.00

The Jensen-Wallin-Young Research Fund

The Jensen-Wallin-Young Research Fund was established October 1, 1993 in accordance with the guidelines approved by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from E. Ann Gabriel, (M.A. and Ph.D., Accounting Management Information Systems 1993) of Upper Arlington, Ohio. The fund is named in honor of E. Ann Gabriel's Ph.D. faculty advisory committee from the Department of Accounting and Management Information Systems -- Dr. Daniel L. Jensen, Dr. David E. Wallin, and Dr. Richard A. Young.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support Ph.D. students and candidates in the College of Business Department of Accounting and Management Information Systems. Specifically, the Chair of the department shall use the income to support student Ph.D. research activities and research resource needs.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor(s).

$25,000.00

Arch and Mary Ellen Priestley Veterinary Scholarship Fund

The Arch and Mary Ellen Priestley Veterinary Scholarship Fund was established October 1, 1993, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with initial gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Mary Alicia Priestley (M.A. Education '89) and David W. (B.A. Social & Behavioral Sciences "Honors Contract-Interdisciplinary" '78) and Susan Osterhout Priestley (B.S.Nurs. '78) and additional gifts from family and friends of Dr. Archie C. (D.V.M. '43) and Mary Ellen Priestley, Upper Arlington, Ohio.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income from the endowed fund shall be distributed to The Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine to provide scholarships for junior or senior students in the College of Veterinary Medicine who are Ohio or West Virginia residents and who demonstrate a special interest and aptitude in food animal medicine. Selection of the scholarship recipients will be made by the College of Veterinary Medicine, in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

The Frederick T. Grimm Scholarship Fund

The Frederick T. Grimm Scholarship Fund was established October 1, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts from Professor Grimm's family, David Frederick (B.S.Agr. '73) and Debra A. Grimm (B.S.Nurs. '76) and their children Paul and Mary, and Robert L. (B.S.Ed. '74) and Cynthia J. Grimm and their daughter Katherine, to The Ohio State University Development Fund. Frederick T. Grimm (B.S.Agr. '41; M.S. Agriculture Education '64) spent his career as a teacher of vocational agriculture and as a faculty member of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service (now Ohio State University Extension), service as a 4-H agent, county extension agent, area extension agent-marketing, and first chairman of the area extension center located in Fremont, Ohio. Professor Grimm retired on October 31, 1975, after having served on the faculty of The Ohio State University for more than 28 years.

All gifts to this fund are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to fund scholarships for freshmen students, with a preference for those from Ottawa and the seven surrounding counties (Lucas, Wood, Hancock, Sandusky, Seneca, Erie and Huron). Eligible students shall be those who have been enrolled in 4-H for at least four years and have shown a high level of communication and leadership skills, along with a sincere interest and intent to enter Extension employment following completion of their undergraduate and/or graduate degrees in the College of Agriculture. Nominations shall be made by county extension personnel in each of the eight designated counties. The names of individuals nominated, along with a completed scholarship application blank, are to be sent to the chairperson of the Ottawa County Extension Office, where the list of nominees will be evaluated by Ottawa County Extension faculty members who will then forward the names and dossiers of the top five nominees to the office of the assistant dean for student affairs in the College of Agriculture. Selection criteria shall include: evidence of above-average scholarship; participation in 4-H and/or FFA and/or other student activities which demonstrate leadership and communication skill potential; interest in and intent to enter an extension career; and financial need as a consideration, but not the controlling factor.

A scholarship committee under the direction of the assistant dean for student affairs in the College of Agriculture in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid, shall make the final selection based on funds available and qualifications of the applicants.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the University's Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor(s).

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

Summaries of the grants and contracts received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the month of August can be found at Tab 1 in your Research Foundation Report. Awards for the period July 1993 through August 1993 from Federal sponsors have decreased about 4 percent. Total funding from all sponsors for Fiscal Year 1994 is down about 10 percent. Fluctuations in the arrival of new awards early in the Fiscal Year make it difficult to make reliable predictions of the impact of these early returns on our final numbers for FY 1994.

At Tab 2 there are expenditure summaries comparing the months of July through August for FY 1994 and FY 1993. Total expenditures for FY 1994 exceeded FY 1993 expenditures by 10.3 percent. It is significant that recovery of indirect costs is up about $1 million.

Some new projects of special interest that were funded in the month of August are listed at Tab 3. I thought you might be interested that Professor Jhiang, from the Department of Internal Medicine, received $180,000 from the American Cancer Society to study human papillary thyroid carcinomas. This study will lead one to understand the molecular mechanisms and biochemical changes involved in thyroid neoplastic transformation, and ultimately, the actual mechanisms underlying the wide spectrum of thyroid cancers.

A second project of interest is entitled Effects of Saturated Fatty Acids on LDL Synthesis and Degradation in Women. Professor Jean Snook in the Department of Human Nutrition and Food Management received $160,000 from the Department of Agriculture to study the effects of dietary saturated fatty acids on cholesterol metabolism.

I also want to mention that I had a chance to visit with Ken Wilson, our Nobel Laureate in Physics, about his efforts to improve the teaching of math and science at the pre-college level. These efforts are funded by a major award from the National Science Foundation for a project entitled Project Discovery. At some point it may be worthwhile for the full Board to have a discussion of Ohio State's many pre-college education research projects of which this project is an excellent example.

At Tab 4 is the list of all projects funded in August.

At Tab 5 is a second closing report of awards for Fiscal Year 1993. In the process of reconciling the records of the Research Foundation and the Engineering Experiment Station for Fiscal Year 1993, we determined that $608,214 was unreported to the Board of Trustees. These dollars are all in the Non-Federal categories. This increases the year end total to over $166 million, an increase of 1.6 percent.

Tab 6 includes press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity. I would also like to alert you to look in your mail for the annual report, which they will be sending out on research at The Ohio State University for 1993. That should be coming out shortly to you.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-41

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for August 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of August 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

The Hospitals Board Professional Affairs, Education, and Research Committees met yesterday, September 30. After presenting the September medical staff appointments, Dr. Mekhjian reviewed proposed amendments to the Medical Staff Bylaws, Rules and Regulations. The Committee endorsed the proposed revisions with minor amendments. In closed session, Dr. Cordero discussed the Clinical Quality Management Program in Neonatology and Dr. Bay presented the Hospitals- wide Quality Management Report. Mr. Larry Anstine briefly reviewed the Hospitals preparations for creditation surveys in October and November.

The full Hospitals Board also met yesterday. We endorsed the September medical staff appointments and the Medical Staff Bylaws, Rules and Regulations changes as amended by the Professional Affairs Committee. We voted to ratify the Executive Committee's July and August actions on behalf of the full Board.

We received the annual auditor's report which revealed no significant deficiencies in the Hospitals. Mr. Fraley and Dr. Bush presented a proposal through which the Hospitals and the integrated Physicians Group could purchase a new computer system to perform joint registration, scheduling, and billing functions. The new system is capable of not only combining those processes and producing a single bill, it can also capture information that will help the Medical Center compete for managed care contracts. We authorized Hospitals and Management to purchase the new system and to negotiate the appropriate financial and operating arrangements with the Physicians Group. We reaffirmed our commitment to adhere to the conflict of interest policy applicable to Hospitals' employees, and distributed questionnaires for our annual self-evaluation.

AMENDMENTS TO THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD BYLAWS AND BYLAWS OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Resolution No. 94-42

Synopsis: The amendments to the University Hospitals Board Bylaws and Bylaws of the Board of Trustees are recommended for approval.

WHEREAS pursuant to bylaw 3335-103-01 of the University Hospitals Board Bylaws, the University Hospitals Board Bylaws may be amended by The Ohio State University Board of Trustees; and

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Francisco:

The Student Affairs Committee met yesterday afternoon and heard reports from several student organization presidents. The number one concern is that with the reform that the University is undergoing that the students' concerns not be overlooked. We need to make sure that students will always have a voice on the different organizational changes that are going to happen.

Other concerns included: why student organizations have to pay to use University facilities; and a request for students to be given access to WOSR for internships and also to help air important dates for student functions put on by all of the student organizations. Another concern was that engineering students have to pay a fee to co-op, but they don't get credit for it. One student complained that his major was cancelled, but he didn't receive any notice of this until after his fee statements were released. So he was behind in trying to reschedule another class.

Frank Chloupek, President of CGS, reported that over 500 students attended the new student orientation and they were welcomed by Dr. Gee. CGS is also eager to be involved in University restructuring and troubled by the suggestion of eliminating classes with less than 15 students. Eliminating these classes would severely harm graduate programs and make it impossible to strive for excellence in graduate education. They also held a reception where over 600 students attended, along with Vice President Williams and Vice Provost Purnell.

Chris Norman, President of USG, reported that their health and fitness tour, held on campus this week, was quite successful. Ted Celeste led the way in basketball. USG was very pleased with the outcome of Voter Registration and they are also planning on lobbying the State next year. They have already set the dates for when they will be marching and trying to talk to the Governor.

USG is also planning a Student Disability Awareness Week. This is where students will either be blindfolded, wear earplugs, be in a wheelchair, or have their arms in slings, so they will have an awareness of what disabled students have to face every day at this University.

On Tuesday, IPC, CGS, and USG all had their committee members meet each other and discussed how to become more active and vocal on the different committees. And, finally, the problems with Traffic and Parking were discussed.

That concludes my report.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Ms. Casto:

This morning we will be conducting the Educational Affairs Committee and the Fiscal Affairs Committee as committees of the whole. I would like to ask Mr. Kessler to chair the Educational Affairs Committee.

BUDGET REALLOCATIONS AND ACADEMIC RESTRUCTURING

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to call on Drs. Sisson, Ray, and Rudd to discuss the Budget Reallocations and Academic Restructuring.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

BUDGET REALLOCATIONS AND ACADEMIC RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Dr. Sisson:

I am very pleased to present to you a draft of a document entitled, "Budget Constraints and Academic Investments." This document sets forth a substantive process of review for collectively examining, appraising, and setting our academic priorities at The Ohio State University, in a way that they can be most effectively reflected in programs and the structure of our academic units.

Our proceeding with such a proposed examination was reflected in the discussion of faculty, including Professors York and Allen, with the Educational Affairs Committee at its meeting but one month ago. And it was in a moment of enthusiasm that I indicated that I was prepared to have a proposal for discussion by month's end and this is that.

Let me make a few other preliminary comments. The principles and general provisions in the proposal have been discussed with the Council of Deans, the Steering Committee of the University Senate, the Priorities Committee, the President's Executive Committee, and several meetings of department chairs and retreats that I've had the opportunity to be a part of in various colleges. I have also shared the general thoughts that are included herein just yesterday at a meeting of our department chairs. The proposal before you has benefitted greatly from these discussions. The proposal is marked "DRAFT," for I propose to discuss its provisions with a number of committees of the University Senate before issuing the document in final form.

The document is predicated on the proposition, and one that I think is widely shared in our University community, that we need to move forward to develop a plan for setting academic priorities for the long-term at our University. I think this is accepted as a matter of principle, as well as a matter of necessity on the ground so to speak. It accepts the necessity of accenting the quality and the renewal of our institution. It accepts the reality, as well as a long-term change in the funding base for higher education not only in the State of Ohio, but nationally.

As observed in the report, if we are to effectively pursue our stated mission of international distinction in education, scholarship, and public service, it is essential that we identify resources to protect, enhance, and create programs of the highest quality. It is essential that we invest in areas that enable the University to contribute with distinction to knowledge, learning, and the public good in this process.

I think it is also widely accepted that reallocation of our resources and investments must be differential to protect and strengthen as many valued programs as we can rather than weakening all. We must explore ways to provide the greatest range at the highest quality of what we do but with greater efficiency. We must also provide for renewal within the University even as we prune. It is essential that we seed and nurture new growth in areas of excellence and in areas where The Ohio State University has a comparative advantage to take the lead among the nation's universities.

In making reallocations, we must also address Ohio State's new mission-vision statement. What we do and how well we do it must be reexamined in light of goals now set for our University -- goals set by this Board formally on December 4, 1992.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

Current and long-term financial considerations increase incentives to proceed effectively with this review and evaluation -- a restructuring process. But the process of renewal we have begun requires significant change within and across colleges apart from any current budget problems.

I say a process we have begun in that the course charted in the document before you is a next step in a process commenced over a year ago. It is part of a stream of continuity. The current proposals follow from considerations included within the discussions initiated by the report by the statewide Managing For the Future Task Force submitted to the Ohio Board of Regents just over a year ago. Considerations with more relevance to our immediate concerns were examined and discussed by our own Ohio State University Task Force on Managing For the Future set up by President Gee, which was reported just under a year ago. I have referred to the Mission and Vision Statement that was adopted by this Board and in the spring of this year the Office of Academic Affairs developed, after broad consultation, a set of criteria for establishing or abolishing academic programs and other programs, or changing academic structure. In all of this there was a common theme and the call for the exaltation of, the protection of, and investment in excellence, for minimizing redundancies in our programs, within the State of Ohio, but most immediately within our own University, and to pursue all other initiatives for realizing internal economies.

Let me say something about process -- two elements are central. First, the review and recommendations for appropriate action must follow rules and procedures that are already in place. Indeed, the relevant rules and procedures in this regard are appended as a part of this document. Second, the process must lean heavily on advice from and consultation with faculty, students, and staff. This is in the first instance a matter of fundamental principle, it is also a matter of prudence. For such a process generates, as it contributes to the validation of information, it contributes to the incubation of ideas -- it can generate alternatives.

All units, it is proposed, will be asked to review programs and work with other units as appropriate to achieve the goals that have been collectively articulated. Reorganization may occur in academic support units, the Office of Academic Affairs, and within and across colleges.

Examination of our academic support units is now underway. I think that I reported in earlier discussions -- although I have had so many discussions, I can't recall where I have discussed what -- that I have been asked by the President to serve as the facilitator of that process. This has commenced.

The Office of Academic Affairs commenced a process of restructuring during the past year and will continue to examine relevant issues during the current year as well. Serious and sustained programmatic and organizational review has already commenced in a number of our colleges. But to formally initiate the process of review in our academic units across the campus, deans will be asked -- this is what is proposed -- to submit plans specifying how they would redirect 7 percent of their annual general funds budgets for FY '95 within their colleges. They are to determine how these would be reinvested in research and teaching activities to improve their college. For the long-term, colleges will be asked to identify another percent of the same order of magnitude to be reinvested differentially within their colleges over a period of several years.

It is also essential to study the feasibility of mergers or relocations across colleges in order to improve program quality or to reduce cost. Such changes may need to be phased in over several years, but we must begin as soon as possible -- which means immediately. I will ask deans to initiate cross-college discussions and, at an appropriate time, I will make proposals that cross college boundaries.

It is important in order to assist this fundamentally important process that we put together a central academic enrichment and investment pool. I shall work vigorously with others to achieve this and invite the assistance of all who have any ideas and assistance to provide.

Let me now draw your attention to a proposed timetable for the initiation review and action on proposals for budget reallocation and program and unit restructuring and change. I propose to formally charge colleges with the above mission this month. As I have indicated, practically all colleges have already initiated discussions about these matters. I would expect to receive proposals some time early in the winter quarter. Then these will be reviewed in the Office of Academic Affairs, with relevant recommendations that require Senate review forwarded to the appropriate Senate Committees for action. I propose that recommendations requiring full Senate deliberation be presented to the University Senate as a body during the spring term, with recommendations requiring the attention and action of the Board coming forward in early summer.

Let me close this formal summation of the document which you have, but which others have not had the opportunity to read yet, by noting that the purpose of this document is to provide a first step, a continuation of steps, in a long-term process. Its purpose is also to redefine the University through a process that balances the need for timely decision making, with the need for thoughtful and constructive discussion. Its spirit is to commit to renewal, to enhancing the quality of what we do, and to nurture new areas of growth for the benefit of our fund of knowledge capital, our students, and our society, but with a realistic appreciation of the funding constraints under which we live.

I would ask if either of my colleagues here have anything to add to that, but I wanted to summarize everything at the outset so we have a common spore from which we can discuss any of the issues that are included in the document or that I have raised. Do you have any collaboration?

Dr. Ray:

I guess if there were a couple of observations that I would want to make at the outset -- it would go back to Hiawatha's concern about student involvement. As the Provost has indicated, throughout the document we discussed the need to consult widely with faculty, staff, and students as appropriate. But in addition to the extent that we are really talking about fundamental changes at the University that could involve consolidation and elimination of programs, it is important that the University community know that at the outset we are committed to seeing that all enrolled students complete their course of study. So to the extent that decisions may be taken this year that would lead to a phase-down of some programs over time, the timing of that phase-down would be such as to assure that students who are currently enrolled in programs would in fact be able to complete them.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

Dr. Ray: (contd)

Dr. Sisson:

Absolutely.

Mr. Kessler:

Are there any questions for Dick or his associates?

Ms. Casto:

Jack, might I suggest that -- in light of the fact that we only received this yesterday and it's a thirty-six page document -- maybe we revisit it another time. I don't know if we have all had a chance to study it and really know what it is saying to us. Is that okay with everybody?

Mr. Kessler:

Tom --

Dr. Tom York:

You referred to the decision-making process and I think that is very important, but have you focused this? Who is going to make the decisions? Who is going to be the final arbiter? Are you that person? Is there a committee that has been defined? Have you clarified that yet?

Dr. Sisson:

Any recommendation for the change in an academic program or the reorganization of academic units must receive the review and recommendation of the appropriate committee of the University Senate. Any change that would require Board action will certainly come to the Board for deliberation and vote. So the idea is not to create a new and separate process of review in this general process that we are talking about, but to employ the rules that we already have for making recommendations and decisions. It is to use a current process, rather than a new set of procedures.

Dr. York:

Again, since I am chair of the Steering Committee in the Senate and in looking at the decision-making process, it seems a bit diffuse to me. While surely everything must move through the Senate, that is clearly important and I would not want to deviate from that, but a program of this magnitude needs central coordination and focus. I would hope some thought would be given to that. I noticed the few committees that you listed -- the University Priorities Committee, etc. -- and I think that is very good. I personally would welcome strong leadership, particularly from your office.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

Dr. York: (contd)

Dr. Sisson:

I think you will find that.

President Gee:

Thank you, Tom, we appreciate those comments.

Mr. Kessler:

Are there any other questions, George or Mike? Yes, Hiawatha --

Mr. Francisco:

How and when are you going to involve students and where do they need to go to air their voices or their opinions?

Dr. Sisson:

Students will have a voice, certainly, in the committees that are reviewing these documents. Certainly at the level of the Office of Academic Affairs, the Priorities Committee, the University Senate Steering Committee, but also at the college level, and to the fullest extent possible at the departmental level. This is part of the formal proposal that -- as fully as possible -- all voices will be heard from the bottom up.

Ms. Casto:

Am I understanding you correctly that there will be a stated set of priorities of which we will be striving towards? In other words, I have never seen the actual priorities that have come out of the Priorities Committee, as far as academics are concerned -- except that we want to achieve excellence.

Dr. Sisson:

There will be a set of priorities that will come out of this process and it will be a part of the process. Part of the process is to move towards the setting of these priorities, and there will be definitive recommendations and decisions made in that regard.

Dr. Ray:

I think that for the shorter term what I might observe -- we already established priorities last year as part of the linking of the budget and planning process together. For example: we are committed to getting on with the business of appropriately compensating our very best faculty, building research infrastructure, getting on with the academic computing plan, and putting together an academic enrichment pool. That can be used not simply to compliment what we have been involved in in taking resources from one area and reallocating them to another, but actually putting new resources into areas that we want to invest in. There is also the objective of continuing to promote diversity on this campus. For the relevant short-term, those still remain major priorities of the University.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

Dr. Ray: (contd)

President Gee:

Let me just emphasize one point that the Provost made. It is terribly important that we constantly remind ourselves that this is a continuum. This is Phase III of what has been a fairly long process. We have had a set of priorities to which we have given dollars and to which we have made substantial commitments and those priorities continue. But we are now moving to what is an overall redefinition of a certain number of our programmatic activities. So this is a continuum and we have those priorities, but now we move to making those priorities and a new set of realities by the budget and prioritization process that we are in. So we need to remind ourselves all the time that we are not starting with a new set of priorities. This is a phasing process. It is kind of like a military attack. That is, we have had frontal and side assaults and now we are engaged in yet another round of those activities, if you will. I think that is a fair statement is it not, Dick?

Dr. Sisson:

Absolutely.

Dr. Harry Allen:

At the Educational Affairs Committee meeting last month with members of the Faculty Council, we described activities of the Faculty Council that are supportive of this process of change at the University. In particular, we will be hosting two workshops for faculty. One workshop will be on the fiscal state of the University, and the other workshop will be on goal-setting and the establishment of priorities to reach these goals from the point of view of process. At the time we met with you last month, I did not have the dates when these workshops would take place, but I can tell you now. November 4 will be for the fiscal workshop and November 18 will be for the priorities and goal-setting workshop. Mr. Colley asked that I extend an invitation to the members of the Board to come to these meetings, and I would like to do so now publicly and in writing next week.

Mr. Kessler:

What time are these meetings?

Dr. Allen:

These will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. I want to voice the thoughts of the Faculty Council, that we intend to anticipate cooperating and working with the Office of Academic Affairs in developing proposals, and we hope that we will be able to make a contribution.

October 1, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

BUDGET REALLOCATIONS AND ACADEMIC RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

You will send us a note on those meetings?

Dr. Allen:

Yes, I will.

President Gee:

I might note, Harry, that this is all part of the discussion process about getting on and about our business, and we'd appreciate the advice of the Board.

Mr. Kessler:

At our last meeting we asked to be informed about these workshops because we would like to attend.

President Gee:

Absolutely. I think that is very important.

Dr. Sisson:

These are two very important workshops.

Mr. Kessler:

Mike or George, do you have any questions? Thank you.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-44

Synopsis: Approval of three Resolutions in Memoriam are proposed.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

Floyd M. Beman, M.D.

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 20, 1993, of Floyd M. Beman, M.D., Professor Emeritus in the Department of Internal Medicine (Gastroenterology).

Professor Beman was born on July 6, 1918, in Thurman, Ohio. His undergraduate years were spent at Rio Grande College and The Ohio State University, where he graduated in 1939 with a B.S. degree. He graduated in 1943 from The Ohio State University College of Medicine with an M.D. degree, and then completed his internship and residency training at Ohio State in 1945. Following completion of his residency, Dr. Beman worked briefly as a research associate in the Department of Physiology and was appointed Chief Medical Resident in the Department of Medicine in 1948. From 1945 until 1947, he served in the U.S. Army and subsequently did a one-year gastroenterology fellowship at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Beman was first appointed to the faculty of The Ohio State University Department of Medicine in July 1950. He was promoted to Associate Professor in 1952 and to Professor in 1965. He retired from the regular faculty in 1987, and remained very active in departmental and college activities throughout his retirement years.

He was a member of a number of local and national societies, including the Columbus Academy of Medicine, American Medical Association, American Federation for Clinical Research, American College of Physicians, the Medical Review Club, and Columbus Society of Internal Medicine.

Floyd M. Beman, M.D. (contd)

Dr. Beman was best known for his commitment to student and resident education in the Department. Throughout his life, Dr. Beman maintained a very active role in teaching and he was well known as a mentor of residents and gastroenterology fellows. Dr. Beman was a staunch advocate of departmental trainees and was known as an outstanding teacher. He received a number of awards throughout his life in recognition of his many accomplishments.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees, expresses to the family of Dr. Beman its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Harry "Don" Moore

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 2, 1993, of Harry "Don" Moore, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Industrial and Systems Engineering.

Professor Moore was born February 10, 1910, in Worthington, Ohio, and graduated from Worthington High School in 1927. He served in the U.S. Air Force from 1928 until 1931, and graduated from The Ohio State University with a B.M.E. in 1941. Following graduation, Professor Moore was employed by Columbus McKinnon Chain Corporation in Towanda, N.Y., where he worked in inspection and statistical quality control. He joined the Department of Industrial Engineering in 1945, and at the same time undertook his M.S. study in Mechanical Engineering, which he completed in 1949.

During his entire tenure Don Moore had responsibility for the manufacturing processes laboratory. He was a staunch supporter of hands-on experience for engineering students, a philosophy he argued in a 1960 ASEE paper entitled, "A Modern Approach to Teaching Manufacturing Processes." One of the highlights of Professor Moore's manufacturing sequence was the production of a drill press, which was cast, machined, and assembled in a simulated production environment. Each student had the opportunity to take away one of these fine examples of their manufacturing prowess. To this day, those drill presses have positions of honor in the machine shops of literally hundreds of Industrial Engineering alumni. A display showing examples of the four successive redesigns of the drill press is a prominent feature of the Manufacturing Processes Laboratory in Baker Systems Engineering.

In 1965, Professor Moore and his friend and colleague Don Kibbey co-authored the text Manufacturing: Materials and Processes. The book, and its subsequent revisions, remained an active text well into the 1980's. A Spanish-language edition is still in use.

Don Moore presided over a number of significant events in the history of the Industrial and Systems Engineering Department. In 1946, when it became apparent that modern practice would not condone our teaching students machining while using lathes that were driven from a common overhead pulley and belt system, Professor Moore found a supplier of individual motors which he had attached to each individual machine, but maintaining the belt as the power transfer mechanism.

In the mid-1960's when a new engineering building was finally approved for the Department of Industrial and Systems Engineering, it was Professor Moore who worked with the architects to define space and attendant support facilities for a state-of-the-art facility. Not only did he help in the design of the building, but he also managed the physical transfer of the department in 1968 into what is now the Baker Systems Engineering Building.

Professor Moore retired with the rank of Professor Emeritus in 1976. He was an ardent cook, a skilled fisherman, an accomplished wine maker, a fierce bridge player, and a good friend of the department.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Moore its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in its loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Marjorie Rowe

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on July 7, 1993, of Marjorie Rowe, Assistant Professor Emeritus in the Department of Psychiatry.

Dr. Rowe earned a Ph.D. in Psychology from the University of London in 1962. She received her Master's degree from Penn State University in 1942 and worked as a school psychologist in New York and Pennsylvania before pursuing her doctorate in England.

In 1963, she received the Essex Research Award from the University of London for research into emotional disturbances in children. Between 1963 and 1968 she was a senior psychologist in the Department for Children and Parents at the Tavistock Clinic in London, working on a clinical team headed by the famous child psychoanalyst Dr. John Bowlby. She completed a four-year training program in child psychology at the Tavistock Clinic in 1968 before joining The Ohio State University Department of Psychiatry in the Division of Child Psychiatry in 1969.

During her years with Ohio State, Dr. Rowe contributed to the depth of the Department's training in psychoanalysis and psychodynamic psychotherapy. She was eagerly sought after for psychotherapy supervision by residents and psychology interns. She also provided valuable training to psychology interns as a supervisor for protective testing. Her weekly psychotherapy seminar in the Division of Child Psychiatry was consistently well attended.

Dr. L. Eugene Arnold once quipped, "If Dr. Gregory was godfather and Dr. Missildine grandfather of the Division of Child Psychiatry, Dr. Dean Coddington was its father and Dr. Marjorie Rowe its mother." While Dr. Rowe's reaction to this remark can only be conjectured, it is an example of the high esteem with which she was regarded.

Dr. Rowe took early retirement in 1986 and did part-time private practice of child and adolescent psychotherapy in Columbus until her death.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. Rowe its deep sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to call on Ms. Pichette to present three resolutions.

Ms. Pichette:

The first item will authorize us to proceed with the renovation work in one of our Research Park facilities to support the Center for Mapping. I would note that the funding for this renovation work is from federal and state grants, and we would request a motion to approve this project.

EMPLOYMENT OF ARCHITECTS/ENGINEERS AND REQUEST FOR CONSTRUCTION BIDS

Resolution No. 94-45

1212 KINNEAR ROAD - CENTER FOR MAPPING

Synopsis: Authorization to employ architects/engineers for the listed project is recommended.

WHEREAS the University desires to proceed with the renovation of the leased Research Park facility located at 1212 Kinnear Road; and

WHEREAS the project will include renovation of the first floor into additional office, computer, and computer support space for the Center for Mapping; and

WHEREAS the total estimated project cost is $220,000, and total estimated construction cost is $176,000; with funding provided by the indirect cost recovery from a four-year grant from the U.S. Geological Survey and State of Ohio agencies:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to select qualified architectural/engineering firms as necessary for this project and that the fees for these services be negotiated between the firms selected and The Ohio State University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, The President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request construction bids on this project in accordance with established University procedures, and if satisfactory bids are received, to award contracts, with all actions to be reported to this Board at the appropriate time.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

Ms. Pichette:

Next, we have the report of award of contracts for the Cannon Drive Improvement Project. I would have you note on the map that it shows the complete project -- we are only doing Phase I from Ninth Avenue to Herrick Drive, across the bridge, and on Olentangy River Road. This is an 18-month project. We have started the electrical work, and in the spring the actual road work will begin. This is for the St. Rt. 315 interchange. I would request a motion to accept this report.

REPORT OF AWARD OF CONTRACTS AND ESTABLISHMENT OF CONTINGENCY FUNDS

Resolution No. 94-46

CANNON DRIVE IMPROVEMENTS

Synopsis: Acceptance of the report of award of contracts and the establishment of contingency funds for the listed project is recommended.

WHEREAS a resolution adopted by the Board of Trustees on May 3, 1991 authorized the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration to request construction bids in accordance with established State of Ohio and University procedures, and if satisfactory bids were received to recommend the award of contracts for the Cannon Drive Improvements project:

This project will widen Cannon Drive to four lanes, widen the Herrick Drive Bridge, and make improvements to a section of Olentangy River Road to facilitate traffic movement associated with the planned State Route 315 exit ramp to Cannon Drive. The total project cost is $3,142,395; funding is provided from University bond proceeds. The estimated completion date is September 1994. The contracts awarded are as follows:

General Contract:	Complete General Construction, Columbus, Ohio
Amount:	$2,722,653
Estimate:	$3,000,000
Electric Contract:	Miller Cable, Green Springs, Ohio
Amount:	132,703
Estimate:	225,000
Total All Contracts:	$2,855,356
Contingency Allowance:	285,539 (10% of construction cost)
Total Project Cost:	$3,142,395

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That pursuant to the actions previously authorized by this Board, the revised report of award of contracts and establishment of contingency funds for this project is hereby accepted.

Ms. Pichette:

We are also requesting authorization to sell the house and front portion of Overlook Farm in Fairfield County. This proposed sale is consistent with the President's directive some time ago, that we review our land holdings in light of our budgetary problems and more closely examine which are needed for University benefit and which we should dispose of.

Based on program evaluation and budget constraints, the University -- including the College of Agriculture which operates the rear portion -- determined last year that operations at this facility should be discontinued. With this sale, I would note that the University will retain an easement to preserve access to the rear portion which we will continue to market for sale. I would ask for a motion to approve this sale.

Ms. Casto:

I have a question. If we just take the front piece off this property, does that lower the value of it? Would it be of higher value if we could sell it whole or does it matter if we cut it up like that?

Ms. Pichette:

That is the reason we maintained the easement. Our concern with this property, in particular, is that the structure on it is deteriorating and there is a chance of vandalism because it is unoccupied. So this would create a further problem without having the house maintained.

Mr. Skestos:

Madam Chairman, I might add to that. They're maintaining an easement for a potential road in case someone would want to buy the remaining property for development there is access to it or it could be used for farming or some other purpose. We have good access to it and we would give that access to the person buying the remaining acres.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 94-47

HOUSE AND FRONT 20 ACRES AT OVERLOOK FARM FAIRFIELD COUNTY, OHIO

Synopsis: Sale of the house and approximately 20 acres of land located at Overlook Farm, 3525 Pickerington Road, in Fairfield County is recommended.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY (contd)

HOUSE AND FRONT 20 ACRES AT OVERLOOK FARM
FAIRFIELD COUNTY, OHIO (contd)

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University owns approximately 20 acres of improved real property located in Bloom Township of Fairfield County at 3525 Pickerington Road and known as part of Overlook Farm; and

WHEREAS the University has determined that Overlook Farm no longer is needed for, and cannot be operated economically in support of, the educational and research programs of the University; and

WHEREAS the average appraised value of this 20-acre parcel is $224,700, and James J. and Janet Carol Johnson, of Canal Winchester, have agreed to purchase the property for $233,000; and

WHEREAS the net proceeds from the sale of this property shall be deposited in the University's Land Purchase Account to support future property acquisition; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that this sale is in the best interest of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in the name of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, to sell all of the University's right, title, and interest in this property to James J. and Janet Carol Johnson for no less than $233,000, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University, including the condition that the University shall retain an easement for access to the remaining parcel of Overlook Farm.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to call on Jim Nichols, regarding a resolution concerning authorization for the Execution and Delivery of Certificates of Participation. Mr. Nichols --

Mr. Nichols:

In August 1986, the University participated in the issuance of two certificates of participation. They were for the development and construction of the Child Care Facility, $3.5 million, and the development and construction of the Stores and Receiving Facility, which is on Kenny Road, at $3.8 million.

Mr. Nichols: (contd)

The drop in interest rates this last year, at a little over 100 basis points, has allowed for the refunding of those certificates and we are bringing that proposal to you. Specifically, the amounts still remaining in principal, which is $5.8 million, would be refunded in Serial Bonds, which would mature finally in the same year as the original issued ones, which is 2005. This one would be a bid process that would probably go out in about 3 to 4 weeks, pending rating agency approvals. If the issue went to market today the interest rate would be 4.6 percent average, which is approximately 300 basis points below the interest rates as they were originally issued. The savings will be $100,000 per year, of which about $45,000 is general revenue funds, and the net present value basis to the University is $600,000.

The financial advisor for this proposal is Prudential Securities; Bond Counsel is Arter & Hadden, assigned by the State Attorney General and the State Attorney General is involved; the Trustee is Huntington Trust Company; the escrow verification will be done by Coopers and Lybrand; and Porter, Wright, Morris, and Arthur will be the Trustee Counsel.

I would like to introduce to the Board, as I always do in these more complicated and heavily labor intensive operations, my colleagues who participated in this operation. Regina Wright handles the bond responsibilities for the University, which currently total $268 million; Bill Matlock, whom you have met previously, is responsible for cash management and also bond involvement at the University; Steve Messerly, Assistant Treasurer, this is part of his responsibilities; and, finally, Al Rodack, Associate Treasurer, who was also involved. Thank you all for your good work on this.

Also present is Bill Conard, a partner with Arter & Hadden -- who is bond counsel. Bill, are there any additional comments that you would make?

Mr. Bill Conard:

No.

Mr. Nichols:

Mr. Chairman, this is presented for your consideration.

Mr. Skestos:

Any questions for Mr. Nichols?

Mr. Celeste:

Are there other opportunities for refinancing?

Mr. Nichols:

We refinanced last year an amount totalling about $110 million, which basically exhausts -- if we could manage to squeeze out about another 75 to 100 basis points drop, we would refinance that again.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

Mr. Brennan:

These are fixed rates, Jim?

Mr. Nichols:

Yes. These will be certificates of participation, fixed rates.

AUTHORIZATION FOR THE EXECUTION AND DELIVERY OF CERTIFICATES OF PARTICIPATION

Resolution No. 94-48

(Child Care Facility and Stores and Receiving Building Projects)

Synopsis: This Resolution (i) authorizes the execution and delivery of $5,830,000 in aggregate principal amount of Certificates of Participation (Child Care Facility and Stores and Receiving Building Projects), Series 1993 for the purpose of providing funds so that the University may exercise its rights to purchase the Child Care Facility and the Stores and Receiving Building and thereby advance refund the University's previously issued certificates of participation with respect to such projects and pay certain costs relating to the execution and delivery of the Certificates; (ii) authorizes the University to exercise certain purchase options with respect to the Child Care Facility and the Stores and Receiving Building; (iii) authorizes the execution and delivery of the Base Lease, the Lease Agreement, the Notice of Sale, the Certificate of Award, the Escrow Agreements and any and all other documents or certificates to be executed or delivered by the University in connection with the execution and delivery of the Certificates; (iv) authorizes the execution and delivery of the Preliminary Official Statement and the Official Statement in connection with the sale of the Certificates; and (v) approves the forms of the Trust Agreement and the Assignment.

WHEREAS, The Ohio State University (the "University") pursuant to Resolution No. 87-17 adopted by this Board of Trustees (the "Board") on July 11, 1986 entered into a Lease Agreement dated as of August 1, 1986 (the "Prior Child Care Facility Lease") between Leadership Group, Inc., as lessor and the University, as lessee, pursuant to which the University leased, with an option to purchase a child care facility, being an approximately 30,000 square foot single story wood frame structure with site improvements, landscaping and fixtures related thereto, and including the real property on which such child care facility is located (the "Child Care Facility Project"); and

WHEREAS, the University pursuant to Resolution No. 87-18 adopted by the Board on July 11, 1986 entered into the Land and Facilities Lease dated as of August 1, 1986 (the "Prior Stores and Receiving Building Lease" and together with the "Prior Child Care Facility Lease," the "Prior Leases") between DBS Development Company, as lessor, and the University, as lessee, pursuant to which the University leased, with an option to purchase, a stores and receiving building, being an approximately 103,750 square foot single story pre-engineered steel building generally constituting a warehouse facility with site improvements, landscaping and fixtures related thereto, and including the real property on which such warehouse is located (the "Stores and Receiving Building Project", and together with the Child Care Facility Project, the "Projects"); and

WHEREAS, the University has determined to exercise the respective purchase options under the Prior Leases; and

WHEREAS, the University desires to obtain funds to pay the respective purchase prices for the Projects under the Prior Leases, to provide funds required under certain Escrow Agreements, as defined below, and to pay certain costs relating to the execution and delivery of Certificates, and lease the Projects:

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

AUTHORIZATION FOR THE EXECUTION AND DELIVERY OF CERTIFICATES OF PARTICIPATION (contd)

(Child Care Facility and Stores and Receiving Building Projects) (contd)

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY as follows:

Section 1. Definitions and Interpretations. All words and terms used in this Resolution with initial capitalization where the rules of grammar would not otherwise so require, shall have the same meanings, respectively, and be subject to the same interpretation as provided or used in the Master List of Definitions, attached hereto and incorporated herein, unless the context or use clearly indicates another or different meaning or intent.

Any reference herein to the University or the Board, or to any officers, employees or members thereof, shall include those which succeed to their functions, duties or responsibilities pursuant to or by operation of law or who are lawfully performing their functions.

Unless the context shall otherwise indicate, words importing the singular number shall include the plural number, and vice versa, and the terms "hereof," "hereby," "hereto," "hereunder," and similar terms, mean this Resolution.

Section 2. Authorization of Certificates. In order to obtain funds to pay the respective purchase prices for the Projects under the Prior Leases, it is hereby determined to be necessary to, and the University shall cause to be executed, sold and delivered, as provided herein and pursuant to the Trust Agreement, $5,830,000 in aggregate principal amount of Certificates of Participation (Child Care Facility and Stores and Receiving Building Projects), Series 1993 (the "Certificates"). Proceeds of the sale of the Certificates will be used to advance refund all of the University's Certificates of Participation (The Ohio State University Child Care Facility Project) dated August 1, 1986 in the aggregate principal amount of $2,710,000, and all of the University's Certificates of Participation (Stores and Receiving Building Project) dated August 1, 1986 in the aggregate principal amount of $2,940,000.

Section 3. Trust Agreement and Assignment. The Certificates shall be executed and delivered pursuant to the Trust Agreement. The form of the Trust Agreement and the form of the Assignment in substantially the forms submitted to this meeting are hereby approved.

Section 4. Authorization of Documents. The Chairman of the Board (the "Chairman") and the Treasurer of the University (the "Treasurer") in their official capacities are each authorized and directed to execute, acknowledge and deliver in the name and on behalf of the University, the Base Lease, the Lease Agreement, the Escrow Agreements, the Notice of Sale and the Certificate of Award (collectively, the "University Documents") in substantially the forms submitted to the University, which are hereby approved, with such changes therein not inconsistent with this Resolution and not substantially adverse to the University as may be approved by the officers executing the same on behalf of the University. The approval of such changes by said officers, and that such are not substantially adverse to the University, shall be conclusively evidenced by the execution of the University Documents.

The Chairman and the Treasurer are each hereby separately authorized to take any and all actions and to execute any additional documents, certificates and instruments that may be necessary or appropriate in the opinion of Arter & Hadden, as Special Tax Counsel, to effect the execution and delivery of the University Documents and the Certificates and the intent of this Resolution. The Secretary of the Board, or other appropriate officer of the University, shall certify a true transcript of all proceedings had with respect to the execution and delivery of the University Documents and the Certificates, along with such information from the records of the University as is necessary to determine the regularity and validity of the execution and delivery of the University Documents and the Certificates.

Section 5. Terms and Execution of the Certificates. The Certificates shall be issued in the forms and denominations, shall be numbered, dated and payable as provided in the Trust Agreement. The Certificates shall mature on June 1, 2005 and have such terms, bear such interest and be subject to mandatory and optional prepayment provisions as provided in the Trust Agreement and the Certificate of Award.

Section 6. Sale of the Certificates. The Certificates shall be sold at public sale after (i) advertisement for bids by general distribution of the Notice of Sale mailed at least 10 days before the date for receipt for bids and/or (ii) advertisement for bids by publication of a summary Notice of Sale in the manner selected by the Treasurer. The Certificates shall bear the rate of interest per annum specified by the successful bidder in a multiple of one-eighth (1/8) or one-twentieth (1/20) of one percent (1%). The interest rate shall not exceed [six percent (6.00%)]. No proposal for less than all of the Certificates and no proposal offering to pay less than ___% of par, plus accrued interest with respect to the Certificates shall be considered. The Chairman and the Treasurer are each authorized and directed to make on behalf of the University the necessary arrangements with the successful bidder to establish the date, location, procedure and conditions for the delivery of the Certificates, and to take all steps necessary to effect due execution and delivery to the successful bidder of the Certificates under the terms of this Resolution and the Trust Agreement.

Section 7. Certificate of Award. The sale and award of the Certificates shall be further evidenced by the Certificate of Award. The Certificate of Award is hereby authorized and shall be executed by the Treasurer or such other officer as he shall designate. The Certificate of Award shall state or confirm the aggregate principal amount of the Certificates, the purchase price of such Certificates, the interest rate with respect to such Certificates, the annual principal amount or amounts of such Certificates becoming due, the maturity date, any mandatory sinking fund requirements and the optional prepayment provisions, all as determined in accordance with the provisions of this Resolution, and all of which shall be conclusively evidenced by the execution of the Certificate of Award. The Certificate of Award shall also contain such other dates or provisions as the Chairman or the Treasurer determines are appropriate or necessary, and as are consistent with this Resolution and the Trust Agreement.

Section 8. Official Statement. The use and distribution of the Preliminary Official Statement and the Official Statement relating to the Certificates is hereby approved and authorized. The Preliminary Official Statement is deemed final by the University for purposes of Securities Exchange Commission Rule 15c2-12 except for such omissions therefrom as may be permitted by such Rule.

The Official Statement, substantially in the form of the Preliminary Official Statement now on file with the Secretary of the Board, shall be executed by the Chairman and the Treasurer in their official capacities on behalf of the University with any modifications, changes and supplements necessary or desirable for the purposes thereof which the Chairman and the Treasurer shall approve.

Section 9. Arbitrage Provisions. The University covenants that it will use and restrict the use of the proceeds of the Certificates in such manner and to such extent, if any, as may be necessary, after taking into account reasonable expectations at the time the Certificates are delivered to the successful bidder so that they will not constitute arbitrage bonds under Section 148 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"). The Chairman, the Treasurer or any other officer having responsibility with respect to the execution and delivery of the Certificates, is authorized and directed, alone or in conjunction with any of the foregoing or with any other officer, employee, consultant or agent of the University, to deliver a certificate for inclusion in the transcript of proceedings for the Certificates, setting forth the facts, estimates and circumstances and reasonable expectations pertaining to said Section 148 and regulations thereunder and the statement setting forth the information required by Section 149(e) of the Code.

Section 10. Qualified Tax Exempt Obligations. The Certificates are hereby designated as "qualified tax exempt obligations" for purposes of Section 265(b)(3) of the Code. In that connection, the University hereby represents and covenants that it, together with all its subordinate entities or entities that issue obligations on its behalf, or on behalf of which it issues obligations, in or during the calendar year in which the Certificates are issued, (i) have not issued and will not issue tax exempt obligations designate as "qualified tax-exempt obligations for purposes of Section 265(b)(3) of the Code, including the Certificates, in an aggregate amount in excess of $10,000,000, and (ii) have not issued, do not reasonably anticipate issuing, and will not issue, tax exempt obligations (including the Certificates, but excluding obligations, other than qualified 501(c)(3) bonds as defined in Section 145 of the Code, that are private activity bonds as defined in Section 141 of the Code and excluding refunding obligations that are not advance refunding obligations as defined in Section 149(d)(5) of the Code) in an aggregate amount exceeding $10,000,000, unless the University first obtains a written opinion of nationally recognized bond counsel that such designation or issuance, as applicable, will not adversely affect the status of the Certificates as "qualified tax exempt obligations." Further, the University represents and covenants that, during any time or in any manner as might affect the status of the Certificates as "qualified tax exempt obligations," it has not formed or participated in the formation of, or benefited from or availed itself of, any entity in order to avoid the purposes of subparagraph (C) or (D) of Section 265(b)(3) of the Code, and will not form, participate in the formation of, or benefit from or avail itself of, any such entity. The University further represents that the Certificates are not being issued as part of a direct or indirect composite issue that combines issues or lots of tax exempt obligations of different issuers.

Section 11. Covenants of University. In addition to other covenants of the University in this Resolution, the University further covenants and agrees that the University will at all times faithfully observe and perform all agreements, covenants, undertakings, stipulations and provisions contained in the Certificates, the University Documents, and in all proceedings of the University pertaining to the Certificates. The University warrants and covenants that it is, and upon delivery of the Certificates will be, duly authorized by the laws of the State of Ohio, to cause execution and delivery of the Certificates, the University Documents, and all other documents to be executed by it in the manner and to the extent herein and in the Trust Agreement set forth; that all actions on its part for the execution and delivery of the University Documents and all other documents to be executed by it in connection with the execution and delivery of the Certificates, have been or will be duly and effectively taken. Each provision of this Resolution, the University Documents and all other documents to be executed by the University in connection with the execution and delivery of the Certificates, is binding upon each officer of the University as may from time to time have the authority under law to take such actions as may be necessary to perform all or any part of the duty required by such provision.

Section 12. No Personal Liability. No recourse under or upon any obligation, covenant, acceptance or agreement contained in this Resolution, or in any Certificate or in the Base Lease and the Lease Agreement, or under any judgment obtained against the University or by the enforcement of any assessment or by any legal or equitable proceeding by virtue of any constitution or statute or otherwise, or under any circumstances, shall be had against any officer as such, past, present, or future, of the University, including any member of the Board, either directly or through the University, or otherwise, for the payment for or to the University or any receiver thereof, or for or to any holder of any Certificate, or otherwise, of any sum that may be due and unpaid by the University with respect to any of the Certificates. Any and all personal liability of every nature, whether at common law or in equity, or by statute or by constitution or otherwise, of any such officer, as such, to respond by reason of any act or omission on his or her part, or otherwise, for, directly or indirectly, the payment for or to the University or any receiver thereof, or for or to the owner or any holder of any Certificate, or otherwise, of any sum that may remain due and unpaid upon any Certificate, shall be deemed to be expressly waived and released as a condition of and consideration for the execution and delivery of the University Documents and the Certificates.

Section 13. No Debt or Tax Pledge. Neither the Lease Agreement nor the Certificates constitute a debt of the University or pledge of the faith and credit of the University within the meaning of the Constitution of the State of Ohio. The Rent payable under the Lease Agreement shall be payable solely from Available Revenues as provided in the Lease Agreement and the Trust Agreement, and neither moneys raised by taxation nor any other general or special revenues of the University shall be obligated or pledged for the payment of principal or interest with respect to the Certificates.

Section 14. Severability. If any section, paragraph or provision of this Resolution shall be held to be invalid or unenforceable for any reason, the invalidity or unenforceability of such section, paragraph or provision shall not affect any of the remaining provisions of this Resolution.

Section 15. Repeal of Conflicting Resolutions. All resolutions and orders, or parts thereof, in conflict with the provisions of this Resolution, if any, are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed.

Section 16. Open Meeting Determination. This Board hereby finds and determines that all formal actions relative to the adoption of this Resolution were taken in an open meeting of this Board, and that all deliberations of this Board and of its committees, if any, which resulted in formal action, were in meetings open to the public, in full compliance with applicable legal requirements, including Section 121.22 of the Ohio Revised Code.

Section 17. Effective Date. This Resolution shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its adoption.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Ladies and gentlemen, welcome today. Let me just note that October was a month of Homecoming for the University and it wasn't just a homecoming event celebrating football. Yes, without a doubt we did have a wonderful Homecoming celebration complete with a great parade and pep rally. Homecoming King Dwayne Devlin, Queen Monica Martin, and the members of the court represent the great energy and spirit of our undergraduate students. The 25th reunion of the 1968 national championship football team was both a celebration and an inspiration for things to come -- we hope! The tradition of Homecoming gives us an opportunity to recognize both current and former students and friends of the University.

As we all know, this institution is blessed with strong support from our alumni throughout the year. This month, the Alumni Association recognized thirteen individuals for their contributions to their communities, their careers, and their alma mater. I might note that among those honored was a former member of the Board of Trustees, Bob Dorsey, who continues to serve Ohio State as one of its strongest advocates. Bob is here and present on all appropriate occasions. The members of the Alumni Advisory Committee returned to campus this month to meet with faculty and students and to give their counsel on ways we can further enhance the University. I would just note parenthetically that our Alumni Council does a terrific job on our behalf.

The Ohio State University Foundation Board of Directors, a group of very distinguished supporters of this University, met to help plan for a sound future for the University. And I have myself met with a number of corporate and community leaders to spread the good news about Ohio State and to enlist their assistance in developing even stronger support for the future. A meeting of out-of-state guidance counselors provided me an outstanding forum for recruiting high-ability students from across the nation to Ohio State.

Wexner Center Artist-in-Residence Maya Lin had a homecoming of sorts this month, as she returned to her home state for the dedication of her sculpture, Groundswell, a permanent installation at the Wexner Center for the Arts. For those who have not have had an opportunity I urge you to visit or see it.

Professor Emeritus and former Associate Provost Joan Leitzel returned to Ohio State last month for the dedication of the Science and Engineering Library. It is really a remarkable new addition to our campus both in terms of the facility and the quality of what we are trying to do with our libraries. Some of the furniture has yet to arrive, but after seeing groups of students sprawled on the floor studying, I suspect that the librarians will have trouble getting them into the chairs even when they arrive!

We re-dedicated Derby Hall this month, adding to the beauty of the central core of the campus. The redesign does much to advance learning with classrooms, seminar spaces, laboratories, and much improved faculty offices for several disciplines in the social and behavioral sciences. A number of people on Vice President Janet Pichette's staff and in Vice President Bill Shkurti's area deserve particular commendation for completing this complex renovation project so successfully -- on time, on target, and certainly with the minimum amount of disruption.

Each of the occasions and projects I have mentioned are evidence of strong partnerships between the University, its alumni, and the great community that we serve. But we must be reminded that we have to always continue to build these linkages for our future.

I am particularly pleased to share two very different and very important examples of Ohio State's broad partnerships. We have been awarded $6.9 million dollars in grants from the federal Technology Reinvestment Project. Designed to help individuals and firms convert from defense contract work to commercial applications, one of our funded projects is being conducted jointly with the Edison Welding Institute and the American Welding Society. Another is a collaboration with Drexel University in Philadelphia and was developed with support from the Ohio Department of Development and the Ohio Board of Regents. These cooperative projects underscore the importance and quality of our academic programs in training engineers for Ohio and certainly for the nation.

A number of Ohio State students are engaged in a different type of cooperative effort. Yesterday, we celebrated the kick-off of the partnership between Indianola Alternative Elementary School and Ohio State's fraternity and sorority members. Through a national Adopt-A-School program, college students will volunteer their time for one-on-one tutoring, assistance with club activities, and other services to the teachers and students of this Columbus Public school located here in the neighborhood of the University. I can tell you, the teachers, the school kids, and our students are very excited about this opportunity for community service. And I would note that our own Board member Amira has been very instrumental in this and I congratulate you and I congratulate all of your colleagues. So I would note to all of you that it is vital for us to continue to reach out to our communities, our former students, and our friends as we pursue an agenda of excellence for the future.

AUTUMN QUARTER ENROLLMENT REPORT

Mr. William J. Shkurti:

The item on enrollments that we will be reporting on is in your Board books, entitled "Autumn Quarter 1993 Enrollment Summary." This is a report we annually give to the Board of Trustees at this time and we try to answer three questions: 1) What are the Autumn Quarter enrollments by campus and student level?, 2) What is the status of our minority enrollments?, and 3) What are the financial implications of these enrollments?

AUTUMN QUARTER ENROLLMENT REPORT (contd)

In addition, a subsequent report will address retention characteristics of the incoming freshmen class and how we compare with other institutions. That data will be available later and will be the subject of a separate report. Finally, before I get started, let me acknowledge Jim Mager, Director of Admissions and Student Financial Aid, and Gene Schuster, University Registrar, who have done a substantial amount of the work involved in generating the information for this report.

Let me turn first to the Autumn Quarter enrollment levels which are summarized on pages 2 and 3 of the document. The total University enrollment for fall quarter is 56,817, which is a reduction of 1,768 or 3 percent from last year. That is a reduction that was planned for in our budgeting. In fact, it was very close to our projections which I will talk about in a minute. All of our campuses experienced enrollment declines, the largest decline being at Lima and the smallest at Marion. Again, that is consistent with the statewide trend. The declines are primarily a result of reductions in undergraduate enrollments.

Our graduate enrollment on the main campus has reached a record high and has increased from last year. That is good news from our point of view and the reversal of what we hoped was not a trend that appeared to be starting last year.

The enrollment of professional students has remained stable and the distribution of resident and non-resident students has remained stable. As you can see the vast majority of our students -- 92 percent of our undergraduates, 91.5 percent of our professional students, and 62 percent of our graduate students -- are residents of the State of Ohio.

Next, I will turn to Bob Arnold who will discuss the numbers involving minority enrollment.

Dr. Robert L. Arnold:

The Autumn Quarter 1993 minority enrollment of 6,345 is the highest we have ever achieved, with an increase of 482, or 8.2 percent, over last year. The Columbus Campus minority enrollment of 6,034, also is an all time record, with an increase of 431, or 7.7 percent, over a year ago.

Minorities now represent 11.9 percent of the student population on the Columbus Campus and these increases were achieved in all minority categories. The increases can be attributed to both an increase in retention of minority students and increased activity in recruitment of those students. The chart that follows indicates those increases.

Mr. Shkurti:

Thank you, Bob. Let me turn now to financial implications -- a subject near and dear to my heart.

First of all, I should point out that the enrollments we talked about -- even though they are down -- were down the amount that was projected when we put the budget together. So they should generate the tuition and subsidy income levels very close to budgeted levels. In fact, if our projections hold through Winter and Spring Quarters, our income estimates will be within a half a million dollars of what we estimated last June, and that is within one-tenth of one percent of our income estimates. Any time you can project that closely in this kind of environment it is wonderful, and I'd rather be lucky than good in that particular area.

The second implication from this is that barring any catastrophic surprises -- such as a world-wide depression or some other horrible thing -- the budget passed by the Trustees on July 9, 1993, which was balanced based on our projections, will remain balanced through June 30, 1994. In normal times that is something we would take for granted. With what we have gone through the last three years, it is an important step forward that we won't have to be rewriting budgets, hopefully, through the rest of this year. We can now start concentrating on planning for next year.

Madam Chairman, that concludes our formal presentation and we would be glad to attempt to answer any questions the Board may have.

President Gee:

Could I make a couple of additional comments, Madam Chair? Just as a matter of policy implication -- and this is something that we have discussed on a number of occasions with the Board -- and the Board has discussed it itself. I think it is important for the wider community to hear this.

Our enrollment is directly on target where we projected it to be. Some people ask us, "Why is your enrollment down?" Again, let me remind everyone that we, as a Board and as a University, made a determination that we were going to downsize the institution somewhat from its high of over 60,000 students, to somewhere between 55,000 and 57,000 students. This is approximately where we are. That was a policy decision we made. We have done that through our managed enrollment, raising admission standards, and targeting different populations.

We were a little concerned that we had been so successful in targeting that we were going to be down more, but thanks to Jim and his group we came in right on target. I want everyone to understand that the enrollment we are at now is the enrollment we planned.

The second thing which is very encouraging -- because we are concerned about this -- are the implications for our graduate enrollment. I know that our faculty chairs over here would say that what we are trying to do is set a balance between the undergraduate and graduate programs in a variety of ways, including the balance in terms of our number of graduate vs. undergraduate students. We are very much on target there.

And the third thing is that many people raise the question that as you decrease the enrollment and raise the standards for admission to the university, what will be the impact on minority enrollment. Many people thought there would be an adverse impact. I think that we have answered that question with this process today. So we have gone through a planning project which has come out almost exactly where we said it would, based upon the criteria that we developed three years ago.

So to all of you over there and to Bill, Bob, and to Academic Affairs, I think that this is a very good story for us right now.

AUTUMN QUARTER ENROLLMENT REPORT (contd)

Ms. Casto:

Are there any other questions or comments? It was excellent. Thank you, Mr. Shkurti and Dr. Arnold.

(See Appendix XVIII for charts on Autumn Quarter Enrollment, page 461.)

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

Once again your reports for the Research Foundation should be at your places. The summaries of the grants and contracts received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the month of September can be found at Tab 1 in the report. Awards for the period July 1993 through September 1993 are down about 11 percent compared to the preceding year. However, the decrease is due almost entirely to the delayed arrival of continuation funding for a very large project supported by the Department of Labor.

At Tab 2 there is a summary of expenditures for the months of July through September for Fiscal Year 1994 and Fiscal Year 1993. Total expenditures for FY 1994 exceed FY 1993 expenditures by 7.8 percent. Of particular note is the increase of 12 percent in external support for personnel. We are pleased to see this, because it means more support for our graduate students and faculty.

Some new projects of special interest that were funded in the month of September are described at Tab 3. I thought you might be interested in knowing that Dr. Forman from the Byrd Polar Research Center received over $258,000 from the Department of the Navy to study the distribution of radioactive contaminants in parts of the Russian Arctic Ocean. This is one of the first collaborative studies to be conducted in a region that until very recently was almost inaccessible to the international community. The results of the study will permit an assessment of the hazards that radioactive pollution poses to the Arctic ecosystem.

A second project of interest is entitled Commercialization of Solid State Carbon Monoxide Gas Sensors. Dr. Akbar from the Department of Materials Science and Engineering received almost $102,000 from the Edison Materials Technology Center. He will use the funds to develop carbon monoxide monitors for commercial heat treating furnaces using technology developed at Ohio State University.

I would also like to mention to the Board that I had a chance to visit with Dr. Kos Ishii, a National Science Foundation Presidential Young Investigator and Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering. Dr. Ishii and his students are developing strategies that allow product designers to consider not only how efficient it is to manufacture a product, but also how easy it will be to service the product during its useful life and how it can finally be disposed of with minimal environmental impact. This enhanced product design concept is attracting considerable interest both in this country and abroad.

I might mention that in touring his laboratories, and as a matter of course in the discussion, he supplied me with one of the products that some students -- Thomas

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT (contd)

Mr. Celeste: (contd)

King, Patrick DiMarco, Scott Heitzenrater, and Tony Nicol -- developed in one of his classes. If any of you have broken your fingernails opening cans of Coke or blistered your hands in opening the tops of pop bottles, here -- with the good old Ohio State buckeye emblem on the top -- is a product that was designed, created, developed, and manufactured all in a week's period of time. We will see what we can do about making those available.

Tab 4 contains a list of all projects funded in September.

At Tab 5 is a copy of a news release describing the significant increases in both sponsored research awards and expenditures in FY '93, compared to previous years. Particularly noteworthy are the increases of 25 percent in funding from the National Science Foundation and almost 12 percent from the National Institutes of Health, the two leading funders of basic research. The amount of funding from these two agencies is frequently used as an indicator of the quality of an institution's research programs.

At Tab 6 are press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity, including the quarterly Cancer Report.

Madam Chair, that completes my remarks.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-50

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for September 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of September 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

Madam Chairman, we did not meet during the month of October so consequently I have no report; however, I would seek Board approval on the following resolution:

UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD APPOINTMENT

Resolution No. 94-

51

Synopsis: Approval of the appointment of a Hospitals Board member is proposed.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees on November 30, 1979, approved the establishment of a University Hospitals Board; and

WHEREAS the membership of the Hospitals Board was approved on April 4, 1980, and has been subsequently amended; and

WHEREAS Mr. Peter Frenzer has been recommended for appointment as a Hospitals Board Member:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That Peter Frenzer be appointed as a general public member of the University Hospitals Board for a term of three years, effective November 1, 1993.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

CANCER HOSPITAL REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to recommend the following resolution:

THE ARTHUR G. JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE BOARD APPOINTMENTS

Resolution No. 94-52

Synopsis: Confirmation and approval of nominees to The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board is proposed.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees on September 1, 1993 approved the establishment of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board; and

WHEREAS it has been stipulated in Bylaw 3335-1-03 (W) that the Cancer Hospital Board shall be comprised of two members of the university board and a senior physician and faculty member, two senior university administrators, and two citizens from the general public who shall be appointed by the university board of trustees in consultation with the president; and

WHEREAS the following named persons have been nominated and selected for immediate appointment to the Cancer Hospital Board:

THE ARTHUR G. JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL
AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE BOARD APPOINTMENTS (contd)

John W. Kessler, Trustee
Alex Shumate, Trustee
Henry G. Cramblett, M.D., Senior Physician and Faculty Member
Edward F. Hayes, Senior University Administrator
William J. Shkurti, Senior University Administrator
Richard J. Solove, General Public Member
Ellen Hardymon, General Public Member

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing nominees be confirmed and approved, effective immediately, as members of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board for a term ending April 30, 1994.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Francisco:

The Student Affairs Committee met yesterday and discussed financial aid, tuition, and fees with Bill Shkurti, Jim Mager, Bob Arnold, Leonard Copeland, Jim Nichols, and Gene Schuster. I would like to call on Jim Mager and Gene Schuster to give a brief report on the changes in financial aid and the University Fee Committee report.

Dr. James J. Mager:

Thank you, Mr. Francisco. The area of financial aid has been a continuing discussion at this University for the last few years. I know during the 1992-93 Fiscal Year President Gee made it a priority for the University. As the federal regulations become increasingly complex each year and for proper reasons as default rates rise, etc., it has become quite a challenge for universities to meet the demands of the students and to keep within the regulations of the federal government in the area of financial aid.

This past year, however, we went through a period of time where the regulations and the procedures for the federal government increased and the University did not keep up and the gap therefore widened. I am happy to report that that gap is narrowing. I want to also emphasize in the same breath that the gap still remains, but we are going in the right direction.

I want to say the reauthorization year is a year that has been the good news for students. For example, much more money is available to students in loans to support their higher education. We have had a 20 percent increase in student loans. It is good to support students through higher education, but it is also bad because they have to pay those loans back after school. The forms have changed dramatically. Sixty percent of the forms that we and the Ohio Student Aid Commission received were filled out incorrectly. So there was a lot of going back and forth with many of the students. Those are some of the challenges that we had this year. I am very pleased to report that our turnaround time, as reported to the Board and to others a number of times, has improved remarkably from a 9 to 13 week turnaround time to one to two week turnaround time.

An error rate of 60 percent is another major problem that we deal with. We are dealing with students with forms, form design problems, and the fact that the typical student will be under four or five types of financial aid -- scholarships, grants, loans, etc. -- and how these interact with each other. The student is also often in dynamic situations with family, jobs, etc. So we have found that in addition to people we need computers to help us out with many of these complexities and error rates. We have taken action and are now in the process of putting in a computer system. Even though our computer systems and our financial aid are setup for a quarter system, the College of Law is under a semester system. We have had a difficult time interfacing and we are now addressing this. That will be fixed in the upcoming year.

Access to the office -- very difficult -- busy signals to the office and long lines have been the norm the last few years. We have taken action by increasing office access by more than 50 percent, as far as people being able to address students' financial aid needs on a daily basis.

Unfortunately much of the progress made this past year was cancelled from many students' view points by the fact that the Ohio Student Aid Commission had difficulties with their part of the process. This has been very well publicized. The first week of school over 1,000 Ohio State University students were caught up in a backlog at the Ohio Student Aid Commission. As a result of that, a couple of things happened. First of all, the University was able to provide over $2 million in emergency short-term loans to allow students to pay their fees in a timely fashion. At the same time, the Ohio Board of Regents gave us flexibility on our fourteenth day counts that were reported here because this was truly a State of Ohio problem, not just an Ohio State University problem. As a result, some flexibilities were given. We were able to identify those students who were caught up in that backlog and to include them in our counts.

As I look at the future, we are working on computerization as a major factor. We feel very good that we will be able to make progress in that area. The Ohio Student Aid Commission -- the problems that we have had in that area -- we work on a day-to-day basis with them, as do other universities throughout the State. I believe that will be just a one-time phenomenon and we will not have that occur again with the Ohio Student Aid Commission.

This year Congress passed the phasing in of direct lending where students can take out loans directly with Ohio State University or any other institution. We were one of the first people to sign up for that and are planning to phase that in beginning as early as 1994-95. We must be chosen by the federal government to be in that first phase. We have done everything we can, including a very strong letter of support from President Gee, to try to be in that first phase.

So those are the highlights we talked about yesterday, and I am available for any questions you might have.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Francisco:

Any questions for Jim?

Mr. Brennan:

What percentage of our students are on some sort of financial aid?

Dr. Mager:

It has been running in the neighborhood of 60 to 70 percent. So typically on the Columbus Campus 30,000 to 35,000 students are on financial aid. Financial aid could be a scholarship, some type of loan, or graduate students could be on some type of graduate assistantship, but we are talking 60 to 70 percent. I wouldn't want to say that the numbers and the percentages are on the rise, because certainly from the students' point of view the cost of higher education has been out pacing their typical earning power away from higher education and that is the reason. For example, the 20 percent increase in loans that we saw this year was another indicator of that rise.

Mr. Francisco:

Any other questions for Jim?

President Gee:

I might note just as a matter of information -- I think you have all seen that U.S. News and World Report designated in one of their latest additions, the best buys in American higher education. Among national universities we were clearly one of the best buys. As we talk about tuition, fees, and the cost of education -- and having a daughter at another institution where I am now taking in washing on Saturday's and Sunday's to pay for her -- I can tell you that our students are -- despite the fact that we are very concerned about the cost -- getting a great education for what they are paying. We need to remind ourselves of that through all of this discussion.

Secondly, I would say that Jim and his folks have done a remarkable job. Our financial aid area was one of the major problems that we had on our radar screen. It was very high with students and a variety of folks as we heard commentaries, the majority of it not positive. This year the comments have just been remarkable, the down time and the opportunities for students to get access is a great compliment to you and your great staff, Jim. I want to personally and publicly thank you.

Mr. Francisco:

I would like to now call on Gene Schuster to report on the University's fees.

Mr. Gene Schuster:

Well, obviously, as an implementer of fees I have a unique position -- a position to try to be an observer of this process. You obviously play a key role in this as you are the group that has to set the fees.

Mr. Schuster: (contd)

Mr. Shkurti did an excellent job reporting the difficulty in trying to balance the income versus the expenses. He discussed the portion of the budget that comes from the State subsidy and the fact that the only other thing that comes into that income pot is fees. Then the challenge on the expense side is to try and provide quality and access for students and the diverse group of programs that the University offers. There are balance points that are struck and they have certain philosophies connected with them.

We talked about the fact that the fees really wind up being on a continuum between those mandatory fees -- like the instruction fee, general fee, and out-of-state tuition -- versus fees like the optional service fees where people pay fees for services. They make a choice about whether they need the particular services. And as new fees are discussed, they obviously fit somewhere along that continuum.

The University tries its best to make recommendations for fees so that the fees do not become hidden to students. A student who goes to Ohio State knows when they start the year what the fees for the year will be, so they can actually complete their studies with full knowledge of what the cost will be. Many other institutions set fees that are somewhere else on the continuum, perhaps a course fee or some other miscellaneous charge that isn't readily apparent to a student as they begin their studies for the year.

Mr. Francisco:

Any questions for Gene? Thank you very much, gentlemen. I appreciate it. Now we have reports from the student government leaders.

Chris Norman, President of USG, reported on the Association of Big Ten Conference that he attended. They voted on having a non-academic student activity fee. Also, some of the other Big Ten schools are putting a student on the City Council to represent the university's perspective, the campus community, and to nurture that relationship between the city and the university. He also reported that Ohio State will host the next Big Ten meeting this coming February. They also discussed the happy medium between teaching and research and are working on a change in senior exams.

Chris mentioned the riot on campus last week after the big win where students went around tearing up the campus and the attitude and behavior of the police. The big issue is that we have to make our campus safer for students and for all. We need to look at ways to make the games more safe, especially since we only have one more home game left.

Frank Chloupek, President of CGS, reported on graduate student enrollment management. We must make certain that it is possible for all students to obtain a quality education, while paying attention to the faculty and student ratio; maintaining classes at a reasonable size and at convenient times; providing financial support during the entire educational program; assisting with employment opportunities upon graduation; and meeting the State and the Columbus community requirements and needs.

Finally, I would like to acknowledge a fellow Trustee from the University of Cincinnati who is up visiting us, Bob Lyons. Thank you for coming today.

That completes my report.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

The Investments Committee heard the report on the monthly Endowment Portfolio, the yearly and quarterly portfolio for the Endowment, as well as a real estate report.

The monthly Endowment Summary Report was for the period September 17, 1993, through October 15, 1993. The market value of the Endowment Fund on October 15, 1993, was $513.3 million and this represents an all-time high. This total was approximately $10.6 million above the September 17, 1993 market value.

The market value of the equity portion of the Endowment Fund increased $10.8 million while the Fixed Income portion increased $1.2 million during this reporting period.

Since July 1, 1993, the Endowment Fund has increased $20.2 million, including net new additions of $708,000 to the fund. The current asset allocation for the Endowment is 60 percent invested in equities, 26 percent in fixed income, 7 percent in real estate, and 7 percent in cash equivalents.

The Investments Committee also heard the Quarterly Endowment Investment Report for September 30, 1993. It was reported that the Endowment Fund had a total rate of return of 3.9 percent for the three month period, and continues to out perform both the S&P 500 at 2.6 percent and the Lehman Government/Corporate Bond Index at 3.3 percent. Over the past ten years, the Endowment's market value per share has increased 97 percent while the Higher Education Price Index has increased only 58 percent. The Endowment will distribute more than $24.1 million during Fiscal Year 1994.

We also heard a report on the Endowment real estate. It was noted that the $36.3 million real estate portfolio had a total annual return of 8 percent for Fiscal Year 1993.

The report on the private support to the University for the first quarter of FY '94 compared with last year's first quarter is in your Board book, along with the other reports. Our first quarter total is down 9 percent compared to last year because last year during the first quarter we received a significant gift. However, there are some very positive signs for our private support. First of all the number of donors is up 31 percent due to increased annual fund activity and contributions from non-alumni individuals is up 66 percent. Gifts in support of student financial aid are up 100 percent. As you know, there is very active fund-raising now underway for facility projects at the Colleges of Agriculture and Business and this should result in increased giving over the next year.

I am also delighted to comment, Madam Chairman, that the relationship between the Board of Trustees and the Board of Directors of The Ohio State University Foundation is excellent. Since we have reorganized that relationship we have had excellent participation, particularly in the Investments Committee from Mr. Dan Galbreath and Mr. John G. McCoy. The Foundation Board met last Friday and I thought it would be appropriate if Vice President Jerry May gave us a brief report on that meeting.

Mr. Shumate: (contd)

Mr. May:

Thank you very much, Mr. Shumate. I am happy to report on the meeting that took place last Friday.

As you recall a little more than a year ago, this Board made The Ohio State University Foundation the primary fund-raising agency for the University. Also, at that time two members of the Foundation Board, as Mr. Shumate just mentioned, Dan Galbreath and John G. McCoy were appointed as the Foundation Board's representatives to the Investments Committee of the Board of Trustees.

I would like to report today that Mr. Galbreath and Mr. McCoy talked at the meeting last week about this responsibility and relationship. From their perspective they believe that this arrangement is working extremely well. They are delighted to serve in this capacity, they are impressed with the growth of the Endowment, and they look forward to adding significantly both in terms of advice and in terms of gift dollars in the future.

During much of the meeting of the Foundation Board we focused our discussion on campaign planning and implementation, including a discussion of a timetable for the next campaign. As you know, we are now in the active planning stage for the University's next university-wide fund-raising campaign. In the next several months we will be working closely with the Foundation Board, President Gee, Provost Sisson, and the deans to assess the needs of the University, in terms of private fund-raising, and to establish themes and objectives that will be featured in the next campaign.

Very soon we will be organizing the Foundation Board's campaign planning committee in preparation for that campaign. This committee will assist in our review and assessment of needs and goals. It will do an analysis of what we think we can raise in that campaign, and they will develop policies and programs to guide us in conducting the campaign effort. Most importantly, this group will be instrumental in helping us recruit and enlist other Foundation Board members and key volunteers across the country to help identify and solicit leadership gifts for the next campaign.

I am very impressed with the commitment that many of these Board members have for Ohio State. I know I speak for that Board when I say that they look forward to continuing to serve you and the University in the future during this decade as we mount a new campaign.

Thank you very much, Mr. Shumate.

Mr. Shumate:

Thank you, Jerry. Also, Madam Chair, I would like to recommend to the Board the establishment of 9 new named endowed funds totaling $759,544 in restricted support to the University and I am also requesting the revision of two named endowed funds.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-53

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for September 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS the funding level has been reached to establish The Deloitte & Touch Accounting Professorship; and

WHEREAS the funding has been received from the University Foundation to establish The Kenneth E. Naylor Professorship; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of seven (7) new named endowed funds, and amendments to two (2) endowed funds:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of September 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

NOTES

- A Individual giving is down 14% compared to the July-September period one year ago. This is largely due to an irrevocable trust of $2.1 million which was received in September 1992 that has yet to be matched by any single individual gift yet this year.
- B Corporation giving at the $10,000 or more level is down 12% for the first months of FY94 ($2,738,715 last year compared to $2,419,207 this year).
- C During July-September 1992, twenty-one associations or other organizations gave $10,000 or more ($380,835). This year only thirteen gave $10,000 or more ($264,990).

(Note: Of the $9,971,369 in current year gift receipts, $177,165 or 2% is the result of the payment of pledges from The Ohio State University Campaign).

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT FUND (contd)

Establishment of Named Professorship

The Deloitte and Touche Accounting Professorship

The Deloitte Haskins & Sells Accounting Professorship Fund was established December 4, 1987 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the partners of Deloitte Haskins & Sells and the Deloitte Haskins & Sells Foundation. The name of the fund was revised February 1, 1991, to The Deloitte and Touche Accounting Professorship Fund. The funding level has been reached and the Professorship was established November 5, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide a professorship in accounting in the College of Business. Appointment to The Deloitte and Touche Accounting Professorship will be recommended by the Dean of the College of Business to the Provost and approved by the Board of Trustees.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income, with the approval of the chairman of Deloitte & Touche, may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of the University who is then directly responsible for business education.

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

The Steve Goldberg Memorial Fund

The Steve Goldberg Memorial Fund was established November 5, 1993 with gifts in memory of Steven A. Goldberg (D.D.S. '79) from his wife, Sheryl, and his parents Dr. and Mrs. Morris W. Goldberg (B.A. in BioSci '49; D.D.S. '52).

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support research, publication costs, equipment, travel and other scholarly activities that assist students in fulfillment of the Master of Science degree in endodontics and enhance the educational objectives of the program. Expenditure of income shall be determined by the chairperson of the endodontics section.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

Establishment of Named Professorship

The Kenneth E. Naylor Professorship

The Kenneth E. Naylor Professorship was established November 5, 1993, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the last will and testament of Dr. Kenneth E. Naylor, the terms and conditions of this agreement, and the guidelines approved by the Board of Directors of The Ohio State University Foundation. Gifts are designated for support of the study of South Slavic culture in the College of Humanities from the estate of Kenneth E. Naylor.

All gifts are to be invested by the Foundation under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Directors of the Foundation with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates. Appointment to the professorship shall be made by the Dean of the College of Humanities to the Provost and approved by the Board of Trustees.

The annual income of the fund shall be returned to principal until a permanent professor has been appointed. At that time the annual income shall be distributed to the College of Humanities to be used to support the work of a distinguished teacher, researcher, and scholar in South Slavic studies in accordance with the following provisions:

(1) Preference shall be given to the creation of a professorship in the field of South Slavic linguistics in the Department of Slavic and East European Languages and Literatures, where Dr. Naylor had a distinguished career for many years as a scholar, teacher, and researcher. The incumbent will hold an adjunct appointment in the Center for Slavic and East European Studies at the University where Dr. Naylor once served as Director.

(2) In the event the University should decide that it does not have the need for a senior scholar in South Slavic linguistics or if it is unable to appoint a suitable scholar in South Slavic linguistics by October 1, 1995, for the initial appointment, the University shall create a Naylor Professorship of South Slavic History in the Department of History. This is in recognition of the fact that Dr. Naylor's broad interests went well beyond the confines of a single department and included all facets of South Slavic linguistics, history, and culture. The incumbent will hold an adjunct appointment in the Center for Slavic and East European Studies.

(3) Whenever a vacancy in the Naylor Professorship occurs, including the initial appointment vacancy, the Dean of the College of Humanities shall appoint a successor in either the field of South Slavic linguistics in the Department of Slavic and East European Languages and Literatures or the field of South Slavic history in the Department of History. This appointment shall be made upon the recommendation of the chairperson of the Department of History, the chairperson of the Department of Slavic and East European Languages and Literatures, and the Director of the Slavic and East European Studies Center. Preference in making the appointment shall always be given to a senior scholar of South Slavic linguistics provided there is a continuing need for instruction in this field at the University. In the event an appointment cannot be made in an appropriate period of time, the Dean of the College of Humanities shall appoint a senior scholar in South Slavic History.

(4) If the University should decide that it no longer wishes to offer instruction in South Slavic linguistics or history, then the money shall be used to create a fund in the Slavic and East European Studies Center to support scholarly research in the field of South Slavic linguistics, history, literature, or culture. Distribution of the income from the fund to support such research shall be made by the Director of the Center upon the recommendation of appropriate faculty members of the University. Preference will be given to the support of doctoral dissertation research in the fields of South Slavic linguistics, history, literature, and culture at The Ohio State University.

(5) It is the desire of the donor that this professorship and the fund which supports it should benefit the University in perpetuity. The professorship, the fund, and the income from the fund must always be identified with the memory of Kenneth E. Naylor, whose distinguished career brought lustre to The Ohio State University.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

Madam Chairman, the Educational Affairs Committee met this morning and discussed the proposed review of the faculty reward structure and an update on budget constraints and academic investments. I would also like to present the following resolutions:

NEW DEGREE PROGRAM

Resolution No. 94-54

Synopsis: Establishment of a Ph.D. degree in Natural Resources program is proposed.

WHEREAS the School of Natural Resources in the College of Agriculture has proposed a new Ph.D. program in Natural Resources which is consistent with and a necessary component of the School's mission to enhance and impart knowledge of natural and social systems and their essential relationships in the context of natural resource management; and

WHEREAS many faculty of the School of Natural Resources already serve as major advisers to Ph.D. students through their Category III appointments in other Ohio State academic units and programs and these faculty feel that there should be a Ph.D. specifically in the School of Natural Resources in order to fill the mission of the School; and

WHEREAS there is an increased demand for people with expertise in the field of Natural Resources who will also be needed to train the next generation of natural resource educators; and

WHEREAS the Ph.D. program in Natural Resources will be the first and only one in the State of Ohio; and

WHEREAS the Ph.D. program in Natural Resources has the approval of the faculty of the School and the Council on Research and Graduate Studies and was approved by the University Senate at its October 9, 1993 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the proposal to establish the Ph.D. degree program in Natural Resources is hereby approved, effective Autumn Quarter 1994.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-

57

Synopsis: Approval of seven Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

James Dean Harless

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 3, 1993, of James D. Harless, Associate Professor in the School of Journalism.

Professor Harless was born on October 3, 1931, in Birmingham, Alabama. He earned his B.A. in English from Samford University in 1957, his M.A. in Journalism from the University of Alabama in 1958, and his Ph.D. in Communications from the University of Iowa in 1967. He joined the faculty of the School of Journalism in 1969.

James Harless was the author of Mass Communication: An Introductory Survey, a book which introduced college students to the field of mass communication at universities throughout the country. It was in its second edition at the time of his death. Professor Harless regularly taught broadcast journalism courses and was working on reconceptualizing the concept of journalistic objectivity. His project, "The Celluloid Journalist," included an exploration of the image of journalism and journalists in motion picture dramas.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his wife, children, as well as friends. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed in the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Arden K. Hegtvedt, D.D.S.

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 15, 1993, of Arden K. Hegtvedt, Assistant Professor in the College of Dentistry (Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery).

Dr. Hegtvedt was born on December 27, 1958, in Rochester, Minnesota. He received his undergraduate education at St. Olaf College and a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree in 1985 at the University of Minnesota Dental School. Dr. Hegtvedt went on to obtain his specialty training in oral and maxillofacial surgery at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he also received a Master of Science degree in 1990.

Arden Hegtvedt joined the faculty of The Ohio Sate University in 1990, as an Assistant Professor of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery. He was an outstanding teacher whose enthusiasm for teaching was infectious. Dental students, residents in oral and maxillofacial surgery as well as in other specialty areas, and faculty alike were drawn to Dr. Hegtvedt because of this enthusiasm. Not only was he an accomplished clinician in the usual spectrum of oral and maxillofacial surgery but also was an accomplished clinician in the area of cosmetic facial surgery and microneurosurgery of the trigeminal nerve.

Professor Hegtvedt was a rising star in the specialty of oral and maxillofacial surgery. At the most recent meeting of the American Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons, which occurred one week after his death, four dental students who were his advisees presented papers, one oral and maxillofacial surgery resident presented a paper for which she was awarded a $1,500 prize, and two faculty presented papers upon which Dr. Hegtvedt was a coauthor.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Hegtvedt its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Norman F. Phelps

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on February 16, 1993, of Norman F. Phelps, Professor in the School of Music.

Professor Phelps was born on April 27, 1911, in Beaver Dam, Wisconsin. He attended the University of Wisconsin from which he received his B.M. and M.A. degrees in 1935 and earned his Ph.D. degree in music composition from the State University of Iowa in 1948.

Professor Phelps began his teaching career in 1936 at the Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music, an affiliate of Butler University. There, from 1936 to 1949, he served as chairman of the music theory and literature department and as head of the graduate division. From 1936 to 1939, he was also a member of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Upon his appointment as Professor at The Ohio State University in 1949, Norman Phelps quickly demonstrated his academic leadership in the School of Music. In addition to serving as the principal teacher of music composition, he was chairperson of the division of music theory and history from 1949 to 1966. From 1966 until his retirement in 1977, he served with distinction as the first chairman of graduate studies in music. Under his capable guidance, the degrees Ph.D. in Music and Doctor of Musical Arts were added to the offerings of the School of Music.

Professor Phelps was highly respected for his achievements as teacher, composer, and theorist. Among numerous chamber and orchestral works, his Symphony in E is notable. It was premiered in February 1947 by the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, Fabien Sevitsky conductor. Notable among his writings were articles in the Journal of Music Theory and the entry, "Music theorists" in the Harvard Dictionary of Music. His seminars in the history of music theory inspired many students to undertake research in that field.

Professor Phelps was active in professional organizations. His activities in the Music Teachers National Association and the Ohio Music Educators Association led him to found and become first president of the Ohio Theory-Composition Teachers Association. Norman Phelps is remembered as a gentle man whose leadership not only shaped the musical life of the School of Music but also fostered the fields of theory and composition throughout the State of Ohio.

Norman F. Phelps (contd)

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Phelps its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Susan L. Porter

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 3, 1993, of Susan L. Porter, Professor in the School of Music (Lima Campus).

Professor Porter was born August 20, 1941, in Okmulgee, Oklahoma. She earned her Bachelor of Music degree cum laude at Southwestern College in Kansas in 1964, a Master of Arts in Music History at The University of Denver in 1972, and a Ph.D. in Musicology at The University of Colorado in 1977.

Dr. Porter held a visiting lectureship at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater in 1975-76, and in 1977 she came to The Ohio State University, Lima Campus as an Assistant Professor. She was promoted to Associate Professor in 1983; in 1984 she was a visiting lecturer at The University of Keele, Staffordshire, England; and in 1992 she was promoted to Professor at The Ohio State University, the first woman to attain this rank at the Lima Campus.

The author of With an Air Debonair: Musical Theatre in America, 1785-1815 (Smithsonian Institution Press, 1991), and many articles and papers on American music, Dr. Porter also edited and wrote the introduction to the first volume in the series Nineteenth-Century American Theatre Music (Garland, 1993). She received many fellowships and grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities, the American Music Research Center, the American Antiquarian Society, and The Ohio State University.

Susan Porter served on the Board of Trustees of the Sonneck Society for American Music, and from 1987 to 1993 edited The Sonneck Society Bulletin. She was a member of the Board of Directors of the Friends of Music of Northwest Ohio (1990-93), Vice Chairman of the Lima Area Arts Council (1983-84), and President of the Lima Faculty Assembly (1981-83).

Dr. Porter was a founder and the principal organizer of the Annual Great Black Swamp Dulcimer Festival, one of the largest in the country, from 1979 to 1991. She also organized the Great Black Swamp Folk Music Tours of England, Scotland, Wales, and Ireland in 1987 and 1990. She produced musicals for the Lima Campus in 1986 and 1987, wrote "Images of Women in American Folk and Popular Songs" and performed it with Beverly Bletstein throughout the Lima area from 1986 to 1990, directed the campus Renaissance Christmas Festival and Die Liedertafel (early music group) between 1977 and 1981, and appeared as a folk singer and dulcimetist at various festivals and conferences from 1982 to 1991.

Professor Porter, was inducted into the Ohio Women's Hall of Fame as an Arts and Letters member in 1992, and was a nationally recognized authority on late 18th and early 19th century American musical theatre, music education, folk music, and the history of music in Ohio. She will be remembered for her delight in her field and her warm concern for her students and colleagues, qualities that made her an outstanding teacher, mentor, scholar, and friend.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Porter its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Carroll L. Shartle

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 4, 1993, of Carroll L. Shartle, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Psychology.

Professor "Cal" Shartle was born June 26, 1903, in Ruthven, Iowa. He completed his B.A. in Psychology in 1927 at Iowa State Teachers College (now University of Northern Iowa). After working in Milwaukee as an "intern" industrial psychologist and studying for the M.A. at Columbia University during summers (awarded in 1932), he attended the convention of the American Psychological Association in Columbus, which reinforced his desire to attend The Ohio State University. He received his Ph.D. in 1933 for a dissertation studying factors differentiating successful from unsuccessful supervisors at Ohio Bell. After working for the government in various capacities, he returned to Ohio State.

Dr. Shartle was a charter member of the American Association of Applied Psychologists, a Fellow of the American Psychological Association, President of Division 14 (Industrial & Business Psychology) during 1949-1950, and served as the first Treasurer of the American Psychological Association (1948-1957) following its reorganization. In this capacity he was largely responsible for the capital development project that funded the first headquarters building of the association. He wanted to be remembered as a "fisherman and a psychologist."

Professor Shartle's research interests ranged from the analysis-classification of jobs and occupations to the study of leadership. His many publications included his dissertation, completed under the direction of Professor Harold E. Burt, numerous subsequent articles, and several textbooks. His most important early accomplishment was work done as Director of the Occupational Analysis Section of the United States Employment Service in the Department of Labor. He worked there during the 1930's after completing graduate school. He directed preparation of the first Dictionary of Occupational Titles (1939) and helped edit a book on occupational counseling techniques (Stead & Shartle, 1940). This government work led naturally to service during W.W. II. "Cal" served the War Manpower Commission as Director of the Division of Occupational Analyses and Manning Tables. Also, he was a member of the two-person President's Committee on Occupational Deferments, which evaluated requests from various government agencies for deferment from military service.

Near the end of the war he returned to Ohio State as Professor of Psychology and Chairman of the Personnel Research Board, an internal research institute that capitalized on his government contacts (which were strengthened by his continued government service). This led to his second major area of accomplishment, the initiation and overall direction of the Ohio State Leadership Studies. This program of research took an interdisciplinary approach (fostered largely by Shartle), emphasized leader behavior rather than traits, and produced a highly-regarded assessment instrument, the Leader Behavior Description Questionnaire (LBDQ-XII). This change in focus toward leader behavior was a major reorientation at the time that was recognized later as equivalent to a paradigm shift. The names of others may appear on research publications, but Shartle's integrative framework subsumed the specific studies. During this period his commitment to graduate education was reflected in his Ph.D. students and his willingness to sponsor research. He retired as Professor Emeritus in 1968, but continued to serve as Associate Dean (Research) of the College of Business into the 1970's. He continued to serve the Department of Defense, NATO, and other government agencies on an ad hoc basis.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. Shartle its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and his many friends, students, and associates have sustained.

Charles C. Vedder

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 24, 1993, of Charles C. Vedder, Associate Professor Emeritus in the School of Music.

Professor Vedder was born on November 11, 1908, in Troy, New York. After studying the piano at the Emma Willard Conservatory of Music in Troy, he began a ten-year professional career in radio and theater orchestras. He was instructor of piano at the State Teachers College, Potsdam, New York, from 1939 to 1942.

During World War II he served as a navigation instructor in the United States Army Air Force. He received his B.S. degree in music education from the State Teachers College, Potsdam, in 1946, and in 1947 joined the faculty of The Ohio State University as Assistant Professor of music theory. In 1951, Professor Vedder received his M.A. degree in music theory from The Ohio State University, and in 1954 attained the rank of Associate Professor, a position he held until his retirement in 1976.

Professor Vedder was active in the musical life of the School of Music. He was a member of Pi Kappa Lambda Music Honorary Fraternity and a charter member of the Ohio Theory-Composition Teachers Association. He is remembered as an able, dedicated, and enthusiastic teacher. His meticulously organized teaching materials significantly influenced the content of the theory courses in the undergraduate programs of the School of Music.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Vedder its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family has sustained.

Charles Ray Williams

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 23, 1993, of Charles Ray Williams, Professor in the College of Education.

Professor Williams was born on August 31, 1934, in Berkeley, California. He received his B.A. degree in elementary education, music, and social science from California State University at Sacramento in 1957, his M.A. in educational administration and early childhood education from California State University at Sacramento in 1966, and his Ed.D. degree in curriculum and instruction, early childhood education, and sociology of education from the University of California at Los Angeles.

He spent the following 13 years as an elementary teacher, principal, supervisor, and superintendent at schools in Placerville and Los Angeles, California. From 1970 to 1972, he was assistant professor of education and assistant chairman of the Department of Curriculum and Instruction at the University of Texas at Austin. From 1972 to 1975 he served as the first executive director of the Child Development Associate Consortium in Washington, D.C.

Professor Williams came to The Ohio State University in 1975, where he remained in the early and middle childhood education program until his death. He also served as chairperson of the Department of Educational Theory and Practice from 1982 to 1987.

Dr. Williams was closely involved with the Whitehall City Schools' innovative education program, working with undergraduate student teachers and coordinating the post-degree program between The Ohio State University College of Education and Whitehall schools. The C. Ray Williams Early Childhood Education Center located at 625 South Yearling Road, was named in his honor.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING

Mr. Skestos:

Madam Chairman, I would like to call on Ms. Pichette to present three resolutions:

Ms. Pichette:

This first item is our quarterly report on the Waivers of Competitive Bidding granted from July through September 1993. During that period there were 63 waivers granted for annual purchases totally $13.7 million. The greatest total amounts just over $11 million were for the services and equipment for our Hospitals, including one waiver of $7.5 million for blood products. The breakdown is shown on the exhibit included in your materials, we seek your acceptance of this report, and I would be happy to answer any questions that you may have.

WAIVERS OF COMPETITIVE BIDDING REQUIREMENTS
JULY - SEPTEMBER 1993

Resolution No. 94-58

Synopsis: Acceptance of the quarterly report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements is recommended.

WHEREAS the Purchasing Policy of The Ohio State University, adopted by the Board of Trustees on September 7, 1984, and revised on February 7, 1992, provides that the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration may grant a waiver from competitive bidding in the event of an emergency, when a sufficient economic reason exists, or when the goods or services can be purchased from only a single source, with a report on such waivers to be made quarterly to this Board; and

WHEREAS the Vice President for Business and Administration has submitted a report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements granted for the period of July - September 1993; and

WHEREAS during the period covered, the Vice President for Business and Administration, at the requests of the departments making the purchases and upon the recommendation of the Purchasing Department, granted 63 waivers of competitive bidding requirements for annual purchases totaling approximately $13,616,300.00, as shown on the enclosed exhibit:

NOW THEREFORE

WAIVERS OF COMPETITIVE BIDDING REQUIREMENTS
JULY - SEPTEMBER 1993 (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That the report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements for the period of July - September 1993 is hereby accepted.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

EMPLOYMENT OF ARCHITECTS/ENGINEERS

Resolution No. 94-59

NEIL HALL RENOVATION

Synopsis: Authorization to employ architects/engineers for the listed project is recommended.

WHEREAS major renovation work is needed for Neil Hall and the University desires to proceed with the employment of a design firm to perform a building condition audit, prioritize needed renovations, provide detailed estimates of cost, and develop design for the renovation work; and

WHEREAS the renovations being considered are roof repairs, masonry repairs, installation of an elevator to meet ADA requirements, HVAC modifications, upgrade of the electrical system, installation of public restrooms on each floor, painting, and carpeting; and

WHEREAS the total estimated design cost is $50,000, with funding provided by University funds:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to select qualified architectural/engineering firms as necessary for this project and that the fees for these services be negotiated between the firms selected and The Ohio State University.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Ms. Pichette:

Next, Mr. Chairman, is an authorization to move forward to construct additional parking lots on West Campus. This project will be funded by our Traffic and Parking Division and the exact number of spaces added will depend on the bids we receive. This project is part of our planning to replace spaces that will be lost as the College of Business project gets underway. We ask for your approval to request bids and award contracts for this project.

EMPLOYMENT OF ARCHITECTS/ENGINEERS AND REQUEST FOR CONSTRUCTION BIDS

Resolution No. 94-60

WEST CAMPUS PARKING LOTS

Synopsis: Authorization to employ architects/engineers and request construction bids for the listed project is recommended

WHEREAS the University desires to proceed with the construction of additional parking spaces on the West Campus to replace parking lost on the main campus; and

WHEREAS this project will design 2,000 parking spaces and construct 1,000 parking spaces, with construction of an additional 1,000 as an add alternate to the project; and

WHEREAS the total estimated project cost for 2,000 spaces is $2,360,000, and the total estimated construction cost is $2,000,000, with funding provided by Traffic and Parking:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to select qualified architectural/engineering firms as necessary for this project and that the fees for these services be negotiated between the firms selected and The Ohio State University.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, The President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request construction bids on this project in accordance with established University procedures, and if satisfactory bids are received, to award contracts, with all actions to be reported to this Board at the appropriate time.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

AUDIT REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

Ms. Pichette will now ask Janet Achterman to give us a brief review of yesterday's meeting with Coopers & Lybrand on the Audit.

Ms. Pichette:

Mr. Chairman, as you know the University has a five-year contract with Coopers & Lybrand for annual audits of the University. Coopers & Lybrand have completed the Audit for 1992-93 and we are submitting that for your acceptance. There was a detailed collaborative presentation to the Fiscal Affairs Committee yesterday afternoon by Internal Audit, the Controller, and Coopers & Lybrand.

I would like to ask Mark Hilligoss, Director of Internal Audit, to introduce our external auditors and the summary of the presentation. Afterwards, Janet Achterman will give a brief overview of the University's financial condition. On behalf of Bill Shkurti and myself, I want to acknowledge the fine work that both Internal Audit, directed by Mark Hilligoss, and the Controller's Office, led by Janet

AUDIT REPORT (contd)

Ms. Pichette: (contd)

Achterman, do in coordinating this annual audit effort, getting it done in record time. And even though they report to two different vice presidents, they actually do get along quite well. Thank you.

Mr. Mark Hilligoss:

Yesterday, we recognized the efforts of a whole host of auditors and accountants but today I will just introduce two -- Janet Achterman, the Controller, and Dave Gaston, partner with our primary audit firm Coopers & Lybrand.

You should have three documents in your agenda materials: a blue report on financial statements; a gray report about the comprehensive overview of the financial statements and some key ratios that Janet Achterman will discuss with us in a moment; and a red report, which is Coopers & Lybrand's Management Letter for Fiscal 1993.

I would like to say that through the coordinated efforts we have had an unqualified clean opinion from Coopers & Lybrand for this year. That was issued on September 15 of this year, which is three days earlier than the prior year. I would also like to say that in addition to our normal unplanned and planned audits of the University, our role with the external audit process includes: the overall coordination with the University's external auditors and the State Auditor's Office; audit support with respect to attorney confirmations; NCAA financial and compliance audit; inventory observations; and the sharing of internal audit work with the external auditors to avoid duplication and to provide a greater level of comfort regarding the scope of their audit.

Just a brief word about some of the other key players on the audit engagement. Coopers & Lybrand is the primary auditor and are primarily responsible for the University's financial statement audit -- the Hospitals and the Research Foundation, to name the larger portions. Parmes and Company, a minority subcontractor, performs the work of Residence Halls and the Student Financial Programs; and Manoranjan & Jayanthan, our other minority subcontractor, perform the work of the WOSU Stations.

With that, I would like to present Janet Achterman.

Ms. Janet Achterman:

Thank you, Mark. As Mark referred to there is a gray document in front of you entitled, "Overview of Financial Condition and Results of Operation for the Fiscal Year 1992-1993." This was reviewed in great detail with the Fiscal Affairs Committee yesterday afternoon, and in the interest of time today I would like to direct you to the slides that are being shown. I pulled out just a few of the highlights of the financial presentation from yesterday.

Basically we reviewed our financial accounting and reporting environment and how it was the same and/or different from the private sector. We also looked at some historical trends and ratios to determine what was the University's financial performance, what is the University's financial condition, and how does the financial community view us. In doing that we looked at several financial ratios over a ten-year period of time.

Ms. Achterman: (contd)

Here we take a look at select revenue trends [slide presentation]. This represents revenue items as a percent of total revenue that comes in for educational and general purposes. As you can see a rather interesting trend -- although probably not surprising -- is that as our State appropriations have become a lesser and lesser portion of our educational and general revenues. Tuition fees have had to be increased to compensate for that. Our best relationship was in 1987, where State appropriations were at 44 percent of total revenues for E&G and tuition fees were at 19.8 percent. At that time, it was the University's goal to maintain around a 20 percent relationship for student tuition and fees, but as you can see because of State appropriations that was not possible.

This graph mirrors some of the comments that Jim Mager made this morning. This represents scholarships and other fee payments for our students as a percentage of tuition, room, and board. While tuition, room, and board have increased at an average rate of 6.1 percent over the past 10 years, financial assistance to students in the form of scholarships, fellowships, and fee authorizations have increased at an average of 9.5 percent. Currently the financial assistance to students covers nearly 37 percent of their tuition, room, and board. So we feel that is very positive.

One of the other interesting highlights is how we are doing on maintaining our physical plant. The red line at the top shows our investment in buildings, land, and improvements over the past ten years. In 1983 that topped a billion dollars. That barely perceptible yellow line at the bottom is what we are actually spending for plant operation and maintenance during that same period. In fact, in fiscal 1993 actual plant operation and maintenance expenditures decreased by $7 million. What this represents in real dollars, not inflation adjusted dollars, is that in fiscal 1984 we spent 6.6 cents to operate and maintain each one dollar of buildings and grounds. In Fiscal '93 we are only spending only 4.1 cents to operate and maintain each one dollar of buildings and grounds. This is an alarming trend that is sweeping the country, and one I believe the Board needs to be aware of.

Mr. Shumate:

Do you think that 6.6 figure was adequate or should it even be higher than that?

Ms. Achterman:

It is hard for me to say Mr. Shumate, I was not on campus in 1984. I was on campus by 1985-86 and I know at that point in time that there were concerns then about the physical conditions of our facilities. And I think those concerns continue to increase.

Ms. Casto:

I think at some point in time we are going to have to set aside some revenues and have a plan so that our buildings and grounds don't totally deteriorate. I know that Yale has run into some major problems and now they are spending their endowment monies.

AUDIT REPORT (contd)

Ms. Achterman:

That is a trend that is going on in both the private and the public sector institutions.

Mr. Kessler:

What do you think the proper ratio or the number should be?

Ms. Achterman:

That is a number that we have not calculated yet, Mr. Kessler. We have taken a look at the information for all of the Big Ten and the Big Ten average -- unfortunately we are the lowest in the Big Ten in terms of our maintenance expenditures for our facilities. But in talking with all of my Big Ten colleagues, I can say to you that they are not comfortable with their facilities either.

Ms. Pichette:

We don't exactly use the 6 cents and 4 cents number, we do look at the dollars we spend per square foot and we spend half of what some benchmark data from NACUBO was. The average university that we pulled out, trying to get comparable to our size, was spending maybe $4.00 per square foot in maintenance and we were at $2.16 per square foot. So we use square foot totals. This is just another way of slicing it. We could maybe try to get benchmark data based on this, but on the square foot basis we are definitely very far below the average.

Mr. Kessler:

But I think that depends on how they are built, how they are constructed, whether it is brick -- I don't know that there is a magic number. So if you say we are short, I don't know what you think it should be.

Mr. Shumate:

The point of my question was that we have heard consistently that we should be doing better and I think the Board is very supportive of attempting to improve in this area. But we need a recommendation for a range or target goal for us to shoot for.

Ms. Achterman:

I think that is a good recommendation and working with Vice Presidents Shkurti and Pichette, we can do that.

Ms. Pichette:

We do have a recommendation of how much we should be spending on deferred maintenance and it was in the Capital Budget that was brought forth in June. We did try to use universities that were similar to us that is why we use square footage -- they are also research universities -- but many people are struggling with this. On an annual basis for deferred maintenance we would like to have probably $10 to $20 million a year more just on deferred maintenance to start breaking even.

AUDIT REPORT (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

But that number doesn't mean anything to me.

Ms. Casto:

Maybe what we need is a plan.

Mr. Shkurti:

Madam Chairman, why don't we put together some comparable data both on Ohio State historically, on peer institutions, and give you some recommendations. It is not fair to ask the Controller alone to set that ratio, it is really a University-wide decision. But we will come back to you with some comparable information and a plan on how we plan to get from A to B. We actually started the process -- Janet Pichette indicated with the Capital Budget in June we are trying to get more money into renovation, but I think there are some other things we need to do. We will be glad to come back to you with that information.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you.

Ms. Achterman:

One of the other bits of information we looked at yesterday is where we stand in terms of our current funds equity. Our current funds equity totals $112 million, but that is just 5.1 percent of all of our funds equity. As you can see from the chart, the majority of our current funds equity is in the educational and general fund group as opposed to auxiliaries and Hospitals. However, within educational and general you can see that 72 percent of our equity is restricted. This means that there are specific restrictions by external donors and others on how the money can actually be spent.

Taking a look now at educational and general equity trends over the past 10 years, you see some rather interesting trends on our unrestricted -- that is the red line on top. In the mid-'80's we had a definite buildup of equity from 1984 through 1987. In 1988 and 1989 we had a deliberate attempt to spend down those equity balances. In 1988 the large drop was because of our early retirement incentive program at the time, and in 1988 - 1989 combined was early retirement as well as some additions in the capital funds. In 1990 - 1991 we enacted some expenditure controls and got the balances back up to a reasonable level. In 1992 you see the unrestricted balances actually going into a deficit situation. That was again a temporary and planned deficit for the early retirement incentive program that ended in fiscal 1992. You can see then that fiscal 1993 went back up to a more reasonable level.

The yellow line is the restricted equity categories and you can see the upward trend from 1984 through 1990 mirrored our capital campaign. A slight downward trend in 1991 and 1992 because some of the balances were spent, and then an upward trend again in 1993. This again was primarily due to an increase in private gifts, grants, and contracts for that fiscal year.

Ms. Achterman: (contd)

One of the key questions that was asked yesterday was, "Did the University live within its means?" This is a trend from 1984 through 1993 that shows you that in some cases we did and in some cases we didn't. It shows what percentage of current funds revenue remains after all current funds expenditures and mandatory transfers are taken out. A positive ratio indicates a surplus for the year and a negative ratio indicates a deficit for the year. You can see again in 1988 that we had to dig into balances in order to operate for that fiscal year and that was because of the early retirement incentive program. Again, in 1992 we came close to the zero contribution margin because of the early retirement program. In 1993 we were back up at 5.9 percent for total current operations and that increase was primarily due to the Hospitals that had a net current operating margin of 12.1 percent.

In conclusion, we believe that the University's financial performance did improve over the last year. The most significant improvement was in the current educational and general funds equity, again due to not having an early retirement program this year. The most encouraging trends are the increase in student financial support and services, the increase in research dollars, the health of our endowment funds, and a decrease in institutional support costs. The most significant causes for concern are obviously the decline in State support, our increased dependence on tuition and fees to cover costs, the decrease in public service, and our deferred maintenance issue.

Overall, the University continues to live within its means, the University is financially sound, and most financial trends are positive. However, additional budget reductions may be necessary in future years to insure this sound fiscal status continues.

Mr. Chairman, that concludes my report. I will be happy to answer any questions that you might have.

Mr. Skestos:

Any questions?

Mr. Hilligoss:

I would like now to have Dave Gaston present some key parts of the management letter.

Mr. Dave Gaston:

Thank you, Mr. Hilligoss. Certainly as your outside independent auditors our role is fairly clear-cut. Basically, we are giving you assurance on the financial statements that are the basis for Janet's comments and remarks as to the financial position and the results of operations for the University for the year.

Yesterday, we covered fairly in-depth the organization of the audit, a group of communications which I will paraphrase for you this morning, a series of recommendations to the Trustees that emerged from our work, some of the other reports that we do issue on the campus at large, a few of the emerging issues that we see affecting the University in the very near future -- certainly from the accounting and tax side, and then spent a good bit of time with the Committee on questions and discussion.

There are about a dozen items that as auditors we are required to communicate to a fiscal affairs or an audit committee. And typically those items would be somewhat of an early warning or an advance knowledge of any disputes or difficulties that we encountered in the audit process. I would say again this morning, as I did yesterday, that those things did not arise. There were not significant fluctuations or unusual events, there was not a lack of cooperation by any means, and there were no disputes with the University. So those are, if you will, comforts that we can provide that things did operate in a normal manner.

In addition, we provided about four recommendations to the Fiscal Affairs Committee out of any number of recommendations that we all make in the course of the audit. Primarily those recommendations speak to the information technology or computer environment if you will. It is a subject that you all have heard about before. We have commented again on the speed or the developments that have occurred in the past year, and continue to press this issue for improvement for the University community.

Secondly, we brought up a new topic which is the handling of Accounts Receivable campus-wide, and we have made a number of comments and remarks about how that process might be improved. Although it is a small percentage of the University's assets, it does amount to some $18 million worth of amounts that are receivable from our various publics on the outside.

We also reiterated two recommendations: 1) having to do with the compensated absence accounting within the University's records; and 2) a summary or a summing up if you will of the litigation posture of the University, which I think the Fiscal Affairs Committee took to heart. And, perhaps, a need to report that on a current basis, periodically, through the year to you folks as Trustees.

Again, all of these items are in more detail in the red booklet that we pointed out earlier and there is a response. The University has certainly given a response to each and everyone of our recommendations, and we would all hope to see progress in this area during the year.

Just as a reminder, there are a number of other reports -- not just the University's audit report -- that we jointly work with you on. This involves reports to the University Hospitals Board; the Research Foundation receives a separate audit report; and Residence and Dining Halls and WOSU Stations receive reports primarily done by the minority firms that we do work with. In addition, there are some overall government compliance reporting that we do assist you with and those reports would probably stack a little higher than we are here at the table, but they go on throughout the year. It is just not a one-time a year event.

There are a couple of emerging issues, none of which come as a surprise to the Controller's Office or to the financial area of the University. But just as a reminder this coming year, for the first time the State of Ohio will roll-up all of its interested entities, including the college and university systems into a grand financial statement for the State. We have all practiced that process through the year and that was one of the reasons for such an early release of the University's financial information. One effect here at the University would be to consolidate, if you will, the Foundation's information in with the University's. It doesn't change the fact that the Foundation is still a separate legal and reporting entity and goes its own way. But more than likely this time next year it will be included in the University's financial statements. This is all inconsistent with the Governmental College and University Accounting Model that Ohio State has elected to follow. This is another one of the government accounting bulletins that we have listed, numbered fourteen and fifteen.

BUDGET UPDATE (contd)

Finally, as we have mentioned before, the University is not immune from the Internal Revenue Service's interest, along with Ms. Achterman's active interest in this area. The Budget Reconciliation Act or the Tax Act of this year imposes new restrictions, limitations, and information reporting in areas such as contributions and unrelated business income.

So in a nutshell this is what we reported to the Committee. As I mentioned earlier there were extensive questions and answers as we went through the afternoon.

Mr. Skestos:

Thank you, Dave. Any further questions? Thank you all for your presentations.

ACCEPTANCE OF THE REPORT OF AUDIT
RECOMMENDATIONS AND RESPONSES FOR 1992-93

Resolution No. 94-61

Synopsis: The report of the audit recommendations and responses for The Ohio State University for 1992-93 conducted by Coopers & Lybrand is recommended for acceptance.

WHEREAS in April 1991, with the approval of the Auditor of State, The Ohio State University entered into a five-year agreement with Coopers & Lybrand for an annual audit of the University for fiscal years 1990-91 through 1994-95; and

WHEREAS the Coopers & Lybrand audit of the University for 1992-93, meeting the requirements of the Auditor of State, has been received and the accounts, records, files, and reports of the University have been found to be in satisfactory condition, but certain recommendations have been included in the audit report; and

WHEREAS the auditors' recommendations have been studied by the appropriate University offices, and procedures and responses have been developed as a result of the recommendations:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the report of the Coopers & Lybrand audit for The Ohio State University for 1992-93 (including the report on the audit of the University's financial statements; the report on the internal control structure; and the summary of recommendations to management) and the management responses to the recommendations be accepted.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

November 5, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Shkurti:

Mr. Chairman, the State Auditor requires us to report annually to the Board of Trustees those transfers which are from one fund group to another. They are listed in your book and in the interest of time and my sanity I will not go through those line by line, but rather Mr. Chairman, if there are any questions I will be glad to respond.

Mr. Skestos:

Any questions?

NON-MANDATORY TRANSFERS FROM CURRENT FUNDS FISCAL YEAR 1992-93

Resolution No. 94-62

Synopsis: Transfers to Endowment Principal Funds, Unexpended Plant Funds, Renewal and Replacement Funds - Remodeling and Renovation, Renewal and Replacement Funds - Repair and Replacement, and Retirement of Indebtedness Funds be submitted for approval.

WHEREAS non-mandatory transfers from current funds for the fiscal year 1992-1993 have been made; and

WHEREAS this accounting procedure is in compliance with the Auditor of State that all transfers among fund groups be reported:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the transfers as detailed in the accompanying report be accepted and approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

--0--

Mr. Skestos:

Ms. Tom, would you like to now talk to us about two resolutions that you want to present to us -- the PERS Employing Units and the Sexual Harassment Policy.

Ms. Tom:

The pension program for our non-faculty staff is provided through the Ohio Public Employees Retirement System or PERS as it is known. The PERS rules establish requirements for mandatory and voluntary early retirement incentive programs. The Revised Code further allows State institutions to designate units within the University for compliance with these requirements.

We are proposing that the units specified in Appendix XXI in the materials that you received be established for purposes of complying with these PERS provisions. These units very closely follow the rational administrative structure of the University.

Ms. Tom: (contd)

We believe that this approach will provide the University with the flexibility we need to manage our resources and staffing levels. I think this will be of particular importance as we continue to review the organization in terms of structure and as we work to ensure continued financial stability.

These proposed units have been reviewed by PERS and we have been given approval. The approval of the Board is requested for this to be officially approved and I will be happy to answer any questions.

PERS EMPLOYING UNITS

Resolution No. 94-63

WHEREAS Section 145.298 of the Ohio Revised Code requires a state employing unit to establish an early retirement incentive plan for its employees in the event that a designated number of lay-offs occur within the employing unit; and

WHEREAS Section 145.297 of the Ohio Revised Code allows a state institution of higher education to designate employing units in order to determine the applicability of Revised Code Section 145.298, and also for the purpose of establishing voluntary retirement incentive plans for its employees; and

WHEREAS The Ohio State University has submitted a proposed employing units plan for review by The Public Employees Retirement System and has been advised that the designated employing units are acceptable as listed:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the colleges and administrative offices listed in Appendix XXI, a copy of which is attached, are established as employing units within The Ohio State University in accordance with the requirements of Section 145.297 of the Ohio Revised Code; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the employing units are created for the sole purpose of complying with Sections 145.297 and 145.298 of the Ohio Revised Code and they have no applicability to any other employment or fiscal issue; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That in determining the applicability of the mandatory early retirement incentive plan requirements of Revised Code Section 145.298, the University shall count the total number of employee lay-offs within an employing unit which occurred between July 1, 1993 and December 31, 1993, and in subsequent six month periods; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President and/or the Vice President for Human Resources are hereby authorized to notify The Public Employees Retirement System of the establishment of the employing units in accordance with the terms of this resolution.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Ms. Tom:

The next resolution is regarding the University's Sexual Harassment Policy and this is a revision of a policy that was developed back in 1983. The University is committed to ensuring that the environment for work and study be free from sexual harassment. Further, the University is required by law to adopt a very clear policy and procedures to address problems of sexual harassment when they occur.

The policy that we are putting before you for approval was developed with extensive consultation of faculty, staff, and students, over many months in the last year. This included numerous focus groups, meetings with faculty Senate Committees, constituency groups, and administrative units. And the approval of the Board is requested.

I will be happy to answer questions, but also present today is Helen Ninos. Helen, will you please stand to be recognized. Helen is Director of Dispute Resolution Services and I want to publicly commend Helen for her leadership and her substantial work in getting this policy through. Members of Helen's staff were not able to be here, but also deserve to be recognized and they are: Marylou Bean, Gail Carr-Williams, and Kevin Carey. I also want to acknowledge the help of our Senate leadership, Dr. Martha Garland, previous chair of the Steering Committee, who was very helpful, and Drs. Tom York and Harry Allen who were also very helpful. So with that, I am open to questions if there are any.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT POLICY REVISION

64

WHEREAS the University desires to ensure an environment for work and study free from sexual harassment; and

WHEREAS the University wishes to revise its policy and procedures relating to the investigation and resolution of allegations of sexual harassment; and

WHEREAS the University is required by law to adopt such a policy and procedures; and

WHEREAS the President has consulted with the appropriate University officials and committees with respect to the revision of this policy:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Sexual Harassment Policy and accompanying procedures which are attached hereto as Appendix XXII are adopted as a policy of the University, effective November 5, 1993.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

(See Appendix XXII for Sexual Harassment Policy, page 479.)

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Welcome everyone, we are delighted to have you here today. I think at least that it is a good morning. As many of you know, I just returned from Israel yesterday and am still trying to determine what time zone I find myself in. I was very pleased to be part of Governor Voinovich's delegation to Israel, which included representatives of fourteen Ohio businesses. Israel -- and this is an interesting statistic -- is Ohio's 12th largest foreign trading partner and, hopefully, our visit will promote more of that trading. For a country of 5.2 million people, the fact that it is our 12th largest trading partner is of some considerable significance and a few of the people in this room have been very much a part of that trading effort.

This morning I want to report to you what Ohio State is doing in Israel -- and believe me, we are doing quite a lot. Ohio State is providing significant leadership in agricultural research in Israel. The Bi-national Agricultural Research and Development Foundation (BARD) was established in 1977 to support joint research and development projects between the United States and Israel.

Ohio State has received five BARD grants with an average value of approximately $185,000. We are now involved in seven other grant applications between ourselves and the Hebrew University, including waste recycling and composting work, and increasing potato production. Interestingly enough American imperialism has come to Israel in that the Hard Rock Cafe and McDonalds now want to do business there, but they have to have their own particular kind of potato. So potato research is becoming enormously important. Also, they're working to reduce pest problems in greenhouse-grown tomatoes, something in which we are a world leader at Ohio State. This is enormously important to Israel because they are a net exporter of vegetables to Europe on a grand scale. Ohio State also has received Bi-national Science Fund grants totalling more than $4 million to support research in physics, life sciences, mathematics, energy, health sciences, and chemistry.

Our faculty are collaborating with colleagues at several universities in Israel in the study of such diverse subjects as polymers, welding, history, plant genetics, and mapping. For example, Professor of History Jeremy Cohen divides his teaching schedule between Ohio State and Tel-Aviv Universities. He continues his research on the ideas and images of Judaism in Medieval Christianity and is one of the world's leading scholars in this particular area.

An exchange agreement between our Department of Pediatrics and Columbus' Children's Hospital with Hadassah Medical Organization provides collaborative opportunities in pediatric research. We currently have two visiting scholars on our faculty from Israel, 23 students from the University in Israel, and Ohio State has more than 100 alumni in Israel at this moment. We have instructional strengths in Hebrew including linguistics and both ancient and modern Hebrew language and literature.

This academic year, we have offered 129 languages and 130 area studies courses related to the Middle East, with total course enrollments of over 6,000 students. The Melton Center for Judaic Studies at The Ohio State University is an important intellectual center which is the product of the vision of the late Samuel Melton. His support for the Center, and for the centers of which there are three, is leading to increased understanding among people.

My brief and yet productive visit to Israel demonstrated to all involved the impact of this great University on people around the world. The work that is done here, our graduates, and our ideas, are making a difference not only for Ohio's economy, but also for the world. A point that came home to me very vividly.

November 12 marked a historic -- and let me underline this with three strikes -- and truly important event in the life of Ohio State as we honored and celebrated the loyalty, dedication, and support of one of our most distinguished and accomplished alumni -- Max Fisher. Max Fisher's enthusiasm for Ohio State, and for his college -- the College of Business -- is long-standing. This devotion has resulted in a milestone for his alma mater as we received the largest gift ever presented to an academic unit at Ohio State. Mr. Fisher's commitment of $20 million to the College of Business, as you well know was made on that day.

The college has embarked on an ambitious transformation -- making Ohio State a focal point for excellence in management education. One of the cornerstones of this undertaking is a new series of buildings being constructed to house the college. But we all know that true academic excellence is not measured by bricks and steel, it is what takes place inside these new buildings that will bear our true mark of distinction.

Max Fisher has received many accolades and has done much in his remarkable career. He has touched many lives, again, many of the people in this room. And I must say, just as an aside, that I was absolutely struck with what was a remarkable statement that he made when he noted that he came to Ohio State with three things, "a pair of shoes, $150, and a Mackintosh" -- which I assume is a jacket. He said that the University meant much to him because of what it had given. For us, his gift serves as a reminder of the vision he shares with Ohio State.

Today, this Board will formally vote to recognize Max Fisher's commitment by naming the college the "Max M. Fisher College of Business." More importantly, this gift signifies the confidence that Mr. Fisher has in our faculty, this Board, this University, and our students, and in the quality of Ohio State as a leading university in this country. Max Fisher has embodied the American Dream and through his strong intellect, a willingness to work hard, and great vision he is investing in the future, believing that today's and tomorrow's graduates will take with them the commitment to make important contributions to our great nation and the world.

We are inspired and I am personally inspired by his example and by his belief in this University.

That was a memorable weekend for the University. On the occasion of the anniversary of the Wexner Center for the Arts, we held the most successful single fund-raising event in the University's history. With a wonderful evening of entertainment honoring Betty Comden and Adolph Green, the many friends of the Wexner Center and its remarkable programs contributed over $1.5 million to support future activities of the Center.

It is this kind of support that enables Ohio State to achieve many great things. Let me mention only a few notable achievements from this past month. I am pleased to report that eighteen graduate teaching associates recently received Teaching Leadership Awards from the Pew Charitable Trusts. The grants helped these students participate in a National Conference on the Training and Employment of Graduate Teaching Associates. By the way, today in the Student Affairs Committee meeting we had a report on Teaching Associates and I know that Hiawatha will provide us some insight into that.

Five accounting students in our College of Business recently were awarded scholarships by the National Association of Black Accountants. This organization assists minorities in the field of accounting and is committed to professional and academic excellence. Twelve scholarships were given in a six-state Midwestern region and that five of the twelve recipients were from Ohio State brings great honor to these students, the department, and the University and makes all of us very proud.

Finally, Professor of Education Gay Su Pinnell recently received the prestigious Charles A. Dana Award for Pioneering Achievement in Education. She was honored for her work as the principal U.S. proponent of Reading Recovery, an early intervention reading program that enables low-achieving students to be "recovered" as readers in just months. She shared the $50,000 award with Marie Clay of New Zealand who founded Reading Recovery.

Our faculty and students continue to bring recognition to Ohio State. Likewise, we all value and recognize the support that Ohio State enjoys from its graduates and friends around the world, no more so than in this particularly important time in the life of this institution. Madam Chair, that is my report.

Ms. Casto:

Mr. President, that was an excellent report.

Ms. Casto:

At this time I need a motion that the Board recess into Executive Session in accordance with Ohio Revised Code Section 121.22-(G)-(1), (3), and (5) to discuss with University Counsel a matter pertaining to the review of an employee's activities and performance.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board recessed into Executive Session.

December 3, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

President Gee:

The Board will convene in Executive Session for a few minutes in Room 103. Both Judge Duncan and I will wait here, because this involves matters in which we have involved ourselves. Our Trustees that are Hospitals Board members have to remain here, too.

Judge Duncan:

Mr. Skestos and Mr. Celeste will remain here.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

Members of the Board, you will find your report for October 1993 at each of your places. The summaries of the grants and contracts received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the month of October can be found under Tab 1 in the report. I would like to point out that awards for the period July 1993 through October 1993 are down almost 12 percent compared to the preceding year. I spent some time going over this with Vice President Hayes and the downturn appears to be due mainly to the timing of the arrival of awards from the sponsors. We feel that it is too early in the fiscal year to discern any definite trend, but we plan to monitor this information closely over the next quarter and keep the Board posted.

At Tab 2 there is a summary of expenditures for the months of July through October for Fiscal Year 1994 and Fiscal Year 1993. Total expenditures for FY 1994 exceed FY 1993 expenditures by 7 percent. Of particular note is the increase of about 27 percent in external support for equipment. Equipment is one of the cornerstones of institutional stature in research standings. Building the infrastructure to support research is a critical factor in achieving world-class ranking.

Some new projects of special interest that were funded in the month of October are described at Tab 3. I thought you might be interested in knowing that Dr. Hamish Fraser, an Eminent Scholar from the Department of Materials Science and Engineering, who I visited sometime ago and reported to you about, has received over $1 million from the Department of the Navy to develop, for commercial application, a new high temperature material. OSU holds the patent on this material. This project represents a real partnership between The Ohio State University and the General Electric Company.

A second project of interest is entitled Generating Information from Scanning Ohio's Maps. Dr. John Bossler, Director of the Center for Mapping, received over $365,000 from the Department of the Interior, Geological Survey. This project involves cooperation of five State of Ohio agencies and is another example of our partnership with government and industry. The product of this ambitious project will be digital line graphs of the entire state showing layers of interest in contour lines, transportation, water pathways, boundaries, and public land survey system. Digitizing will permit unlimited manipulation with computer technology.

I also want to mention to the Board that I followed up on my visit last month with Dr. Kos Ishii, again this month. As you know, he is a National Science Foundation Presidential Young Investigator and Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering. This time he offered me some hands on experience at using the cad system that they have designed for providing training on the design process. I would suggest, again, to all the members of the Board, if you haven't had the experience to go through this process I would urge you to do so. I also learned more about how the research on life-cycle design optimization methods seeks to provide the public with maximum value at minimum cost, not only to the consumer and to the manufacturer, but also to the environment.

Tab 4 contains a list of all projects funded in October.

At Tab 5 is a copy of two news releases that describe major sponsored research awards to Ohio State. The first release describes two engineering education projects worth $6.9 million that were funded in the first round of Technology Reinvestment (also known as Defense Conversion) Projects announced by President Clinton. The second release announces a five-year, $2.5 million contract from the Federal Aviation Administration to study pilot decision making in the field of general aviation.

At Tab 6 are abstracted press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-66

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for October 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of October 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

On November 18 the Hospitals Board's Administrative/Operations and Executive Committees met.

During the Administrative/Operations meeting, we received reports on both internal and external operations. We then received a quarterly malpractice claims report and the annual self-insurance fund actuarial report, indicating that the Hospitals' claims experience remains good and the malpractice fund remains healthy. Our actuaries reported that it is not necessary for University Hospitals to make any additional contributions. Mr. Maier reported that program planning for the Off-Site Ambulatory Care facility is on schedule, and schematic drawings will be started after the first of the year.

The Executive Committee endorsed the medical staff appointments and reappointments which were approved on October 13 and November 10 by the Medical Staff Administrative Committee. Mr. Schrock reviewed the audited 1992-1993 financial statement and preliminary October financial report, and compared a number of key financial indicators against the medians of Council of Teaching Hospitals, University Hospital Consortium, and Standard & Poor institutions. Mr. Donald Hansen, the administrative member of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations team, visited with the Board members to explain the accreditation standards designed to ensure that our patients receive the highest quality of care in a safe and supportive environment.

At this time, I would like to recommend to the Board the approval of the amendments to the Medical Staff Bylaws.

AMENDMENTS TO THE MEDICAL STAFF BYLAWS

Resolution No. 94-67

Synopsis: Approval of amendments to the Medical Staff Bylaws is requested.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University Hospitals Board pursuant to Bylaw 3335-101-04 of the Hospitals Board Bylaws is authorized to recommend to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Medical Staff Bylaws; and

WHEREAS the proposed amendments to the Medical Staff Bylaw were approved by the University Hospitals Board, September 30, 1993, as follows:

AMENDED BYLAWS

YEARS FROM THE DATE ELIGIBILITY WAS FIRST ATTAINED TO BECOME BOARD CERTIFIED. BOARD CERTIFICATION IS A CONTINUING REQUIREMENT. WHENEVER RECERTIFICATION IS REQUIRED BY A SUB-SPECIALTY BOARD APPROVED HEREIN, APPLICANTS FOR APPOINTMENT OR REAPPOINTMENT SHALL MEET THE TERMS OF RECERTIFICATION ESTABLISHED BY THEIR RESPECTIVE SUB-SPECIALTY BOARD OR BOARDS. FAILURE TO MEET OR MAINTAIN BOARD CERTIFICATION WILL RESULT IN IMMEDIATE TERMINATION FROM THE MEDICAL STAFF. THIS REQUIREMENT MAY BE WAIVED BY ACTION OF THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE, UPON THE RECOMMENDATION OF THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE OR THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR OF OSU HOSPITALS.

(B) Application for membership.

Initial application for medical staff membership shall be made by the applicant to the chief of the clinical department on ~~prescribed~~ forms PRESCRIBED BY THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE stating the qualifications and references of the applicant and giving an account of ~~his~~ THE APPLICANT'S professional training and experience. ALL APPLICATIONS FOR APPOINTMENT MUST SPECIFY THE CLINICAL PRIVILEGES REQUESTED. Applications may be made only if the qualifications are fulfilled as outlined in paragraph (A) of this rule. ~~A supporting letter from the chief of the clinical department is necessary.~~ It shall include written statements of the applicant to abide by the bylaws, rules and regulations of the medical staff, the university hospitals board, and the board of trustees of the Ohio state university. The application shall also contain a statement acknowledging that membership on the medical staff requires participation in the peer review process of evaluating credentials, medical staff membership and clinical privileges, and that a condition for membership requires mutual covenants between all members of the medical staff to release one another from civil liability in this review process as long as the peer review is not conducted in bad faith, with malice, or without reasonable effort to ascertain the accuracy of information being disclosed or relied upon.

(C) Terms of appointment. Initial appointment to the medical staff, will be for a period extending to the end of the fiscal year (first of July through thirtieth of June). Reappointment to the medical staff shall be done on a regular basis for a period not to exceed 24 months. Initial appointments, except for the honorary and limited categories, will be provisional for six months regardless of the date of ~~his~~ THE appointment. DURING THE PERIOD OF THE PROVISIONAL APPOINTMENT ALL APPLICANTS ARE SUBJECT TO CONTINUOUS REVIEW AND RECONSIDERATION PURSUANT TO THESE MEDICAL STAFF BYLAWS.

(D) Ethics and ethical relationship. The code of ethics as adopted, or as may be amended, by the American Medical Association, ~~or~~ the American Dental Association, THE AMERICAN PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION, AMERICAN OSTEOPATHIC ASSOCIATION AND THE AMERICAN PODIATRIC MEDICAL ASSOCIATION shall govern the professional ethical conduct of the respective members of the medical staff.

(E) Procedure for appointment.

- (1) The written and signed application for membership on the medical staff shall be presented to the chief of the clinical department. The applicant shall include in the application a signed statement indicating that if ~~he~~ THE APPLICANT should be accepted to membership on the medical staff, he OR SHE agrees to be governed by the bylaws, rules and regulations of the medical staff, the university hospitals board and the board of trustees of the Ohio state university. Signing the application also constitutes a consent to be interviewed in regard to the application, authorizes university hospitals to consult with members of the medical staffs of other hospitals with which the applicant has been or has attempted to be associated, and with others who may have information bearing on his THE APPLICANT'S competence, character and ethical qualifications. The applicant also consents to university hospitals' inspection of all records and documents that may be material to the evaluation of his THE APPLICANT'S professional qualifications and competence to carry out the clinical, medical and educational privileges for which he THE APPLICANT is applying SEEKING as well as his THE APPLICANT'S professional ethical qualifications for medical staff membership and further releases from any liability all representatives of university hospitals for acts performed concerning this process. The applicant has an affirmative duty to disclose any prior or current ~~challenges to his~~ LOSS OR RESTRICTION OF: PROFESSIONAL licensure, DEA REGISTRATION, ~~or any loss of membership in any medical, dental, or podiatric professional organization or loss of medical staff membership or privileges at any other hospital~~ ANY LOSS, RESTRICTION OR DENIAL OF MEDICAL STAFF MEMBERSHIP OR PRIVILEGES AT ANY OTHER HOSPITAL OR HEALTH CARE FACILITY. THE APPLICANT FURTHER AGREES TO DISCLOSE TO THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS THE INITIATION OF ANY PROCESS WHICH COULD LEAD TO SUCH LOSS OR RESTRICTION. ACCEPTANCE OF MEMBERSHIP ON THE MEDICAL STAFF OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS AUTHORIZES THE HOSPITALS TO CONDUCT ANY APPROPRIATE HEALTH ASSESSMENT INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO DRUG OR ALCOHOL SCREENS ON A PRACTITIONER AT ANY TIME DURING THE NORMAL PURSUIT OF MEDICAL STAFF DUTIES, BASED UPON REASONABLE CAUSE AS DETERMINED BY THE CHIEF OF THE PRACTITIONER'S CLINICAL DEPARTMENT OR THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS OR THEIR AUTHORIZED DESIGNEE. THE PURPOSE OF THIS ASSESSMENT SHALL BE TO ENSURE THAT THE MEMBER OF THE MEDICAL STAFF IS ABLE TO FULLY PERFORM AND DISCHARGE THE CLINICAL, EDUCATIONAL, ADMINISTRATIVE AND RESEARCH RESPONSIBILITIES WHICH THE MEMBER IS PERMITTED TO EXERCISE BY REASON OF MEDICAL STAFF MEMBERSHIP. AT THE TIME OF THE INITIAL REQUEST FOR A HEALTH ASSESSMENT, AND AT ANY TIME A MEDICAL STAFF MEMBER REFUSES TO PARTICIPATE AS NEEDED IN A HEALTH ASSESSMENT, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO A DRUG OR ALCOHOL SCREENING, THE CHIEF OF THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT OR THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR MAY IMPOSE A SUMMARY SUSPENSION PER PARAGRAPH (D) OF RULE 3335-43-05 OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE. Upon request of the medical staff administrative committee or university hospitals board, the applicant will document his OR HER physical and mental status with sufficient adequacy to demonstrate that any patient treated by the applicant will receive care of a generally professionally recognized level of quality and efficiency. The conditions of this paragraph shall be deemed continuing and may be applicable to issues of continued good standing as a member of the medical staff.

- (2) Each chief of a clinical department will be responsible for investigating and verifying the character, qualifications, and professional standing of the applicant BY MAKING INQUIRY OF THE PRIMARY SOURCE OF SUCH INFORMATION and shall ~~submit a report of those findings and recommendations to the medical director of university hospitals who shall forward the application to the medical staff~~

~~administrative committee for action. The chief of the clinical department shall be responsible to see that each applicant is reviewed and reported upon within three months~~ WITHIN SIXTY DAYS OF RECEIPT OF THE SIGNED APPLICATION, SUBMIT A REPORT OF THOSE FINDINGS ALONG WITH A RECOMMENDATION ON MEMBERSHIP AND CLINICAL PRIVILEGES TO THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR OF UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS.

THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR WILL FORWARD THE APPLICATION TO THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE.

THE APPLICANT SHALL HAVE THE BURDEN OF PRODUCING INFORMATION FOR AN ADEQUATE EVALUATION OF APPLICANT'S QUALIFICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP AND FOR THE CLINICAL PRIVILEGES REQUESTED. FAILURE OF THE APPLICANT TO COMPLETE THE PRESCRIBED FORMS OR TO PROVIDE THE INFORMATION REQUESTED WITHIN THE SIXTY-DAY PERIOD FOR APPROVAL SHALL BE GROUNDS FOR DENIAL OF THE APPLICATION.

IF A COMPLETED APPOINTMENT APPLICATION DOES NOT RECEIVE THE REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION BY THE CHIEF OF THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT ON A TIMELY BASIS, IT SHALL BE FORWARDED TO THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR FOR PRESENTATION TO THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE ON THE SAME BASIS AS OTHER APPLICANTS. THIS ACTION SHALL CONTINUE THE APPLICANT'S STATUS AND PRIVILEGES, IF ANY, AND CREATES NO VESTED RIGHTS FOR THE DURATION OF THE APPOINTMENT PERIOD, ONLY UNTIL SUCH TIME AS THE PROCESSING OF THE APPLICATION IS CONCLUDED.

- (3) ~~The medical staff administrative~~ CREDENTIALS committee shall ~~recommend to the medical director and~~ REVIEW THE APPLICATION, EVALUATE AND VERIFY THE SUPPORTING DOCUMENTATION, REFERENCES, LICENSURE, THE CHIEF OF THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENTS REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION, AND OTHER RELEVANT INFORMATION. THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE SHALL ACCESS PRIMARY SOURCES INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO THE AMA MASTER FILE, NATIONAL PRACTITIONER DATA BANK, AND THE RESPECTIVE SPECIALTY AND SUB-SPECIALTY CERTIFICATION BOARDS. THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE SHALL REVIEW ALL ASPECTS OF THE APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP QUALIFICATIONS AND FOR CLINICAL PRIVILEGES. THE AWARD OR DENIAL OF CLINICAL PRIVILEGES SHALL BE BASED ON THE ABILITY OF THE APPLICANT TO PROPERLY PERFORM THE PRIVILEGES AND FUNCTIONS REQUESTED.

THE COMMITTEE SHALL, WITHIN SIXTY DAYS FROM RECEIPT OF THE REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION OF the chief of the clinical department, MAKE A RECOMMENDATION TO THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR that the application be accepted, ~~further investigated, or rejected,~~ OR MODIFIED. The medical director will forward the ~~application, with recommendations~~ RECOMMENDATION of the ~~chief of the clinical department, and his own recommendations,~~ CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE TO THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE FOR FINAL ACTION WITHIN THE MEDICAL STAFF. THE FINAL ACTION OF THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE REGARDING AN APPOINTMENT DECISION WILL BE COMMUNICATED BY THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR, ALONG WITH THE RECOMMENDATION OF THE MEDICAL

the university hospitals board. The university hospitals board shall make their recommendation to the board of trustees of the Ohio state university by communicating through the president of the Ohio state university.

- (4) UPON RECEIPT OF A RECOMMENDATION FOR NON-APPOINTMENT BY THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE, OR AT ANY TIME THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE FIRST RECOMMENDS NON-APPOINTMENT OF AN INITIAL APPLICANT FOR MEDICAL STAFF MEMBERSHIP, THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE SHALL REQUIRE THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR TO NOTIFY THE APPLICANT BY CERTIFIED RETURN RECEIPT MAIL THAT THE APPLICANT MAY REQUEST AN EVIDENTIARY HEARING AS PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH (D) OF RULE 3335-43-06 OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE. THE APPLICANT SHALL BE NOTIFIED OF THE REQUIREMENT TO REQUEST A HEARING AS PROVIDED BY PARAGRAPH (B) OF RULE 3335-43-06. IF A HEARING IS PROPERLY REQUESTED, THE APPLICANT WILL BE SUBJECT TO THE RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF RULE 3335-43-06.

FOLLOWING RECEIPT OF THE WRITTEN REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION TOGETHER WITH THE TRANSCRIPT OF THE HEARING AND ALL OTHER DOCUMENTATION PROVIDED BY THE PARTIES TO THE HEARING COMMITTEE, THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE SHALL ACCEPT, REJECT, OR MODIFY THE APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP AND CLINICAL PRIVILEGES. THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE MAY REQUEST ADDITIONAL INFORMATION, MAY REMAND THE MATTER BACK TO THE HEARING COMMITTEE, OR MAY TAKE ANY ACTION IT DEEMS NECESSARY TO RENDER ITS DECISION. THE APPLICANT SHALL EXERCISE ONLY THOSE PRIVILEGES APPLIED FOR AND GRANTED, IF ANY, BY THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE AND THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD DURING THE PENDENCY OF THE APPLICATION PROCESS.

THE DECISION OF THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE SHALL BE DIRECTLY COMMUNICATED TO THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD BY THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR, WHO SHALL MAKE A SEPARATE RECOMMENDATION TO THE HOSPITALS BOARD. THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD SHALL MAKE THEIR RECOMMENDATION TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BY COMMUNICATING THROUGH THE PRESIDENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY.

When the board of trustees of the Ohio state university has acted, the secretary of the board shall inform the chief of the clinical department to transmit the decision to the applicant and, if appropriate, to the chief of the clinical division. The secretary of the board shall also notify the dean of the college of medicine, the medical director and the executive director of the university hospitals of the decision.

- (F) Procedure for reappointment.

- (1) At least ~~sixty~~ NINETY days prior to the ~~scheduled final medical staff administrative committee meeting of the fiscal year (first of July through thirtieth of June),~~ END OF THE FISCAL YEAR, OR THE END OF THE BIENNIAL PERIOD, THE CHIEF OF

THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT SHALL PROVIDE EACH MEDICAL STAFF MEMBER IN THEIR CLINICAL DEPARTMENT WITH AN APPLICATION FOR AMENDMENTS TO THE MEDICAL STAFF BYLAWS (contd)

REAPPOINTMENT TO THE MEDICAL STAFF. ~~the~~ THE chief of the clinical department shall review the information available on each ~~physician in his department for the purpose of determining~~ MEDICAL STAFF MEMBER, AND THE CHIEF OF THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT SHALL MAKE recommendations ~~for~~ REGARDING reappointment to the medical staff and for granting clinical privileges for the ensuing year BIENNIAL PERIOD. Those recommendations shall be transmitted in writing ALONG WITH THE SIGNED AND COMPLETED REAPPOINTMENT FORMS to the medical director at least ~~thirty~~ SIXTY days prior to the ~~scheduled final medical staff administrative committee meeting~~ END of the fiscal year OR BIENNIAL PERIOD. ~~Where reappointment is recommended the subsequent procedure will be the same as upon appointment. Where a non-reappointment or a change in clinical privileges is recommended, the reason for such recommendation shall be stated. The medical director will forward the recommendations to the medical staff administrative committee.~~ THE TERMS OF PARAGRAPHS (A), (B), (D), AND (E) OF THIS RULE APPLY TO ALL APPLICANTS FOR REAPPOINTMENT. AN APPLICATION FOR REAPPOINTMENT MUST BE SUBMITTED FOLLOWING A LEAVE OF ABSENCE FROM THE MEDICAL STAFF AND/OR FROM THE FACULTY.

- (2) The basis on which the chiefs of the departments are to act concerning the reappointment of a medical staff member and the clinical privileges to be granted upon such reappointment shall be a member's professional competence; clinical judgment; ethical conduct; participation in staff affairs; compliance with the bylaws, rules and regulations of the medical staff, the university hospitals board, and the board of trustees of the Ohio state university; cooperation with university hospitals' personnel and the use of the hospitals' facilities for patients; relations with other physicians, other health professionals or other staff, and ~~his~~ MAINTENANCE OF A professional attitude toward patients; and the responsibility to the university hospitals and the public.
- (3) ~~When the medical staff administrative committee is notified of a recommendation of non-reappointment or adverse change in clinical privileges,~~ THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR SHALL FORWARD THE REAPPOINTMENT FORMS AND THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE CHIEF OF THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT TO THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE. THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE SHALL REVIEW THE REQUEST FOR REAPPOINTMENT IN THE SAME MANNER, AND WITH THE SAME AUTHORITY AS AN ORIGINAL APPLICATION FOR MEDICAL STAFF MEMBERSHIP. THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE SHALL REVIEW ALL ASPECTS OF THE REAPPLICATION FOR CONTINUING MEMBERSHIP QUALIFICATIONS AND FOR CLINICAL PRIVILEGES. THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE WILL FORWARD ITS RECOMMENDATIONS TO THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR AT LEAST THIRTY DAYS PRIOR TO THE END OF THE PERIOD OF APPOINTMENT. THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR WILL TRANSMIT THE REAPPOINTMENT REQUEST AND THE RECOMMENDATION OF THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE TO THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE FOR FINAL ACTION WITHIN THE MEDICAL STAFF.

FAILURE, WITHOUT GOOD CAUSE, TO SUBMIT REAPPOINTMENT FORMS SHALL BE DEEMED A VOLUNTARY RESIGNATION FROM THE MEDICAL STAFF AND SHALL RESULT IN AUTOMATIC TERMINATION OF MEMBERSHIP AND ALL CLINICAL PRIVILEGES. A MEDICAL STAFF MEMBER WHOSE MEMBERSHIP IS AUTOMATICALLY TERMINATED MAY APPLY TO THE

THE RECOMMENDATION OF THE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE REGARDING SUCH AUTOMATIC TERMINATION SHALL BE PRESENTED TO THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE BY THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR. A REQUEST FOR REAPPOINTMENT SUBSEQUENTLY RECEIVED FROM A MEMBER WHO HAS BEEN AUTOMATICALLY TERMINATED SHALL BE PROCESSED AS PROVIDED IN THIS SECTION.

FAILURE OF THE CHIEF OF THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT TO ACT TIMELY ON AN APPLICATION FOR REAPPOINTMENT SHALL BE HANDLED AS PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH (E)(2) OF THIS RULE.

(4) THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE SHALL REVIEW EACH REQUEST FOR REAPPOINTMENT IN THE SAME MANNER AND WITH THE SAME AUTHORITY AS AN ORIGINAL APPLICATION FOR MEDICAL STAFF MEMBERSHIP. THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE SHALL ACCEPT, REJECT, OR MODIFY THE REQUEST FOR REAPPOINTMENT IN THE SAME MANNER AND WITH THE SAME AUTHORITY AS AN ORIGINAL APPLICATION FOR MEDICAL STAFF MEMBERSHIP. WHEN THE DECISION OF THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE RESULTS IN A DECISION OF NON-REAPPOINTMENT OR ADVERSE CHANGE IN CLINICAL PRIVILEGES, they shall instruct the dean of the college of medicine to give written notice to the affected member of the decision, the stated reason for the decision, and the member's right to a hearing pursuant to paragraphs (A) and (B) of rule 3335-43-06 of the Administrative Code. This notification and an opportunity to exhaust the administrative appeal process shall occur prior to the imposition of the proposed penalties unless the emergency provisions outlined in paragraph (D) of rule 3335-43-05 of the Administrative Code apply. The notice by the dean shall be sent certified return receipt mail to the affected member's last known address as determined by university records.

~~(4)~~
(5) If the affected member of the medical staff does not make a written request for a hearing to the medical director within ~~fourteen~~ THIRTY-ONE days after receipt of the adverse decision, it shall be deemed a waiver of his THE right to any review by the medical staff administrative committee to which he THE STAFF MEMBER might otherwise have been entitled on the matter.

(6) If a timely, written request for hearing is made, the procedures set forth in rule 3335-43-06 of the Administrative Code shall apply.

(7) THE FINAL ACTION OF THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE REGARDING A REAPPOINTMENT DECISION WILL BE COMMUNICATED BY THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR, ALONG WITH THE RECOMMENDATION OF THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR, TO THE PROFESSIONAL AFFAIRS, RESEARCH, AND EDUCATION COMMITTEE OF THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD, AND THEREAFTER TO THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD. THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD SHALL MAKE THEIR RECOMMENDATION TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BY COMMUN-ICATING THROUGH THE PRESIDENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY.

(2) The dean of the college of medicine shall promptly notify the affected member of the medical staff, in a confidential manner, that a request for corrective action has been made, and inform ~~him~~ THE MEMBER of the specific activities or conduct which constitutes grounds for the requested action. The dean shall investigate the matter in whatever manner ~~he~~ THE DEAN deems appropriate. Whenever the dean determines that further action is warranted and that corrective action could result, which action could involve a reduction, suspension or revocation of clinical privileges, the dean shall refer the requests to the chief of the clinical department in which the staff member has clinical privileges, who shall impanel the investigation committee. If the chief of the clinical department is the staff member charged, or has initiated the corrective action, the dean shall designate a physician member of ~~his~~ THE DEAN'S administrative staff to fulfill the functions herein specified for said chief. The affected member of the medical staff shall be notified of the referral to the investigation committee, and be informed that these medical staff bylaws will govern all further proceedings. The dean shall designate a physician member of ~~his~~ THE DEAN'S administrative staff to exercise any or all duties or responsibilities assigned to ~~him~~ THE DEAN under these rules for implementing corrective action and appellate procedure only if:

(a) ~~He~~ THE DEAN is the medical staff member charged;

(b) ~~He~~ THE DEAN is responsible for having the charges brought against another medical staff member; or

(c) There is an obvious conflict of interest.

If the dean decides that no further action is warranted, ~~he~~ THE DEAN will notify the person(s) who filed the request for corrective action and the member accused, in writing, that no further action will be taken.

(3) The investigation committee will investigate the request for corrective action and shall report within two weeks its findings and recommendations for action to the chief of the clinical department or the dean's designee. The chief of the clinical department or the dean's designee will forward ~~his~~ A SEPARATE recommendation and the findings and recommendations of the investigation committee to the dean of the college of medicine. Prior to making such a report to the dean, the medical staff member against whom the corrective action has been requested shall have an opportunity to interview the chief of the clinical department or the dean's designee. At such interview, the medical staff member shall be informed of the specific activities alleged to constitute grounds for corrective action, and of the specific evidence which the investigation committee and the chief of the clinical department or the dean's designee have discovered which is material to the charge. The medical staff member shall be invited to discuss, explain or refute the charge or the evidence thus far adduced. The medical staff member may furnish written or oral information to the chief at this time. However, such interview shall not constitute a hearing, but shall be investigative in nature. The medical staff member shall not be represented by an attorney at this interview.

- (4) Following receipt by the dean of the college of medicine of the report from the investigation committee and the chief of the clinical department, the dean shall decide whether the grounds for the requested corrective action are such as could involve a reduction, suspension or revocation of clinical privileges. If the dean decides that the grounds are not substantiated, ~~he~~ THE DEAN will notify the investigation committee; chief of the clinical department; person(s) who filed the charge; and the medical staff member affected, in writing, that no further action will be taken. If the dean decides that the grounds for corrective action are substantiated, the dean shall notify the chief of staff to impanel a grievance committee of the medical staff as outlined in paragraph (C) of this rule. The affected member of the medical staff shall be promptly notified by the dean and permitted to make an appearance before the grievance committee of the medical staff. The rules of conduct of the meeting shall be as outlined in paragraph (C) of this rule. The grievance committee will forward its findings and recommendations for action to the dean of the college of medicine, medical director, chief of staff and the accused member of the medical staff.
 - (5) Following receipt by the dean of the college of medicine of the report from the grievance committee, the dean shall decide whether the grounds for the requested corrective action are such as could involve a reduction, suspension or revocation of clinical privileges. If the dean decides the grounds are not substantiated, ~~he~~ THE DEAN will notify the grievance committee, the person(s) who filed the charge and the medical staff member affected in writing that no further action will be taken. In the event the dean finds the grounds for the requested corrective action are substantiated ~~he~~ THE DEAN may accept, reject or modify the corrective action recommended by the grievance committee and notify the medical staff member of ~~his~~ THAT decision and of the affected medical staff member's appeal rights pursuant to rule 3335-43-06 of the Administrative Code. This notification and an opportunity to exhaust the administrative appeal process shall occur prior to the imposition of the proposed penalties unless the emergency provisions outlined in paragraph (D) of this rule apply. This notice by the dean shall be sent certified return receipt mail to the affected member's last known address as determined by university records.
 - (6) If the affected member of the medical staff does not make a written request for a hearing to the medical director within ~~fourteen~~ THIRTY-ONE days after receipt of the adverse decision, it shall be deemed a waiver of ~~his~~ THE right to any review by the medical staff administrative committee to which ~~he~~ THE STAFF MEMBER might otherwise have been entitled on the matter.

- (C) Composition of grievance committee.
- (1) At the first meeting of the medical staff, during the fall quarter of each academic year, the chief of the medical staff shall submit, for approval by the staff, the names of thirty members of the staff (who shall not be members of the medical staff administrative committee) whom ~~he~~ THE CHIEF OF STAFF has chosen as being appropriate to sit on the grievance committee when they are selected, by lot, to do so.
 - (2) Unchanged.
 - (3) Each grievance committee shall choose from among its number a ~~chairman~~ CHAIRPERSON who shall preside over it and, with the advice and consent of the committee, speak for it, during the hearing, rule on the matters relevant to its proceedings, and arrange for the conduct of the committee's administration. All grievance committee members shall be required to hear all evidence presented. Any recommendation that involves a reduction, suspension, or revocation of clinical privileges may be by majority decision of the committee. If circumstances make attendance by a member of the grievance committee at a hearing impossible, or require an excessive postponement, the chief of staff shall order the remaining four to act upon a clear majority of the remaining four, or shall immediately select a new grievance committee. If more than one member cannot hear all the evidence, a new committee shall be composed.
 - (4) The affected medical staff member shall have the right to personally appear before the grievance committee, to cross-examine witnesses, and to submit to the grievance committee written evidence and memoranda relevant to the issues. The staff member shall be fully apprised of all allegations and all evidence known to the grievance committee, and shall be entitled to discuss, explain and refute all evidence adduced against ~~him~~ THE MEMBER. The affected medical staff member shall not be represented by an attorney before the grievance committee.
- (D) Summary suspension.
- (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of this rule, a member of the medical staff shall have all or any portion of his OR HER clinical privileges suspended by the dean of the college of medicine, the medical director, or the chief of ~~his~~ THE MEMBER'S clinical department whenever such action must be taken immediately in the best interest of patient care. Such summary suspension shall become effective immediately upon imposition and the medical staff member will be subsequently notified in writing of the suspension by the dean of the college of medicine. Such notice shall be by certified return mail to the affected medical staff member's last known address as determined by university records.
 - (2) A medical staff member whose privileges have been summarily suspended shall be entitled to appeal the suspension pursuant to rule 3335-43-06 of the Administrative Code. If the affected member of the medical staff does not make a written request for a hearing to the medical director within ~~fourteen~~ THIRTY-ONE days after receipt of the adverse decision, it shall be deemed a waiver of ~~his~~ THE right to any review by the medical staff administrative committee to which ~~he~~ THE STAFF MEMBER might otherwise have been entitled on the matter. If a timely, written request for a hearing is made, the procedures of rule 3335-43-06 of the Administrative Code shall apply.

- (3) Immediately upon the imposition of a summary suspension, the dean of the college of medicine, the medical director, or the appropriate chief of a clinical department shall have the authority to provide for alternative medical coverage for the patients of the suspended medical staff member who remain in the hospital at the time of suspension. The wishes of the patient shall be considered in the selection of such alternative medical coverage. WHILE A SUMMARY SUSPENSION IS IN EFFECT, THE MEMBER OF THE MEDICAL STAFF IS INELIGIBLE FOR REAPPOINTMENT TO THE MEDICAL STAFF. MEDICAL STAFF AND HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATIVE DUTIES AND PREROGATIVES ARE SUSPENDED DURING THE SUMMARY SUSPENSION.

(E) Automatic suspension.

(1) Unchanged.

(2) Action by the state boards of licensure revoking or suspending a medical staff member's license or placing ~~him~~ THE MEMBER upon probation will automatically impose the same restrictions to ~~his~~ THAT MEMBER'S university hospitals' privileges.

(F) REPORTING RESPONSIBILITY.

WHEN THE DEAN, THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE, OR THE HOSPITALS BOARD DETERMINES OR LEARNS THAT A DECISION ON CORRECTIVE ACTION HAS BECOME FINAL WITHIN THE TERMS OF THIS RULE OR RULE 3335-43-06 OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE, THEY SHALL INSTRUCT THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR TO MAKE A REPORT OF SAID ACTION AS MAY BE REQUIRED FOR COMPLIANCE WITH STATE AND FEDERAL LAW OR REGULATIONS, INCLUDING THE PROVISIONS OF THE NATIONAL PRACTITIONER DATA BANK.

3335-43-06 Hearing and appellate review procedure.

(A) Right to hearing before the medical staff administrative committee and to appellate review.

(1) When a member of the medical staff who has exhausted ~~his~~ ALL remedies under paragraph (E) AND (F) of rule 3335-43-04 of the Administrative Code on reappointments; or under rule 3335-43-05 of the Administrative Code for corrective action; or who has been summarily or automatically suspended under paragraph (D) or (E) of rule 3335-43-05 of the Administrative Code; receives notice of a proposed action by the dean of the college of medicine or the medical director that will adversely affect ~~his reappointment as a member of~~ MEMBERSHIP ON the medical staff or ~~his~~ THE exercise of clinical privileges.~~The,~~ THE staff member shall be entitled to a hearing before the medical staff administrative committee, ~~which will~~ THAT COMMITTEE SHALL submit a written report, including its ~~recommendations,~~ RECOMMENDATION to the ~~chairman~~ CHAIRPERSON of the ~~joint conference~~ PROFESSIONAL AFFAIRS, EDUCATION, AND RESEARCH committee of the university hospitals board within ~~seven~~ FOURTEEN days of the ~~conclusion of~~ hearing evidence FINAL VOTE BY THE MEDICAL STAFF ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE. - (2) All hearings and appellate reviews shall be in accordance with the procedural safeguards set forth in this rule to assure that the affected medical staff member is accorded all rights to which ~~he~~ THE MEMBER is entitled.
- (B) Request for hearing.
- (1) The request for a hearing before the medical staff administrative committee shall be submitted in writing by the affected medical staff member to the medical director within ~~fourteen~~ THIRTY-ONE days of notification by the dean or medical director of ~~his~~ THE intended action. The medical director shall forward the request to the medical staff administrative committee along with instructions to convene a hearing.
 - (2) The failure of a medical staff member to request a hearing before the medical staff administrative committee, to which ~~he~~ THE MEMBER is entitled by these bylaws within the time and in the manner herein provided, shall be deemed a waiver of ~~his~~ THE right to any review by the medical staff administrative committee ~~to which he might otherwise have been entitled on the matter~~. The dean of the college of medicine shall then implement the decision and that action shall become and remain effective against the medical staff member in the same manner as a final decision of the board of trustees of the Ohio state university as provided for in paragraph (F) of this rule. The dean shall promptly inform the affected medical staff member that the proposed decision which had entitled the medical staff member to a hearing has now become final.
- (C) Notice of hearing.
- (1) Within fourteen days after receipt of a request for hearing by the medical director from a medical staff member entitled to the same, the medical staff administrative committee shall schedule and arrange for such a hearing and shall, through the dean, notify the medical staff member in writing of the time, place, and date so scheduled. The medical staff member shall be given at least ten days prior notice of the scheduled hearing, provided that this notice may be waived in writing by the medical staff member. Notice shall be by certified return receipt mail to the staff member at ~~his~~ THE STAFF MEMBER'S last known address as reflected by university records. The hearing or initial hearing, should more than one hearing be required, shall not be less than fourteen days nor more than thirty days from the date of the receipt of the request for hearing by the medical director; provided, however, that a hearing for a medical staff member who is under suspension, which is then in effect, shall be held as soon as arrangements may be reasonably made.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Colley:

Madam Chair, the Educational Affairs Committee met this morning and discussed the proposal to establish a local board at the Newark Campus, which will be before this Board in February. We also received an update on the search for a new dean/director of the Newark Campus. At this time I would also like to present the following resolutions:

NAMING OF THE MAX M. FISHER COLLEGE OF BUSINESS

Resolution No. 94-68

Synopsis: Approval of the naming of The Ohio State University College of Business as The Max M. Fisher College of Business is proposed.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University intends to build a new $67 million, multi-building complex for the College of Business replacing the facilities in Hagerty Hall and Page Hall; and

WHEREAS Max M. Fisher, a 1930 graduate of The Ohio State University College of Business, committed $20 million to the College of Business, the largest gift ever received for an academic unit and the second largest in the University's history:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the College will henceforth be named The Max M. Fisher College of Business and that the main administration building in the new business complex will be named Max M. Fisher Hall in honor of Mr. Fisher.

Mr. Colley:

Before voting, Jerry May would like to present some remarks.

Mr. Jerry May:

Thank you very much, Mr. Colley. There are just a couple of things that I would like to add. First, this particular recommendation that is brought to you has the full endorsement of The Ohio State University Foundation Board. Congratulations also to Mr. Fisher for his vision and commitment in investing in Ohio State.

I would also like to point out to the Board that this gift is a result of the very significant efforts of a lot of individuals, but three people in particular: Dean Joe Alutto, President Gordon Gee, and Trustee Leslie Wexner. I think this goes to show what kind of things can happen at Ohio State University when people work together. So, I thank you all very much.

NAMING OF THE MAX M. FISHER COLLEGE OF BUSINESS (contd)

Upon motion of Mr. Colley, seconded by Mr. Wexner, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Resolution No. 94-69

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the approval of amendments to rule 3335-5-04 of the Rules of the University Faculty.

WHEREAS the University Senate pursuant to rule 3335-1-09 of the Administrative Code is authorized to recommend through the President to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty as approved by the University Senate; and

WHEREAS the proposed changes in the Rules of the University Faculty were approved by the University Senate on November 6, 1993, as follows:

AMENDED RULE

3335-5-04 Hearing procedures for complaints against regular, regular clinical, and auxiliary faculty members.

(A) Definitions and construction.

- (1) This rule shall apply ~~only~~ to ALL FORMAL complaints against regular, regular clinical, and auxiliary faculty members. COMPLAINTS MAY BE FILED UNDER THIS RULE AGAINST ADMINISTRATORS WHO HOLD FACULTY APPOINTMENTS.
- (2) At all stages in proceedings under this rule department ~~chairpersons~~ CHAIRS, deans, or the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost (HEREINAFTER "PROVOST") will attempt, through the use of informal consultation, to resolve complaints to their satisfaction and that of the complainant, and the faculty member against whom the complaint is made (hereinafter "respondent").
- (3) Department ~~chairpersons~~ CHAIRS, deans, or the ~~senior vice president for academic affairs and~~ provost shall not act in their administrative capacities in the consideration of any complaint naming them as respondent. ~~In complaints naming~~ IF A COMPLAINT NAMES a department chairperson CHAIR or a dean as respondent, the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost shall appoint an equivalent rank administrator from another department or college to act in the stead of the chairperson or dean for the purposes of PERFORM THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE NAMED OFFICIAL UNDER this rule. In complaints naming the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost as respondent, the chairperson of the faculty hearing committee shall act in that administrator's stead. IF A COMPLAINT NAMES THE PROVOST AS RESPONDENT, THE CHAIR OF THE STEERING COMMITTEE OF THE UNIVERSITY SENATE SHALL PERFORM THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF THIS OFFICIAL UNDER THIS RULE.
- (4) ~~The faculty hearing committee is established by rule 3335-5-4810 of the Administrative Code.~~

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

AMENDED RULE (contd)

ALL RECORDS OF PROCEEDINGS UNDER THIS RULE SHALL BE MAINTAINED IN THE OFFICE OF ACADEMIC AFFAIRS. SUCH RECORDS SHALL REMAIN CONFIDENTIAL TO THE EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW.

- (5) ~~Records of proceedings under this rule shall be kept only in the administrative office wherein the proceedings terminate. With written permission of the respondent, such records shall be open to inspection by the ombudsperson, but may be inspected by others only with the written permission of the respondent and the administrative officer in charge of the office wherein the records in question are kept. AT THE TIME OF THEIR INITIAL APPOINTMENT AND WHEN THEY RECEIVE THEIR ANNUAL REVIEW, FACULTY MEMBERS SHALL BE GIVEN NOTICE OF THEIR RIGHT TO REVIEW THEIR PERSONNEL FILE MAINTAINED BY THEIR TENURE INITIATING UNIT (HEREINAFTER "PRIMARY PERSONNEL FILE"). A MEMBER OF THE FACULTY MAY PLACE IN HIS OR HER PRIMARY PERSONNEL FILE A RESPONSE TO ANY EVALUATION, COMMENT OR OTHER MATERIAL CONTAINED IN THE FILE.~~
- (6) ~~Allegations of gross or serious incompetence (hereinafter "incompetence") shall be judged by reference to the qualities and conditions under which tenure is customarily established at this university, to wit: competence with respect to teaching, service, and research. Accordingly, gross or serious incompetence shall refer to a faculty member's failure to meet his defined faculty obligations. DOCUMENTS RELATED TO THE PERFORMANCE OF A FACULTY MEMBER WHICH ARE RECEIVED BY HIS OR HER TENURE INITIATING UNIT PRIOR TO THE FILING OF A COMPLAINT MAY NOT BE INTRODUCED IN PROCEEDINGS UNDER THIS RULE UNLESS THEY HAVE BEEN PLACED IN THE FACULTY MEMBER'S PRIMARY PERSONNEL FILE, AND THE FACULTY MEMBER HAS BEEN SO INFORMED, OR COPIES HAVE OTHERWISE BEEN PROVIDED TO THE FACULTY MEMBER.~~
- (7) ~~In cases of presumed physical or mental disability, decisions to terminate a tenured appointment, or a non-tenured appointment before the end of the appointment, for medical reasons will be based upon clear and convincing medical evidence. A decision to terminate an appointment, to change the assigned duties of the faculty member, or to arrange retirement because of medical reasons will be reached only after there has been appropriate consultation and the faculty member or his representative has been informed of the basis for the proposed action, and has been afforded an opportunity to present the position of the faculty member and to respond to the evidence. If the faculty member so requests, the evidence will be reviewed by the faculty hearing committee before a final decision with regard to termination or retirement is made by the board of trustees upon the recommendation of the president of the university. A similar right shall be afforded to the faculty member before a permanent change in duties is instituted for medical reasons. This shall not, however, prohibit a temporary and immediate reassignment of duties where clear danger exists to the faculty member or the university because of physical or mental impairment.~~
- (8) ~~Complaints alleging grave misconduct shall refer only to activities that, if proved, seriously impair a faculty member's effectiveness in meeting his defined teaching, service, and research obligations.~~

 - (b) ~~Standing as complainant shall be limited to the following classes of persons: the university faculty, students, postdoctoral fellows, and post-professional fellows.~~
 - (c) ~~The complaint shall be composed by, or directed to, the department chairperson of the department of which the respondent is a member.~~
 - (d) ~~The burden of going forward and the burden of proof shall be with the complainant.~~
- (2) ~~The department chairperson shall review the complaint and evidence relating to it, including evidence on behalf of the respondent, to determine whether reasonable and adequate grounds exist to support the complaint. THE COMPLAINT SHALL BE SET FORTH IN WRITING. A COPY SHALL BE FURNISHED TO THE RESPONDENT BY THE ADMINISTRATOR WITH WHOM THE COMPLAINT IS FILED.~~
- (a) ~~A decision by the department chairperson that no reasonable and adequate grounds exist to support the complaint shall be communicated in writing to the complainant and the respondent. Such a decision may be appealed by the complainant to the dean of the college in which the complaint was initially filed.~~
 - (b) ~~If reasonable and adequate grounds are determined to exist to support the complaint, the department chairperson shall refer the complaint to the dean of the college.~~
- (3) A COMPLAINT SHALL STATE FACTS TO SUPPORT AN ALLEGATION THAT A FACULTY MEMBER HAS FAILED TO MEET HIS OR HER TEACHING, SERVICE, OR RESEARCH OBLIGATIONS, HAS COMMITTED ACTS OR OMISSIONS WHICH OTHERWISE IMPAIR HIS OR HER EFFECTIVENESS IN MEETING THESE OBLIGATIONS, OR HAS VIOLATED UNIVERSITY RULES.
- (4) ONLY ALLEGATIONS STATED IN THE COMPLAINT SHALL BE CONSIDERED AT THE VARIOUS STAGES OF DELIBERATION.
- (5) A COMPLAINT MAY BE FILED WITH A DEPARTMENT CHAIR, A DEAN, THE PROVOST OR THE PRESIDENT. IF A COMPLAINT IS FILED WITH THE DEAN, PROVOST, OR PRESIDENT, IT SHALL BE IMMEDIATELY REFERRED TO THE APPROPRIATE DEPARTMENT CHAIR FOR INITIAL REVIEW. A COMPLAINT AGAINST A FACULTY MEMBER IN A COLLEGE WITHOUT DEPARTMENTS SHALL BE REFERRED DIRECTLY TO THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE. IF A COMPLAINT IS FILED AGAINST A REGIONAL CAMPUS FACULTY MEMBER, THE REGIONAL CAMPUS DEAN SHALL SERVE JOINTLY WITH THE DEPARTMENT CHAIR IN THE INITIAL REVIEW. THE REGIONAL CAMPUS DEAN AND THE DEPARTMENT CHAIR MUST AGREE THAT THERE IS PROBABLE CAUSE FOR THE CASE TO GO FORWARD.

AMENDED RULE (contd)

(C) College proceedings REVIEW BY THE DEPARTMENT CHAIR.

~~Complaints referred to the dean of the college by a department chairperson, or appealed to the dean by the complainant, shall be reviewed by the dean who will determine whether reasonable and adequate grounds to support the complaint have been established.~~

- (1) ~~Complaints alleging failure to meet university responsibilities when such failures are not alleged to constitute incompetence or grave misconduct. THE DEPARTMENT CHAIR SHALL REVIEW THE ALLEGATIONS IN THE COMPLAINT AND DISCUSS THE MATTER WITH THE COMPLAINANT AND WITH THE RESPONDENT.~~
 - (a) ~~If no reasonable and adequate grounds are found to support the complaint, the dean shall dismiss the complaint and communicate this disposition in writing to the complainant, the respondent, and the department chairperson.~~
 - (b) ~~If reasonable and adequate grounds are found to support the complaint, the dean shall establish a college hearing committee consisting of no fewer than three faculty members from within the college but from outside the respondent's department.~~
 - (c) ~~The college hearing committee shall review the complaint, hear relevant testimony, including testimony from both the complainant and the respondent, and determine the accuracy and sufficiency of the complaint.~~
 - (d) ~~The college hearing committee shall transmit its findings in writing to the complainant, respondent, and dean.~~
 - (e) ~~Upon receipt of the written findings of the college hearing committee, the dean shall consider them in connection with the nature of the offense and its circumstances and select one of the following sanctions:~~
 - (i) ~~Dismiss the complaint, if such is the recommendation of the college hearing committee.~~
 - (ii) ~~Direct that an oral warning and reprimand be administered by the department chairperson.~~
 - (iii) ~~Administer a written record of censure.~~
 - (f) ~~The complainant may take no appeal from these proceedings. The respondent shall have the right of appeal to the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost from either the findings of the college hearing committee or the sanction imposed by the dean.~~
- (2) ~~Complaints alleging incompetence or grave misconduct. IF THE CHAIR DETERMINES THAT THERE IS PROBABLE CAUSE TO BELIEVE THAT THE ALLEGATIONS ARE TRUE AND THAT IT IS NOT APPROPRIATE TO REACH AN INFORMAL RESOLUTION, THE CHAIR SHALL REFER THE MATTER TO THE DEAN.~~

AMENDED RULE (contd)

- (a) ~~If no reasonable and adequate grounds are found to support the complaint, the dean shall dismiss the complaint and communicate this disposition in writing to the complainant, respondent, and department chairperson. A decision to dismiss the complaint may be appealed to the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost.~~
- (b) ~~If reasonable and adequate grounds are found to support the complaint, the dean shall refer the matter to the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost.~~
- (3) IF THE CHAIR DETERMINES THAT THERE IS NOT PROBABLE CAUSE TO BELIEVE THAT THE ALLEGATIONS ARE TRUE, THE CHAIR SHALL DISMISS THE COMPLAINT. IN THIS EVENT, THE COMPLAINANT MAY APPEAL THE DISMISSAL TO THE DEAN. THE APPEAL MUST BE IN WRITING AND MUST BE FILED WITH THE DEAN WITHIN TWENTY-ONE DAYS AFTER THE NOTICE OF THE CHAIR'S DECISION WAS MAILED.
- (4) THE CHAIR SHALL MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO COMPLETE THE REVIEW IN FOURTEEN DAYS.
- (D) The senior vice president for academic affairs and provost. REVIEW BY THE DEAN.
 - (1) ~~Appeals to the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost by a respondent from the findings of a college hearing committee or the sanction imposed by a dean in response to a complaint alleging failure to meet university responsibilities, shall be dealt with by the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost in accord with the following procedures: UPON RECEIPT OF AN APPEAL OR A REFERRAL OF A COMPLAINT FROM A DEPARTMENT CHAIR, THE DEAN SHALL REVIEW THE ALLEGATIONS IN THE COMPLAINT AND DISCUSS THE MATTER WITH THE COMPLAINANT AND THE RESPONDENT.~~
 - (a) ~~Upon receiving such an appeal, the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost shall invoke the procedures contained in paragraphs (E)(1) to (E)(5) of this rule. In such appeals, the dean shall function as prosecutor and the hearing panel shall report its findings of fact and its judgment as to the appropriateness of the imposed sanctions to the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost and to the respondent.~~
 - (b) ~~Upon receiving the report of the hearing panel, the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost may:~~
 - (i) ~~Sustain the sanction,~~
 - (ii) ~~Impose a lesser sanction, or~~
 - (iii) ~~Dismiss the complaint and direct that the record be expunged.~~
 - (c) ~~The senior vice president for academic affairs and provost shall communicate in writing his disposition of the appeal to the respondent, complainant, and dean. No appeal may be taken from the actions of the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost.~~

- (2) ~~Complaints alleging incompetence or grave misconduct, referred to or appealed to the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost by a dean or a complainant, shall be reviewed by the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost to determine whether reasonable and adequate grounds have been established to support the complaint. IF THE DEAN DETERMINES THAT THERE IS PROBABLE CAUSE TO BELIEVE THAT THE ALLEGATIONS ARE TRUE AND THAT IT IS NOT APPROPRIATE TO REACH AN INFORMAL RESOLUTION, THE DEAN SHALL REFER THE MATTER TO THE COLLEGE INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE.~~
- (a) ~~If it is determined that reasonable and adequate grounds have not been established to support the complaint, the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost shall dismiss the complaint and communicate this disposition in writing to the complainant, respondent, dean and department chairperson. No appeal may be taken from such a dismissal by the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost.~~
- (b) ~~If a determination is made that reasonable and adequate grounds have been established to support the complaint, the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost shall transmit a written notice of the specific charges to the faculty hearing committee, respondent, and complainant. In proceedings before a hearing panel involving complaints alleging incompetence or grave misconduct, the burden of going forward, the burden of proof, and the responsibility for prosecuting the charge shall be with the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost. The senior vice president for academic affairs and provost may be represented in such proceedings by a designee.~~
- (3) IF THE DEAN DETERMINES THAT THERE IS NOT PROBABLE CAUSE TO BELIEVE THAT THE ALLEGATIONS ARE TRUE, THE DEAN SHALL DISMISS THE COMPLAINT. THE PROCEEDINGS SHALL TERMINATE AT THIS POINT EXCEPT IN CASES INVOLVING FACULTY MEMBERS IN COLLEGES WITHOUT DEPARTMENTS. IN SUCH CASES, THE COMPLAINANT MAY APPEAL A DISMISSAL BY THE DEAN TO THE COLLEGE INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE. THE APPEAL MUST BE IN WRITING AND MUST BE FILED WITH THE DEAN WITHIN TWENTY-ONE DAYS AFTER THE DEAN'S DECISION WAS MAILED TO THE COMPLAINANT. UPON RECEIPT OF AN APPEAL THE DEAN SHALL IMMEDIATELY FORWARD THE APPEAL TO THE COLLEGE INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE, WHICH SHALL PROCEED IN ACCORDANCE WITH PARAGRAPH (E) OF THIS RULE.
- (4) THE DEAN SHALL MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO COMPLETE THE REVIEW IN FOURTEEN DAYS.
- (E) THE COLLEGE INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE.
- (1) EACH COLLEGE SHALL ESTABLISH A PROCEDURE FOR THE CREATION OF A STANDING COLLEGE INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE, WHICH SHALL CONSIST OF TENURED FACULTY MEMBERS. A COLLEGE MAY INCLUDE ON ITS COLLEGE INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE TENURED FACULTY MEMBERS FROM OTHER COLLEGES.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

AMENDED RULE (contd)

(10) THE HEARING PANEL SHALL MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO CONCLUDE THE PROCEEDINGS WITHIN SIXTY DAYS.

~~(F)~~

(I)

The president.

(1) Upon receipt of THE written findings of fact AND RECOMMENDATION AND A RECORD ~~a complete transcript of the proceedings and a recommendation from a hearing panel,~~ the president shall review the matter. ~~and:~~

(a) ~~Should he disagree with the findings or the recommendation of the hearing panel, or desire consideration of additional evidence, he may remand the matter to the hearing panel along with a written statement of the reasons therefor.~~

~~Upon remand of a case, the hearing panel shall supply copies of the president's statement to the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost and the respondent, and shall reopen the proceeding, at the conclusion thereof submitting a supplemental report to the president and to the concerned parties.~~

(b) ~~Should he agree with the findings and recommendation of the hearing panel, should he disagree but choose not to remand, or in any event after receiving the supplemental report of the hearing panel, he~~ THE PRESIDENT may:

~~(i)~~ (a) Dismiss the complaint; ~~or~~

~~(ii)~~ (b) Impose any sanction less than termination OF EMPLOYMENT whether or not it accords with the recommendation of the hearing panel; ~~or~~

~~(iii)~~ (c) Recommend to the board of trustees termination OF EMPLOYMENT ~~of the respondent~~ on such terms and conditions as ~~he~~ THE PRESIDENT may deem advisable;

(d) REMAND THE CASE TO THE HEARING PANEL FOR RECONSIDERATION.

(2) Any decision of the president shall be communicated in writing to THE hearing panel and to the respondent.

~~(G)~~

(J)

Board of trustees.

The board of trustees, in reviewing and deciding upon a ~~dismissal~~ case IN WHICH TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT HAS BEEN RECOMMENDED, has the ultimate authority to take that action necessary to promote the best interest of the university and to protect the rights of the individual. ~~The board, based on a review of the record of the hearing panel, may accept or reject any recommendation of the president, or may sustain, revoke or modify any action taken by the president.~~

AMENDED RULE (contd)

- (1) ~~If the president recommends termination, the board may approve the recommendation, disapprove the recommendation and dismiss the complaint, or disapprove the recommendation and modify the sanction subject to paragraph (G)(2) of this rule.~~
 - (2) ~~If the board rejects a recommendation of termination, it shall state its reasons in writing and provide an opportunity for the president, the respondent, and the hearing panel to respond thereto in writing.~~
 - (3) ~~Should the president dismiss a complaint against a respondent, or impose a sanction less than termination, the board, or any committee thereof, may on its own motion review the matter and request written or oral statements of their respective positions from the president, the respondent, and the hearing panel.~~
 - (4) ~~In reviewing and deciding on dismissal cases, IN SUCH CASES, the board shall give the respondent an opportunity to present to it arguments in writing, or in person, or both.~~
- (H) ~~Sanctions applicable to established cases of incompetence or grave misconduct.~~

- (1) ~~Recorded censure, administered by the dean of the college of the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost. This sanction shall be applied only in those cases involving unusually strong mitigating circumstances of exceptionally persuasive character.~~
- (2) ~~Termination of employment, recorded and administered by the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost. Such termination shall be guided by the following requirements for payment of salary and notice of termination: at least three months, if the final decision is reached by March first (or three months prior to the expiration) of the first of probationary service; at least six months, if the final decision is reached by December fifteenth of the second year (or after nine months but prior to eighteen months) of probationary service; at least one year, if the decision is reached after eighteen months of probationary service or if the faculty member has tenure. (These provisions need not apply if the grounds justifying the dismissal involve conduct which would invoke general condemnation by the academic community).~~

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty be adopted as recommended by the University Senate.

Upon motion of Mr. Colley, seconded by Mr. Brennan, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-71

Synopsis: Approval of five Resolutions in Memoriam is proposed.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

Wilbur H. Bruner

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 30, 1993, of Wilbur H. Bruner, Associate Professor Emeritus in the Ohio State University Extension.

Mr. Bruner was born October 17, 1905, in Paulding, Ohio. He received his B.S. in Agriculture Education in 1923 from The Ohio State University.

Professor Bruner began his Extension career in Ohio when he joined the faculty at The Ohio State University in 1936 as the County Agricultural Agent in Preble County. In 1949 he became an Extension Specialist in Marketing, and in 1954 he was named Extension Specialist, Swine and Marketing, in the Department of Animal Science. He held this position until his retirement in 1969.

Wilbur Bruner's contributions left a large and creditable mark on Ohio's Swine Industry. His work as a teacher benefitted thousands of swine producers by creating better management practices and breeding techniques. He was a nationally known barrow judge. In addition, he supervised the construction of The Ohio State University Swine Evaluation Station -- the first such station in the United States. Several states patterned their evaluation stations after the Ohio station. Mr. Bruner served on numerous committees at the University, in the state, and internationally. His expertise in the swine industry during his career earned him the respect and admiration of his co-workers and associates throughout the state, as well as the nation.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his family as well as friends. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Lewis C. Chadwick

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 3, 1993, of Lewis C. Chadwick, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Horticulture.

Professor Chadwick, born August 13, 1902, in Randolph Center, Vermont, received his B.S. degree in 1935 from the University of Vermont and his Ph.D. in 1931 from Cornell University.

He joined the faculty at The Ohio State University in the Department of Horticulture in 1937, serving as professor of Horticulture, Ornamental Horticulture and Floriculture. Professor Chadwick retired in 1967 as Professor Emeritus.

Dr. Chadwick's distinguished career focused on research, extension, and teaching. His doctoral thesis centered on plant propagation and benefitted propagators everywhere. His extension work and affiliations with professional organizations placed him in a position of leadership. Professor Chadwick held numerous offices and made lasting contributions including: the American Society of Consulting Arborists, the Columbus Landscape Association, the International Plant Propagators Society, the International Society of Arboriculture, the Council of Tree and Landscape Appraisers, and the American Society for Horticultural Science.

Throughout Lewis Chadwick's career it was his teaching and students that remained the center of his life. More than 5,000 students and unlimited numbers of industry leaders and gardening public have benefitted from his teaching and experiences. The honors he has received are numerous and include: the Norman J. Colman Award, 1950; the Distinguished Contribution Award, the Ohio Nurserymen's Association, 1964; the Albert J. Wright Award, 1967; the Liberty Hyde Bailey Medal, 1973; the L. C. Chadwick Educator's Award, 1976; and the Hall of Fame, National Landscape Association, 1989.

His dedication to his profession has prompted the naming of plant cultivars and horticultural facilities. The world's largest Taxus collection at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Wooster, Ohio, and The Ohio State University Chadwick Arboretum in Columbus, Ohio, are named in his honor.

Professor Chadwick was devoted to his family. He and his late wife Evalina had one child, Barbara. His family members joined him in his devotion to students, Ohio, and the horticultural profession.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as our expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Roy Bernard McCauley, Jr.

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 25, 1993, of Roy B. McCauley, Jr., Professor Emeritus in the Department of Welding Engineering.

Roy McCauley received a B.A. degree in Chemistry at Cornell College in 1940, and an M.S. degree from Illinois Institute of Technology in metallurgy in 1942, before assuming the position of Assistant Professor and Chairman of the Metallurgy Department. He then served on the faculty of Ohio State from 1950 to 1982, including service as the first Director of the Center for Welding Research in the College of Engineering.

Professor McCauley was very active in professional societies and community service. He joined the American Welding Society in 1945 and served the Society in many ways. Professor McCauley was President of the Society in 1966-67. He was presented with numerous American Welding Society

Awards, among them a National Meritorious Certificate, 1959; the Adams Memorial Award, 1960; the Thomas International Achievement Award, 1972; and the Miller Gold Medal, 1978. In 1991, Professor McCauley was a charter recipient of the prestigious AWS Fellows Award. For contributions to other organizations, he was recognized with the Edison Welding Distinguished Research Director Award, 1989; the British Welding Institute International Advisory Silver Medal, 1981; the International Institute of Welding Silver Plaque, 1979; and the ASM Silver Certificate, 1966. He was also a major contributor to the American Society for Non-Destructive Testing and the Welding Research Council.

Professor McCauley served his community as a church school teacher, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesley Foundation, a Faculty Associate of the Blackburn House at The Ohio State University, and as a member of the Board of Advisors of the Franklin County Extension Service. At The Ohio State University, he will be remembered by his colleagues and three decades of Welding Engineering students for his dedication to the technology, strong belief and leadership in the Welding Engineering Department, and great sensitivity to the important relationship between faculty and the students.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Oscar E. Share

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 30, 1993, of Oscar E. Share, Assistant Professor Emeritus in the Ohio State University Extension.

Professor Share was born June 2, 1916, in Brookville, Ohio. He received his B.S. in Dairy Science in 1939 from The Ohio State University. He began his Extension career in Ohio, when he joined the faculty at The Ohio State University on January 1, 1940, as the Assistant County Agent in Noble County. Throughout his career he also worked in Jackson, Harrison, Madison, and Guernsey Counties. He retired in 1972, with only a break in service to serve in the U.S. Navy from 1943 to 1946.

Professor Share's contributions in providing excellent Extension educational programs during his career earned him the respect and admiration of his co-workers and associates throughout the state. His work with 4-H clubs, the development of Rapid Adjustment Farms, Grassland Programs, and serving on numerous committees throughout his career distinguished him as one of the top Extension agents during his career.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his wife and family as well as friends. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Norman H. Shilliday

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 3, 1993, of Norman H. Shilliday, County Agent Emeritus in the Ohio State University Extension.

Mr. Shilliday was born October 31, 1901, in Edenburg, Ohio. He completed his B.S. degree in December 3, 1993 meeting, Board of Trustees

Agriculture at The Ohio State University in 1924.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Norman H. Shilliday (contd)

On May 1 1924, he began his Extension career as a County Agriculture Agent and held this position until his retirement in 1957. Norman Shilliday's contributions in providing excellent Extension educational programs in agriculture for the citizens in Ashland County during his career earned him the respect and admiration of his co-workers and associates throughout the state.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his wife and children. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Colley, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS REPORT

RESTRUCTURING OF THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Mr. Colley:

I would like to introduce Vice President Bobby Moser who will discuss the restructuring of the College of Agriculture.

Dr. Bobby Moser:

Thank you, Mr. Colley and Ms. Casto. Thank you very much for this opportunity to talk about the College of Agriculture. The information being passed out to you is what I will be discussing: 1) the restructuring of the College of Agriculture, that's a part of the University process; 2) our teaching program within the College, which we're very proud of; and 3) one program of research that I've singled out and would like to mention to you.

The first page of your handout is our college mission and vision statement. We started the process for restructuring quite some time ago as we were looking at the overall mission and vision of our College of Agriculture and asking ourselves the question, "What should a college of agriculture look like in the twenty-first century?"

And so, what is before you is what we really identified as being our mission and vision for this college and where we should be going.

On the backside of that handout is the five major focus areas that we see our College spending a good deal of time on in the next decade. We're talking about programs in teaching, research, and also our extension outreach programs. Notice the first one is the production side which is very important to us in Ohio. The production agriculture sector is very big and we'll talk more about that later. The next one is the food and other products -- the value added side of agriculture. The third one is enhancing the environmental quality -- something we cannot overlook in agriculture is the concerns about the environment. Then accessing the social and economical changes that are occurring not only in agriculture, but also in rural communities and getting into the urban areas as well. Developing our human resources is something we think is a very important part of what our college does. It is a people side of what we do. We entered our restructuring process keeping this mission and vision in mind. As I talk about what we've done in our discussions with faculty, staff, and students, notice we kept these five major focus areas in mind as we put our new plan together.

The next page talks about the restructuring process itself. We put together a faculty committee and a committee of chairs that worked simultaneously. We asked them to take a look at our academic units and see how we could do some mergers and reallocations within those academic units to be able to reduce our effort in administration and shift those resources over to program. Program being teaching, research, and extension outreach efforts. We started the process out with those two committees. They deliberated for a couple of months individually, and then we brought them together for a final recommendation which we'll discuss a little bit later.

Once that recommendation went out to the faculty, we held town meetings. We had three here on this campus and we had two at the Wooster campus. The town meetings were open to faculty, staff, and students. The proposal that was presented at the town meetings was not poured in concrete, so to speak, but it was open for discussion. It was the committees' first draft on the proposed restructuring plan. We received excellent attendance at the town meetings, good interaction took place, and all were represented in attendance by students, faculty, and staff.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS REPORT (contd)

We also visited with groups external to the university-agricultural groups and leadership in agricultural community outside of the University. We visited with our alumni association and our development boards association, and we received input from each of those. We also had special meetings with our undergraduate students. We consulted with the president of our Undergraduate Student Government, Chris Norman, who is here and received input from him as to how to involve students in this process. Through his recommendations and suggestions we did hold a special forum for students. They were invited to the town meetings, but we held a special forum for them. We also did the same thing for graduate students and received their input.

Also, the Undergraduate Student Council within the College of Agriculture had a special session with them as well. They and the graduate students then met with the faculty council within the college so that the faculty who are going to be the ones voting on this could hear the views directly from the students. We received input from all the town meetings, it went back to the committees, the committees then reviewed what they heard at the town meetings and different proposals that were sent to them after the town meetings, and then made a final recommendation.

What you see on the next page in your handout is our final proposal. On the left-hand side of that page is the current eleven academic units that we have within the college. The middle column which says, "Initial Proposal" was the proposal that was discussed at the town meetings and it came out of the faculty and chairs committees. We had eleven units and the first proposal was to go to seven units. After receiving that input at the town meetings the committees then made a final recommendation which you see on the far right-hand side which has eight academic units in it. So, we're going from eleven units to eight units. That particular proposal then will be the one that the faculty will vote on. Now, we are still going to have two more town meetings, one here in Columbus and one at Wooster, but they will be held for clarification in case people have questions about what we've done and so forth and to explain why we've done this. We felt like it was important to give faculty, staff, and students one more time to ask questions about the final proposal.

We felt like it was important for us to make these kinds of shifts and mergers for two reasons: 1) we wanted to reduce our efforts in administration and to shift and reallocate that to program; and 2) we think these units we have here will better position us for the twenty-first century, for these are the kinds of things that the agriculture industry will be dealing with in the twenty-first century. If you have questions about any of those, I would be happy to respond to them in just a few minutes.

The next page shows other parts of our operation that are going through a restructuring process. These particular units do not grant B.S. or graduate degrees, but they are still part of agriculture administration and we are looking at those as well. The first one on the list is combining business offices. We have several business offices within our operation. We're asking ourselves the question, "Do we need as many as we've got?" And we've answered that question as no. And so we are in the process now of looking at how we can reduce the number of offices that we have got within our operations and streamline them as much as possible.

The second one is the Agricultural Technical Institute (ATI), our two-year technical school at Wooster. They have gone through an internal reallocation or restructuring and reduced their five academic divisions to three. OSU Extension has also gone through an internal restructuring process and they're in the process of implementing that at the present time.

We combined our information and applied communication unit within our computer unit within the college now called, "The Section of Communication and Technology." Again, reducing one administrator in that process. Dr. Tzagournis and I got together one day -- we both have satellite units within our colleges -- we felt like it would be good if we merged those units together and made one real strong outstanding unit and we did that. The people in both colleges are very pleased with that process. It's excellent to know that one program will add to the colleges and maybe even could be a service to other parts of the University.

Chadwick Arboretum was moved to Horticulture and through the agriculture research program we have several branch stations around the State. We asked ourselves the question, "Do we need thirteen?" That's how many we have. The answer to that question was no. And, we have two branch stations up for sale at the present time.

Reconfiguration of operation units within OARDC are currently underway at the present time as well. So, that is another part of our reorganization that we are doing within the college.

The next page deals with our teaching program. As I said, we're very proud of our teaching program in the College of Agriculture. I have a few statistics here that I'm kind of proud of and I'd like to share those with you. The first on the list is job placement. Eighty-seven percent of last year's graduates had jobs. I think that's pretty good in this day in time. We're proud of that -- not only in the quality of students coming out of our college, but also it gives me a positive feeling about the future of agriculture as a career opportunity for young people.

First quarter freshman retention rates coming into the College of Agriculture is 87 percent. Eighty-seven percent of those come back into the College after their first year and the graduation rate is 58 percent. I don't know exactly what the University averages are, but my understanding is that all three of those are above the University average.

We don't have too many minority students in agriculture, in fact a year ago we only had 44 minority students. We have a group of minority students that I'm very, very proud of called "MANERS". MANERS stands for Minorities in Agriculture, Natural Resources, and Related Sciences. They have been outstanding. In fact, they are the outstanding minorities MANERS organization in the country. They won first place last year. And, we're very proud of that. We've asked them to help us in the recruitment of minorities and to show them career opportunities in agriculture. We have increased or doubled that number, but we're still at a low rate.

We do our own advising within the college and we pride ourselves on that. We have a very strong advising program. We have an open door policy within the college. We pride ourselves on the faculty-student relationships that we have within our college.

We have three study abroad programs to expose our students to international activities -- Czechoslovakia, the Dominican Republic, and China. We've just had 16 students return from six weeks in China. They just got back this last week and it was a tremendous experience for them. We normally have anywhere from 15 to 20 students take these study abroad programs and we think this gives them an excellent opportunity to learn and study a different culture.

Our enrollment has been increasing at a steady rate of about 3 to 4 to 5 percent each year since 1988. We hit our peak in numbers in the mid-'70's, then we dropped off in the '80's. And, now it's starting to come back again and we're pleased with what's happening. One thing I'm excited about is there are jobs on the other end when they graduate if they choose agriculture as a career.

Now, the last point I want to make is about one research program. I can talk about a lot of them, but this is one that we are setting as a high priority within our College and that is our food processing -- food science and technology program. It's our top development project right now which Jerry May and his crew has been helping us work on. It's also one of our top capital improvement projects that we've got at the present time. I've brought some props along that I'd like to use. I'll test your skills, Gordon. You know what this is, don't you?

President Gee:

Not the way you're holding it.

Dr. Moser:

Okay. This is an ear of corn. That's what we call a raw product in agriculture. The corn industry in the raw state is a billion dollar industry. If you take all of the agriculture in the raw state, it's a $4 billion industry. But, if you take this raw product and add value to it and make it a part of the total food processing and marketing distribution -- total food system -- it goes from a $4 billion to a $40 billion industry.

One of Ohio's strengths is that we have a very strong agriculture production sector. We also have a very, very strong food processing and industry sector as well in this State. That's a strength that we've got. Many states don't enjoy that, Ohio does. This particular product, as I said, is corn in its raw state, but we're going to take it and add value to it. That's what we're doing right now. To give an example, $40 billion is 12 percent of the total economic output for the State of Ohio and 15 percent of employment, that's 700,000 jobs and 10 percent of the value added. Also, I want to make a point here, this is how we work with our industry. We really try to make this land-grant system work in our teaching, research, and education programs and taking it out to the industry and seeing what we can do. We're working with increasing corn yields. Yes, we're also adding value to that product as well.

Okay, Gordon, I'll test your skills again. What's this one?

President Gee:

I can't read that far.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS REPORT (contd)

RESTRUCTURING OF THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE (contd)

Dr. Moser:

I'll help you out -- it's corn starch. That's the next step.

President Gee:

Bob, if you have any more of these questions please give me a hint.

Dr. Moser:

That's the next step in adding value to this raw product. Corn is worth $0.6 a pound and this little box of corn starch costs $0.99. We're working with that in our food industry center to make this process more environmentally friendly. And, we have a process we're working with now and a company that's supplying some equipment for the research efforts. We have taken the process -- it normally takes twenty-four hours to do -- and cutting it to fifteen minutes. Fifteen minutes to go from an ear of corn to corn starch. Do you know this one, Gordon?

President Gee:

Corn chips!

Dr. Moser:

Okay, corn chips is what we've got here. Again, working with another value added product. And, I've chosen Kroger's corn chips for two reasons: it's an Ohio-based company and their CEO, Dr. Richard Bere, is a graduate of the College of Agriculture. He has a B.S. degree in Animal Science and a graduate degree in agricultural economics. Another value added product made in Ohio. And, we're working with various parts of this particular system to make it more efficient and more environmentally friendly. Okay, Gordon can you do this one? I know you drink this stuff -- it's SLICE. Now, what does this have to do with corn?

President Gee:

Corn syrup.

Dr. Moser:

Hey, you're pretty good. The soft drink industry started using corn fructose, corn syrup, a few years ago. And, it really is again taking this raw product and adding value to it. Now, also there's something else significant about this. The person that developed the soft drink SLICE, by taking fruit juice and adding it to soft drinks -- the first time it's ever been done -- is an alumni of the College of Agriculture, the Department of Food Science. Surinder Kumar, who at that time was the Vice President for Research and Development at Pepsi Co., and is now President of the Research Institute at Warner Lambert. Fructose, raw product, value added, College of Agriculture graduate.

President Gee:

Now, he's going to pull out a College of Agriculture graduate and blow him up or something like that.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS REPORT (contd)

RESTRUCTURING OF THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE (contd)

Dr. Moser:

An area that we haven't even scratched the surface of yet is non-food uses of agricultural products -- biodegradable plastics. We haven't even scratched the surface yet and we're starting to get into that particular end of it in our research program supported by the corn and soy bean growers in this State. Farmers supporting that research.

The last item is Marzetti salad dressing produced just right down the street here. Okay, what does that have to do with corn? Corn oil? That is pretty close, but not quite. It just happens to have soy bean oil in it. What it has to do with corn is a product in here -- if you were to open this up and pour it out, it would have a thickness to it. What makes that thickness is a compound called zanthemum gum, a very expensive compound. It costs about $6.00 a pound in order to develop this. We have a research project going on right now with the College of Agriculture Food Science Department, and Chemical Engineering working together on this. This is sponsored by the Corn Growers Association in Ohio, to make zanthemum gum out of corn at about a tenth of the cost.

So, we're taking raw products, as you can see, and doing what we can to add value to that raw product through our research and development program and working with Ohio industries in order to get the job done. We think that's a real strength Ohio has and one that we can capitalize upon and really take advantage of.

We're doing what I think land-grant universities should be doing as our research and educational programs reach out to the people in this State. Thank you very much.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you very much. That was an excellent report.

President Gee:

Bobby, let me just say one thing in front of everyone. First of all, the repositioning effort of the College of Agriculture that Bobby is leading is not one that is isolated. It is part of the overall restructuring process of the University and I think it is important for everyone to understand this. Bobby's leadership has been very instrumental. The positive leadership of the faculty and the involvement of our students and staff in this effort has really set a standard for the way that we are moving this process through the rest of the University. I think we all recognize that agriculture is an area in which people have tremendous views about how it should operate. I think the fact that Bobby has reached out to all of the constituents of the University, including our alumni, and brought them on board and to really feel a sense of the positive nature for change in an area of the University that is so enormously important can not be underscored enough. His leadership is absolutely remarkable. It sets a standard for all of the rest of us in this room and elsewhere.

Bobby, I really do thank you for what you're doing, we have a wonderful College of Agriculture. Graphically, I wish that we could make that presentation to a number of people in this State so they could see what we have done to be value added to the quality of life in this State.

RESTRUCTURING OF THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE (contd)

Dr. Moser:

I might also add that we have two of our students here, Chris and Tonya.

President Gee:

That's right and they are sitting in the back. They are both student leaders of the University, also.

Dr. Moser:

Chris is the President of USG and is one of our students. We're very proud of him. And Tonya will be representing the College of Agriculture in that particular government system.

Mr. Brennan:

How many students do you have in the College?

Dr. Moser:

Right now we have about 3,000 students in our B.S. degree program here in Agriculture and the School of Natural Resources, our graduate program, and the two-year technical school at Wooster.

Mr. Shumate:

Is environmental sciences a new addition?

Dr. Moser:

Not necessarily a new addition, but a new thrust for us, Alex. We think that that is an area that agriculture needs to be dealing with more and more. Primarily from the stand point of food safety, water quality, and clean air issues, and so forth. So, we see moving that from the back burner to the front burner, so to speak, on our agenda. We have excellent scientists that are doing quality work right now in the environmental sciences area. By the way, last year we just implemented an undergraduate science program in the School of Natural Resources and it already has about 150 students in it.

President Gee:

One of the things, Alex, that is significant about this is that a number of institutions around the country are heavily engaged in environmental issues. The thing that we believe that makes us unique is not only the way that we're configuring our thrust in the environment, which is very much on the value added side, but also that we're doing it through a college of agriculture that brings really unique resources in a unique way. So, this is very much focused on the value added and the quality of life issues in a way that very few, if any, institutions are doing right now. And that, again, in terms of uniqueness and opportunity is really quite important for us. Thank you, Bobby, we appreciate it.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Francisco:

The Student Affairs Committee met this morning and discussed teaching associate education and graduate associate positions with Dr. Bob Arnold, Dean Roy Koenigsknecht, and Nancy Chism. Dr. Arnold talked about the understanding and misconceptions of T.A.'s, Teaching Evaluation forms, and Teaching Fellows.

Dean Koenigsknecht started off by showing us a video on Graduate Associate Teaching Awards, how they are selected, and how he gives out the awards in the classroom like Gordon does for the teachers. He also said something that I thought was very important and that is that 68 percent of our graduating seniors go on to some form of graduate school.

Also, he talked about international T.A.'s and how they have to go through the Spoken English Program which offers mock teaching tests. Since the implementation of this program the complaints that we have had about T.A.'s and T.A. training have really diminished. Dean Koenigsknecht also said that OSU goes beyond Ohio Legislature's standards for T.A. training.

Nancy Chism reported on the activities that her department does to help supplement departments in training their T.A.'s. Some of the training includes: individual and departmental consultation on teaching issues; seminars and workshops; university-wide events; the T.A. orientation held before fall quarter starts; and publications.

Some of the other things, which Gordon has mentioned, is that 18 of our T.A.'s from Ohio State just received leadership awards from the PEW Charitable Trust and the National competition, and they were also present at the national conference. The staff also brings in frequent authors, presenters, and consultants on these issues. The impact of faculty and T.A. development services have been assessed by long-term and short-term studies, and can be documented as having meaningful, positive results on teaching of undergraduates, and the development of future faculty.

We then had our student government leaders' reports. Chris Norman reported today that they are very excited about the plans for the Trustee/Administration Student for a Day coming up in March and April. Also, their first year intern program is doing well. This program is set up to give first year students the opportunity to become part of the student government at the start of the year.

Chris also mentioned that USG is demanding a student voice in the restructuring of the University. USG is also sponsoring the "Red Ribbon Campaign," in conjunction with MADD, the Ohio Farm Bureau, American Greeting Cards, Ohio Insurance Institute, Ohio Department of Public Safety, and Dairy Mart. The motto is "Remember if you are going to drink, don't drive!" And a reminder, tie a red ribbon on your car antenna.

Mr. Francisco: (contd)

Frank Chloupek, from CGS, reported that there must be adequate faculty interaction and support for teaching at the departmental level. Stipends must be sufficient to allow full-time students to be half-time T.A.'s, especially when a large portion of their stipends are going towards health insurance. Teaching associates need to know their teaching assignments as soon as possible. This year some of the T.A.'s didn't know their assignments until a week before school started.

And, finally, Wesley Bishop, from IPC, reported that they have three outstanding candidates for the Senate Oversight Committee and they are going to name that individual today.

That concludes my report.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, Mr. Francisco. That was an interesting committee meeting today.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

I would like to call on Jim Nichols to report on the Endowment Portfolio and the Investment Managers meeting.

Mr. Nichols:

Thank you, Mr. Shumate. Under the Investments Committee tab is the report of the Endowment for the last month, covering the period October 15 through November 19. Market value at the end of the period was $499.4 million, down approximately $13.9 million from October 15. This is a reflection of the movements in both the stock and the bond markets in a negative way. The equity portion decreased $10.3 million, while the fixed income portion decreased $4.5 million. The net new additions to the Endowment for the month were $1.8 million. I would point out since July 1 the Endowment has increased $6.3 million, including net additions of $2.5 million. Current asset allocation remains consistent for what it has been in the past: 59 percent in equities, 26 percent in fixed, 7 percent in real estate, and 8 percent in cash.

Yesterday, the Investments Committee met for five hours to review equity managers and this would be in addition to the four hours they met in October to review fixed income managers. Coming from that meeting was a recommendation of some changes in the amounts of money that are allocated to managers and I would like to cover those with you. They are, again, under the Investments Committee tab entitled, "Reappointment of Investment Managers."

The amount of money available for reallocation was $70 million due to three reasons: 1) there was a reduction in one manager, which I will talk about in a moment; 2) there was a resignation of a manager approximately three months ago; and 3) we have about $27 million in non-allocated cash that is available for allocation -- that is money that has come in from new gifts.

Mr. Nichols: (contd)

The following managers have had adjustments and the recommendations are: Boatmen's Trust Company to increase $5 million; keep the Chicago Corporation and Duff & Phelps at the same particular level; WR Lazard & Company Fixed Income Index Manager to increase $15 million; R. Meeder & Associates to increase $5 million; and Nicholas Applegate to increase $20 million towards small capitalization stocks. The amount of money for University Managed Fixed Income, GNMA's, would remain the same; however, the Committee is recommending that in addition to GNMA's that it also involve the investments of treasuries and agencies.

The University Student Account would be increased by $2 million over their present allocation of $5 million. And, I would point out that the Student Account all the way through the process -- not only recently, but since we have brought the students on board three and a half years ago -- has received the same rigorous review that the regular professional managers have. The Committee was inclined, based on their consistent performance over time, to increase their allocation by $2 million.

Wells Fargo and their small capitalization fund to be increased $5 million and Wells Fargo, in terms of International Index Equity Fund, $20 million. Finally, the reference I made at the beginning with regards to reductions is that Wood Island Equity Managers be reduced to a total of $10 million. Those are presented, Mr. Shumate, for the Board's consideration.

Mr. Shumate:

Are there any questions?

Ms. Casto:

Alex, do we interview Ohio money managers? I noticed that these are all out of state.

Mr. Shumate:

They're not all out of state.

Mr. Nichols:

The Chicago Corporation has a very strong presence in Columbus and is very much involved here; R. Meeder & Associates is located in Dublin and has been here for some time; the students are obviously here; and in addition to that WR Lazard has just opened a Columbus office.

Ms. Casto:

That makes me very happy. Thank you.

Mr. Shumate:

I knew it would, Madam Chair. Are there any other questions?

REAPPOINTMENT OF INVESTMENTS MANAGERS

Resolution No. 94-73

Synopsis: The Investments Committee recommended the approval of the Reappointment of Investment Managers.

WHEREAS it is the policy of The Ohio State University to utilize the services of external Investment Managers to assist in the management of the University's Endowment Fund; and

WHEREAS the Investments Committee of the Board of Trustees periodically reviews the results obtained by the external Investment Managers and the amount of funds assigned to each of them; and

WHEREAS it is prudent investment policy to adjust the mix and amounts of money assigned to external Investment Managers as economic conditions change; and

WHEREAS the Investments Committee has also directed the Treasurer to maintain University Managed equity funds which primarily consist of gifts and a University Managed fixed income fund which consist of GNMA's, U.S. Treasury and Agency Securities; and

WHEREAS the number of external Investment Managers and the amount of funds assigned to them and the Treasurer shall be determined by the Board of Trustees:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That upon the recommendation of the Investments Committee of the Board of Trustees the following named external Investment Managers and the Office of the Treasurer shall be reappointed to counsel in the management of Endowment Fund Investments totaling the initial amounts indicated:

*Varies with receipt and sale of gifts

Market Value reduced to $10,000,000

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Shumate:

Madam Chair, the Development Report, the report on private support to the University for July and October, is in your development section of the notebook. You might recall that last month we reported that gift receipts were 9 percent behind last year's record setting pace. This month we've closed the gap to being only 2 percent behind last year for July and October periods. We expect a strong November and December, and hope to at least match last year's record in the first six month total.

There are a number of encouraging highlights to be particularly noted in the report: 1) the number of donors continues to be greater than one year ago, up 35 percent; 2) corporate giving is strong, up 18 percent; 3) gifts from non-alumni individuals are up 27 percent; and 4) private foundation giving is up 28 percent.

Are there any questions? If not, I would like to recommend to the Board the establishment of eleven new named endowed funds totalling $1,820,677 in restricted support to the University. I'm also requesting the revision of eight named endowed funds.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-74

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for October 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of eleven (11) new named endowed funds, amendments to seven (7) endowed funds, and one (1) chair:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of October 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

TOTAL		$14,375,019	$14,117,296	(2)

NOTES

- A Contributions from non-alumni individuals is up 27% this year due to several cash gifts exceeding $100,000. However overall individual giving is down 13% compared to the July-October period one year ago. This is largely due to an irrevocable trust of $2.1 million which was received in September 1992 that has yet to be matched by any single individual gift this year.
- B Corporation giving at the $10,000 or more level is up 24% for the first months of FY94 ($3,087,041 last year compared to $3,840,390 this year).
- C Giving from private foundations at the $10,000 or more level is up 40% for the first four months of FY94 ($1,485,488 this year compared to $1,061,141 last year).
- D During July-October 1992, thirty associations or other organizations gave $10,000 or more ($862,789). This year only twenty-two gave $10,000 or more ($465,755).

(Note: Of the $14,117,296 in current year gift receipts, $199,748 or 1% is the result of the payment of pledges from The Ohio State University Campaign).

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

The Adda Alderman Price Memorial Cancer Endowment Fund

The Adda Alderman Price Memorial Cancer Endowment Fund for The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute was established December 3, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Estate of Elnora L. Price.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The principal and income shall be used to support work in The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute or in such other manner and form as the University may from time to time determine in connection with the disease of cancer and its diagnosis, prevention, treatment and cure, as approved by the Director of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute and the Vice President for Health Services.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Director of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute and the Vice President for Health Services in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

Copeland, Sr., M.D., Columbus, Ohio. The name and description were revised December 3, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The income shall support an annual educational program called the William E. Copeland, Sr. Scholar Program in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology. A distinguished visiting scholar of national and international prominence in the area of reproductive medicine will be invited each year to participate in teaching residents, house staff and fellows of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology for a minimum of one week. Income shall be distributed by recommendation of the Chairperson of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology and approved by the Dean of the College of Medicine.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Dean of the College of Medicine, the Chairperson of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

Delta Omicron Memorial Scholarship Fund

The Delta Omicron Scholarship Fund was established July 11, 1956 with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Zeta Beta Chapter of Delta Omicron, Columbus, Ohio. The name and description were revised December 3, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income is to be used to provide an annual scholarship for one non-professional fraternity-affiliated undergraduate or graduate student in The Ohio State University School of Music with a 3.0 grade point average or higher. Unused income shall be transferred to the principal.

While enrolled at The Ohio State University, members of non-OSU chapters of Delta Omicron shall be eligible for consideration for the scholarship. Should Chi Chapter become re-activated at The Ohio State University, Chi Chapter members shall become exclusive recipients of the scholarship. The scholarship recipient will be chosen by the School of Music scholarship committee in cooperation with the Scholarship Committee of the Zeta Beta Chapter of Delta Omicron and, if such position exists, the Chi Chapter Faculty Advisor, in consultation with the Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate administrative official who is directly responsible for the School of Music.

John D. Drinko - Baker & Hostetler Building Fund

The Mildred S. and Noel F. George Fund was established September 3, 1982, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Kaplan-Halpert Foundation of Cleveland, Ohio, through the generosity of Noel F. George (J.D. '32), a trustee of the Foundation, on the occasion of his 50th anniversary of graduation from the College of Law. The name was changed to The Noel F. George - Baker & Hostetler Law Library Fund on February 7, 1986. The name was further changed to The Baker & Hostetler Law Library and Building Fund on June 3, 1988. The original description was revised August 23, 1989, and further revised February 2, 1990. On December 3, 1993, the name was changed to the John D. Drinko - Baker & Hostetler Building Fund and the description was revised.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income and principal shall be used by the Dean of the College of Law for the Law Building Addition and Renovation project.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of the University who is then directly responsible for legal education.

The Lawrence and Isabel Barnett Distinguished Visiting Professor Fund in Arts Policy and Administration

The Lawrence and Isabel Barnett Distinguished Visiting Professor Fund in Arts Policy and Administration was established May 7, 1993 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Lawrence R. Barnett (B.S.Bus.Adm. '88) and Isabel Barnett of Rye, New York. The fund was revised December 3, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support the teaching and other work of the Lawrence and Isabel Barnett visiting professor in Art Policy and Administration. The visiting professor shall be nationally and internationally recognized in the academic or arts community with expertise and experience in the business and policy aspects of the arts.

Duties of the visiting professor shall include, but is not limited to, teaching classes, seminars and workshops; meeting with individual and groups of students; giving public lectures; and participating in symposium and University arts community functions.

Appointment to the visiting professor position shall be made by the Dean of the College of the Arts and the Director of the School of Public Policy and Management upon recommendation of a faculty and student committee with representatives from the College of the Arts and the School of Public Policy and Management.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Dean of the College of the Arts and Director of the School of Public Policy and Management in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

The Lawrence and Isabel Barnett Fellowship Fund

The Lawrence and Isabel Barnett Fellowship Fund was established March 6, 1992, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Lawrence R. Barnett (B.S. Bus.Adm. '88) and Isabel Barnett of Rye, New York. The fund was revised December 3, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to fund a yearly fellowship for a graduate student enrolled or planning to enroll in the Master of Arts in Arts Policy and Administration. Students shall be selected on merit, with preference for a student with need. This is a dual, interdisciplinary degree program within the College of the Arts and the School of Public Policy and Management. The fellowship recipient shall be selected by the Dean of the College of the Arts and the Director of the School of Public Policy and Management, or his/her designee, and in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

Change in Description of Chair

The Newton D. Baker - Baker & Hostetler Chair in Law

The Newton D. Baker Memorial Fund was established on February 1, 1974 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with initial gifts from John D. Drinko, Baker & Hostetler and friends in memory of the firm's founder, Newton D. Baker, who was also a loyal benefactor and chairperson of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University. The name and description were revised on February 7, 1986 and August 23, 1989. The description was further revised on December 3, 1993.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support The Newton D. Baker - Baker & Hostetler Chair in Law. The chair is created to recognize the work of a distinguished scholar and teacher in the College of Law. Appointment to The Newton D. Baker - Baker & Hostetler Chair in Law will be recommended to the Provost by the Dean of the College of Law for approval by the Board.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to recommendations from the appropriate administrative official for the University who is then directly responsible for law education.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

Madam Chair, I expect my report not to take much time since Mr. Shkurti is not going to speak to us today. Our Committee met earlier this morning and we heard the annual report on capital projects. It was an excellent report given by Ms. Morelli. I would like to now call on Janet Pichette to summarize the report for you.

Ms. Pichette:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Included in your agenda mailing was the annual report by the University Architect's office on the status of capital projects under way during the past year. The report outlines our work on 217 projects, totalling over $570 million. The report is organized into four sections: 1) newly emerging projects still in the conceptual or early planning stages; 2) projects in design; 3) projects under construction; and 4) projects completed during the year. There's a listing of all projects in the category and for each project over a million dollars we have included a project data sheet. If you would like data sheets for projects under a million dollars, we would be happy to provide you with that. It also shows you the points where the Board has the involvement in all of these stages.

Earlier this morning at the Fiscal Affairs Committee meeting Jill Morelli, the University Architect, gave an informative slide presentation highlighting several of the projects noted in the report, including Hale Hall Renovation, Ambulatory Care Facility, Dreese Lab, and Derby Hall Renovation, just to name a few. Jill and I would welcome any questions about this report and any comments you might have on how we may make it more useful for you.

The following resolution will authorize employment of architects and request for bids to move forward on seven projects listed. We ask for your approval to request bids and award contracts for these projects.

EMPLOYMENT OF ARCHITECTS/ENGINEERS AND REQUEST FOR CONSTRUCTION BIDS

Resolution No. 94-75

UPDATE ON RESTRUCTURING

Ms. Casto:

I would like to call on Provost Richard Sisson to give us an update on restructuring.

Provost Richard Sisson:

Thank you, Madam Chair. I am going to do everything that I can to be studious and riveting. I have made available to the Board a formal written statement with respect to an update on restructuring. Let me invite your attention to a couple of issues in particular. You will recall that we commenced this process last fall. There was a review on the part of the Board, and I have consulted with various agencies of the University Senate and other relevant groups on the process statement. A memorandum was issued on November 3, entitled "Budget Constraints and Academic Priorities and Restructuring." There have been a number of vigorous discussions that have come about in our various academic units as a consequence of that. You have been reading about some of them and I would like to bring your attention to a couple of these formally.

On January 13 the faculty of the College of Agriculture approved that college's reorganization, reducing the number of academic units from 11 to 8. The vote was 310 to 70, with 22 abstentions. The turnout was extremely high, as it was in the next case that I am going to refer to you. I'm not going to go over the details of that proposal; however, I would like to note that there is a firm commitment with respect to this proposal that any degree program -- and this is going to be common -- that might be changed, students will have sufficient opportunity to complete their work. The proposal is certainly consonant with the priorities of the college, and the college welcomed joint ventures with academic units as well.

UPDATE ON RESTRUCTURING (contd)

At the end of January, the College of Engineering voted on a restructuring proposal that would reduce their number of departments from 15 to 9. The vote was 161 to 65, with 2 abstentions.

As a political scientist, I'm interested in turnout and eighty-five percent of those eligible did vote. The same kinds of observations that I made about Agriculture, apply to the College of Engineering.

Now these are recommendations that have come to the Office of the Provost. They are under review and at an appropriate time will be forwarded to the University Senate, the Council on Academic Affairs, and also the newly constituted Ad Hoc Committee on Oversight of Restructuring for their review and deliberation. Also you will note that there is a consideration of the deactivation of a number of master's programs, particularly in the College of Medicine. There will also be additional reviews of such programs and other units as well.

Let me invite your attention to three other initiatives that are underway. One is that Vice President Hayes and I created an Ad Hoc Committee on Molecular Life Science to review what we should be doing in the extraordinarily important area of science here at Ohio State. We have riches here, but they are scattered hither and yon around the institution. This Committee is well into its work in this area and also in Biotechnology, and will hopefully have alternatives of interest to forward to Vice President Hayes and myself by the end of the month. Dr. Hayes and I also created a Committee on Applied Social and Public Policy, which is underway, with substantially the same kind of charge. That is to make a determination of where we should be going with respect to this general area here at Ohio State, and in a sense make more user-friendly the kinds of things that we discover and invent here.

Vice President Williams and I are currently in the process of creating an Ad Hoc Committee on the Undergraduate Experience. The idea is not to look at things piecemeal, but to look at the kind of experiences that the undergraduate student has from the undergraduate student's eyes. From the time that a student touches the University, the University touches the student -- as they indicate their interest in coming and living with us and learning with us for an extraordinary part of their life. We want to see how we are doing with respect to providing an outstanding experience for our students and how we might be able to do it better.

A final point, Madam Chair, has to do with the reviews of 12 specific areas in the academic support units that are currently underway. They range from information systems, budget planning, campus planning, physical facilities, and the University's Architect Office, to stores and receiving, purchasing and accounts payable, as well as a number of other areas. This will help the University see whether or not it is possible to achieve greater efficiencies, provide better service at the same cost, and achieve savings that we would like as a consequence of doing things in a different way, whether from out-sourcing or reorganization within the University itself.

This is quite a bit, but I have tried to be brief. There is much more in the works and I look forward to keeping you updated on all of these proposals as they go through the process of review and reach fruition.

UPDATE ON RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, Provost Sisson, that was an excellent report. Does anyone have any questions for Provost Sisson? You've done an excellent job, thank you.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

We appreciate that report, Dr. Sisson. First, I want to acknowledge some very special guests. Chris Norman, our very able President of the Undergraduate Student Government, has brought with him some of his colleague presidents from the Big Ten. They are here for a three-day conference of the Association of Big Ten Students. I know that all of you join me in welcoming them to Ohio State. Indeed, I was going to originally say that we only welcome those that have not beaten us in some athletic contest, but I discovered that we would be a very unforgiving place if we did that, so we will try to be a little more ecumenical. As they will see, this is a lively place.

Yesterday, students in Astronautical Engineering participated in a competitive "egg drop" -- sending fresh eggs down a 115 foot stairwell in Dreese Lab. Before you ask -- there is an educational purpose to this seemingly off-the-wall event. To facilitate learning more about design and aerodynamic theory, and to encourage creativity, students had to build egg containers from low-cost materials that included a sock, an Ohio State bumper sticker, the pull tab from a soft drink can, a coat hanger, and a Twinkie snack cake. That conjures up all kinds of possibilities as you can imagine! You can only think of the ingenious ways these students protected the eggs for their flight.

Tonight, athletes take the court in St. John Arena for the always intense Women's Basketball rivalry between Ohio State and the University of Iowa. As you remember, we played in the semi-finals for the national title last year. And athletes will take the stage at the Wexner Center tonight and tomorrow night as the Twyla Tharp Dance Company is in performance. Again this year, Twyla Tharp has created new work in residence at the Wexner Center that will be premiered here this evening.

The annual United Black World Week Talent Show will be held Saturday night, as part of a month-long series of programs and activities around the theme of "The African-American Culture and Experience." A group of student leaders will be spending a big part of their weekend at a retreat that is examining the future direction for our student activity's facility. They will be meeting with consultants to evaluate student needs and the feasibility of renovating the Ohio Union. As we seek to enhance the quality of life on the campus and build community, a student activity center could be a focal point for progress.

We have already taken a major step toward improving the campus-area neighborhood across the street by forming the University Area Improvement Task Force. We are working with Mayor Lashutka and other public officials, as well as private interests, residents, and area businesses to address problems of crime, trash, and deteriorating conditions. I cannot say enough about the fact that the university campus must not become an oasis amid decaying physical and social conditions. Rather, we should be a catalyst for solving these issues and for change in our diverse community. I am very confident that this new partnership can yield a great result for the people who live and work on the campus, and for our neighbors. And it must.

As most of you know, this is the busy season for student recruitment. One most highly publicized group of students is the football recruiting class for fall 1994. We are proud that, on the heels of a Bowl victory finally and a terrific season, Coach Cooper, his staff, and our players have attracted what pundits around the country are calling one of the top five football classes in the nation.

As another part of our recruitment activity, and a very important part, a caravan of faculty and I visited three community colleges in northern Ohio and signed articulation agreements that will make transferring from these institutions to Ohio State a great deal easier. With Lakeland, Lorain, and Cuyahoga Community Colleges we have created a blueprint for students that gives them a seamless educational experience. As they are selecting their courses at the community colleges, they will know if and how those courses will transfer to Ohio State. We will complete more of these agreements with Ohio institutions in the months ahead.

Our partnership with Ohio's community colleges adds significantly to the access citizens have to higher education and to one of America's great universities.

All indications from our admissions staff are that the freshman class of 1994 will continue the trend of being even more academically prepared for college than any in our history. Applications from students of high ability have increased and our faculty and students are working hard to convince these students to become part of this great university.

Of course, what brings students here are the quality of our programs and distinguished faculty. I am happy to share with you that on January 21, three Ohio State researchers received one of the most prestigious awards in American Science and Engineering: The National Young Investigators Award, conferred by the National Science Foundation. Professor Barbara Ryden in astronomy, Professor Charles Pennington, a physicist, and Professor Jonathan Pelz, also a physicist, were among 169 recipients nationwide. The award is given to junior faculty members, less than seven years after their Ph.D., who carry a normal teaching load in addition to research activities. You might be interested to note that Professor Ryden will teach introductory undergraduate astronomy in the spring, and both Professors Pennington and Pelz teach introduction to physics for engineers and other courses for non-physics majors. Over the past three years, Ohio State's 16 winners of this prestigious award are evidence of our growing strength in science, mathematics, and engineering and clearly place us among the nation's elite academic institutions.

Finally, I would like to end on a most joyous note that the Chair of our Board, Ms. Casto, has recently become engaged -- not to me by the way -- and the secret engagee will be revealed sometime in the future. Congratulations, Madam Chair, we are delighted about that.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

You will find your report for grants and contracts received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the months of November and December at your places and at Tab 1 is a summary of the report. Awards for the period July 1993 through December 1993 are down about 7 percent compared to the preceding year. However, this is almost a 5 percent improvement since our last meeting. The termination of the Superconducting Supercollider project has held up award processing at the Department of Energy and may also mean less funding for our high energy physics group. Award timing still skews the overall award picture and the phasing in and out of large-scale projects also causes irregular cadence.

At Tab 2 there is a summary of expenditures for the months of July through November and December, Fiscal Year 1993 compared to 1994. Total expenditures for Fiscal Year '94 through December exceed Fiscal Year '93 expenditures by 8.7 percent. Of particular note is that only the Agency for International Development and Private Agency sponsors are showing any significant decline in expenditure growth. Last year they represented 9 percent of our external funding.

Some new projects of special interest that were funded in the months of November and December are described in Tab 3. Professor Fred Cornhill, Director of the Biomedical Engineering Center, received $250,000 from the Whitaker Foundation to develop The Biomedical Imaging Engineer. This was one of 14 awards made out of 275 proposals received. The project represents a partnership between The Ohio State University and the Cleveland Clinic. This interdisciplinary education and research training program will capitalize on the broad-based engineering expertise at The Ohio State University and the clinical and research facilities of both The Ohio State University and the Cleveland Clinic. Graduates of the program will be well placed to advance the potential of medical imaging technologies.

A second project of interest is entitled The Savings Behavior and Tenure Choice of Young Households. Professor Donald Haurin, Department of Economics, and Professor Patrick Hendershott, Department of Finance, received $70,000 from the Federal National Mortgage Association to determine why the rate of home ownership among young married couples is declining. The effect of household wealth will be studied for its influence on home ownership decisions.

Wednesday morning I met with Dr. David Schuller, Director of the James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute, Dr. Charles Bender, Director of the Ohio Supercomputer Center, Don Stredney, and several graduate students regarding new developments for computer applications in medicine. This project is another excellent example of interdisciplinary collaboration and cooperative efforts of the University and the Hospitals. They demonstrated a new computer imaging technique that is potential for improving neurological surgery and tumor resection in the head and neck area. I have to say that I was so impressed with the virtual reality demonstration that I quickly called Debbie to suggest that since it is so difficult for the Board to get there, that we do a show and tell at one of the future Board meetings so that everybody has a chance to see what kind of exciting things are going on. Debbie has suggested that we do that -- including putting what looks like a little golf glove on your hand and watching the computer as you are able to manipulate the digital images.

Tab 4 contains a list of all projects funded in December. Tab 5 contains a list of all projects funded in November.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT (contd)

Mr. Celeste: (contd)

Tab 6 was added for your edification. Let me just say that if you have any questions about Tab 6, it was designed in response to our careful look at the trend lines over the past as we have seen bits of decreases in the award amounts, and that we determine what the cause was and see what kind of effects various things have had. There are some charts that will display and hopefully highlight what we feel are the various implications. If you have any questions, Dr. Hayes said that he would be happy to respond. Dr. Hayes and I spent a bit of time going over this yesterday.

At Tab 7 is a copy of two news releases that describe major recognition awards to Ohio State faculty. The first release describes recipients of the prestigious National Young Investigator Award from the National Science Foundation. The second release announces receipt of the prestigious Charles A. Dana Award for Pioneering Achievement in Education.

At Tab 8 are abstracted press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity. This concludes my report, Madam Chair.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-78

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summaries for November and December 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the months of November and December 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

My report this morning is going to include two months, December and January, since our Board did not meet in January. The December 16 meeting of the Professional Affairs/Education/Research Committee opened with a confidential report from Dr. Peterson regarding Clinical Quality Management for dental care provided to Hospitals' inpatients and emergency patients. Dr. Bay reported that hospital-wide quality and resource management data revealed no problems. He indicated that the Clinical Quality Management Committee will report on new indicators including autopsy rates and cesarean section rates, which we believe will give a better overall view of quality in the Hospitals. In open session, the Committee approved two revisions to the Medical Staff Rules and Regulations. Mr. Fraley reported that the rehabilitation program at Dodd Hall received many favorable comments and a full three-year accreditation during their recent survey.

The December 16 Hospitals Board meeting began with a discussion about the possibility of creating a captive malpractice insurance company. We directed Hospitals Administration to continue their analysis of this option, including the advantages and disadvantages of potential domiciles. We then discussed a potential relationship with University Reference Labs and asked Administration to provide a more detailed report at the February Executive Committee meeting. Mr. Fraley reported he expects to receive a positive report from the JCAHO surveyors in late January or early February. Ms. Suzanne Marlin briefly discussed the Service Board's major fundraiser, "Classic Cruisin'," planned for April 30.

On January 27, the Strategic Planning Committee continued its discussion about market changes in both purchasing and providing healthcare. Mr. Fraley informed us about actions that have already been taken and other recommended actions to make sure our Academic Medical Center remains strong and capable of carrying out its teaching, research, and service mission.

Also on January 27, the Executive Committee authorized Hospitals Administration to move forward with its investigation of creating a captive insurance company in Bermuda, which is a flexible, experienced, and highly-regarded domicile well-suited to assist the Hospitals in meeting its risk financing objectives. Mr. Fraley provided copies of a recently-published study by HCIA and Mercer Management, recognizing The Ohio State University Hospitals as one of the nation's top 100 hospitals and one of the top ten academic medical center hospitals. The study was undertaken in an attempt to establish industry benchmarks for successful healthcare delivery. Benchmark hospitals were chosen based on a number of financial, efficiency, and clinical measures that identify uses of resources, efficient provision of care, and high quality outcomes.

At this time, I would like to call on Michael Colley to present a motion.

MEDICAL STAFF MEMBER

Resolution No. 94-79

Mr. Colley:

Madam Chair, Mr. Shumate, Mr. Brennan, and I served on a subcommittee, which you appointed, to review the President's decision affirming the August 14, 1991, decision of The Ohio State University Hospitals Board relating to a member of the medical staff. After a full review of the proceedings, we recommend, in accordance with Hospitals Bylaw 3335-43-06 (F)(1), that the Board of Trustees affirm the President's decision.

Upon motion of Mr. Colley, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution with six affirmative votes cast by Ms. Casto and Messrs. Kessler, Wolf, Shumate, Colley, and Brennan, and two abstentions cast by Messrs. Celeste and Skestos.

CLEVELAND CLINIC FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to now call on Dr. Tzagournis to present a brief update on our agreement with the Cleveland Clinic Foundation.

Dr. Manuel Tzagournis:

Good morning. Our distinguished Chair requested that I be very brief and I am happy to do so, but I will be available for questions. In 1991 we initiated the partnership between The Ohio State University and the Cleveland Clinic. In my judgment it has been highly successful. The major benefit that we get is that our large number of health sciences students have an opportunity to rotate and gain experiences at a very distinguished medical center. The benefits that the Cleveland Clinic people achieve is the excitement of teaching young students and participating in mutual research projects and in the academic process.

We have had 111 students take some rotation at the Cleveland Clinic from our College of Medicine this past academic year. Six students -- two basic science students and four clinical students -- spent the entire year there and enjoyed it a great deal and have learned a lot.

We have a number of mutual research projects going on and one you heard about today from Mr. Celeste. The Whitaker Foundation has given the Biomedical Engineering Department, which is headed by our chair of Biomedical Engineering - - who also heads the Biomedical Engineering effort at the Cleveland Clinic -- a $250,000 grant. We have several other initiatives such as a minority recruitment mutual program with the John Hay High School. We had a meeting that occurred on January 25, among some of our key researchers and some of their investigators, where an agreement was reached to have the Cleveland Clinic support two graduate students each year in our molecular biology, biochemistry, and the neurosciences programs. We are also working, with the help of Sarah Austin, Mal Baroway, Ron St. Pierre, and individuals from the Cleveland Clinic, on the public information piece that is almost completed. It will soon be distributed to communities in Cleveland and Columbus.

I think that we worried a great deal about the impact of this union, but we are finding that the communities are increasingly happy with this relationship. It is not interfering with the working relationships in either one of our communities. I'll be happy to answer any questions, Madam Chair.

Mr. Shumate:

Are there any indications that this program has helped our recruitment of medical students?

Dr. Tzagournis:

Yes, there is no question about it. We have a number of students who choose us rather than other medical schools because they either live in the Cleveland area or are interested in having some of their rotations in Cleveland. This year we hit a record 6,500 applications for 210 slots. The other interesting thing is that in the biomedical engineering program that I mentioned, there were 400 applications for 25 graduate slots this year, which is both here and at the Cleveland Clinic.

CLEVELAND CLINIC FOUNDATION REPORT (contd)

Mr. Brennan:

At the time this agreement was entered into, there was a certain "tension" -- tension is the word I would use to describe it -- between Case Western Reserve and the Clinic. They felt that it was their territory and that you had invaded it. Have you made peace with them on that?

Dr. Tzagournis:

I think that for the most part we have. I think the Case Western Reserve people, in my judgment, are much more comfortable with it because we made it clear that we would not interfere with any working relationships that they wish to enter into or that they are already participating in. As a matter of fact, I think it gives us an opportunity to work together with both institutions.

President Gee:

One of the things, Manuel, that the Board has talked about would be the opportunity -- this is an alert -- to have another Board meeting in Cleveland. We want to move the Board around a bit more, and it would be nice to do that in connection with the Clinic and perhaps with Case Western. Also that would further facilitate the relationship publicly, as well as to acknowledge the great work that they are doing for us. Dr. Loop is very committed to this as you well know, and I'm delighted and look forward to hearing a bit more about that.

Dr. Tzagournis:

Thank you very much. I'll meet with Ambassador Wolf fairly soon and see what we can arrange in Cleveland.

President Gee:

We have already offered up the Ambassador's home for a party and we appreciate that. He may spring for dinner too, you never know. Thank you very much, Dr. Tzagournis.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

The Educational Affairs Committee met this morning and discussed the Early Retirement Incentive Program, which will come before this Board later this morning. I would also like to present the following resolutions:

CREATION OF THE CENTER OF HEALTH POLICY STUDIES

Resolution No. 94-80

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the creation of the Center of Health Policy Studies.

CREATION OF THE CENTER OF HEALTH POLICY STUDIES (contd)

WHEREAS a Program for Health Policy and Health Services Research presently exists in the Division of Hospital and Health Services which has been successful in galvanizing faculty interest in issues of health care policy and that program is now ready to develop into an interdisciplinary center; and

WHEREAS faculty from a variety of academic disciplines, including the Colleges of Medicine, Dentistry, Nursing, Pharmacy, Law, and Social and Behavioral Sciences, have expressed considerable interest in the proposed Center for Health Policy Studies, which could offer a better format for spanning the large range of legal, medical, and social interests that inform health care policy concerns; and

WHEREAS the proposal was reviewed and approved by the Research and Graduate Council; and

WHEREAS the proposal for a Center for Health Policy Studies conforms to the new University rule for academic centers and falls within the mission of the University; and

WHEREAS the establishment of the center would be timely in view of current state and national interest, and would attract national and local funding opportunities for health care policy research; and

WHEREAS this proposed change is to be administered in accordance to Faculty Rule 3335-3-36 by the Office of Health Services; has the approval of the Council on Academic Affairs; and was approved by the University Senate at its December 4, 1993 meeting;

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the proposal to create the Center of Health Policy Studies, effective immediately, is hereby approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the approval of the following amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty.

WHEREAS the University Senate pursuant to rule 3335-1-09 of the Administrative Code is authorized to recommend through the President to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty as approved by the University Senate; and

WHEREAS the proposed changes in the Rules of the University Faculty were approved by the University Senate on December 4, 1993, and January 22, 1994:

AMENDED RULES

3335-5-4815 Committee on traffic, parking, and public safety.

(A) Membership.

The committee on traffic, parking, and public safety shall consist of ~~seventeen~~ EIGHTEEN members.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

AMENDED RULES (contd)

- (1) Six regular faculty appointed by the executive committee of the faculty council or elected by the faculty council in accordance with procedures specified in faculty rule 3335-5-48 (B)(2). The term of service is three years.
- (2) Four students.
 - (a) One graduate student ~~selected~~ APPOINTED by the council of graduate students. The term of service is one year.
 - (b) One professional student ~~selected~~ APPOINTED by the inter-professional council. The term of service is one year.
 - (c) Two undergraduate students ~~selected~~ APPOINTED by the undergraduate student government. The term of service is one year.
- (3) Two staff members (eligible for only "B" parking permits) appointed by the steering committee. The term of service is three years.
- (4) Three administrators appointed by the president. The term of service is three years.
- (5) ~~Two~~ THREE members, non-voting.
 - (a) The assistant vice president for ~~university public safety~~ BUSINESS AND ADMINISTRATION or designee.
 - (b) THE ASSISTANT VICE PRESIDENT FOR FACILITIES PLANNING OR DESIGNEE.
 - ~~(b)~~
 - (c) The director of the division of traffic and parking.

Balance Unchanged.

3335-47-06 Tenure initiating unit.

- (A) A tenure initiating unit is a division, department, school, or college approved by the council on academic affairs, the university senate, and the board of trustees. A tenure initiating unit has the following responsibilities for all faculty members assigned to it: to assist in professional development; to evaluate; to maintain official personnel records; and to initiate promotion, tenure, and nonrenewal recommendations. The office of academic affairs shall be responsible for maintaining the official list of tenure initiating units.
- (B) A single division, department, school, or college must serve as the tenure initiating unit for each REGULAR faculty member, including individuals with multiple appointments. Multiple appointments to the regular faculty totaling fifty per cent or more of service to the university shall be considered to be the same as a single appointment of fifty per cent or more for the purpose of determining eligibility for tenure or tenure candidacy.
- (C) ~~Change of tenure initiating unit may occur only with the voluntary consent of the faculty member, and with the approval of the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost and that of a simple majority of all tenured faculty members in the receiving tenure initiating unit.~~ A FACULTY MEMBER MAY CHANGE FROM ONE TENURE INITIATING UNIT TO

AMENDED RULES (contd)

- ANOTHER VOLUNTARILY; OR AS A RESULT OF THE RESTRUCTURING OF ACADEMIC UNITS, INCLUDING CONSOLIDATION, REORGANIZATION, OR ABOLISHMENT; OR AS A RESULT OF THE ABOLISHMENT OF A TENURE INITIATING UNIT DURING CONDITIONS OF FINANCIAL EXIGENCY, THE FOLLOWING PROVISIONS GOVERN SUCH CHANGES:
- (1) A FACULTY MEMBER MAY VOLUNTARILY MOVE FROM ONE TENURE INITIATING UNIT TO ANOTHER UPON APPROVAL OF A SIMPLE MAJORITY OF ALL TENURED FACULTY MEMBERS IN THE RECEIVING TENURE INITIATING UNIT AND, FOLLOWING CONSULTATION WITH THE APPROPRIATE DEAN(S), THE SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT FOR ACADEMIC AFFAIRS AND PROVOST.
 - (2) A FACULTY MEMBER'S TENURE INITIATING UNIT MAY BE CHANGED AS A RESULT OF STRUCTURAL CHANGES IN ACADEMIC UNITS, INCLUDING CONSOLIDATION OR REORGANIZATION OF UNITS, OR ABOLISHMENT OF UNITS, THAT ARE APPROVED BY THE UNIVERSITY SENATE AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES.
 - (a) WHEN ACADEMIC UNITS ARE TO BE CONSOLIDATED OR REORGANIZED, RESULTING IN THE CREATION OF ONE OR MORE NEW TENURE INITIATING UNITS, THE PLAN FOR RELOCATING FACULTY TO THE NEW TENURE INITIATING UNITS SHALL BE PART OF THE APPROVED RESTRUCTURING PROPOSAL. CHANGE IN TENURE INITIATING UNIT RESULTING FROM THE CONSOLIDATION OR REORGANIZATION OF ACADEMIC UNITS SHALL NOT REQUIRE THE CONSENT OF INDIVIDUAL FACULTY MEMBERS WHOSE TENURE INITIATING UNIT IS CHANGED. IN ADDITION, SINCE A RECEIVING UNIT DOES NOT EXIST WHEN NEW UNITS ARE BEING CREATED, NO VOTE OF SUCH A UNIT WILL BE REQUIRED IN RELOCATING FACULTY.
 - (b) WHEN A TENURE INITIATING UNIT IS TO BE ABOLISHED AND IS NOT PART OF A PLAN TO CONSOLIDATE OR REORGANIZE TWO OR MORE UNITS INTO NEW TENURE INITIATING UNITS,
- (D) ~~Should a tenure initiating unit cease to exist, every effort shall be made by the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost to transfer each faculty member in that tenure initiating unit to another tenure initiating unit, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (C) of this rule. Should such agreement be impossible, the person's tenure responsibility shall reside with the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost. The senior vice president for academic affairs and provost shall assign the faculty member appropriate duties. If the faculty member's previous assignment has been at a regional campus, the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost shall consult with the dean and director of the regional campus regarding an appropriate assignment. The provisions in this section do not supersede the requirements for treatment of tenured faculty members during conditions of financial exigency as specified in rules 3335-5-021, 3335-5-022, and 3335-5-023 of the Administrative Code.~~
- (3) A FACULTY MEMBER WHOSE TENURE INITIATING UNIT IS ABOLISHED DURING CONDITIONS OF FINANCIAL EXIGENCY, AS DESCRIBED IN RULE 3335-3-021, MAY BE REASSIGNED TO A NEW TENURE INITIATING UNIT UNDER THE TERMS OF PARAGRAPH (C)(1) OF RULE 3335-5-022.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

AMENDED RULES (contd)

- (D) WHEN FACULTY MEMBERS CHANGE TENURE INITIATING UNITS UNDER PARAGRAPHS (C)(2) AND (C)(3) OF THIS RULE, THE NEW TENURE INITIATING UNITS SHALL MAKE REASONABLE EFFORTS TO ASSIST FACULTY MEMBERS IN ADJUSTING TO THE EXPECTATIONS OF THE NEW UNIT. FACULTY MEMBERS WHO BELIEVE THAT SOME OTHER UNIT MAY BE MORE APPROPRIATE THAN THEIR NEW TENURE INITIATING UNIT MAY ALSO EXPLORE THE POSSIBILITY OF FURTHER RELOCATION UNDER THE TERMS OF PARAGRAPH (C)(1) OF THIS RULE.

RESCINDED RULE

~~3335-5-491 Mershon committee on education in national security.~~

- (A) ~~The Mershon committee on education in national security shall consist of ten members to be appointed by the president to serve terms as follows: the director of the Mershon center for education in national security shall serve as chairperson; the chairpersons of the ROTC departments; and six regular faculty members who shall be appointed for three year terms, with two of the six being appointed each year. Members appointed for three year terms shall be eligible for reappointment.~~
- (B) ~~The committee shall function principally in an advisory capacity to the director with respect to the development of a program of education and research in national security which will support and be in harmony with the general educational and research aims of the university. The committee shall be charged with the responsibility of ensuring that the program makes a significant and continuing contribution to the university wide program for education and research in national security.~~
- (C) ~~This committee shall be responsible for making recommendations to the president regarding the appointment of the director of the Mershon center for education in national security, as a vacancy arises. Established university procedures for appointing academic personnel shall be followed.~~
- (D) ~~Reports by this committee to the president shall be transmitted by the director through the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost.~~

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty be adopted as recommended by the University Senate.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES - WINTER QUARTER COMMENCEMENT

Resolution No. 94-

82

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of Degrees and Certificates for Winter Quarter.

WHEREAS pursuant to paragraph (E) of rule 3335-1-06 of the Administrative Code, the Board has authority for the issuance of degrees and certificates; and

DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES - WINTER QUARTER COMMENCEMENT (contd)

WHEREAS the faculties of the colleges and schools shall transmit, in accordance with rule 3335-9-29 of the Administrative Code, for approval by the Board of Trustees the names of persons who have completed degree and certificate requirements:

WHEREAS the College of Agriculture has recommended that Mark Andrew Sommers be awarded a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture degree posthumously:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the degrees and certificates be conferred on March 18, 1994, to those persons who have completed the requirements for their respective degrees and certificates and are recommended by the colleges and schools, and that the names of those persons awarded degrees and certificates be included in the minutes of this meeting.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-84

Synopsis: Approval of seven Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

Harry L. Coles

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 11, 1993, of Harry L. Coles, Professor Emeritus, in the Department of History.

Harry L. Coles was born on April 30, 1920, in Nashville, Tennessee. He received his undergraduate and graduate education at Vanderbilt University, his BA in 1939 and Ph.D. in history in 1949. From 1942 until 1948 he served as an archivist and historian for the National Archives, U.S. Army Air Force, and the U.S. Army.

Professor Coles joined The Ohio State University faculty in 1949 as an assistant professor of history and advanced to the rank of professor by 1961. He served as assistant chair of his department (1953-1958) and as chair (1967-1973). He retired in 1984. During his tenure as department chair, he reformed the undergraduate history curriculum. Under his leadership the department of history started its rise to an "excellence" department at the university and increased national recognition.

As a scholar, Professor Coles specialized in early 19th century American history, especially federal land policy and westward expansion, but his service in World War II as a civilian historian drew him to military history. His most notable work, The War of 1812, combined his interests (University of Chicago Press, 1965) and is still in print. He served as co-author and co-compiler of Soldiers Become Governors (Government Printing Office, 1964), a study of civil affairs in World War II written in the Army's official history of the war. His last book was History of the Administration of Federal Land Policies and Land Tenure in Louisiana, 1803-1860 (Arno Press, 1979). Throughout his career he wrote essays and articles, edited anthologies, and contributed book reviews to many journals and periodicals.

In addition to his critical leadership to the history department in the difficult 1970s, Professor Coles initiated the highly-successful military history program at the University. In 1967 he alone taught the subject in one course, but eleven of his eighteen successful doctoral student did military history dissertations, and five of them today hold leadership positions in the field. As chair, Professor Coles enlarged the program until it reached a faculty of four, teaching ten different courses, and a graduate student population of forty. His own international reputation provided him with the opportunity to be Ernest J. King Professor of Maritime History at the Naval War College (1966-1967) and a visiting professor at two universities in Great Britain. At the time of his death, he was completing work on a book on the international phase of the American Revolution.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Coles its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Charles D. Diesem

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 21, 1993, of Charles D. Diesem, Professor Emeritus in the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Charles D. Diesem (contd)

Dr. Diesem was born on July 5, 1921, in Galion, Ohio. He received his DVM degree from The Ohio State University in 1943. He also received a master's and PhD degree in Veterinary Anatomy from The Ohio State University. Dr. Diesem joined the OSU Veterinary College faculty in 1947. His teaching responsibilities included freshman anatomy courses, as well as elective courses in surgical, poultry and laboratory animal anatomy. His research interests included peripheral nerves and anatomical ophthalmology. Dr. Diesem retired from the college in 1985 following 38 years of service and was awarded the Distinguished Alumnus Award.

A veteran of World War II, Dr. Diesem served in the U.S. Army Veterinary Corps and was a member of the U.S. Army Reserves and Ohio National Guard for more than 25 years, retiring as a lieutenant colonel. Dr. Diesem was deputy health commissioner for the city of Upper Arlington for 25 years. He was always proud to note his job as head manager for the 1942 national championship OSU football team.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. Charles Diesem its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Franklin H. Knower

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 15, 1993, of Franklin Hayward Knower, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Communication.

Dr. Knower was born on December 15, 1901, in Vernon County, Wisconsin. He received his B.A. degree from Northwestern in 1925. He went on to receive his M.A. degree in psychology from Syracuse University in 1928, and his Ph.D. degree in psychology from the University of Minnesota in 1935.

Franklin Knower was appointed Professor of Speech at The Ohio State University in 1946. Prior to that time he had been a member of the faculty at the University of Minnesota and at the University of Iowa. He retired from The Ohio State University as Professor Emeritus in August 1972.

Professor Knower is widely recognized for his pioneering work in the development of experimental research in speech communication. His scholarly publications number well over 200. He was one of the most influential founders of the field of communication. In 1971 the Speech Communication Association named him the first recipient of its Distinguished Service Award in recognition of his leadership in the field. At the 1993 convention of the Speech Communication Association, the Interpersonal Division established its initial annual outstanding research article award; this award will be named the Franklin H. Knower Award.

Dr. Knower founded new generations of communication scholarship through his many students. He was advisor for nearly 50 Ph.D. students, and a greater number of M.A. students. In addition to his work at The Ohio State University, he consulted with and taught at many other universities, including the University of Wisconsin, the University of Oklahoma, Shaw University, and the University of Guam. He also served widely as a consultant in industry and civic affairs. Throughout his long and distinguished career he was known for the quality of his research contributions and for his energetic and valued service to the field.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Knower its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Walter Meiden

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on December 28, 1993, of Walter Meiden, Professor Emeritus in the Department of French and Italian.

Professor Meiden joined the faculty at Ohio State in 1934. He taught French and Spanish and directed the language program in French for forty years before his retirement in 1974. After taking his B.A. at the University of Michigan, he earned both M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at Ohio State. Inducted into the Navy during World War II, Dr. Meiden taught for the duration of the war at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Author of a number of textbooks and text editions in French and Spanish, Walter Meiden was a pioneer in the development of cultural grammars and the coordinated classroom exercises that became known as the "Meiden Method." Beginning French--A Cultural Approach (1948) and Beginning Spanish--A Cultural Approach (1953) remain in print in revised editions. He was a pioneer also, beginning in the early 1930's, in the methodology of radio French courses on WOSU. With the editorial collaboration of Professor Hans-Erich Keller, Walter Meiden's dissertation, "Le Roman de saint Paul," was published in Le Moyen Age (1991).

Dr. Meiden was an avid chess player and enthusiastic traveler who regularly combined the two in summers of playing chess across Europe, North Africa, and Russia. With grandmaster Dr. Max Ewe he wrote Chess Master vs. Chess Amateur (2nd ed., 1971) and Chess Master vs. Chess Master (1973).

Generous mentor to generations of teaching associates and younger faculty, master teacher, faithful and spirited colleague, Walter Meiden will be much missed and recalled with affection by his many friends.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Meiden its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Mervin G. Smith

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 14, 1993 of Mervin George Smith, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology.

Dr. Smith was born on a farm near Corunna, Indiana (DeKalb County) on April 6, 1911. He began his education in a one-room rural school and graduated from high school in Ashley, Indiana, in 1929. His early interest in agriculture led him to vocational agriculture classes during high school. Outside of school, he carried corn and dairy projects through 4-H. At age 17-18, he managed and operated his home farm during his father's illness. He was able to earn enough money through farm projects and additional employment on neighboring farms to finance most of his undergraduate college education. He enrolled at Purdue University in 1929 and received his Bachelor of Science degree (with distinction) in 1933 in the area of Agricultural Education. From 1933 to 1936 he taught vocational agriculture in northern Indiana and served as a 4-H club supervisor. During this time, he advised the outstanding chapter of the Future Farmers of America in Indiana, and coached the FFA state public speaking contest winners.

In 1936, he began graduate school in Agricultural Economics at Purdue University, earning some credits at the University of Chicago during the summer of 1938. While pursuing his graduate degree at Purdue, he was employed as a Research Assistant in farm management special crop through the Indiana State Agricultural Experiment Station, and as an Instructor, teaching farm management and agricultural marketing. During this time, he wrote 28 circulars and bulletins for the Experiment Station. After receiving his Ph.D. in 1940, he continued as an Instructor at Purdue until 1942.

From 1942 to 1945, Dr. Smith served as U.S. Agricultural Representative in Mexico and later as Agricultural Attache´ in the U.S. Embassy. As a result, he published several U.S.D.A. bulletins and learned to speak Spanish fluently. From 1945 to 1948, Dr. Smith was Director of Research for May Seed Company and Mount Arbor Nursery in Shenandoah, Iowa.

In 1948, Dr. Smith was hired as an Associate Professor at The Ohio State University where he served as an Agricultural Extension Economist until 1953, specializing in outlook and policy. In 1953, he was named Professor and Chairman of OSU's Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. He held this position until September of 1966 when he became Assistant Dean for International Affairs in OSU's College of Agriculture. In this position, he also served as Director of the College's Agricultural Finance Center. He retired from the Assistant Dean position on June 30, 1981.

Dr. Smith's professional memberships included the United Nations Association (past president), the American Agricultural Economics Association, American Association of University Professors, Alpha Zeta, and Gamma Sigma Delta. He had a long and extensive list of service activities both within and outside of The Ohio State University. He was an active church member throughout his life, teaching Sunday School classes and serving as director of music even prior to entering college. Music was an important part of his life, and he was a member of several choral groups, the last of which was the Republican Men's Glee Club.

Dr. Smith will be remembered as the initiator and perpetuator of international agricultural development work in the College of Agriculture at The Ohio State University. As a result of his accomplishments, he was the recipient of numerous awards and commendations, one of the most fitting being the Award of Distinguished Service in International Agriculture by the Association of U.S. University Directors of International Programs. He annually sponsored the Gamma Sigma Delta International Service Award to a faculty member, and annually funded travel scholarships for more than 30 students for work/study abroad.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in its loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Joseph F. Stranges, Jr.

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 11, 1993, of Joseph F. Stranges, Jr., Program Director Emeritus in the Office of Minority Affairs.

Dr. Stranges was born on December 12, 1923, in Holloway, Ohio. He was a true and loyal Buckeye, having earned the baccalaureate, master's and doctoral degrees from The Ohio State University, the latter in 1970 in Higher Education. The University was the recipient of his expertise, as were numerous students who knocked on his door time and time again for financial assistance and counseling. He packaged the financial aid for thousands in the Office of Minority Affairs (OMA) Freshman Foundation and Minority Scholars Programs during his tenure. Joe Stranges, Jr., was the embodiment of dedication and generosity. It did not matter that a task took long hours to complete. He offered his time willingly, and always with a smile.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Joseph F. Stranges, Jr. (contd)

He served the University for some 30 years in administrative capacities and on a number of committees. His commitment extended beyond his "OMA family" and the University at large, as evidenced by the more than 50 citations/awards, including the Governor's Citation, State Legislative recognition, and commendations from both State and Regional financial aid associations.

Dr. Stranges' involvement truly encompassed the field of counseling. He served on numerous higher education panels, where he presented and conducted workshops, and served (in retirement) more recently as a consultant at the Sawmill Psychological Services in Worthington (Ohio). He also spent long hours as a member of the OMA Minority Scholars Interviewing Team, placing nearly 300 high school honor students at OSU each fall.

His life commanded a certain brand of special respect and trust. He leaves an extended -- rich legacy, and one of total commitment to students.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. Stranges its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be entered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Robert E. S. Young

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death of Robert E. S. Young, M.D., Instructor Emeritus in the Department of Surgery.

Dr. Young was born on May 10, 1908, in Columbus, Ohio. He received his undergraduate education at The Ohio State University and his Doctor of Medicine degree in 1934 at Harvard Medical School. Dr. Young went on to obtain his specialty training in general surgery at the University Hospital of Cleveland in Cleveland, Ohio.

Robert E. S. Young joined the faculty of The Ohio State University in 1940 as a Clinical Instructor of Surgery and later obtained a joint appointment as an Assistant Professor in Preventive Medicine. Dr. Young was an excellent clinician/teacher. Dr. Young published scientific work in the area of gallbladder diseases. He was awarded the title of Instructor Emeritus in 1969.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Young its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

The Investments Committee met this morning and heard monthly and quarterly Endowment Portfolio reports from the Treasurer, Jim Nichols. Copies of those reports are in the Board notebooks.

Mr. Shumate: (contd)

I am also pleased to report that the $12.5 million in gift receipts received during the month of December was the second best December in the University's history. The only higher amount was the $15.2 million received during December 1986 when we were in our last annual capital fundraising campaign. Even so, the first six months of FY '94 is still 6 percent behind last year's record-setting pace, which was $30.4 million this year compared with $32.5 million last year.

In addition to the $30.4 million in gift receipts during the first half of FY '94, I am pleased to report that $27.3 million in pledge expectancies and deferred gift agreements were acquired. Max Fisher's leadership pledge to the College of Business and several other major commitments made this total possible.

Are there any questions on the gift report? If not, I would like to recommend to the Board the establishment of 11 new named endowed funds totalling $1,252,842 in restricted support to the University. Also, I am requesting a resolution be approved to change a lectureship fund to a professorship.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-85

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for December 1993 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS the funding level has been reached to establish the H. William Clatworthy, Jr., Professorship in Pediatric Surgery; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of eleven (11) new named endowed funds:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of December 1993 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

NOTES

AContributions from non-alumni individuals is up 11% this year due to several cash gifts exceeding $100,000.

However overall individual giving is down 15% compared to the July-December period one year ago. This is largely due to an irrevocable trust of $2.1 million which was received in September 1992 and a bequest receipt in November 1992 for nearly $1 million.

BCorporation giving at the $10,000 or more level is up 14% for the first six months of FY94 ($6,666,552 last year compared to $7,610,634 this year).

CGiving from private foundations at the $10,000 or more level is up 14% for the first six months of FY94 ($2,775,826 this year compared to $2,433,262 last year).

DDuring July-December 1992, fifty-two associations or other organizations gave $10,000 or more ($1,558,427). This year only forty gave $10,000 or more ($954,677).

(Note: Of the $30,395,979 in current year gift receipts, $1,083,586 or 4% is the result of the payment of pledges from The Ohio State University Campaign).

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT FUND

Establishment of Named Professorship

H. William Clatworthy, Jr., Professorship in Pediatric Surgery

In accordance with the guidelines previously established by the Board, the H. William Clatworthy, Jr., Lectureship in Pediatric Surgery was established on June 12, 1980, by Dr. and Mrs. H. William Clatworthy, Jr. and others. At the time of the establishment of the endowed fund it was agreed that the fund be redesignated the H. William Clatworthy, Jr., Professorship in Pediatric Surgery when the level of funding reaches $250,000, which has now been received by The Ohio State University Development Fund, and that the Professorship was established February 4, 1994.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

In keeping with the original provisions of the original endowed fund, eighty-five (85%) of the income shall be used to support a distinguished scholar in pediatric surgery with fifteen percent (15%) and donations returned to the principal. Appointment of the Professorship shall be recommended by the Dean of the College of Medicine in consultation with the Chairperson of the Department of Surgery. Final approval shall be made by the Provost, the President, and the Board of Trustees.

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

The Raymond D. Hammond Chemical Engineering
Scholarship Fund

The Raymond D. Hammond Chemical Engineering Scholarship Fund was established February 4, 1994 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with contributions to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Raymond D. Hammond (B.Ch.E. '49).

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

Four thousand dollars ($4,000) from the annual income and/or principal shall be withdrawn annually by the Department of Chemical Engineering and used for scholarship awards at the discretion of the Chairperson of the Department of Chemical Engineering. Upon the death of Raymond D. Hammond and Margaret E. Hammond, and with the addition of distributions from a future trust, the annual income shall then be used to provide scholarship awards to students who will be enrolling in the Department of Chemical Engineering and who have demonstrated outstanding scholastic achievement, leadership and a need for financial assistance. Preference shall first be given to graduates of Bellaire High School and then to graduates of other Belmont County high schools. In the event there are no chemical engineering candidates, then candidates for other departments within the College of Engineering will be considered provided they meet the above order of preference. The award recipients shall be named annually and shall receive first preference for renewed awards provided they maintain a 3.0 GPA during the previous school year. The award recipients shall be selected by a committee as outlined in the attached letter and in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

Herta Camerer Gross Research Fellowship Award

The Herta Camerer Gross Research Fellowship Award was established February 4, 1994 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Frank R. Gross, of Akron, Ohio, in memory of his wife Herta (Dr. Rer. Nat. 1930, University of Tuebingen, Germany). The fellowship also honors the many members of the Camerer families whose contributions in science and medicine go back to the 16th century.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used for the support of doctoral or postdoctoral students in biological sciences who show potential to contribute to scientific knowledge, and not necessarily be based on financial need. Preference shall be given to students in the area of plant genetics. Selection of the students is to be made by recommendation of the dean of the College of Biological Sciences. The fellowship may be (but is not required to be) awarded annually. It should be awarded only when a candidate is identified with exceptional research skills in an area of study with high potential for significant contributions to science. The award shall ordinarily be distributed from the earnings of the endowment. In the case of an exceptionally unique and outstanding applicant, a portion of the principal equal to the income distributed that year may be invaded.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

Agnes L. Cope Scholarship Fund

The Agnes L. Cope Scholarship Fund was established February 4, 1994 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts to The Ohio State University Development from the estate of Agnes L. Cope (B.S.Ed. '37) and friends.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide one or more scholarships to a first year student graduating from Lakewood High, Cuyahoga County, Ohio, for a period not to exceed one year. The scholarship shall be awarded to recognize academic achievement by a student who has given extraordinary service to community and school, service which was encouraged by Agnes L. Cope during her lifetime. The selection will be made by the Committee on Student Financial Aid after the Lakewood High School principal, or designee, has endorsed the student as having given extraordinary service to the community and school. If no qualified recipient is available, the scholarship may be awarded to a qualified Lakewood graduate beyond the first year. In the event the Lakewood School ceases to exist, it is the desire of the donors that the award should benefit students in their first year from the same geographical area and with the same record of service.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor(s).

The Dale T. Friday Scholarship Fund

The Dale T. Friday Scholarship Fund was established February 4, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Farm Science Review Alumni Association, in cooperation with Dale T. Friday, his family and friends. The scholarship is established in recognition of Dale T. Friday's contributions to student employees of the Farm Science Review.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to award scholarship(s) annually to a Farm Science Review student employee(s) in recognition of their employment record, academic need and academic accomplishments and in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Vice President for Agricultural Administration, department chair, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

The Laura G. Heichel Memorial Scholarship Fund in Teacher Education

The Laura G. Heichel Memorial Scholarship Fund in Teacher Education was established February 4, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Gary L. Heichel, in loving memory of his wife and in recognition of her commitment to teachers and the teaching profession. Contributions were also made by family and friends of Laura, who died suddenly on October 19, 1991, while completing her doctoral studies program at The Ohio State University.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates. The donor or others may contribute to the endowment over the years.

The annual income shall be used to provide scholarship aid to a student in the area of early and middle childhood education and language, literature, and reading in the College of Education. Recipients of the scholarship award shall be chosen on the basis of scholastic achievement and outstanding character. Preference shall be given to senior undergraduate or graduate students who demonstrate the kind of professional commitment to elementary education so admirably reflected by the life and work of Laura G. Heichel. Selection of the scholarship recipient shall be made by the Dean of the College of Education, in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid and the faculty in the area of early and middle childhood education and language, literature and reading.

The purposes of this fund shall be maintained, at minimum, until the sixty-fifth anniversary of Laura C. Heichel's birth (September 13, 2015). It, however, is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Dean of the College of Education.

John S. Jordan Scholarship Fund

The John S. Jordan Scholarship Fund was established February 4, 1994 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with community gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund raised by the John S. Jordan Scholarship Fund Committee.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide one or more scholarships to African-American students attending The Ohio State University at Mansfield. Students shall be selected to receive awards based on criteria developed by the Admissions and Scholarship Committee of The Ohio State University at Mansfield, and in consultation with the Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

The Ted and Lois Cyphert Distinguished Professorship Fund in Teacher Education was established February 4, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Frederick R. "Ted" and Lois Cyphert, in recognition of their commitment to teacher education; and in recognition of Ted Cyphert's years of service on the faculty, and as Dean of the College of Education. It is meant to maintain the strong tradition fostered by persons like Earl Anderson, L. O. Andrews, Donald Cottrell, Donald Cruickshank, Ted Cyphert, Karl Openshaw, and Nancy Zimpher who have striven at The Ohio State University to prepare generalist teacher educators.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support the research, teaching and management activities of a distinguished professor in the field of general/generic teacher education in the College of Education.

Generic teacher education is defined as the knowledge, skills and values needed by all teachers and all teacher educators as these differ from pedagogical knowledge that is subject-field or age-level specific. The primary duties of the distinguished professor will be directing the studies of doctoral students majoring in generic pre-service and/or in-service teacher education who wish to be generalist teacher educators. Duties will also include oversight of general pedagogy classes for practicing and/or future teachers, supervising field and clinical experiences, and conducting research and publishing in this field.

Appointment to the professorship shall be made by the Dean of the College of Education in consultation with faculty. An annual report of the activities of the distinguished professor shall be given to the faculty of the College of Education.

If the generic teacher education should no longer be a part of the curriculum of The Ohio State University, the income from this fund will be used to support the faculty member in the College of Education who most closely personifies the objectives of the donors as delineated above.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for the fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees, in consultation with the Dean of the College of Education.

WAIVERS OF COMPETITIVE BIDDING REQUIREMENTS
OCTOBER - DECEMBER, 1993

Resolution No. 94-86

Synopsis: Acceptance of the quarterly report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements is proposed.

WHEREAS the Purchasing Policy of The Ohio State University, adopted by the Board of Trustees on September 7, 1984, and revised on February 7, 1992, provides that the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration may grant a waiver from competitive bidding in the event of an emergency, when a sufficient economic reason exists, or when the goods or services can be purchased from only a single source, with a report on such waivers to be made quarterly to this Board; and

WHEREAS the Vice President for Business and Administration has submitted a report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements granted for the period of October - December, 1993; and

WHEREAS during the period covered, the Vice President for Business and Administration, at the requests of the departments making the purchases and upon the recommendation of the Purchasing Department, granted 46 waivers of competitive bidding requirements for annual purchases totaling approximately $4,246,500.00, as shown on the enclosed exhibit:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements for the period of October - December 1993, is hereby accepted.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

(See Appendix XXVI for background information, page 697.)

Ms. Pichette:

For some time now the Offices of Human Resources, Health Resources, Finance, and Business Administration have been working jointly to determine how we can provide a medically fragile child care component to our Child Care Center without additional general fund support. This proposed addition to the Child Care Center will be funded from user fees and external sources. I want to recognize the efforts that Linda Tom, Manuel Tzagournis, and Bill Shkurti have put into this project and also, in particular, Judy Fountain, the Director of the Office of Work and Family, who gave a report at the Fiscal Affairs Committee meeting. Mr. Chairman, we would ask for the Board's approval to proceed with this project.

Mr. Skestos:

Before we proceed, Janet, I would like to make special mention also of the work that Judy Fountain has done on this particular matter. I would also like to give credit to the Ohio Department of Health and, especially, to Governor Voinovich for his personal care of this particular project. I also wish to thank them for the $250,000 grant that they made available which will enhance this project tremendously.

Ms. Tom:

I would like to second that, George, and I would like to ask Judy Fountain to stand and be recognized.

REQUEST FOR DEVELOPMENT BIDS

Resolution No. 94-

INTEGRATED CHILD CARE CENTER ADDITION

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended authorization to request development bids for the listed project.

WHEREAS the University desires to proceed with the construction of an addition to the existing University Child Care Center for a model integrated program serving medically fragile and mentally retarded/developmentally disabled children in the State of Ohio; and

WHEREAS the estimated project cost is $500,000.00, and the total estimated construction cost is $400,000.00, with funding provided through external sources and user fees; and

WHEREAS in accordance with the review and approval of this project by the appropriate University offices, it has been determined that no central University general fund monies will be required or used for construction or operation of this addition to the Center, and this addition will pay full University overhead:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request development bids on this project in accordance with established University procedures, and if satisfactory bids are received, to award contracts, with all actions to be reported to the Board at the appropriate time.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Ms. Pichette:

The next resolution will authorize the University to proceed with the 1994 list of small capital projects of under $1 million each. This process will allow us to proceed with these listed projects without additional Board authorization on a project by project, step by step basis. The eight listed projects total $2.23 million. I want to emphasize that we will let you know if, for any unanticipated reason, any of these projects on the list cost more than $1 million -- we would bring them back to the Board. Also, we will report to the Committee on these projects at the end of the year. We seek your approval of this resolution.

AUTHORIZATION FOR 1994
SMALL CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS

Resolution No. 94-

88

Synopsis: Acceptance of the listing of anticipated 1994 capital improvement projects, each estimated at less than $1,000,000.00, and authorization for the University to proceed with these projects, with subsequent reporting to the Board's Fiscal Affairs Committee are proposed.

WHEREAS consistent with the fiduciary duty of the Board of Trustees regarding project oversight and approval, the delegation of authority to proceed with projects specified in the attached list is designed to expedite the University's ability to move forward with capital projects on a timely basis and ensure the most effective use of University resources; and

WHEREAS the Board has received the attached listing of capital improvement projects estimated at a total project cost of less than $1,000,000.00 each that are anticipated and/or needed to be undertaken during 1994, subject to scheduling and funding availability; and

WHEREAS the President has recommended that the University be permitted to undertake, in accordance with established procedures, those listed capital improvement projects without additional Board authorization of each such project:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, without any additional authorization or approval from this Board being necessary, to select qualified architectural and/or engineering firms as necessary, with the fees for these services to be negotiated between the firms selected and the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Public Works, or the University, as appropriate, and to request construction bids in accordance with established University and/or State of Ohio procedures, as appropriate, and if satisfactory bids are received, to award contracts, or as appropriate to recommend the award of contracts to the Department of Administrative Services, for any capital improvement project on the attached 1994 listing of projects estimated at less than $1,000,000.00; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration shall submit reports as appropriate to the Fiscal Affairs Committee for any such project undertaken pursuant to this authorization in which the total actual project cost exceeds $1,000,000.00 and shall present to this Board an annual report on capital improvement projects completed, under construction, or in planning or design during 1994 and a written report to the Fiscal Affairs Committee of this Board on all contracts awarded pursuant to this authorization.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Brennan, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Ms. Pichette:

In October 1993, the Board authorized the University to sell the house and front portion of Overlook Farm in Fairfield County. The University, including the College of Agriculture which operates the rear portion, had determined that operation of this facility should be discontinued. That decision is consistent with the President's directive to review our land holdings in light of budgetary problems and more closely examine what is needed for the University's benefit and which we should dispose of.

Now our request is the authorization to sell the remaining acreage of the farm. I would note that we have been in negotiation with the buyer for some time and have an agreement on the price. We do not yet have a signed purchase contract, because we are still awaiting the results of a phase one environmental audit. We may need to negotiate that issue further, but still believe we can reach an agreement as outlined in the resolution. Certainly, if this is not the case we will come back to the Board for additional authorization. I would ask for a motion to approve this sale.

Ms. Casto:

That negotiation is at the same price?

Ms. Pichette:

Yes.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 94-90

REAR 103 ACRES AT OVERLOOK FARM

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY (contd)

REAR 103 ACRES AT OVERLOOK FARM
FAIRFIELD COUNTY, OHIO (contd)

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University owns approximately 103 acres of real property located in Bloom Township of Fairfield County at 3525 Pickerington Road and known as part of Overlook Farm; and

WHEREAS University has determined that Overlook Farm no longer is needed for, and cannot be operated economically in support of, the educational and research programs of the University; and

WHEREAS the appraised value of this 103-acre parcel is $160,000, and the Edward P. Phillips II Trust, of Canal Winchester, has agreed to purchase this property at a price of $175,000; and

WHEREAS the net proceeds from the sale of this property shall be deposited in the College of Agriculture's Department of Horticulture endowment account to support operation of the Waterman Horticulture Farm; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that this sale is in the best interest of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in the name of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, to sell all of the University's right, title, and interest in this property to the Edward P. Phillips II Trust, of Canal Winchester, for no less than $175,000, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

COLUMBUS SOUTHERN POWER COMPANY
FOUNDRY-GLASS BUILDING AND
OHIO ADJUTANT GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT
DON SCOTT FIELD

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended authorization to renew an easement for electric service to the Foundry-Glass Building and grant an easement for the installation of an underground tunnel on University property located north of Don Scott Field.

WHEREAS in 1977 the Columbus Southern Power Company was granted a 15-year easement consisting of a strip of land approximately ten feet in width and 1,226 feet in length for electric service to the Foundry-Glass Building located at 1055 Carmack Road (the rear of 1991 Kenny

February 4, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

Road); and

EASEMENTS (contd)

COLUMBUS SOUTHERN POWER COMPANY
FOUNDRY-GLASS BUILDING AND
OHIO ADJUTANT GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT
DON SCOTT FIELD (contd)

WHEREAS this easement has expired, and the Columbus Southern Power Company has requested a renewal of the easement (which serves University property) for a period of 15 years; and

WHEREAS the State of Ohio has requested a 25-year easement consisting of a strip of land approximately 20 feet in width and approximately 60 feet in length for installation of a tunnel under land north of the University Airport across the access road from State Route 161; and

WHEREAS the underground tunnel will house utilities and a walkway to connect the Beightler Armory on State Route 161 with the Adjutant General's Emergency Operations Center/Joint Dispatch Facility; and

WHEREAS the Adjutant General's Department will construct a temporary roadway on their property during installation of the tunnel to ensure access to University property and pay the University $500.00 for the granting of this easement; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have recommended the approval of both of these easements:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to sign the necessary legal instruments to provide for the easement to the Columbus Southern Power Company and to request the Deputy Director of Public Works of the Department of Administrative Services, pursuant to his statutory duties, to act for and on behalf of the University in developing the necessary legal instruments to provide for the easement to the State of Ohio Adjutant General's Department.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to call on Senior Vice Provost Ed Ray to present a motion concerning the STRS Early Retirement resolution.

Dr. Ed Ray:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Board has before it a resolution to enact an early retirement program for faculty at the University. We presented arguments regarding this matter to both the Educational Affairs and Fiscal Affairs Committees.

For the sake of brevity, I will not repeat those arguments, but I will point out some of the key features of the matter that we mentioned earlier.

We believe that an early retirement program is a key element in our efforts to restructure the University. The colleges have made it clear that if they are in fact to come up with proposals to make reductions and enhancements both for fiscal '95 and beyond, that an early retirement program for faculty would be an essential element of that plan. We believe that the early retirement program will help us to free up resources for redirection to priority areas. We believe also it will help us to obtain annual rate budget savings with salary dollar savings through no replacements -- and in some instances in replacement with lower salaries in others.

Let me give you the key elements of the proposal and I will respond to questions if necessary. First, we propose that the vacancies that occur as a result of the retirement program remain in effect for at least a period of one year following a retirement date. Second, that vacancies that are replaced are filled on a staggered basis during years two, three, and four of the program. And third, with rates of replacement at no greater than one-third, one-third, one-third, during the years two, three, and four.

On page five of the handout there is a table regarding different scenarios for a buy-out program. Our estimates are that the cash cost associated with the various elements of the buy-out program that have to be counter balanced could total somewhere on the order of $17.5 million as a result of the STRS requirements. There would be another $2.5 million associated with vacation and sick leave buyouts that are a normal part of the retirement process. However, our expectation is that because of the characteristics of the retirement program that I just mentioned, that when all is said and done the cash implications for the program will be such that it will cover the cost of the program, with net cash accruals to the University during a five-year buyout period of somewhere between $1.6 and $13.8 million. More importantly, there will be longer term annual rate savings from the program associated first with the fact that replacement salaries, with exceptions, will occur at the entry level of approximately $44,000 rather than the average retirement level of $69,000.

In fact, some degree of nonreplacement will be involved as well. We expect that since colleges will be asked to deal with general funds budget reductions again this year, as part of our program to achieve fiscal balance by 1996, that some element of nonreplacement will occur. Obviously in those instances the line money will be freed up and available to the University both to deal with the budgeting balance in process and, as I said a moment earlier, to redirect resources to priority areas. Our best estimate is that we are looking at annual rate savings of approximately $8 million that will be available to the University.

In terms of the resolution that is before you, there are several key elements that I will briefly point to. The resolution makes it quite clear that all hires that occur as replacements under this program will be approved by the Office of Academic Affairs. We will monitor the process carefully. We will report back to the Board of Trustees within a year -- and certainly on a regular basis -- about the extent to which this program plays out that is consistent with the forecast that we have given you. And that, in fact, it serves our purpose with regard to meeting budgetary balance and redirecting resources as we believe they should be redirected within the University.

Also, let me point out that this program is being proposed with a clear understanding that the University hopes to move beyond having University-wide retirement packages available. We have begun to look at a number of other options that might be available to us as more targeted and effective management tools. There are a number of issues that come up regarding not only Ohio law in general, but the regulations that we operate under with respect to STRS. Those legal matters have to be looked at as part of any process of change as well.

I would like to say on a personal note, and I know Linda joins me in this, that Larry Lewellen has done an outstanding job in providing a lot of the number crunching and heavy labor that went into helping Linda and I put this report together. I have a very high personal regard and appreciation for his effort in helping us put this program together. I would like to ask Larry to stand and be recognized. Linda, did you want to add anything?

Ms. Tom:

I have no other comments, other than to say thank you, Larry.

Mr. Skestos:

Any questions? Thank you, Dr. Ray.

Ms. Casto:

I want everyone to be aware that this was discussed at considerable length in both Committees this morning.

STRS EARLY RETIREMENT INCENTIVE PROGRAM

Resolution No. 94-92

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs and Educational Affairs Committees recommended the approval of an Early Retirement Incentive Program under the State Teachers Retirement System (STRS).

WHEREAS in July 1983, the Ohio General Assembly enacted Amended Substitute House Bill 410 enabling universities and colleges to establish retirement incentive plans at their respective institutions for STRS members; and

WHEREAS The Ohio State University desires to adopt such a retirement incentive plan in order to achieve strategic objectives which include academic restructuring and long-term budget savings:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That effective March 1, 1994, and continuing for one year thereafter, for eligible STRS members electing to retire, the University will purchase service credit in one year increments not to exceed the lesser of five years or one-fifth of the individual's total credited service as of the date of retirement; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That to be eligible, all individuals must be members of STRS, and be currently eligible to retire or eligible to retire after including the years of service credit to be purchased under the plan, and be at least age fifty (50) by the date of retirement or the termination date of the plan, whichever is earlier; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President be authorized to set a maximum number of eligible members under this plan to be no less than three hundred (300), and further that if the total number of persons applying for this program exceeds the maximum, then approval for participation will be determined in accordance with STRS rules, and further that individuals will first be considered who properly notify the University during an established notification period; and

STRS EARLY RETIREMENT INCENTIVE PROGRAM (contd)

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That individuals who retire under this plan will not be eligible for participation in any other supplemental or early retirement program previously established by the University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President or the Vice President for Human Resources is hereby authorized to notify the State Teachers Retirement System of The Ohio State University's election to participate in the retirement incentive plan in accordance with O.R.C. Section 3307.35 and the terms of this resolution; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That re-employment guidelines for individuals who retire under this plan will be developed in order to limit the terms and conditions of re-employment, and further that re-employment must be based on the needs of the University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the University will develop and adopt alternative management strategies which effectively respond to future institutional needs to include restructuring and/or budgetary objectives, and such strategies will be designed to be cost-effective, to provide flexibility consistent with specific program needs, and to support effective management of faculty resources, and, accordingly, the University will not continue to implement University-wide early retirement incentive programs as a management strategy; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That all replacement hires under the program must be approved by the Office of Academic Affairs. Academic Affairs will report to the Board after one year, and periodically thereafter as appropriate, as to the attainment of academic restructuring and budgetary reallocation objectives.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING

OPEN STUDENT FORUM

Mr. Francisco:

Welcome everyone. Amira Ailabouni and I serve as Student Trustees on the University's Board of Trustees and we are glad that you could be here this morning to share your ideas and concerns with us. We are anxious to hear your opinions, but due to time constraints this will not be a question and answer session. We would like to have the opportunity to hear from as many of you as possible, so we ask you to please limit your discussion to one topic per person.

To further expedite the forum we have asked students to sign up prior to this meeting, and we will call the names from that list. When your name is called please come to the microphone, tell us a little about yourself -- where you are from, your major, and your year in school. Please be considerate to your fellow students and honor a three-minute limit so that we may hear from as many people as possible. Since this is a student forum, only current OSU students are asked to speak.

Thank you, again. I would like to call on Erica Brownstein to start.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING (contd)

OPEN STUDENT FORUM (contd)

Ms. Erica Brownstein:

Good morning, my name is Erica Brownstein and I am a graduate student in Science Education. One of the wonderful things about my particular area is that I have the opportunity to take courses all over campus. I was trying to count this morning, and I think I have taken courses from at least ten different departments at Ohio State in my graduate program. I have also had the opportunity to do research in education, as well as in science.

One of the things I think restructuring provides is the opportunity to reallocate resources where we want our money to go, but it also provides an exciting opportunity to change the University environment. I am concerned about our focus on compartmentalizing things -- on the small things and forgetting about the overall picture. My feeling is that I want to be certain that you, as the Board of Trustees, are remembering to think about cross-disciplinary projects, research, and classes.

For example, in the science research that I have done we drew from a variety of different disciplines -- physiology, biochemistry, Allied Medicine, the Medical College, and the Veterinary College. In one class that I am taking this quarter, reproductive physiology occurs all across the campus -- in Dairy Science, Zoology, Veterinary College, OB-GYN, and the Medical College. So when you are considering your restructuring plan, I would like for you to make sure that it is not just possible for interdisciplinary projects and classes to occur, but that it is encouraged.

When I hear professors trying to set up an interdisciplinary course or trying to design a grant where they will draw from various departments, the first question that they ask is "Who is going to get the credit?" As things are structured right now, the principal investigator's home department gets more credit than other departments and this causes reluctance for some researchers to dedicate their time for something that they are not obtaining credit for. This occurs in teaching as well as in the research context.

So I would like to send a message to you and have you send a message to the University that interdisciplinary work is not just tolerated, but it is valued. That is my big message. The small thing that I wanted to slide in is that to my knowledge -- I am not swearing that this is the truth -- graduate students have not been included in the restructuring plan in the Educational College. My whole point is to ask you to please be sure to value interdisciplinary projects.

President Gee:

Let me just say that your message is a loud and clear one. I will send you several speeches that I have given on that very point. This is an issue that I believe in with almost religious zeal. I know the Provost will tell you that your message has not only been heard, but one that we believe is the direction that we should be taking. We talk about flattening out our structure and the nature of the discipline in the department not becoming a dogma, but an opportunity. I appreciate it. It is very thoughtful commentary.

In terms of the graduate student participation, again, we are very concerned that we make certain that faculty, staff, and students all participate in the process. This is a bottom up process, not top down. And without reviewing what has happened in education -- knowing Dean Zimpher, I am certain we have a good deal of participation. But, again, we will check on that and I thank you.

We won't be able to comment on all of these issues, but yours is such an important message that I did want you to leave here knowing that that message has already been heard, and it is indeed a very important one.

Dr. Sisson:

And the Provost will add a couple of speeches to the packet.

Mr. Eric Dingler:

Good morning everyone. My name is Eric Dingler and I am a first year student trying to get into the School of Physical Therapy. I am here to talk to you today about an issue that is starting to become new at this University, but the students that this issue affects have been here for a long time. The number of students that this issue affects is increasing. Unfortunately, I do not believe the number is increasing at this University, due to the fact that students with disabilities are not made to feel welcome here at this University. That is an issue somebody else is going to speak about here in a couple of minutes.

I am here today to do something that might be a little different. I don't know, it might be something that has never been done. I want to challenge you all to a little something. I am not inviting you to participate in it or asking or begging. I want to personally challenge each and every one of you to the SDA challenge. The SDA challenge is sponsored by a student organization, SDA (Students for Disability Awareness). SDA is a new student organization on campus, it has only been around for just a little under a year. President Gee will be at the SDA meeting tonight and will hear about this challenge a little more in detail. Due to the fact that I am on a time limit I cannot go into great detail about it. All areas of this University are going to affect a student with a disability in one way or another. It is kind of difficult to explain how we are affected by different decisions that are made.

What we would like to do with the SDA challenge is during Disability Awareness Week we would like to have each and every one of you take on a simulated disability. I understand that you may not be able to go the entire day with this simulated disability, but we would like to pair you up with a student with a disability. We certainly cannot give you a learning disability, however we could give you a vision impairment or a wheelchair to show you what it's like to try and get around this University.

Access does not just mean physical access. I have a disability myself, I cannot read one bit of material this University puts out. That is discriminating against me and it makes me feel very unwelcomed here. There are a large number of students with disabilities starting to attend more and more colleges. If you are interested in recruiting students with disabilities then something needs to be done. If this University was to become a major accessible university, then the number of students you can draw from is a very large number.

Mr. Dingler: (contd)

Once again the SDA challenge -- I am challenging all of you to participate in it. If you would like to have more information, you can contact me through Disability Services. If you would like to speak to me further, I am going to stick around for the entire meeting and at the end of the meeting I will be here if anyone would like to come and speak to me more about the SDA challenge. Thank you.

Mr. Francisco:

Thank you. Next is Carolyn Tyjewski.

Ms. Carolyn Tyjewski:

Hi, my name is Carolyn Tyjewski and I am a junior here at The Ohio State University majoring in English. I have come here today to speak to you about accessibility on this campus, or rather the lack thereof. Students on this campus are continually denied access from everything -- from the use of libraries, to the use of both campus and public pay phones. Students are denied entrance to certain buildings and restrooms on this campus. They are denied the right to read publications put out by this University, and everyday students are denied the ability to speak with offices on this campus.

Some of you may be wondering what I am talking about. You might be thinking, no student on this campus is denied access to these things. Well, if you are thinking that, you are wrong. Students with disabilities are denied these things and more everyday. I for one, as a student with a visual impairment, am sick and tired of it. I am sick and tired of being called a liar every time I ask for assistance at every library on this campus. I am sick and tired of having to be on the defensive every time I enter a classroom at the beginning of every quarter. I have to grin and bear comments made by professors and TA's like, "Can you even take notes?" Contrary to popular belief, blindness does not bring on idiocy. But, I am beginning to think that being sighted and having a degree does.

Now, do not misunderstand me I am not blaming the professors and TA's. How can I when the administration at The Ohio State University is worse. If I have a problem with any office on this campus, I can't go to that office like every other student here. I have to go to the Office for Disability Services and then they, not me, go to the office involved and talk to them. And that's of course assuming that ODS has time to go and speak to that office. Considering there are only ten permanent staff in that office and seven of whom take care of accessibility issues, chances are very good any problem that I have may never be taken care of. There are simply not enough days in the week, weeks in a year, or years for seven people to deal with the ignorance of every office on this campus, and that includes the Office of the Board of Trustees.

Those interpreters are here because I asked if you were going to have interpreters. This is suppose to be an open forum for all students according to the Lantern release. If that was true, you should have gone ahead and asked for them. If it is not true, then you should have stated that all students except for those who cannot hear, don't bother showing up.

Ms. Tyjewski: (contd)

Frankly, there is no reason why the Office for Disability Services should have to go ahead and talk to any office on this campus. There is no reason why I should have had to mention that interpreters might be necessary. There is no reason. Again, contrary to popular belief, people with disabilities can articulate what their needs and concerns are. And oh, by the way, our disabilities are not contagious. The only reason any student on this campus should need a middleman is after they have gone to the office directly involved and attempted to take care of the problems themselves. Then, and only then, should any student need assistance.

Now, the majority of the issues that I mentioned today do not require money. Being considerate doesn't cost a dime! So please spare me the excuse that this University is going through budget cuts.

According to Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1974, the Americans with Disabilities Act of the 1990's, and the 14th Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, "Students with disabilities and without have the right to be treated equally and fairly" and to be very frank like human beings. And I for one would greatly appreciate it if The Ohio State University would begin to conform with the laws established by the United States of America. Thank you.

Mr. Francisco:

Thank you, Carolyn. Next is Maurice Maday.

Mr. Maurice Maday:

I would like to thank you for welcoming me here. I am the President for Students with Disabilities Awareness. Please do not think that we are stacking the deck on you, but we think it is important that you be aware of the situation students with disabilities have on this campus. Eric and Carolyn alluded to the fact that there are some very serious compliance issues that we need to look into. A list was presented to Vice President Williams and Provost Sisson to look at the issues that are affecting the students with disabilities.

We see it as impediments to our education that we came here to get. And as a result of that meeting, Vice President Williams indicated a need for a task force to look at how the University is responding to the issues that are affecting students with disabilities -- not just students alone, but staff and faculty alike. I support him in that effort. I presented him with a list of names for that committee, and I ask the Board to maybe even have someone from the Board sit on this committee. But, more importantly, once this task force comes up with an answer or some possible solutions to some of the issues that we think could be handled really quickly, we want your support. We need the support of the University behind this committee.

In addition to that, President Gee has accepted an invitation by SDA to come and speak at one of our meetings today. We will be sharing with him some of the issues and concerns that we presented to Vice President Williams and Dr. Sisson. I have a copy here for the Trustees if you wish to have them. I would just like to let the Trustees -- the governing body of the University -- know that we are not going away. We want to be a part of the decision-making process that affects people with disabilities. We want you to look at students with disabilities as a resource to look at these problems and arrive at answers. These answers could cost a little money, but I think some of the monies should have been spent a little while ago. I thank you for your time.

Mr. Maday: (contd)

Ms. Heather Blair:

Hi, my name is Heather Blair and I am a sophomore here at Ohio State. I am originally from Dayton, and am a double major in communications and psychology, but that is of course subject to change.

Mr. Peter Howard:

I am Peter Howard from Columbus and am a second year student majoring in Math and Political Science.

Ms. Blair:

We are here today to give you a little information about our forensic team -- the speech and debate team. We compete intercollegiately in a variety of categories which are listed in the pamphlet that we passed out. We compete with many colleges in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Kentucky, and even as far away as Maryland and Wisconsin. In fact today we are holding the State Novice Tournament here at Ohio State in the Ohio Union.

We really enjoy doing forensics and we feel it is a great opportunity for students. I enjoy doing it because I feel like I learn a lot and it helps me academically. I am much more able to organize any papers I have to write or any speeches I have to give in class. Also, I have been able to meet a variety of people from different colleges. It also gives me the opportunity to represent The Ohio State University.

Mr. Howard:

I personally do forensics because I feel it has taught me a lot about myself and I have also learned how other people feel about what is going on in the world, what I need to focus on, and how I can make myself a better person. It is also personally satisfying to compete for the University and to represent Ohio State both within the State and country at tournaments.

We are here to tell you not only about our program, but also what we need. Our goal is to try and become one of the top programs in the nation. We want to become a top ten program nationally at the national tournament. However, we are having a lot of difficulty because of the small size of our team and the small size of our staff. Our team right now has about 20 members and we have one coach. This is the smallest coaching staff in the State of Ohio for such a team. It is hurting us in the fact that we may have to be downsizing our team because we cannot address the needs of every team member. What we would like to ask the Board and Dr. Gee is to think about creating several graduate assistantships for the forensic department and for our team to act as assistant coaches. With two or three graduate assistantships, we would be able to address the needs of our entire team, expand the team, and make it into a nationally recognized program.

Mr. Howard: (contd)

We would like to ask the Board to please consider this and to think about addressing the needs of the forensic program as we compete, and creating several graduate assistantships for us.

President Gee:

How have you been doing this year?

Ms. Blair:

Well, we were fifth at the Otterbein tournament.

President Gee:

Fifth out of how many?

Ms. Blair:

I'm not sure how many -- there were quite a few. I would say maybe 13 schools were there. We are doing our state competition -- our state novice is this weekend. Our state varsity is two weekends away and that is when we turn to more serious competition. Then we have the national competition in April.

President Gee:

So you are at the beginning of that. Thank you very much, I really appreciate you both coming. We will all have the opportunity to look over this brochure.

Mr. Aldo Aguirre-Caceres:

Thank you for the opportunity to come before you today. I would like to let you know the wonderful effort the Wexner Center for the Arts is doing in reaching out to students. Its director, Sherri Geldin, not only has spoken to us about her interest in serving the campus community, but has provided us with opportunities to experience some of the Wexner Center's programming. I thank her for her commitment to advancing the arts through educational opportunities like this one.

I firmly believe that the arts through cultural and artistic programs can serve to bridge gaps in cross-cultural communication and understanding. Artists can convey messages through multiple cultural barriers, indiscriminately reaching people of all races.

I chose to come to Ohio State's Art Education Department because it is the largest and most prestigious art education program in the United States. I am very proud of this choice. In spite of its size, however I look around me and I see no Hispanics. I am the only Hispanic doctoral student in the department, but this lack of visibility of Hispanics is not limited to my department. Through the Hispanic graduate, professional, and non-traditional student organization on campus, I have been able to listen to my colleagues speak about the lack of Hispanic students, staffing, faculty, and administrators in each of their departments. However, Ohio State has committed itself to becoming a truly diverse research institution.

Implementation of directives such as the five-year Hispanic Action Plan initiated May 1991 speaks to this effect. Sadly, I notice very little progress has been made in implementing this plan and its five-year time frame is soon coming to an end. I am concerned about the shortage of Hispanic role models found throughout faculty and administrative positions across campus. Diversity should not be interpreted or limited only to recruitment of Hispanics and other minorities. Attention in resources must be given to develop quality support programs to retain Hispanics and to see them through graduation.

As a leading national research institution, Ohio State must look to future opportunities that will become available through initiatives such as the North America Free Trade Agreement and the declaration of Columbus as an international port. If The Ohio State University can prepare its students to be more tolerant of racial and ethnic diversity, The Ohio State University and the State of Ohio may become better equipped to take advantage of the new international alliances with Latin American countries that will inevitably bring the heart of it all, economic development, and prosperity into the 21st century.

President Gee:

Where did you do your undergraduate work?

Mr. Aguirre-Caceres:

I did my undergraduate work at Lamar University in Texas.

President Gee:

I appreciate your on target comments about both of those issues. Our art education program is the finest in the country and we are proud of that. And as you know, we have a Committee on Diversity that is looking precisely at the monitoring and implementation of our action plans. Their responsibility, and ultimately my responsibility, is not to do another one, but rather to meet the recommendations that we have. I know that Vice President Williams, the Provost, and I are very committed to that. We appreciate your concerns and we hope to be moving faster on those issues.

Mr. Aguirre-Caceres:

I thank you for your comments.

President Gee:

Thank you.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING (contd)

OPEN STUDENT FORUM (contd)

Mr. Francisco:

Next is Amy Bashforth.

Ms. Amy Bashforth:

My name is Amy Ray Bashforth and I am a graduate student in the School of Public Policy and Management. I am speaking in reference to House Bill 601, which would give student trustees the right to vote. I am excited to see initiative that gives students a greater voice. I am concerned, however, about statutes that exclude individuals who are employed by the University, or who have relatives employed by the University, from being eligible to serve as trustees.

Fifty percent of the graduate students at The Ohio State University have graduate assistant positions at the University. If the current statutes apply also to student trustees, then 50 percent of our best and brightest graduate students would no longer be eligible to serve as student trustees. If the purpose of having student trustees positions is to provide a broad representation of view points to the Board, then the quality of this representation may be compromised by eliminating students who must work at the University in order to finance their education. Thank you.

Ms. Jennifer Boswell:

Members of the Board and other distinguished members of the University community, my name is Jennifer Boswell, and I am a first year graduate student in the School of Public Policy and Management. Today, I wish to convey to you student concern regarding the process by which restructuring plans are being created and implemented University-wide, with particular attention to the restructuring process in the College of Business.

Last November, Provost Sisson issued a memo which stated that restructuring proposals must give evidence of consultation with faculty, staff, and students. The Provost further declared that this consultation occur in all cases at the college level and only at the department level as appropriate. Currently, the College of Business has chosen to use as its restructuring plan the College Plan for Action that was drafted over two years ago. While this plan contains evidence of consultation with faculty members, it lacks any mention of similar staff or student participation.

The use of this document clearly does not meet either the letter or intent of Provost Sisson's standards for a restructuring plan. The Dean of the College Business has not proactively attempted to rectify the exclusion of students from the process that created the plan for action. Rather the Dean is relying solely on action taken by students to inform and include themselves in the restructuring process. Indeed students have taken action to be informed and included, however, it is both unreasonable and unfeasible to expect students to take an active interest in plans and procedures of which they may not be aware due to a lack of communication in the college office. Presently, students are forced to obtain information regarding the restructuring process third-hand. Often this information turns out to be misleading, incorrect, or incomplete which results in fear and anxiety among students. On the other hand, open and direct communication, I believe, will result in the productive participation of students and the restructuring process.

Ms. Boswell: (contd)

In closing, I wish to express that it is imperative in this time of reexamination and reorganization that college administrators be compelled by other leaders of the University, such as yourselves, to not only inform, but also to encourage their participation. Students have great interest in the directions in which the University, their own college, and their home department are headed. Student inclusion could only enhance the quality and effectiveness of the restructuring process. I thank you for your time.

Mr. Tarunjit Butalia:

Good morning, Madam Chairperson, members of the Board, President Gee, Provost Sisson, Vice Presidents, and other University officials. My name is Tarunjit Butalia and am a Ph.D. candidate in Civil Engineering. I have been here 4 years. I would like to share with you today some thoughts on graduate student participation and representation at Ohio State.

Shared governance among faculty, students, and administrators has been a long recognized tradition at The Ohio State University. Graduate student participation and representation on the Board of Trustees, University Senate, Council on Research and Graduate Studies, and many other University-wide committees is well established. Graduate student representatives bring to these committees the viewpoint of fellow graduate students they represent, thus representing the voice of graduate student interests on these committees.

My question today is how does the University benefit from such graduate student participation and representation? Graduate student representatives bring an undergraduate, as well as a graduate student perspective into discussions that occur and decisions that are made. Such a perspective is valuable and unique on many committees. This contribution leads to better informed decisions on various matters. The time and effort devoted by such representatives is effectively a gain for the University community. Additionally, the University should encourage such participation by graduate students since it develops a sense of responsibility and attachment to Ohio State University that would be a source of inspiration to the students beyond their degrees as an alumni, and lead to significant contributions to the University even after they graduate.

While student representation at the University level is well established, the level of graduate student participation at the department and college level varies widely across the campus. Some departments that have made significant efforts to include student representation in their departmental administration seem to be within the Colleges of Arts, Biological Sciences, Education, and Humanities. Most others lack significantly in soliciting graduate student opinion. Since initial critical discussions related to the quality of graduate education are conducted at the department level, it is essential to have consistent representation of graduate students at these levels -- the department, school, and college level.

I thank you for your valuable time and the opportunity to share my thoughts with you today.

OPEN STUDENT FORUM (contd)

President Gee:

May I just comment that we have remarkably fine graduate students and their participation in the University-wide committees has been both well documented, as you stated, and well received. There are some 122 departments and 250 programs. I suspect that there is some diversity in terms of the representation in those departmental levels, but I know that the Provost will agree with me in saying that that participation is essential. I appreciate your statement and applaud it and agree with it, I might note.

Mr. Butalia:

Thank you so much.

Ms. Sandra Solano:

Good morning, my name is Sandra Solano and I am an international student from Bogota Colombia, South America. I am a graduate student in the Department of Preventive Medicine and serve in the University Senate on the Student Health Insurance Committee. So, I am going to talk about Student Health Services today.

Some years ago, an independent evaluation of the Student Health Services determined that the general funds support for that was inadequate. However, since 1990, the general funds of the Student Health Services' budget has decreased from 49.2 percent to 40.5 percent. Sixty percent of the budget comes from fees for services, the second highest in the Big Ten. The current expenditure per enrolled student is the lowest. Fifty percent of these fees comes from services rendered to students with student health insurance, whom as a consequence have seen their premiums steadily rise. But the needs of the Student Health Services doesn't stop the building improvements, the staffing, new computer system mentioned in the report.

The health needs of the University population of 50,000 students includes infection, illness of the respiratory, digestive, and genital system, gynecologic and family planning care, their metabolic problems, trauma, drug abuse, and mental health. All of this has been adequately managed by the Student Health Center. Nevertheless, health maintenance issues are as important as these reactive measures.

Few outreach education and prevention programs have been done without success. Routine physicals prior to recreational sports or transfers are not available. According to the Student Health Center '92-'93 Annual Report, the most frequent reason for consultation was for the respiratory system. Despite this a prevention program such as asthma patient education program is not available. The first cause of death is from accidents, which is predictable in this age group. However, a visible and effective program to review underage drinking, drug use, and drunken driving has not been implemented. In the restructuring process we should look for ways to strengthen and improve Student Health Services.

I understand that this is a situation of economic constraints. Cuts are necessary, but I'm sure you will share with me that student health is so essential in the academic process that this is not a place to cut. When a family has economic problems they begin by not eating out and buying new clothes, but not by reducing the coverage of the student health insurance. You are responsible for this family of 50,000 students.

Finally, the words about health reform are daily in the news; however, all the proposals ignore the special circumstances of college students. Insurance companies, professional organizations, businesses are all lobbying for the best for their constituencies. Who is lobbying for college students? I am calling you to take over the cause of college students' health to insure adequate resources and programs for this essential population for the future of this country. Thank you.

President Gee:

Sandra, I would appreciate it if you would provide me with a copy of your written statement and I know that the Vice President would appreciate that. Would you do that?

Ms. Solano:

Sure.

President Gee:

You brought up a very important issue. As you know, we are wrestling with the context of health care and the environment in this country. We are wrestling with how can we provide the best quality health care, including the fact that we have one of the best medical centers here and how can we better access that for students. So these are not issues that we are not unfamiliar with, but certainly we are trying to resolve. But I would appreciate a copy of the statement, you had some interesting data there. Thank you.

Mr. Greg Hudson:

Good morning, Madam Chairperson, Gentlemen, and Student Trustees. I would like to take this moment to thank the Board of Trustees for having this open forum and for giving my fellow students and I the opportunity to voice our concerns. My name is Gregory Hudson and I am currently a graduate student in the School of Public Policy and Management. I graduated in 1992 from Ohio State with a Bachelor of Arts in criminology and I have also worked for the University in Vice President Tzagournis's office for four years.

I recently became interested in the plans to construct a new student activity center after reading news articles in the Lantern and On Campus. Today at 1:30 p.m., I will be one of the 35 students who will be attending the student activity's retreat at the Fawcett Center for Tomorrow and will be looking forward to hearing President Gee's opening remarks at the retreat.

On January 12, I attended a briefing session to learn more about this proposed student activity center. At that time, I met Paul Umbach, a research consultant from Pittsburgh, and Mary Daniels, Assistant Vice President of Student Affairs. Apparently Mr. Umbach was hired by the University to do a needs assessment in order to determine what current Ohio State students thought a new student activity center should include. The students who attended the informational briefing were shown several overheads with a lot of data collected from students via an informal poll. Several concerns were raised during the course of the briefing. For example, what kinds of facilities would the new activity house, and how would the activity center be operated? The biggest concern raised was the fact that students would be paying for the bulk of the cost for such a project through a $35 to $40 per quarter student fee. The student fee would not go into effect, however, until the center was completed which would be sometime in 1998.

My main concern, however, is that if a student activity center is to become a reality at Ohio State, it must have as much student involvement as possible and be supported by the student body. Because this decision will affect future generations of Ohio State students, it is necessary that there is an open, two-sided debate of this issue which should culminate in a definitive demonstration of student opinion.

The only way to achieve this result is by a campus-wide student referendum. Any process undertaken other than a student referendum will not provide the consensus needed to go forth with this project. As consumers of higher education at The Ohio State University, any attempt to faithfully represent the needs of the students should be accomplished through an open and honest process.

Again, I would like to thank the Board of Trustees for this opportunity to share my concerns.

Mr. Eric Richards:

Good afternoon, my name is Eric Richards and I am a dual major, Black Studies and English, and a non-traditional student. What I have come to talk about today is the formation of the Non-traditional Student Association.

The Non-traditional Student Association is a group that we have put together because we think that up to now non-traditional students have had little if no representation in the University. We are trying to set up an office so that future non-traditional students will be able to contact our organization for any problems that they might have. We do understand that they have special needs along the lines of financial aid, child care, and transportation to and from campus for those non-traditional students who live off campus. For the students who live on campus, Siebert Hall in the south dorms has been ear-marked specifically for non-traditional students.

One of the things that we would like to do in the way of recruiting non-traditional students -- who generally have a higher GPA and a higher graduation rate -- is we would like to have placed in all the recruiting materials that we have non-traditional housing on campus. Hopefully, that would help bring some of these better students into the University.

Some of our other concerns are possibly having a non-traditional orientation so that they know that we do understand that they have specific needs that are different from other students that come into the University. Also, we've recently acquired a non-voting seat on USG, which I hold. Another thing that we would like to do -- since USG is the liaison between the students and the University administration -- is to attempt to get more non-traditional students on USG. Non-traditional students make up 25 to 35 percent of this University and there is only one representative that is a non-traditional student on USG, and he is a representative from the Lima Campus.

We would also like to give the non-traditional students a larger voice in future and current University policy, such as budget cuts, child care, and the early semester system. And hopefully our organization can be a liaison, not only between students in USG, but students and the University administration.

Thank you very much.

President Gee:

Eric, let me just ask you a question. How long have you been at the University?

Mr. Richards:

This is my first year -- I am a first year freshman.

President Gee:

I'm going to ask you a very personal question -- how old are you?

Mr. Richards:

Twenty-four.

President Gee:

And what makes you a non-traditional student?

Mr. Richards:

Actually, I signed up to come to school when I was 18, fresh out of high school, and the University's view then was anyone over 23 was considered a non-traditional student.

President Gee:

And so you spent time out of school before coming here. I would just make a point to you -- and I know that Dr. Arnold who is sitting right behind you would agree with this -- that increasingly you are becoming the traditional student. I think if you hang on a little bit longer you'll be forming the traditional student coalition and these 18 and 19 year olds are increasingly becoming the non-traditional students. As you know, the demographics of the population, and the fact that we are increasingly becoming a university open not K through 12 or K through 16, but K through life, is enormously important. Your point is so well taken. I applaud both your participation and hopefully you can work with us as we really try to open up those doors. Thank you very much.

Ms. Loren Good: (Interpreter was Ms. Claudia Kinder)

It's going to take me a little longer than the three-minute limit, because I have an interpreter, sign language is not English. I came from Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C., it's a liberal arts college for the deaf. I came here for my graduate studies in the Social Work program and am a first year student.

I was really nervous coming here. It is my first experience in a generally hearing campus. At Gallaudet I was surrounded by deaf. It has been an awkward experience. People don't know about what I need. People say, "Oh well, I heard about the rebellion at Gallaudet for the deaf president." That's not enough to know. People don't know about deafness.

In all of my Social Work classes I'm looking for what they say about disabilities, but they talk about multi-cultural, minorities, all kinds of diversities, and I think, "Oh, okay, good program." I go into my class the first quarter, I sat, and I heard nothing about disabilities. I always have to bring it up and talk about how disabilities apply to the topic -- teachers don't seem comfortable with it. People need to know that it's okay to talk about disabilities. One time I asked a teacher about disabilities and she said, "We were waiting to hear from you." People need to know that things have to be accessible and we then can achieve what we want.

I would like to see educators become more comfortable with this issue. I don't want to have to sit in class and not hear anything in the Social Work program about disabilities and have the responsibility. There are many children out there with disabilities: blind, mobility impaired, and deaf, but educators don't seem comfortable with it and as social workers we need to be learning about this. We need to start now and be a representative in this ground-breaking field.

Also, I want to bring up the TTY issue. If they are more publicly available, people will become more aware of the need for TTY's and how they function. I hope to graduate from here with a better feeling about people and feel comfortable with myself because education is my focus. Thank you.

President Gee:

May I ask you a question? What is TTY?

Ms. Good:

I'm sorry if I did not explain about TTY. Because I come from a deaf environment, I assume that people know what TTY is. I am sorry. TTY is a phone device. We can't hear on the phone -- "What are they saying?" I don't know. So you place the phone on a computer -- they also must have a TTY line -- and you type back and forth. I think it is important that we should have it. You know, I live off campus and I don't know -- suppose school is not open or sometimes I can't get through to the Social Work office. Are we going to have class? I need to be able to contact different offices on campus. TTY is one way of facilitating communication on campus. I can bring one and show you what it looks like. Are there any other questions? Thanks.

OPEN STUDENT FORUM (contd)

President Gee:

Thank you. I had no idea what a TTY was.

Ms. Aya Fubara:

Good morning. I'm am just going to read a statement that was prepared by A.C.T.I.O.N.

For over 20 years students, groups, and activists have lamented the problems and issues facing African faculty, staff, and students. Reports generated by committees and task forces are replete with statistics that serve as evidence of the existence of the issues we have raised and the impact that they have had and continue to have on us. It is with great distress that we address this body, yet again, concerning the very same issues that we members of A.C.T.I.O.N., Africans Committed To Improving Our Nation, raised close to two years ago.

Your inaction and seeming reluctance to actuate the necessary changes to address our concerns leave us no recourse than to assume that you, being the Trustees of this University, are not only shirking your duties as mandated by your position, but also have no qualms in promoting and supporting institutionalized racism on this campus.

Exactly a year ago, on February 4, 1993, in a memorandum to the Board of Trustees, A.C.T.I.O.N. requested a full-scale investigation into the University's support of the Minority Business Development Office, as well as the University's compliance with the statute requiring the University to purchase 15 percent of all services and goods from minority vendors. Not only did we never receive a response from the Board, but since then the manager of the office in question has resigned after filing over two complaints in regards to discrimination and the lack of support that she received.

In light of the issue still facing us, we have come yet once again to address you today. The graduation rate for African students over a six-year period continues to hover between 21 and 26 percent. There is still only one African-American dean, and only one African-American department chairperson. African students continue to be arbitrarily harassed by Ohio State University police and programs geared toward recruitment and retention of African students continue to be disproportionately cut to balance the University's budget. All over the University such programs are being sized-down and eliminated in the name of restructuring, and the list goes on.

It astounds us that a group of such intelligent people have not yet questioned the effectiveness of the so called "Diversity Committee," even though it has been in existence for over two years and has achieved absolutely nothing. It is even more amazing that the Trustees have not yet held President E. Gordon Gee accountable for the terribly dismal African-American graduation rate. Let history reflect the role that the present Trustees of this University have played in aiding and abetting a potentially explosive situation at this University by refusing to adequately address or respond to the issues that we have so respectfully and peacefully brought to your attention time and time again. World history is replete with calamities that could have been avoided had the people in positions of power acted responsibly.

Ms. Fubara: (contd)

The Board of Trustees, all historians, and all concerned individuals should take note. Thank you.

Mr. Francisco:

Thank you. Kerri Laubenthal --

Ms. Kerri Laubenthal:

Good morning, members of the Board of Trustees, distinguished faculty, and guests. My name is Kerri Laubenthal and I am a senior in the History of Art Department.

There are two things that I would like to talk to you about today. The first one is the campus area bus service. If you don't know, the bus routes for residential students that live off campus is mostly north campus -- Fourth and Hudson Avenues. However, there is no south campus route down Neil Avenue near King Avenue where most students live. A bus goes out to Don Scott Airfield and the golf course, yet it doesn't go down Neil Avenue near the Victorian Village or anywhere near south campus past the Hospitals. I am wondering why and I would like to know if this can be rectified?

The second thing is as President of the Student Events Committee, which is housed in this Union, I would like to commend the administration on their inclusion of students in investigating the issue of a new student center. I don't know if you know it, but this building self-generates 80 to 85 percent of its revenue. In all the years of budget cuts in the past decade it has never once cut the programs and activities that happen in this building. The building is only a facility unless something happens in it. This is the only place on campus where students are free to program and actively meet and organize.

I hope you support these studies of a new center -- and the funding model for the study of a new student center and for the funding of the activities that go on in that center, whether that be a student activity fee or a different funding model. I hope you support that as most students do. Thank you for your time.

Mr. Chip Bradford:

Good afternoon, I am a first year student from suburban Cleveland. I am a premedical student majoring in microbiology. I am here today to discuss the conditions of the south campus of The Ohio State University. My role here is not accusative in any way, but informative.

The south campus of The Ohio State University provides many opportunities to the students of this fine University. It is in close proximity to Larkins Hall, the Ohio Union, and the great social atmosphere of High Street. It is home to Kuhn Honors House, Mirror Lake, and the Hale Black Cultural Center, which is a wonderful asset to The Ohio State University. However, south campus is lacking in many aspects.

Mr. Bradford: (contd)

First the residence halls are in deplorable conditions. In many of the rooms ceiling tiles are falling or teetering on one hinge or less; closet doors readily become unhinged and fall off; windows provide inadequate insulations from the cold winter wind; and the out-dated heating system either provides too little or far too much heat. Air conditioning, as you may know, is non-existent on the south campus. Many of these items are issues of comfort, but there are also issues of safety and sanitation.

The electrical outlets for the most part on the south campus are not of the three-prong variety which means they are ungrounded. This presents a serious hazard when such equipment as computers, refrigerators, irons, and stereo equipment are plugged into these outlets. Along the lines of sanitation, the bathrooms are not equipped with such things as soap and paper towel dispensers, which make surfaces such as door handles and sinks either unsanitary or unhealthy to touch due to lack of hand washing after using the restroom.

Bradley Hall, the south honors residence hall, is also in a dilapidated condition. As previously mentioned, the windows are drafty, the heating is faulty, and such things as study room furniture, study areas, and general facilities are inadequate. In no way should honor students be put on a pedestal above other Ohio State University students. But as the Council of Enrollment and Student Progress defines them as, "the highest quality Ohio State students," it is my belief that these highest quality students should be provided with the highest quality of living on the south campus.

Finally, Baker Hall Commons, one of the two dining halls on south campus, is poorly operated and usually leaves south campus students disappointed with the services provided to them. The food at Baker Commons is markedly worse than at either North Commons or Kennedy Commons, which is the other south campus dining hall. Unfortunately, Kennedy Commons is only open Monday through Friday and is closed on the weekends, which forces all south campus residents to dine at Baker Hall. It is not uncommon for Baker Hall to run out of main entrees, leaving students to dine on vegetables and salads alone. Also, a shortage of silverware was experienced during Autumn Quarter. During this time students would have to either use plastic utensils or wait in line for the utensils to be washed before they could eat. Baker Hall in comparison to other dining halls is poorly run and an extremely unpleasant place to dine.

In conclusion, I have talked about the conditions of the residence halls in general, the conditions of Bradley Hall, and the conditions at Baker Hall Commons. As I close, I would like to challenge each member of the Board of Trustees to spend time on south campus, spend a night in the residence halls as President E. Gordon Gee does frequently, eat lunch with the students at the commons, or as many students like to do -- hang out. I'm sure it will be both an enlightening and sobering experience. Thank you.

President Gee:

Thank you. May I just comment -- I appreciate what you had to say. I think that we should note that we are fully aware of those issues. As you know, we have gone through a major renovation process. We started with our two big towers -- which after due deliberation decided not to blow them up, but renovated them. Then we moved to the north campus, and now we are moving to the south campus. The purpose of those renovations is to do exactly that. As you know, our residence halls, in general, receive very, very high marks, and the south campus is the area now that we are concentrating on. In the next several years, you are going to see major renovation and the vast majority of those problems you talked about will be solved.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING (contd)

I was just in Baker Hall and I think I get an unfair view of the quality of the food when I appear on the scene, but nonetheless we will certainly pass that on to Bill Hall. I would just like to commend our Residence Halls' staff. I spend a lot of time in the residence halls, as you just noted, and the quality of our residence halls and the quality of our residence halls' staff is really superior.

I happen to have a daughter at another institution. She is in the finest residence hall on that campus, and she would love to have the accommodations that you have. That's not to say that we shouldn't improve it, but the quality of what we do is really very high here. We set a high standard for you and for all of us. Thank you very much for those comments.

Mr. Bradford:

Thank you.

Mr. Francisco:

Thank you. We are pleased to have such a great turnout. We did not anticipate such a large crowd, so due to a lack of time we have to close. Anyone else who would like to speak can either address Amira or myself, or send a letter of correspondence to Ms. Casto or to President Gee. Thank you, that concludes my report.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, Hiawatha. We really do appreciate your participation.

Mr. Celeste:

I would just like to thank Hiawatha and Amira for putting this together and thank the students for showing up. I think we had terrific representation.

Ms. Casto:

Yes, we did. The students did a great job.

March 4, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

The Chairman, Ms. Casto, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on March 4, 1994, at 7:40 a.m. She requested the Secretary to call the roll.

Present: Deborah E. Casto, Chairman, John W. Kessler, Alex Shumate, Theodore S. Celeste, George A. Skestos, Hiawatha N. Francisco, Jr., and Amira N. Ailabouni.

--0--

Ms. Casto:

At this time I would like to request that the Board recess into Executive Session for the purpose of discussing personnel and legal matters.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board recessed into Executive Session by unanimous roll call vote.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Good morning. As I look around the room, I don't see many of these wristbands -- some 10 or 15,000 students, faculty, and staff are wearing these entitling them to purchase 4 tickets for the Pink Floyd Concert. I wanted to explain this so that you don't think I am a hospital patient or under house arrest. At any rate, with a concert in the Stadium on everyone's lips, can spring be far behind! We are most certainly ready for better weather. I don't need to tell you that it has been an extraordinarily challenging winter season.

I want to take just a minute this morning to acknowledge the outstanding work of our physical facilities folks. Under the leadership of Jim Stevens, they have had to plow, shovel, and salt -- again and again -- some 36 lane-miles of roadway, 49 miles of sidewalks, and 6 million square feet of parking. That by any measure is an enormous task! Although Jim can't be with us this morning, I know that Vice President Pichette will take back to her colleagues our thanks for a job extraordinarily well done.

I am pleased today to share several events and accomplishments of the past month that reflect the distinguished -- and growing -- academic reputation of this university. Two of our faculty have received Sloan Research Fellowships as outstanding young scientists. Professor Andrew Gould in astronomy, was recognized for his work in identifying the 90 percent of matter in the universe that is now unaccounted for. I might note that in addition to his research, he teaches an undergraduate course in introductory astronomy for non-science majors. Professor Feng Zhao of computer science designs computers with artificial intelligence. This quarter he is teaching the introduction to numerical analysis course to juniors and seniors. Each Sloan Fellow received a $30,000 research award. The Sloan Foundation awards are very prestigious, with 17 former Sloan

Fellows going on to receive Nobel Prizes. We are very proud of these fine scholars.

Saturday night, Robert Shaw is conducting the university Symphony Orchestra, Symphonic Choir, Chorale, and Men's Glee Club in a program of Brahms. I am delighted that maestro Shaw's residency at Ohio State has been extended by forming a consortium with Boston University and U.C.L.A. Together, we support the Robert Shaw Choral Institute which includes a summer study program in France and residencies at each member institution. We had previously underwritten this program ourselves. Having Robert Shaw on our campus provides an extraordinary educational experience for our students, as will be evidenced at Saturday's performance.

Also this weekend, the University Dance Company is in performance. The department has an international reputation for training choreographers, and this show has received very favorable reviews. Sunday, four of our music faculty members are performing in New York at the Weill Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall and, indeed, I am going to have an opportunity to see that particular concert. They are performing a program of verse and music by Edith Sitwell and Benjamin Britten. They will take this performance to Suffolk, England, in June. Our faculty continue to distinguish us in this and many other ways.

I have been visiting classrooms all week surprising faculty members who are the recipients of the university's Distinguished Scholar Award and the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching. This year, we are honoring 5 faculty for their significant research contributions and 8 faculty members for their teaching excellence. As has become my custom, I have been walking into their classes, unannounced, to present an apple signifying their award. I should add that at a more dignified occasion next month, the teaching award winners each receive a $1,500 cash award and $1,200 is added to their base salary. The research recipients also receive a $1,500 stipend, and they get a $20,000 research grant. This recognition is one of the ways we honor achievement and encourage excellence.

Distinguished faculty, of course, attract outstanding students to the university. The National Merit Scholarship Corporation announced this month that Ohio State ranks fifteenth in the nation in the number of freshman merit scholars. In the Big Ten, only Northwestern ranked above us, and we are sixth among all public universities. While we are meeting here, outstanding high school seniors are on campus participating in Ohio State's Presidential and Medalist Scholarship Competition for full tuition and room and board scholarships. About 750 students, each in the top 3 percent of their high school classes, are participating in the 1994 competition -- up about 20 percent over last year.

This month I hosted a dinner for the top undergraduate scholars on campus. The student speaker was Suzanne Lehman, a senior, from Pittsburgh, majoring in philosophy and photography. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa as a junior and is a resident advisor in Smith Hall. Suzanne explained to the audience that when she was looking at colleges, her school counselor told her that she could be a big fish in a small pond, or a small fish in a big pond -- a phrase each of us, of course, has heard a lot probably during our life. But what Suzanne emphasized to the audience was that she discovered that she could be a big fish in a big pond. She pointed out that from an ecological and biological perspective, the larger and more rich the environment, the more the organism grows. This is a very clever young lady. She said that she has grown a tremendous amount as a student at Ohio State, thanks to the breadth and quality of opportunities provided. I, by the way, share her observation with you as a reminder of the possibilities of a university education for our students and certainly for ourselves.

I thank you for the opportunity to make those comments.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING

Ms. Casto:

Provost Sisson will now present an update on the University restructuring.

Provost Richard Sisson:

Thank you, Madam Chairperson. As I indicated at the last meeting, the restructuring plans for the Colleges of Agriculture and Engineering are fully developed. They have both been sent to the Council on Academic Affairs and the Senate Ad Hoc Oversight Committee on Restructuring, where they are now being considered.

The plan from the College of Veterinary Medicine, which has been approved by the faculty of the College, has also been sent forward for formal Senate review. This plan proposes to reorganize the College into three academic departments, rather than the five which presently exist. The move being the combination of the basic science departments within Veterinary Medicine, which will also have connections with the College of Biological Sciences, and also the basic science departments in the College of Medicine. Formal consideration of this plan by the Senate will begin in the very near future. As a matter of fact, it has already commenced. We are optimistic that all three of these plans will be approved by the Council on Academic Affairs and considered by the full University Senate this spring.

The reorganization plan from the College of Human Ecology, which also has been approved by that College's faculty, is under active consideration in the Office of Academic Affairs, and will soon move to the Council on Academic Affairs for formal review and to the Senate Oversight Committee. This plan reorganizes or proposes the reorganization of the College into three departments and a division, from the current five departments. It would, I think, enhance the ability of the programs in that College considerably.

As you all are aware there is considerable activity -- some of it very controversial -- in a number of our colleges. It is important, I believe, to the future strength of the University that we make hard choices regarding areas of investment and that we streamline our academic administrative structure through appropriate consolidation. We should extend our appreciation and strong support to deans and faculties who have brought forward substantive proposals for such changes in their restructuring mandates. These proposals will often be controversial, as they will often run counter or be perceived to run counter to particular valued interests.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

It is not possible to change in major ways without such outcomes, however, we must focus on what is best for our institution as a whole. In some cases we must take steps of change that will not necessarily be the last ones in particular units if we are to achieve our mission and our commitment to national and international distinction.

Having said that, I need to stress to you that in many respects this process is evolutionary and that proposals which were received on February 1, or there about, represent the first step of this process. In this evolutionary process, conversations continue with the deans of a number of colleges as these proposals are developed further. Let me note, the Office of Academic Affairs is also receiving initial reviews and proposals of inter-college initiatives and programs about which I will decide on the appropriateness of further action fairly soon. This is, as it must be, an uneven and a continuing process. In some cases, plans have been brought to fruition, while in others further discussions and development are proposed and required.

Finally, in some colleges there may be no structural changes for the simple reason or reasons that the existing structures function well and are appropriate ones. The qualitative improvements in those units can best be made within the present organizational and programmatic structure. For the same reasons, in other colleges change is being pursued on a selective basis. What is important is that, in every case, colleges are positioning themselves to become stronger over time and will ultimately bring greater distinction to this University. Madam Chairperson, that is my report.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you. Are there any questions?

Mr. Kessler:

I just want to mention that we talked a little bit about this at the Educational Affairs Committee meeting this morning and how committed, I think, this Board is in support of this restructuring program. I know it has been a lot of hard work for everyone and the cooperation with the faculty has been terrific. We want to make sure we keep on our game plan and we are behind you 100 percent.

Provost Sisson:

I appreciate that very much, Mr. Kessler.

Ms. Casto:

That's true. Anyone else? Thank you very much.

REPORT ON VIRTUAL REALITY

Ms. Casto:

Mr. Celeste, would you introduce your special guests?

REPORT ON VIRTUAL REALITY (contd)

Mr. Celeste:

Thank you, Madam Chair. Last month I mentioned that I had an opportunity to see an extraordinary demonstration of virtual reality being done on campus. I thought that it would be very useful and instructional for the Board to get a chance to share some of the flavor of that. So with us today is Dr. David Schuller and Don Stredney to give a snapshot of that presentation and to give you a feel for one of the very exciting things going on on this campus.

Dr. David Schuller:

Good morning everybody and thank you for this opportunity. I guess I look at one of the responsibilities of leadership as to continuously be pursuing opportunities for expanding interdisciplinary partnerships, sort of a continuation of the President's theme about the big pond concept within this University. As a person involved with cancer surgery, there is no question that some of the newer diagnostic technologies have helped us, but it still deals with some constraints of trying to project a three-dimensional world into two dimensions. For about one and a half years, we've actively sought out and developed dialog with our colleagues in the Ohio SuperComputer Center to see whether indeed there may well be a partnership, and to see if we can take advantage of that expertise. We have had this group meeting on a regular basis for about the last 18 months, to just address that. Can this technology -- that is clearly state-of-the-art and an integral part of our University -- help us to expand our capabilities, both in diagnosis and treatment of some of our clinical problems in medicine?

As this has evolved, we think that there are also, obviously, very real research priorities here, but educational opportunities as well. I would like to acknowledge Dr. Charles Bender, who heads the Ohio SuperComputer Center, as an integral part of our team. Don Stredney will now give you a little presentation of what it is that we have been doing here.

Mr. Don Stredney:

Thank you, Dr. Schuller. I would like to thank Mr. Celeste for having the opportunity to share this research with you. This is interdisciplinary research, not only under investigation with Dr. Schuller's group in Otolaryngology and the James Cancer Hospital, but also with the Divisions of Neurosurgery, Orthopedic Surgery, and Anesthesiology, and Children's Hospital.

Basically, I think the bottom line is that we need to improve computer interfaces. [Slide presentation]. There are not many people who can walk off the street and sit down in front of a UNIX box and become productive. So we are looking at intuitive interfaces that allow people to sit down and not have to become computer scientists in order to work with a computer, but jump immediately into their domain.

So our goals are: intuitive interface; that the system is cost efficient; that it's engaging -- that's especially important for industrial retraining and learning in an educational environment; that it's unencumbered -- something that can be put on very quickly. One of the comments about doctors is that VR needs to be immersive -- that they just want to get wet, they don't really want to be emersed -- and that it must be an open system. We don't really want to build on something that then as new technology arrives, the old technology is inadequate.

Mr. Stredney: (contd)

Our current applications are for pre-surgical planning, for training, especially in medicine, and for education. That includes telemedicine, so distance learning is possible as well. We feel that as the national information infrastructure grows -- it's currently growing at 20 percent per month in the number of people that are joining it -- we need to have a very aggressive and cost competitive way for our researchers, students, and clinicians to gain access to that and to interact with that large amount of information coming across that net.

The things that we have chosen for this is visual for stereo viewing and head tracking. For vocal we employ speech recognition. We don't want the user to have to traverse endless menus on the screen, but to be able to simply give a voice command through the computer and an instrumented glove, so that you actually use your hand in the environment.

This shows some of the components of stereo viewing -- that we present an image to one eye and obscure the other eye and then switch those very rapidly and the brain then perceives stereo. That is extremely important for tactile information which is required in surgery and head tracking. As you turn your head, the view changes immediately, as if you are actually looking at the object. For vocal, of course, is speech recognition, and eventually then to be developed by third-party vendors currently working on speech synthesis so that the computer can also give you information back through your oral channel.

Manual -- we feel that the hand-eye interface is incredibly delicate and has evolved over millions of years. One of the researchers in Biomedical Engineering told me that for people to really use a keyboard and a mouse to interface with a computer you might as well use a potato. I think that is an extremely poignant comment.

So our future directions are for real time volume renderings; parallel implementation on the big machines that we have at the Supercomputer Center; haptic feed back -- we are currently involved with researchers out in Palo Alto to send information back to the gloved interfaces, so you feel the structures in the environment that you are working with in the computer -- and ways to improve segmentation which means to delineate regions of interest. That is especially true for research such as working with the brain tumor research center here to be able to determine the sizes of those structures quickly.

You see here a reconstruction of CT data we are doing with Dr. Schuller -- you will see this in a visualization. This shows the volumetric reconstructions of a patient's head. We have taken a cube and pushed it into the volume exposing the ventricles which are fluid-filled chambers, and this allows the surgeon to pre-plan in a non-threatening environment, so that he can plan a more minimally evasive surgery.

I was not able to find any color controls on the monitor so I apologize if the colors are somewhat off, but I assure you there is no blood. Here you see a quick simulation of some work -- we are working with Harvard Medical School -- this is a dipole from EEG information. They're doing studies on alcohol, steroid, and cocaine abuse and we are looking at the brain mechanisms that are involved in that. So we are combining EEG information which is functional with structural information taken from MRI.

Here you see a piece done for Neurosurgery exposing the tumor which is lying just behind the ventricles of the brain and then we can remove that structure and show the location. This shows a lesion deep in the thalamus -- this is a stereotactic cage which is going to be used for positioning a biopsy needle. What we want to do is plan what is the most or least invasive entry to go in and take that to the brain. And here you see the user actually just sliding through the simulation to look at the regional anatomy -- to have a better map, if you will, to go into surgery.

This shows a particular case of Dr. Schuller's -- these are MRI now played back in real time on their work station and the temporal information gives them additional ways to interpret this. Here you see the large tumor here and this is important in telemedicine where he can send this to another referring physician and can annotate this with voice information as well here establishing the tumor margin. Here you see the reconstruction then in 3-D of that patient. Our intent is to present this information, not just as pretty pictures, but with information that allows them to see it in a similar way that they are going to see in surgery -- in a 3-D or three-dimensional way. And here you see an explanation of the tumor margin and its relationship to the brain, and then in an interactive way sectioning into that structure and being able to establish the tumor margin and other areas of interest.

Here you see the skull that was done previously and rotated at any angle. Then here he is going to point out a missing bone which was taken out in a previous surgery, which may be of interest. Here you see a piece done for anesthesiology - - we are looking into compression neuropathies and women's pain after deliveries and this is just a normal model of the anatomy. This is a special acquisition that was received with coils that are developed here at the MRI facility at the University Hospitals. Now you see a three-dimensional presentation, particularly two nerves that are stretched during delivery that cause this problem.

One of the advantages of using some of the tactile feedback which we'll be using in this program -- this is an epidural, let me digress here. This is a very difficult medical procedure to learn. There is no patient variance on models. They do not interact the same way as real patients, so we are looking at a virtual way to do this. We are working with a company that provides feedback to the instrument that would allow us to then feel in the computer what is actually happening.

Here you see a research associate with the gloved interface and a referent on the screen moving. We are trying to improve that referent and this is a model that has been sculpted. We are then going to implicitly drive the information. We are looking for a surgically gloved hand that folds. This is real time, so as you move your hand it is doing this and this is all driven by the computer in real time. And we are not after "Gee, that is my hand," but something that can be used for scale as a reference for investigating the material.

Here you see one of Dr. Schuller's residents, Dr. Greg Wiet. This is the type of interfacing -- you can see it's fairly unencumbering, it's very much like a golf glove - - which the doctors love. It's easy to slip on -- simply a pair of stereo glasses which changes left to right, very rapidly at 120 hertz, and a microphone for introducing the voice recognition into the system. And here you see Dr. Wiet in real time then manipulating a very difficult structure -- these are the ventricles of the brain, a classically difficult area to learn in neuroanatomy. He is seeing this in stereo, so he can see three-dimensional information in a way that he cannot on video.

Mr. Stredney: (contd)

Finally, this is a piece that we are doing with Dr. Shelley Simon in orthopedic surgery. It is a pre-planned architectural data set for downtown. What we are doing is looking at ADA compliance of architecture through virtual simulation and testing a user's performance in using a motorized wheel chair. As someone needs to be upgraded from a manual wheel chair to a power chair, we want to be able to test them in an environment prior to actually having them have that equipment.

Thank you very much.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you.

Mr. Celeste:

I will move on to my Research Report after digressing for one minute. I did have a chance to use the glove and I would suggest that between that opportunity and what I am about to report on, that the Board give serious consideration to a future meeting being over at either the SuperComputer Center or the Eisenhower Clearing House where we were yesterday. This would give the other Board members the full benefit of what is going on there because it is really quite something. I would like to recommend that in the future we consider that. Dr. Bender is here --

Dr. Charles Bender:

If anyone would like to stop by after the Board meeting, we could give you a demonstration.

Mr. Celeste:

You would have a chance to wear the glove if you like -- not the golf glove.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

As has been the case in the past, the summaries of the grants and contracts received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the month of January can be found at Tab 1 in your Research Foundation Report. Awards for the period July 1993 through January 1994, are down about 4 percent compared to the preceding year. This is an improvement by 3 percent over the figures we saw at our last meeting. Funding from the Department of Defense has moved to the positive side this month, up 14 percent. It is also noteworthy that award dollars from the Department of Education have increased 36 percent and the number of awards have almost doubled.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT (contd)

Mr. Celeste: (contd)

At Tab 2 there is a summary of expenditures for the months of July through January, Fiscal Year 1994 compared to 1993. Total expenditures for FY 1994 through January, exceed FY 1993 expenditures by 8.3 percent. The Non-Federal category shows an increase of 19.1 percent over the same period last year. This is mainly due to the transfer of these projects from the Engineering Experiment Station to the Research Foundation. Equipment expenditures are up 24 percent during this period. Equipment acquisitions not only enhance the research, it also serves as state-of-the-art technology for graduate and undergraduate education.

Some new projects of special interest that were funded in the month of January are described at Tab 3. Included is a project awarded to Professor Frederic Cadora, Chairperson of Near Eastern, Judaic, and Hellenic Languages and Literatures, who received $500,000 from The National Endowment for the Humanities for a 3-year Arabic Language and Culture National Institute for Secondary School Teachers. This is an unusually large award in the humanities. It is a tribute to The Ohio State University's reputation in international education. Fifty foreign language and social studies teachers will study Arabic language, culture, literature, linguistics, and teaching methodology at Ohio State the first two summers for the purpose of translating this to their home school. To enrich the teachers' experiences, the third summer institute will be held in Amman, Jordan.

A second project of interest is entitled Enhancing the Roles of Great Lakes Coastal Wetlands for Water Quality Improvement and Wildlife Protection. Professor William Mitsch, School of Natural Resources, received $74,000 from the Great Lakes Protection Fund to develop landscape-scale modeling for Great Lakes coastal wetlands. This project will identify the needs for and the approaches to wetland restoration and proper management for enhancing Great Lakes ecosystem health, particularly in improving water quality, and providing wildlife biodiversity. It is a project important to Ohio citizens and to the community of business and industry whose economies are closely connected to the Great Lakes ecosystem.

Yesterday, Vice President Hayes and I met with Dr. Len Simutis, Director of the Eisenhower National Clearinghouse for Math and Science Education, for a tour of the facility at 1929 Kenny Road. It is the home for two other national centers funded by the Department of Education -- the National Center for Science Teaching and Learning, and the National Eric Clearinghouse on Science, Mathematics, and Environmental Education. The other two directors were there and took us on a tour of their facilities as well. We were impressed at how CD-ROM technology is transforming science education. I think if you could see a demonstration as we had, you might have more hope for the future than the somewhat grim reports we keep seeing about the state of science education in our country.

Tab 4 contains a list of all projects funded in January.

At Tab 5 are abstracted press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity. There is also a press release announcing the award of 2 prestigious Sloan Research Fellowships to Ohio State faculty.

This concludes my remarks.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-

95

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for January 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation and the Engineering Experiment Station of The Ohio State University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein, and the acceptance of the reports from the Engineering Experiment Station during the month of January 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

Madam Chair, the following is a summary of the activities of the University Hospitals Board for the month of February. Our local outreach network of 7 MedOhio sites and 3 physician office sites referred a total of 5,867 new patients to the Medical Center during Fiscal Year 1992-93, yielding a total of 1,493 admissions to University Hospitals, 93 admissions to the James Cancer Hospital, and 9,420 outpatient visits. The local network currently represents more than one-half of the primary care volume of the entire University Medical Center, and is the basis for developing a strong primary care network. A large, strong primary care presence will be critical in attaining contracts with payers in the evolving managed care market. These local and regional affiliates are also providing medical students, residents, and fellows with an educational experience in primary care, ambulatory care, and rural settings.

The Healthcare Consortium of Ohio, our hospital network which now includes eight affiliate hospitals, has asked the University Medical Center to take a strong leadership role in pursuing provider contracts with insurance carriers and other purchasing groups. The consortium would position itself as a vertically integrated delivery system with the ability to care for patients over a wide geographic range in Ohio. Discussions are continuing with Consortium members as well as other hospitals that have expressed interest in networking with us. All these hospitals have been left out of managed care provider contracts and now find themselves struggling to adapt to these changes. These hospitals are looking to us to assist them.

At the February committee meeting, it was reported that the Hospitals' patient activity continues to meet budget and the financial report indicated that the

Mr. Skestos: (contd)

Hospitals was exceeding budget. We learned that the accreditation survey conducted by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations was very favorable, granting University Hospitals a full three-year accreditation. University Hospitals was also identified in a recent study as one of the top 100 hospitals, and one of the top ten academic medical center hospitals, in the nation.

That concludes my report.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS REPORT

Mr. Colley:

Madam Chairperson, on February 4, 1994, David Brennan and I met with Vice President Moser, two other faculty members in the College of Agriculture, and eight articulate, bright students in a two-hour exchange. It was absolutely stimulating. The students who were present were Ryan Lee, past president of Ag & Natural Resources Council; Rick Mead, president of the Ag & Natural Resources Council; Brenda Brugger, secretary of the Ag & Natural Resources Council; Scott Heimlich, president of Towers Honorary; Tonya Cheek, USG/Agriculture & Natural Resources Student Representative; La Trevia Hayes, President of MANRRS; Ian Blount, member of MANRRS; and Jason Skinner, representative of the Agricultural Communicators of Tomorrow.

This provided Mr. Brennan and I an opportunity to interact with the students and they did raise issues about the conditions of the buildings, laboratories, and about adequate support for the faculty. The impression we had at the conclusion of the two-hour session was that the students were highly complimentary of Vice President Moser and his faculty, and of Ohio State University, in general, and especially Dean Moser's involvement of the students in the reorganization of the College, which 75 percent of them approved.

That concludes my report.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Francisco:

This morning the Committee heard from three students that did not have the opportunity to speak at last month's open forum because we had run out of time. Today the students talked about women's issues on campus, the Sphinx Linking, and Asian-American issues on campus. We also asked Ron Michalec, University Police Chief, and Rich Hollingsworth, Dean of Student Life, to discuss safety concerns and initiatives taking place in their areas.

The student government leaders also updated the Committee on their activities. Chris Norman was happy to report on the kick-off of "Student-for-a-Day," which will be soon. All of the names are in so everyone expect your name and who you are going to be matched up with -- including you, too, Gordon. Chris is also in support of the new student union and he is also going to donate, as part of his senior class gift, $1,000 to go toward building a new student union. He talked about the undergraduate experience and how USG is looking at and trying to improve it here at Ohio State.

Frank Chloupek reported on the Eighth Annual Graduate Forum in April, which gives graduate students an opportunity to present for the first time and hopefully for many times to come -- it gives them experience. Also in regards to the student union, he is very pleased that efforts are being turned over to the students and how students have a big say on what is going to happen with it. He is also pleased with how graduate students' involvement in campus activities are going.

Wes Bishop reported that four of the five names submitted for the new Student Trustee were law students -- I don't know if that is good or bad. Wes also said that a new student union is a hard sell for professional students because they are further away from the union and don't really have a big need or use for a union. For Black History Month, they had their First Annual Academic Awards and they honored three professors. Wes is also going to attend a conference on the selection of a president next month in Washington, D.C.

That concludes my report.

INVESTMENTS REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

I would like to call on Mr. Nichols to give the monthly Endowment Portfolio report.

Mr. Jim Nichols:

Thank you, Mr. Shumate. The report is under the Investment section of your book, under the specific tab, Endowment Portfolio. This report is for the period January 20, 1994, through February 18, 1994, and during this period there was a decline in the stock market, as well as a somewhat greater decline in the bond market. The Endowment Fund on February 18, was $508.2 million, the total was approximately $4.9 million, below the January 21 total.

Market value of the equity portion decreased $1 million, while the fixed income portion decreased $2.4 million. Since July 1, the Endowment Fund has increased $15.1 million, including new additions of $7.8 million. The current asset allocation is 65 percent equities, 21 percent fixed incomes, 7 percent real estate, and 7 percent cash.

At the very end of that section you will find, in graphic form, the comparisons on Endowment return over time against other colleges and universities in the United States. You will see four comparisons that are done with our portfolio and, I might add, this involves 437 colleges and universities in the United States.

Just looking at the one-year comparisons, the University's return last year was 16.1 percent in comparison with 13.0 percent for public universities; 14.5 percent for those universities, that includes private and public, that are over $400 million; 14.1 percent for Big Ten endowments; and 13.4 percent for the median of all universities. If you go to the ten-year period, you will see that our average annual return was 13 percent compared again to public endowments of 11.6 percent; over $400 million of 12.6 percent; Big Ten of 11.8 percent; and 12.0 percent for the median. Both at the one and ten-year period of time that places us in the upper quartile of performance return for the Endowment over time.

INVESTMENTS REPORT (contd)

I might add, that the performance certainly has the involvement of the staff within the Office of the Treasurer, but also the professional investments managers that work with us. And as the Board knows very well -- and as the audience may not know quite so well -- the Investments Committee sometimes, particularly in the fall, meet and review activities for very long hours. There is a very strong commitment on the part of the Board to that oversight.

The last page in this section I put in because it follows a question that Dr. Gee raised about three meetings ago. It shows our overall rankings within college and university endowments, both in terms of all schools as well as just publics. You will see it starts at June 30, 1983, and goes up through June 30 of this past fiscal year.

During that time we moved from the forty-sixth largest endowment -- this is both private and public in the United States -- to the thirty-first largest, and in terms of comparison of public schools, we went from ninth to fifth. I might add -- which is not on there -- that at June 30, 1983, the Endowment was $122 million, and today it sits at $508 million. So there has been a considerable movement forward and that has two components: the investment component, to which is just over 50 percent over that movement; and almost at 50 percent of the movement is the fundraising activities that have occurred over this past decade.

That concludes my report, Mr. Shumate.

Mr. Shumate:

Thank you, Mr. Nichols, those are terrific results. The report on private support to the University for July through January, compared with the same period last year, is in the Development section of our notebooks.

You will see that total giving this year is slightly behind last year's record pace. Through January, total dollars contributed is 7 percent less than last year. Even though total dollars are down slightly, there are a number of encouraging highlights as follows: gifts from non-alumni individuals are up 18 percent; the number of donors continues to be greater than that of one year ago, that figure is up 8 percent; giving to support student financial aid is up 19 percent; giving to college and department support funds is up 25 percent; and gifts for buildings and equipment are up 22 percent.

I would like to recommend to the Board the establishment of five new named endowed funds totalling $121,800 in restricted support to the University. Also, I am requesting the revision of a named endowed fund.

NOTES

A Contributions from non-alumni individuals is up 18% this year due to more gifts of $10,000 or more (75 for $5.7 million last year; 89 for $6.7 million this year).

However overall individual giving is down 6% compared to the July-January period one year ago. This is largely due to an irrevocable trust of $2.1 million which was received in September 1992 and a bequest receipt in November 1992 for nearly $1 million (both gifts from alumni).

B Corporation giving is down only 6% despite the fact that one gift of $3.2 million (mainframe computer) was received by this time last year.

C During July-January 1992-93, fifty-nine associations or other organizations gave $10,000 or more ($1,769,427). This year only forty-two gave $10,000 or more ($1,026,243).

(Note: Of the $36,345,194 in current year gift receipts, $1,333,465 or 4% is the result of the payment of pledges from The Ohio State University Campaign).

Alga "Peg" Weaver 4-H Scholarship

The Alga "Peg" Weaver 4-H Scholarship was established May 7, 1993, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Alga Weaver. The endowment description was revised March 4, 1994.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to grant at least one scholarship with earnings up to $1,200 to be awarded for three(3) consecutive quarters providing the recipient maintains a minimum GPA of 2.0 or above on a 4.0 scale. Should the earnings exceed $1,200, the interest will accumulate until a second $1,200 scholarship can be awarded, following the same guidelines as the first scholarship. Applicants must be 4-H members, seniors in high school during the year of application, committed to a profession in home economics and planning to enroll as freshmen at The Ohio State University, Columbus campus, branches and satellites. The award shall be given in "voucher" form, to be used for academic, supplies and books only. If no applicant is found, then the scholarship may be awarded to a student currently enrolled (continuing education students included) in home economics at The Ohio State University, Columbus campus, branches and satellites. Award recipients shall be selected by the 4-H Awards Selection Committee in consultation with the scholarship coordinators of the College of Agriculture and the College of Human Ecology.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preferences being given to the recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of The University who is the Director for The Ohio State university Extension, in consultation with a committee representing the local 4-H donors.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

FUNCTIONAL MISSION STATEMENT SUMMARY

Mr. Kessler:

The Educational Affairs Committee met this morning and I would like to call on Provost Sisson to present a summary of his report on the Functional Mission Statement.

Provost Richard Sisson:

Thank you, Mr. Kessler. We had a very productive discussion in the Educational Affairs Committee meeting this morning on the Functional Mission Statement, which is in the materials that each of you have received. Let me say, that this document has also benefitted enormously from the full and broadly engaged discussion within the University community. There has been substantial thought, energy, and time that has been put in to it.

The purpose of the Functional Mission Statement derives from a mandate from the Ohio Board of Regents for publicly assisted universities to focus upon how they -- we -- feel that we fit within the general firmament of institutions of higher education in the State, and the particular kind of distinctive functions that we provide. It is certainly my understanding and my hope that different institutions serving different functions will come out of this for the benefit of the education of Ohioans.

There were a couple of emendations to the report as a consequence of our discussion earlier this morning. I also would like to note that, at the request of the Educational Affairs Committee, the Provost will present an annual report on how we are doing with respect to the achievement of the purposes that are set forth in this very important document. I am not going to belabor the various points that are made in the report. What I would do is invite your attention to several things: 1) is the University objectives that are set forth at the end of part one of the document; and 2) to invite your perusal of the Executive Summary of the compilation of the objects that are combined at the end of the document, the kinds of opportunities that we see, and the kinds of problems that we are going to have to overcome during our traversing the road ahead.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Dr. Sisson.

(See Appendix XXXIV the Functional Mission Statement, page 769.)

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-100

Synopsis: Approval of four Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the families of the deceased.

Frederick W. Dierker

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 1, 1994, of Frederick W. Dierker, M.D. Dr. Dierker received his M.D. degree from The Ohio State University College of Medicine in 1952 and had an ongoing family practice in Columbus in the Clintonville area for 33 years, retiring in 1986. He became a Clinical Instructor at The Ohio State University Department of Family Medicine in 1975 at its inception, having been a Clinical Instructor in the Department of Preventive Medicine since 1971. Upon his retirement in 1987, he was named Clinical Assistant Professor Emeritus.

Dr. Dierker was a dedicated family physician who directed his talents to help develop the Department of Family Medicine at The Ohio State University. He was a dedicated teacher of medical students and a superb role model. Particularly noteworthy was that, even after serious health problems, he continued to serve as an outstanding clinical teacher and preceptor for our medical students. He was one of the first preceptors in the Family Practice Evening Clinic at The Ohio State University Medical Center in the late 1960's, and for many years he was regularly judged by the medical students as one of the best family physician preceptors on our clinical faculty.

Dr. Dierker was instrumental in helping the Ohio legislature recognize the importance of family practice as a necessary discipline in medical education in the State of Ohio in the 1960's. This led to the initial funding for education in family medicine at The Ohio State University. Later in the 1970's, he was involved with the legislative process establishing departments of family medicine in all medical schools in Ohio.

Frederick W. Dierker (contd)

He was also a leader in the Department of Family Medicine at Riverside Methodist Hospital in Columbus, using his many talents to teach OSU students at Riverside Methodist Hospital. He also served as Chairman of the Department of Family Practice at that institution. He helped to establish the residency training program at Riverside and was a driving force for many years in that program.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to his wife and family its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Ernest Eugene Good

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 23, 1994, of Ernest Eugene Good, Professor Emeritus in the School of Natural Resources, College of Agriculture.

Dr. Good was born on January 7, 1913, in Van Wert, Ohio. He received all of his degrees at The Ohio State University (B.Sc. in Botany, 1940; M.S. in Zoology, 1947; Ph.D. in Zoology, 1952). He was employed by the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 1935-1940, and by the Indiana Department of Conservation in 1941. From 1942-1948, he owned and operated a farm that produced hybrid seed. He joined the faculty of Ohio State's Department of Zoology in 1948, was an original member of the faculty of the School of Natural Resources at the time of its formation in 1968, and served as Chair of its Division of Fisheries and Wildlife Management from 1969 until his retirement in 1978. Following his retirement, he continued to serve the School as a volunteer instructor in an annual two-week field studies course in Canada. In recent years, he also led field excursions to Africa.

Among Dr. Good's research grants were studies in Alaskan ecology, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, and effects of pesticides on mammalian reproduction, by the National Institutes of Health. Other research interests included effects of land use on breeding bird populations, effects of pesticides on reproduction in mice, population dynamics in tree squirrel populations, and behavior of the river otter.

It is as a teacher that Gene Good will best be remembered by many of his former students and colleagues for whom he served as a highly effective mentor. Included among courses in which he served as instructor were Principles of Wildlife Management, field courses in Natural Resources Management, Mammalogy, and Natural History of Ohio. He taught a course in Conservation of Natural Resources for twenty years at the University, fifteen summers at the Ohio Conservation Laboratory, and four summers at the University of Maryland. He played a major role in the School's acquisition of the Barnebey Center for Environmental Studies in Hocking County, and for several years conducted a quarter-long field studies course there.

Dr. Good's many recognitions included receipt of the University's Distinguished Teaching Award and the College of Agriculture's Meritorious Service Award, listing in American Men of Science, fellowship in the Ohio Academy of Science, and membership in the School of Natural Resources Alumni Society's Honorary 100.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Good its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Carl Schlam

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on December 25, 1993, of Professor Carl Schlam in the Department of Classics.

Professor Schlam, who earned his B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia University, joined the faculty of The Ohio State University as Assistant Professor in 1967. His previous teaching included appointments at Case Institute and at Rutgers University.

Widely known as a scholar of the second-century A.D. novelist Apuleius and of Renaissance Latin, Carl Schlam published his most recent book just a year before his death: The Metamorphoses of Apuleius: On Making an Ass of Oneself (Chapel Hill: University of North Carolina Press, 1992). An earlier book, Cupid and Psyche: Apuleius and the Monuments, appeared in 1976 under the auspices of the major national association of North American classicists, American Philological Association. In addition, he published a number of articles and reviews in journals such as Classical World, Medieval Studies, Transactions of the American Philological Association, and Classical Journal, to name a few.

Besides his participation in national and international conventions and congresses, Professor Schlam was an avid supporter of the study of the classics at the local level as well, including a long-term interest in such organizations as the Columbus Latin Club and the Ohio Classical Conference, both of which he supported faithfully. The Columbus Latin Club recently honored his memory with a generous gift to the Carl Schlam Lecture Fund established in the Department of Classics to support an annual lecture by an invited speaker.

Carl Schlam was both a staunch New Yorker and a citizen of the world, and his wide-ranging interests and lively intellect fostered a climate of rigorous inquiry into topics ranging far beyond classical Greece and Rome. The attending of lectures was among his favorite habits, and it is certainly appropriate that his memory is being honored through an endowed lecture fund named after him. He was a generous and kindly man who will be much missed by colleagues and friends alike.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Dorothy D. Scott

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 14, 1993, of Dorothy Delong Scott, Professor Emeritus in the College of Human Ecology.

Dorothy D. Scott was born February 14, 1903, in Columbus, Ohio. She completed a B.S. degree in Education from The Ohio State University Home Economics Education in 1926 and continued in graduate work receiving a M.S. in Home Economics Education in 1929. Dr. Scott was awarded the Ed.D. from Columbia University in 1945 in Home Economics Education.

Dr. Scott joined the faculty of The Ohio State University School of Home Economics in 1937 to coordinate the Guidance Program. She became Professor and Chairman of the Division of Home Economics Education in 1945. Dr. Scott became Director of the School and Chairman of the Department of Home Economics of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station in 1955, serving in this capacity until retirement in 1968. She was the first director and first woman to hold the title, Associate Dean, College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Dr. Scott served on University committees including advisory to the Board of Trustees for selection of the President 1957-58, advisory to the President and Board of Trustees 1958-61, University Faculty Council, Student Affairs 1960-63, and was the first woman to serve on the University Council on Instruction. She was in demand as a speaker and delegate to various professional events and conferences and served as a consultant for curriculum and publications.

Dr. Scott shared her leadership by being an active member of a number of professional organizations, often serving as an officer and committee chair. These professional organizations included: the American and Ohio Home Economics Association, American and Ohio Vocational Association, National Education Association, American Association of University Professors, National and Ohio Family Life Council, and International Federation for Home Economics. She served as Vice President for the American Home Economics Association, from 1963-66, and guided the development and presented the "New Directions" document which continues to be recognized as a benchmark publication of historical significance for the profession.

Dr. Dorothy D. Scott is recognized as a teacher, administrator, researcher, leader in the profession, and a quiet, caring, sincere role model for many people. Her daily contributions to the professional and personal lives of students, staff, faculty, and colleagues continues as a lasting tribute to her efforts and her many successes.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

FINANCIAL RESTRUCTURING SUMMARY

Mr. Skestos:

The Fiscal Affairs Committee met this morning and we heard from Bill Shkurti on the financial restructuring at the University. I would like to now call on him to give us a summary of that report.

Mr. William J. Shkurti:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. As you mentioned, Dr. Ray and I presented the financial restructuring to the Fiscal Affairs Committee so I will summarize it very briefly.

One of the things that caused this report to be written is that when Ed and I were traveling around talking to faculty and staff, one of the questions we were asked most often was, "You have asked us to restructure, what is central administration doing to restructure and clean up its own financial operations of the University, so we don't run from one crisis to the next?" Well, in fact, we do have a plan for improving the management of financial resources in the institution and we have been working on it for three years. What this gave us the opportunity to do was commit it to writing and share it with the Trustees and the campus community, which is what we did in the Fiscal Affairs Committee.

What I would just point out is that the first page of the document describes what the goals or characteristics of the plan are. If you flip over to the second page it enumerates by goal and by fiscal year some of the specific actions that we have taken. In the Committee, Dr. Ray talked about the enhanced profiles report as one example of sharing information and improving management.

We were also instructed in the Committee meeting by the Chair, to follow-up with periodic updates on our success in meeting some of these goals and we will do that. The other thing that I would stress is that this is a joint project of Academic Affairs and the Office of Finance, in conjunction with the Senate Fiscal Committee. We think it is important in an academic institution of this type to recognize that good academic management and good financial management support each other -- that they are not in contradiction to each other. And although this institution is not General Motors -- it never will be and it never should be -- some good business practices also make sense in large universities. And where they make sense, we hope to accomplish those.

Mr. Chairman, that concludes my brief report. I will be glad to answer any questions you might have.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

The recent weather notwithstanding, there are many signs of spring on the campus, I would note: baseball is being played over at Trautman Field; USG is holding elections; the Greek Week Blood Drive is underway; Spring football has begun; and I have spotted a few dogs on the Oval. The energy and spirit of spring also is translated into a full calendar of intellectual, cultural, and social activities for the university.

Consider these examples of April offerings: a lecture on the foundation of consciousness and artificial intelligence; a lecture on Yiddish language and culture; a military history conference organized by graduate students on subjects from the Civil War to the Cold War; and a lecture on Ancient Greece as Utopia. These are only a few of the literally dozens of programs that bring world-class scholars to the campus to engage our community in academic inquiry.

Five of the world's most distinguished mathematical researchers were here for a seminar held in conjunction with the dedication of the Mathematics Tower. I was reminded that the old math building was dedicated in 1961. At that time, the department taught about 18,000 students and some 83,000 credit hours. Today, they teach 39,000 students and nearly 200,000 credit hours per year. Clearly, mathematics is central to the education of our students, and the new facility provides outstanding opportunities for faculty and students alike.

This month, we also celebrated the opening of the neuropsychiatric wing at the Medical Center's Upham Hall. As Dr. Nasrallah pointed out to the audience at the dedication, our move from a very old-fashioned institutional style of facility to a very modern, warm, and personal environment reflects the dramatic changes in the diagnosis and treatment of mental disorders today. The building is a splendid addition to an outstanding medical program.

Our academic reputation continued to grow this month with the announcement that Marcus Jones, a sophomore from Gahanna, has received a Younger Scholars Award from the National Endowment for the Humanities. He is one of 51 students in the United States to receive this honor. I might point out that this is the second year in a row that an Ohio State student has been so honored. Marcus will study German militarism with his $2,500 research grant. We are very proud of his accomplishments.

Professor Okey Onyejekwe of the Department of Black Studies, has been invited to be a member of the United Nations Observer Mission to South Africa for the elections at the end of the month. He teaches African politics, and his students surely will benefit from his first-hand experience, which I think is marvelous for him and certainly for the university. Benefits from the work of our faculty extend well beyond the campus, of course. Our partnership with industry in economic development is evident in $14 million of federal and matching grants won by the university and the Edison Welding Institute to facilitate the conversion of private companies from defense to civilian business. With the 20 E.W.I. member companies and its researchers, Ohio State is involved in developing a number of technologies that will benefit industry.

My visit to Lima and Toledo in March also provided a number of examples of the impact of the university on our state. I was especially pleased at the obvious pride and enthusiasm expressed by the West Central Ohio Regional Development Board for Ohio State's Lima campus. Our regional campuses are filling an important need around the state and continue to do so.

Today, I am delighted that this Board is acting on the appointment of Dr. Rafael Cortada as dean and director of the Ohio State Newark Campus. He comes to us from the presidency of Wayne County Community College in Detroit. Michael Dunn's appointment as Director of Recreation and Intramural Sports fills one of the busiest positions on campus, as he oversees one of the nation's largest intramural sports programs.

Also in Larkins you will find the Synchronized Swimming team working diligently. And that work paid off with another national championship this past month. Our students don't spend all of their time in class -- they play intramural softball at 11:00 at night, or participate in other recreation programs at Larkins Hall.

So that our trustees and senior administrators can get a first-hand look at how students spend their time, our student trustees have organized a "Student For A Day" program. Twenty students are paired with trustees, vice presidents, and others. I will be attending law classes with Rita Smith. Mr. Brennan can look forward to going to class with Bonita McGee, also from Akron. I'm sure he will benefit from Business Management 330: an examination of the use of statistical techniques in managerial decision making; and Accounting 212: the introduction to accounting. Mr. Kessler and his partner, Tonya Cheek of Oxford, Ohio, will attend Biology 114, a course on Biological Sciences: Form, Function, Diversity, and Ecology. He also will be lucky enough to attend Mathematics 151: calculus and analytic geometry.

We are all going to find out just how tough this university is! Just the thought of going back to law school strikes terror in my heart. I can remember the professor saying: "Mr. Gee, would you like to explain the facts of today's case?" I certainly hope they don't call on me! So this is a warning, because we may be minus one less professor if they do!

I know that all of us will learn a lot on our day with a student -- including the fact that none of us can keep up with these very talented young people! I think this is a wonderful program and Hiawatha, you and Amira are to be congratulated. I know that the Trustees and all of us are looking forward to participating.

That, Madam Chair, concludes my report. Thank you very much.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING

Ms. Casto:

Provost Sisson will now present an update on the University restructuring.

Provost Richard Sisson:

Thank you, Madam Chair. I would like to bring the Board up-to-date on the status of several items under review in our restructuring process. Let me first say that the

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Provost Sisson: (contd)

Provost's Advisory -- the Priorities Committee, the Council on Academic Affairs, and the Senate Oversight Committee on Restructuring -- have been diligently at work reviewing a number of proposals concerning the restructuring of a number of academic units. I previously reported that several colleges have brought forward substantive recommendations for such changes. These proposals at times, as must be expected, will be controversial as they may appear and, indeed, may run and, in some cases, do run counter to particular and valued interests.

When something exists -- having been created after a review process, even though perhaps distant in past time -- there must be some rationale for its existence. But times and priorities change, and we must focus on what is best for the University as a whole. In some cases the steps we take will not necessarily be the last ones, but they will provide new direction and flexibility in our quest for distinction in what we do.

The restructuring process is an evolutionary one, not one the consequences of which mark completion and become frozen in time. The proposals now under examination represent the first step in most cases in this process. Conversations continue with the deans of a number of colleges as proposals are developed further.

The Office of Academic Affairs is also receiving initial proposals of inter-college initiatives and programs which will be studied and acted upon as appropriate. Particularly interesting in this regard, I think, are proposals made in the report of the Committee on the Molecular Life Sciences, which the Vice President for Research and the Provost have just recently received in response to the charge that we made to that Committee late last year. The Committee on Public Policy is hard at work. The Committee on the Undergraduate Experience, an extremely important committee just appointed by Vice President Williams and myself, is just commencing and will have a deep review of this subject.

Some particulars: you have before you today a proposal for the reorganization of the Agricultural Technical Institute, from five divisions to three. Three majors are also being deactivated. The proposal also articulates programs at ATI more closely than is presently the case with our College of Agriculture here on the Columbus campus.

Secondly, the faculty of Human Ecology has voted to restructure the College from the current five departments to three, plus a division. The plan has been reviewed by the Office of the Provost and has now been forwarded to the Council on Academic Affairs and the Senate Oversight Committee for formal review.

Next, the Senate review of the proposals for restructuring the Colleges of Agriculture, Engineering, and Veterinary Medicine have been moving along, I believe, effectively and productively. It is my expectation -- and I hope this is an expectation that is shared by my colleagues, Drs. Allen and York, who are also deeply involved in this review -- that these will be completed before the end of the current academic year and ready for your action.

Next, I should note that discussion and consultation is an essential part of this process and all cases among the colleges. There has been substantial discussion and deliberation, and changes were made in the final proposals, in several instances, before votes were cast. We have held more discussions and consultations, and we have had additional forums. President Gee and I held our first of two, two-hour student forums just this week and the second student forum will be held on a weekend. There have been three staff forums, organized by the University Staff Advisory Committee, where there were presentations and panel discussions that included deans, vice presidents, and representatives from the Provost's Office. The Oversight Committee has also determined to hold open forums in each college proposing to restructure, and these forums are scheduled to occur in the very near future.

I don't want to go into any great detail, Madam Chair, as to where each of these proposals stand in the review process, but to give you this general overview with respect to movement that is taking place. I look forward to being able to report very substantial things to you in the very near future.

I would also ask my colleagues, Dr. York, Chair of the Senate Steering Committee, and Dr. Allen, Chair of the Faculty Council -- both members of the Oversight Committee -- if they have anything that they would like to elaborate on or correct.

Dr. Tom York:

In my position as Chair of the Steering Committee of the Senate, I see it as a position where I'm an advocate for the University. I like to look at all aspects and try to insure that things are moving in a positive direction. I have to tell you that from my point of view, with respect to restructuring, that I'm not only pleased, I'm delighted. I think that what has developed in this process is something very constructive, very good for the University. Interactions are taking place that have not taken place over the number of years that I have been at Ohio State. I really want to compliment several people, in particular President Gee and Provost Sisson. I think that what they have brought to the University is an understanding. It's a big University, it's a complex University, and there are many demands. I think that what they are providing is the kind of leadership in which we can do the kind of interactions that are needed to allow the faculty to be very strong participants in this process.

I do want to emphasize that this is taking place very strongly within shared governance. The faculty are almost the primary players. I see myself sometimes as a referee, not as a quarterback. That is good, that is the way it should be happening. This is going to take time, but I see that we will get some programs through by June. There are other programs that perhaps need more time and it will go on during the next year at least. I don't see that as any kind of problem, it is just taking place at its natural rate.

So those are my comments. I bring to you the idea that this is going well. I think it is well managed and that the interactions are good. I think what is going to come out of this is, if you will, a greater Ohio State.

Dr. Harry Allen:

First, I would like to second the remarks that Tom just made and also add that from a faculty perspective we view restructuring as an iterative process. And, at least over the next 2 or 3 years, we will eventually get to a point where the University can, in an ongoing way, monitor what is happening, do revamping, and learn how to manage change more efficiently and support change through small deflections in the income stream rather than having to deal with catastrophic situations.

So we expect that -- even though the restructuring proposals that we are reviewing are not by any means complete at this point -- simply in the first stage of restructuring, there will be an interaction to the process. At each stage, as more and more details have been developed and they go through the approval process, the entire package will be reviewed to make sure that the initial plans actually fit in with the subsequent changes, and that the connections between various units on campus are fitting together very well. We are not dealing with single pieces, working them through the system, and then putting them out there hoping that we will be aligned correctly, and that they will have a coherent University. Rather, through a duration, we will be able to ensure that we could smooth out any rough edges and put the pieces together appropriately.

In addition, the Faculty Council has taken up proposals for revitalizing the educational delivery system at Ohio State and also for providing a mechanism for professional development for faculty in the teaching arena. We hope to be able to make a report on that in the near future.

Provost Sisson:

Madam Chair, that concludes comments on the restructuring.

President Gee:

Madam Chair, if I could just make one point. This may sound like it's a mutual admiration society going on here, but I can assure you that both Tom and Harry -- I have ankle bites from both of them -- are strongly representative of the best interests of our faculty. One of the things that I think has come through this process is the notion that communication and sharing of ideas is something that we have done very, very well.

Also, something that I believe has strongly come through is a strong drive for excellence and quality. What both of these gentlemen said is that it is not us holding someone else's feet to the fire, or you holding our feet, but the faculty are holding our feet to the fire. Harry just made a very important point. He expects next year, and the next year, and the next year that we are going to keep focusing on these issues until we get to the point where it is part of the psychology of the institution. I think that is important to Tom and Harry, and both of them have been outstanding in this effort.

I know that the Provost joins me in that regard. By the way, we say that about you privately, too. Thank you very much.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you for the excellent report.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

Summaries of the Grants and Contracts received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the month of February can be found at Tab 1 in your Research Foundation Report. Awards for the period July 1993 through February 1994 are down around 3 percent compared to the preceding year. These numbers are continuing to improve. Our provisional award figures for the month of March put us slightly ahead of last year. Funding from the State of Ohio this month was about $1.7 million of which 98 percent is new funding. Most of this funding is for four large awards: two support Head Start projects, one is for a homeless program, and one is for the work of the Center for Mapping.

At Tab 2 there is a summary of expenditures for the months of July through February, Fiscal Year 1994 compared to 1993. Total expenditures for FY 1994 through February, exceed FY 1993 expenditures by 9.6 percent. Personnel expenditures are about 15 percent higher than last year. Personnel expenditures now account for approximately half of all project expenditures. Sponsored research is important for developing and maintaining the high quality workforce that is vital to the competitiveness of Ohio economy.

Some new projects of special interest that were funded in the month of February are described at Tab 3. Professor Elizabeth Burns, Department of Psychiatry, received more than $673,000 from the U. S. Public Health Service Center for Substance Abuse through the Ohio Department of Alcohol and Drug Addiction Services to develop a new treatment program for homeless pregnant drug users. The goal of the project is to engage homeless women who abuse alcohol, tobacco, and drugs in a treatment program that will decrease the adverse impact of their behavior on their offspring. This is a very proactive approach that brings together the University, the community, and state agencies for intervention into a serious problem.

A second project is entitled Young Investigators Three-Week Summer Institute on Science and Agriculture. Professor Clyde Oplinger, Agricultural Technical Institute, received almost $72,000 from the National Science Foundation to provide highly motivated eighth and ninth grade students a unique research experience. These students will gain experience in research laboratories and field settings at The Ohio State University Agricultural Technical Institute and Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center with a view to seeing agriculture as an exciting, achievable, and rewarding career.

At Tab 4 a list can be found of all projects funded in February.

Tab 5 contains graphs of five-year awards and expenditure activities for the entire University, as well as for major federal sponsors. From the first graph of total awards and expenditures from July 1989 to the present, we can see that the trend lines for expenditures continue to grow at about 8 percent per year. The fact that the award line is frequently less smooth than the expenditure line indicates the receipt of award dollars that are spent out over several years. And, in particular, if you have any questions about the trends in that graph and the representation of what is happening, Dr. Hayes would be more than happy to answer them.

At Tab 6 are abstracted press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity. There is also a copy of the January and February issue of the OARDC Report describing research activity at OARDC.

This concludes my remarks.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-104

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for February 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of February 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

On March 31, the Professional Affairs Committee met. The Committee received a confidential report on Clinical Quality Management in the Emergency Department. This report highlighted the recent reduction in the waiting time. The Committee approved the twenty (20) clinical quality indicators which will be monitored by the Committee this year.

At the Hospitals Board meeting, a significant discussion occurred on the subject of the "operating model" of the Hospitals that will be required in the new era of managed care. The discussion included several alternative organizational models. It was recommended that a more definitive proposal be developed in consultation with appropriate legal counsel and be presented again to the Hospitals Board.

This concludes my report.

INVESTMENTS REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

The monthly Endowment Report, which is in our Board book, is for the period February 18, 1994, through March 18, 1994. The market value of the Endowment Fund on March 18, 1994, was $512.2 million. This total is approximately $3.9 million above the February 18, 1994, market value.

The market value of the equity portion of the Endowment Fund increased $5.2 million, while the fixed income portion decreased $2.4 million during this reporting period. Net new additions to the Endowment Fund for March totalled $780,000. Since July 1, 1993, the Endowment Fund has increased $19 million, including net new additions of $8.5 million. The current asset allocation for the Endowment is 61 percent invested in equities; 24 percent in fixed income; 7 percent in real estate; and 7 percent in cash equities.

The report on private support to the University for July through February compared with the same period last year is in the Development section of your Board book. As you can see, through February, total dollars contributed is 3 percent less than last year. I would like to again remind the Board that last year's performance was an all-time record by a considerable margin. So, to keep pace this year is a positive sign.

Other positive signs include the following: gifts to the Endowment are on par with last year's record amount; support for current use scholarships and other student aid is up 17 percent; unrestricted gift support to colleges and departments is up 17 percent; contributions from private foundations are up 38 percent; and gifts for building and equipment are running 21 percent ahead of last year.

Any questions regarding the fund-raising? If not, Madam Chair, I would like to recommend to the Board the establishment of nineteen new named endowed funds totaling $1,278,771.64 in restricted support to the University.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-105

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for February 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of nineteen (19) new named endowed funds:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of February 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

NOTES

- A Overall giving from individuals is nearly equal to the record pace of one year ago (only down 2%). Non-alumni individual giving is up 26% largely due to an increase in gifts of $10,000 or more (84 for $5.3 million last year; 94 for $6.8 million this year). Alumni giving is down 18%. An irrevocable trust of $2.1 million was received last year. No single individual gift of this size from an alumnus has yet to be received this year.
- B Corporate giving is down 10%. This is largely due to the $3.2 million mainframe computer given by IBM last year in January. No corporate gift of this magnitude has been received this year. However, if the $3.2 million computer is factored out, corporate giving is up 15%.
- C Gifts of $10,000 or more from private foundations are $1.5 million ahead of the same time last year.
- D Last year during July-February, 67 association or other organizations gave $10,000 or more ($1,957,043). This year during the same period only forty-four organizations gave at this level for a total of $1,049,313.

(Note: Of the $40,358,217 in current year gift receipts, $3,109,215 or 8% is the result of the payment of pledges from The Ohio State University Campaign).

The Edith M. Slabaugh Scholarship Fund

The Edith M. Slabaugh Scholarship Fund in Human Ecology was established April 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Edith M. Slabaugh (B.S.H.E. '21).

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

Annual income shall be used to provide undergraduate and/or graduate scholarships, fellowships, or associateships for students enrolled in the College of Human Ecology (formerly Home Economics). The selection of the recipient(s) is to be made upon the recommendation of the Dean of the College of Human Ecology, in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to the recommendations from the appropriate administrative officials of the University who are then directly responsible for Human Ecology, or the Dean of the College of Human Ecology, in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

The W. Arthur Cullman Professorship in Marketing Fund

The W. Arthur Cullman Professorship in Marketing Fund was established April 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Joseph F. Cullman III, New York, New York, in honor and memory of his brother W. Arthur Cullman.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be added to the principal until the fund reaches $750,000 at which time the annual income shall be distributed to the College of Business to support the teaching and research of The W. Arthur Cullman Professor of Marketing. The Professor shall be a recognized scholar in Marketing. Appointment to the Professorship shall be recommended by the Dean of the College of Business to the Provost and approved by the Board of Trustees.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

The Theodore Suie, Jr., Scholarship Fund

The Theodore Suie, Jr. Scholarship Fund was established April 8, 1994 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts from Dr. Theodore Suie (M.S. '49, Ph.D. '53) and from his estate.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide one or more scholarships or fellowships to students majoring in biological sciences and who have financial need. Further considerations, where possible, are to be given to students who are orphans. The awards should be made upon the recommendation of a committee appointed by the President of The Ohio State University in consultation with the Dean of the College of Biological Sciences and the University Committee on Student Financial Aid. The awards should, along with the other considerations mentioned above, be based upon scholastic achievement.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. The Mary Jacquelyn Ebinger Breast Cancer
Research Endowment Fund

The Mary Jacquelyn Ebinger Breast Cancer Research Endowment Fund for The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute was established April 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Frederick O. Ebinger, Norma Jean Flesher, family, and friends.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support breast cancer research carried out in The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute by the Chief of the Division of Surgical Oncology as approved by the Director of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute and the Vice President of Health Services.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Director of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute and the Vice President of Health Services in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall provide one or more fellowships for students who are actively engaged in eye research, have financial need and, among other considerations, scholastic achievement. Where possible, preference is to be given to students who are orphans. The selection of the recipient shall be made by the Chairperson of the Department of Ophthalmology and the Dean of the College of Medicine in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the University's Board of Trustees in consultation with the Dean of the College of Medicine, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

The Geauga County 4-H Endowment Fund

The Geauga County 4-H Endowment Fund was established April 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Geauga County 4-H Endowment Committee and other friends of the Geauga County 4-H Program.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support the Geauga County 4-H Program. This support may include, but is not limited to, the funding of scholarships and awards for 4-H members, volunteer leaders and friends of 4-H; sponsoring seminars and programs and purchasing material or services that will supplement 4-H programming or increase the visibility and public support for 4-H in Geauga County. All expenditures from this fund shall be approved by the Geauga County 4-H Advisory Committee and the professional in charge of the Geauga County 4-H Program.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to the recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of the University who is the Director for the Ohio State University Extension, in consultation with a committee representing the local 4-H donors.

The Franklin B. and Jane Walter Scholarship Fund

The Franklin B. and Jane Walter Scholarship Fund was established April 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Franklin B. Walter (Ph.D. '65, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, 1977-1991) and Jane Walter, upon his retirement from the Ohio State Department of Education and in recognition of his continuing commitment to education.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to fund the Franklin B. and Jane Walter Scholarship in Education. Recipient(s) of the scholarship(s) shall be students in the College of Education who are studying for an advanced degree in school administration and who have a 3.0 grade point average. Selection of the recipient(s) shall be made by the College of Education Scholarship Committee in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to the recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of the University who is then directly responsible for the College of Education.

C. Chadwick to be used for the maintenance of the landscaped spaces of the arboretum.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used for the care and maintenance of landscaped spaces of the arboretum. These expenditures listed according to priority, include but are not limited to:

- (1) student internships which are to be conducted within the Lane Avenue Gardens, and/or as needed throughout the arboretum proper;
- (2) maintenance of the Lane Avenue Gardens and other landscaped spaces whether as supplies, services, equipment and labor in the form of permanent and/or temporary wages; and
- (3) sponsorship of educational programming which may include an annual symposium focusing on public horticultural education.

The Ohio State University Chadwick Arboretum Coordinating Council and/or executive officer shall, in conjunction with an appointed standing arboretum advisory committee, have the responsibility for and must approve all expenditures from the fund.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Francisco:

This morning during our Committee meeting Associate Provost Nancy Rudd discussed Faculty Training and Orientation, and the student government leaders gave their update reports.

Chris Norman talked about safety issues and the open forum that USG held last month where students were able to come in and share their ideas and ask questions. They had a pretty good turnout of students and faculty, and it also included city officials, representatives, senators, and University officials.

USG also had a "Safety Walk," which took place on Saturday night, right before finals. Students, along with University and city police, walked around campus pinpointing areas that need to be changed to make them more safe. Chris also challenges the Trustees and the University to put more money into safety.

Mr. Francisco: (contd)

He also mentioned that the Undergraduate Student Government elections have been held and the new officers will take over May 18.

Frank Chloupek reported that he is inviting all of the Trustees to the Eighth Annual Graduate Research Forum, Saturday, April 23, at 8:00 a.m., to be held at the Fawcett Center. The Council is pleased to welcome several distinguished scholars who will serve as judges for the event: physicist George E. Walker, Vice President for Research and Dean of the Graduate School at Indiana University; Edwin Black, a Rhetorical Scholar and Theorist from the University of Wisconsin-Madison; and Willard W. Hartup, an Ohio native and holder of two Ohio State degrees, a Regents Professor at the University of Minnesota, and current President of the Society on Child Development.

Frank also reported that the Council has previously endorsed the implementation of an Academic Computing Plan to ensure a University-wide approach to the computing needs of The Ohio State University. CGS also remains opposed to any fees which establish a differential cost of attending Ohio State based upon college units.

That concludes my report.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

Madam Chair, the Committee met earlier this morning and heard a report from Bill Shkurti on Financial Benchmarks, and Jim Nichols updated the Committee on Insurance and Risk Management.

I would like to now call upon Linda Tom, who will be supported by Drs. Randy Smith and Steve Loeb, and Mr. Nick Maul in presenting some proposed OSU medical plan changes.

OSU MEDICAL PLAN CHANGES

Ms. Tom:

Thank you very much, Mr. Skestos. Let me just provide a very brief background in terms of the work of this Health Care Advisory Committee and what they have been able to do.

The cost of the University's medical plans for this current year, approximates $64 million. While the University has been very successful in really managing health care costs that are below the average, we have nevertheless experienced double-digit increases like many other employers. Let me just add, that part of the reason that we have been successful in the management of our costs is really through the help of our OSU Hospitals and the discounts that they have provided to us. But clearly given the financial situation of the University, we can no longer continue to absorb these double-digit increases. We had to find ways to contain health care costs, while maintaining quality.

OSU MEDICAL PLAN CHANGES (contd)

Ms. Tom: (contd)

We appointed a blue ribbon Health Care Advisory Committee chaired by Dr. Randy Smith. The charge given to this Committee was to come up with a plan for maximizing our costs in terms of cost effectiveness, but maintaining quality. So that was really a pretty tough order.

The Committee met over a period of three months and came up with a strategic plan. The plan was discussed and consultation occurred broadly on the campus. The President's Executive Committee has now accepted the recommendations of the Committee. The results of the recommendations, which will be implemented over the next 18 months, will have significant savings for the University in the short-term and also in the long-term. I will add, too, that the recommendations will take the University really to the forefront of health care cost management.

At this point, I would like to call on Randy Smith, Steve Loeb, and Nick Maul to lead this discussion. There are other members of the Committee that are here today and I invite them to join in the conversation. If I could ask the other Committee members to stand now and be recognized -- thank you. Also, for the Board members there is a discussion summary under the Fiscal Affairs tab.

Dr. Randy Smith:

We appreciate the opportunity to be here today. Our main charge -- over the past six months -- has been to deal with health care cost containment. As Vice President Tom pointed out, we went through a fairly detailed process during these months to meet with relevant groups. We had data presented to us from Benefits Administration, the OSU Medical Center, and the OSU Managed Health Care Systems. This allowed us to understand the dimensions of the problem better and to work toward a set of solutions.

As we came up with these solutions, we went out across the campus and met with important governance groups, notably: the Faculty Compensation and Benefits Committee, University Staff Advisory Committee, and the President's Executive Council. The report was also given to the Fiscal Committee.

As a result of that kind of process and that work, let me just briefly highlight what our major proposals are. Before doing that, let me stress that the Committee established a set of goals for itself. One was to address thoroughly, but fairly promptly, the rising costs associated with our health care system. We felt that if we moved fairly quickly, we could produce savings that could be realized as early as FY '95.

Another goal is to maintain the University's commitment to providing a quality medical benefits plan. The medical benefits plan of high quality is central to recruiting and retaining high quality faculty and staff.

Also, we wanted to continue to provide medical insurance options for faculty and staff, particularly ones that would be at affordable costs, trying to keep premium levels as low as possible; ones that would provide flexibility so that users would have options in the plans; and to develop a plan that would continue to reflect and encourage preventive health care practices.

Dr. Smith: (contd)

Another goal was to continue to utilize the University's Medical Center to help with limiting costs, but also to reinforce the institution's commitment to that Center as part of our research and teaching mission. And, finally, we felt that as a goal, we needed to ensure that the responsibility for controlling costs was shared among all members of the University community, and between users and providers.

Those goals they can only really be accomplished if there are changes in practices by both users and providers. In that regard, a couple of principles were adopted: 1) that faculty and staff should be motivated to select managed care options that help the University control its costs; 2) that those who select benefit options with higher costs must be responsible for paying that increased cost, rather than having the cost absorbed by the entire system; and 3) that providers, as well, must be motivated to control their costs.

That kind of discussion developed in our first few weeks of meetings and we are now recommending the following things. We started by having a variety of approaches that could be taken and one was to do nothing, just wait and continue to discuss this for a year. If that were the case, we would have ended up with another 7-9 percent increase in costs for the University in the next fiscal year. We rejected that approach because it violated the goals that I just mentioned. Instead, we worked at looking at deductibles and out-of-pocket costs, along with variable premium levels. We took that approach.

We have recommended to Vice President Tom a two-part approach beginning in Fiscal '95, and the outline of this is in the sheet that was provided to you. First, we identified a set of changes to the medical plan that will result in some increased out-of-pocket and co-pay charges. Included among these -- I'm not identifying all of them -- are: increased deductibles, increased out-of-pocket limits, establishing an emergency room co-pay, instituting a minimum prescription drug co-pay, charging an office co-pay visit for physicals, and making open enrollment and premium change both effective on the same date. Those changes will apply primarily to those who use plans other than Prime Care or OSUHP in-network. So there will be a set of changes implemented beginning the first of July of this year. Those changes, it is believed, will produce about $1.5 million in continuing savings for the University.

Those kind of changes are being proposed, but we are also encouraging that we retain all four current medical plans: Prime Care, OSUHP, the Traditional Plan, and the Buckeye Plan; that we begin to designate University Prime Care as the base plan for the institution; and that increased premium levels will occur in all plans, but they will be set higher for those plans that have higher costs to the institution.

So the bottom line is -- for many people -- that if you are in the University Prime Care Plan there will be an increase in your premium level share by 1 percentage point -- currently from 14 percent to 15 percent. That will result in a monthly premium increase that will range from approximately $1.00 for someone who is under the single category, to $4.00 for family coverage.

If you are in OSUHP or the Traditional Plan there will be an increase in the premium share level by 2 percentage points -- from 19 percent to 21 percent. This would result in a monthly premium increase that would range from -- these are monthly values I'm giving -- approximately $6.00 to $8.00 for someone in the single category, to $18.00 for family coverage.

And then, finally, for the Buckeye Plan there will be a premium share of 10 percent. Currently there is no employee premium associated with that plan. That cost will range from approximately $8.00 for single, to $25.00 for family coverage.

These proposals are designed to motivate faculty and staff to select "managed care options" to help us control costs. Flexibility is still there in terms of options for people, but those who select an out-of-network option will have to absorb a higher cost. These two main changes that I just outlined -- the out-of-pocket costs and deductibles, along with the premium sharing changes -- should lead to a zero percent increase in the University's costs for medical insurance for the next year.

In addition to that -- and those are basically short-term changes -- we are advocating a longer term change and major structural change to the system. I will ask Steve Loeb to talk about our second major recommendation to Linda Tom.

Dr. Steve Loeb:

Thank you very much. The Committee concluded, after its deliberations and research, that the current structure of the University's health plan has essentially penalized faculty and staff, in general, who have selected or who want to select the lower cost options. In addition, we concluded that the providers -- particularly OSU Hospitals and OSU medical staff -- were not sufficiently participating in the efforts to contain costs. It was our judgement and, indeed, the judgement of an increasing number of employers, that providers need to be included in any cost containment plan. The Committee believed that more direct participation by the OSU Medical Center, including physicians and Hospitals in specific efforts to reduce the rate of increases, is now necessary. One can say that it has always been necessary, but the environment now is much more acceptable to that.

In the past, it is important to point out that providers have not shared in any of the risks or responsibilities for containing expenditures while maintaining quality services. Indeed the current payment system, which is obviously under discussion for reform, has not provided any incentives for providers to share the risks in cost containment.

After reviewing several alternatives to the status quo, the Committee is recommending that the OSU Prime Care Plan and the OSU Health Plan be converted to a capitation plan effective July 1, 1995. Under this arrangement, the OSU Medical Center would be paid a predetermined amount of funding per enrolled employee by the University to provide all necessary services for one year. The Medical Center would accept the responsibility for managing the care of each enrolled employee within the comprehensive benefits established by the University. Those enrolled will be responsible for using the Medical Center for all necessary services except in emergency situations. The emphasis in this arrangement will be on wellness not sickness. The emphasis will be on high quality services provided in an efficient fashion, rather than an open-ended funding system that has historically been true.

Dr. Loeb: (contd)

Many employers, as you may know, are changing their health benefit plans to a capitation system, or what's known as a predetermined budget system. There is growing evidence that rates of cost increases have been reduced in situations where this type of plan has been introduced.

While this proposal and change does represent a change for enrollees clearly who choose the Prime Care, and it represents a major change for the Medical Center, the Committee believes that this is a progressive step that will have a positive impact on the University's health care expenditures. It will also position the University to be a leader in health care cost containment not only in the community, but in the state and probably in the nation.

Dr. Smith:

In that regard, we have asked Vice President Tom to establish a committee to define the parameters of the capitation plan. That committee will include members of the Health Care Advisory Committee -- who are presenting this report -- and also members of the University Medical Center. We are asking them to report back to us with a plan by January 1995 and to have it in place by Fiscal Year '96, that is July 1, 1995.

If these two major recommendations -- the out-of-pocket cost changes and premium changes, and the capitation system -- are to work, then we need an aggressive public relations plan to inform the University community of these changes. That includes a presentation to the Board here today, to the major Committees of the Senate, the Fiscal Committee, FCBC, the Staff Advisory Committee, a set of town meetings for faculty and staff, and detailed printed announcements sent to each faculty and staff member, as well as announcements in major publications. All of those steps are underway now and will be carried out through the months of April to July of this year.

Let me just say two other things. Not all final details have been worked out to this stage, particularly with regard to: capitation, provider networks for faculty and staff who live outside of a current provider network, special medical situations for faculty and staff and their dependents who live for specified periods of time away from Columbus, and specification of the number of enrollees who could actually shift into Prime Care to be accommodated. But these and related issues are going to be dealt with in the process over the next year.

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, the changes that we are proposing here will result in increased costs for employees -- and in some cases depending on the plan -- of substantial dimensions. So as these proposals come forward, we are asking that they be a part of all discussions about increases in compensation for FY '95 and beyond. Thank you.

Ms. Tom:

Thank you very much. Are there any questions?

OSU MEDICAL PLAN CHANGES (contd)

Mr. Colley:

What do you anticipate, in terms of faculty and staff reaction, and what will be the impact on quality of care as a result of these changes?

Ms. Tom:

I think the reaction of faculty and staff is an issue that we are very much concerned with. I think that the communication that needs to go forward has to put the changes in appropriate perspective to the University's financial situation, because the savings that we hope to realize from the benefits side will, in fact, be available for other priorities such as salaries. That, in fact, is a part of the deliberations this year, so I think that message needs to be sent.

I think that the issue of quality is one that we are very much concerned with, and I have asked the Health Care Advisory Committee to really be looking at the quality issues as the program is implemented. So those are issues that will be really at the heart of the communications effort as well.

Dr. Loeb:

I'd like to just add a very important piece of information, Mr. Colley. Members of the Benefits Advisory Committee have included representatives of the OSU Medical Staff and OSU Hospitals. Both groups are fully endorsing these proposals, especially the proposal for the capitation plan effective July 1, 1995. That spirit of cooperation is absolutely essential for effective implementation of this very significant change. So from that respect, we have an excellent environment for the changes that are proposed.

Secondly, the proposed changes in the short run -- that is for the next fiscal year in terms of premium changes -- for those University faculty and staff who choose the OSU Prime Care -- which is the base plan, the preferred plan -- will face a 7 percent increase in premium. This is very, very equal to other premium increases across the country. So we are positioning ourselves with the Prime Care Plan to be, in effect, very efficient.

For those faculty and staff who want to have the other option -- in a sense a broader range of choices -- they will have to pay more to choose the OSU Health Plan. But the Committee felt that it was appropriate that we differentiate by premium because previously we had not been doing that.

Dr. Smith:

If I could just add, presenting this in the context that Vice President Tom talked about, I think, is very important because for me as a regular faculty member in the University -- and I think others would feel the same -- understanding the context of why these changes are coming forward is important. That is that the cost increases that have been substantial in this area for several years, if they are not addressed, they will continue to negatively effect academic programs and salary decisions. So as we come forward with these, that context has to be made clear.

OSU MEDICAL PLAN CHANGES (contd)

President Gee:

Mike, to follow on those comments, in the several occasions that I have had an opportunity to discuss this, when it is put into context people are very supportive. If you read it just outside of the context, then obviously what you are seeing -- as with tuition increases or anything else -- is an increase without the knowledge of the benefit. And so we are trying to very carefully make certain that it is put into context.

Our Committee has done a remarkable job. In my 14 years as a university president, I have -- and I have said this a number of times -- never seen a Committee that has been more precise and has done a better job in putting together something that is very, very difficult to understand. The Committee themselves are going to be part of the solution in terms of communicating. They have volunteered -- I guess that's the word, Randy -- and they have put themselves on the line to get out and involve themselves. This is a distinguished group of faculty and, because of that, we will have an opportunity to really make the case in a positive way.

Mr. Brennan:

A point of illumination, there are three ways to contain medical costs: 1) get employers to increase the premium that the employee pays, you are doing that; and 2) beat up on the health provider, that's what capitation is. Those first two ways we've discovered are temporary improvements. The third way is co-pay, which has been most effective. Every time a person uses a medical service they have to pay something for it. That has an ongoing effect of making a decision every time. You mentioned that, but I don't recall a number. How do you change your co-pays in this area?

Mr. Nick Maul:

When we reviewed the data from different plans, we found that the cost increases are mostly out-of-network -- the out-of-network part of the OSUHP or the Traditional Plan, not so much on the in-network side where we have agreed upon fee schedules with the providers. So we are increasing the differential. When somebody goes out-of-network, they'll pay more by increasing the deductible. We did not increase the co-pay for the office visit for in-network, it is still a $10 office visit. We will be directing people more in-network to the controlled costs by increasing that differential.

Mr. Brennan:

There is a $10 co-pay for office visits now?

Mr. Maul:

Yes.

Mr. Brennan:

Is there a co-pay on all of the services as well at some level?

OSU MEDICAL PLAN CHANGES (contd)

Mr. Maul:

There is except for in-patient hospitalization -- that's paid at 100 percent in-network. If you are in the OSUHP in-network, there is a co-pay; if you are in the Traditional, there is not.

President Gee:

One of the things that we are very fortunate about is the fact that we happen to have here one of the great hospitals in America. Not many employers have their own in-house hospital and medical center. And because we have that, we are uniquely positioned to do some things. What we are really trying to do is say, "look the best care in this community and some of the best care in America, is right here on this campus. You have an opportunity to be a part of that and if you do, then in the long-term your services are going to be better. The quality of your health care is going to be better, and the cost of doing so is going to be better." That is a part of our internal health care management process.

Mr. Shumate:

When you look at the package of medical benefits that we provide as an employer and compare those from a competition perspective with other universities and also from the perspective of local employers who we compete with for talent, what would be your observations?

Mr. Maul:

We conducted some surveys ourselves, and we participate in a number of surveys conducted by others and receive information. What we are finding is that our benefits stack up very well against those of like employers, other universities, and locally. Of course the objective here is to keep the faculty and staff healthy and productive, and to attract and retain talent. We are able to do that and plan to continue to do that. Our objective here is not to diminish the quality or the competitiveness of these benefits, just to control the costs.

President Gee:

Actually, I would argue that we are going to improve the quality of health care. I think anyone would have a difficult time saying that the quality of services provided by the OSU Medical Center are not among the best available anywhere, and that I think is an important part of this plan.

Mr. Shumate:

If we implement these changes, have you identified any downsides or potential risks that the Board should be aware of?

Mr. Maul:

About the only downside that we could find would be if we don't achieve the cost savings that we expect. Since we are projecting what the cost savings are -- those of course aren't guaranteed projections and never are, but there is data available from others who have done the same sort of thing in similar settings with similar sized groups. We are basing our projections conservatively on that. There may be some risk, but not much in our projections.

Mr. Maul: (contd)

Ms. Tom:

The other potential downside is if we are not effective in our communications. The last thing we would want faculty and staff to feel is that they are being asked to pay more and the quality of their care is going down. I think that's a concern that we all have and why the communication effort is really critical.

Mr. Brennan:

You mentioned that if we did not do these things, the cost would go up 7 or 9 percent this year. You further identified that the change in premium covers a rather small part of that increase. What is the rest of the premium?

Mr. Maul:

Some of the costs are avoided by the way we are implementing the new Prime Care Plan, that is what is known as a Gatekeeper Model. This is where most of the health care is provided by the primary care physician without referring on to other - - and probably more costly -- avenues of care. So that's avoided cost altogether. We also, this year, have a new third-party administrator. We have consolidated three into one, and have achieved some substantial savings in administrative costs. Of course you want the money to go to pay claims to keep people healthy and not to pay administrators. Unfortunately, something we can't take credit for is that nationally the trend has decreased. I say unfortunately because we do not get credit for that. Of course that is a good thing, but the trend has decreased. That wasn't by our doing, but when it increases we get credit for that so it seems perhaps we probably should take credit when it decreases.

Mr. Skestos:

Any other questions? Thank you, Ms. Tom, Drs. Smith and Loeb, and Mr. Maul.

Ms. Pichette:

This resolution will authorize the University to expand our discussion with neighboring jurisdictions to negotiate cooperative agreements for the use of University Police, perform police functions, and respond to emergencies off campus. We have been concerned about how we might better coordinate crime prevention and police service for those areas off campus where so many of our students live. This type of cooperative agreement could be another tool for our use in this critical work, in addition to resolving jurisdictional issues which occasionally arise at the edges of our campus.

I would note that any agreements that we would negotiate would be subject to the advice and consent of this Board before they could take effect. Assistant Vice President John Kleberg, who has the responsibility for University Police, made a presentation to the Fiscal Affairs Committee earlier today and is here. He and I would be happy to answer any questions that you may have.

AUTHORIZATION TO NEGOTIATE COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS WITH OTHER JURISDICTIONS FOR USE OF UNIVERSITY LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS

Resolution No. 94-108

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended authorization to negotiate agreements, subject to the advice and consent of the Board of Trustees, with other jurisdictions to perform such police functions and services on behalf of those jurisdictions as may be provided for in such agreements.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University has a great concern for the health and safety of all members of the University community; and

WHEREAS the University recognizes an obligation to support and lead collective efforts to improve the quality of life in the neighborhoods adjacent to the University's campuses; and

WHEREAS Section 3345.041 of the Revised Code permits the Board of Trustees to authorize the University to enter into agreements with other jurisdictions for the use of University law enforcement officers; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that negotiation of such agreements is in the best interest of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That, subject to the advice and consent of the Board of Trustees, the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, on behalf of the Board, to negotiate agreements with municipal corporations, townships, and counties to provide for the use of University law enforcement officers designated under Section 3345.04 of the Revised Code to perform any police function, exercise any police power, or render any police service on behalf of the contracting political subdivision in accordance with Section 3345.041 of the Revised Code and upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

CREATION OF A GRADUATE PROGRAM

Resolution No. 94-110

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the creation of an Interdisciplinary Graduate Program (M.S. and Ph.D. in Toxicology).

WHEREAS the Ad Hoc Interdisciplinary Graduate Studies Committee in Toxicology has proposed an Interdisciplinary Graduate Program (M.S. and Ph.D.) in Toxicology to identify toxicology as a separate field of study with the Graduate School; and

WHEREAS the toxicology program was conceived as an interdisciplinary enterprise due to the intrinsic interdisciplinary nature of the field and also because no single department at Ohio State has the critical mass of faculty or the resources to undertake such a major effort; and

WHEREAS faculty from several colleges, including Agriculture, Biological Sciences, Medicine, Pharmacy, and Veterinary Medicine, have expressed a commitment to the establishment of the proposed Interdisciplinary Graduate Program in Toxicology and the deans of the above-listed colleges have reviewed and approved the proposal; and

CREATION OF A GRADUATE PROGRAM (contd)

WHEREAS the varied educational experience and scientific skill of faculty in the various colleges are a collective resource that give the proposed program a breadth that is unsurpassed within the State; and

WHEREAS the proposal was reviewed and approved by the Council on Research and Graduate Studies; and

WHEREAS this proposal has the approval of the Council on Academic Affairs and was approved by the University Senate at its March 5, 1994 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the proposal to create an Interdisciplinary Graduate Program (M.S. and Ph.D.) in Toxicology, effective Autumn Quarter 1995, is hereby approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

RENAMING OF DIVISION

Resolution No. 94-111

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the renaming of the Division of Hospital and Health Services Administration to the Division of Health Services Management and Policy.

WHEREAS the Division of Hospital and Health Services Administration has proposed that its name be changed to the Division of Health Services Management and Policy to more accurately reflect its current mission; and

WHEREAS the current name does not accurately reflect the research interests and instructional activities of the faculty of the division nor the marketplace for its graduates; and

WHEREAS the proposed division title would be more consistent with that of other similar graduate programs in the Big Ten with whom this division competes for faculty and graduate students; and

WHEREAS this proposal has the approval of the Council on Academic Affairs; the Faculty Council, and the Council of Chairs of the College of Medicine; the Dean of the College of Medicine; and was approved by the University Senate at its March 5, 1994 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the proposal to rename the Division of Hospital and Health Services Administration to the Division of Health Services Management and Policy, effective immediately, is hereby approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

REORGANIZATION OF THE AGRICULTURAL TECHNICAL INSTITUTE

Resolution No. 94-112

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the reorganization of the Agricultural Technical Institute.

WHEREAS the Agricultural Technical Institute (ATI) has proposed a reorganization of its structure that would reduce the number of divisions from five to three; and

WHEREAS such reorganization would better align the academic and technical programs of ATI with faculty resources and student demand for those programs; and

WHEREAS the proposed reorganization has the support of the majority of the ATI faculty and has been recommended by the Dean of the College of Agriculture; and

WHEREAS such reorganization will have no negative impact on current students or their ability to complete programs in which they are now enrolled; and

WHEREAS the proposed reorganization will reduce inefficiency and administrative cost; and

WHEREAS this proposed change has the approval of the Council on Academic Affairs, and was approved by the University Senate at its March 5, 1994 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the proposal to reorganize the Agricultural Technical Institute, effective July 1, 1994, is hereby approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

NEW ASSOCIATE OF SCIENCE DEGREE

Resolution No. 94-113

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the approval of a new Associate of Science Degree.

WHEREAS the Agricultural Technical Institute (ATI) has proposed a new Associate of Science Degree designed to allow students who are interested in agricultural careers to transfer to a four-year program to complete the requirements for a B.S. degree; and

WHEREAS ATI has matured as an institution and has faculty capable of expanding their degree offerings as well as adequate facilities, including the necessary laboratories to support the proposed degree; and

WHEREAS the faculty at ATI have approved this proposal and, in response to earlier questions regarding specific courses to be offered and the qualifications of persons teaching those courses, have worked out specific agreements with appropriate departments on the Columbus Campus to ensure that courses taught at ATI will be the equivalent of those same courses on the Columbus Campus; and

NEW ASSOCIATE OF SCIENCE DEGREE (contd)

WHEREAS the College of Agriculture approves of this proposal and will be able to accommodate the influx of students who wish to transfer to that College from ATI; and

WHEREAS there are no similar agriculture programs in the state and such a degree program will engender much good will and political support from the agricultural publics in the State of Ohio; and

WHEREAS this proposed change has the approval of the Council on Academic Affairs, and was approved by the University Senate at its March 5, 1994 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the proposal to create the Associate of Science degree program at the Agricultural Technical Institute, effective Autumn Quarter 1995, is hereby approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY

Resolution No. 94-

114

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the approval of the following amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty.

WHEREAS the University Senate pursuant to rule 3335-1-09 of the Administrative Code is authorized to recommend through the President to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty as approved by the University Senate; and

WHEREAS the proposed changes in the Rules of the University Faculty were approved by the University Senate on March 5, 1994, as follows:

AMENDED RULES

3335-5-19 Faculty.

As used in these rules the term "faculty" shall include persons appointed by the board of trustees with regular, regular clinical, auxiliary, and emeritus faculty titles on full- or part-time appointments, with or without salary.

- (A) Unchanged.
- (B) "Regular clinical faculty": persons with the titles of professor of clinical (division, department or college), associate professor of clinical (division, department or college), assistant professor of clinical (division, department or college), and instructor of clinical (division, department or college), who serve on appointments totaling fifty per cent or more service to the university. Regular clinical faculty appointments are made only in the college of dentistry, THE COLLEGE OF NURSING, the college of optometry, the departments of veterinary clinical sciences and veterinary preventive medicine in the college of veterinary medicine, the divisions of pharmacy practice and pharmaceutical administration in the college of pharmacy, and the following departments in the college of medicine: anesthesiology, emergency medicine, family medicine, internal medicine, neurology, obstetrics and gynecology, ophthalmology, otolaryngology, pathology, pediatrics, physical medicine, preventive medicine, psychiatry, radiology, and surgery.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

AMENDED RULES (contd)

The number of persons holding regular clinical faculty titles in each division, department or college AUTHORIZED TO MAKE SUCH APPOINTMENTS cannot be greater than ~~one-third~~ FORTY PERCENT OF the ~~number of persons holding regular faculty titles~~ COMBINED TOTAL OF REGULAR AND REGULAR CLINICAL FACULTY in that division, department or college. Individuals appointed to the regular clinical faculty are limited to participating in governance at the division, departmental and college levels, but may not participate in promotion and tenure matters of regular faculty.

Balance unchanged.

3335-47-03 Probationary service, duration of appointments FOR REGULAR FACULTY.

- (A) ~~A Probationary~~ PROBATIONARY ~~periods are~~ PERIOD IS established for regular faculty members with the rank of instructor, assistant professor, and associate professor. In determining the years served in ~~these A probationary periods~~ PERIOD, the following will not be credited toward the attainment of tenure: service on a ~~AN regular-clinical~~ adjunct, clinical, visiting, or lecturer appointment; service (with any title) on a special appointment, or part-time service at a level of less than fifty per cent of total service (as specified in one or more concurrent notices of appointment) to the university.
- (B) Leaves of absence. The period of a leave of absence may not be credited in the probationary period unless there is a written agreement to so credit it. Such an agreement will require the approval of the dean and of the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost.
- (C) The appointment of a person to a nontenured regular faculty position is probationary in nature. Probationary appointments are for a one-year period, and faculty members on such appointments shall be reviewed annually. During this period persons have an opportunity to prove themselves to their peers; their record of accomplishments will be the basis for renewal or tenure decisions. Faculty members will be informed at the time of initial appointment and in a timely fashion each year thereafter when renewal or tenure decisions about them will be made and will be given the opportunity to submit materials they think are relevant to the making of these decisions. They shall also be provided all pertinent documents which set forth the relevant promotion and tenure policies, standards, and procedures (including but not limited to those that are required to be provided by rule 3335-3-35 of the Administrative Code) in a timely fashion.
- (D) The university does not assume any continuing obligation to renew the appointment of a nontenured REGULAR faculty member. Nonrenewal may be based upon such factors as an assessment of inadequate performance or insufficient development, or any one of a number of academic, financial, or policy reasons, but must be the result of formal annual review in accord with the review procedures established by the appropriate academic unit of the appointee in accord with paragraph (B)(3) of rule 3335-3-35 of the Administrative Code. The nonrenewal of an appointment in and of itself, however, should not carry with it the implication of either incompetence or misconduct on the part of the faculty member.

Balance unchanged.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

AMENDED RULES (contd)

3335-47-11 Regular clinical faculty ranks.

The titles of regular clinical faculty are professor of clinical (division, department or college), associate professor of clinical (division, department or college), assistant professor of clinical (division, department or college), and instructor of clinical (division, department or college). Individuals in this track may have a full range of responsibilities to appropriate academic units with emphasis on patient care and clinical teaching activities. Clinical activities for faculty members in this category are to be included in approved practice plans.

(A) Unchanged.

(B) Term of appointment.

- (1) ~~In the first term of appointment to the regular clinical faculty, appointees will be reviewed annually. During the fourth year, a formal review will be conducted. The faculty member will be informed if the appointment is to be renewed after the fifth year.~~

THE INITIAL APPOINTMENT OF A PERSON TO A REGULAR CLINICAL FACULTY POSITION IS PROBATIONARY IN NATURE. PROBATIONARY APPOINTMENTS ARE FOR A ONE-YEAR PERIOD, AND FACULTY MEMBERS ON SUCH APPOINTMENTS SHALL BE REVIEWED ANNUALLY. THE UNIVERSITY DOES NOT ASSUME ANY CONTINUING OBLIGATION TO RENEW THE APPOINTMENT OF A REGULAR CLINICAL FACULTY MEMBER DURING THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD. NONRENEWAL MAY BE BASED UPON SUCH FACTORS AS AN ASSESSMENT OF INADEQUATE PERFORMANCE OR INSUFFICIENT DEVELOPMENT, OR ON ANY ONE OF A NUMBER OF ACADEMIC, FINANCIAL, OR POLICY REASONS, BUT MUST BE THE RESULT OF FORMAL ANNUAL REVIEW IN ACCORD WITH REVIEW PROCEDURES ESTABLISHED BY THE APPROPRIATE ACADEMIC UNIT OF THE APPOINTEE IN ACCORD WITH PARAGRAPH (B)(3) OF RULE 3335-3-35 OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE. THE NONRENEWAL OF AN APPOINTMENT IN AND OF ITSELF, HOWEVER, SHOULD NOT CARRY WITH IT THE IMPLICATION OF EITHER INCOMPETENCE OR MISCONDUCT ON THE PART OF THE FACULTY MEMBER.

- (2) DURING THE FOURTH YEAR OF THE INITIAL APPOINTMENT, A FORMAL REVIEW WILL BE CONDUCTED. THE FACULTY MEMBER WILL BE INFORMED IF THE APPOINTMENT IS TO BE RENEWED FOR AN ADDITIONAL TERM OF FIVE YEARS.

- ~~(2)~~ (3) IF SUBSEQUENT SUBSEQUENT appointments will be ARE MADE, THEY WILL BE MADE for periods of five years in lieu of tenure. A formal review will be conducted in the fourth year OF EACH FIVE-YEAR TERM and the faculty member will be informed if the appointment is to be renewed after the fifth year for another five-year term. TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT DURING A FIVE-YEAR TERM, OTHER THAN DURING THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD, SHALL BE FOR REASONS OF CAUSE OR FINANCIAL EXIGENCY AND SHALL RESULT FROM PROCEDURES ESTABLISHED BY FACULTY RULES.

- ~~(3)~~ (4) All appointments will be based upon criteria established by the academic unit authorized to make regular clinical faculty appointments (see paragraph (B) of rule 3335-5-19 of the Administrative Code), approved by the dean of the college, and the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

AMENDED RULES (contd)

(4) (5) If the appointment is not renewed, standards of notice must be in accordance with rule 3335-47-09 of the Administrative Code.

Balance unchanged.

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty be adopted as recommended by the University Senate.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-118

Synopsis: The approval of four Resolutions in Memoriam is proposed.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the families of the deceased.

Gertrude Adams

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 4, 1994, of Gertrude Adams, Instructor Emeritus in the Ohio State University Extension.

Miss Adams was born March 18, 1902, in Fountain City, Indiana. She completed her B.S. in Home Economics at Purdue University in 1924.

She began her Extension career in Ohio on September 1, 1951 as the Home Demonstration Agent in Darke County. She held this position until her retirement on March 31, 1970. Miss Adam's contributions in providing excellent Extension educational programs in home economics and especially with the migrant workers and homemaker council, as well as other citizens in Darke County during her career, earned her the respect and admiration of co-workers and associates throughout the state.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to her family. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Ralph L. Baker

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 2, 1994, of Ralph L. Baker, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology.

Dr. Baker was born on March 25, 1913, in Clark County, Ohio. He graduated from Bethel Township High School in Miami County as the only college preparatory student in his class, with little likelihood that he would be able to attend college. However, at age 21 he received a small inheritance from his mother's estate and he was able to find employment as a silver solderer at the Dayton Frigidaire plant. In 1934, he was laid off from Frigidaire, so he decided to attend the annual 4-H Club Camp near Troy, Ohio -- he was his township's 4-H poultry club leader. There he met Donna Moon, a member of the camp council. She was planning to attend college at The Ohio State University, and suggested Ralph do the same since jobs were scarce. The next day, he received a letter from Professor E. L. Dakan, Poultry Department Head. Dakan offered Baker (as part of the National Youth Administration Program) housing on the second floor of one of the OSU broiler houses and $15 per month for 50 hours of labor on The Ohio State University poultry farm. Thus, Baker became an Ohio State University undergraduate student. A few years later, Donna Moon became Mrs. Ralph Baker.

Ralph Baker attended The Ohio State University for three years as a poultry major, then decided to shift to Rural Economics because of its people orientation. He graduated in 1938 with a double major in Poultry Science and Rural Economics. During the years that followed, Dr. Baker became interested in journalism, writing and selling numerous articles to magazines and bulletins. He received the Klippert Award for an article written for the Agricultural Student. The study of cooperative poultry and egg marketing was the basis of his Master's thesis. He received an M.S. in Agricultural Economics in 1940.

Dr. Baker's first full-time position was at Iowa State College (now Iowa State University) in 1940 as an Extension Associate. In July of 1941, he took a position at Texas A&M as a Research Associate. He returned to Iowa State in November of 1942, and as a result of his outstanding publication record, he was promoted to Assistant Professor. In 1944 he applied for a Naval commission to help in the war effort. He entered the Navy in mid-1944 as a communications officer, spending most of his time in the Philippines. Following the war, he returned to Iowa State where he taught agricultural marketing while working on his Ph.D., which he received in 1949. He was promoted to Associate Professor in 1948.

In 1951, Professor Baker had an opportunity to move to Penn State's combined department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, a move that would put the family closer to Ohio. At Penn State he concentrated on interdisciplinary research on consumer egg decision making, with some teaching responsibilities. While at Penn State, he was promoted to full professor.

In 1961, Ohio State offered Ralph Baker a position as an economist in the Poultry Science department. He gladly accepted it, and he and his wife and two daughters moved "back home." In the summer of 1969, he transferred from the Department of Poultry Science to the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. He continued to hold a no-salary appointment in Poultry Science. He retired from The Ohio State University in 1978.

A few of the many highlights of Dr. Baker's career include: implementing Federal-State egg grading in Iowa (1941); serving as consultant to the War Food Administration (1944); presenting "National Poultry and Egg Outlook" for the USDA Outlook Conference (1966); serving as advisor to the Administrator of the USDA's Statistical Reporting Service (1971); serving as consultant to Secretary of Agriculture Butz (1972); membership on the national Poultry Survey Committee -- the most prestigious poultry outlook group in the U.S. -- from 1959 to 1974; organizing the Ohio Egg Processors Association; and authoring over 250 Extension publications and more than 100 articles for various farm and poultry magazines.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to his wife, Donna, his two daughters and their families, its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in this loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his wife as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Yvonne Cook

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on December 24, 1993, of Yvonne Cook, Associate Professor Emeritus in the Ohio State University Extension.

Miss Cook was born September 15, 1908, in Tiffin, Ohio. She completed her B.S. in home economics at Penn State University in 1947 and her M.S. in education from Penn State in 1958. She began her Extension career in Ohio on August 1, 1957, as the Home Economics Agent in Wayne County. She held this position until her retirement on January 15, 1975.

Miss Cook's contributions in providing excellent Extension educational programs in home economics and especially with the family life programs she conducted for parents of pre-school children, as well as other programs for the citizens in Wayne County during her career, earned her the respect and admiration of co-workers and associates throughout the state.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to her family. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Fred B. Hapke

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on February 10, 1994, of Fred B. Hapke, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Fred Hapke received his undergraduate degree from Knox College and his M.D. from Northwestern University. After completing his internship at Aultman Hospital in Canton, Dr. Hapke served during World War II in the United States Army both in India and China. He retired with the rank of full Colonel.

After the War, Dr. Hapke returned to Columbus and entered the residency training program in obstetrics and gynecology at The Ohio State University Hospitals. He was one of the first house officers to complete his training in the recently organized residency at Ohio State. Dr. Hapke remained in Columbus for the remainder of his career, participating actively not only in clinical practice, but in teaching and research. Fred Hapke performed important investigations of the effects of obstetric anesthesia on neonatal outcome with Dr. Alan Barnes, then Chair of the Department at Ohio State. In recognition of his contributions to medical student and resident education, Dr. Hapke rose to the rank of Clinical Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology. He was an active member of the Columbus Obstetric and Gynecologic Society, the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and the Central Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Fred B. Hapke (contd)

In 1980, upon his retirement, Dr. Hapke was named Professor Emeritus in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology. He continued to participate actively in the educational programs, including the Grand Rounds and Case Conference. Fred Hapke was a warm and caring individual with a wonderful sense of humor, and he will be greatly missed.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his family. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Ms. Casto:

I would like to call on Mr. Wes Bishop who would like to address the Board.

Mr. Wesley Bishop:

Thank you, Madam Chair, Judge Duncan, and President Gee for allowing me to address the Board on such short notice. My purpose in being here today is one as representative of all of the professional students on campus, and more particularly, as representative of the law students.

President Gee:

Wes, let me just interrupt you. Let me just note that I believe everyone knows that Wesley is the President of our Interprofessional Council students. So he comes here in two capacities today.

Mr. Bishop:

Several events have happened in very recent history that brings me to this Board today. I think I would be remiss if I didn't, in a very short period of time, let you know exactly what it is that I have on my mind, who I am representing, and exactly what brings me here today. Last fall when I entered as a first-year law student, we were greeted by an edition of what would be considered a Federalist society -- a newsletter by a student organization in the Law School, which referred to the Office of the Black Law Student Association as the, "lounge for colored folks."

Last spring as a first-year student, one of our administrators in the Law School came to the Law School one particular day and happened to find two phrases scribbled all over the walls of the Law School. Those phrases being, "nigger, nigger, nigger!" And also another phrase that said, "niggers kill niggers, not white folks!"

This fall during our annual SBA elections -- and this is during the first actual week of class -- fliers were posted all around campus and posted in every students' mailboxes saying that this student was "not fit to be a representative of the Law School." This student was one of only two Black representatives seeking office at that particular time.

Mr. Bishop: (contd)

Also, I have a copy of a flier before me today, that was posted all over campus and also on the marquee outside the Frank Hale Black Cultural Center, which says -- and there is a picture of a Black man hanging with a noose from a tree -- "niggers leave this campus." It also says, "White Power," and then it says in caption, "Remember the only good nigger, is a dead nigger!"

Lastly, President Gee mentioned that the annual USG elections are also a sign that spring is here. Well, unfortunately, it is also a sign that racism is still alive. The only all Black candidates running for president and vice president of USG have been under constant attack of both verbal and racial jokes, fliers, and e-mail reports, attacking them for the sole reason of their color.

I guess the more direct reason why I am here is that within the last two weeks two letters have appeared in the Law School which, I believe, have created an atmosphere of divisiveness and intolerance, the kind of which I have yet to see in the Law School in my two years. The first letter appeared March 17 in the mailbox of a first-year student which read, "You racist, nigger, bitch, you ought to go back to the ghettos where you came from. We all know that you got into Law School because you are Black and a woman, not because you have a brain in your head."

That letter was followed-up by a letter that was placed in the same student's mailbox just this past Wednesday. I won't read the entire letter to you, but in significant part the letter says -- the student placed this particular note that she had received on the Balsa newsboard, so that everyone in the Law School could see it, and in response to that action --

"Dear So and So,

The note that has been placed on the Balsa Board is indeed despicable. However, equally despicable is the manner in which it has been used to fire up the Law School community, especially by your small section, by you and your Black colleagues. Some have even suggested that perhaps it was you who wrote the note and who subsequently made a school-wide issue over one person's racism. Many believe that you would not sink that low to do that, but others do.

People have speculated that you wrote the note to cover-up for a more serious problem, that of your lack of friendly relations with the rest of your small section. It has been suggested that you do not get along with the members of your small section due to the fact that you do not do your own work. Nor are you cordial to any of the white members of that section."

To read another significant part:

"Perhaps in the future, you could see your way to becoming a more congenial participant in the Law School community.

We want more than anything else to sign our names to this letter, unfortunately" -- and all letters have in fact been anonymous as this one says -- "this note must remain anonymous. It is not out of cowardice, unlike the other note which we had nothing to do with, but it is the reason for this note. It is anonymous because of the Black law students wish to be divisive, along with their tendency to make a big fuss over small things such as one anonymous note writer's racism. The note that you received should have been ignored by you and your Black colleagues. But since it was not, you should now face the consequences of your wish to do no work and make big deals out of one person's racism. Perhaps even your own."

I am here simply to be proactive and let you know of a situation that is, in fact, brewing in the Law School. And to say that instead of the Law School being an institution that is the hallmark of justice, fairness and equality, I think this has, in fact, been transformed into a powder keg -- a powder keg that I think is ready to explode.

I don't stand here as a representative of the Black Law Student Association, but I can say that the sentiments that I am expressing today, for the most part, echoes the sentiments of the majority of African-American students in the Law School. One, they are upset; and two, they are pissed-off. There is a document that has been put forth and it is present in the Bible that says that once you have been hit, you should "turn the other cheek." I think that is illustrated by a series of things that are going on, not just on this campus, but in the Law School, that we have been slapped many times before. We have turned the other cheek, and we have turned the other cheek, and we have turned the other cheek. I don't believe we will turn the other cheek any more.

That concludes my remarks.

President Gee:

Wesley, first of all I was only made aware of the first note by the Dean this week when he and I had an opportunity to talk. I was not aware of the second note until this morning. I have already asked Professor Williams, as Vice President for Student Affairs, to work with you, and our students, and the Dean of the Law School to see how we can immediately deal with the issue presently finding itself in the Law School.

As to the larger issue, this is an ongoing activity of despicable nature within society and, certainly, I wish we didn't have it at the University. We put out letters -- the Provost does, the Vice President does, the President does, and we make it very clear that this kind of behavior is not tolerated. When it is found, we try to do what is absolutely right by the students and by those involved. In the end, when it is particularly student on student, we've got to work even more diligently in some way to create a habit of civility in which people communicate, rather than pointing fingers.

In this instance, I am glad that you brought this to us. I appreciate that fact, because sometimes we are the last to hear these things. I think it is important for the members of the Board to know that these are issues that are ongoing within the University and find themselves beyond the institution. But my plea to you is that now is the time for us to look not for turning the cheek, but to look for solutions -- which I am not talking about, in terms of turning the other cheek. As I have said, I have ask Professor Williams and I believe he is going to have an opportunity to meet with representatives of the Black Law Student Association early next week.

President Gee: (contd)

As to the larger issue, through David and through ourselves, we simply have to be more diligent in that regard. When we find those things on e-mail and a variety of other things, I would hope that you would allow others to see that rather than just simply letting them lay there. Because if you don't know about it, you can't deal with it. And some of those fliers, in fact the one's that you mentioned, I have personally not seen. They exist; you have shown them. Those ought to be identified, and we ought to try to immediately get on top of that. David, obviously, those are some of the issues that we are going to have to face right now.

It takes a lot of courage to come today and I appreciate your courage. In turn, your courage is going to be met with response, and I just want you to understand that. Okay?

Mr. Bishop:

I don't have a problem with that whatsoever. I think one of the concerns that we had, I guess, as individual members of the Law School was that -- and to be quite honest, we had a chance to meet with Dean Williams yesterday. Since the first letter came out, he addressed the particular issue. He sent the letter to every member of the Law School.

President Gee:

He did send the letter to the whole Law School community. He told me that.

Mr. Bishop:

Yes, he did. We have had several student organizations also send out those particular letters. But those kinds of actions, to be quite candid, don't make the sting any less severe. It is down to the point where -- I mean there is an attitude of intolerance and a continual verbal attack against the very merit of Black students even being here. I think that students -- my colleagues -- have been more than fair in sitting back and we have worked through the entire process.

Being in law school, I have come to the realization that when it comes to these particular events, often individuals hide behind the cloak of free speech. And if that is their protection, I have no problem with that. But at the same time, free speech is also met by consequences. And should members of the Law School, who may not be as tolerant as some other members, choose to take those particular consequences, I just want to let this Board know that in a proactive stance. I think this Board meets next month, and I think in that four-week span that will occur, I don't think things will get any better.

President Gee:

Well, the point is that we have to work to make them better and starting with this group right here and the realization of what is happening. I would just like to say to everyone that I think that this is endemic of a larger issue. We do have increasing amounts of destructive dialogue going on among various student groups. It is not simply white students versus Black students. It's white students versus white students; Black students versus Black students; and Hispanic students versus Asian students. As you well know, a lot of destructive behavior is going on in terms of anti-Semitism, which has risen again at a massive level on a number of university campuses.

April 8, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

President Gee: (contd)

We are part of society, but we have a responsibility to be a solution. Rather than just saying that that is the way that things are. That is what we really need to try to get at. Because if we don't, we are going to end up being all the worse for it. We are going to end up having a very destructive activity take place that none of us are going to be happy about.

Wesley, I appreciate your bringing this to our attention. Anyone else want to comment?

Ms. Casto:

Thank you for coming. I know that President Gee and I share the same view in this, and I hope that some action is taken.

Mr. Bishop:

Thank you.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS
BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Resolution No. 94-120

Judge Duncan read the Nominating Committee's report in which the following slate of officers were recommended:

WHEREAS pursuant to paragraph (B) of rule 3335-1-02 of the Administrative Code, the officers of the Board are to be elected at the May meeting to take office immediately following adjournment of the meeting (May 6, 1994) and shall hold their office through the May 1995 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the following slate of officers for 1994-95 be elected:

John W. Kessler, Chairman

Milton A. Wolf, Vice Chairman

Robert M. Duncan, Secretary

James L. Nichols, Treasurer

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Ladies and Gentlemen, welcome. We are delighted to have everyone here today.

First of all let me comment on the fact that this is the last day that our Board Chair, Debbie Casto, will preside over the Board of Trustees. Nine years of service and all of it with the highest degree of integrity and with an unbelievable degree of commitment to the University. Debbie, I know that your colleagues join me in thanking you for not only your nine years, but for your year of leadership.

This has not been an easy year for the University and certainly it has not been an easy year to be the chair of this institution. As such, you have done it with unbelievable grace and with great support for the best values of this University. For that we are all grateful. Would everyone please give her a great round of applause.

I want you to know that I went to my woodshop and constructed a plaque for you, Debbie. Nonetheless, we do have a wonderful plaque here that says, "In appreciation for sustained, superior leadership, commitment, and dedication to The Ohio State University," signed by all of those presently on the Board. I am honored to be able to give this to you, and to tell you that you are welcome to come back anytime. Now you are going to be sitting out in the rain with everyone else, so don't call us.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, Mr. President. I have enjoyed my nine years on this Board. Last night we talked about the fact that I was thirty-two years old when I first joined this Board, and I feel like I have grown up on this Board. I have really enjoyed every moment, every experience, and every challenge that I have been able to accept. I thank you, very much, for all of your support.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT (contd)

President Gee:

And, Jack, congratulations to you. I see you have put on your campaign button that says, "Ohio State or else." I can tell all of you that we are going to have a great year under Jack's leadership. A person of laid back qualities as we all know, and who through it all will exhibit the type of moral leadership that we need. Jack, I cannot tell you how delighted I am to work with you.

Hiawatha, congratulations to you for two years well served. We are so pleased that you have been part of this institution. I look forward to the day when I am going to be able to hand you your Ph.D. and have my name on that diploma. But your service has been well recognized and greatly appreciated. This is Hiawatha's last meeting, so let's give him a round of applause.

We do have a new Student Trustee, Tom Smith, a law student from Akron. I believe he is taking a final examination as we speak, so he will not be with us today.

Last evening, we had a gathering of current and past trustees to honor our outgoing chair. I was reminded of how fortunate this university has been to have such dedicated and committed leadership, through those that were there -- we had many former members of the Board -- and through those of you who are here present today. At this time of passage, it is important to remind ourselves of the dedication that all have given. I am very pleased to remind everyone in this room and at this great university of that service.

Let me now add that the pace of Spring Quarter has quickened as we move closer to the end of the academic year. Consider this line-up of activities on tap for tomorrow: you can attend the spring plant sale at the Chadwick Arboretum, run a 5K race for health sponsored by our Medical Center, participate in Parent's Weekend programs, go to the Medieval and Renaissance Festival, attend the Wexner Center Spring Arts Fair, go to Kurt Weill's opera "Street Scene," or hear Bo Diddley and his band play at the Ohio Union! This gives you a flavor of the myriad of activities that will be going on at the university tomorrow and to the vitality of this wonderful place.

I am delighted to report that our students continue to distinguish us by receiving a number of national honors. This month, John Wang has been named a Goldwater Scholar, our second in a row. The Goldwater Scholarship is awarded to the top 250 students in the nation who plan graduate work and careers in mathematics or the natural sciences. John is a third-year student from Hilliard, Ohio. He is working with Professor Kathleen Kendrick in microbiology.

Speaking eloquently to the point of teaching and research being intertwined in the process of learning, John said that working in Dr. Kendrick's laboratory, "has been educational, has piqued my curiosity, and has created a desire to contribute to microbiology." In addition to his rigorous academic program, John is vice president of Ohio Staters, an honors ambassador, and a member of the homecoming steering committee.

But that is not one piece of good news, it is just more good news that we have in a variety of other areas: thirteen Ohio State undergraduates were among the seniors receiving National Science Foundation Predoctoral Fellowships to support graduate study. This places us in the top 20 institutions in the country in this prestigious competition.

And to add to these honors, our Younger Scholar Award winner -- one of 50 from the National Endowment for the Humanities, one of the 80 Mellon Fellowship winners in the Humanities, and one of the 50 Phi Kappa Phi Fellowship winners! So in naming all of those you get a picture of the growing academic strength of our student body. Students can only compete for these honors with the mentoring, advising, and encouragement of our great faculty.

Among the faculty honors this month is the Guggenheim Fellowship won by Professor of Mathematics Karl Rubin. He was honored for his work in number theory. He is teaching two courses this quarter, and will use his fellowship to travel in order to collaborate with other mathematicians.

Winston Soboyejo, Professor of Materials Science and Engineering, received a Young Investigator Award from the Office of Naval Research, one of 17 such awards nationally. I might note, that I had him to dinner the other evening and he is an expert on fractures, which I think is absolutely fascinating. We could use his help sometimes ourselves. His research on failure mechanisms in new materials has application in high-temperature structural components for aircraft.

I am very pleased to report that Professor of Plant Biology Thomas Taylor has been elected to the National Academy of Sciences. His research on fossil plants that are hundreds of millions of years old has earned him one of the highest honors for a U.S. scientist. Professor Taylor is a research scientist with the Byrd Polar Research Center.

In addition to these academic honors, Ohio State has received national recognition in several other arenas. Our Forensics Program captured the National Championship in the Lincoln-Douglas Debate. The subject of the competitive debate was changing U.S. immigration policy, and participants discussed each side of the issue through ten rounds of debate in order to win the national title.

Our cheerleading squad placed fourth at the National Cheerleading Championships in San Diego, having won the national championship last year. The men's gymnastics team won the Big Ten title, finished third at the NCAAs, and ended the season ranked second in the nation. The men's 400-meter relay team finished second -- by only a few hundreds of a second -- in the prestigious Penn Relays. And the baseball team continues to be ranked in the top 10 in the nation, securing at least second place in the conference by sweeping four games from Michigan this past weekend.

All of this athletic success brings me to repeat the happy announcement that Andy Geiger has accepted the position of Director of Athletics. One of the nation's leading athletic administrators, Andy brings a strong record of achievement to this challenging post.

Today, I wish to recognize our outstanding student government leadership. I believe this is the final meeting for Council of Graduate Students President Frank Chloupek, and I want to thank him for his effective leadership this year. He has done a wonderful job. Frank, by the way, is a graduate student in Physics and is working full-time toward that Ph.D., and the fact that he has taken his time and energy to serve as president is certainly appreciated.

Wes Bishop is attending his last meeting as the head of our Interprofessional Council. Wes is finishing his finals this week also. He has a law school examination at 1:00 p.m., and is sitting there studying as we speak -- do very well, Wes. He has likewise been a strong voice for professional students.

Chris Norman and Jennifer Novelli's terms of service to the Undergraduate Student Government will end May 18. Chris and Jennifer have been very able advocates for the undergraduate students at this institution.

The reason I wanted to make these points today is that as we change leadership, we will certainly have new and able leadership step forward. But nonetheless, our students are dedicated, able, committed members of this academic community and we need to thank and recognize them for all of the good work that they do. So let's give them all a round of applause.

Madam Chair, that is my report.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, President Gee. I mentioned before that I participated recently in my Student-for-a-Day experience, and I was extremely impressed with our faculty and our students. I was just saying to Les that the dynamics have certainly changed over the last nine years, and that is something we can be proud of.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING

Provost Sisson:

Once again I am pleased to report progress in the restructuring of the University. Rather than repeat or merely provide you with an update of items which we have previously discussed, I want to bring to your attention today a number of new restructuring initiatives which I will soon present to the Board for consideration and approval. Many of these are administrative actions that I propose to implement to enhance the administration of Academic Affairs and to improve management coordination in the University.

One initiative, however, is far more complex and will need to be discussed fully by the University community before being brought to the Board. As a matter of fact, I am also consulting with respect to the administrative proposals that I am going to advance to the Board.

As you know, I have proposed that the College of Social Work be reorganized as a school within the College of Education. I have sent this proposal to the Steering Committee of the Senate, the Chair of which is sitting to my left. It has been forwarded by the Chair to, among other units, the Council on Academic Affairs and the Senate Ad Hoc Committee on Restructuring. Within the past week, I have met, together with several Associate Provosts, with the faculties of both colleges. I am optimistic -- I tend to be optimistic under almost all circumstances -- that this proposal will be accepted by the colleges and approved by the appropriate committees and the Senate, and that it can be brought forward to the Board for action.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Let me now turn to the administrative initiatives to which I just referred. First of all with respect to the organization of the Council of Deans -- one of the things that you will find in my comments here is a pattern of decentralization, the reorganization of units to areas where the density of information, expertise, and concern is most evident. The talent, time, and wisdom of the deans must be used to the maximum extent possible. To this end, the Council will be organized. I will meet with the Council as a committee of the whole, but I propose that there be four groupings.

The first is the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, which has a long tradition of meeting and conferring on matters of common interest, with one of the members serving as a coordinating dean. I think that much more can be done with respect to pro-active action among the deans of the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, and I so propose that we move in that direction. To encourage that, I propose that the coordinating dean be extended the title of an Executive Dean and will also assume line-management responsibilities. In this there is no change in the direct reporting relationship of deans of the arts and sciences, they will continue to report directly to the Provost.

Not so in the next case. This has to do with the colleges of the health sciences where the Office of Health Sciences will be created, headed by a Vice President for the Health Sciences. This position I propose to hold separate from that of the Dean of the College of Medicine. The Vice President for Health Sciences will serve as the Chief Executive Officer for the Health Sciences Center and will report to the President for all administrative and fiscal affairs, as encompassed in the responsibilities of the current position of Vice President for Health Services. The Vice President for Health Sciences will report to me on all matters pertaining to academic policies, programs, and resources, as the designee of the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost.

The Vice President for Health Sciences will be responsible for providing academic and fiscal leadership for the Colleges of Dentistry, Medicine, including the School of Allied Medical Professions, Nursing, Optometry, Pharmacy, and Veterinary Medicine. The Vice President for Health Sciences will serve as a member of the President's Executive Committee, as I propose that the Executive Dean for the Arts and Sciences so serve, as well as an Executive Dean for the Professional Colleges -- those colleges other than the health colleges.

The fourth cluster -- the third being the professional colleges -- is composed of our Regional Campuses. It is important that the regional campus deans meet and confirm with deans of relevant colleges on the Columbus campus about curricular and academic personnel matters. There are many issues, however, that concern the regional campuses specifically. These issues are not addressed with the regularity that they require in current meetings of the Council of Deans. I propose the current arrangement of a Coordinating Dean at the Regional Campuses be continued.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Provost Sisson: (contd)

The Office of Academic Affairs is leaner now than it was in the distant past and even in the recent past, in terms of staff and also in terms of the number of units that report directly to the Office of Academic Affairs. And when I say the Office of Academic Affairs, I mean the Office of the Provost and, in fact, the Provost. But there continue to be some 37 units that report directly to the Provost, in addition to 6 senior administrative associates.

Now while there is much to be said on behalf of flat organizational structures, there is a limit where flatness creates such expanse that horizons may go unseen and sounds may go unheard. It is important that reporting relationships be nested where fullest information is available and accountability can be maintained. It is critical -- I believe, for the quality and efficiency of the academic organization of our University -- that these reporting relationships be streamlined and rationalized. The number of units that currently report to the Provost would be better served by an alternative set of administrative relationships. I am not going to detail all of these, but there are several which I propose report directly to the Executive Dean for the Arts and Sciences.

Another case which is quite important -- that I want to bring to your attention -- is the Office of International Affairs. There was a transfer of a number of units in this office.

There was a transfer last year to two different deans, but the Office of the Vice Provost has continued to be maintained within the Provost's Office with 2 units reporting. In that regard, I feel that it is very important that it is absolutely essential that we continue to maintain support for international programs and activities for distinct excellence to be maintained. In the near future, we can expect to get very positive announcements in terms of our competition for Title VI grants -- federal grants for international study centers. But I believe that this support can be extended effectively, more simply, and less expensively by the discontinuance of the Office of International Affairs, and the grouping of these various regional study centers under a lead director reporting to the Senior Vice Provost for Academic Affairs.

The organization of management responsibilities in the Office of Academic Affairs will also be streamlined and rationalized. Currently every unit reports directly to the Provost, with Associate Provosts primarily having an advisory role with respect to particular domains. This system results in an inordinate amount of information and requirements for review and decisions coming directly to the Provost. I propose to change this. I propose that each of the Associate Provosts have line and management responsibilities, which I will delineate for you in a subsequent meeting. And reflecting that change, the titles will be changed from Associate Provost to Vice Provost. Instead of six such senior officers in the Office of the Provost, there will end up being five.

I am pleased to report that substantial progress is being made in our efforts to restructure The Ohio State University so that it will be better able to use existing resources effectively, to support existing areas of excellence, and to respond appropriately to the needs of emerging areas of excellence. The process has been a collaborative one involving students, faculty, staff, trustees and others.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Provost Sisson: (contd)

There is always unevenness in this, but I think that we have done quite well overall. It is my conviction that while there is much work yet to be done, that our University is facing the challenges poised by internal and external changes, and seizing the opportunity to position itself in the front ranks of premiere teaching and research universities in the nation. I think that our experience to date bodes well for our future. Thank you, Madam Chair. I would like to call upon Tom York and Harry Allen to add their comments.

Dr. Tom York

I want to make a few general comments this morning. I think restructuring is the most important activity going on and Professor Allen, Chair of the Faculty Council, has agreed to review the details for you. What I want to do is take a minute and talk about the larger question that is intimately involved in restructuring. This is something that came before you, the Board, several years ago, and it is the question of governance.

One of the things that is happening simultaneously as part of the process of restructuring is that to a certain extent we are reinventing shared governance -- and it's working. I think the kind of things that are happening, the way they are happening, the way faculty are taking on new initiatives and these are being received by the administration, the way students are moving within the governance structure, is actually the way it was originally conceived. So as one has defined many times -- that problems always present opportunities -- I think this was an opportunity for the kind of transition that was needed in developing true shared governance within the University.

The one problem actually that has been a little bit more difficult to deal with -- being a faculty member, but also being Chair of the Steering Committee and the Senate -- is the incorporation of staff into the shared governance structure. I think that is going to take a bit more time, but I know the President and his office are sensitive to it, and we in the Senate are sensitive to it. I think that it is very important to continue looking at this question and to attempt to incorporate staff appropriately into the governance structure of the University.

Those are my general comments, and I think things are going well. Again, Professor Allen may want to address several other things, but will also discuss for you how we have progressed in restructuring.

Dr. Harry Allen:

Thank you, Tom. The Oversight Restructuring Committee has met with the college administrations from Agriculture, Engineering, and Vet Medicine. It has hosted open forums for faculty, staff, and students, and administration for each of these colleges separately to meet with OCR and to discuss the restructuring issues of the particular college. We are in the process of drafting final reports for each of these colleges. The Council on Academic Affairs has reviewed the Engineering proposal and the Veterinary Medicine proposal, and has acted on them this past week. It is expected that they will also act on the Agriculture proposal shortly.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Dr. Allen:

The Steering Committee has called for a special meeting of the University Senate to be held on Saturday, May 21, to review the recommendations coming from the Council on Academic Affairs for administrative change within these three colleges. The Faculty Council will meet on May 19, prior to the Senate meeting, to discuss the CAA recommendations to the Senate.

That is the end of my report.

Provost Sisson:

Madam Chair, let me just make one summary comment to give you a sense of the order of magnitude of what may result from bringing to closure these reviews and presenting them to the Board.

If the proposals are adopted as proposed -- the proposals in Agriculture, Engineering, Veterinary Medicine, and Human Ecology -- the number of departments through a process of restructuring, reconfiguration, downsizing, and what not, will be reduced by 15 percent. Thank you.

Ms. Casto:

Does anyone have any questions or anything to add?

Mr. Shumate:

If I could make just one comment. First of all, I appreciate the reports and the updates, and the hard work that is going on. But in the message of communication about restructuring, it's also important that we don't lose the fact that we are not de-emphasizing certain areas. As an example, the international affairs area that you discussed. Simply because that is being restructured, as I understand it, does not mean that we are in any way de-emphasizing or not increasing our focus in that area, particularly as we think about the growth of global markets and the importance of internationalization. So as we communicate about restructuring, that is an important message to also include.

Provost Sisson:

That message is correct. There is no de-emphasis at all of our commitment to international and comparative programs. It also so happens that the Provost and the Senior Vice Provost have spent most of their professional lives dealing with major issues of international trade and international politics.

President Gee:

You know, Alex, I think that this is one of the struggles that we go through. Change is a very difficult thing to characterize. Those who don't want to have change take place characterize it as a de-emphasis or a down scaling or an elimination. Those who want to have change take place characterize it as an enhancement. The truth of the matter is is that I believe -- and certainly I think that both Tom and Harry will concur with this -- those who sit on our Oversight Committee have looked very carefully at the issues and at the things that we do well to emphasize those. But one of the most discouraging things -- and I will tell this story very quickly -- that I hear at Ohio State -- among the 500 wonderful things - - is when someone says, "Well, Dr. Gee you can't do that," and I say, "Why?" They say, "Well that's not the way we do things at Ohio State." It's that emphasis on the fact that we have a heavy hand in tradition. Tradition is important, but the new tradition of change, I think, is going to be the imperative for American society and certainly higher education needs to take the leadership in that regard. If someone answered that question in a doctoral dissertation by saying, "Well you can't do that because that is not the way that we do things," we would throw them out the front door.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

The second thing is that I received a wonderful letter from a dear friend and colleague on this faculty about 3 or 4 weeks ago. A four page letter on how we could really restructure the University and many of those were along the lines that we talked about here. It went into great detail about how you can eliminate and how you can enhance it, and a variety of other things. I got right to the end of the letter and I noticed that he didn't say one thing about his department, so I called him up. I said, "Well what about your department?" and he said, "Mine is fine." The point, again, is that we have wonderfully bright, creative people within the academic community who know how to restructure other people's business, but do not want to deal with their own in some way. Change within the managed environment that we have is an important new asset, but the way that we characterize as constantly looking for the higher ground is very important. I think that's what we always need to do.

Mr. Wexner:

I think that it is very important that the University change and I think that it's very important that the colleges change. I'm supporting what you and Dr. Sisson have said. The greater risk is not changing, and that's my view of it. We would all probably agree -- supportive of what you said about your colleague -- that the world is going to be different and that we would conceptually have to match the difference. I think that obviously there have been trying times, and there will be difficult decisions ahead. I think the risk of not changing -- and I know that we are being prudent and reflective, so I take that prudence and reflectiveness as a given, which doesn't mean that we work perfectly and insightfully -- is a more horrible risk than being stuck awaiting perfection. I am very encouraging of the process and in getting it through thoughtfully, but quickly.

President Gee:

I am very encouraged by the fact that we are doing this, too. I would say that most people at this institution now agree with that point and that three or four years ago that would not have been a widely held view. The truth of the matter is that most people view the issue the same way that I do. That is, that we are on this very large aircraft carrier that sailed off appropriately to Hong Kong. The only problem is that someone in the early '90's shifted all the goods and services to Singapore. And unless we shift and land at Singapore, we are all going to starve to death. If we do land in Singapore, it won't be nirvana, but at least we'll be very competitive in the world in which we are going to engage. It is that issue that we are about right now.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Provost Sisson:

The first steps of change are the most difficult ones. I think that once change occurs and one realizes that the world does not disappear and that there are new possibilities, it makes change easier in subsequent steps. I agree with you totally that to not change is unacceptable. There has to be some kind of change, not only to adapt to new kinds of things that are occurring in the world, but to enable us to participate in leading how we address those things. Also to lead that change in the world, participate in the changing of the world itself, and changing the environment. Hopefully, out of this we will be better positioned to be active agents in determining our environment, as well as in determining how we respond to changes in our environment.

Mr. Wexner:

The purpose in which I use the word risk -- because I think there are some changes that are acceptable, understood, and they are comfortable. It's when you get to the change that has the risk associated with it, that you get the opportunity to perhaps really change an institution or change a world. This means that you are also accepting perhaps being wrong or perhaps failing. I am encouraging to push the envelope.

President Gee:

I think that we have accepted the fact that as we push this along, we are going to make some mistakes. We have built into it the reality check that both our faculty and others will keep checking it, but together we are going to push that envelope. I think that is what's been helping. That is really what Tom was addressing, in terms of the fact that we have moved to a new level of sharing responsibility at this institution which is enormously important right now. Thank you.

Ms. Casto:

That's wonderful. Thank you.

REPORT ON RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Mr. Celeste:

Madam Chair, in the continuation of the discussion of changes for the good, I would like to add my congratulations to you for your leadership. And also suggest that your help and support for the areas that I have been working on have been most appreciated, certainly through Student Affairs, the Research Foundation, and OSU Hospitals. I would like to add my word of thanks to you in that process.

Summaries of the Grants and Contracts received by The Ohio State University Research Foundation during the month of March can be found at Tab 1 in your Research Foundation Report located on the table. Overall, awards for the period July 1993 through March 1994 are, for the first time in several months, up 2 percent ahead of the same time snapshot of the preceding year.

REPORT ON RESEARCH FOUNDATION (contd)

Mr. Celeste: (contd)

You will note some significant variations by sponsors. Most are due to differences in the timing of large multi-year projects. For example, I would like to call your attention to the Department of Defense, which is up 84 percent. This is largely due to two major Technology Reinvestment awards, also called Defense Conversion awards, which I will mention in a minute. As Defense contracting shifts to commercial applications there is a stronger link to University research programs.

At Tab 2 there is a summary of expenditures for the months of July through March, Fiscal Year 1994 compared to 1993. Total expenditures for FY 1994 through March, exceed FY 1993 expenditures by 10.2 percent.

Several projects funded in the month of March are described at Tab 3. Professor William Baeslack, Department of Welding Engineering, received $1.3 million from the Department of the Air Force in the new federal Technology Reinvestment Project (TRP) that I mentioned earlier. This project entitled, National Excellence in Materials Joining Education (NEMJET), will offer a comprehensive education program for retraining engineers and technologists who have lost or may lose their jobs in defense manufacturing.

A second TRP project of interest is entitled, A Practice-Oriented Manufacturing Engineering Program (POMEPE). Professors Allen Miller, Jose Cruz, and John Demel, from the College of Engineering, received about $700,000 from the Department of the Air Force to design a master's degree program that focuses on developing expertise in manufacturing. A cornerstone of the program is a 2-quarter practicum with industry, a national lab, or an advanced development institute such as the Edison Welding Institute.

A project funded by the Ohio Department of Development also offers practical value to the commercial sector. It is entitled, Enterprise Ohio: A Minority Economic Development Planning Project. Professor Joseph Russell, Office of Academic Affairs, received almost $29,000 to design and develop a statewide research and leadership training program, and a small and medium scale enterprise venture development program.

This week I visited with Professor Clark Anderson, Department of Internal Medicine, one of this year's Distinguished Scholars. We discussed his groundbreaking work on the molecular biology of human antibodies, toured his lab, met with several of his graduate students, and discussed his views on the synergistic role of research and teaching at a comprehensive university such as OSU.

I also want to report to the Board that Professor Thomas Taylor, Departments of Plant Biology and Geological Sciences and a member of the Byrd Polar Research Center, has been elected to the National Academy of Sciences. This is one of the highest honors accorded a U.S. scientist.

Tab 4 contains a list of all projects funded in March.

At Tab 5 are abstracted press releases issued by University Communications highlighting recent research activity. There is also a press release for the Younger Scholars Award from the National Endowment for the Humanities to Marcus Jones, an undergraduate student.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-122

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for March 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of March 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

REPORT ON THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION

Mr. Shumate:

The Board of Directors of The Ohio State University Foundation met on April 15, and in that meeting the Board reviewed the campaign planning process in which we are presently engaged and also talked about a possible timetable for the next University-wide campaign. The Board voted to formally recommend to the University Board of Trustees that the public phase of a new University-wide campaign be launched as soon as possible.

Vice President Jerry May continues to work with President Gee, Provost Sisson, and the academic leadership and senior administrative leadership of the University on determining the appropriate timetable for the public phase of the next campaign. We are becoming increasingly confident that that public phase should begin in the fall of 1995. The time between now and the fall of 1995 will constitute the leadership gift phase or the nucleus fund of the campaign. We are well into the planning and the implementation stage, and will continue to update this Board on the progress.

In this regard, the Board's Campaign Planning Committee also met to consider a number of important issues. The Committee's deliberations will continue in the months ahead, but among the issues under review are the following: the campaign timetable phases and the public announcement; the naming of gift endowment levels and donor recognition levels; the needs and the funding objectives of the campaign; the campaign organization and the volunteer structure; the campaign counting policies; the campaign themes and the University vision; and prospect identification and sources of private support, as well as campaign goals, objectives, and the unit goals.

REPORT ON THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION (contd)

Mr. Shumate: (contd)

The Foundation Board also heard reports of the campaign projects that are now in progress -- campaigns which will be components of the next University-wide campaign. Specifically, the Foundation Board heard reports on the campaigns for the Fisher College of Business, the Food Science and Technology, and the Alumni House.

The Board heard a report on the process being used by the College of Education to determine its campaign funding needs. This presentation was given by Dean Nancy Zimpher and it was very well received. This portion of the campaign funding needs process is very important as we all know. The Board also heard and endorsed a report on the campaign financing plan that's also going to be detailed in the Fiscal Affairs Committee report.

Just a couple of personal comments, Madam Chair. I think that the working relationship between the Foundation Board and this Board is excellent, and it is really benefitting the University. I'd also like to commend Vice President Jerry May on his outstanding leadership in bringing about that success, as well as his effective communication with both Boards. He is doing an outstanding job and we look forward to the announcement of the campaign. That's my report.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, Mr. Shumate. It was also your leadership that brought the two entities together and your insight, and we thank you.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

Madam Chair, on April 28 the Strategic Planning Committee continued its discussion of actions that could help the Hospitals prepare for the advent of managed care. Physicians and management are working together to increase service quality, become more cost effective, and develop and implement measures of functional health status and patient outcomes. Consistent with these efforts the budget process will focus on reducing operating costs per discharge. The Committee urged that consultation with legal counsel on the ramifications of special task force proposals for restructuring the Hospitals continue without delay.

The Executive Committee endorsed a proposal for the creation of a captive insurance company in Bermuda, subject to several specific comments. The captive insurance company would be restructured as a wholly owned corporation of the University and could serve specific needs of the University. Recommendation will be forwarded to the Fiscal Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees in the near future. That concludes my report.

JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL BOARD REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to recommend the following resolution:

THE ARTHUR G. JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL
AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE BOARD APPOINTMENTS

Resolution No. 94-123

Synopsis: Appointment of members to The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board is proposed.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees on September 1, 1993 approved the establishment of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board; and

WHEREAS it has been stipulated in Bylaw 3335-1-03 (W) that the Cancer Hospital Board shall be comprised of two members of the university board and a senior physician and faculty member, two senior university administrators, and two citizens from the general public who shall be appointed by the university board of trustees in consultation with the president; and

WHEREAS the following named persons have been selected for immediate appointment to the Cancer Hospital Board:

Alex Shumate, Trustee (Reappointment)
David L. Brennan, Trustee (Appointment)
Henry G. Cramblett, M.D., Senior Physician and Faculty Member (Reappointment)
Edward F. Hayes, Senior University Administrator (Reappointment)
William J. Shkurti, Senior University Administrator (Reappointment)
Richard J. Solove, General Public Member (Reappointment)
Ellen Hardymon, General Public Member (Reappointment)

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing nominees be appointed, effective immediately, as members of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute Board for a term ending April 30, 1995.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Wexner, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Mr. Kessler:

The next meeting of the James Cancer Hospital Board is May 23 and if there aren't any questions that concludes my report.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

The Educational Affairs Committee met this morning and heard the final report on the Molecular Life Sciences, an update on the Early Retirement Incentive Program,

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Kessler: (contd)

an update on the Faculty Workload Guidelines, and discussed the proposal to establish the OSU Marion Board of Trustees. The Educational Affairs Committee recommends the following resolutions at this time:

COMPUTER LABORATORY FEE IN BUSINESS

Resolution No. 94-124

Synopsis: Authorization of a computer laboratory fee in the College of Business is proposed.

WHEREAS the College of Business has established an immediate need for improving computer services for instructional purposes; and

WHEREAS current University funding is inadequate to meet the costs of those instructional needs; and

WHEREAS the College of Business is one of two colleges encouraged by the Office of Academic Affairs to develop a plan for enhancing its computing laboratories; and

WHEREAS the College of Business has followed closely the experience of the College of Engineering in implementing a similar computer laboratory fee and modified its own plan accordingly; and

WHEREAS the College of Business has a plan for a computer laboratory fee for majors only that assigns funds collected solely to the provision of instructional computing services:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That full-time undergraduate majors (12 credit hours or more) will be assessed a computer laboratory fee of $95 per quarter and full-time graduate students (8 credit hours or more) will be assessed a computer laboratory fee of $120 per quarter beginning Autumn Quarter 1994. The fee will be prorated at $8 per credit hour for undergraduate majors enrolled for less than 12 credit hours and at $15 per credit hour for graduate students enrolled for less than 8 credit hours. For subsequent years, the full-time computing fee will be limited to 10% of the resident undergraduate or graduate tuition, respectively. Prorated fees for students enrolled less than full-time will be adjusted correspondingly; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the use of the Business computer laboratory fee will be reviewed by the Office of Academic Affairs and approved by the Board of Trustees annually until the fee is eliminated or replaced by a University-wide computing fee; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That approval of the Business computer laboratory fee constitutes the completion of consideration of college-specific computing fees by the Office of Academic Affairs. Subsequent proposals for computing fees, if any, must be University-wide.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

CONTINUATION OF COMPUTER LABORATORY FEE IN ENGINEERING

Resolution No. 94-125

Synopsis: Authorization to continue with a computer laboratory fee in the College of Engineering is proposed.

WHEREAS the College of Engineering was authorized to implement a computer laboratory fee for its majors in Spring 1993; and

WHEREAS a review of the first year has shown the income from that fee to have been invested as planned and the planned first-year improvements in instructional computing services to have been accomplished; and

WHEREAS a survey of engineering students has shown substantial satisfaction with the improvements already made; and

WHEREAS the College of Engineering has monitored the use of computing laboratories and taken steps to increase accessibility as needed by students; and

WHEREAS there is a need to continue the implementation of the College of Engineering computer laboratory plan; and

WHEREAS students who are majors in computer and information science in the College of Mathematical and Physical Sciences make substantial use of Engineering computing laboratories, approximately 2/3 as much as their counterparts in Engineering, but are not currently assessed the computing fee:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the College of Engineering is authorized to continue assessing undergraduate majors and graduate students in the college a computer laboratory fee. Beginning Autumn Quarter 1994 full-time undergraduate majors (12 credit hours or more) and full-time graduate students (8 credit hours or more) will be assessed $120 per quarter. The fee will be prorated at $10 per credit hour for undergraduate majors enrolled for less than 12 credit hours and at $15 per credit hour for graduate students enrolled for less than 8 credit hours. For subsequent years the computing fee will be limited to 15% of the resident undergraduate tuition and the prorated fees for students who are not full-time will be adjusted correspondingly; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That majors in computer and information science who are enrolled in the College of Mathematical and Physical Sciences will be assessed a computing laboratory fee by the College of Engineering beginning in Autumn Quarter 1994 at the rate of 2/3 of the amount assessed engineering majors; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the use of the Engineering computer laboratory fee will be reviewed by the Office of Academic Affairs and approved by the Board of Trustees annually until the fee is eliminated or replaced by a University-wide computing fee.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES - SPRING QUARTER COMMENCEMENT

Resolution No. 94-126

Synopsis: Approval of Degrees and Certificates for Spring Quarter is proposed.

WHEREAS pursuant to paragraph (E) of rule 3335-1-06 of the Administrative Code, the Board has authority for the issuance of degrees and certificates; and

WHEREAS the faculties of the colleges and schools shall transmit, in accordance with rule 3335-9-29 of the Administrative Code, for approval by the Board of Trustees, the names of persons who have completed degree and certificate requirements; and

WHEREAS the Colleges of the Arts and Sciences have recommended that Jennifer Jane Burdick be awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree posthumously in the College of Biological Sciences, and John Doner Galyk be awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree posthumously in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the degrees and certificates be conferred on June 10, 1994, to those persons who have completed the requirements for their respective degrees and certificates and are recommended by the colleges and schools, and that the names of those persons awarded degrees and certificates be included in the minutes of this meeting.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

Madam Chair, the Investments Committee met this morning and reviewed the Monthly and Quarterly Endowment Portfolio reports. I am going to ask Mr. Nichols to give that report.

Mr. Nichols:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. For the last period, the market value of the Endowment was $490.4 million, which is about $21.8 million below the report of last month. The equity portion decreased $18.3 million and the fixed income portion decreased

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Nichols: (contd)

$3 million, due to the substantial movements in the markets over the period at date.

Net new additions to the Endowment Fund totaled $900,000 for the month. Since July 1, the Endowment Fund has had a decrease overall of $2.8 million, which includes net new additions of $9.4 million. Current asset allocation for the Endowment is 60 percent in equities, 25 percent in fixed income, 8 percent in real estate, and 7 percent in cash, which is at our target allocations.

The Investments Committee also discussed the Quarterly Endowment Report of March 31. It was reported that the Endowment Fund withstood the market correction quite well, compared to the major indices, at a total rate for the 9 months of 1.9 percent; compared to 0.8 for the S&P 500; and 0.2 for the Lehman Corporate Government Index. The Endowment will distribute $24.2 million to its nearly 2,100 funds during the 1994 Fiscal Year.

Finally, the Investments Committee reviewed the refinancing proposal for the debt for the River Road Hotel Corporation that was presented. The Committee voted to recommend that resolution for approval and that is submitted for your consideration.

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to make a comment on the River Road Hotel Corporation. I noticed from your figures that you have used a figure of 7.85 percent on refinancing. I know that there is some concern that we could do much better since we would be applying the full faith and credit of the University behind this refinancing. My only thoughts is that I would like to see some alternative methods of financing -- we might look at a floater or a seven-day roll over. Because every difference we save in the short period of term that we are talking about, would help us reduce not only those unsecured obligations that the University has out there, but would also help us take down the total loan of the $8.5 million.

So I hope that maybe at the next Investments Committee, you could give the Committee some of the differences in rates and risks. To make sure that we do secure obviously the smallest amount of interest during the short period of time because it is very critical, I think, to our investment.

Mr. Nichols:

The numbers presented were presented intentionally in a conservative mode because of the dramatic movements in the markets in the last couple of months. There are seven investment banking firms that have submitted proposals in a wide variety of scenarios, Mr. Skestos. I will be glad to bring all of those forward at the next meeting.

Amb. Wolf:

Madam Chair, I also want to express reservations about moving forward at this moment. Because to replace the small amount of guarantee by a full guarantee with the credit of the University behind it, I don't believe that we have improved our position. Any time the University wants to guarantee a loan, it could get a mortgage rate at that interest level or better.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Amb. Wolf: (contd)

I would like to know what the interest rate would be had we kept the same $1 million guarantee that the University has previously pledged? That would reflect the deterioration or the lowering of interest rates that have generally taken place. I can't separate whether the new mortgage rate reflects the reduction in interest rates generally or if it reflects just the personal guarantee of the University?

Mr. Nichols:

It reflects the drop in the interest rates. The investment banking firms discussed this and all felt that they could not be able to proceed unless the guarantee was in place.

Amb. Wolf:

I believe that the reflection is strictly substituting the University's guarantee for that debt, for their physical property's guarantee for the debt; not the reduction, in general, the interest rates have had in the last 6 months.

Ms. Casto:

Does anyone else want to comment on the situation? It passed the Committee and is on our agenda.

Mr. Shumate:

Madam Chair, the Committee has fully debated these various issues and determined that there is an appropriate financial benefit to the University in moving forward with the proposal, so I will move the motion.

REFINANCING OF DEBT OF RIVER ROAD HOTEL CORPORATION
BY THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY ENDOWMENT FUND

Resolution No. 94-128

Synopsis: Authorization is requested to refinance the debt of River Road Hotel Corporation.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University Endowment Fund is the sole shareholder of River Road Hotel Corporation, which owns and operates the Ramada University Hotel and Conference Center at 3110 Olentangy River Road, Columbus, Ohio; and

WHEREAS River Road Hotel Corporation has an outstanding mortgage with John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company at an interest rate of 10 percent per annum; and

WHEREAS interest rates have decreased substantially in recent years which makes refinancing attractive; and

WHEREAS it is in the interest of the University Endowment Fund to refinance the mortgage to incur a lower interest charge, and be the ultimate beneficiary of increased cash flow; and

WHEREAS Arthur Andersen, the University's tax consultant, has reviewed the proposed transaction and has advised the University as to the advantages of such transaction:

REFINANCING OF DEBT OF RIVER ROAD HOTEL CORPORATION
BY THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY ENDOWMENT FUND (contd)

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Treasurer be authorized to refinance up to $8.5 million of the debt of River Road Hotel Corporation on behalf of The Ohio State University Endowment Fund, and sign the necessary agreements and documents; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Treasurer be authorized to utilize the University Endowment Fund to guaranty debt of River Road Hotel Corporation to a maximum of $8.5 million.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution with seven affirmative votes cast by Ms. Casto, and Messrs. Kessler, Wexner, Shumate, Celeste, Colley, and Skestos, and an abstention by Amb. Wolf.

--0--

Mr. Shumate:

Also, Madam Chair, in the Investments Committee meeting this morning, we received a report on private support for the University for July - March, compared with the same period. That report is in the Development section of the Board books.

Through March total dollars contributed is 10 percent less than last year at this time. Much of this can be attributed to a number of estate gifts from alumni which were received last year. I would like to point out the following items: first of all non-alumni giving is, in fact, up 22 percent; gifts from private foundations are up 32 percent; gifts for building and equipment are running 19 percent ahead of last year; private support for student financial aid continues to be ahead of last year, it is up 15 percent; and unrestricted gift segment to colleges and departments is also up by 15 percent.

At this time, I would like to recommend to the Board the establishment of seven named endowed funds totaling $349,381.48 in restricted support to the University and the change in name and description of two named endowed funds. In addition, I recommend the acceptance of $626,365.00 in gift receipts to endowed funds and $1,948,659.00 to current use funds received during the month of March.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-129

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for March 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of seven (7) new named endowed funds and amendments to two (2) endowed funds :

NOW THEREFORE

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of March 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Kessler, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Total	$47,561,428	$42,933,241	(10)

NOTES

- A Non-alumni individual giving is up 22% largely due to an increase in gifts of $10,000 or more (92 for $5.5 million last year; 98 for $6.9 million this year). Alumni giving is down 30%. The five largest gifts from alumni thus far this year total $2.8 million. For the same period of time last year, the five largest alumni gifts totaled $7.6 million.
- B Corporate giving is down 11%. This is largely due to the $3.2 mainframe computer given by IBM last year in January. No corporate gift of this magnitude has been received this year. However, if the $3.2 million computer is factored out, corporate giving is up 10%.
- C Gifts of $10,000 or more from private foundations are $1.3 million ahead of the same time last year.
- D Last year during July-March, 76 associations or other organizations gave $10,000 or more ($2,146,447). This year during the same period only 52 organizations gave at this level for a total of $1,223,473.
(Note: Of the $42,933,241 in current year gift receipts, $3,184,215 or 7% is the result of the payment of pledges from The Ohio State University Campaign).

Cunningham in memory of his wife, Jean W. Cunningham.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used for leadership development programs and activities that will recognize outstanding leadership among older 4-H members and/or former 4-H members who are student leaders enrolled at The Ohio State University. Funding of a national leadership recognition trip to a national 4-H event for an outstanding member shall be the first priority in use of available funds each year. The second priority for use of the available funds shall be for leadership development programs/activities of former 4-H members who have demonstrated outstanding undergraduate student leadership. Students enrolled in the College of Agriculture or in the College of Human Ecology shall be given priority. Any unused funds shall be retained for later years use or reinvestment in the principal account. Selection of award recipients shall be made by the assistant director (state leader) for 4-H or his/her designee who shall have responsibility for the implementation of details deemed to be in keeping with the intent of the late Jean W. Cunningham and her husband, Clarence J. Cunningham.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the University's Board of Trustees in consultation with the director, Ohio State University Extension in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

The Heldt Family Scholarship in Veterinary Medicine

The Heldt Family Scholarship in Veterinary Medicine was established May 6, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Lewis Rolfes Heldt, (M.A. Education, '51) of Toledo in memory of pets "Cat," "Coco," "Snoopy," "Boots," "Charley/Orangy," and "Mama Cat and Four Kittens."

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide one or more scholarships for students in veterinary medicine. The recipient should be committed to the study and practice of animal geriatrics and the dealing with the pet owner in a caring, compassionate, supporting, and consoling manner. Students shall be selected upon the recommendation of the Dean, College of Veterinary Medicine, and in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

Ronald L. and Sharon Smith Redick
Home Economics Graduate Fellowship/Scholarship Fund

The Ronald L. and Sharon Smith Redick Home Economics Graduate Fellowship Fund was established June 2, 1989, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Ronald L. (M.A. '64, Ph.D. '69) and Sharon Smith Redick (B.S.H.E. '60, M.A. '64) of Columbus, Ohio. The name and description were revised May 6, 1994.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The income shall be added to the principal until the principal reaches $10,000.00. The annual income shall be used to fund a graduate fellowship or scholarship. The fellowship or scholarship shall be awarded to students preparing for positions in Home Economics Education. Preference is to be given to students with the following characteristics in priority order: 1) minorities or males; 2) students with high academic credentials; 3) those with prior experience as officers or advisors in Future Homemakers of America, and those active in home economics education related professional and/or honorary societies; and 4) applicants from Morrow County, Ohio. The recommendation for the recipient will be made by the faculty implementing the home economics teacher education program, in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

In the event that The Ohio State University should no longer support a home economics teacher education program, this account will be moved to the College of Education for graduate fellowships/scholarships. Preference is to be given to students with an interest in the study of curriculum and instruction.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to the recommendation of the Dean of the College of Human Ecology or the Dean of the College of Education.

The Harold E. Burt Chair in Psychology Fund

The Harold E. Burt Chair in Industrial Psychology Fund was established June 1, 1990, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with gifts to The Ohio State University Foundation from Ruth and Frank (Ph.D. Psychology, 1935) Stanton, New York, New York. The name and description were revised May 6, 1994.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

Income provided by the Foundation shall be added to the principal until the minimum amount for funding an endowed chair ($1,250,000) has been reached. At that time, the annual income shall be used to provide salary and program support for the work of a distinguished teacher and scholar in the Department of Psychology whose interests focus on issues of fundamental research and theory related to the application of psychology in areas such as communication, organizations, public policy, and information-processing decision-making and choice behavior. Appointment to the Harold E. Burt Chair will be recommended by the Dean of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences to the Provost and approved by The Ohio State University Board of Trustees.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Francisco:

This morning during our Committee meeting, Mary Daniels commented on the student health insurance which will be coming forth at the June Board meeting. Also, Larry Romanoff and Kate Riffie, from the Department of Athletics, talked about academic and life support for our student athletes. May I also comment, that we have four academic counselors who are doing a terrific job with 800 athletes in 32 different sports. I think they're doing a heck of a job.

I would like to now go on to the student government reports. Wes Bishop reported today on IPC's year in review and bid his farewell to the Committee. Wes had to go and take an exam today. The other two presidents will be speaking a little later. The Committee also presented resolutions to Frank Chloupek, Chris Norman, and Wes Bishop this morning, expressing the Board's appreciation for their commitment and exceptional service to the University as Student Government Presidents during this past year. Madam Chair, a motion is needed to ratify these expressions of appreciation.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 94-130

WHEREAS Wesley T. Bishop, a student in the College of Law, has served as President of the Inter-Professional Student Council during the past year; and

WHEREAS Wes also has served the University with distinction on several committees; and

WHEREAS his achievements include national recognition in his field of study; and

WHEREAS he has earned the respect of students, faculty, and staff for his commitment to the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That this Board expresses appreciation to Wesley T. Bishop for his service and leadership to The Ohio State University and wishes him happiness, health, and success in the future.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 94-131

WHEREAS Frank R. Chloupek, a doctoral candidate in physics, has served as the President of the Council of Graduate Students during the past year; and

WHEREAS Frank has served the University with competence and commitment on several committees during the last three years; and

WHEREAS he has demonstrated the finest qualities of leadership; and

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION (contd)

WHEREAS he has maintained the highest academic standards and shows great promise of outstanding scholarship in the future:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That this Board expresses appreciation to Frank R. Chloupek for his dedication and commitment to The Ohio State University and wishes him, happiness, good health, and success in the future.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 94-132

WHEREAS Christopher T. Norman, an undergraduate student, has served as the President of the Undergraduate Student Government during the past year; and

WHEREAS he has demonstrated outstanding leadership skills during his undergraduate experience at the University; and

WHEREAS Chris has worked tirelessly for the University as a student representative both on campus and in intercollegiate associations; and

WHEREAS he has extended his commitment of service to the larger community, especially in his work with children and the elderly:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That this Board expresses appreciation to Christopher T. Norman for his service and leadership to The Ohio State University and wishes him happiness, health, and success in the future.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

REPORTS FROM STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENTS

Mr. Francisco:

Now, I would like to call on Frank Chloupek and Chris Norman to address the Board.

Mr. Frank Chloupek:

Thank you, Madam Chair. Good morning ladies and gentlemen, I am pleased to be speaking to you today as the elected representative of Ohio State's more than 11,000 graduate students.

REPORTS FROM STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENTS (contd)

Mr. Chloupek: (contd)

Graduate students fill many roles at Ohio State: participating in and often initiating the cutting edge research that goes on here; seeing to the education of undergraduates; and, perhaps most importantly, learning -- being here to obtain an advanced degree to take back to the professional, academic, or governmental world.

I am pleased to be here today to bring you some of their concerns, including those of unsupported graduate students, enrollment and placement issues, graduate associate support, the 1994-95 student health plan, and student fees.

Unsupported Graduate Students. The traditional image of a graduate student is that of an individual devoting their full attention to their studies while serving a paid teaching or research apprenticeship. That picture is becoming less valid today. Many students are supported by their savings, loans, or earnings from their full-time jobs, as they pursue their advanced degree. CGS applauds the initial efforts of the University to have certain administrative offices open at night and hope to see that trend of accessibility continue. Further, we urge the University to stress the importance of the prompt delivery of financial aid and advocate the existence of adequate support services for these graduate students.

Graduate student enrollment and placement. It has often been mentioned that increasing graduate student enrollment would promote a richer academic environment. Any plan to increase either the number or proportion of graduate students on campus will require careful thought at all levels. Specifically, care must be taken to address: the departmental capacities, in terms, of advising and teaching; increase numbers of graduate students since graduate courses are by nature limited in size and more faculty intensive; the availability of support for additional graduate students, especially if fewer teaching associate positions are available as a result of departmental restructuring; issues of recruitment and retention of graduate students from underrepresented populations; and the relationship between the size of OSU programs and the outside job market.

I refer you to an excellent article on this topic which appeared in the March 23, 1994 issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education. There will be a short quiz on this article at the next Board meeting.

Graduate Associate Support. With the recent increases in health insurance premiums, parking permit costs, and other University fees, the purchasing power of a graduate stipend has not kept up with the cost of living in Columbus. The Council appreciates the efforts made this year by the Vice President for Finance and others involved in the budget process, to see that this situation is remedied somewhat. I hope they will continue their diligence to ensure that the compensation package is fairly and equitably distributed among new and returning graduate students. It will certainly be a multi-year project to ensure that graduate stipends are at a level that can assure Ohio State's competitiveness for the best and brightest graduate students.

Furthermore, CGS applauds the efforts of the Graduate School, through its Graduate Associate and Fellowship Committee, to study assistantships across the University to ensure that half-time associateships adequately represent 20 hours of work. The Graduate School and its committees provide an objective view in this matter, as they are independent from the concerns of individual departments. Ohio

State must ensure that graduate students are provided with every opportunity to attain their degree in a timely fashion.

Student Health Plan. Numerous hours of student labor, assisted by dedicated administrators, staff, and faculty, have produced an excellent plan and I would encourage its full adoption, including the plans for domestic partner coverage by this Board at its June meeting. This provision is strongly welcomed by the Council of Graduate Students.

The 1994-95 Student Health Plan Proposal has received the unanimous endorsement of the Council on Student Affairs. The Student Health Plan is funded 100 percent through voluntary student premiums. No University funds would be used for domestic partner care or coverage. I urge you to follow the lead of peer institutions, such as the University of Chicago and the University of Iowa, and validate the independent student health plan by approving it in its entirety.

Finally, Student Fees. Some students attracted to Ohio State through fellowship and assistantship offers have been surprised to find that they have been given a bill for $120.00 for departmental computers.

To expand upon the practice of individual college computing fees can lead to numerous college computing bureaucracies, and incompatible college systems. Students may have to learn different operating systems and software as they move from class to class. A central, uniform approach can result in a better educational experience for all students. A hodge-podge of individual college fees additionally sets a bad public relations precedent for the University by appearing to be an attempt to circumvent the State imposed cap on tuition and fees.

As an alternative, the Council endorses the Academic Computing Plan, which includes plans for a University-wide computing fee as a portion of its funding. The Council of Graduate Students is willing to work with the administration and the State Legislature to insure a properly funded central approach to address Ohio State's computing needs.

I have mentioned some of the major issues facing Ohio State graduate students today: unsupported graduate students, enrollment and placement issues, graduate associate support, the 1994-95 student health plan, and student fees. The Council of Graduate Students looks forward to working with you, and especially with the very able student members of the Board, to address these or any other issues facing The Ohio State University.

Thank you very much, Madam Chair. I will be happy to answer any questions the Board may have.

Ms. Casto:

Any questions? Thank you.

REPORTS FROM STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENTS (contd)

Mr. Chris Norman:

Once again, thank you for allowing me to speak today. I am here not only as the President of the Undergraduate Student Government, but also as a student who is going to be graduating real soon -- June 10.

I don't want to go into too much about what I think needs to be done, because I think that you all know first-hand by participating in Student-for-a-Day. I think that Mr. Celeste has seen some real stiffs in the classroom, and Jerry May has proven himself to be in better shape than myself in his Student-for-a-Day when he participated in the Greek run. I think Provost Sisson got a chance to see what it was like in a Chemistry classroom and what students have to deal with. So in that aspect, you have been out there, you are seeing what's going on, and I would encourage that we do it a little bit more. Let's turn the tables and give the students an opportunity to shadow you for a day, and to see what your lives are like in your busy roles. I think that is very important.

I'm just going to try and tell you a little bit about what has happened to me. This is my fifth year at Ohio State. I started out at ATI in Wooster, several years ago and that's where I proved myself academically and moved on to Ohio State to further my education. Living in a residence hall, I had some interesting experiences with several different roommates who came and went for a variety of reasons. One roommate set my room on fire two times in the same day, that was really a very interesting experience.

I have always loved Ohio State and have always been very active. I have a great fondness for Ohio State; it's really a part of me. As I have progressed through the past few years, I've thought of different ways to get involved and to become a part of the community, to share my experiences with other people, and to get them involved, too. I think that is why I became student government president. I am not a political science major and I am not going on to Law School. Actually, I am going to be working for the Ohio Farm Bureau when I graduate. Hopefully, I will be returning to the family farm one day to become a farmer, an agriculture producer. The reason that I did become USG President was because I cared very much for the University. I cared for the students here. I cared for just the entire environment that we live in, and I wanted to be very much a part of that.

I've seen a lot of good things at Ohio State, but I have seen some bad things too. I have had to say good bye to students that I never had the chance to meet. With Stephanie Hummer's death, I saw a call to action from the students. The student government answered that call by planning an open forum where students could address University administrators, community leaders, and also state leaders. They were able to get their questions answered on how can we make this a better and safer community.

I would like to let you know some things that USG has done this past year. I am not trying to praise myself, I am trying to praise the students who have been out there serving on the committees and working with all of you to give their input, and to help make this a better University. Starting last quarter, I don't think too many of us can forget the Jeep Eagle Health and Fitness Tour that came to our campus, where we got to see President Gee stretched out on a velcro wall.

REPORTS FROM STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENTS (contd)

President Gee:

You should have seen me in my sumo wrestling suit this week!

Mr. Norman:

We saw the need to help educate our peers about safer sex. Not just the physical act and what safety precautions we need to take and the maturity level that needs to be there, but also the emotional commitment of that aspect of our lives. We saw programs like, "Coffee, Tea, and USG," which was an open forum to discuss women's issues and the climate forum on campus. One forum was held at President Gee's house and he was very receptive to what we had to say. We have been very active with the Ohio Coalition Against Sexual Assault. We participated in a variety of different parades to get Ohio State's name out and to get our name out and to help publicize students more.

We talked about physical abuse and talked about something that is not covered a lot and that is emotional abuse in relationships that we are in. We've cosponsored and participated in blood drives. We participated in disability simulation support, cosponsored by the Students for Disability Awareness. Every quarter, USG sponsors something called, "President for a Day." This is where one undergraduate student gets to shadow President Gee for a day. Autumn Quarter that was Nathan Traucht, and Winter Quarter it was Amanda Sutherland. It is a great experience for the students and I think also for President Gee to see both sides.

I think USG has been an active discussion leader and participant in involving discussions on a new student union, activity fees, restructuring, financial aid reform, disability concerns, diversity, traffic and parking -- Janet, thank you for the information you gave me the other day -- senior finals, sexual harassment, and on and on and on. In my five years -- I have only been involved in student government for two years -- I have never seen students on this campus be so actively involved in what goes on at a university. I think there is room for a lot of improvement in student activism, but I definitely think we are heading in the right direction.

USG specifically hosted the Association of Big Ten Student Government Conference. We have attended many leadership conferences -- not because we just wanted to get away and see what everyone was doing -- but because Ohio State was actively sought out to participate in these conferences. We are well respected, not just in the Big Ten, but throughout the nation. If any of you saw C-Span the other night, you would have seen six members of the Undergraduate Student Government on C-Span attending the National Student Leader Youth Convention in Washington, D.C.

I think the best thing I started was the Student-for-a-Day, to give you the opportunity to see what our lives are like on a day-to-day basis at the University. I think it was very rewarding, not only for you, but I think the students had a great opportunity to visit with you also.

I want to talk a little bit about the academic-side just to wrap up. I want to acknowledge some outstanding teachers that I have had the experience of coming in contact with and some others that have been mentioned to me over and over again: Isaac Mowoe from Black Studies; Sebastian Knowles from the Department of English; Alice Walters from Agriculture Communication; Fred Stephens from Poultry Science; Matt Ramsey, who I currently have for my English 291 class -- who is an awesome graduate student professor, he does a great job. I would also like to acknowledge my Chemistry G.A.s, who don't get enough credit a lot of times -- Doug Gernert and Louis Salvati, they are both a great, great help getting me through that course and a great help to the students who are also sharing that course with me; and also, Felecia Jones and Gerald Kosicki both from Journalism. There are many, many more. I could go on, but those are the ones that really stand out in my mind. And when I leave Ohio State, I will take these names with me and the help that they gave me. I will be contributing back to Ohio State, not just in the financial sense, but also in the verbal support and the emotional support. I will always be willing to come back to Ohio State and help you out in any way I possibly can.

I look forward to seeing everyone June 10, 9:30 a.m., in the Stadium -- be there. We have a great commencement speaker, I think everyone is going to be very, very pleased with him. I am sorry Hillary couldn't come, she was booked and Maya Angelou cost too much. But Mark is definitely a very inspirational person and you will all enjoy him very much.

President Gee:

Mark Goldston, a graduate of the University, is the Chief Executive Officer of LA GEAR. He is the guy who invented the shoes that light up when you walk along and that is what he is going to talk about -- how you light up shoes! He is going to be lots of fun and the students are going to enjoy him. It will be a challenge for all of us.

Chris, I must say that you have done a remarkable job. One of the things that strikes me is that you represent, in so many ways, the things that I think are wonderful about Ohio State. You are a young man who came off the family farm, went to ATI, had a good academic experience there, and decided to come to the University full-time. And just to hear you talk, all of a sudden you are talking about these wonderful, interesting, and enlightening issues. I suspect that five years ago, you didn't know that these things existed in terms of date rape, sexual harassment, and a number of the other issues which are of enormous importance in a community like this, but yet you have taken a leadership role.

Just one final comment to you, obviously you have contributed a great deal to Ohio State. The question of your own personal growth -- and I won't say enlightenment -- but the enhancement of your own opportunities to come in contact with people of different views, has that been an enormously productive experience, too?

Mr. Norman:

Very much so. I wouldn't have traded it for anything. I think what I got in the classroom was incredible, but what I got outside -- my participation, my service to the University -- goes above and beyond anything I could have ever gotten out of a book. It has been a unique experience to meet with state and federal representatives, personally to meet with other administrators from other universities, to work so closely with so many of you. There are a few of you I haven't had a chance to meet - Mr. Skestos and Mr. Wexner -- but I have wanted to. Time doesn't always allow that. I have very fond memories and I feel very, very prepared for my career. I graduate June 10 and start work June 13.

President Gee:

Chris, you have emphasized this June 10 so much. Do you have problems in a class that you need some help with?

Mr. Norman:

No. It has been a good term, it has been a good run. I am just looking forward to getting on and experiencing another aspect of life.

President Gee:

Well, I think that is a wonderful tribute to you and to the University. I appreciate that.

Ms. Casto:

I would like to call on Mr. Celeste.

Mr. Celeste:

Excuse me, Hiawatha, before you continue, one of the things that we would like to do is present you with this plaque for your service. It reads, "In appreciation to Hiawatha N. Francisco, Jr., for his dedication, commitment, and praiseworthy service to The Ohio State University."

President Gee:

I might note, Hiawatha, with that shoddy undergraduate degree that you have, that it is about time that you are getting some academic excellence in your life.

Mr. Hiawatha:

Thank you, Gordon. Half my blood is now Scarlet and Gray. The last thing I would like to add is that the President has started hosting student breakfasts. We had our first one last week, and the second one is later this month.

That concludes my report.

Ms. Casto:

I, too, will miss you. I have enjoyed working with you very much.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

The Committee met earlier this morning and discussed the proposed distribution of licensing revenue and the Third Quarter Report.

(See Appendix XXXIX for a chart on the FY 1994 Third Quarter Report, page 929.)

--0--

Mr. Skestos:

The Fiscal Affairs Committee is recommending the following resolutions:

WAIVERS OF COMPETITIVE BIDDING REQUIREMENTS
JANUARY - MARCH 1994

Resolution No. 94-133

Synopsis: Acceptance of the quarterly report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements is proposed:

WHEREAS the Purchasing Policy of The Ohio State University, adopted by the Board of Trustees on September 7, 1984, and revised on February 7, 1992, provides that the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration may grant a waiver from competitive bidding in the event of an emergency, when a sufficient economic reason exists, or when the goods or services can be purchased from only a single source, with a report on such waivers to be made quarterly to this Board; and

WHEREAS the Vice President for Business and Administration has submitted a report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements granted for the period of January - March, 1994; and

WHEREAS during the period covered, the Vice President for Business and Administration, at the requests of the departments making the purchases and upon the recommendation of the Purchasing Department, granted 36 waivers of competitive bidding requirements for annual purchases totaling approximately $5,694,800.00, as shown on the enclosed exhibit:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements for the period of January - March 1994, is hereby accepted.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

TURFGRASS FIELD SERVICES BUILDING (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request construction bids on these projects in accordance with established University procedures, and if satisfactory bids are received, to award contracts, with all actions to be reported to this Board at the appropriate time.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Ms. Pichette:

This particular item was reviewed by the Fiscal Affairs Committee and we are seeking authorization to sell a portion of Barnebey Center, located in Fairfield and Hocking Counties. There is background information and a map in your materials. The College of Agriculture and the School of Natural Resources have determined that the Center no longer can be operated economically and an opportunity has been presented to sell this property to the Columbus and Franklin County Metropolitan and Park District.

The Board previously approved the sale of the entire Center to Metro Parks, but the Park Board has concluded that for financial reasons they can proceed now with the purchase of only a portion of the Center. This sale should not effect the value of the remaining acreage or ability to market it effectively, but it will relieve the University of a liability issue with respect to the deteriorating and vacated facilities.

Proceeds from the sales will fund two scholarship accounts for agricultural students. Vice President Moser is here and we would be happy to respond to any questions you might have.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 94-135

470 ACRES OF THE BARNEBEY CENTER
FAIRFIELD AND HOCKING COUNTIES, OHIO

Synopsis: Authorization to sell approximately 470 acres of the Barnebey Center, located in Fairfield and Hocking Counties, is proposed.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University owns approximately 1,278 acres of real property located in Madison Township of Fairfield County and Good Hope Township of Hocking County and known as the Barnebey Center; and

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY (contd)

470 ACRES OF THE BARNEBEY CENTER
FAIRFIELD AND HOCKING COUNTIES, OHIO (contd)

WHEREAS the School of Natural Resources and College of Agriculture have determined that this property no longer is needed for, and cannot be operated economically in support of, the educational and research programs of the School; and

WHEREAS the Columbus and Franklin County Metropolitan Park District has offered to purchase approximately 470 acres of this property, including timber and mineral rights, for $500,000, and the value of this portion of the property, based on the average of two appraisals, is approximately $535,100, and

WHEREAS the net proceeds from the sale of this property shall be used to establish two Endowment accounts, The Barnebey Family Scholarship Fund and The Annabelle Hoge Scholarship Fund, for undergraduate and graduate scholarships for students in the School of Natural Resources; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that this sale is in the best interest of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in the name of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, to sell all of the University's right, title, and interest in this 470 acre portion of the Barnebey Center property, including all timber and mineral rights, to the Columbus and Franklin County Metropolitan Park District for no less than $500,000.00, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to now call on Provost Richard Sisson, Dr. Ed Ray, and Mr. Bill Shkurti to present a resolution that is found in your agenda book.

Provost Sisson:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I would like to take just a moment to review the objectives that we have had with respect to the development of the budget this year. You will recall that on July 9, 1993, the Board approved two overriding objectives for the 1994-95 current funds budget. These are: to allocate resources consistent with the priorities of the academic planning process in order to improve the quality of our institution; and to establish the foundation that would enable us to achieve financial equilibrium by the end of Fiscal Year 1995, by balancing the FY '94 and FY '95 budgets, focusing on academic priorities, reducing multi-year spending plans, and streamlining our bureaucracy.

Provost Sisson: (contd)

Let me just say something about the academic priorities. The following areas have been identified through academic planning as those areas where additional resources should be focused for maximum benefit to our institution and competitive compensation for participants in our community: academic enrichment, computers -- critical, diversity -- critical, our research infrastructure, scholarships and other student services, and deferred maintenance. The financial equilibrium is critical also to the long-term stability and quality of our institution. I'd like to call on my colleague Bill Shkurti to elaborate in that regard.

Mr. Shkurti:

Thank you, Dr. Sisson. One of the things the Board has encouraged us to do consistently is think ahead, instead of lurching from one financial crisis to another. So the spirit behind this move toward financial equilibrium is to set a longer term financial goal for the University. This is detailed on page 4 of your handout. I won't go over all the details, but rather highlight what we are trying to do in this budget, which we really started last year. First, we want to define what financial equilibrium is -- which is to, overall, have our income and revenues in balance over the long run. This is not a guarantee. It doesn't happen by itself. The conditions that help us get there -- including the recruitment and retention of qualified students -- and then how this particular budget furthers the goal of financial equilibrium, which we hope to reach in fiscal year 1996, a year from now.

The other thing that I would stress is that as desirable as financial equilibrium is, it is not an end in itself. It really is a stable financial environment that promotes not the holding on to the status quo, but promotes constructive change, which is what we have been talking about this morning. So I think that gives us a sense of what we hope financially to accomplish in this budget. I will now turn to Dr. Ray who will talk about the academic priorities in the budget.

Dr. Ed Ray:

Thank you. To repeat a point made earlier, as part of the discussion about planning the targeting of University resources for longer than an annual period, but over a longer period of time as part of the planning process last year we settled on a number of priorities. Rather than simply repeat those and assert that, in fact, resources will be brought to bear on those areas of focus, let me match up some numbers for you.

We expect that in the overall budget we are looking at for Fiscal '95, that expenses will increase approximately 2.9 percent, compared with a cost of living increase of about 3 percent. So basically, in real terms, we have the same real resources to manage for the next year that we had this past year. Nonetheless, one of our chief priorities was to have competitive compensation packages. And so within this overall increase in expenditures of 2.9 percent, we have targeted for merit compensation increase purposes an amount equal to 4 percent.

We also indicated, last academic year, that we wanted to develop academic enrichment pools so that we could invest resources in new -- and to expand on existing -- areas of excellence in the academic enterprise. As part of the package that will be brought forward to you we anticipate putting $2.5 million in new annual rate in cash into multi-year commitments. Those multi-year commitments include:

$1 million in cash and annual rate to be invested in specific academic program proposals. We have received proposals from deans, faculty, and chairs and we will be making decisions over the course of the next month about how to target those resources most effectively. We also indicated that, for example, computing and research infrastructure, student scholarships, and diversity were all among the objectives for the University.

Again, let me just point out quickly that $800,000 in annual rate in those multi-year commitments is money to go toward high ability scholarship funds for students on a continuing basis that had not been part of our program before. In addition, we anticipate money for both administrative and academic computing purposes; and on the research support-side, an increase in overall expenditures of 7.8 percent. Again, this is within a budget that will be increasing only at 2.9 percent. With regard to student financial aid, we will be augmenting the monies that we are putting into student financial aid in the amount of 6.7 percent. So, again, I think if we look at the comparison between the areas that we have identified as priorities and where we are putting our money in a differential way, we are putting it where we said it counts the most.

Finally, let me end with deferred maintenance. This was an area in which we said we also need to pay closer attention and put resources. In the facilities and utilities area, we have targeted for an increase of 6.1 percent. So, again, I think that rhetoric and the reality of the resource allocations, in general, that we propose match up fairly well.

Mr. Skestos:

Are there any questions or any discussion?

1994-95 CURRENT FUNDS BUDGET GUIDELINES

Resolution No. 94-136

Synopsis: The budget guidelines for fiscal year 1994-95 are being submitted for adoption.

WHEREAS the levels of resources have been identified for the second year of the 1993-95 biennium; and

WHEREAS appropriate planning and consultation within the University has been accomplished; and
WHEREAS the President is now prepared to present his 1994-95 Budget guideline recommendations:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the guidelines for the University's Current Funds Budget for fiscal year 1994-95, be developed from the accompanying text and tables; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the compensation package for fiscal year 1994-95 as presented in the accompanying documents be implemented by the President for faculty, staff and students; and

1994-95 CURRENT FUNDS BUDGET GUIDELINES (contd)

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That tuition and fees be increased for all students beginning Autumn Quarter 1994 as specified in the accompanying guidelines incorporated in this resolution which is in compliance with current legislation; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary be instructed to incorporate all supporting documents into the minutes of this meeting, and to file these materials with the official records of this University.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

(See Appendix XLIII for background information, page 943.)

Mr. Skestos:

I would like to call on Mr. Shkurti to present the funding for the next development campaign.

Mr. Shkurti:

This was discussed in exhausting detail in the Investments and the Fiscal Affairs Committees. So I will just say that this provides a way of funding the next development campaign that protects the general fund; it also keeps faith with the donors that every penny in principal that they donate to the University will be used for the intent of the gift; and it represents the combined efforts of the Offices of Finance and Development in a method that we think funds the next campaign appropriately.

FUNDING THE NEXT DEVELOPMENT CAMPAIGN

Resolution No. 94-137

WHEREAS the University is about to embark on a major campaign; and

WHEREAS the University needs to invest in the resources to make such a campaign successful; and

WHEREAS General Fund resources are limited and additional reallocations in academic units must be avoided:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That

1. The University be permitted to charge restricted and unrestricted development accounts received after July 1, 1994, an administrative charge of up to one percent of the value of the gift for the duration of the campaign as described in the attached text, provided that such charge does not reduce the principle of the gift.
2. The University may provide additional start up support for the campaign from unrestricted gift money as appropriate.

FUNDING THE NEXT DEVELOPMENT CAMPAIGN (contd)

3. The Vice President for Finance and the Vice President for Development report annually to the Investment Committee and Fiscal Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees and to the University Foundation Board on the acquisition and expenditure of administrative funds.
4. This resolution shall expire at the end of the campaign (December 31, 2000) unless specifically re-authorized by the Board of Trustees; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary be instructed to incorporate all supporting documents into the minutes of this meeting, and to file these materials with the official records of this university.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

President Gee:

One item we forgot -- Ed needs to say one thing about compensation.

Dr. Ray:

I think to the extent that everyone is comfortable with the overall budget package that's good, but we wanted to provide at this point, for informational purposes, a little bit more detail about the compensation package that's proposed. As I indicated, we anticipate a merit package of 4 percent available for faculty and staff. The goals that we had for putting this package together were to protect competitive compensation, our competitive compensation position, to maintain purchasing power, specifically to reward performance on a merit basis, to maintain equity within the system, and to do so in a way that is financially sound.

The package that we propose, as I indicated, is a merit based increase that amounts to 4 percent in total for faculty and staff. It is important to appreciate that because it is a merit package that, in fact, individuals will not automatically get 4 percent. There is not an across-the-board character to this raise package. We do talk about a basic merit increase for people who are performing appropriately in their duties as faculty and staff. For individuals in that category we have proposed an increase of $600 for faculty and staff with salaries up to $30,000, with the understanding that beyond $30,000, the base unit of merit increase would be $300, plus 1 percent. Some of the reasoning that went into that you have already gotten some inkling of in our discussion of the changes in the health benefit cost that individuals will be expected to bare. Again, we are talking about fixed dollar amounts below $30,000, and a dollar amount plus a percentage above $30,000. We believe that dealing in dollars rather than percentage terms will work relatively to the advantage of less well paid faculty and staff. This is the equity element of the package that we talked about.

I want to remind the Board that in Fiscal '93, faculty received no salary increase, staff received zero to one and a half percent, and we had no monies for specials and wages. In '94, faculty received a 2 percent merit package, again, many individuals did not get raises last year; one and a half to two percent for staff; and a 2 percent specials increase.

May 6, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

In this regard -- and in response to the observation that Frank Chloupek made, that I think is a compelling one -- we need to stay competitive in our ability to attract and maintain high quality, high ability graduate students in this budget, we propose a 3 percent increase in specials and wages. So that's part of the compensation package that we are looking at. I thank you for your time.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, Dr. Ray.

June 4, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

The Chairman, Mr. Kessler, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on June 3, 1994, at 11:00 a.m. He requested the Secretary to call the roll.

Present: John W. Kessler, Chairman, Milton A. Wolf, Leslie H. Wexner, Alex Shumate, Theodore S. Celeste, Michael F. Colley, George A. Skestos, David L. Brennan, Amira N. Ailabouni, and Thomas C. Smith.

INTRODUCTION OF NEW STUDENT TRUSTEE

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to welcome our new student trustee, Thomas C. Smith, to the Board. Mr. Smith is from Akron, Ohio, and has just completed his first year of law school here. He received his B.A. degree from the University of Akron, where he also served as the student body president and as a student trustee. Welcome, Tom.

--0--

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

This is, of course, Mr. Kessler's first meeting as Chair of this Board and I am absolutely delighted with Jack's chairmanship. As you well know, he served as chair of the selection committee that brought me here and he is now going to have to live with the results of that -- I'd like to point out.

I'd also like to welcome Tom Smith to his first meeting as a member of the Board. As some of you know, Tom served as a member of the Board of the University of Akron when he was an undergraduate student, so he brings with him quite a bit of experience. Of course, Tom, we are much more fun than our friends up the road.

Today is the last day of classes for Spring Quarter. For our more than 5,000 graduates, there are mixed feelings about the end of their Ohio State days. But, for the most part, students are looking forward to the summer months. And so are the faculty -- and, certainly I must note, the president.

I want to say how grateful we are to the Governor, the leadership in the General Assembly, and the Ohio Board of Regents, for the capital improvements appropriation we received. Their support for our academic priorities will enable us to make great progress in meeting pressing academic facility needs, including support for the rehabilitation of McPherson Chemistry Laboratory and help with the new Fisher College of Business complex. Public-private partnerships, exemplified in the Fisher College of Business and the arena project, are vital to providing the types of facilities required for the next century.

I am just recovering from my evening with 75,000 of my closest friends -- and 45 amplified speakers -- at the stadium performance of Pink Floyd. If you missed it -- and I note that most of you did -- you missed the emotional experience of hearing 75,000 people singing "We don't need no education." Which, of course, proves that they do.

President Gee: (contd)

Our athletic season ended on a very positive note when the baseball team won the Big Ten Championship. And we honored nearly 200 Scholar-Athletes whose grade average of 3.0 or higher qualified them for this distinction. Fifty-two of them were also named Academic All Big Ten.

During Disability Awareness Week, I had the opportunity to experience the challenges and barriers of attending a class without benefit of sight. Maurice Madry, president of Students for Disability Awareness, blindfolded me and escorted me across campus to his class in Hagerty Hall. If you think that the dogs and bicycles on the Oval are frightening when you can see them coming, imagine my terror when I did not know where they were! Wheelchair races and other events were held to heighten the awareness on campus of the needs of this special group of students.

I stayed overnight in Baker Residence Hall this month, and can report first-hand that our fire evacuation procedures are well executed. The 1:30 a.m. fire drill found our students on the sidewalk in various costumes, half asleep, while I can report that I was still going strong, visiting with residents.

As the year draws to a close, I cannot say enough about the fine job that our residence and dining halls staff members do. They create a very positive living environment and learning experiences for our students.

The university presented the Everett Reese Medal -- the highest award we give to recognize exceptional private philanthropy -- posthumously to Mel Schottenstein. Lenore Green Schottenstein accepted the award recognizing Mel's enthusiasm for and loyalty to this university. He was a wonderful man, and someone who was vital to the life of this community.

You have on your agenda the appointment of Dr. Kermit Hall as Dean of the College of Humanities. Professor Hall is a very distinguished scholar in the history of law and a proven administrator. We look forward to welcoming him to campus.

I am delighted to share the news that Professor of Chemistry James Cowan was chosen this month as one of 16 scientists in the nation to win the Camille Dreyfus Teacher-Scholar Award. The honor included a $60,000 award, $5,000 of which is applied to the department for undergraduate education. This most recent honor follows his winning a National Young Investigator Award and a Sloan Fellowship. He surely is one of our very, very bright young stars.

Bruce Nauman -- and if you haven't seen some of the information on Bruce Nauman, a phenomenal artist -- accepted the 1994 Wexner Prize in May, bringing further honor to the university and the Wexner Center. On receiving the award, the artist spoke interestingly enough about the role of teachers. He said that they provide support and permission. I thought this was a particularly apt definition of teaching: to support students in their intellectual exploration and to give them permission to pursue their ideas. I am certain that the students who met with Bruce Nauman that day found him to be a very effective teacher. I did for one!

In this season of graduations, I want to acknowledge a very special milestone in our Young Scholars Program. This month, our first class of Ohio State Young Scholars, inducted six years ago, is graduating from high school. While I don't have all of the statistics, I can give you an indication of the success of the program by reporting on the Cleveland class. Twenty Cleveland Young Scholars are graduating and going on to college, 17 of them to Ohio State. Eight Cleveland Young Scholars are graduating with a grade average over a 3.5. Three are at the top of their class, and at Cleveland East High School, the top four graduating seniors are all Ohio State Young Scholars. In May, this group passed the torch to 20 sixth graders who, in the year 2000, will come to Ohio State. I certainly congratulate all involved in this success. That is a remarkable achievement.

Mr. Chairman, that concludes my report.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to call on Provost Sisson for an update on the restructuring program.

Provost Sisson:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman, I will be brief. I have provided updates on actions that are being recommended for the Board today. I think that it is fair to say that, this your first meeting as Chair of the Board, the Board will have the opportunity to act on a proposal which will involve the most far reaching reorganization of The Ohio State University in the last quarter century. We have just begun.

The proposals that you have before you have undergone thorough review, full review and consultation from the department-level through the college-level, to the Office of Academic Affairs, to the Council on Academic Affairs, the Standing Committee of the University Senate, the Oversight Committee on Restructuring, and an Ad-Hoc Committee established by the Steering Committee of the Senate, to provide a general overview of the direction of the University with respect to restructuring. Each of these proposals has received the endorsement, after full discussion in the University Senate, and if when adopted, will enable us to move forward in very productive ways. There is also a recommendation with respect to the reorganization of the Office of Academic Affairs and the relationship between the colleges and deans, which are of particular importance.

In the next phase of our restructuring efforts, we will be continuing to review proposals for reorganization of administrative units. We will also be examining programs within colleges and between our colleges. We shall also turn more attention, and I will certainly turn more attention, to restructuring in our academic support units. One example being, the reorganization of our information support structure at the University.

I am very pleased to report these things to you and together with my colleagues on either side of me here, I am gratified at what we have been able to accomplish and bring before you for your consideration today. I would like at this time to call on Professor York to say anything that he has to add to that and then to Professor Allen.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Dr. Tom York:

Thank you, Dick. As Chair of the Steering Committee of the University Senate, I simply want to state the obvious -- this has been an exceptional year, but it has been a very successful year. With your approval today of the changes in the structure of three colleges, this is the first phase in the complete reorganization and restructuring of the University. It has been accomplished in an exceptional manner.

I think that the process that has evolved has proven to be very functional and the product is exceptional. Not only are we in the process of restructuring the University, but I think that there is a new relationship that is developing between the faculty and the administration in carrying on the business of the University. So at this point in time, I think that we are well started on the process of moving toward what I like to call, "a greater Ohio State."

Provost Sisson:

Harry, do you want to say anything?

Dr. Harry Allen:

Thank you, Dick. The one thing that I would like to add is that when we began this process less than a year ago, there weren't very many role models that we could look at. Very few universities have seriously undertaken a major restructuring/reorganization of its academic and administrative agencies successfully. One university -- I won't mention any names -- spent a year and a half restructuring and ended up doing away with a department of fifteen people. That was the end product.

So while we may not have moved dramatically, we've moved and I think that is the important issue to make of it. I think we are in the process of building the expertise we need in order to manage change, in order to move toward new structures, and then to finance them without disrupting the entire University and the whole budgetary process. I believe within time if we continue to nurture this, we will have a much better and a much more distinguished University to live in and work in.

Provost Sisson:

Mr. Chairman, that's our report.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Dick, Tom, and Harry, for your good work and the update, we appreciate it.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

Mr. Kessler:

In the past, we had talked about bringing various deans before the Board to talk about how their college is doing, how they are ranked, and some of their strengths and weaknesses. We have selected Nancy Zimpher, Dean of the College of Education as our first speaker. Welcome, Nancy.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF EDUCATION (contd)

Mr. Kessler: (contd)

Dr. Nancy Zimpher:

Thank you very much, Mr. Chair, I am delighted to be here. I have tried to think about this opportunity with my colleagues in the College of Education, not as a moment of bravado -- although that would be fun and would make me feel a lot better -- but frankly to try to measure up to what I think the Chair's charge was. That is for the colleges to report periodically, trying to establish a set of benchmarks or trendlines relative to our status, not only within the University, but comparatively with other colleges of education nationally.

That required that I look up the definition of a benchmark. There was some discussion about whether benchmark is the contemporary term or if some other term has supplanted it. I found no other term that quite affected your charge as benchmarking did.

In the document you have before you -- if you would turn immediately to the first page behind the cover sheet -- there is rather an elaborate rendering of what benchmarking is. It is too complex a sentence for me, but I think I get the point. We need to be more conscious of our relative standing to other comparable colleges in other comparable institutions relative to what we are about, what kind of product we are producing, the nature and quality of our programs, not only our instructional programs, but our research programs, and how we might learn from other institutions how to do better. So we selected for you a series of variables that would hopefully shed some light on us, your College of Education.

Let me say at the outset, by way of introduction, I'm typically in a position of speaking to our own restructuring plan, which is a more elegant document than you have before you today. I set that aside because it talks a lot about process and I think that we have had a year of that, and now I should sort of cut to the chase.

I want you to envision, however, the relative condition of teacher education to other professional colleges in the academy. There are 30 veterinary schools in the United States, about 125 medical schools, about 187 law schools, and 1,367 schools of education. Almost every institution has one, and historically institutions have had one as sort of a cost efficient economy of scale. This is a good place to admit a lot of people and to ensure a lot of people a sort of hip-pocket career that they can exercise should they not have some other more productive alternative. It has occasioned a proliferation of programs in the country that, frankly, causes high profile prestigious research-oriented schools of education some difficulty.

Because we have to make a very clear distinction about what we can do and how we can effect educational practice that differs from 1,300 other schools of education in the country; 50 of whom are in the State of Ohio. One way to form a trendline and differentiate excellence is to look at the number of those 1,300 institutions that are nationally accredited -- only 500 are. In the State of Ohio amongst 50 schools of education, only 19 are nationally accredited. It is a distribution of our resources that is probably unnecessary, and it over supplies the market for educational practice at a time when we need to be more efficient. So not only is our College of Education very conscious of what sets it apart from the run-of-the-mill, less prestigious, less research-oriented schools of education, but also how we, as a premiere school of education, can influence practice across the country and across the profession.

Having said that, I would like very quickly to move through a series of trendlines. As other colleges I am sure will tell you, we don't have the kind of national database that we ought to have. We are getting a lot better at data analysis at Ohio State -- the College of Education relative to other colleges on campus -- but nationally, it's going to be a real challenge for you to begin to see with us in the college some real purposeful trendlines.

We tried to answer for you, beginning with page 3, a series of questions. The first of which is, "What is a professional college of education?" I want to assure you on the subsequent pages that the College of Education has worked diligently to create a new vision for itself. It clearly sees its role as provoking learning across a number of educational settings -- of course many of which are formal -- elementary, secondary, and post-secondary educational settings.

We also, as the University has done, have labored through a set of core values -- which are displayed on page 6 -- which tell you that we are a research college, that the basis of our existence has to do with our capacity to inquire about our own practice, and to provide to the educational enterprise data about school practice and educational practice that will ultimately make a difference. We are going to continue to prepare teachers and see teachers as the mainstay of what professional schools of education do, but now we see in our society that teachers are: active in Head Start and adult education; university professors are teachers who come from a lineage of that kind of educational practice; gerontologists; and a number of people who are interested in the educational enterprise all come under our umbrella.

We are committed to diversity and equity in our society as it is played out, so obviously, in the context of public education. This is where it is most noticeable that the demography of this society is changing and that we as an educational enterprise have to meet the needs of a very special and challenged demography. We want to do it collaboratively -- as schools of medicine or colleges of medicine work with hospitals and doctors -- we consider our partners to be schools, to be universities. We are very interested in our own production and our own professional development. We do have to model good teaching, and we have to model good educational practice.

I want to say a little bit about our students and who we serve -- now turning to page 7. I'd like to just have you look at a couple of charts that appear subsequently on pages 8 and 9. We compose 6 percent of the undergraduate enrollment at Ohio State and 25 percent of all graduate students at Ohio State. On page 9, you may find it interesting that of all ethnic students enrolled in the Graduate School, 27 percent are in our college. Of all women enrolled in graduate education, 37 percent are in our college, and 7 percent of the total international population.

Turning to page 10, I want to speak particularly to our undergraduate population. Even though the College of Education will be moving, as it has already begun, to the preparation of teachers at the master's level, the demography that characterizes people who go into teaching is an important attribute of our work. In our college, those people now preparing to be teachers reflect a cultural diversity of exactly 11.7 percent. For the United States, the percentage of those people who choose to go into teaching as a career is only 8 percent.

So we are nothing to brag about, but we are certainly ahead of the wave in terms of attracting a more diverse cohort into teaching. Because for all teachers across all elementary and secondary schools, the demographic diversity of teachers is still only at 8 percent. You know as well as I do, that the changing demography of our urban centers will, by the year 2000, reflect a majority of ethnic diversity. We simply have to redistribute and diversify the teaching force to meet that varied diverse population.

Gender is another interesting issue. Across the United States, in elementary and secondary schools, 70 percent of all teachers are female. In elementary education, 90 percent of all perspective candidates are female, and even in secondary education, 75 percent of all the candidates are female. So the fact that we have 34 percent male enrollment in our teacher education programs, again, reflects the kind of diversity we are attempting to achieve. The best example would be placing more and more men in the elementary school context to serve children who often grow up without the presence of a male figure.

I want you to briefly look at page 11. This shows a relatively stable enrollment profile. For those of you who follow the shift of the College of Education from initial preparation at the baccalaureate level to initial preparation at the master's level, I want to assure you that our student enrollment will stay essentially the same, even by reducing some of our enrollment. Because our master's instruction is, if you will, worth more in the state subsidy model. So we have typically graduated about 650 teachers at the undergraduate level; in the next 2 to 3 years, we will be totally shifted to the master's level. We'll graduate 450 master students, but they will be worth more -- not only in what they are able to do and how they are able to effect school change, but in what they will bring us in their subsidy value.

On page 12, I just want to note that people are still choosing education as a career. Actually we have been in a slump nationally, but we are turning that around. Each year we do a study of why freshmen come to college. They are still coming to college to make money, but altruism is on a fast gain. As altruism increases, so does the interest in our programs.

On page 13, I simply want to say if I were judging what would be the benchmarks for whether or not we are making an impact, I would propose there are several. Reputationally your College of Education is essentially still number 1. For three decades we have been ranked number 1, number 2, and number 3; second only to Stanford and Harvard, which by my reasoning makes us the top ranked public school of education in the country. The most recent survey, 2 years ago, had us tied with Michigan State -- that is not bad company. Another reputational measure is of our research and scholarly productivity. Across all institutions nationally, we have been ranked number 3, second to our colleagues at Wisconsin and Illinois, in terms of our research productivity and the prestige of our programs.

Dr. Zimpher: (contd)

On page 15, we have alumni all over the country and all over the world. We have 60,000 living alumni -- I don't know why we always add the word living, but it is important to someone -- and they are in every possible field of education. We have chief state school officers; we have university presidents; proudly we have many, many elementary and secondary teachers; and we prepare the highest number of Ph.D.'s who go on to be education professors. I am not sure that the size is any indication of quality, but our influence is pervasive.

If I could just skip to page 18 -- which I know you would applaud any movement here -- I want you to know, too, that we are influencing school practice. We are engaged in a new concept called the Professional Development School. If in your head you could hear that as "teaching schools," that's what we are about. You know that we have a teaching hospital. In Franklin County -- which we consider our experimental group -- we now have a host of professional development schools. These are where we are actually operating in collaboration with those school buildings and school systems not only to improve public education, but to improve the quality of teachers prepared there.

Less you think we would stop at Franklin County, which I only emphasize is our experimental group, on page 19 -- if you can decipher the little dots -- there are thirty-two of them all over the globe. We are on every continent save Antarctica, and I suppose we will go there, too. We are on research projects, on professional development projects, establishing teacher education programs, policy bureaus, and research centers. We are very international.

We have targeted projects that we hope will make a difference. We are recruiting more minorities earlier in the pipeline, grades 6, 7, and 8 in order to bring them through a college degree and our master's program, and we have the scholarships to sustain them. We are working to transform the quality of teaching in urban settings. In my opinion, that's precisely where our interests ought to lie, on literacy, technology, and changing the clinical context of how one learns to teach.

As a restructured college, on pages 20 and 21, you are going to hear a lot about streamlining in the College of Education -- from five departments to three, from 30 distinct programs, down to 10, that's reflected in a matrix organization on page 21. I don't think there are too many colleges in the United States that are trying to create a matrix organization. We are trying to do just that.

On page 22, we match our annual general funds budget with external monies. I think that we will exceed it in the near future so that we have more resources generated from our external entrepreneurship, as we do from general funds budgets. We are efficient in cost effectiveness, which is shown on page 23. For instance, we advise 20 students, to the University's average of six; and we generate $71,000 per faculty member on sponsored research, to the University norm of $35,000. And for every dollar that you invest in us, we will give you back 0.73 cents.

We are a diverse faculty, that is shown on page 24. Forty percent of our faculty are women. In most colleges of education that is still only at 30 percent. In terms of our ethnic diversity in the United States, most colleges of education have less than 7 percent diversity, we have 12 percent.

Dr. Zimpher: (contd)

In summary, in a cast of thousands of schools of education, I think we are still number one. We are focused, we have an agenda, we are attempting to streamline our operation, we are cost efficient, and I think that we are quite creative and influential in the world of practice, but we are not satisfied. These benchmark exercises, Mr. Chair, have helped me reflect on that greatly and I hope it has helped you. Thank you.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you very much, Nancy, very well done. Are there any questions?

(A copy of the charts mentioned above are on file in the Office of the Board of Trustees.)

REPORT ON THE UNIVERSITY AREA IMPROVEMENT TASKFORCE

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to call on Jim Nichols to report on the University Area Improvement Taskforce.

Mr. Jim Nichols:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Chris Baker is a student intern in my office and will be operating the overhead. Let me outline just briefly what we are talking about when we talk about the University's districts. We are dealing with essentially almost 3 square miles in the immediate neighborhood surrounding the campus, which amounts to one and a half percent of the city's land area, the City of Columbus, and has 7 percent of its population.

Of the 10 most dense census tracts that are in the City of Columbus, five of them are in the neighborhood surrounding the campus. It's clearly the most multi-cultural neighborhood, has over 18,000 housing units, and it involves substantial numbers of visitors to the campus as you know. One of the statistics that I found interesting is that there is more vehicle traffic at Lane and High, than there is at Broad and High. A lot of activity in the area.

We started the effort when Dr. Gee asked some of us to give him our thoughts. We did this and then the University Area Improvement Task Force was named in late January. That consisted of the representatives from the groups you see up there, included from the Board was George Skestos, and in terms of the University Administration, Janet Pichette and David Williams also served as part of the group. We had active participation from the City of Columbus and from the various student groups, as well as the neighborhood groups in the area.

The mission statement was relatively simple, we did not spend a lot of time on it. Basically it's just to improve and revitalize the neighborhoods surrounding the campus -- very simple. The methodology that we used for the process was: 1) to gather information -- much of which was already available in the public domain; 2) we had focus group sessions; 3) we visited other urban campuses in similar -- not the same -- situations; and 4) we held some public forums. I would like to comment just briefly on each of those.

REPORT ON THE UNIVERSITY AREA IMPROVEMENT TASKFORCE (contd)

First of all, with regards to demographic information, I think there is probably some statistical information that will demonstrate some decline in the student population, as well as other populations in the particular neighborhoods. In an eight year period of time, from the fall of 1985 up until last fall of 1993, the students living in the immediate off-campus area -- in other words, the walking distance area -- has dropped from 13,600 to 11,500. At the same time, the population on campus that live in the residence halls dropped from 12,700 to 9,300, much of which was planned in terms of quality of life on the campus.

The overall result of that though is that there are now about 5,000 students that use to live close to the campus -- that could avail themselves of the various benefits of the campus -- that no longer live in the area, which is 10 percent of the Columbus population. Most of the time when I was an undergraduate at Ohio State -- I lived in a nearby campus area -- I benefitted greatly by having immediate access to library facilities, laboratories, social events, athletic events, and -- which may surprise some of you -- cultural events on some occasions.

There were five focus group sessions which were held on Saturdays -- 4 hours of intensive sessions. There were facilitators from our faculty who volunteered their time and they basically talked about the vision for the area, how to get from where we are today to that vision, and then finally what the obstacles were along the way.

The campuses we visited are listed there and none of them are exactly similar to Ohio State. On every one of those campuses we learned a considerable amount about not only what to do right, but what not to do. We also had the two public forums, one on campus at the Ohio Union and one off-campus at Indianola Presbyterian Church. They were well attended. Each lasted more than 2 hours and were, again, what I would term intensive sessions.

I want to summarize the recommendations in the Task Force Report, which runs some 100 pages, that you have in front of you and lists our 13 individual suggestions. The appendices involve literally hundreds of specific suggestions on improvements. I brought these down in the news conference yesterday to a summary of 4, which I thought we could cover very quickly.

One is to review in some detail -- and this process has already started -- the various public and social services that are available to residents in the area. There are not only students, but also non-students that are in the area. That obviously includes issues like a safe environment for the neighborhood in terms of security, but it also deals with others issues which we heard about consistently such as trash, code enforcement, and other social services.

Second, to create a non-profit development/redevelopment improvement corporation -- whatever title you would like to put on it. It would have a broad-based board of directors, it would have an adequate staff, and it would be able to do things not only in the brick and mortar area, but also on the social side.

Third, we felt that there was a need for clear comprehensive planning. We did not want to be in a situation where we recommend another plan. You will see in the report various action items, but there is going to be a need -- as you attack an issue as large as this one -- to do planning on a more comprehensive basis and also on a collaborative basis with the City of Columbus, and the community residents.

REPORT ON THE UNIVERSITY AREA IMPROVEMENT TASKFORCE (contd)

Finally, in terms of the summary of the recommendations, that the University and the City would implement some early initiatives. Because we do need to demonstrate commitment, we do need to establish some momentum, and to build a base. We have already started -- as President Gee mentioned at the news conference yesterday and as you have seen some of the media releases -- that process as we have been moving through that. Janet, David, President Gee, some others, and I have been meeting now for several weeks to cover those areas.

Finally let me say that -- and I do mean it literally -- in the report that we are talking about there are hundreds of specific suggestions, many of which we think can be implemented. We have started on a number of things. We are going to be working over the summer, and as we heard at everyplace we visited, "gear for the long haul." It's going to take a while to make a major turnaround.

On a positive note, I want to say to you that if there is one thing that we learned from the visits to the other campuses, it's that no matter what you have heard about the University area, there is a long way down yet to go. We visited, in many cases, five good examples of how far down you can go. We still have 11,500 students living in the near campus area. Those campuses basically had zero students, and there weren't too many non-students living there either, because of the depth to which it had dropped.

I would be glad to take any questions.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Mr. Nichols. Are there any questions?

President Gee:

I might just note, that I would maybe put that latter comment a bit more positively. That is we are in a position to move forward from a very strong base, Jim. How does that sound?

Mr. Kessler:

Yes, David --

Mr. Brennan:

There is legislation pending -- if it hasn't been already passed -- providing for a development corporation in a business district. Is this what you are referring to in the entity that you are suggesting be formed?

REPORT ON THE UNIVERSITY AREA IMPROVEMENT TASKFORCE (contd)

Mr. Nichols:

Yes. There are a couple of examples, at least locally, where this has already been used.

Mr. Brennan:

I didn't think that that legislation had passed yet. It has taxing power where the residents can be assessed a tax to provide funding for local services.

Mr. Nichols:

I believe that the examples that I refer to do not have taxing power, but they have all other powers.

Mr. Brennan:

And the other powers that you refer to are for a board of directors -- could you contemplate that kind of organization? Would you contemplate having an organization seek revenues through taxation of the area it involved?

Mr. Nichols:

Clearly that has been a suggestion that has cropped up in several places and is one that is going to be explored, and I think very well might be a possibility.

Mr. Brennan:

What are the other five universities doing about their problem?

Mr. Nichols:

The short answer is that given that they had a large number of structures that were vacant, they made a great emphasis in terms of purchasing property and redeveloping it or at least maintaining it in some fashion. We do not have quite the extent of that activity that will be necessary, but there certainly will be some of that that will be required.

Mr. Brennan:

Have any of them addressed this the way you are trying to address it, Jim?

Mr. Nichols:

I would say no. There are certainly some similarities. Let me give you one good example, Mr. Brennan. Almost all of them started by jumping into the middle of the neighborhoods and starting some activity. Later they learned that you need to bring in the local municipality which will be involved and also, in particular, involve the local residents. Up front we included the community organizations and the residents in the process. They were an active part of the process and, I think, all of my colleagues here will certainly agree to that, and they will continue as a part of the process.

REPORT ON THE UNIVERSITY AREA IMPROVEMENT TASKFORCE (contd)

Mr. Brennan:

Thank you, Jim.

Mr. Smith:

I heard you talk a lot about the visits to other campuses, which were undoubtedly tremendously helpful. But what are the unique problems of this University? How would your recommendations go about solving them? I mean, after all, we are the largest institution in the State and we obviously have some problems that are very unique to Ohio State.

Mr. Nichols:

You actually hit on probably the single most unique item, as it compares to other schools, and that is our size. We look at the geographical areas that the other institutions had to deal with, they are far smaller, the number of individuals involved both students and non-students were far smaller, and the number of dwelling units were far smaller. The second difference is that although density was high at all the campuses, I am not sure that any of them had quite as many -- what is affectionately referred to as -- people packers, as we have in the off-campus area.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Jim.

REPORT ON RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Mr. Celeste:

In the spirit of moving things along and keeping it brief, I would like to just say that you all have your reports at your place. I will note a couple of highlights: awards for the year are up to about $129 million, or 1.7 percent above the July to April time period last year, and a summary is in the first section. Expenditures are ahead of last year by 9.7 percent. Some of the projects are highlighted in Tab 3 and a complete list of new awards received in April is presented in Tab 4.

One other thing that I would like to mention is that I did visit with Tom Taylor, who was recently elected to the National Academy of Sciences. I found myself put in my place when he was showing me 228 million-year old fossils. I felt my relevant significance changed a little bit.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 94-140

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for April 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS (contd)

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of April 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

The Hospitals Board, at its May 26 meeting, continued the discussions of how it can remain financially viable in a medical economy where 40 percent to 50 percent shrinkage of staffed beds is forecast for academic medical centers.

The Board revised its strategic plan to provide for adequate reserve to meet indebtedness in a less favorable future environment. Current financial operations remain sound; delayed government payment for prior years services has improved liquidity.

The budget was approved. It calls for a relatively modest (2 percent) increase in room rate, in order to continue moving toward a more cost competitive position. Board members expressed views that upgrading management cost information technology not be sacrificed.

The Board received, in Executive Session, opinions from two special counsels appointed by the Attorney General on legal feasibility to form joint ventures or other corporate vehicles to participate in cost cutting opportunities.

The Nominations Committee report was approved for the year, May 1994 through April 1995. Mr. Donald Shackelford and Mr. William Bennett were re-elected as Chairperson and Vice Chairperson, respectively. In addition, a recommendation for reappointment of Board members Judy Barker, William Bennett, Donald Day, and David Lauer was unanimously endorsed. That completes my report.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Mr. Skestos. Dr. Tzagournis, would you give us an indication of the status of where we stand on the radiation at the Hospitals that was reported in the media recently?

Dr. Manual Tzagournis:

Mr. Chairman, I would be happy to give you an update. We have approximately 2,500 people on campus working with radioisotopes of one kind or another, and about 600 different laboratories.

The inspection that was done most recently identified about 35 violations of the rules and regulations that they utilize in site inspections. About half of those were already identified by us and these are principally in problems of inventory or in problems of late reports. Virtually all of them are in the process of being corrected or have been corrected, and the final report of the NRC has not yet been given to us.

Mr. Kessler:

Are there any questions for Dr. Tzagournis? Thank you, Manny.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

The Educational Affairs Committee met this morning and Ed Ray spoke to us about several recommended changes in the early retirement program -- increasing the cap and extending the period from April 30, to June 30, 1994. We then heard from Provost Sisson in connection with eight different resolutions and I would now like to call upon him to present those resolutions.

Provost Richard Sisson:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The first resolution has to do with Administrative Restructuring, primarily devoted to the Office of Academic Affairs. I would like to call your attention to two aspects of it: 1) new relationships among the colleges; and 2) the creation of new reporting relationships in the Health Sciences.

I recommend that all of these resolutions be considered as a bundle, Mr. Chairman:

ADMINISTRATIVE RESTRUCTURING

Resolution No. 94-141

WHEREAS reduction in the number of units reporting to the Office of Academic Affairs and delegation of the authority of the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost will enhance the quality of both academic leadership and management:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the position of Vice President for Health Sciences be established; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the positions of Executive Dean for the Colleges of the Arts and Sciences and Executive Dean for the Professional Colleges be established; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the three associate provost positions in the Office of Academic Affairs be retitled vice provost positions to reflect the assignment of line responsibilities to these positions. The titles will be Vice Provost for Academic Program Support, Vice Provost for Academic Policy, Personnel, and Administration, and Vice Provost for Academic Program Evaluation and Coordination; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the following changes in reporting relationships be implemented: a) that the Office of Faculty and TA Development, presently in the Center for Instructional Resources which reports to the Office of Academic Affairs, move to the College of Education, b) that the Office of Undergraduate Studies of the Arts and Sciences, ROTC Departments, and University Honors, all of which presently report to the Office of Academic Affairs, report to the Executive Dean for the Arts and Sciences; c) that the Office of International Affairs be abolished and that the Office of International Education and the Area Studies Centers report to a vice provost in the office of Academic Affairs; d) that the Biotechnology Center report to the Vice President for Research instead of the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost; and e) that the Stone Laboratory, which presently reports to the Office of Academic Affairs, report to the Vice President for Agriculture; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the Board of Trustees be hereby authorized and directed to incorporate the changes in the applicable sections of the Bylaws of the Board of Trustees and the Rules of the University Faculty, including the following amendments to Faculty Rule 3335-3-12, Vice president for health services, Faculty Rule 3335-3-28, Organization of the colleges of the arts and sciences, Faculty Rule 3335-3-30, Coordinating dean for arts and sciences, and Faculty Rule 3335-3-301, Dean for undergraduate studies for arts and sciences.

AMENDED RULES

Before making this nomination, the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost shall confer with members of the faculty of the arts and sciences.

(B) The dean for undergraduate studies for arts and sciences shall report to the ~~coordinating~~ EXECUTIVE dean for arts and sciences.

~~(C)~~ The dean for undergraduate studies for arts and sciences shall be a voting member of the coordinating council of deans of the colleges of the arts and sciences (see rule 3335-3-28 of the Administrative Code).

~~(D)~~ (C) The dean for undergraduate studies for arts and sciences shall implement policies of the faculty of the arts and sciences with respect to the following:

- (1) Curricula and requirements for "untagged" baccalaureate programs and development of new and useful programs in this area.
- (2) Basic education requirements for all undergraduate students.
- (3) The retention and further development of curricula assigned specifically for the general education of undergraduate students.
- (4) A general honors program for the arts and sciences.
- (5) Counseling and record services and attendant procedures.
- (6) Coordination of student intercollege transfers involving the arts and sciences.

~~(E)~~ (D) The dean for undergraduate studies for arts and sciences shall be responsible for the fulfillment and certification of the untagged degree requirements in the arts and sciences.

(F) (E) The dean for undergraduate studies for arts and sciences shall, in cooperation with the dean of university college, be responsible for the coordination of university college counseling and curricular development with that of the arts and sciences. Specifically, the dean for undergraduate studies shall keep university college informed of all changes in curricular requirements and other matters pertaining to academic counseling, and in this manner assist in achieving consistency of counseling in the university college with that in the arts and sciences.

~~(G)~~ (F) The dean for undergraduate studies for arts and sciences shall be consulted by the deans of the individual colleges on personnel matters relating to faculty primarily engaged in undergraduate instruction.

~~(H)~~ (G) With the approval of the faculty of the arts and sciences, or its designated representative body and the ~~coordinating~~ EXECUTIVE dean of FOR THE arts and sciences, the dean for undergraduate studies may appoint committees from the faculty of the arts and sciences to work with him/her in the implementation of those policy areas as outlined in paragraph ~~(D)~~ (C) of this rule. Should there be established a curriculum committee of the faculty of the arts and sciences, the dean for undergraduate studies shall serve as its chairperson ex officio.

ADMINISTRATIVE REORGANIZATION OF THE COLLEGES OF AGRICULTURE, ENGINEERING, AND VETERINARY MEDICINE

Resolution No. 94-142

WHEREAS the Provost has called upon the Colleges of The Ohio State University to consider their current administrative organization and suggest any restructuring deemed necessary; and

WHEREAS the Colleges of Agriculture, Engineering, and Veterinary Medicine have developed statements of mission to guide their future development; and

WHEREAS the above mentioned Colleges have considered alternatives and proposed restructuring plans consistent with those priorities which have the approval of the faculty of those Colleges; and

WHEREAS these proposals were developed in consultation with faculty, students, and staff within the Colleges and with appropriate external constituencies; and

WHEREAS the proposed changes have the approval of the Council on Academic Affairs and the University Senate at its May 21, 1994 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees approve the proposal for the administrative reorganization of the Colleges of Agriculture, Engineering, and Veterinary Medicine, effective immediately.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-MANSFIELD
BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Resolution No. 94-143

Synopsis: Authorization to establish a Board of Trustees at the Mansfield Campus is proposed.

WHEREAS the Educational Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees has discussed the establishment of a Board of Trustees at The Ohio State University-Mansfield; and

WHEREAS committee members have directed the Office of Academic Affairs and the Office of Legal Affairs to develop proposed bylaws for such a Board; and

WHEREAS the attached bylaws have been developed in close consultation with the faculty and administration at all four regional campuses:

NOW THEREFORE

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-MANSFIELD
BOARD OF TRUSTEES (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Board of Trustees approve the establishment of The Ohio State University-Mansfield Board of Trustees as described in the following bylaws:

BYLAWS

3335-115-01 COMPOSITION AND ADMINISTRATION OF THE BOARD.

- (A) THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES HEREBY ESTABLISHES A BODY TO BE KNOWN AS THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY - MANSFIELD BOARD OF TRUSTEES ("THE MANSFIELD BOARD").
- (1) THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL BE COMPOSED OF ELEVEN MEMBERS APPOINTED BY THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CONSULTATION WITH THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY.
 - (2) ONE MEMBER OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL BE A MEMBER OF THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES (THE "TRUSTEE MEMBER"). NINE MEMBERS SHALL BE PRIVATE CITIZENS WHO HAVE AN INTEREST IN AND KNOWLEDGE OF HIGHER EDUCATION AND WHO RESIDE WITHIN THE AREA SERVED BY THE INSTITUTION. NO EMPLOYEE OF THE UNIVERSITY AND NO EMPLOYEE OR MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF THE NORTH CENTRAL TECHNICAL COLLEGE SHALL BE ELIGIBLE TO SERVE AS A CITIZEN MEMBER. THE SELECTION PROCESS FOR THE MANSFIELD BOARD MEMBERS SHALL INCORPORATE THE AFFIRMATIVE ACTION POLICIES OF THE UNIVERSITY.
 - (3) ONE MEMBER OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL BE A STUDENT WHO IS CURRENTLY ENROLLED AT THE MANSFIELD REGIONAL CAMPUS. THE STUDENT MEMBER SHALL HAVE NO VOTING POWER ON THE BOARD, SHALL NOT BE CONSIDERED AS A MEMBER OF THE BOARD IN DETERMINING WHETHER A QUORUM IS PRESENT, AND SHALL NOT BE ENTITLED TO ATTEND EXECUTIVE SESSIONS. THE STUDENT MEMBER SHALL SERVE A TERM OF ONE YEAR.
 - (4) INITIAL APPOINTMENTS OF THREE CITIZEN MEMBERS SHALL BE FOR TERMS OF THREE YEARS. THREE CITIZEN MEMBERS SHALL INITIALLY BE APPOINTED FOR TERMS OF TWO YEARS. THREE CITIZEN MEMBERS SHALL INITIALLY BE APPOINTED FOR TERMS OF ONE YEAR. THEREAFTER, CITIZEN MEMBERS SHALL SERVE THREE-YEAR TERMS. NO CITIZEN MEMBER SHALL SERVE MORE THAN THREE CONSECUTIVE FULL TERMS.
 - (5) THE TRUSTEE MEMBER SHALL SERVE A TERM OF THREE YEARS AND MAY BE REAPPOINTED SO LONG AS HE OR SHE REMAINS A MEMBER OF THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES.
 - (6) TERMS OF THE APPOINTED MEMBERS SHALL BEGIN ON JULY 1.
 - (7) MEMBERS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL SERVE WITHOUT COMPENSATION BUT MAY BE REIMBURSED FOR EXPENSES INCURRED IN THE PERFORMANCE OF THEIR DUTIES. MEMBERS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL BE PROVIDED IMMUNITIES OR INDEMNIFICATION AGAINST ANY CLAIMS OR LIABILITIES WHICH MAY ARISE FROM THE PERFORMANCE OF THEIR DUTIES TO THE FULL EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-MANSFIELD

BYLAWS (contd)

- (8) THE DEAN/DIRECTOR OF THE MANSFIELD REGIONAL CAMPUS SHALL ASSIST THE CHAIR OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD IN ESTABLISHING BOARD AGENDAS AND PRIORITIES AND SHALL PROVIDE SUCH STAFF SERVICES AND OTHER ASSISTANCE AS THE BOARD MAY REQUIRE. THE DEAN/DIRECTOR MAY ATTEND ALL MEETINGS OF THE BOARD.
- (9) THE PROVOST OR THE PROVOST'S DESIGNEE, IN COOPERATION WITH THE DEAN/DIRECTOR, SHALL SERVE AS THE LIAISON BETWEEN THE MANSFIELD BOARD AND THE VARIOUS COLLEGES AND DEPARTMENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY, AND MAY ATTEND ALL MEETINGS OF THE BOARD.
- (10) THE CHAIR OF THE FACULTY ASSEMBLY SHALL SERVE AS A RESOURCE PERSON FOR THE MANSFIELD BOARD AND, IN ORDER TO SERVE THAT FUNCTION, MAY ATTEND ALL PUBLIC MEETINGS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD.

3335-115-02 POWERS AND DUTIES.

- (A) THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL ADVISE AND ASSIST THE DEAN/DIRECTOR IN THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE MANSFIELD REGIONAL CAMPUS. SUBJECT TO THE AUTHORITY AND PERIODIC REVIEW OF THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES, THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL:
 - (1) DEVELOP SUPPORT FOR THE MANSFIELD REGIONAL CAMPUS IN ITS SERVICE AREA;
 - (2) ADVISE THE DEAN/DIRECTOR CONCERNING LOCAL EDUCATIONAL NEEDS, AND PERCEPTIONS OF UNIVERSITY PROGRAMS;
 - (3) SERVE AS AN ADVOCATE FOR THE NEEDS OF THE MANSFIELD REGIONAL CAMPUS IN LOCAL AND STATE GOVERNMENT AGENCIES, AND IN THE LEGISLATURE;
 - (4) PARTICIPATE IN THE STRATEGIC PLANNING PROCESS FOR THE REGIONAL CAMPUS;
 - (5) REVIEW AND PROVIDE A RECOMMENDATION WITH RESPECT TO CURRENT FUNDS AND CAPITAL BUDGETS PRIOR TO THEIR SUBMISSION TO THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES BY THE PRESIDENT;
 - (6) COORDINATE WITH THE BOARD OF THE NORTH CENTRAL TECHNICAL COLLEGE IN ALL AREAS OF COMMON INTEREST.
- (B) THE HIRING, EVALUATION, PROMOTION, TENURE STATUS, DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES, AND COMPENSATION OF FACULTY SHALL BE CONDUCTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH ESTABLISHED UNIVERSITY RULES AND THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL HAVE NO JURISDICTION WITH RESPECT TO THESE MATTERS.
- (C) TO ENSURE THAT THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES MEETS ITS GOVERNANCE OBLIGATIONS UNDER OHIO LAW, THE MANSFIELD BOARD WILL BE ACCOUNTABLE, THROUGH THE PRESIDENT, TO THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-MANSFIELD

BYLAWS (contd)

- (1) THE APPOINTMENT OF THE DEAN/DIRECTOR WILL BE APPROVED BY THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN ACCORDANCE WITH RULE 3335-3-291 OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE, FOLLOWING CONSULTATION WITH THE MANSFIELD BOARD.
- (2) RECOMMENDATIONS AND REPORTS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD THAT REQUIRE THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES REVIEW OR ACTION WILL BE COMMUNICATED TO THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES THROUGH THE PRESIDENT.
- (3) THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES WILL CONTINUE TO HOLD THE PRESIDENT RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CONDUCT OF ACADEMIC PROGRAMS AND FOR ENSURING THAT THE REGIONAL CAMPUS IS OPERATED IN A MANNER CONSISTENT WITH UNIVERSITY POLICY, AS WELL AS STATE AND FEDERAL LAW.

3335-115-03 MEETINGS.

- (A) REGULAR MEETINGS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL BE HELD EACH MONTH, OR ON SUCH OTHER SCHEDULE AS MAY BE ESTABLISHED BY THE BOARD, AT TIMES WHICH SHALL BE SET AND PUBLICLY ANNOUNCED BY THE CHAIR.
- (B) SPECIAL MEETINGS MAY BE CALLED AT THE DIRECTION OF THE CHAIR, OR SHALL BE CALLED BY THE CHAIR AT THE REQUEST OF THREE MEMBERS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD, PROVIDED THAT NOTICE TO ALL BOARD MEMBERS SHALL BE GIVEN NOT LESS THAN FIVE DAYS PRIOR TO THE MEETING.
- (C) EXCEPT AS OTHERWISE SPECIFIED IN THESE BYLAWS, ALL MEETINGS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD AND ITS COMMITTEES SHALL BE CONDUCTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE LATEST REVISION OF "ROBERT'S RULES OF ORDER."
- (D) MEETINGS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC, EXCEPT FOR EXECUTIVE SESSIONS CALLED FOR REASONS PERMISSIBLE UNDER OHIO LAW.
- (E) A MAJORITY OF THE CURRENT MEMBERSHIP OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL BE NECESSARY FOR A QUORUM.
- (F) MOTIONS MAY BE PASSED BY A MAJORITY OF THOSE PRESENT.

3335-115-04 VACANCIES AND REMOVAL.

- (A) VACANCIES SHALL BE FILLED BY THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN THE SAME MANNER AND SUBJECT TO THE SAME QUALIFICATIONS AS APPOINTMENTS FOR FULL TERMS.
- (B) MEMBERS OF THE MANSFIELD BOARD SERVE AT THE PLEASURE OF THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES.
- (C) ANY MANSFIELD BOARD MEMBER WHO HAS THREE UNEXCUSED ABSENCES FOR THREE SUCCESSIVE MEETINGS, OR FIVE UNEXCUSED ABSENCES IN ANY CALENDAR YEAR, SHALL BE AUTOMATICALLY REMOVED.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-MANSFIELD

3335-115-05 OFFICERS.

- (A) THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL SELECT A CHAIR, A VICE CHAIR, AND SUCH OTHER OFFICERS AS THE BOARD MAY DEEM ADVISABLE. THE CHAIR AND OTHER OFFICERS SHALL BE ELECTED ANNUALLY BY THE BOARD. NO OFFICER MAY SERVE MORE THAN TWO CONSECUTIVE ONE-YEAR TERMS.
- (B) THE CHAIR SHALL PRESIDE AT ALL MEETINGS OF THE BOARD, SHALL APPOINT MEMBERS OF ANY COMMITTEES CREATED BY THE BOARD, SHALL SERVE AS AN EX-OFFICIO MEMBER OF ALL STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES, SHALL APPROVE THE AGENDA FOR ALL BOARD MEETINGS, AND SHALL MAKE AN ANNUAL REPORT TO THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES AND SUCH OTHER REPORTS AS THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES MAY REQUIRE.
- (C) THE VICE CHAIR SHALL PERFORM THE DUTIES AND EXERCISE THE POWERS OF THE CHAIR DURING THE ABSENCE OF THE CHAIR OR IN THE EVENT OF THE CHAIR'S INABILITY TO ACT.

3335-115-06 COMMITTEES.

- (A) THE MANSFIELD BOARD SHALL ESTABLISH AN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, A FINANCE COMMITTEE, A CAMPUS FACILITIES AND PLANNING COMMITTEE, AND SUCH OTHER COMMITTEES AS IT MAY FROM TIME TO TIME DEEM ADVISABLE.
 - (1) THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE SHALL HAVE THE POWER TO TRANSACT SUCH BUSINESS OF THE BOARD BETWEEN REGULAR MEETINGS OF THE BOARD AS THE BOARD MAY HERINAFTER AUTHORIZE. ALL ACTIONS OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE SHALL BE REPORTED TO THE FULL BOARD AT ITS NEXT REGULAR MEETING.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE BOARD SHALL CONSIST OF: THE CHAIR, WHO WILL SERVE AS CHAIR OF THE COMMITTEE; THE VICE CHAIR; AND THE CHAIRS OF ALL STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE BOARD. ANY STANDING COMMITTEE CHAIR MAY DESIGNATE A MEMBER OF THAT COMMITTEE WHO IS ALSO A BOARD MEMBER TO REPRESENT THE CHAIR AT ANY MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.
 - (2) THE FINANCE COMMITTEE SHALL BE RESPONSIBLE FOR ADVISING THE MANSFIELD BOARD ON CAMPUS FINANCIAL MATTERS.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE SHALL CONSIST OF FOUR BOARD MEMBERS APPOINTED ANNUALLY BY THE CHAIR OF THE BOARD.
 - (3) THE CAMPUS FACILITIES AND PLANNING COMMITTEE SHALL MONITOR THE CONDITION OF THE CAMPUS FACILITIES AND SHALL HAVE THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR LONG-RANGE CAMPUS PLANNING, AND FOR RECOMMENDING ADDITIONS, ALTERATIONS, REPAIR, AND MAINTENANCE.

BYLAWS (contd)

THE COMMITTEE SHALL CONSIST OF FOUR MANSFIELD BOARD MEMBERS, APPOINTED ANNUALLY BY THE CHAIR OF THE BOARD.

NAME CHANGE OF DEGREE

Resolution No. 94-144

Synopsis: Approval of the change from the Master in Liberal Studies degree to the Master of Arts in Comparative Studies degree be proposed.

WHEREAS the Division of Comparative Studies in the College of Humanities has proposed that the name of its graduate program be changed from Master in Liberal Studies to Master of Arts in Comparative Studies; and

WHEREAS the current interdisciplinary structure of the program will not change, but the new name will better describe the nature of the graduate degree and will provide greater continuity with the Division's academic program; and

WHEREAS the Master of Arts in Comparative Studies will be the only one of its kind in Ohio and will be a program that is rigorous in curriculum, and require that students meet the same graduate school standards as any Master of Arts candidate in the College; and

WHEREAS the new program title will help the program attract excellent and innovative students whose interests do not fall within disciplinary boundaries; and

WHEREAS the proposed change in name has the support of the faculty in the Division of Comparative Studies, and the approval of the College of Humanities, the Council on Research and Graduate Studies, and the Council of Academic Affairs, and was approved by the University Senate at its May 7, 1994 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the proposal to rename the Master of Liberal Studies degree to the Master of Arts in Comparative Studies degree is hereby approved, effective upon its approval by the Ohio Board of Regents.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CODE OF STUDENT CONDUCT

Resolution No. 94-145

Synopsis: Approval of the following amendments to the Code of Student Conduct are recommended.

WHEREAS the University Senate pursuant to rule 3335-1-09 of the Administrative Code is authorized to recommend through the President to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Code of Student Conduct as approved by the University Senate; and

AMENDMENTS TO THE CODE OF STUDENT CONDUCT (contd)

WHEREAS the proposed changes in the Code of Student Conduct were approved by the University Senate at its May 7, 1994 meeting as follows:

3335-25-03 Policies.

Established policies and rights exist to ensure an environment conducive to equal treatment and quality living for all members of the university community. Students violating university policy may be subject to disciplinary action.

- (A) Unchanged.
- (B) Sexual harassment.

~~Sexual harassment is prohibited, and includes: sexual contact that is not freely and mutually agreeable to both parties; communications of a sexual nature, whether physical, oral, written, or pictorial that are made for the purpose of threatening, intimidating, or humiliating the person receiving such communications; solicitation of sexual contact when submission to or rejection of such contact implicitly or explicitly imposes adverse or favorable terms or conditions on employment or academic standing.~~ SEXUAL HARASSMENT IS ANY UNWELCOME SEXUAL ADVANCE, REQUEST FOR SEXUAL FAVOR, REFERENCE TO GENDER OR SEXUAL ORIENTATION, OR OTHER PHYSICAL OR VERBAL CONDUCT OF A SEXUAL NATURE WHEN:

- (1) SUBMISSION TO OR REJECTION OF SUCH CONDUCT IS USED EITHER EXPLICITLY OR IMPLICITLY AS A BASIS FOR ANY DECISION AFFECTING TERMS OR CONDITIONS OF AN INDIVIDUAL'S EMPLOYMENT, PARTICIPATION IN ANY PROGRAM OR ACTIVITY, OR STATUS IN AN ACADEMIC COURSE; OR
- (2) SUCH CONDUCT HAS THE EFFECT OF UNREASONABLY INTERFERING WITH AN INDIVIDUAL'S WORK PERFORMANCE OR EDUCATIONAL EXPERIENCE, OR CREATES AN INTIMIDATING, HOSTILE OR OFFENSIVE ENVIRONMENT FOR WORKING, LEARNING, OR LIVING ON CAMPUS, AND HAS NO LEGITIMATE RELATIONSHIP TO THE SUBJECT MATTER OF A COURSE.

(Further details and procedures may be obtained in the office of student life and/or the office of ~~affirmative action~~ HUMAN RESOURCES.)

(C) through (H) Unchanged.

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing amendments to the Code of Student Conduct be adopted as recommended by the University Senate.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 94-148

Synopsis: Approval of four Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

Elizabeth R. Aplin

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 4, 1994, of Dr. Elizabeth R. Aplin, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Pediatrics.

Dr. Aplin was a graduate of Cadiz High School and The Ohio State University. She attended medical school at Western Reserve. She was in general practice in Gnadenhutten, Ohio, from 1936-

55, and served her pediatric residency at Columbus Children's Hospital from 1955-58. She was director of Pediatrics Diagnostic Reception Center at Columbus State School; medical director of the State of Ohio Bureau of Crippled Children's Services from 1964-76; and clinical professor of pediatrics and professor emeritus at The Ohio State University.

She was past president of the Ohio Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics. Dr. Aplin received the Distinguished Service Citation from the Ohio State Medical Association in 1973 and the Job Lewis Smith Award from the American Academy of Pediatrics in 1978. She was consultant to the Division of Maternal and Child Health for the Ohio Department of Health and a member of the national and state task forces on children's and women's health concerns.

She was also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Delta Sorority, Alpha Omega Alpha and Delta Kappa Gamma.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to her family as well as friends. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Carl Ernest Venard

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 4, 1994, of Carl Ernest Venard, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Entomology.

Carl Ernest Venard was born in Marion, Ohio, in 1909. He received his B.S. from Ohio State in 1931 and his M.S. in 1932. He received his Ph.D. in parasitology from New York University in 1936. He returned to Ohio State as a member of the Zoology Department in 1936. In 1956, Ernest Venard was elected supervisor of the OSU Entomology Program, a post he held until 1961. Professor Venard retired in 1973 after 37 years at Ohio State.

Professor Venard's research involved helminthology and mosquito control. He was the author or co-author of more than 50 papers, reports and reviews dealing with the taxonomy and biology of mosquitoes and parasites of vertebrates.

Professor Venard was active in several professional organizations -- the American Society of Parasitologists, the American Society of Zoologists, the Entomological Society of America, the American Microbiology Society and the Ohio Academy of Science. He was also a member of the Wheaton Club and Sigma Xi.

He was also active in community service, giving lectures to garden and business clubs and serving as a Boy Scout leader.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

William W. Wharton

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 4, 1994, of William W. Wharton, Assistant Professor Emeritus in the Ohio State University Extension

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

William W. Wharton (contd)

William Wharton was born in October of 1924, in Ashville, Ohio. In 1950, he received his B.S. degree from The Ohio State University. In March of 1965, he received his M.S. degree from The Ohio State University.

William Wharton was associate county agent from 1950 until 1955. Starting July 1, 1955, until June of 1958, he served as a county agricultural agent. In June of 1958, he became an Animal Science extension specialist for the Ohio State University Extension. He was in charge of the beef and sheep production testing programs and was chairman of the Beef Bull Testing Program Committee.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the Wharton family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Harvey D. Wright, M.D.

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on February 16, 1994, of Harvey D. Wright, M.D., Instructor Emeritus, Department of Ophthalmology.

Dr. Wright was born on July 13, 1909 in Johnstown, Ohio. He earned a Bachelor's Degree in Pharmacy from The Ohio State University in 1930. He received his medical degree in 1938 from The Ohio State University. After completion of an internship at St. Francis Hospital in Columbus, Ohio in 1939, Dr. Wright completed an Ophthalmology residency at Wills Hospital in Philadelphia in 1946.

Dr. Wright began his ophthalmology practice in Columbus, Ohio in 1946 and was certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology in 1957. He was a faculty member in the Department of Ophthalmology for 26 years and had been a member of the OSU Hospitals medical staff since 1969.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family and friends of Dr. Wright its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and many friends and associates have sustained.

The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the above resolutions and upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the above resolutions by unanimous roll call vote.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Amb. Wolf:

The Committee met this morning and I am pleased to report the market value of the Endowment Fund as of May 20 was $491.7 million. This was approximately $1.3 million above the April 15, 1994 market value. Net new additions were $1.5 million in the month of May alone. Since July 1, 1993, the Endowment Fund has decreased $1.4 million because of fluctuations and withdrawals. The current asset allocation is 60 percent in equities; 25 percent in fixed income; 8 percent in real estate; and 7 percent in cash equivalents.

We also reviewed the activities at WR Lazard and Company, primarily because of the untimely death of Mr. Lazard. We find that the operations are currently running smoothly and we will be monitoring them very closely through the Office of the Treasurer. We also discussed the refinancing of the River Road Hotel Corporation, and as requested by the Board, we are reviewing several new options and approaches. I believe in the next few months we will have some more detailed information to bring before this Board.

The Development Fund report is located in your notebooks and the report on private support to the University for July-April, compared with the same period last year, is in the Development section of your notebook.

As you can see, total giving this year is still down 10 percent when compared with last year's record pace. However, I should point out that these figures still represent the second best total giving in the first 10 months of any year in the University's history. Some other highlights are: gifts from non-alumni individuals are up 25 percent; private foundation giving is up 18 percent; gifts for buildings and equipment are up 61 percent; and giving to support student financial aid is up 9 percent.

At this time, I would like to recommend the establishment of four new named endowed funds totalling $156,552, in restricted support to the University. Also, I am requesting the revision of one named endowed fund. This resolution is presented for the approval of the Board.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 94-149

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for April 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of four (4) new named endowed funds and amendments to one (1) endowed fund :

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of April 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Wexner, seconded by Mr. Brennan, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

NOTES

- A Non-Alumni individual giving is up 25% largely due to an increase in gifts of $10,000 or more (100 gifts for $6 million last year; 105 gifts for $7.9 million this year). Alumni giving is down 31%. The five largest gifts from alumni thus far this year total $3.5 million. For the same period of time last year, the five largest alumni gifts totaled $8.2 million.
- B Corporate giving is down 7%. This is largely due to the $3.2 million mainframe computer given by IBM last year in January. No corporate gift of this magnitude has been received this year. However, if the $3.2 million computer is factored out, corporate giving is up 13%.
- C Gifts of $10,000 or more from private foundations are nearly $700,000 ahead of the same time last year.
- D Last year during July - April, 86 associations or other organizations gave $10,000 or more ($2,708,937). This year during the same period only 60 organizations gave at this level for a total of $1,504,623.

The Robert E. Kibbey Memorial Scholarship Fund

The Robert E. Kibbey Memorial Scholarship Fund was established June 3, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Robert E. Kibbey (B.S. '35), Marion, OH.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide scholarships for African-Americans on the main and regional campuses of The Ohio State University. The Robert E. Kibbey Scholarship will be based on academic merit and financial need as determined by the University Committee on Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donors.

in Surgical Oncology Research Fund

The Dennis E. Clark/Columbus Life Underwriters Chair in Surgical Oncology Research Fund for The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute was established June 3, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Dennis E. Clark family, The Columbus Life Underwriters Association, and the Columbus Chapter of Chartered Life Underwriters.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to support the cancer research activities of the holder of the Dennis E. Clark/Columbus Life Underwriters Chair in Surgical Oncology Research for The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute. Appointment to this Chair shall be recommended by the Dean of the College of Medicine in consultation with the Director of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute to the Provost of The Ohio State University and approved by The Ohio State University Board of Trustees.

It is the desire of the donors that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the Director of The Arthur G. STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Ailabouni:

This morning the Student Affairs Committee met with new student government leaders and if I could call on them to stand and be recognized: Sandra Solano, President, and Aldo A. Aguirre-Caceres, Vice President of the Council of Graduate Students; and Rob Edmund, President, and Stephen Trenta, Vice President of the Undergraduate Student Government. The Interprofessional Council recently elected its new leadership, but we have not yet had the opportunity to meet them.

We did receive the traditional reports from the student government leaders. The Undergraduate Student Government has been involved in a transition period between administrations, yet they have established some new programs. One program is the living gift program, which is designed to challenge incoming students through the summer orientation program to complete between 3 and 5 hours of community service. They hope that it would be a national model for community service, and I am actually very pleased to hear that we are going to be initiating that type of program.

A post card campaign was -- actually I believe they did it yesterday -- held on the Oval. They began the campaign to get signatures to send to our legislators, regarding House Bill 601. This bill would give student members on the Board of Trustees voting rights. Those lobbying efforts will continue during the summer through the Ohio Student Association. They will also be attending the all Big 10 Schools' Conference at Michigan in a couple of weeks and they hope to bring back some ideas from that conference.

Since Sandra and Aldo do not officially take office until summer quarter, Frank Chloupek gave his final CGS report to the Committee. He discussed the resolution passed by CGS on the vandalism of University art and architecture. This resolution is to encourage colleges within the University to foster educational efforts which would promote respect for and support of the University's public art. They also requested the same thing of University administration offices, and asked that they ensure creative measures and that sufficient resources are provided to protect University art and architecture from such vandalism that has occurred recently.

Frank also informed us of seven individuals who were given outstanding service awards through the Council of Graduate Students. Those individuals are: Dr. Omar Barriga, Dr. Karen Duncan, G. David Lawrence, Claudia Moreno, Dr. Robert Warmbrod, and Lawrence K. Williamson. These are individuals who the Council of Graduate Students thought had given some form of significant service to graduate students.

The focus of our meeting this morning was to come up with some priorities for the upcoming year. Some of those priorities were the same, while some were different, depending on each student constituency. The Undergraduate Student Government has already established their priorities which include: improving internal USG communication; advocating and working for tangible student programs, including, but not limited to an alternative newspaper and/or student radio; and they would like to advocate student issues in an effort to reach their constituents. They also had other issues or priorities that they felt were tied, as far as level of priority, and those included: increasing awareness of multi-cultural issues; providing alternatives to alcohol use and/or abuse on campus; and to generally make the campus safer. The Council of Graduate Students has not yet identified a set list of priorities, but President Sandra Solano presented some that she felt were going to be priorities in the upcoming year. She mentioned the key word, "restructuring" and recognizing that that is an issue which will continue to come before the Board. She requested continued student input on that.

With regards to the discussion of a merge between Student Health Services and the Hospitals Administration, she also requested continued student input. She requested and made a special plea that no major decisions be made regarding that during the summer, because she feels that is something that will directly affect the students. She felt there would not be enough students around during the summer to give their input.

Ms. Ailabouni: (contd)

Like the Undergraduate Student Government, the Council of Graduate Students would also like to enhance awareness as to the diversity and multi-culturalism on campus.

Vice President Aldo Aguirre-Caceres also made mention of safety with respect to student life on campus. He discussed the pedestrian/motorist relationship on campus. He felt that we should enforce the speed limits more on campus; possibly consider the situation of bicycles on the Oval; maybe there should be bike lanes and/or pedestrian lanes; and he feels that the crosswalks are poorly defined, as far as not being visible to either the motorists and/or the pedestrians. He also mentioned that those crosswalks might not be in prime locations where the pedestrians typically cross the streets.

That concludes my report.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

REPORT ON THE 1994-95 CURRENT FUNDS BUDGET

Mr. Shumate:

First, I would like to call upon Vice President Shkurti and Senior Vice Provost Ray to give a report on the 1994-95 Current Funds Budget.

Mr. Shkurti:

This was reviewed in detail in the Fiscal Affairs Committee, so in the interest of saving time, I will not go over it in detail this morning. In addition, there is a red book every Board member should have entitled, "Current Funds Budget," which explains, in detail, the items I will be summarizing. Let me mention first a couple of important points, and then I will turn this over to Dr. Ray.

The most important points about this budget proposal are: 1) it reflects the twin objectives of the support of academic priorities and achieving financial equilibrium, which we talked about last month; 2) more than $33 million in additional, continuing, and one-time funds for high priorities -- including: compensation, academic enrichment, and improved computer resources -- are included in this budget; 3) the weighted average increase for tuition and all other charges, including Hospitals' charges, is less than five percent; 4) the budget reallocations of $10 million are differential and reflect academic priorities -- direct student services, such as Student Financial Aid and Campus Police are protected in this budget; and 5) even though our state instructional support is still less than it was five years ago -- in fact it is $3 million less -- this budget still represents a step forward because the University has intentionally planned to reallocate resources to high priority needs for investing in the University's future.

Let me now turn to Dr. Ray, who will briefly address the issue of budget allocations.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

REPORT ON THE 1994-95 CURRENT FUNDS BUDGET (contd)

Dr. Ed Ray:

Let me repeat one very important point. This budget is not about reductions, this budget is about, in fact, reallocating $10 million in funds from academic and support units to specific priorities of this University. These priorities were defined last year and we have reinforced them with expenditures this year. The $10 million in reallocated funds from colleges and support units is only a small part of the $33 to $35 million, that we are, in fact, investing in key areas for the future of this University.

With regard to the budget reductions across the University, I will remind you that this has now become a regularized process that follows from President Gee's commitment several years ago to open up the books at the University and share information. So for the third consecutive year we have made some hard choices to make differential cuts across units. We are publishing the information, we are publishing criteria, and we are willing to go out and talk to people about why the decisions look the way they do.

Again, because you have the material in your book, I don't want to dwell on it. Let me simply point out a couple aspects of the overall picture on budget reductions that you have before you. You should note that the smallest budget reductions are reflected in colleges that were identified as close to the core of the University -- the Colleges of the Arts and Sciences, Engineering, Business, and Law -- in speeches made by the President and Provost to the Senate last fall. You should also know that among those colleges that are critical to the University's future, that the smallest reductions tended to be in those colleges that have taken very courageous initiatives in leading the restructuring process -- the Colleges of Engineering and Agriculture.

Among the Health Sciences Colleges -- where budget reductions will, in fact, be substantially offset by revenue enhancement capabilities in those colleges -- the smallest reduction in budget is experienced by the College of Veterinary Medicine. And that is the third college that has had a restructuring plan approved by the University Senate.

Among the service areas -- let me point out that while the Graduate School Administration took the largest cut in those units reporting to the Office of Academic Affairs, fellowships and post-docs, and other student support through the Graduate School were left protected by the budget reduction process. With regard to research, OSURF and its activities in support of the University's ongoing research activities, were protected. Admissions and Financial Aid and the Office of the Registrar -- critical areas of student service and support -- had small reductions and, in fact, have revenue enhancement capabilities that should more than offset the budget reductions that they have had to take.

With that let me stop and respond to any questions.

Mr. Shumate:

Are there any questions? If not, Mr. Chairman, I would like to move adoption of the resolutions for not only the Budget, but the Request for Construction Bids and Report of Award of Contracts, the Easements to Columbus Southern Power and Ohio Edison Company, the Purchase of Property at 253 W. 10th Avenue, the Plan for Distribution of the Licensing Agreement, and the expansion and extension of the existing Early Retirement Program, and I so move.

Resolution No. 94-150

Synopsis: The budget for fiscal year 1994-95 is being submitted for adoption.

WHEREAS the levels of resources have been identified for the second year of the 1993-95 biennium; and

WHEREAS appropriate planning and consultation within the University has been accomplished; and

WHEREAS the President is now prepared to present the 1994-95 budget:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the University's Current Funds Budget for fiscal year 1994-95, as described in Appendix LXVI, be approved, with authorization for the President to make expenditures within the projected income levels; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President, in consultation with the Provost and the Vice President for Finance, be authorized to make budget adjustments recommended in the accompanying table to balance the General Funds Budget; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That tuition and fees be increased for all students beginning Autumn Quarter 1994 as specified in the Schedule of Student Fees incorporated in this resolution which is in compliance with current legislation; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary be instructed to incorporate all supporting documents into the minutes of this meeting, and to file these materials with the official records of this University.

EASEMENTS

Resolution No. 94-152

COLUMBUS SOUTHERN POWER
OARDC PIKETON RESEARCH AND EXTENSION CENTER; AND OHIO EDISON COMPANY
MARION REGIONAL CAMPUS

Synopsis: Authorization to grant easements at the OARDC Piketon Research and Extension Center and the Marion Regional Campus is proposed.

WHEREAS the Columbus Southern Power has requested a five-year easement consisting of a strip of land approximately 20 feet in width and approximately 94 feet in length for installation of overhead electric wires, a transformer, and guy wires at 1864 Shyville Road in Piketon; and

WHEREAS this electric service will allow the Department of Energy to install air sampling stations and underground monitoring wells on University property; and

WHEREAS the Ohio Edison Company has requested a 15-year easement consisting of a strip of land approximately 15 feet in width and 28 feet in length for installation of guy wires and another strip of land consisting of approximately 125 square feet for guy wires and a pole in an area near a new parking lot being constructed at the Marion Campus off State Route 95; and

WHEREAS this easement will be of benefit to the University; and

EASEMENTS (contd)

COLUMBUS SOUTHERN POWER
OARDC PIKETON RESEARCH AND EXTENSION CENTER; AND OHIO EDISON COMPANY
MARION REGIONAL CAMPUS (contd)

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have recommended the approval of these easements:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request the Deputy Director of Public Works of the Department of Administrative Services, pursuant to his statutory duties, to act for and on behalf of the University in developing the necessary legal instruments to provide for these easements.

PURCHASE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 94-153

253 - 255 WEST TENTH AVENUE
COLUMBUS, OHIO

Synopsis: Authorization to purchase improved real property at 253-255 West Tenth Avenue in Columbus, Ohio is proposed.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University has been presented with an opportunity to purchase the improved real property located at 253-255 West Tenth Avenue in Columbus, Ohio; and

WHEREAS this property has an appraised value of $80,000.00 to $87,500.00, and the owner, the estate of Mrs. Carryl Titus, has offered to sell the property to the University at a price of $80,000.00; and

WHEREAS this property is located within the South Campus acquisition boundary of the University's Master Plan and the appropriate University offices have determined that the purchase of this property is in the best interest of the University; and

WHEREAS funds for the purchase will be provided from general University funds in the land purchase account:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to purchase, in the name of the State of Ohio for the use of The Ohio State University, the improved real property located at 253-255 West Tenth Avenue at a price not to exceed $80,000.00, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University, subject to the University receiving the necessary approvals from the Ohio Board of Regents and the State Controlling Board.

DISTRIBUTION OF LICENSING REVENUE

Resolution No. 94-154

Synopsis: Approval of the proposed plan for distribution of revenue from the University Licensing Program is proposed.

WHEREAS in September 1974 the Board of Trustees approved the program to control the use of the University's registered marks and to use the net proceeds to supplement scholarship funds; and

WHEREAS this program has been extremely successful in both regulating the use of the University's marks and generating royalty revenue from licensed goods; and

WHEREAS over the last decade the impact of intercollegiate athletics and the involvement of the Department of Athletics have increased the marketability of licensed goods, contributing to the increased royalties; and

WHEREAS while the Name and Seal Endowed Student Scholarship Fund will continue to fund student scholarships, it is appropriate to direct some of the annual licensing revenue to benefit a broader range of students and student services; and

WHEREAS this change in the distribution of licensing revenues is recommended by the Vice President for Business and Administration and the Vice President for Student Affairs:

NEW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That, effective for the 1993-94 fiscal year, net licensing revenue (that is, all revenue after program expenses are paid or encumbered) be distributed to the Department of Athletics, the University Libraries, the Office of Student Affairs, the Name and Seal Endowed Student Scholarship Fund, and general fund scholarships in accordance with the distribution formula in the attached report; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That this distribution of revenue be subject to annual review and revision by the Fiscal Affairs Committee as a part of the annual budget review.

EXPANSION AND EXTENSION OF THE EXISTING ERI PROGRAM

Resolution No. 94-155

Synopsis: The Educational Affairs and Fiscal Affairs Committees recommend the expansion of the recently adopted ERI program to include all valid applications received during the sign-up period and extension of the termination date for the program by two months from February 28, 1995, to April 30, 1995, to allow for retirements through June 30, 1995.

WHEREAS The University has determined in consultation with the Deans that effective management of faculty line positions would be enhanced by expansion of the ERI program eligibility to all individuals with valid applications on file; and

EXPANSION AND EXTENSION OF THE EXISTING ERI PROGRAM (contd)

WHEREAS The University has determined in consultation with the Deans that the delivery of academic programs for FY '95 would be improved by extending the end-date of the program to the end of June 1995; and

WHEREAS The University has analyzed the financial consequences of expanding the pool of eligible faculty and extending the closing date for the program and judged them to be favorable to the interests of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That eligibility for retirement under the terms of the current Early Retirement Incentive Program will be extended to all individuals who filed valid applications during the enrollment period for the program; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the termination date for the retirement program will be extended from February 28, 1995, to April 30, 1995, to allow for retirements through June 30, 1995.

The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended the above resolutions and upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the above resolutions by unanimous roll call vote.

--0--

Mr. Shumate:

In addition, Mr. Chairman, I would like to move for adoption of the Student Health Insurance Plan for 1994-95, as previously mailed, without paragraph (c). I so move.

Mr. Celeste:

Can we have some discussion?

Mr. Kessler:

Yes, Ted.

Mr. Celeste:

I would like to suggest that in light of the Committee that had reviewed this recommendation, that we give it further thought in the full Board meeting -- with full respect for the consideration that our Fiscal Affairs Committee went through. I would suggest that we reconsider adding that section back into the full recommendation.

Mr. Kessler:

Any discussion?

Mr. Brennan:

I assume he wants to make an amendment, and then we'll either second it or we'll discuss and vote on it. Is that how it is done?

June 4, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Kessler:

Yes.

Mr. Brennan:

Is that your motion?

Mr. Celeste:

That would be my motion, to add back in the section that was eliminated in the Committee.

Mr. Kessler:

Is there a second to that motion? It dies for lack of a second. Any more discussion on the motion?

STUDENT HEALTH INSURANCE PLAN YEAR 1994-95

Resolution No. 94-156

WHEREAS on May 4, 1989, this Board awarded the insurance contract to Central Benefits Mutual Insurance Company following a competitive bid process, effective Autumn Quarter 1989 for an initial two (2) year term, subject to renewal thereafter; and

WHEREAS the University now has the opportunity to seek renewal of the program with the current carrier or competitively bid the insurance program; and

WHEREAS the current carrier, Central Benefits Mutual Insurance Company, has offered renewal rates that are very competitive in the insurance market and appropriate to our history of claims experience; and

WHEREAS the Student Health Insurance Committee obtained the assistance and expertise of Stephen L. Beckley & Associates, a nationally recognized student insurance consulting firm, and also obtained selected actuarial review consulting services from William M. Mercer, Inc., an international benefits and actuarial consulting firm; and

WHEREAS after consideration of the expressed needs and concerns of the students who purchase the insurance, the Student Health Insurance Committee of the Council on Student Affairs has recommended -- and the full Council has ratified that recommendation -- that the current contract be renewed at the specific rates to provide the existing benefits plus benefit changes and cost containment measures consistent with the plan's goals of:

- (a) Maintaining Student Health Services, the OSU Hospitals, OSU Physicians Provider Network, and MedOHIO urgent care facilities as a preferred provider system;
- (b) Increasing coverage to meet new federal regulations for international students on J1 and J2 status;
- (d) Establishing a rate structure that helps realign rates to more accurately reflect actual claims experience by enrollment category; and

STUDENT HEALTH INSURANCE
PLAN YEAR 1994-95 (contd)

WHEREAS this plan is fully funded by student premiums and will be available on an optional basis to all registered students for the following proposed Quarterly Premium Rates:

Classification	Current Quarterly Rates 1993-94	Proposed Quarterly Rates 1994-95
Student	$156	$170
Student & Spouse	$373	$468
Student & Children	$477	$508
Student, Spouse & Children	$694	$805

Appropriate rates have also been derived from the quarterly rate for students on a semester system, and for periods of continuing coverage while not registered as a student:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That Central Benefits Medical Insurance Company be approved for renewal of the Student Health Insurance Contract effective the first day of classes, Autumn Term 1994, for a period of one (1) academic year. The contract will provide the benefits now available under the terms of the 1993-94 contract subject to the benefit changes contained in the report of the Student Health Insurance Committee.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution with six affirmative votes cast by Messrs. Kessler, Wolf, Wexner, Shumate, Colley, and Brennan, a negative vote cast by Mr. Celeste, and an abstention by Mr. Skestos.

July 8, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

The Chairman, Mr. Kessler, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on July 8, 1994, at 10:30 a.m. He requested the Secretary to call the roll.

Present: John W. Kessler, Chairman, Milton A. Wolf, Alex Shumate, Theodore S. Celeste, Michael F. Colley, George A. Skestos, James F. Patterson, and Thomas C. Smith.

--0--

Mr. Kessler:

It is my great pleasure to introduce and welcome our new Trustee, James F. Patterson. Jim was appointed to this Board by Governor Voinovich on June 14, 1994, to serve a nine-year term. Jim is from Chesterland, Ohio, where he and his wife, Nancy, own and operate Patterson Fruit Farm. He graduated from Ohio State in 1964 in agriculture and has long been active in civic, agricultural, and alumni affairs. Jim is the past president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation Board of Trustees, the Ohio Fruit Growers Association, and the OSU Alumni Advisory Council. We welcome you, Jim, and are glad to have you join us.

I would also like to announce that -- most appropriately -- I am appointing Jim to the Agricultural Affairs Committee of this Board, in addition to his other committee assignments.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Let me add my welcome to Mr. Patterson. I think for those in the audience, I should note that Jim Patterson has longstanding affection and devotion to this institution. This was most recently demonstrated by the fact that he served as chair of our Alumni Advisory Council, a group of distinguished citizens that meet twice a year to involve themselves in the life and fabric of this institution. So very few Trustees have come as well prepared for their position, Jim, as you. You have had a seminar on university activities for which we are delighted. We are only irritated that you didn't bring us some of that great fruit from Geauga County. I assume that we will be well supplied from now on!

I would also like to note several new additions to our university team. Dr. Amy Riemenschneider has been selected as the Chair of Steering and is a distinguished member of our faculty from the College of Social Work. Amy, welcome to you. We know Dr. Harry Allen well from his service last year, but the faculty have reselected Dr. Allen as chair of the Faculty Council. Congratulations, Harry. And we want to welcome State Director of Agriculture Fred Dailey, thank you for coming and joining us today. We are delighted to have you here.

Each month, I have reported to this Board a number of honors earned by our students. As you know, the academic year has ended, but the recognitions of our highly able students continue. Christie Partlo, a senior at Ohio State-Newark, received the 1994 American Psychological Association Undergraduate Student Research Award. She was recognized by this national association for her senior honors research on battered women. An appropriate issue that has been in the news.

For the fourth year in a row, the BF Goodrich Collegiate Inventors Program has honored an inventor from our Department of Materials Science and Engineering. Brian Cockeram, a Ph.D. candidate, received honorable mention for his invention of a protective coating for titanium and titanium alloys -- strong, lightweight metals used heavily in the aerospace industry and by power plants. Brian was one of only nine student inventors recognized by BF Goodrich.

The evening before our spring commencement, Ohio State's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa welcomed 98 students to membership in this prestigious liberal arts recognition society. While most honorees were seniors, three juniors were chosen. I want this Board to know that among the juniors elected to Phi Beta Kappa was the president of the Undergraduate Student Government, Rob Edmund -- a very talented and very busy student leader. Rob, congratulations -- I think that is terrific.

Again this year, the university recognized the contributions of our staff by presenting the Distinguished Staff Award to twelve colleagues who represent all job classifications and a wide range of responsibilities -- among them a police officer, a secretary, and a building coordinator. Speaking about one of the recipients -- Phyllis Thompson, coordinator for developmental education at Ohio State-Newark -- a student wrote, "I can [attribute] much of the achievement of my recent graduation to Dr. Phyllis Thompson. . . . Phyllis' door was always open. . . . She helped me overcome the special problems I encountered and kept my self-esteem high. She was my inspiration."

The reason I wanted to read that is that thousands of staff members, like Phyllis and our other honorees, make significant contributions to the success of our students. We often fail to recognize that and to understand the great work that our staff undertakes on behalf of the university.

Also supporting the work of our students and faculty is the generosity of Ohio State's alumni and friends. We had an opportunity to honor a very special alumnus this month at a dinner honoring Max M. Fisher, hosted by Trustee Les Wexner. Mr. Fisher's heartfelt affection for the university and his belief in our future inspired each of us on that occasion.

The generosity of many alumni and friends has enabled us to break ground this month for an addition to Campbell Hall that will provide space for the College of Human Ecology. The addition includes the Schottenstein Wing of the Historic Costume and Textiles Collection. This expanded home for the college will not only allow Human Ecology to maintain the excellent reputation it enjoys, but to expand on it.

Today, we are delighted to announce a leadership gift from William H. Davis, Dorothy Davis, and the William C. Davis Foundation toward the construction of a 3,000-seat baseball stadium on campus. When this Board met last month, Ohio State's baseball team was in the midst of post-season competition. They are to be congratulated for again being Big Ten Champions, ranking eleventh in the final national polls. Thanks to the generosity of the Davis family, and of many friends of the baseball program, we will have a facility that matches the quality of our baseball team. Dottie Davis is a member of the Foundation Board and is a wonderful, devoted friend of this University. It is this kind of generosity and support that provides the margin of excellence for the University in these challenging times.

In the past month, the cycle of academic life renewed itself as we awarded diplomas to more than 5,400 graduates and began the summer orientation program for the entering class of Autumn 1994. From the exuberant graduates and their families who crowded the Stadium for the commencement ceremony, to the loyal and enthusiastic alumni I met in Texas this month, it is evident that Ohio State inspires great affection among its alumni.

President Gee: (contd)

As one parent wrote to me after graduation -- and I love this letter -- "I would like to say that I'm glad that my daughter chose Ohio State for her education. It's been a great experience both educationally and socially." A mother wrote: "I know my daughter received an education she will build on for the rest of her career." That is, of course, after all is said and done, what this university is all about. I thank all of you for your continued devotion to the institution.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING

Provost Sisson:

I will be referring to the document that follows the agenda in the materials that you have before you. My colleagues on my right and my left will serve as oral editors of the commentary that I will present.

We promised a couple of years ago to provide you with an update on the restructuring here at Ohio State. Not just academic restructuring, but restructuring in the broader University community. We think it is important to begin our presentation with a reference of "What is restructuring?" We have provided you with our conception of it, "The purposeful redefining of administrative and academic units through consolidation, elimination, and expansion in order to assure a structure appropriate to the University's changing mission, environment, and available resources." We see that there is a distinction between budget reductions and restructuring, in that the former is primarily concerned with reducing costs to balance the books. Restructuring is a conscious choice to reallocate resources in a way that enables us to strengthen ourselves.

Why bother? Why restructure at all? We have provided five items that have been central in guiding our restructuring and that we think are critical. The most important one -- the controlling one perhaps -- is to remain competitive in everything that we do with respect to the higher education marketplace. And to provide people of the State of Ohio with the best learning and banks of knowledge that are internationally available.

It seems to me there are four "R's" here. We have three "R's" when we go to grade school, middle school, and high school. When you get to college there are four "R's" when you start talking about restructuring: 1) it involves review and determination of priorities to achieve the highest quality of performance in product, in scholarship teaching, and service; 2) it involves reallocation of resources to support those priority areas; 3) it involves reengineering of administrative structures to facilitate these ends; and 4) it involves rededication to renewal on the part of the entirety of the University community.

How will we know whether or not we have succeeded? I invite your attention to page 59. We have listed a number of things here that we think are critical. They should not come as a surprise to you because they are part and parcel of the Functional Mission Statement which the Board reviewed some time ago. But, we might elaborate in this way that we are interested in an enhanced national ranking in priority areas in this institution. We are also interested in strong external validation from our students, our graduates, our alumni, and our professional peers.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Provost Sisson: (contd)

What have we done so far? Let's start with context. It is always a challenge to restructure, but it has been particularly challenging for us given the resource base that we commenced with. We started with a low base. This we have outlined for you. We were below our peer institutions in 1990-91, when this process really began. It did not begin just this year. We have had declining financial support during the period of restructuring, but we have done reasonably well in maintaining the commitment to teaching our students as we have indicated here. The fall off in credit hours has certainly not been as great as the fall off in the number of faculty who we used to have, but we don't have now.

Principles for restructuring -- these were outlined in two different ways -- and were also matters for attention by the Board before I arrived. On page 63 is a series of criteria that guided the process and the description of the process itself. We have organized these in six different phases. We are now moving to implement Phase IV.

Since 1990-91, we feel our productivity has improved. We have outlined how we measure that. We are also very pleased that we have been able to improve that productivity, given the comparison with peer institutions that are outlined for you on page 64.

We still have much to do. We have not fully implemented the decisions that were part of Phase IV, but we will certainly attend to this during the coming year. Also during the coming year, we will put greater emphasis upon restructuring academic support units than we have during this past year where the accent has been on the academic units. We will continue -- and I am referring your attention to the issues outlined on page 68 in Phase V: July 1995 and Beyond -- to review efforts initiated by colleges, as well as intercollege initiatives that have been and will continue to be initiated from the Office of the Provost. We are committed to each of the items that we have noted for you there.

Phase VI -- which we are already involved in -- we refer to as redefining the University. There are a number of initiatives that we have already started pursuing, one is molecular life science. We also have several other initiatives that we are going to be giving very serious attention to during the coming year: public policy, technology transfer; the undergraduate experience; and academic computing, which is a continuing commitment. We are also going to be looking for additional resources. We are going to strengthen academic support services in the way that we have noted here. There is a commitment to increasing the diversity of this institution.

I have not been able -- and you are probably quite relieved that I have not taken the time -- to describe these things in detail, but let me refer you to the summary. Restructuring is absolutely necessary to redefine the institution after significant changes in the boundaries of scholarship, the amount of public financial support, and the nature of public expectations. Success will be measured by fulfillment of the goals of the Functional Mission Statement, including improvement in our academic reputation and performance, achievement of our students, and services provided to the people of Ohio.

The current round of restructuring began in 1991 from a spending in the revenue base below that of most of our competitors. Criteria has been a principle process. Criteria have been established and budget reduction targets have largely been met, but at a direct and indirect cost to our students, faculty, staff, and community. Restructuring must continue in the foreseeable future in order to improve the institution academically; to match the promise of our vision and mission statements; and to maintain flexibility to respond to new challenges.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Provost Sisson: (contd)

You will ask, "When is the restructuring going to be complete at Ohio State?" Never! It is a part of our life; it will never be complete. There is always something new to do. We are always going to be in motion and we are always going to be trying to take a lead in areas where we have a competitive advantage. We are going to be unceasing in our efforts to provide the finest education available in this country to the students of this state. Bill or Ed might want to add something to this.

Mr. Shumate:

There are a couple of references of comparisons to peer institutions, and the peer group that you are referring to is beyond the Big Ten?

Provost Sisson:

It includes institutions beyond the Big Ten.

President Gee:

Basically our peer group -- we have a natural peer group -- are the public institutions in the American Association of Universities category, which are the major public research universities in this country. All of the Big Ten institutions are members, but it also includes institutions in other parts of the country.

Provost Sisson:

Let me call your attention to Attachment B, footnote 1. This indicates institutions outside of the Big Ten, which have been included.

Mr. Shumate:

You made a reference to constantly being in the process of restructuring. If you look at page 64 -- and we talk about the focus of the cost of restructuring -- the two items identified there, what are we doing to deal with those two challenges?

Provost Sisson:

I think that a part of it is a result of the process itself. When one starts restructuring it is an awesome kind of thing to face, but as we succeed and have achievements and things to show, and a realization that the world does not disappear and that the world can get better and does get better, I think that there is a feeling of satisfaction. We have also -- in a more practical way -- had meetings with faculty, staff, and students. The senior leadership of the institution has done this, and to the extent that this is done, I think, helps relieve anxiety. But when there is change, anxiety is not ever completely removed.

Dr. Ed Ray:

Let me just add a couple of specific things that we are doing with regard to the second issue of shifting costs in a shrinking budget environment onto faculty, staff, and students. I think that it is important to bear in mind that while we have had to absorb those cuts, we have been thinking about how we change the alternative futures that we face. One of the ways we are trying to change the futures we face is by thinking more positively, not about how do we live within an existing budget, but how do we change the boundaries. Bill and I have been working specifically this year with the health sciences colleges on defining revenue enhancement possibilities that exist out there. We expect to extend that to the rest of the University and, in fact, do some partnering with other parts of the University to create new potential sources of revenues and to provide positive incentives for them to help us discover what they are and to exploit them to the fullest.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

So we do not expect to simply live on whatever our General Fund budget happens to be, but to expand the boundaries of the budget that we have. We also want to remember that we are on the verge of launching a large development campaign. That development campaign is going to play a substantial role in helping us identify additional resources to do the things we believe are important and need to be done without simply expecting faculty, staff, and students to bear the burden for us.

Finally, on the issue of morale and how we can get people feeling more positive about what is going on here, this is an initiative that we discussed in the Educational Affairs Committee and it involves the academic enrichment fund. I do not want to get into all the particulars now, except to say that we have, in principle, changed the way we plan and invest long-term at this University. It involves investing only funds that we have budgeted. That is what the academic enrichment fund is about. But a critical element of that academic enrichment fund and where those resources go is that there is an open competitive round where programs can come up with new and creative ideas for uses of investment funds and expect to get an honest and fair hearing for their ideas. The University community, as a whole, will be told how those funds are being allocated and why. So that every program on this campus has an opportunity to propose some exciting, terrific things for all of us to pursue, and to be part of the investment process. I think that is important for turning peoples' morale around in a positive direction.

Mr. William Shkurti:

Let me begin by adding an addendum to Ed's response to Mr. Shumate's question about morale. You will also notice on page 69, where there is language about strengthening academic support services by investment in customer-oriented services, new technology, and removal of barriers to improve service. This is what is more commonly called, "quality management-type initiatives." We think over the long run these will have a tremendous beneficial impact on the morale of students, faculty, and staff by trying to debureaucratize the institution so that we can overcome some of these barriers.

The other thing that I would like to address -- being in the role of the University's chief financial officer -- are a couple of bottom line issues that I think will illustrate the points that Dick made about our restructuring. He mentioned that enrollment is down and, in fact, head count enrollment at this institution has dropped 9 percent since the Fall of 1990. So the place has downsized, but the weighted FTE's -- which is the measure that the Board of Regents uses to measure workload, which takes into account how many credit hours the students take and at what level courses are being taught -- are down 3 percent. In other words, headcount is down 9 percent, but when you take into account the level of courses being taught and the number of credit hours offered the reduction is a lot less. So the institution has downsized, but the workload on faculty and staff has not decreased as much.

At the same time, the General Fund employment is down. I know the perception is that the University is the mother of all bureaucracies and in many ways it is, but one of the perceptions of bureaucracies are they are impervious to change. In fact, during this same three-year period when the number of students declined, the number of faculty paid out of the General Fund payroll -- which is where most of the faculty are paid -- are down 5 percent. We are going to have further reductions when the impact of early retirement works its way through the system over the next 2 years. The number of regular staff is down 9.5 percent. So the decrease in employees in the University, and the employees in faculty is greater than the decrease in weighted credit hours. So that led to the conclusion that Dick mentioned, that the University -- if we measured ourselves the way businesses measure, and we are not Ford and we are not General Motors, but we are using the traditional measures -- is much more productive than we were three years ago, despite budget cuts. Even though we are taking on additional responsibilities, the University is doing its part to improve the efficiency of its operations.

The other thing that I would like to address is the comparison of the peer institutions that Mr. Shumate asked about. If you turn to page 74, which is Attachment B, the actual comparison is listed. I should qualify this by saying that any numbers you put together in higher education are always subject to interpretation and can never be judged to be absolutely conclusive in the legal sense. In fact, you will see that these numbers point so clearly in a direction that they are very strongly suggestive that the University was underfunded to begin with and has some major resource challenges ahead of it. As Dick mentioned, this list is not only the public Big Ten -- we have taken Northwestern out, because we don't think Northwestern is a public school, it's really comparable. But if you take the public Big Ten, plus those five additional institutions listed in footnote 1 -- which are comprehensive, public, research institutions -- you have a pretty good peer to compare with.

If you look at the box under revenue, this is education and general revenues. We have taken out the Hospitals and auxiliaries, such as residence halls and athletics, to give us a better comparison. What it shows is that in Fiscal Year 1991, Ohio State got $16,906 in education and general revenue per full-time equivalent student. In 1991 that was 80 percent of the average of all the peer institutions. In other words, our revenue per student was 20 percent less than our peer or comparable institutions. By 1993 that had dropped to 77 percent, so we were 23 percent less than our peer institutions.

You can see the effect on expenditures. If you go down to the next line of the chart, it shows that our expenditures were 82 percent of the average in '91 and dropped to 75 percent of the average by '93. The other thing that I would point out is non-instructional expenditures -- which includes a portion of what everybody would define as the traditional bureaucracy -- were very low at Ohio State in 1991. That was 73 percent of the average of the peer institutions, in other words 27 percent below the average for comparable institutions. By Fiscal Year 1993 that had dropped to 66 percent or 34 percent below. So this University has a very lean tail compared to other similar universities, and it has gotten leaner over the last 3 years as we have restructured. What we have to be careful of is that we do not get so lean that we starve essential services, whether it's providing student financial aid or supporting our faculty in the classroom. In related matters, it goes back then to the point Ed made about expanding our horizons in terms of revenue and support from the State and from other sources.

In summary, what I would point out is that the University started out in Fiscal Year 1991 -- which is the last year before the major cuts started -- much leaner than our competitors on average. We are even leaner now, but we need to be careful that we do not get so lean that we are in a long run decline, in terms of our ability to compete. I think that is where the redefining of the University -- that Dick talked about at the end of his conversation -- comes in hand. We have to take the resources we have and make sure that we remain competitive as a vibrant, positive influence on the students that are here, the faculty and staff that are here, and the services we provide to the people of Ohio.

Mr. Kessler:

Any questions? Thank you, gentlemen.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF MATHEMATICAL AND PHYSICAL SCIENCES

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to call on Dean Jim Garland to report on the College of Mathematical and Physical Sciences. Dr. Garland --

Dr. James Garland:

(Transparency display.) It is a real pleasure to be here. It is every dean's dream to be able to come and brag about his/her college to the Board of Trustees and I am certainly no exception.

Let me begin by just telling you some of the basic facts about the College, some of our goals and aspirations, and then finish with some of our recent accomplishments.

The College has seven departments: Astronomy, Chemistry, Geodetic Science and Surveying, Geological Sciences, Math, Statistics, and Physics. The three large ones, of course, are Physics, Math, and Chemistry. Six of the seven departments are core disciplines, which have broad instructional responsibilities across the entire University. We don't have any centers which actually report to the College, but we are affiliated with many interdisciplinary centers, and programs, and consortia and I have listed those here. Most of the centers -- in fact all but one of them -- were either founded by or headed by College faculty.

Let me give you our statement of mission. This is what the faculty believe the College is all about and, of course, it deals with teaching, research, and service. First, to provide a quality education and intellectual experience for all students. The emphasis there is on the word "all." At some point, we touch every student who comes to the University and 80 percent of our instruction is for students who have majors outside the College. So we really see this as a major part of our responsibility to the students who are not primarily interested in studying in one of our core disciplines.

With respect to research, we are competing within an international arena. We are probably as research-oriented as any of the colleges at the University. And in terms of service, we provide service to schools, industry, government, and citizens in Ohio, and elsewhere. The elsewhere is an important component for our service mission. We see ourselves providing service to the rest of the nation, and I'd also just mention that many foreign countries send their students to us for an education.

Some basic statistics about the College -- this transparency shows the personnel count, I will just point out a couple of numbers on this. Our smallest department is the Department of Geodetic Science and Surveying, which currently has only seven faculty members; and the largest department is Mathematics, which has 93 faculty, down about 10 from a few years ago. We have close to 1,000 graduate students enrolled in the College, around 200 staff members, and a total faculty size of 246.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF MATHEMATICAL AND PHYSICAL SCIENCES (contd)

In our College restructuring plans, our initial idea was to take Geodetic Science and Surveying and merge it into Geological Sciences. An alternative idea -- which has surfaced since our original thinking on that -- was to transfer this department into the College of Engineering, where they would be merged with Civil Engineering and Engineering Graphics. The center of gravity of that department has shifted more and more toward the engineering disciplines in recent years, so right now we are discussing this kind of transfer with Dean Cruz of the College of Engineering.

In terms of our instructional responsibilities, this transparency shows a summary of our enrollments. In 1988, we taught about 24,500 students Autumn Quarter; that was 60 percent of the total number of undergraduate students at the University. In 1993, our enrollments had dropped to about 21,700, and the University enrollments had dropped proportionately. We are still teaching about 60 percent of the students enrolled at the University in any one quarter. Over the same time period, our graduate population has stayed almost constant. Our total number of credit hours is now running at about 17 percent of the total number of credit hours taught by the University. So we have very large instructional responsibilities.

The nature of the subjects in my College tend to attract some of the brainier students at the University and so we are very proud of our honors program. In fact, we have the largest honors offerings of any college at the University and here is just a list of the various honors courses. One of my own priorities is actually to strengthen our honors program as we recruit higher ability students into the University.

In terms of research, this transparency shows a record of our research funding over the past six years. In 1988, we dipped down to around $13 million and for '91 - '92 and '92 -'93, we have been up around $20 million. This slight decline is primarily a result of the early retirement programs in which some of our more research active faculty decided to take early retirement. The data for the most recent year is not in yet, we expect it within a month, but our preliminary indications is that we should be up here somewhere and so we are resuming our upward march. I am very pleased at this growth because over the same period, federal funding of basic research has been static or in some key agencies actually declining somewhat. So this is a record that we are very pleased with.

As long as I am on the subject of research funding, I thought I would mention to you what the research funding in the Department of Astronomy is doing. I know many of you were on the Board when the University decided to withdrawal from the Columbus Project, and there was concern expressed at that time that this could be the death knell for the Astronomy department. I am pleased to be able to say that this has not been the case. In fact, let me just show you the research funding history since 1987 in our Department of Astronomy.

The Columbus Project actually was conceived around 1985 and we withdrew from it right about here on the chart. Since then you can see that the growth in Astronomy has been truly spectacular. The department has about 15 faculty members now, it had about 15 faculty members back in the time of the Columbus Project, but they are not the same 15 faculty members. In fact, there are only three faculty members in the department today who were here in 1985. There is a long story behind this upward growth, but I don't think that I will go into that story this afternoon.

Let me tell you a little bit about faculty research honors in the College. Here is just a few of the research honors won by college faculty. There is a much longer list than this, but I tried to pick some that are by and large national competitions. We have eight Ohio Eminent Scholars in the department. That is 44 percent of the University total. We have 57 percent of the University professors, there are three members of the National Academy of Sciences at Ohio State, all three of them have appointments in my College and one of them is a shared appointment with Biological Sciences. The Distinguished Scholar Awards is an internal University award and we have 26 percent of those. The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation Fellowship is a very prestigious fellowship given to junior faculty members, and we have 13 of those.

The one that I am most proud of is this last column, the National Young Investigators, which used to be called the Presidential Young Investigators. This is a national program administered by the National Science Foundation. It is a fellowship that is made to junior faculty members and it is extremely competitive. Typically universities nominate their most distinguished junior faculty for the award and of those nominated, only about one in ten are actually selected. We have been extremely successful.

In fact, let me just show you on a department by department breakdown how those awards have gone. We have NYI or PYI awardees in four of our departments, an enormous number in Physics. The Physics Department has really made a concerted effort to nominate its young faculty, but this is an impressive record for all of these departments. These are very difficult to get and these are the life blood of our future at the University.

Let me say a little bit now about some of the long-range goals of the College, which were actually approved by the faculty. One goal is to achieve top ten ranking. That job is not as easy as you might think, if you ever thought it was an easy job. Because of the nature of the disciplines in our College, we are not only competing with the major public universities -- the Penn States, Michigans, and Berkeleys of the world -- but we are also competing with the Harvards, Cal Techs, and MITs. The core sciences are high priorities at virtually every prestigious university in the United States. So this is a very tough goal for us to achieve, but we think that we are going to be able to reach it.

We want to increase the visibility and stature of the faculty using quantitative measurements. Each of our departments has its own quantitative measure of faculty performance. It varies from things like per capita funding of research dollars, the number of invited papers and major conferences, and publications in prestigious journals, indicators of this sort. So one of our goals is to increase our performance in this area.

We want to improve the quality, diversity, and efficiency of the learning environment at all levels, not only our graduate programs in quantum field theory, for example, but our basic remedial courses in mathematics. And we also want to increase and facilitate interdisciplinary research.

Let me tell you some of my own personal goals as Dean of the College. Recruiting faculty is my number one priority, it's also the number one priority for my department chairs. In my opinion -- and I know this is an opinion shared by many of you -- the quality of the institution will never be any better than the quality of the faculty that we hire. So hiring these people and also keeping them here is a top priority. A corollary to this, of course, is to maintain high standards in our promotion and tenure procedures so that we only keep on our permanent faculty those persons who are truly outstanding.

Dr. Garland: (contd)

I want to improve the environment for women and minorities in the College. The physical sciences, as some of you know, has historically not been very hospitable to women and minorities. We are all working very hard to try and improve the environment and we have a number of programs underway. The best way to improve the environment, of course, is to bring more women and minorities into the College, both on the faculty and in the students. We have been working very hard to do this, but it is an uphill battle. I have to tell you it is very difficult in these areas.

I want to improve GTA training and service course instruction. A few years ago we were hearing complaints -- in fact, we still hear complaints -- from students who can't understand their foreign TA's or various problems of this sort. So TA training is something that we take seriously and we have made some innovations in this area and we are still working on it.

I want to enhance our honors program as I mentioned before. I want to improve laboratory safety and the quality of space. Some of our laboratory buildings are in very poor shape, some of them are very old and outmoded. We are having a lot of trouble trying to comply with OSHA's standards in some of them. This is a high priority. And I want to increase fundraising and development efforts. This is not something that we have historically paid much attention to in the University, but I think it is very important that we pay attention to it in the future.

My associate deans and I, and the rest of the people in the College office, see that our primary responsibility is to make things happen. What I mean by that is that we do not want to be viewed as a bureaucracy that puts impediments in the way of good ideas. What we would like to do is to encourage good ideas and initiatives from the faculty and then try to be responsive to those, try to make things happen.

I thought I would finish up by giving you an example of one of our achievements from the past year. It has been a good year in terms of research awards and prizes for faculty and things of that sort, but I would like to tell you instead about a recruitment we did for a junior assistant professor. One of the policies that we have in the College is that all finalists for a faculty position, in any department, are interviewed by the dean or by one of our associate deans. We have not been hiring a lot of faculty in recent years because of budget cutbacks. We have been downsizing like everybody else, but we are still hiring new faculty.

Normally what I like to do is review the C.V. of each person and then sit down and have a talk with that person. One day I was running a little bit late, I walked in and was told that I had an appointment in two minutes to speak to a candidate. I didn't really get a chance to look at the C.V. This was a candidate for one of our astronomy openings in theoretical astrophysics. I sat down with this person for maybe 45 minutes and I was immediately captivated by him. He was outgoing, he was personable, and he was working on very arcane mathematical models of the early universe. He was able to put that into an intelligible form. He was excited about what he was doing.

It was clear to me when I talked to him that this would be a person who could really bring to life the subject matter that he was an expert in to his students. What I did not know was whether he was any good. I knew he would be good in the classroom, I could just tell that from his personality, but I did not know how good a scholar he was. So after he left, I took time to read his C.V. and his letters of recommendation. Let me just read a little from one of the letters of recommendations that we got on this candidate. This is from a distinguished full professor who holds an endowed chair in astrophysics at Princeton University and that is the university where this applicant was from. He said, "David was truly remarkable in a graduate class, the most remarkable that we have had in a very long time. Our best students are typically very good, indeed, but also show some frailty in one area or another. David seems to avoid such weaknesses. He was a model student during his whole stay here, consistently doing better than anyone else, even in our most boring or difficult courses.

He was an intellectual and personal leader for the rest of the students and he turned out an absolutely amazing amount of first-rate research in a wide-ranging variety of topics. All the while, he began and finished at least five completely separate projects as a student. Each one of which produced at least one very good published paper and a couple of them several very good papers. An enviable record for an excellent established faculty member and unique in my experience for a student." This person finishes the letter by saying, "He would be a credit to any department, however excellent. He is very, very good, uniquely so, and I recommend him to you as highly as I know how and completely without reservation."

That sentiment was echoed by five other letters of recommendations that we had. So it was clear that we had to get this person. It was an uphill battle, we had to fight for several months. We recruited him and his wife to campus several times. We had to overcome a number of reservations he had about coming to Ohio State. We were doing battle with MIT and the University of Chicago at the time, but in the end we prevailed. It was a cooperative effort -- Provost Sisson was a big help and Dean Harris of the College of Arts was a big help, because we had to find a position for his wife -- that seems to be happening almost all of the time these days.

He was also extremely expensive for us, and not in terms of his salary. Like many of the top people in these academic fields, they are not really that interested in their salary, at least as junior assistant professors. Once he has house payments to make and college tuition to pay, that changes. But initially the salary is not what brings them here. What does bring them here is by and large the quality of colleagues with whom they have to interact, the sense of vitality of the department, and the feeling that the department is able to convey to them the excitement and intellectual vigor.

It was interesting to me when I was reading through his letters, one of his references compared him to some of the other young stars in astrophysics. They said that he is not perhaps quite as technically brilliant as Barbara Ryden, but his strengths go far beyond technical brilliance. Well Barbara Ryden is one of the young stars in theoretical astrophysics and she is on our faculty. We hired her the year before. She is a National Young Investigator. I think she may also be a Sloan Fellow and she was also a major recruiting effort for us.

I mention this example because I want to make the following point. We tend to pat ourselves on the back -- my College and the rest of the University -- over the glitzy major achievements that we make, when someone wins a million dollar research award or when we get a large gift which enables us to build a new building or when someone wins a major prize. Those are all important advances for the University, but I think sometimes it is these small triumphs of hiring outstanding junior faculty -- this doesn't get picked up by the newspaper and we don't issue press releases; nobody may know about it outside the particular discipline and a handful of administrators -- that will really make the University one of the major educational centers of the world. Thank you very much.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF MATHEMATICAL AND PHYSICAL SCIENCES (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Dr. Garland. Are there any questions of Jim?

President Gee:

Jim, just a couple of questions. I was fascinated by the recruitment of the young astrophysicist. Apparently the direction that we are taking in our program has been one that has caught peoples' fancy, in terms of coming here, because we have hired very good junior faculty. Am I right in that regard?

Dr. Garland:

You are talking about astronomy?

President Gee:

Yes, astronomy.

Dr. Garland:

We have three areas in which we are trying to coordinate and advance in astronomy. One of them is in theory and this young man is one of our theorist. Another area is in astronomical instrumentation. Now before I was Dean, I thought what that meant was eye pieces for telescopes, but, in fact, what it really means are banks of computers and sophisticated electronic detectors. The third area is in observational astronomy, basically using the telescopes that the instrumentation facilities develop instruments for. Those are the three areas and they are coordinated together, and we are having a great deal of success in building on those.

President Gee:

So we do have access to some good telescope time now?

Dr. Garland:

We have limited access in the short-term and we are in a holding pattern there. At some point the department feels, and I agree, that we really do need to have access to one of the major telescopes of the world. We are still working on that to become a partner in a limited way.

Mr. Celeste:

I noticed a big decrease in the number of undergraduates in mathematics, is that typical of other places?

Dr. Garland:

I think it just reflects the student enrollment at the University in general. Most of the credit hours taught in mathematics are service credit hours taught to students in other areas, so that as University enrollments decline, the math teaching declines as well. Now we have had growth in chemistry. We have had more students taking chemistry, but chemistry teaches to a large number of students in technical areas and those areas have not been showing the same kind of decline as the University population as a whole.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF MATHEMATICAL AND PHYSICAL SCIENCES (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

Jim, you mentioned in the beginning one of your mission statements was to be ranked in the top 10 with a difficult peer group. Where do we rank?

Dr. Garland:

It is hard to know. For one thing, you have to go on a department by department basis, but I would say right now we are probably around the top 15 -- some departments are better and some are a little bit worse.

Mr. Kessler:

Are there any other questions for Dr. Garland? Thank you, Jim.

REPORT ON RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Mr. Celeste:

A copy of the report is in front of you for the May 1994 Grants and Contracts period. Awards for the year are up to about $139 million or 0.2 percent above the July to May time period last year. A summary of the award totals is given in the first section of the report.

Expenditures from external sources in Tab 2 are ahead of last year by 9.2 percent, for a total of $143.6 million through May 31, 1994. At Tab 3, four projects are highlighted and at Tab 4, a complete list of new awards received in May is presented.

I would like to mention that I did have the opportunity this past week to visit the ElectroScience Laboratory and would urge everybody to do the same. I might mention, that I was there surrounded by a lot of the brass from the military, who are helpful in supporting our activities and they were going through the same process. Some of the demonstrations I saw were ground penetrating radar, foliage penetration images, helicopter antenna radiation pattern analysis code, intelligent vehicular highway system radar studies, and sea ice remote sensing antenna, among many others. I was not able to see some of the demonstrations, because only the military could see them.

I also had the opportunity this week to meet with some folks who have been working on software development that they believe might have some commercial applications. We have talked about the importance of the opportunities for technology transfer and that is something that we are going to be focusing on as much as possible in the future.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 95-1

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for May 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS (contd)

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of May 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

On June 30 the Strategic Planning Committee continued its discussion on how the Medical Center could remain viable in the changing medical economy by focusing on the elements and issues related to the development of a medical center based integrated finance and delivery system. With such a finance/delivery system, the OSU Medical Center could:

Provide a broad continuum of care through new and expanded services.

Accept risk for providing professional and institutional clinical services, i.e., a single premium per covered life per month for all services provided.

The Committee discussed the components already in place and those components which will be needed, and the actions required to position the Medical Center to create the healthcare financing and delivery system. Estimates of the capitalization requirements were also discussed.

The Executive Committee received reports on: the Hospitals' intent to continue pursuit of its legal case for additional indirect medical education reimbursement from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services; and the final adjustments to a business plan for a captive malpractice insurance company, which will permit increased control and use of the assets of the existing self-insurance trust fund. This plan will be forwarded to the University Fiscal Affairs Committee for further review and action.

The Committee reviewed the financial and statistical report, noting that while there were fewer admissions than budgeted, the increased intensity of service per patient and strong expense controls resulted in the current financial operations remaining strong.

At this time, I would like to present the following resolution for approval:

UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD REAPPOINTMENTS

Resolution No. 95-2

Synopsis: Approval of the reappointment of University Hospitals Board members is proposed.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees on November 30, 1979, approved the establishment of a University Hospitals Board; and

UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD REAPPOINTMENTS (contd)

WHEREAS the membership of the Hospitals Board was approved on April 4, 1980, and has been subsequently amended; and

WHEREAS the term of four general public members of the Hospitals Board have expired:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the following individuals be reappointed as general public members of the University Hospitals Board, as follows:

- Donald K. Day, effective May 1, 1994 - April 30, 1997
- David P. Lauer, effective May 1, 1994 - April 30, 1997
- Judy Barker, effective July 1, 1994 - April 30, 1997
- William M. Bennett, effective July 1, 1994 - April, 30, 1997

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

The Educational Affairs Committee met this morning and we heard from Provost Dick Sisson on two matters: academic enrichment and changes in international affairs. We also heard from Dr. Ed Ray on an update of the Early Retirement Incentive Program and our academic support unit restructuring. I would now like to call upon Provost Sisson to present the resolutions for approval by this Board.

Provost Sisson:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The following eight resolutions are part of the materials that you have before you:

ADMINISTRATIVE RESTRUCTURING

Resolution No. 95-3

WHEREAS the University's commitment to restructuring includes ensuring that academic support units provide cost effective operations that take advantage of the efficiencies gained by consolidating complementary activities; and

WHEREAS administrative computing is managed by University Systems, which reports to the Vice President for Business and Administration, and Academic Technology Services, which reports to the Chief Information Officer in the Office of Academic Affairs, are part of the same overall university information system; and

WHEREAS the University Center for International Studies, which reports to the Dean of Social and Behavioral Sciences, has university-wide responsibilities that are comparable to those of other area studies centers, which report to the Senior Vice Provost in the Office of Academic Affairs:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That University Systems will report to the Chief Information Officer, with UNITS (University Network Integrated Telecommunications System) remaining in the Office of Business and Administration, and that the University Center for International Studies will report to the Senior Vice Provost in the Office of Academic Affairs; and

ADMINISTRATIVE RESTRUCTURING (contd)

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the Board of Trustees be hereby authorized and directed to incorporate the above changes of the Bylaws of the Board of Trustees and the Rules of the University Faculty.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY- MANSFIELD BOARD APPOINTMENTS

Resolution No. 95-4

Synopsis: Approval of nominees to The Ohio State University-Mansfield Board is proposed.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees on June 3, 1994, approved the establishment of The Ohio State University-Mansfield Board; and

WHEREAS it has been previously stipulated that "The Mansfield board shall be composed of eleven members appointed by the Ohio State University Board of Trustees in consultation with the president of the university" (one member of the Mansfield board shall be a member of the university board of trustees; nine members shall be private citizens; and one member shall be a student); and

WHEREAS the following named persons have been nominated and selected for appointment to The Ohio State University-Mansfield Board for the term as specified:

Trustee Member

Name	Term of Appointment
James F. Patterson	3 years

Private Citizens

Paige Squires	3 years
Lydia Reid	3 years
Jeffrey Molyet	3 years
Rush Stumbo	2 years
James Meyer	2 years
Evelyn McDonald	2 years
John Roby	1 year
Robert Houk	1 year
Gary Feagin	1 year

Student Member

Larry Douglas Stephens	1 year
------------------------	--------

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing nominees be approved as members of The Ohio State University-Mansfield Board, effective July 1, 1994.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-LIMA AND
THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-MARION BOARDS OF TRUSTEES

Resolution No. 95-5

Synopsis: Authorization to establish a Board of Trustees at the Lima and Marion Campuses is proposed.

WHEREAS the Educational Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees has discussed the establishment of a Board of Trustees at The Ohio State University-Lima and The Ohio State University-Marion; and

WHEREAS committee members have directed the Office of Academic Affairs and the Office of Legal Affairs to develop proposed bylaws for such a Board; and

WHEREAS the attached bylaws have been developed in close consultation with the faculty and administration at all four regional campuses:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Board of Trustees approve the establishment of Boards of Trustees at the Lima and Marion Campuses as described in the following bylaws:

LIMA - BYLAWS

3335-117-01 COMPOSITION AND ADMINISTRATION OF THE BOARD.

- (A) THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES HEREBY ESTABLISHES A BODY TO BE KNOWN AS THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY - LIMA BOARD OF TRUSTEES ("THE LIMA BOARD").
- (1) THE LIMA BOARD SHALL BE COMPOSED OF ELEVEN MEMBERS APPOINTED BY THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CONSULTATION WITH THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY.
 - (2) ONE MEMBER OF THE LIMA BOARD SHALL BE A MEMBER OF THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES (THE "TRUSTEE MEMBER"). NINE MEMBERS SHALL BE PRIVATE CITIZENS WHO HAVE AN INTEREST IN AND KNOWLEDGE OF HIGHER EDUCATION AND WHO RESIDE WITHIN THE AREA SERVED BY THE INSTITUTION. NO EMPLOYEE OF THE UNIVERSITY AND NO EMPLOYEE OR MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF THE LIMA TECHNICAL COLLEGE SHALL BE ELIGIBLE TO SERVE AS A CITIZEN MEMBER. THE SELECTION PROCESS FOR THE LIMA BOARD MEMBERS SHALL INCORPORATE THE AFFIRMATIVE ACTION POLICIES OF THE UNIVERSITY.
 - (3) ONE MEMBER OF THE LIMA BOARD SHALL BE A STUDENT WHO IS CURRENTLY ENROLLED AT THE LIMA REGIONAL CAMPUS. THE STUDENT MEMBER SHALL HAVE NO VOTING POWER ON THE BOARD, SHALL NOT BE CONSIDERED AS A MEMBER OF THE BOARD IN DETERMINING WHETHER A QUORUM IS PRESENT, AND SHALL NOT BE ENTITLED TO ATTEND EXECUTIVE SESSIONS. THE STUDENT MEMBER SHALL SERVE A TERM OF ONE YEAR.
 - (4) INITIAL APPOINTMENTS OF THREE CITIZEN MEMBERS SHALL BE FOR TERMS OF THREE YEARS. THREE CITIZEN MEMBERS SHALL INITIALLY BE APPOINTED FOR TERMS OF TWO YEARS. THREE CITIZEN MEMBERS SHALL INITIALLY BE APPOINTED FOR TERMS OF ONE YEAR. THEREAFTER, CITIZEN MEMBERS SHALL SERVE THREE-YEAR TERMS. NO CITIZEN MEMBER SHALL SERVE MORE THAN THREE CONSECUTIVE FULL TERMS.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-LIMA AND
THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY-MARION BOARDS OF TRUSTEES (contd)

LIMA - BYLAWS (contd)

- (5) THE TRUSTEE MEMBER SHALL SERVE A TERM OF THREE YEARS AND MAY BE REAPPOINTED SO LONG AS HE OR SHE REMAINS A MEMBER OF THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES.
- (6) TERMS OF THE APPOINTED MEMBERS SHALL BEGIN ON JULY 1.
- (7) MEMBERS OF THE LIMA BOARD SHALL SERVE WITHOUT COMPENSATION BUT MAY BE REIMBURSED FOR EXPENSES INCURRED IN THE PERFORMANCE OF THEIR DUTIES. NAME CHANGE OF COLLEGE

Resolution No. 95-6

Synopsis: The name change from the College of Agriculture to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences is proposed.

NAME CHANGE OF COLLEGE (contd)

WHEREAS the College of Agriculture believes that its current name does not adequately reflect the activities of the College and its faculty; and

WHEREAS the College includes curricula in food science, food business management, sustainable resource management, and is the home for the interdisciplinary Environmental Science Program and the School of Natural Resources; and

WHEREAS the College believes the proposed new name will be beneficial in their attempts to recruit students, secure extramural funding, and better describe to the public the nature of their work; and

WHEREAS the proposed new name has been widely discussed with students, faculty, and staff within the College, appropriate alumni groups and other external constituencies of the College and have been approved by a vote of the faculty; and

WHEREAS the recommendation of favorable action on this proposal by the Council on Academic Affairs includes a clear understanding that approval of this proposal does not preclude the use of the terms "food" or "environmental" by other units; and

WHEREAS the proposed name change was approved by the University Senate at its June 4, 1994 meeting:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees approve the proposal for the name change from the College of Agriculture to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences, effective immediately.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY

Resolution No. 95-7

Synopsis: Approval of the following amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty are recommended.

WHEREAS the University Senate pursuant to rule 3335-1-09 of the Administrative Code is authorized to recommend through the President to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty as approved by the University Senate; and

WHEREAS the proposed changes to the Rules of the University Faculty were approved by the University Senate on June 4, 1994:

Amended Rules

3335-5-19 Faculty.

As used in these rules the term "faculty" shall include persons appointed by the board of trustees with regular, regular clinical, auxiliary, and emeritus faculty titles on full- or part-time appointments, with or without salary.

- (A) "Regular faculty": persons with the titles of professor, associate professor, assistant professor, and instructor who serve on appointments totaling fifty per cent or more service to the university. REGULAR FACULTY ARE TENURE-TRACK FACULTY.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

Amended Rules (contd)

- (B) "Regular clinical faculty": persons with the titles of professor of clinical (division, department or college), associate professor of clinical (division, department or college), assistant professor of clinical (division, department or college), and instructor of clinical (division, department or college), who serve on appointments totaling fifty per cent or more service to the university. Regular clinical faculty appointments are made only in the college of dentistry, the college of nursing, the college of optometry, the departments of veterinary clinical sciences and veterinary preventive medicine in the college of veterinary medicine, the divisions of pharmacy practice and pharmaceutical administration in the college of pharmacy, and the following departments in the college of medicine: anesthesiology, emergency medicine, family medicine, internal medicine, neurology, obstetrics and gynecology, ophthalmology, otolaryngology, pathology, pediatrics, physical medicine AND REHABILITATION, preventive medicine, psychiatry, radiology, and surgery. REGULAR CLINICAL FACULTY ARE NOT ELIGIBLE FOR TENURE.

The number of persons holding regular clinical faculty titles in each division, department or college authorized to make such appointments cannot be greater than forty percent of the combined total of regular and regular clinical faculty in that division, department or college. Individuals appointed to the regular clinical faculty are limited to participating in governance at the division, departmental and college levels, but may not participate in promotion and tenure matters of regular faculty.

- (C) "Auxiliary faculty": persons with adjunct titles, clinical titles, visiting titles, ~~AND LECTURERS~~ LECTURER TITLES; also professors, associate professors, assistant professors, and instructors who serve on appointments totaling less than fifty per cent service to the university. PERSONS WITH REGULAR FACULTY TITLES MAY NOT HOLD AUXILIARY TITLES. PERSONS HOLDING AUXILIARY TITLES ARE NOT ELIGIBLE FOR TENURE, MAY NOT VOTE AT ANY LEVEL OF GOVERNANCE, AND MAY NOT PARTICIPATE IN PROMOTION AND TENURE MATTERS.

(1) THE TITLES OF ADJUNCT PROFESSOR, ADJUNCT ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, ADJUNCT ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, AND ADJUNCT INSTRUCTOR SHALL BE USED TO CONFER FACULTY STATUS ON INDIVIDUALS WHO HAVE CREDENTIALS COMPARABLE TO REGULAR FACULTY OF EQUIVALENT RANK, WHO PROVIDE SIGNIFICANT, UNCOMPENSATED SERVICE TO THE INSTRUCTIONAL AND/OR RESEARCH PROGRAMS OF THE UNIVERSITY AND WHO NEED A FACULTY TITLE TO PERFORM THAT SERVICE. SIGNIFICANT SERVICE WOULD INCLUDE TEACHING THE EQUIVALENT OF ONE OR MORE COURSES, ADVISING GRADUATE STUDENTS OR SERVING ON GRADUATE COMMITTEES, AND SERVING AS A CO-INVESTIGATOR ON A RESEARCH PROJECT. SUCH INDIVIDUALS MAY BE EITHER NONUNIVERSITY EMPLOYEES OR UNIVERSITY EMPLOYEES COMPENSATED ON A NONINSTRUCTIONAL BUDGET. ADJUNCT APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE FOR THE PERIOD IN WHICH THE UNCOMPENSATED SERVICE IS PROVIDED NOT TO EXCEED ONE YEAR; RENEWAL IS CONTINGENT UPON CONTINUED SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTIONS. PROCEDURES FOR THE PROMOTION OF ADJUNCT FACULTY MEMBERS SHALL BE THE SAME AS FOR PROMOTION OF REGULAR FACULTY.

(2) THE TITLES OF CLINICAL PROFESSOR, CLINICAL ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, CLINICAL ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, AND CLINICAL INSTRUCTOR SHALL BE USED TO CONFER FACULTY STATUS ON INDIVIDUALS WHO HAVE CREDENTIALS COMPARABLE TO REGULAR CLINICAL FACULTY OF EQUIVALENT RANK AND WHO EITHER PROVIDE SIGNIFICANT, UNCOMPENSATED SERVICE FOR WHICH A FACULTY TITLE IS NEEDED OR COMPENSATED SERVICE TO THE CLINICAL INSTRUCTIONAL PROGRAMS IN THE COLLEGES OF THE HEALTH SCIENCES. CLINICAL APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE FOR THE PERIOD IN WHICH THE SERVICE IS PROVIDED NOT TO EXCEED ONE YEAR. RENEWAL OF NO-SALARY APPOINT-

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

Amended Rules (contd)

MENTS IS CONTINGENT UPON CONTINUED SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTIONS. PROCEDURES FOR THE PROMOTION OF CLINICAL FACULTY MEMBERS SHALL BE THE SAME AS FOR PROMOTION OF REGULAR CLINICAL FACULTY.

- (3) THE TITLES OF VISITING PROFESSOR, VISITING ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, VISITING ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, AND VISITING INSTRUCTOR SHALL BE USED TO CONFER FACULTY STATUS ON INDIVIDUALS WHO HAVE CREDENTIALS COMPARABLE TO REGULAR FACULTY OF EQUIVALENT RANK WHO SPEND A LIMITED PERIOD OF TIME ON FORMAL APPOINTMENT AND IN RESIDENCE AT THIS INSTITUTION FOR PURPOSES OF PARTICIPATING IN THE INSTRUCTIONAL AND RESEARCH PROGRAMS OF THE UNIVERSITY. A VISITING APPOINTMENT CANNOT EXCEED THREE CONTINUOUS ACADEMIC YEARS OF SERVICE.
- (4) THE TITLES OF LECTURER AND SENIOR LECTURER SHALL BE USED FOR ALL COMPENSATED INSTRUCTIONAL APPOINTMENTS WHERE OTHER TITLES ARE NOT APPROPRIATE. LECTURERS' RESPONSIBILITIES SHALL BE LIMITED TO FORMAL COURSE INSTRUCTION.
- (D) "Emeritus faculty": persons who have served the university continuously as regular or regular clinical faculty for at least ten consecutive years who, upon retirement, were recommended by the chairperson, the dean and the senior vice president for academic affairs and provost for emeritus status. EMERITUS FACULTY MAY NOT VOTE AT ANY LEVEL OF GOVERNANCE AND MAY NOT PARTICIPATE IN PROMOTION AND TENURE MATTERS BUT MAY HAVE SUCH OTHER PRIVILEGES AS INDIVIDUAL ACADEMIC UNITS OR THE OFFICE OF HUMAN RESOURCES MAY PROVIDE.

3335-5-485 Athletic council.

- (A) Unchanged.
- (B) Duties and responsibilities.
- (1) Develop, subject to the general authority of the president and the board of trustees, policies governing intercollegiate and intramural athletics, as the agent of the senate. The senate may hold these policies in review.
- (a) These policies shall guide the administration of the program of intercollegiate athletics by the director of athletics, but the athletic council shall not serve in an administrative or executive capacity.
- (b) It will consider and establish policy on such matters as the income and expenditures budget, the schedules for seasonal and post-seasonal play in relation to the effect upon the welfare of the athletes, grants and other financial aid to athletes, eligibility of athletes, student grievance procedures and sportsmanship policies related to athletics, awards to athletes, ticket distribution, and public and campus relations of the athletic program.
- (c) Its recommendations and decisions on policy shall be made known to the senate and to the staff of the department of athletics.
- (d) The athletic council shall appoint one of its members to the recreation-intramural sports advisory council. The athletic council shall keep informed of activities, needs, and plans for recreation and intramural sports programs through the director of university recreation and intramural sports.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

Amended Rules (contd)

- (2) Participate with the president in the process of selecting the university's two faculty representatives to the intercollegiate conference of faculty representatives (big ten conference).
- (a) For each faculty representative position, the athletic council shall prepare a list of no fewer than two regular faculty members from which the president shall select a faculty representative. All regular tenured faculty members are eligible for inclusion on these lists.
- (b) The chairperson of the athletic council shall appoint a nominating committee which shall have the responsibility to inform the university community about the position of faculty representative and to invite applications and/or recommendations for nominations. Brief recommendations in writing that state the candidate's qualifications for the position may be submitted to the nominating committee by any member of the university community. Applications and nominations shall be due in accordance with a reasonable schedule established by the nominating committee.
- (c) Final approval of each list of names submitted to the president shall be made by the full membership of the athletic council. The list for each faculty representative position shall be presented to the president during the ~~winter~~ AUTUMN quarter preceding the start of the next term of office in order to allow for a smooth transition between outgoing and incoming faculty representatives. THE NEW FACULTY REPRESENTATIVE WILL BE APPOINTED JANUARY 1 TO TAKE OFFICE JULY 1 OF THE SAME YEAR.
- (d) The terms of the representatives shall be arranged so that the terms shall not begin or expire within the same year. The term of office for a faculty representative is ~~three~~ FOUR years, beginning the first of July following appointment. Reappointment for no more than one additional ~~three~~FOUR-year term is permissible. If an incumbent faculty representative is eligible to and desires to serve another term, then at least seven months prior to the expiration of the current term, the athletic council shall undertake a review of the incumbent's performance. If the council decides that the incumbent should serve a second term and the president concurs, the faculty representative's term shall be renewed. Otherwise, the council shall move to prepare a list to submit to the president following the procedures of paragraphs (B)(2)(a) to (B)(2)(c) of this rule.
- (e) A faculty representative who is not already a member of the athletic council shall attend meetings of the council. The chairperson of the athletic council, or the chairperson's designee from among the faculty members of the athletic council, shall serve as an ex officio alternate for either faculty representative with full voting privileges at conference meetings.

Balance unchanged.

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty be adopted as recommended by the University Senate.

Mr. Shumate:

I have a question?

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

Yes, Alex?

Mr. Shumate:

We just received a letter this morning that raised a question as to one of the proposed rule amendments. I just wonder if we could get some background or comments regarding this proposal to amend faculty rule 3335-5-19?

President Gee:

Nancy is here or Dick, if either one of you would like to respond?

Provost Sisson:

Vice Provost Nancy Rudd will respond.

Dr. Nancy Rudd:

As Provost Sisson indicated these rule changes came about as a result of broad-based consultation with deans, department chairs, Senate committees, with the Faculty Council of the Senate, and, of course, ultimately with the Senate. Throughout those conversations the impact of these changes on a few staff members in Social Work was both understood and judged to be appropriate. So that was understood.

I think the various bodies discussing these rules would feel that if a position's responsibilities are those of a faculty member and require faculty rights, then the position should be filled by a faculty member. We do not solve a misallocation of titles by giving staff members faculty titles and faculty rights.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Nancy. Are there any further questions? Alex, do you have any other questions?

Mr. Shumate:

Just so I am clear, Nancy, these specific issues that are raised in this letter were raised throughout the process?

Dr. Rudd:

That is correct. I might add that although I have not taken a tally, I know that the point of view in this letter is not shared by all faculty in the College of Social Work.

Mr. Shumate:

Thank you.

Mr. Kessler:

Any additional questions?

Dr. Amy Riemenschneider:

This was an issue in terms that it had been a controversy within the faculty before about voting rights and so forth. And the majority of the tenure-track faculty, I think, supported the motion that went through the Senate.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

Dr. Riemenschneider: (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you.

DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES - SUMMER QUARTER COMMENCEMENT

Resolution No. 95-8

Synopsis: Approval of Degrees and Certificates for Summer Quarter is proposed

WHEREAS pursuant to paragraph (E) of rule 3335-1-06 of the Administrative Code, the Board has authority for the issuance of degrees and certificates; and

RESOLUTION IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 95-10

Synopsis: Approval of one Resolution in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolution in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey a copy to the family of the deceased.

Robert T. Trippy

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 14, 1994, of Robert T. Trippy, Associate Professor Emeritus in the College of Dentistry.

Dr. Trippy was born November 9, 1912, in Van Wert, Ohio. He completed his pre-dentistry education at Ohio State after two years of study at Miami University and entered the College of Dentistry from which he graduated with the D.D.S. degree in 1937. Following graduation, he immediately entered the practice of dentistry in Columbus and joined the College of Dentistry's faculty as a part-time demonstrator. He was a part-time clinical faculty member until 1959 when he joined the regular faculty with the rank of assistant professor. He was promoted to associate professor in 1964 and retired September 30, 1974.

He is best known by the over 3,000 dental students who graduated during his tenure as a teacher of dental anatomy, an element of traditional dental education which combines didactics with the drawing and carving of teeth, a course in which he had excelled as a dental student. He became the course director of dental anatomy in 1959. He also directed the College's Dental Assistant Utilization Program for the decade prior to his retirement.

Dr. Trippy was active in his church. He was a member of the International Wood Carvers Association and the Free and Accepted Masons. He was elected as a faculty member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon Dental Honorary Society and was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

RESOLUTION IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Robert T. Trippy (contd)

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his family. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the above resolutions and upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolutions by unanimous roll call vote.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Amb. Wolf:

The monthly Endowment Report is for the period May 20, 1994, through June 17, 1994. The market value of the Endowment Fund on June 17, 1994 was $496.4 million. This total was approximately $4.6 million above the May 20, 1994, market value. The market value of the equity portion of the Endowment Fund increased $3.0 million, while the fixed income portion decreased $800,000 during this reporting period. Recent appraisals on the West Granville Road properties resulted in an increase of $2 million on real estate investments during this reporting period. Net new additions to the Endowment Fund for June totalled $1.8 million.

Since July 1, 1993, the Endowment Fund has increased $3.2 million, including net new additions of $12.8 million. The current asset allocation for the Endowment is 60 percent invested in equities, 25 percent in fixed income, 8 percent in real estate, and 7 percent is cash equivalents.

Mr. Nichols updated the Investments Committee on the refinancing proposals for the River Road Hotel Corporation, which has previously been discussed at this Board meeting. He also presented the annual resolution authorizing the Treasurer and/or Vice President of Finance to buy and sell securities, and open and close bank accounts.

We also had a report from Mr. May regarding the Development activities of the University. The report on private support to the University for July-May compared with the same period last year is in the Development section of your notebook.

Gift receipts during May totaled $4.6 million, which was 15 percent better than May 1993. Some other highlights in the report are as follows: gifts from non-alumni individuals remains strong (up 21 percent); also gifts from private foundations continue to be ahead of last year (up 15 percent); corporate giving is strong despite the 4 percent decrease shown. A large gift-in-kind last year of $3.2 million somewhat skews the comparison. If this one gift is factored out, corporate giving would be up 14 percent this year. I am pleased to report that gifts to support student financial aid are up 8 percent.

I would like to recommend approval of the following Development Report, including the establishment of seven new named endowment funds totaling $142,112 in restricted support to the University, and the revision of two named endowed funds. I also recommend the acceptance of $1,440,817 in gift receipts to endowed funds and $3,120,003 to current use funds received during the month of May.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 95-11

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for May 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of seven (7) new named endowed funds and amendments to two (2) endowed funds :

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of May 1994 be approved.

A Non -Alumni individual giving is up 21% largely due to an increase in gifts of $10,000 or more (112 gifts for $6.8 million last year; 111 gifts for $8.4 million this year). Alumni giving is down 30%. The five largest gifts from alumni thus far this year total $3.5 million. For the same period of time last year, the five largest alumni gifts totaled $8.2 million.

B Corporate giving is down 4%. This is largely due to the $3.2 mainframe computer given by IBM last year in January. No corporate gift of this magnitude has been received this year. However, if the $3.2 million computer is factored out, corporate giving is up 14%.

C Gifts of $10,000 or more from private foundations are more than $700,000 ahead of the same time last year.

D Last year during July-May, 93 associations or other organizations gave $10,000 or more ($2,829,940). This year during the same period only 65 organizations gave at this level for a total of $1,865,052.

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

Department of Psychology Endowment Fund

The Department of Psychology Endowment Fund was established July 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from alumni and friends of the Department of Psychology.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used at the discretion of the Department of Psychology by its chairperson.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

$35,000.00

Bob Gano Memorial Fund

The Bob Gano Memorial Fund was established July 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Mary Gano of New Philadelphia, Ohio, (B.S.Agr., Dairy '89) and other family members and friends.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide a scholarship to students whose major field of study is Dairy Cattle Production and Management at the Agricultural Technical Institute. When the fund is sufficient to provide additional scholarships, students in the Crops Management Technology at the Agricultural Technical Institute will also be eligible. First preference will be given to second-year students and Tuscarawas County residents; prior academic performance and a strong commitment to the dairy industry will be considered. Recipients will be selected by the financial aid coordinator in consultation with the dairy technology coordinator and the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

Dr. Arden K. Hegtvedt Student Research Endowed Scholarship Fund

The Dr. Arden K. Hegtvedt Student Research Endowed Scholarship Fund was established July 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the Dr. Arden K. Hegtvedt Student Research Scholarship Fund and from family, alumni, and friends in memory of Dr. Hegtvedt.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income is to be used to provide scholarship funds to a student(s) in the summer following completion of his or her first or second year of dental school. The intent of this fund is to serve as a memorial to Dr. Hegtvedt and to promote an interest in research among the students in the College of Dentistry. Selection of the scholarship recipient will be determined by consultation between the Chair and full-time faculty members of the Section of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery and the Dean of the College of Dentistry.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor(s).

Broward County, Florida Alumni Scholarship Fund

The Broward County, Florida Alumni Scholarship Fund was established March 2, 1984, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts from alumni and friends of Broward County to The Ohio State University Development Fund. The description was revised July 8, 1994.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as the occasion dictates.

The annual income is to be used to provide one or more scholarships for undergraduate students from Southeast Florida, enrolled in The Ohio State University. The selection of the recipient(s) is to be made by the University Committee on Student Financial Aid upon recommendation of a selection committee from the Broward County, Florida Alumni Club. If there is no eligible candidate(s) for the scholarship, then the earnings are to be accumulated and awarded as appropriate at a future date.

Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to the recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of the University who is then responsible for scholarships and student financial aid.

AUTHORIZATION FOR DESIGNATED OFFICIALS TO BUY, SELL, ASSIGN AND TRANSFER SECURITIES, TO DEPOSIT OR WITHDRAW FUNDS FROM BANK ACCOUNTS AND TO DESIGNATE DEPOSITORIES

Resolution No. 95-12

Synopsis: Reaffirmation of the Board of Trustees Resolution No 94-8 (July 9, 1993), which authorized designated officials to buy, sell, assign and transfer securities, to deposit or withdraw funds from bank accounts held in the name of The Ohio State University, and to designate depositories is proposed.

WHEREAS designated officials of the university buy, sell, assign and transfer stocks, bonds and other financial instruments owned by The Ohio State University; and

WHEREAS various financial institutions are designated as depositories of The Ohio State University; and

WHEREAS accounts at various financial institutions are opened and maintained in the name of The Ohio State University:

NOW THEREFORE

AUTHORIZATION FOR DESIGNATED OFFICIALS TO BUY, SELL, ASSIGN AND TRANSFER SECURITIES, TO DEPOSIT OR WITHDRAW FUNDS FROM BANK ACCOUNTS AND TO DESIGNATE DEPOSITORIES (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Finance and/or the Treasurer be authorized and empowered to buy, sell, assign and transfer any and all stocks, bonds, evidences of interest and/or indebtedness, rights and options to acquire or to sell the same, and all other securities corporate or otherwise, standing in the name of or belonging to The Ohio State University in any capacity; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Vice President of Finance and/or the Treasurer be authorized and empowered to designate various financial institutions as depositories for The Ohio State University and to open and maintain accounts at various financial institutions in the name of The Ohio State University; to sign Agreements for credit and non-credit bank services; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Vice President of Finance and/or the Treasurer be authorized, on behalf of The Ohio State University and in its name, to sign checks, drafts, notes, bills of exchange, letters of credit, acceptances or other orders for the payment of money from said accounts; to endorse in writing or by stamp checks, notes, bills, certificates of deposit or other instruments owned or held by this University for deposit in said accounts or for collection or discount by said banks; to accept drafts, acceptances, and other instruments payable to said banks; to waive, demand, protest, file notice of protest, or dishonor any check, note, bill, draft or other instrument made, drawn or endorsed by the University.

The Investments Committee recommended the above resolutions and upon motion of Amb. Wolf, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolutions by unanimous roll call vote.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

The Agricultural Affairs Committee met this morning and the main topic of discussion was a project called "Project Reinvent" through the College of Agriculture. Ohio State University is one of twelve universities receiving grants from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation to conduct a futuring process to determine what a modern land-grant college of agriculture should be. Kellogg's primary focus for this initiative is on colleges of agriculture. The initiative will also encourage university-wide transformation, with the College of Agriculture being the entry point and primary focus.

The desired end result is to transform the overall approach to preparing food systems professionals. A broad cross-section of food systems professionals in Ohio will serve as external partners to help redesign at least this portion of this land-grant institution, as well as offer suggestions for the total University. Seven other colleges at Ohio State are also cooperating and Regional Campuses will be involved as well.

The initial grant of $133,000 has been awarded for an 18-month visioning activity. Once the vision is developed, the project will develop an implementation plan. Those projects producing sufficiently innovative visions for the future will be eligible for long-term implementation funding, which could be very substantial and we look forward to this process.

We also set a date for the next Committee meeting, Mr. Chairman, which will be after the President's luncheon at the Farm Science Review, on Tuesday, September 20.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Mr. Celeste. Mr. Dailey, do you want to comment on anything?

Mr. Fred Dailey:

I just want to say that I think the project provides an opportunity for the College of Agriculture to take an introspective look at itself and make sure it is meeting the needs of the customers. I think it is a good opportunity and I hope that we will be able to further implement the planning process that we will be going through.

President Gee:

The other thing that is nice about this is that it is very consistent with the process that we are going through in the University itself and to have Kellogg come in and ask us to do something that we are already doing was in a way a homerun ball for us. Hopefully, we can fold those two activities in together. But then to have Kellogg finance it hopefully at a substantial level -- and we are talking about big bucks, millions of dollars -- would be a tremendous opportunity for Ohio State. So we are working very vigorously on this process.

Library Book Depository

This project will construct a high density storage facility in the University Services Center on Kenny Road to house low activity books combining filing, retrieval and delivery services which will allow for economical storage for University Libraries. The total project cost is $3,716,000; funding is provided from Senate Bill 351 ($3,317,000) and University funds ($400,000). The estimated completion date is June, 1995. The contracts awarded are as follows:

General Contract:	Weithman Brothers, Inc, Galion, Ohio
Amount:	$1,823,300 * +
Estimate:	$1,710,755 * +
Plumbing Contract:	Lincoln T. Mandeville/J. A. Croson (AJV), Columbus, Ohio
Amount:	$168,989 +
Estimate:	$ 99,795 +
HVAC Contract:	Farber Corporation, Columbus, Ohio
Amount:	$518,000
Estimate:	$644,250
Electric Contract:	Romanoff Electric Corp., Columbus, Ohio
Amount:	$338,300
Estimate:	$419,200
Total All Contracts:	$2,848,589 *
Moveable Equipment:	$200,000
Contingency Allowance:	$212,118 (7.5% of construction cost)
Total Project Cost:	$3,716,000

* Recommended alternates included in these totals.

+ The General and Plumbing Contracts are in excess of the filed estimate of cost; however the total price of all contracts is within 10% of the total estimate of cost and is recommended for award as provided by Section 153.12 of the Revised Code.

Campbell Hall Addition

This project will provide an addition of approximately 8,000 square feet to the northwest wing to house the historic costume and textiles collections, labs, and classrooms, and provide a 9,500 square feet addition enclosed in the courtyard to create a two-story atrium for a student center, meeting area, and faculty and staff offices. The total project cost is $3,430,892; funding is provided from House Bill 904 ($1,665,000) and gifts ($1,765,892). The estimated completion date is July 1995. The contracts awarded are as follows:

PURCHASE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 95-15

1929 KENNY ROAD
COLUMBUS, OHIO

Synopsis: Authorization to purchase improved real property at 1929 Kenny Road in Columbus, Ohio, is proposed.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University currently leases from Kinnear Road Associates the improved real property located at 1929 Kenny Road in Columbus, Ohio, with the lease containing an option to purchase the property; and

WHEREAS this property has an average appraised value of $4,150,000.00, and the purchase price, specified in the lease, will be approximately $4,260,400 at the anticipated time of closing, and purchase of this property will save the University approximately $880,000.00 over the remaining term of the lease; and

WHEREAS this property is located in the West Campus Research Park area and is needed to provide facilities for Research Park tenants, including sponsored research activities, and the appropriate University offices have determined that the purchase of this property is in the best interest of the University; and

WHEREAS funds for the purchase will be provided from Research Park funds to be repaid through the operation and lease of space in the building;

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to purchase, in the name of the State of Ohio for the use of The Ohio State University, the improved real property located at 1929 Kenny Road at the price provided for in the University's lease, anticipated to be approximately $4,261,000.00 at the time of closing, subject to the escalator clause provided in the lease, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University, subject to the University receiving the necessary approvals from the Ohio Board of Regents and the State Controlling Board.

PURCHASE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 95-16

1606-1608 NEIL AVENUE
COLUMBUS, OHIO

Synopsis: Authorization to purchase improved real property at Neil Avenue in Columbus, Ohio, is proposed.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University has been presented with an opportunity to purchase the improved real property located at 1606-1608 Neil Avenue in Columbus, Ohio; and

WHEREAS this property has an appraised value of $105,000.00, and the owner, Mr. Fred Maloof, has offered to sell the property to the University at a price of $105,000.00; and

WHEREAS this property is located within the South Campus acquisition boundary of the University's Master Plan and the appropriate University offices have determined that the purchase of this property is in the best interest of the University; and

WHEREAS funds for the purchase will be provided from general University funds in the University properties account:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to purchase, in the name of the State of Ohio for the use of The Ohio State University, the improved real property located at 1606-1608 Neil Avenue at a price not to exceed $105,000.00, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University, subject to the University receiving the necessary approvals from the Ohio Board of Regents and the State Controlling Board.

HOSPITALS PURCHASING AUTHORITY

Resolution No. 95-17

Synopsis: A revision in the University's Purchasing Policy to provide purchasing authority for the Hospitals of the University is proposed.

WHEREAS to eliminate duplication of services and improve efficiencies in the purchase of goods and services for the Hospitals of the University and their related facilities, the University has determined that it would be appropriate to provide purchasing authority for the Hospitals; and

WHEREAS this action is justified by the volume of purchasing activity undertaken by and for the Hospitals and will permit greater use of the Hospitals' inventory management system for better cash management and inventory control; and

WHEREAS in all respects the exercise of this purchasing authority by the Hospitals will be subject to the Purchasing Policy adopted by this Board on February 7, 1992, and shall encompass compliance with requirements governing the granting of waivers of competitive bidding, minority business development and minority set-aside participation, and other elements of the Policy; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices recommend this action to provide for Hospitals purchasing authority:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Purchasing Policy of The Ohio State University is amended as follows:

1. The Associate Vice President for Health Services and Executive Director of University Hospitals shall have the responsibility and requisite authority for the purchase of equipment, materials, supplies, and services for the Hospitals of the University and their related facilities, in accordance with the University Purchasing Policy.
2. The exercise of this authority by the Associate Vice President for Health Services and Executive Director of University Hospitals shall be subject to the oversight authority of the Vice President of Business and Administration, who annually shall review the application of this delegation of authority.
3. The exercise of this authority by the Associate Vice President for Health Services and Executive Director of University Hospitals also shall be subject to the provisions of the Purchasing Policy, and any reporting required with respect to waivers of competitive bidding requirements, the minority business development and minority set-aside programs, and any other requirements of the Purchasing Policy shall be made through the Vice President for Business and Administration.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That pursuant to a memorandum of understanding, the Vice President for Business and Administration and the Associate Vice President for Health Services and Executive Director of University Hospitals shall be responsible, in consultation with the Vice President for Legal Affairs and General Counsel, for implementing these changes, including provisions to ensure that there is no increase in the total University cost for goods and services, to be effective no later than October 1, 1994.

The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended the above resolutions and upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolutions by unanimous roll call vote.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Ladies and gentlemen, welcome -- we are delighted to have you here today. Tomorrow, some 1,400 students will receive their degrees -- barring any last minute unpaid parking tickets or overdue library books. With this occasion, the summer will come to a close, even as we accelerate our preparations for the opening of Autumn Quarter, such is the academic rhythm.

The summer has been both interesting and productive for a number of our faculty and students. I thought that I would share this with you, because we have not had an occasion to be together for several months. Associate professor of veterinary clinical sciences Catherine Kohn is just back from the site of the Olympic Equestrian events in Georgia. Professor Kohn is president of the Veterinary Commission for the Olympics, and her group is charged with making sure that all sites and conditions are safe for the horses participating in the Olympics.

This month, Stuart Zweben was elected president of the National Association for Computing Machinery, an 85,000 member organization that is the oldest educational and scientific society in the computing field. Dr. Zweben is professor and chairperson of the Department of Computer and Information Science.

Katie Smith and Nancy Darsch returned from the Goodwill Games in Russia, with women's basketball Gold Medals, Katie as a player and Nancy as assistant coach of the United States team. The United States Men's Gymnastics Team was coached by our Peter Kormann, and he, along with Ohio State's Blaine Wilson and Drew Durbin brought Bronze team medals back with them.

Diving coach Vince Panzano is in Rome, as the head coach of the United States Diving Team at the World Championships. Former Ohio State divers Mark Bradshaw and Karen Dalton are representing the United States in that event. Two former synchronized swimmers also are competing in Rome, Carrie DeGuerre representing Canada, and Maria Giusti representing Venezuela.

This month, assistant professor of mechanical engineering Giorgio Rizzoni took a group of Ohio State mechanical and electrical engineering students to Indianapolis, where they won the Electricore Lightning Race at Indianapolis Raceway Park. Indy-style electric cars from eight universities were designed and built by students. Ten of the nearly 30 students who worked on this car all year attended the race. The event was televised -- I don't know if you had a chance to see it -- on ESPN's "Thursday Night Thunder" racing program -- an unlikely place to find Ohio State students! Just as a side note, we edged out Notre Dame and rightly so.

This summer, some 6,900 new first-year and transfer students and over 7,000 family members visited the campus for orientation. The students took placement tests, learned more about academic expectations, were informed of opportunities outside class, and received advice on how to navigate at this university. Parents attended special sessions on academic expectations, financial aid, campus safety, and other issues related to successfully sending a family member to Ohio State. The orientation staff did an outstanding job -- and I have had an opportunity to visit with them on a number of occasions -- of making these newest members of our university family feel welcomed and informed. I attended several sessions and was very impressed, I must say, with the incoming class.

Yesterday, I spent some time with the staff of Residence and Dining Halls. Moving 7,000 people into housing requires a lot of planning, and Bill Hall and his staff are making sure everything is ready for Sunday, September 18, which is move-in day.

Of course, one of the most obvious signs that fall is fast approaching is a packed stadium -- but on the evening of August 6, it was filled not with football fans but with concert-goers. A second successful concert was hosted this season, with Elton John and Billy Joel bringing together a great crowd on a beautiful evening. I am told -- and unfortunately I was not able to be there -- that this concert demonstrated that 70,000 people in Ohio Stadium can sing something other than the "National Anthem" or "Carmen Ohio."

Ohio State was pleased to host the Capital City Classic football game in Ohio Stadium last Saturday, between Knoxville and Central State. Soon, the stadium, of course, will be full of Ohio State football fans. Our west coast alumni provided great support for the Buckeyes in Anaheim Monday night for the Disneyland Pigskin Classic. I would note that Athletic Director and our Chair are both 1 and 0. And everyone watching that game wants Ohio State to make a return trip to Southern California in December, Mr. Chairman! So I look forward to your leadership in that regard. Ohio State is blessed with great alumni support across the country and, indeed, around the world.

I am pleased that the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association, Dr. Tom Sawyer, is on the agenda and with us today. Tom, welcome. I know that his report will again underscore the valuable role our alumni play in assessing who we are and what we are, and assuring the future strengths of this great university.

Mr. Chairman, that is my report for the summer.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING

Provost Sisson:

Mr. Chairman, my report will be brief. I think it is fair to say that we maxed out, temporarily at least, at the July meeting when the number of departments at Ohio State University was reduced by 12 percent. During the coming year, my expectation is that a proportion will be reduced by another 5 percent, and the number will fall below 100 for the first time in the memory of living things. The coming year will also result in recommendations for reorganization among colleges. Initiatives, in several cases, are already underway and will be presented to -- and are in some cases being reviewed by -- the appropriate agencies of the University Senate, and by appropriate faculty groups.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Provost Sisson: (contd)

Restructuring this past year was a beginning. Phase One: Structural reorganization that will save resources for some units; administrative efficiencies; fewer administrative stipends; and less administrative release time, which will enable some of our colleagues to spend more time in teaching and research. There will be other savings in the way of time: fewer departments means fewer committees; fewer committees means fewer meetings; and fewer reports to be written and fewer reports to be read or left unread, as the case may be. But more important for the long-run -- and that is what we are interested in -- long-term investment for quality capital growth, not quick cash. This is the flexibility that these new arrangements will allow and the re-investment of our resources.

Phase One restructuring will continue this year -- as I have already indicated -- in a deliberate and selective way. You will receive recommendations for the restructuring of additional colleges, as well as recommendations for the rearrangement of units among colleges.

We have also entered Phase Two of restructuring in many cases. The reorganization of functional responsibilities and personnel is one part of this phase; another part is planning and decisions on programmatic change and enhancement. That qualitative element that in the long-run makes restructuring really worthwhile.

We have made progress with respect to restructuring and academic support units. The Fiscal Committee heard a report about this element of restructuring in the comments by Vice Presidents Pichette and Shkurti. We have already brought to the attention of the Board change with respect to our information systems (computing) at the University. We all -- the Vice Presidents -- look forward to bringing to your attention -- and, hopefully, for your affirmation -- recommendations with respect to restructuring of academic support units during the coming year.

Last year was a beginning, only a beginning. Our journey continues and your comments and your affirmation will be required many times in route. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Dr. Sisson. Are there any questions for our Provost?

REPORT ON THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Mr. Kessler:

It is my pleasure to call on Dr. Thomas Sawyer, Chairman of the Alumni Association Board of Directors. Tom --

Dr. Tom Sawyer:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It is ironic, personally, that I am with you this month -- twenty-five years ago this month I got my first job and that was to be a graduate intern to The Ohio State University Board of Trustees. I have seen many things change in those twenty-five years, but at that point and time the cry throughout campus was relevance, starting first from students, then faculty, and then many of our outside constituencies. Twenty-five years later relevance is certainly a guiding concept still, as is a related one, that of value. As you in this body in the leadership of the institution and as Provost Sisson have pointed out, the academic faculty continue to look at all facets of this institution in terms of its value to achieving our mission. So just for a few moments this morning I would like to chat with you a little bit about both those concepts: relevance and value, and how they apply to your and our alumni association.

REPORT ON THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION (contd)

That topic really translates, I think, practically to three questions: 1) What as an association have we become?; 2) What are we doing with our resources?; and 3) Where are we going? -- all in 10 minutes.

We all have -- in this body and in many others -- our own idea and our own set of images. I saw many out in Los Angeles two days ago of what an alumni association is: a recruiter, an advocate, an Ombudsman, a source of counsel, a facilitator of fundraising, a pride generator, a pregame pep rally, and I could go on and on. But, I guess, for just a moment this morning, I ask you to consider the alumni of Ohio State today as a crucial political constituency. We feel -- and I know others on our Board join me -- in this era of retail politics, as we all have to grapple with dwindling support from the private sector, the alumni have grown and will continue to grow as prime sources of support.

So in this context, "Who are the alumni and what have we become?" We are now the third largest self-supporting alumni association in the world. A third of us are in Franklin County, which may surprise some of you; a third of us are in other counties of Ohio; and a third of us -- us meaning 110,000 as of today -- are in other areas of the United States and the world. With our 190 clubs and forty constituency societies -- that change by the month -- we are now having an alumni meeting around the world at least once every nine hours. I think since Gordon has joined us, he has spoken at at least half of those throughout the past years. As we look at the subsequent one, we now have Andy Geiger as another illustration of the partnership we have with this body and the leadership. Andy Geiger, I believe, has signed up for twenty-six of these in 1995.

Unlike some alumni associations which I have observed -- being on the faculty at four other institutions -- some alumni associations rotate around what I call the emotional peripheral of the institution, some are vitally involved, and many are somewhere in between. At this University, our Association is, indeed, truly unique because though we are self-supported, we work in partnership with the institution and 95 percent of our $3.5 million budget is self-generated by the Association.

Those of you who know Dan -- especially off the tennis court -- know what a superb performer and leader of our staff that he is. He has certainly held many leadership positions in national alumni as well.

We also have -- as I will recount to you with just a couple of specifics -- very high productivity measured by our own TQM system, that was set up a couple of years ago, and which we continue to refine in managing the Association.

So, hopefully, you are all asking the question this morning as we sit here, with such uniqueness and with such resources, "What are we doing?" and "What are we doing for the University, as well as for ourselves?" The list, as you might imagine, is very long, but just let me highlight a few things. This year, for example, we will take the advocates program, which strives to educate state policy makers about the needs of Ohio State, from a group of about 200 up to 1,000 advocates throughout every county in Ohio. They will work in concert with the President, Herb Asher, and others under your leadership to advocate, very literally, for the needs of the University.

We are increasing our recruiting -- not only quality students, but as you look at one of your new members on the Board, Jim Patterson, quality Board members as well. What do we mean by student recruiting? To give you one example, our clubs this past year had an increase of 223 percent in the juniors through Junior Nights. That is just one program of our field organizations out there to recruit quality students.

As you know, in this body, we have an extensive program to recognize quality teaching. We will be considering this year ways to expand upon that. This is a program which has caught, not only your attention, but that of Chancellor Hairston as well.

Day in and day out we serve what I call a portal of communication. Bridging literally thousands of calls and inquiries from alumni to the appropriate department within the University. And, finally, for those of you on this Board who are interested in the bottom line, I will give you one bottom line fact. Last year when we did a national survey of both our members and non-member alumni, we found that the one most distinguishing trait between members of the Association and non-members was a 20 percent increase in giving. I would be happy to supply those specifics to you, but very definitely one of the predictors of our membership is significantly higher giving to the University in many ways.

Finally, we feel that a key role of the Ohio State Alumni Association is to help prepare for the future needs of Ohio State University. In this vein, we are dealing with such questions as, "How do we communicate with current and future alumni who have literally escaped and gone beyond the print media"? One way will begin this fall through CompuServe. We are setting up electronic bulletin boards throughout the world with our alumni out in the fields. So we will communicate not only with them, but they with us through a means that more and more of our children -- and those in our generation as well -- are learning, that of electronics.

We are also identifying -- which is a real challenge -- the magnets in our programming that will not only keep current members attracted, but entice new ones as our graduates have more and more competition for their attention.

Third -- and this is an illusive goal, but a challenge that I think lies before all of us -- while we need to do the things we need to do in programming on a very mass basis, we are also facing the challenge of how we identify those opinion leaders, political leaders, and media leaders in other markets throughout the United States who can be especially helpful to Ohio State. For example, President Gee and Mal Baroway are meeting in several cities now with our key alumni who are not only editors and reporters, but owners of not only print but broadcast media as well.

We are also dealing with another future question and that is, "How do we marry the resources of this institution with alumni and alumni needs"? In that vein, we are beginning to work even more with our partnership with continuing education so that those resources and alumni needs can come together in a more systematic way.

REPORT ON THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION (contd)

Dr. Sawyer: (contd)

Again, I could go on and on, and as you can see I would like to, but I will close leaving you with three messages, three themes. The first is an expression of our appreciation for all of your support and participation. Again, the one thing that makes our Association unique is our partnership together. Number two, I know that I in my term and my likely successor will be underlining again and again the importance we feel of the role of the alumni to this institution. And, finally, the third thing is that I want to reiterate on behalf of the Board and, I know, on behalf of Dan and the staff, our ongoing and really increasing commitment to the leadership of this Board and the leadership of the administration to continue to improve our ability to prepare those students who continually go from this place into the work place.

I thank you for your attention and I am open to any questions, especially those I can answer.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Tom. Are there any questions for Tom? I was impressed that a third of our alumni live in Franklin County -- that is terrific and amazing to me.

Dr. Sawyer:

Interestingly enough, too, when we looked at those three geographic groups last year and in our national survey, the answers didn't differ across geography. A lot of people have the impression that those who live in Franklin County might have different opinions about the University and the Association, from those who might live in Los Angeles or Philadelphia, but that did not prove to be the case.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you very much for your presentation. We also are very pleased with Dan Heinlen and the job that he does for the University and for the Association.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF BUSINESS

Mr. Chairman:

Next, I would like to call on Dean Joseph Alutto to report on The Max M. Fisher College of Business.

Dean Joseph Alutto:

If I could ask your indulgence, I would like to hand out some material that was left out of the package that each of you should have received. Actually, what was left out is something that might be of interest because it dates back to 1991. It is a copy of the Agenda for Action, which was the initial planning document developed by the College of Business. It listed a layout of a set of directions and a set of priorities that the faculty and staff and a variety of external groups had identified as providing the primary motivation, the primary momentum, for the College over the next 10 years.

Since that document has been passed, virtually every action the College has taken to deal with a variety of different changes in our fiscal environment have been made in a way that is consistent with the objectives that have been stated. And, in fact, we have just received a grant from the Ernst and Young Foundation to come in and help us with a three-year review of where we have been, what we have accomplished, and what new issues have emerged that were not identified in 1991, in an attempt, in a sense, to do a reassessment and a redirection.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF BUSINESS (contd)

So we are very pleased with the progress that we have made and that needs to be put into context. The context is that since 1991, the operating budget of the College -- much like the operating budget of the University -- has been reduced by a little over 10 percent. In addition to that, within the College of Business, we have reallocated over 14 percent of our operating budget to new initiatives. If you look at that number, I don't know of another major college of business in the United States that has had to have a shift of about 25 percent in its operating budget. That has all been done within a very short period of time, and in a way that the faculty and our external advisory groups believe are consistent with our objectives.

I was asked to present some benchmarks for the College to give a sense of who we are and where we are going. In order to do that, I think that it is very important to understand that we are a professional school and that means that we have to look at ourselves in a way that is a little bit different than other colleges.

The primary objective for us is not to maximize the visibility or the stature of individual departments in the College of Business, because departments are not the location of our degree programs. This is a very important difference, which is sometimes difficult for people to understand. For example, in our case if we were to have the number one ranked accounting department in the United States -- and we have an Accounting Department that is very highly ranked, although not number one -- that alone would not be enough to make us a highly ranked college, because our programs are integrated programs.

The main focus for us has to be on degrees -- it has to be on our MBA degree, our undergraduate degree, and our Ph.D. degree programs. We have to access the contribution of various departments and faculty to those programs. So when we compare ourselves, it is not a comparison of departments -- although there is data that I provided for you on the relative stature of some of our departments. Our main concern is how does our corporate environment and how do our academic peers view our programs, the main product lines -- undergraduate degree, MBA, and Ph.D. I have tried to provide you with some data on that information, but that is a different perspective than you may get from some other colleges where departments are the equivalent of degrees. That is not the case in the College of Business.

For example, if you look at Table I, one of the things that you are going to find if you look at workload issues, you can compare how we stand relative to other institutions including the Big Ten schools -- and we did a survey, in fact, just this past summer as part of our budgeting process. Of eight schools that were reporting -- our permanent budget allocation for student credit hours ranked eighth out of the eight schools. Our permanent budget allocation for faculty FTE ranked fifth. We were number one in undergraduate student credit hours that we generated as a College. So in other words, the workload in the College of Business here at Ohio State is much higher than it is at our peer institutions within the Big Ten. That is simply a fact of life that has to be recognized because that is the reality within which we work.

If you look at other budget data for the University, we find for example -- as I indicated in Table II -- our class sizes are significantly higher than the average for the University that is going to be affected by the downsizing that we have talked about before with the Trustees. Hopefully that situation is going to be improved. But the reality is that the instructional workload for the College is sufficiently higher than it is for many other segments of the University.

You get a better sense of that, perhaps, if you were to look at Table IV -- which is an attempt to array a number of the larger colleges outside the medical school on a series of budget data and degree awarded data to give you a sense of how we stand relative to other institutions and other colleges within the University. As you can see, we are a very efficient unit -- meaning we generate quite a few degrees on a relative basis for each faculty FTE that we have. Our staff is working very, very hard. So from an efficiency point of view, I think one has to conclude that we run a very efficient operation. My concern as a dean is that there is a time when efficiency starts getting in the way of effectiveness, and that is the issue that I think I have to be concerned about and, I know, the Provost is concerned about it.

In terms of external evaluations, we have tried to provide you with some data. I will not take you through all of these because we just don't have the time, but I will just give you a sampling of it. In terms of our MBA program, U.S. News and World Report ranked the program twenty-eighth in terms of academic reputation; twenty-seventh in terms of CEO reputations; and thirty-fourth overall. That placed us sixth in the Big Ten, ahead of Illinois, Minnesota, Michigan State, Iowa, and Penn State.

Just to follow-up on that a little bit, much of that is based on placement data for students and the quality of incoming students. You should know for this incoming class -- this will be the third year in a row -- average work experience and graduate management test scores have increased significantly over the prior years. So it is an even better class coming in. Our placement record for this last graduating class -- we have 95 percent placement as of this date; and we had a 90 percent placement rate at the end of three months. There was an interesting piece in Business Week that just came out, where the wrong data was used and there is a response going back to them because they misinterpreted data that came from Ohio State. They thought that our placement rate was a little lower than that.

So we are doing fairly well. We expect, as a result of that, that over the next two or three years the public rankings of the College will, in fact, increase fairly significantly because we are tracking very well on the standards that are being used to compare institutions. That, obviously, has been part of the overall strategy for the College.

For individual programs, we just have a piece of data. For example, I talked about our accounting programs. The Public Accounting Report just came out for 1994 and our undergraduate program was ranked ninth in the nation, fourth in the Big Ten; and the MBA program in accounting was ranked ninth in the nation, third in the Big Ten. So in terms of our accounting specialization that continues to be a very high quality operation within the College.

Individual program reports for the College: in the School of Public Policy and Management, as you see continues to be a very good program -- a small, but very good program; Labor and Human Resources is clearly within the top 10 in the nation as a specialty program; our finance faculty remains one of the best in the nation, measured by productivity and peer evaluations; and our decision sciences faculty continues to dominate, in terms, of publications and major journals.

So we think, in terms of overall operations for the College, that we are on track with the objectives that were identified in the Agenda for Action, despite all of the difficulties that have been encountered by the University as a whole, and by our College, as a part of that community. The objective that we've tried to put forward in the College is that budget issues simply change the specific path we take, but the budget issues do not change the commitment for excellence, and we think that is reflected in much of the activity that characterizes the College of Business.

I will be happy to stop and answer any questions or if you have any issues to raise in any of that material.

Mr. Kessler:

Any questions for Dean Alutto? How is the new school coming?

Dean Alutto:

Bill Shkurti was just mentioning this and we are waiting to see the schematics from the Architects, they should be done in the next two weeks. Everyone is very excited. Hopefully groundbreaking will take place this Spring. We are still shooting for occupancy of the first phase in the Fall of 1997 and the second phase in the Fall of 1998.

Mr. Kessler:

You are not excited are you?

Dean Alutto:

Not too much!

President Gee:

Explain the phasing difference to me again.

Dean Alutto:

There are six buildings involved in the construction and the funding occurs over two biennials. As a result of that, we wind up building, in a sense, four buildings in the first phase, and the remaining two buildings in the second phase. So by the fall of 1998, the entire operation will be in the new facilities.

President Gee:

The fact that the quality of our incoming class, the MBA program particularly, continues to go up rather dramatically -- isn't that fighting a substantial trend in the rest of the nation? How do we account for that? Are we doing something very special in terms of recruiting? Are we working more closely with businesses around the state? We must be doing something very specific.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF BUSINESS (contd)

Dean Alutto:

We are doing a number of things. One of the wonderful things -- and I've talked about this before with this group -- about Ohio State has been that there is a field of dreams mentality here at Ohio State. The assumption is that we develop new programs, but we don't have to tell anyone about them, they will just come. That is not the way it works. For example, three years ago the College of Business spent no money recruiting students -- the assumption was if we had good programs, students would somehow show up.

Part of that 14 percent reallocation has been to spend more money on actually recruiting students. We have been very successful in having the corporate community come forward and fund scholarships for students, and now for the first time we actually have scholarships to offer to our MBA students on a competitive basis. There is, in fact, the promise of new facilities. We have difficulty recruiting students because we cannot invite them for interviews. When we invite them for interviews we do not interview them in Hagerty Hall, because it is a depressing environment for them.

Mr. Kessler:

Wait a minute, I graduated from Hagerty.

Dean Alutto:

I am aware of that, but you have to understand what we are competing with.

President Gee:

I don't know if there is a cognizant affect either.

Mr. Kessler:

It has not changed any.

Dean Alutto:

We have done some interesting things. We have invested -- as Bill and Janet know - - about $350,000 to renovate classrooms in Page Hall, so that we have two classrooms that will mimic the environment that our students will have in the new facilities. What is happening is as we are recruiting students, they are not seeing Hagerty as the home and that begins to have an effect.

We have also done a much better job, for example, with student internships between the first and second year. This past year, we had 12 MBA students engaged in internships outside the United States. That has become a recruiting tool for us. It is all part of a system that focuses on upgrading the curriculum, the content of what we are doing, that then has an impact on our ability to effectively recruit.

Mr. Kessler:

Any other questions for Dean Alutto? Thank you very much, Joe.

REPORT ON THE COLLEGE OF BUSINESS (contd)

Dean Alutto:

Thank you.

REPORT ON RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Mr. Celeste:

You will find a copy of the Grants and Contracts for June and July 1994 at your places.

To keep it brief, I would like to point out just a couple of things. In Tab 1 you will note that the expenditures grew 9.7 percent for a total of $159 million this year over last year; and expenditures for July 1995 are approximately $16.7 million, which represents a 12.2 percent increase over July 1994.

As you know, we kept a close look on awards over the year and it turned out that at the end of the year we were 0.5 percent above Fiscal Year 1993, with a total of $166.8 million. As was the trend last year, the first month of this year awards are down by about 14.7 percent.

In the rest of the report you will find: in Tab 3, are highlighted projects; in Tab 4, is a complete list of new awards received in June; in Tab 5 is a list of new awards received in July; and Tab 6 provides summary tables of proposals, awards, and expenditures by academic unit for Fiscal Years 1992, 1993, and 1994.

This past week -- as I have done in the past -- I was able to spend some time with one of our distinguished professors, Rattan Lal. Dr. Lal is a 1994 University Distinguished Scholar award recipient and I was tremendously impressed with the work that he has been doing for the University.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 95-18

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summaries for June and July 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the months of June and July 1994 be approved.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS (contd)

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

During the past two months, the Hospitals Board spent considerable time discussing the issues surrounding actions required for the Medical Center to remain viable in a changing economy. These discussions included development of a Medical Center-based integrated finance and delivery system which requires: a broad continuum of patient care services with the associated unique management and administrative services; a strong primary care physician network; broad geographic coverage for easy access by patients; quality consistency; and cost constraint over the next few years.

The discussions on quality included: the Executive Committee receiving the annual report on the excellent quality/cost status of the Dodd Hall rehabilitation program; the Professional Affairs Committee receiving a quality review process being instituted by the Cardiac Division; and the Hospitals Board approving the Clinical Quality Management Plan and the Nursing Plan for 1994-95.

The Administrative/Operations Committee received reports on: expected donation of the University Reference Laboratory; final adjustments to the captive malpractice insurance company; and the Memorandum of Understanding on the delegation of purchasing authority. Each of these items is expected to enhance the Hospitals' responsiveness to the changing medical economy.

At the August 25 Hospitals Board meeting, significant discussion occurred concerning the objectives to be used for development of the membership/partnership status in the Medical Center-based integrated finance and delivery system. The Hospitals Board also received a financial report which indicated continued strong operational performance.

At this time, I would like to present the following resolution for approval:

CAPTIVE INSURANCE COMPANY

Resolution No. 95-19

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees in December 1976 authorized the establishment of a Self-Insurance and Indemnification Trust Fund for primary insurance coverage for the Hospitals; and

WHEREAS this trust fund has been under the management review of the Self-Insurance Committee of the University, appointed by the Vice President for Business and Administration; and

CAPTIVE INSURANCE COMPANY (contd)

WHEREAS the establishment and maintenance of the trust fund has been a prudent way to manage potential and actual claims against the University and its officers and employees regarding the operations of the Hospitals and other medical facilities at the University; and

WHEREAS the Self-Insurance Committee has recommended that a captive insurance company be established as a further enhancement to the insurance program; and

WHEREAS this captive insurance company would be created to secure additional hospital professional liability and comprehensive general liability for the Hospitals and would have the potential of securing additional coverage for other risk associated with the University; and

WHEREAS the Hospitals Board has reviewed and approved the establishment of a captive insurance company as one important component of the insurance program:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees authorizes The Ohio State University to establish and fund a captive insurance company in Bermuda for the purpose of expanding the insurance program for the University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President, Vice President for Health Sciences, and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration or their designees or any Trustee, officer, employee or agent of the University as selected by the President, is hereby authorized and directed, in his or her official capacity, to serve as a director of the captive insurance company, representing the interest of the University in such capacity as part of their official responsibilities to the University, entitling them to any immunity insurance, or indemnity protection to which officers and employees of the University now are, or hereafter may become, entitled.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 95-24

Synopsis: Approval of twelve Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

Robert L. Bates

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 21, 1994, of Robert L. Bates, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Geological Sciences.

Robert Bates received his A.B. degree from Cornell University in 1934, and his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Iowa in 1936 and 1938, respectively. From 1938 through 1940, Dr. Bates was a geologist with the Texas Company. He served as a geologist with the New Mexico Bureau of Mines (1941-45), and served as Chief of the Oil and Gas Division (1945-47). Between 1941 and 1943, Dr. Bates was Assistant Professor of Geology at the New Mexico School of Mines; from 1948-51, he was Assistant and Associate Professor of Geology at Rutgers University; and from 1951 to 1977, he served as Associate Professor and Professor of Geology at The Ohio State University.

Professor Bates brought international attention to The Ohio State University through his research and teaching in the vitally important area of industrial rocks and minerals. He organized, and continuously participated in, the Forum on Geology of Industrial Minerals, which has met annually since 1965 (twice at Ohio State) and is the major site of interchange between industrial geologists, engineers, and academicians concerned with the extraction, use, and conservation of the nonmetallic rocks and minerals that are so important to our nation's economic vitality. Dr. Bates attended the Forum's thirtieth meeting just a few weeks before his death. His contributions to the study of the nonmetallics have been honored through election as a Distinguished Member of the Society of Mining Engineers; as an Honorary Life Member of the Ohio Geological Society; and as a 1978 recipient of the Hal Williams Hardinge Award of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers.

Professor Bates contributed more than 120 books and papers to the geological literature, dealing primarily with the nonmetallic rocks and minerals. In addition, he patiently and artfully instructed students, colleagues, and the profession at-large in the craft of scientific communication by way of a column that appeared monthly in Geotimes for more than 30 years, beginning in 1955. Dr. Bates was a polished speaker and a concerned and devoted teacher, who lectured at many universities and professional meetings in this country and abroad. His skill as a writer made him much in demand as an editor and critic. He served as former editor of The Journal of Geological Education and The Professional Geologist. His editorial expertise was honored by an award for outstanding editorial contributions by the Association of Earth Science Editors; as President of the Association of Earth Science Editors; his receipt of the Ben H. Parker Award of the American Institute of Professional Geologists; and his designation as an Honorary Member of the European Association of Earth Science Editors.

Dr. Bates retired in 1977, and was named Professor Emeritus in the Department of Geological Sciences. He continued active participation in departmental and professional affairs until the time of his death. He was a thoughtful, caring individual, with a contagious sense of humor and legion of friends.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its sympathy and understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Patricia E. Blosser

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on March 17, 1994, of Patricia E. Blosser, Professor in the Department of Educational Studies: Humanities, Science, Technological, and Vocational.

Dr. Blosser was born April 17, 1931, near Mt. Eaton, Ohio. She graduated with a Bachelor of Arts from the College of Wooster in 1953, a Master of Arts from the University of Northern Colorado in 1956, a Master of Arts from Wesleyan University in Connecticut in 1962, and a Ph.D. in Science Education, Curriculum, and Teacher Education from The Ohio State University in 1970. She spent 13 years teaching in public schools in Ohio and Illinois.

During her active career at Ohio State, Dr. Blosser wrote and published many articles; among her recent publications, "Using Cooperative Learning in Science Classrooms" and "Procedures to Increase the Entry of Women in Science-Related Careers." During her tenure at Ohio State, her leadership and academic achievements were continually recognized; among her many awards and honors, she was elected president of the National Association for Research in Science Teaching (NARST) in 1989, and is listed in Who's Who of American Women, The World's Who's Who of Women, and Notable American in the Bicentennial Era.

Dr. Blosser also served as the Associate Director of the ERIC Clearinghouse for Science, Mathematics, and Environmental Education from 1979-1991. She was associated more recently with the Eisenhower National Clearinghouse. She was also a member of the editorial boards of the Macmillan Handbook of Research on Science Teaching and Learning, The Science Educator, and Science Education.

Dr. Blosser continued to work, to be supportive of both students and faculty, and to be optimistic even during her convalescence period after surgery and treatment. She was a student-oriented teacher who enjoyed most her student contact. Her commitment to Ohio State and her love for teaching, her students, and her colleagues is perhaps best reflected in her own words: "I can think of no place I would rather be or of a group I would rather work than with those individuals (faculty and college-wide) with whom I am in daily contact."

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Blosser its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Gordon E. Gatherum

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on February 7, 1994, of Gordon E. Gatherum, Professor Emeritus in the School of Natural Resources.

Dr. Gatherum was born on October 22, 1923, in Salt Lake City, Utah. He received a B.S. degree in 1949 from the University of Washington in Forest Management; a M.S. degree in 1951 from Utah State University in Range Management; and a Ph.D. degree in 1959 from Iowa State University of Science and Technology in Tree Physiology-Soils. He taught at Texas Technological College, Colorado State University and Iowa State University. He joined the faculty of the School of Natural Resources in 1969, as division Chairman of Forestry and Department Chairman of Forestry at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center. Dr. Gatherum served as Director of the School of Natural Resources and Associate Dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics from 1975 to 1984. He retired as a Professor Emeritus in January 1989.

His list of publications primarily in forest tree physiology and soils was vast. In addition to his administrative duties he served on many professional organization committees, and executive boards including: the Society of American Foresters; the Association of State College and University Forestry Research Organizations; the American Association for the Advancement of Science; the Ohio Forestry Association; the League of Ohio Sportsmen; and the Council for Agricultural Science and Technology.

Dr. Gatherum's many recognitions included Forest Conservationist of the Year Award from the League of Ohio Sportsmen, Who's Who in America, American Men of Science, and the College of Agriculture, Home Economics, and Natural Resources Student Council Certificate of Merit. He was a member of Alpha Zeta, Gamma Sigma Delta, Osborn Research Club, Phi Eta Sigma, Sigma Xi, and Xi Sigma Pi.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Gatherum its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Roy M. Kottman

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 4, 1994, of one of its greatest leaders, Dr. Roy M. Kottman, Vice President and Executive Dean Emeritus in the College of Agriculture -- Administration.

Dr. Kottman was born on a farm near Thornton, Iowa; graduated as valedictorian of his high school class and in 1941 earned a B.S. in Animal Husbandry from Iowa State University. With donors like Sears, George Gund, and William Danforth, he was a scholarship recipient during all four of his undergraduate years. Roy served on active duty in the Field Artillery during 1941-46, and was on active reserve until retirement as a Colonel in 1961. His M.S. degree in Genetics was earned at the University of Wisconsin in 1948, and the Ph.D. in Animal Breeding from Iowa State University in 1954. He served as Assistant or Associate Dean of Agriculture at Iowa State from 1954 until 1958, when he then became Dean of Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics at West Virginia University and Director, of the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Effective June 1, 1960, Roy was appointed Dean of Ohio State's College of Agriculture and Home Economics, and Director of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station with the rank of Professor of Animal Science. From 1964 to 1982, he also served as Director of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service. On February 1, 1982, he was named Vice President and Executive Dean for Agricultural Administration, and served in that capacity until his retirement on July 1, 1982. Following retirement, he devoted many hours to the task of securing land and funds for the benefit of his College and the University.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Roy M. Kottman (contd)

During his tenure at Ohio State, Dr. Kottman founded the Farm Science Review, and was instrumental in establishing the Agricultural Technical Institute, the School of Natural Resources, and the Ohio Agricultural Council. His emphasis on innovative agricultural research led to the creation of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center. He traveled extensively to all parts of the world promoting agricultural technology and development, including the establishment of two agricultural colleges in India. His leadership in technical agriculture has been recognized in the countries of Brazil, Puerto Rico, Uganda, and Somalia. He and his wife, Wanda, hosted People-to-People tours to The People's Republic of China and the former Soviet Union.

He was elected a Fellow of the American Society of Animal Science, a member of Gamma Sigma Delta and Alpha Zeta, agricultural honoraries, and Sphinx Honorary. He held memberships in the Presidents Club of The Ohio State University, National Dairy Shrine Club, Executive Order of the Ohio Commodores, and Phi Kappa Phi. He was an honorary member of the Rotary Club of Wooster, the fraternities of Alpha Gamma Rho, Delta Theta Sigma, Alpha Gamma Sigma, Phi Zeta, and Sigma Alpha. He received an honorary L.L.D. from the College of Wooster, the honorary American Farmer Degree from the National FFA, the Soil and Water Conservation Society of America's Honor Award, and the Ohio Agri-Business Association Award.

Roy was enshrined in the Ohio Agricultural Hall of Fame, the Ohio State Fair Hall of Fame, and The Ohio State University Farm Science Hall of Fame, and upon retirement The Ohio State University Board of Trustees authorized in his honor the naming of a building, Roy M. Kottman Hall. The University presented him with its Distinguished Service Award at the June 1994 Commencement.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

James W. Long

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 1, 1993, of James W. Long, Assistant Professor Emeritus in the Department of Ophthalmology.

Dr. Long was born on January 12, 1906, in Columbus, Ohio. He earned a Bachelor's degree in 1930 and a medical degree in 1932, both from The Ohio State University. After completion of an internship at Cleveland City Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, Dr. Long completed a year as an assistant resident in the Surgery Department in 1934. He completed his ophthalmology training in 1954 at The Ohio State University.

Dr. Long held a faculty appointment in the Department of Ophthalmology from 1965 until his retirement in 1970. In 1973, he was named Assistant Professor Emeritus.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Richard O. Moore

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 8, 1994, of Richard O. Moore, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Biochemistry.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Richard O. Moore (contd)

Professor Moore was born April 30, 1920, in Zanesville, Ohio. He received his B.A. from Depauw University in 1942. He served in the United States Army during World War II and then became a research assistant at the Indiana Medical School. He received his Ph.D. from Cornell University in 1951.

Professor Moore joined The Ohio State University in 1951. During the 1959-60 academic year, he was Visiting Professor at Harvard University. During 1964-66, he served as Acting Chairman of the Department of Agricultural Biochemistry. Professor Moore did research in the area of biochemical endocrinology and the preservation of food through radiation and published many scientific papers in those areas.

An active member of the University community, Professor Moore served on many committees, including the University Centennial Committee, the Council on Academic Affairs, the Graduate Council, the Faculty Council, and the Council on Student Affairs.

From 1971 until his retirement in 1984, Professor Moore served as Associate Dean of the College of Biological Sciences. In that position, he was responsible for curriculum development, research development, and the continuing education and professional development of faculty.

Professor Moore was a member of numerous honorary and professional societies, including Phi Kappa Phi, the American Association of the Advancement of Science, the American Chemical Society, Sigma Xi, Society of Experimental Biology and Medicine, and the American Society of Biological Chemists.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Merton D. Oyler

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 14, 1994, of Merton D. Oyler, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Sociology.

Dr. Oyler was born on September 8, 1902, on a farm in Hamilton County, Ohio. When he was 11 years of age, his family moved to Butler County, Ohio, where he attended local schools, graduating from Hamilton City High School in 1920. He farmed for 2 years in partnership with his father, having responsibility for the tractor and wheat units of a general farm. In 1922, he entered the College of Agriculture at The Ohio State University, graduating in 1926 with a major in rural economics. He entered graduate school at Ohio State in 1926, completing his master's degree in rural sociology in 1928. He later continued his graduate work at The University of Chicago and received his Ph.D. in sociology in 1943.

Dr. Oyler held teaching and research positions at the Universities of Kentucky, Arkansas, and Virginia, and Berea College, where he was chairman of the Department of Sociology (1946-48). He returned to The Ohio State University in 1950 as Professor of Sociology, and in 1953 received a joint appointment in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. Dr. Oyler taught classes in marriage and the family, and rural sociology. His research on the family included farming practices, attitudes and family behavior among the Amish and non-Amish, studies of adjustments of faculty families after retirement, and the effectiveness of college courses in the family field. He was also Director of the Marriage Counseling Clinic at Ohio State, counseling students in family courses and others in the University seeking such help. Dr. Oyler authored a number of articles on population trends, rural social organizations, and the family. Dr. Oyler retired from Ohio State in 1970, and was named Professor Emeritus at the time of his retirement.

Merton D. Oyler (contd)

Dr. Oyler remained active in academia and was associated with the University of San Diego, where he served as Interim Chairman, and Barber-Scotia College, North Carolina. In 1974, he retired from academic life and volunteered his time and expertise to several groups in Columbus, for which he received many awards, including recognition from President Reagan, the State of Ohio, and the City of Columbus. He was a longtime member of the Rural Sociological Society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, and University Lodge #631, and enjoyed memberships in many other professional and service organizations.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Duane R. Skidmore

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 15, 1994, of Duane R. Skidmore, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Chemical Engineering.

Dr. Skidmore was born on March 15, 1928, in Seattle, Washington. He received his B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering from the University of North Dakota in 1949, and his M.S. degree in chemical engineering from the University of Illinois in 1951. Pursuing other interests, he was awarded a Ph.L. in Philosophy by St. Louis University in 1956. Later he renewed his scientific studies at Fordham University where he completed his Ph.D. in Physical Chemistry in 1960. His dissertation was on the kinetics of some reactions involving the ozone, and he stayed on at Fordham as a post-doc for one year.

In 1961, he accepted a position as Research Chemist with E.I. DuPont in Wilmington, Delaware. Three years later, he took his first academic position at the University of North Dakota where he became involved in coal conversion studies which became the focus of his scientific efforts for the rest of his career. In 1967-68, he was an American Council on Education Intern for Academic Administration at the University of Kansas. On his return to North Dakota, he served as Acting Dean of the College of Engineering from 1968-69. In 1972, Dr. Skidmore became Professor of Mineral Processing Engineering at West Virginia University where he developed and chaired their Mineral Processing Engineering program.

He joined the chemical engineering faculty at Ohio State in 1978 and retired in 1990 because of poor health. At Ohio State, he introduced three courses on coal properties and coal processing, served as advisor to a number of M.S., Ph.D., and post-doctoral students, and was heavily involved in a variety of coal activities in the College of Engineering. He also served as Chair of the Department Graduate Studies Committee. His research focused on coal liquefaction and high temperature microbial desulfurization of high sulfur coal.

Endowed with a wry sense of humor, Dr. Skidmore's courses were popular and he took great interest in students often volunteering for Summer Freshman Orientation sessions.

He was a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Chemical Society, American Institute of Mining Engineers, and American Association for the Advancement of Science. He was elected to membership in Sigma Xi and was a registered Professional Engineer in North Dakota and West Virginia. He was also a veteran of the United States Army.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

T. Scott Sutton

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on July 17, 1994, of T. Scott Sutton, Associate Dean Emeritus in the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences, and Professor Emeritus in the Department of Animal Science.

Professor Sutton was born on January 10, 1902, in Hammondsville, Ohio, the son of the late Robert W. and Emma (Mylar) Sutton. He graduated in 1920 from Bergholz High School and attended Kent State Summer School, 1921. He taught in the public schools of Columbiana and Jefferson counties, 1921-1925, and received a Bachelor of Science degree in Agriculture from The Ohio State University, 1928; a Master of Science degree, 1929; and a Ph.D. degree in the field of biochemistry and nutrition, 1934. Dr. Sutton became a faculty member at The Ohio State University and was employed by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, and through the years he served as Director, Institute of Nutrition and Food Technology; Chairman, Department of Agricultural Biochemistry; Chairman, Department of Animal Science; and Associate Dean, College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Dr. Sutton retired as Associate Dean on June 30, 1966.

Dr. Sutton was the Group Leader of the O.S.U.-A.I.D. India Team of Agricultural Education and Research from 1955-1957, and also served as editor of the Journal of Dairy Science, 1939-1946. Scott Sutton was a member of the American Dairy Science Association, the American Society of Animal Production, the American Chemical Society, the American Institute of Nutrition, Delta Theta Sigma, Gamma Sigma Delta, Alpha Zeta, Phi Lambda Epsilon, Phi Zeta, and Sigma Xi. He was the recipient of the American Feed Manufacturers Award, 1949; the Distinguished Nutritionist Award, 1964; the College of Agriculture and Home Economics Distinguished Service Award, 1974; the Ohio Agricultural Hall of Fame, 1975; the Department of Dairy Technology Distinguished Service Award, 1967; The Ohio State University Centennial Achievement Award, 1970; and The Ohio State University Distinguished Service Award, 1980. In 1965, Punjab Agricultural University in India dedicated the Sutton House Building for Dr. Sutton's part in the development of the University.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. Sutton its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and his many friends, students, and associates have sustained.

Robert J. Stull

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on July 7, 1994, of Robert J. Stull, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Art.

Robert Stull was born November 4, 1935, in Springfield, Ohio. He received his B.A. in 1962, and his M.A. in 1963, both from The Ohio State University. Following graduation he studied Japanese at New York University, and was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship to work for two years in Kyoto, Japan. He also held an honorary doctorate from Wilberforce University.

Professor Stull taught at the University of Michigan from 1968-1971, and joined the faculty at Ohio State in 1972 with joint appointments as an Associate Professor of Black Studies and Art. During his tenure in the College of Art, he taught ceramics, chaired the department for one term, was Associate Dean of the College of the Arts, and continued his own work as a potter, painter, and photographer. Professor Stull will also be remembered for having been an exceptionally generous person. The time, patience, and counsel that he gave to his students, his faculty, and his peers came from an individual who usually put the needs of others before his own.

Professor Stull's works are in private and public collections in Austria, Japan, Switzerland, Spain, Korea, Indonesia, Africa, Canada, France, the United States, and the District of Columbia. His writings and works appear in numerous journals.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Robert J. Stull (contd)

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

I. Keith Tyler

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 4, 1994, of I. Keith Tyler, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Educational Policy and Leadership.

Dr. Tyler was an alumnus of The University of Nebraska, Yale University, and Columbia University. He was a Professor in Radio and Television Education at Ohio State until his retirement. Dr. Tyler was also the former director of the Institute for Education by Radio-Television, and the chairman of the Greater Columbus Cable Commission.

Always considerate of his students and their education, Dr. Tyler served as an advisor to the Foreign Students Association at Ohio State. He was rewarded for his years of service and dedication to Ohio State by being awarded the Distinguished Service Award and by being elected as a member of the College of Education Hall of Fame. Upon his retirement in 1975, he was named Professor Emeritus.

I. Keith Tyler was always a true friend to The Ohio State University, always giving to his students, to the University, and to radio and television, asking that upon his death contributions be made to the Friends of WOSU, giving once more for the future of educational radio and television and to Ohio State.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Margaret Carey Tyler

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 21, 1994, of Margaret C. Tyler, Assistant Professor Emeritus in the Department of Educational Policy and Leadership.

Margaret Tyler received her B.A. from Adelphi College of New York, and her M.A. from Columbia University. She was a member of Phi Mu Sorority and the American Pen Women Association.

While at Ohio State University, Professor Tyler was the director of the Ohio School of the Air on WOSU Radio and served Ohio State Radio and Television for over 27 years. She also penned the program "Once Upon a Time in Ohio." Margaret Tyler and her family were an Ohio State family, collectively giving to Ohio State for many years. Upon her retirement in 1969, she was named Assistant Professor Emeritus.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

PERSONNEL COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

At this time the Personnel Committee of this Board would like to submit the following report.

It may be recalled that at our meeting on June 7, 1991, the Board approved a set of principles and guidelines to be used in our evaluation of the President. Pursuant to those guidelines, the Personnel Committee of the Board has met with President Gee and reviewed his assessment of accomplishments during the past year, as well as his goals for the University in the upcoming year.

Given that extremely positive evaluation, I want to present the Personnel Committee's recommendation regarding President Gee's salary. In making this recommendation we were necessarily mindful of the current financial condition of the University and the faculty and staff compensation increases approved by this Board in June. As such, we recommend that President Gee receive a 5 percent increase for the fiscal year 1994-1995, beginning July 1, 1994.

The Secretary of the Board is hereby authorized and directed to develop the appropriate documents to effectuate this increase in compensation.

I will now entertain a motion to approve all of the resolutions proposed by the Educational Affairs Committee and the Personnel Committee's proposal regarding President Gee's compensation for the coming year.

The Educational Affairs Committee recommended the above resolutions and upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolutions and the report made by the Personnel Committee regarding President Gee's compensation by unanimous roll call vote.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Amb. Wolf:

The Investments Committee met this morning and at this time I would like to call on Jerry May to make a presentation regarding the Development progress.

Mr. Jerry May:

Thank you very much, Amb. Wolf. I would like to call your attention just to a couple of things. If you will turn to the Development Tab, you will notice that it is a little thicker than normal this time because we have ended the fiscal year. We normally do, at this time of year, a series of longitudinal reports that give you a little piece of history.

You will notice after the section with a lot of writing and reporting that there are some colored charts and graphs and -- I want you to feel free to browse through those -- I do want to highlight one of those. You don't really need to look at it, but it is the fifth colored chart, which is entitled, "Gift Additions to Endowment." While we went over a number of other reports today, I would like to mention this one, in particular, and highlight it. It talks about one indicator, one result of the hard work that the deans, faculty, heads of departments, Development staff, and volunteers do that has a lasting impact on Ohio State and a lasting impact, frankly, on the resources that the Investments Committee of this Board has the opportunity to deal with.

Mr. May: (contd)

If you will notice on that chart, the receipts in the Endowment last year were $19.3 million. We are very pleased that we have continued to stay up around the $20 million mark. The year before that we had our best year ever at $23.5 million.

In the last decade -- essentially the last nine years, since the beginning of the last Campaign in 1985 -- the total gift receipts to the Endowment, added to the Endowment Portfolio for investment, were nearly $150 million from individuals, corporations, and foundations. This has ranked us -- because of the combination of the good work of the Investments Committee of the Board, the Treasurer's Office, and the volunteers in the fundraising process -- number four in the Big Ten, and number five nationally in terms of resources in endowment portfolios of public universities. So we are very pleased and we are frankly very proud of being a partner in that.

One other thing that I would like to highlight is that yesterday the University's Campaign Planning Committee met. This is a group that was recruited by Bernie Gerlach, Chairman of The Ohio State University Foundation Board, and President Gee from among members of the Foundation Board and other friends and alumni of the University to work on the steady progression of campaign planning that we have talked about on several occasions here. We are very pleased that group met yesterday and is working on some of our directions. Mr. Kessler from your Board is a member of that.

Finally, Mr. Chairman, I would like to recommend the following: the establishment of one new named endowed chair and eight new endowed funds, which are listed in detail, totalling $2,221,943.00; and the changes in name or description of four endowed funds that are listed in detail; the acceptance of $1,946,448.00 in gift receipts to endowed funds that are already established -- those are additions; and finally the acceptance of $8,536,722.00 in gift receipts to current use funds received during the month of June.

That concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 95-25

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for June 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

WHEREAS the funding level has been reached to establish The Gilbert and Kathryn Mitchell Chair; and

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT (contd)

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of eight (8) new named endowed funds and amendments to four (4) endowed funds:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of June 1994 be approved.

ESTABLISHMENT OF NAMED CHAIR

Synopsis: Changing "The Gilbert and Kathryn Mitchell Fund" to "The Gilbert and Kathryn Mitchell Chair" is proposed in addition to making a change to the description.

WHEREAS in accordance with the guidelines previously established by the Board, The Gilbert and Kathryn Mitchell Fund was established July 20, 1979, by Gilbert and Kathryn Mitchell of Columbus, Ohio; and

WHEREAS all gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates; and

WHEREAS at the time of the establishment of the endowed fund it was agreed that the fund endow a Professorship and/or a Chair, when sufficient funds became available, which have now been received by The Ohio State University Development Fund:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That "The Gilbert and Kathryn Mitchell Fund" be changed to "The Gilbert and Kathryn Mitchell Chair." In keeping with the original provisions of the original endowed fund, the income shall be directed toward medical research in the field of cancer, heart, kidney, and eyes. However, any income above the minimum needed for a chair position shall be used for research in the field of cancer, heart, kidney, and eyes. Appointment of the chair shall be recommended by the Dean of the College of Medicine. Final approval shall be made by the Provost, the President, and the Board of Trustees.

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

The Edith Crowley Blessing Scholarship Fund

The Edith Crowley Blessing Scholarship Fund was established August 31, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts received by The Ohio State University Development Fund from the estate of Alan D. Crowley, (B.S.Bus.Adm. '33), of Xenia, Ohio.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to award one or more full merit scholarships to outstanding students admitted to the baccalaureate program at The Ohio State University College of Nursing. This scholarship(s) is renewable annually with a 3.0 or above grade point average and maintenance of satisfactory academic progress. Full scholarship funding shall continue through the master's level, should the recipient elect to continue his/her professional education in nursing. Preference shall be given to individuals with a strong interest in becoming an independent or clinical nurse practitioner. Funding shall be distributed by the Dean of the College of Nursing.

The H. Ward and Sara Ewalt Permanent Endowed Scholarship Fund in The College of Optometry

The H. Ward and Sara Ewalt Endowed Scholarship Fund was established August 31, 1994 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with a gift to The Ohio State University Development Fund from the E. F. Wildermuth Foundation in honor of H. Ward and Sara Ewalt.

This gift from the Wildermuth Foundation honors the Ewalts for a lifetime of community service, for their support of optometric education, and for their leadership of the foundation since its inception.

As a trustee and President of the foundation, Ward has made a valued difference in vision health care in our country. Through Ward's dedication to the fields of education and optometry much has been accomplished in support of optometric education of the highest quality. Sara has encouraged and supported him in all of these activities. When asked to name the most important thing to him outside work and family, Ward Ewalt answered, "the effort to make the College of Optometry at The Ohio State University the top optometric program in the world."

A minimum of not less than ten percent (10%) of the annual income shall be returned to principal each year. The remaining ninety percent (90%) of the annual income shall be used to award scholarships to optometry students who have demonstrated (1) leadership ability, (2) a high degree of academic Wallace, (D.D.S. '56, MS '62), Dean of The Ohio State University College of Dentistry, 1981-1991. The description was revised June 3, 1994, and further revised August 31, 1994.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide scholarship funds each year for a third or fourth-year dental student to be selected at the end of his/her second or third year. Selection will be based on outstanding achievement in the College of Dentistry's student research program. A student may only receive this one year. Selection of the scholarship recipient will be made by a College of Dentistry faculty committee in consultation with the Dean of the College of Dentistry and the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor(s) that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairman, or program administrative officer in order to carry out the desire of the donor(s).

The Zendell Family Scholarship Fund

The Zendell Family Scholarship Fund was established April 8, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with a gift from David J. (B.A. Arts & Sciences 1963; JD 1966) and Randy Zendell of Wayne, New Jersey. The description was revised August 31, 1994.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to provide one or more scholarship awards to students enrolled in the College of Law who have a demonstrated need for financial assistance, with first preference given to applicants from New Jersey/New York/Connecticut, including the Tri-State Metropolitan area. The recipients shall be named by the Dean of the College of Law in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid, and approval of the donors and/or their trustee.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

The Jeanne Bonnet McCoy Presidential Scholarships Fund

The Jeanne Bonnet McCoy Presidential Scholarships Fund was established August 31, 1994, by the Board of Trustees through funds received by the University from The Ohio State University Foundation which has established an endowed fund with a gift from Jeanne Bonnet McCoy, (B.A., Arts and Sciences, 1937) of New Albany, Ohio.

The annual income shall be used to provide two Presidential Scholarships, one for a male student and one for a female student. Each student will be selected through the University's Presidential Scholarship competition and will continue through the senior year so long as he or she maintains eligibility as a Presidential Scholar. When a recipient graduates, a new freshman will be named so that each year there will be two Jeanne Bonnet McCoy Presidential Scholars, one male and one female. This fund shall be administered by the University Honors Center in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Amb. Wolf:

To continue with the Investments Committee report, we reviewed the monthly Endowment Report for the period July 15, 1994 through August 19, 1994. I am pleased to announce that the market value of the Endowment Fund on August 19, 1994, was $498.3 million. This total was approximately $5.7 million above the July 15, 1994, market value. The market value of the equity portion of the Endowment Fund increased $5.6 million, while the fixed income portion decreased $200,000 during this reporting period. Net new additions to the Endowment Fund for August totalled $1.5 million.

Since July 1, 1994, the Endowment Fund has increased $12.3 million, including net new additions of $1.5 million. The current asset allocation for the Endowment is 61 percent invested in equities, 24 percent in fixed income, 8 percent in real estate, and 7 percent in cash equivalents.

The Investments Committee next heard the Quarterly Endowment Investment Report for June 30, 1994. It was reported that the Endowment Fund had a total rate of return of 0.7 percent for the one-year period ending June 30, 1994. The return for the three-year period ending June 30, 1994, was 9.3 percent, matching the S&P 500 and beating the Lehman Government/Corporate Bond Index at 8.4 percent. Over the past ten years, the Endowment income distribution per share has increased 84 percent, while inflation has increased 44 percent. The Endowment distributed $24.3 million of income to over 2,100 funds in Fiscal Year 1994, and will distribute more than $26.5 million during Fiscal Year 1995.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Amb. Wolf: (contd)

The Committee also heard an Endowment Income Summary Report. The report includes beginning and ending cash balances, and additions and expenditures for Fiscal Years 1992, 1993, and 1994, for comparison purposes only.

And, finally, Mr. Chairman, Mr. Nichols presented resolutions to sell two Foundation properties at or above the appraised values. The Committee is recommending approval to sell 932 City Park Avenue in Columbus, Ohio, and 4425 Indianola Avenue in Columbus, Ohio. Let me just say, that one appraisal is for $150,000, and one is for $135,000, and they are both being sold for the value or more than the appraisal, and we are recommending that those transactions be completed.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY
THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION

Resolution No. 95-26

932 CITY PARK AVENUE
COLUMBUS, OHIO

Synopsis: Approval of the sale of real estate gifted to The Ohio State University Foundation by bequest, to fund a Foundation Endowment for the College of Humanities is proposed.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University Foundation owns a single family residence located at 932 City Park Avenue in Columbus, Ohio, which was donated by the estate of Dr. Kenneth E. Naylor; and

WHEREAS the appraised value of the property is $135,000, and the Foundation has received an offer to purchase the property for $150,000; and

WHEREAS the net proceeds from this sale will be added to The Kenneth E. Naylor Professorship in the College of Humanities; and

WHEREAS the President and Treasurer of The Ohio State University Foundation determined the sale of this property is in the best interest of the Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University approve the sale of all the Foundation's right, title and interest in this property at a price of $150,000, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the Foundation; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Treasurer of The Ohio State University Foundation be authorized to execute the necessary documents to complete this sale.

(See Appendix VIII for background information, page 205.)

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY
THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION

Resolution No. 95-27

4425 INDIANOLA AVENUE

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Ailabouni:

This morning we had Chief Ron Michalec from the Campus police come and discuss some updates on safety changes that will be taking place this year. He reiterated something that he announced last March about community policing -- he said it will continue through a partnership with Residence and Dining Halls. There are four areas already established and they will continue in the coming year.

He said along with Residence and Dining Halls they, meaning the Campus Police, would like to enhance programming for students to try and deter them and lure them away from campus High Street bars. He thinks that things such as mock/tailored casino nights are ways that they can try to provide alternatives for students.

Ms. Ailabouni: (contd)

Chief Michalec also said that there will also be an introduction of female students to the Rape, Aggression, Defense courses, which is something new this year, and then told us about three new program announcements. The first is regarding campus emergency phones -- they are pretty outdated and they will all be replaced. In addition, there will be forty new phones added. That should happen sometime in October or November. The phones will be strategically placed, including locations on the University-side of High Street, West Eleventh, Twelfth, and the entrances to most parking ramps, and as many of the University bus stops as possible.

The second program was the 800 Megahertz Radio Project. Chief Michalec acknowledged and thanked Vice President Janet Pichette and Assistant Vice President John Kleberg for their support. A communication center will be operational by late September or early October. Chief Michalec said this new system will enable the University Police to communicate with the City of Columbus fire and police departments, and will also allow for consolidated communications among the different departments on campus. This will also provide a campus-wide disaster alerting system in the event of a disaster.

The third program that Chief Michalec reported on was the transfer of USG Crimewatch Escort Service, in its advisory capacity. It will be moving from Student Affairs to the University Police Department. In this sense their budget and the housing of where they operate out of will now be within the Public Safety building.

As always we had the student government reports and -- as no disappointment to me -- all three student governments were very busy this summer planning for the upcoming year. President Sandra Solano of the Council of Graduate Students reported that CGS is sponsoring orientation for new graduate students and that will take place on September 19, in a few short weeks. She also reported that CGS is continuing to fill its committee appointments and that three focuses for the upcoming year are going to be restructuring, student health services, and graduate student stipends. There will be committees looking into those three topics.

President Aaron Granger reported this morning from the Interprofessional Council that IPC plans to be very active this coming year. I was happy to hear that the student government leaders have a very positive working relationship and I could see that just from this morning's meeting alone. An example of that is that in October, IPC and USG will have a collaborative effort working on USG's Women's Affairs regarding women's issues. I'm not sure exactly what they will be doing, but that will be coming up in October, so I am sure we will be hearing about that.

And, finally, Rob Edmund from the Undergraduate Student Government reported on several programs within USG. One of those programs is the Living Gift Program that we heard about this last spring. USG is challenging incoming students to pledge a minimum of three to five hours of their time for community service this fall. They have registered 850 volunteers which is close to 20 percent of the incoming students, so I am happy to hear about that. And, hopefully, that can be a national model for other campuses nationwide.

USG, as always, will have their Voter Registration Drive and they are planning it for September 26-30, 1994. This year they are going to be having a Big Ten competition with other student governments within the Big Ten, to compete to see who can register the most voters.

Ms. Ailabouni: (contd)

CGS, IPC, and USG are going to be holding a joint committee orientation session, September 27, to familiarize students with committee work. Once again that shows that the three student governments are working together.

USG is designing holistic approaches to the issues of campus safety and quality of instruction, which they have put a lot of time into, and are currently working on campus safety. They will report to us later in Autumn Quarter regarding that.

Finally, with discussion of a new student union or new student activity center, USG is currently looking into the current general fee that is imposed upon students in their quarterly fee statements. They are trying to find out what exactly is done with that general fee, as well as then to hopefully have their voice heard regarding the current discussion for a new activity/union fee. They are trying to see if those two fees will overlap and if they do, what we can do to keep that from happening and to keep student costs under control.

That completes my report, Mr. Chairman.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

On behalf of the Fiscal Affairs Committee, I would like to present eleven resolutions for Board action this morning. The Committee fully reviewed all of these items and, as you know, the material was previously sent to Board members concerning each of these resolutions:

WAIVERS OF COMPETITIVE BIDDING REQUIREMENTS
APRIL - JUNE 1994

Resolution No. 95-28

Synopsis: Acceptance of the quarterly report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements is proposed.

WHEREAS the Purchasing Policy of The Ohio State University, adopted by the Board of Trustees on September 7, 1984, and revised on February 7, 1992, provides that the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration may grant a waiver from competitive bidding in the event of an emergency, when a sufficient economic reason exists, or when the goods or services can be purchased from only a single source, with a report on such waivers to be made quarterly to this Board; and

WHEREAS the Vice President for Business and Administration has submitted a report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements granted for the period of April - June 1994; and

WHEREAS during the period covered, the Vice President for Business and Administration, at the requests of the departments making the purchases and upon the recommendation of the Purchasing Department, granted 66 waivers of competitive bidding requirements for annual purchases totaling approximately $13,618,500.00, including approximately $4 million for merchandise for resale, as shown on the enclosed exhibit:

WAIVERS OF COMPETITIVE BIDDING REQUIREMENTS
APRIL - JUNE 1994

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements for the period of April - June 1994, is hereby accepted.

(See Appendix X for background information, page 209.)

EMPLOYMENT OF ARCHITECTS/ENGINEERS AND REQUEST FOR CONSTRUCTION BIDS

Resolution No. 95-29

JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE
HVAC IMPROVEMENTS AND WASTE MATERIALS STORAGE FACILITY

Synopsis: Authorization for the employment of architectural/engineering firms and request for construction bids for the listed projects is proposed.

WHEREAS the engineering firm of Schesser Buckley Mayfield, Inc., was selected to do an investigation of the heating, ventilating and air conditioning system at The James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute and has concluded that system improvements are needed throughout the facility to improve conditioned air delivery for the health and comfort of patients; and

WHEREAS the total estimated project cost is $800,000.00, and the total estimated construction cost is $750,000.00, with funding provided by the James Cancer Hospital; and

WHEREAS the University desires to construct a facility to house low-level radioactive waste materials for up to ten years until a regional disposal facility can be constructed by the Midwest Compact; and

WHEREAS the architectural/engineering firm selected for this project will assist in site selection and provide cost estimating, design, and construction observation, working in conjunction with the University and the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and other regulatory agencies; and

WHEREAS the total estimated project cost will be determined following site selection and preliminary design estimates by the architectural/engineering firm; and

WHEREAS University funds in the amount of $242,500.00 are available to fund the design costs of this project:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in accordance with established University and State of Ohio procedures, to select the engineering firm of Schesser Buckley Mayfield, Inc., as the architectural/engineering firm for design of The James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute HVAC Improvements project and that the fees for these services be negotiated between the firm and The Ohio State University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in accordance with established University and State of Ohio procedures, to select qualified architectural/engineering design firms as necessary for the Waste Materials Storage Facility project and that the fees for these services be negotiated between the firm and The Ohio State University; and

REQUEST FOR CONSTRUCTION BIDS (contd)

JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE
HVAC IMPROVEMENTS AND WASTE MATERIALS STORAGE FACILITY (contd)

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request construction bids on these projects, in accordance with established University and State of Ohio procedures, and if satisfactory bids are received, to award contracts, with all actions to be reported to this Board at the appropriate time.

(See Appendix XI for map, page 211.)

1275 KINNEAR ROAD EMPLOYMENT OF A DEVELOPER FOR A TENANT IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Resolution No. 95-30

Synopsis: Authorization to employ a developer to design, finance, and construct tenant improvements at 1275 Kinnear Road is proposed.

WHEREAS 1275 Kinnear Road is a major Research Park facility and the University desires to facilitate and expedite the planning, construction, and financing of tenant improvements at 1275 Kinnear Road using a private sector developer; and

WHEREAS the developer's services would be used on a case-by-case basis and the developer would not have an exclusive right to provide services to the building, with tenants being able to use their own architect, engineer, and construction firms when they are financing their own improvements; and

WHEREAS the University desires that these improvements would be financed through long-term leases with the Research Park tenants and all such improvements would belong to the University at the termination of the lease at no cost to the University; and

WHEREAS Section 3345.11 of the Ohio Revised Code provides for the University to lease auxiliary research facilities to or from others for an unspecified lease or renewal term; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices believe this program will help to create an environment that encourages the formation of a tenant/Research Park relationship that supports and enhances the University's academic mission:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request competitive proposals for this project, select a qualified developer, and award the necessary contracts, with all actions to be reported to this Board at the appropriate time.

(See Appendix XII for background and map, page 213.)

EASEMENTS

Resolution No. 95-31

OHIO POWER COMPANY - OARDC AND WARNER CABLE COMPANY - LIMA REGIONAL CAMPUS

SYNOPSIS: Authorization to grant easements for the installation of electric service at Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Wooster, Ohio, and for the installation of fiber optic and coaxial cable on University property located on the Lima Regional Campus is proposed.

WHEREAS the Ohio Power Company has requested a 15-year easement consisting of a strip of land approximately 20 feet in width and 260 feet in length for the installation of electric service to serve OARDC's new Tom Turkey Building, 1601 Gossard Drive, Wooster, Ohio; and

WHEREAS the Warner Cable Company has requested a 15-year easement consisting of a strip of land approximately 15 feet in width and approximately 4,200 feet in length for the installation of underground fiber optic and coaxial cable at the Lima Regional Campus along Biddle Drive and leading to Cook Hall and the Technical Education Laboratory; and

WHEREAS these easements will serve University property, and the appropriate University offices have recommended the approval of these easements:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request the Deputy Director of Public Works of the Department of Administrative Services, to act for and on behalf of the University in developing the necessary legal instruments to provide for these easements.

(See Appendix XIII for maps, page 217.)

PURCHASE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 95-32

1594 NEIL AVENUE
COLUMBUS, OHIO

Synopsis: Authorization to purchase improved real property at 1594 Neil Avenue in Columbus, Ohio is proposed.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University has been presented with an opportunity to purchase the improved real property located at 1594 Neil Avenue in Columbus, Ohio; and

WHEREAS this property has an average appraised value of $100,000.00, and the owner, the Estate of Mrs. Alice Elizabeth Martin, has offered to sell the property to the University at a price of $84,000.00; and

WHEREAS this property is located within the South Campus acquisition boundary of the University's Master Plan and the appropriate University offices have determined that the purchase of this property is in the best interest of the University; and

PURCHASE OF REAL PROPERTY (contd)

1594 NEIL AVENUE
COLUMBUS, OHIO (contd)

WHEREAS funds for the purchase will be provided from general University funds in the University properties account:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or the Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to purchase, in the name of the State of Ohio for the use of The Ohio State University, the improved real property located at 1594 Neil Avenue at a price not to exceed $84,000.00, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University, subject to the University receiving the necessary approvals from the Ohio Board of Regents and the State Controlling Board.

(See Appendix XIV for background and map, page 221.)

LEASE OF LAND TO SILLIKER LABORATORIES OF OHIO, INC.

Resolution No. 95-33

Synopsis: Authorization to negotiate and enter into a long-term lease of land to Silliker Laboratories of Ohio, Inc., for the purpose of constructing a laboratory building in the University's Research Park is proposed.

WHEREAS Silliker Laboratories of Ohio, Inc., is a valued tenant in the University's Research Park and is affiliated with the Department of Food Science and Technology and directly supports instructional and research programs of that department and of the Department of Microbiology; and

WHEREAS Silliker has outgrown its facilities at 1224 Kinnear Road and needs additional space to expand its operations; and

WHEREAS Silliker has unamortized assets in leasehold improvements and two remaining lease renewal options; and

WHEREAS Silliker proposes to finance, construct, and operate a new facility in the University's West Campus Research Park; and

WHEREAS the University has approximately two acres of undeveloped land on the south side of Kinnear Road adjacent to and west of the Museum of Biological Diversity which can be made available for this purpose for no more than 40 years, including lease renewals; and

WHEREAS the title to the facilities and improvements would pass to the University at the end of the lease term and any renewal periods; and

WHEREAS location of this new Silliker Laboratory in the West Campus Research Park would be mutually beneficial for the University and Silliker and the appropriate University offices have determined that this long-term lease is in the best interest of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

LEASE OF LAND TO SILLIKER LABORATORIES OF OHIO, INC. (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in the name of the Board of Trustees, to negotiate and enter into a long-term lease of land of no more than 40 years, including lease renewals, on the south side of Kinnear Road adjacent to and west of the Museum of Biological Diversity for the purpose of providing a site for Silliker Laboratories of Ohio, Inc., to construct a new laboratory facility, with University approval of the facility's site and design plans, with a land rental rate of $1.00 per year based on the University receiving appropriate in-kind and/or programmatic value for the market value of the land, and upon such other terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University.

(See Appendix XV for background and map, page 225.)

LEASE OF LAND TO THE EDISON WELDING INSTITUTE

Resolution No. 95-34

Synopsis: Authorization to negotiate and enter into a long-term lease of land to the Edison Welding Institute for the purpose of constructing a new joining technology center in the University's West Campus Research Park is proposed.

WHEREAS the Edison Welding Institute, formed in 1985 with The Ohio State University as a founding member, has become the nation's largest industrial consortium dedicated to materials joining technology, and has outgrown its facilities in the University's West Campus Research Park and needs to acquire new and greatly expanded facilities to meet the increasing demands for joining technology research and development; and

WHEREAS EWI proposes to construct a new facility for the proposed Edison Joining Technology Center and desires to locate this facility in the University's West Campus Research Park; and

WHEREAS the University has approximately 8 to 10 acres of undeveloped land on the south side of Lane Avenue and west of Carmack Road in Columbus, which land can be made available for this purpose; and

WHEREAS EWI proposes to design, finance, construct, operate, and maintain the facilities and improvements, with title to the facilities and improvements to pass to the University at the end of the lease term and any renewal periods; and

WHEREAS location of this new Edison Joining Technology Center in the West Campus Research Park would be mutually beneficial for the University and EWI and the appropriate University offices have determined that this long-term lease is in the best interest of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in the name of the Board of Trustees, to negotiate and enter into a long-term lease of approximately ten acres of land on the south side of Lane Avenue and west of Carmack Road for the purpose of providing a site for the Edison Welding Institute to construct a new joining technology center, with University approval of the facility's site and design plans, with a land rental rate of $1.00 per year based on the University receiving appropriate in-kind and programmatic value for the market value of the land, upon such other terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University, and upon approval of a joint use agreement as required by the Ohio Board of Regents, and such other approvals by the State of Ohio as may be required.

COMPLIANCE WITH REGULATIONS OF THE OHIO PUBLIC FACILITIES COMMISSION

Resolution No. 95-35

Synopsis: Authorization for the designated officials to ensure compliance with regulations of the Ohio Public Facilities Commission is proposed.

WHEREAS pursuant to Chapter 154 of the Revised Code and the regulations of the Ohio Public Facilities Commission, each state institution of higher education to which funds are appropriated in Amended Substitute House Bill 790 enacted by the 120th General Assembly, is required to authorize a designated official to sign and submit to the Ohio Public Facilities Commission documentation required with respect to the individual projects for which funds are appropriated; and

WHEREAS in submitting this documentation each institution is required to permit the Commission to use designated institutional sites for the purpose of these projects and to agree to undertake the performance of the functions and responsibilities of a using governmental agency as provided in the Commission's regulations with respect to such projects:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration and/or Assistant Vice President/University Architect be authorized to complete, sign, and submit to the Ohio Public Facilities Commission documentation required by the Commission for any or all of the projects for The Ohio State University provided for or pursuant to the appropriations made under Section 73 of Amended Substitute House Bill 790 enacted by the 120th General Assembly; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That this Board agrees to permit the Ohio Public Facilities Commission to use designated University sites for the purpose of such projects, the boundaries of which will be shown in the plans for such projects, for so long as the respective notes, if any, and bonds issued to finance the project shall be outstanding; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That this Board agrees to undertake performance of the functions and responsibilities of a using governmental agency and of a designated governmental agency to the extent is it such as provided in the regulations of the Ohio Public Facilities Commission and any applicable leases, agreements, or rules of the Commission with respect to such projects.

COMPLIANCE WITH REGULATIONS FOR UNIVERSITY ADMINISTRATION OF STATE FUNDED CAPITAL PROJECTS

Resolution No. 95-36

Synopsis: Authorization for the University to ensure compliance with regulations for University administration of State funded capital projects is proposed.

WHEREAS pursuant to Chapter 3345.50 of the Revised Code each state institution of higher education may locally administer a project for the construction, reconstruction, improvement, renovation, enlargement, or alteration of a public improvement under its jurisdiction for which the total amount of funds expected to be appropriated by the General Assembly does not exceed $1,500,000 without the supervision, control, or approval of the Department of Administrative Services; and

COMPLIANCE WITH REGULATIONS FOR UNIVERSITY ADMINISTRATION OF STATE FUNDED CAPITAL PROJECTS (contd)

WHEREAS pursuant to Section 3345.51 of the Revised Code each state institution of higher education may locally administer a project for the basic or supplemental renovation of a public improvement under its jurisdiction for which the total amount of funds expected to be appropriated by the General Assembly does not exceed $500,000 without the supervision, control, or approval of the Department of Administrative Services:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees agrees that The Ohio State University shall take all necessary steps to ensure that the University complies with all laws that govern the selection of consultants, preparation and approval of contract documents, the receipt of bids, and the award of contracts with respect to the projects to be administered by the University pursuant to Sections 3345.50 and 3345.51.

AUTHORIZATION FOR THE VICE PRESIDENT FOR BUSINESS AND ADMINISTRATION TO SIGN UNIVERSITY CONTRACTS

Resolution No. 95-37

Synopsis: Authorization to the Vice President for Business and Administration to sign University contracts and other documents as required is proposed.

WHEREAS Rules 3335-1-03(I) and 3335-3-08 of the Administrative Code provide that the Vice President for Business and Administration shall, under the direction of the President and with the approval of the Board of Trustees, be responsible and have the requisite authority for, among other duties, University purchasing and procurement and the coordination of all matters administratively assigned to the other Vice Presidents which relate to the business and administrative areas of the University; and

WHEREAS the Board desires to confirm the long-standing policy of the authority of the Vice President for Business and Administration to sign and execute on behalf and in the name of the University contracts, agreements, deeds, and other documents as necessary to carry out the business of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, on behalf of The Ohio State University and in its name, to sign and execute contracts, agreements, deeds, leases, and other documents as necessary to carry out the business of the University.

RESTRUCTURING OF ACADEMIC SUPPORT UNITS

Resolution No. 95-38

Synopsis: The restructuring of offices and functions within the areas of Finance, Business and Administration, and Health Sciences is proposed.

WHEREAS the Office of University Budget Planning is responsible for planning and analysis of the University's financial resources; the Office of Campus Planning is responsible for physical campus planning and the planning and analysis of the University's space and facilities resources; the Office of Management Studies is responsible for providing analytic support to the areas within the Office of Finance; and the University Architect's Office is responsible for staff functions to support University

Mr. Shumate:

Finally, Mr. Chairman, I have a resolution to propose:

REDEVELOPMENT AND ENHANCEMENT - CITY OF COLUMBUS

Resolution No. 95-39

Synopsis: Authorization to the President, and/or his designee, to negotiate with local, state, and federal officials, private entities and other persons concerning collaborative participation in the effort to redevelop and enhance certain areas within the City of Columbus.

WHEREAS it is extremely important to The Ohio State University that certain areas in the City of Columbus in and around the University campus be redeveloped and enhanced in order to provide a safe, healthy, and liveable area for students, faculty, staff, and other residents and business establishments; and

CITY OF COLUMBUS (contd)

WHEREAS the University seeks to cooperate with other governmental entities and the private sectors in joining together to bring about the appropriate redevelopment and enhancement:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That in order to move this initiative forward the President, and/or his designee, is authorized to:

1. Negotiate for the financial participation of others in the project;
2. Negotiate, explore, and participate in the creation of an appropriate legal entity to accomplish the redevelopment and enhancement goals;
3. Negotiate with and hire or participate in the hiring of employees for this initiative; and
4. Expend funds necessary and incident to the preliminary work to get this effort into operation; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President be requested to periodically report to the Board of Trustees on the progress of the program.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Kessler:

At this time, I would like to have a motion for the Board to recess into Executive Session for the purpose of considering personnel issues.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

--0--

Mr. Kessler reconvened the meeting at 10:15 a.m.

Present: John W. Kessler, Chairman, Alex Shumate, Theodore S. Celeste, Michael F. Colley, George A. Skestos, David L. Brennan, James F. Patterson, Amira N. Ailabouni, and Thomas C. Smith.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Good morning, everyone. We apologize very much for the fact that we had to take a few minutes for an Executive Session. To those of you who are new to the University Trustee meetings, let me just note that we had some business that we needed to take care of of a personnel nature and that is the reason for that meeting.

Let me say how delighted we are that we have some of our colleagues here from the Cleveland Clinic at this meeting of the Board of Trustees. As you know, in 1991 Ohio State began an academic partnership with Cleveland Clinic. It was the first such partnership between a private, non-profit academic medical center and a flagship state university. As a result, Ohio State medical students have the opportunity to train here at the Cleveland Clinic with members of this distinguished medical staff.

Likewise, I would note, the resources and opportunities of The Ohio State University Medical Center in education, research, and training are available to our colleagues here. As Dr. Fred Loop, chair of the board of governors of the Cleveland Clinic said, this partnership shares the strengths of our two institutions. And I would note that this partnership has an impact on all aspects of health care. I might mention that copies of a report on the progress and opportunities of our affiliation with Cleveland Clinic are available here today.

Ohio State's presence in Cleveland is substantial. More than 14,000 Ohio State alumni live in Cuyahoga County, and they contribute significantly to the quality of life in this area. Our graduates include, of course, His Honor, Mayor Mike White, whose political activism was evident some years ago in his days as president of Ohio State's Undergraduate Student Government. I will not comment on that further.

President Gee: (contd)

Ohio State University Extension has a very active program in Cuyahoga County. The chair of our Extension faculty in this area, Bonny Chirayath, is here with us. Bonny, will you stand? We are going to have a chance to come back to Bonny and some of her work in a minute, but I just wanted all of you to recognize our very strong presence here.

One very successful extension program is our urban gardening initiative. I have seen this program at work. I had the opportunity to visit one of the Cuyahoga Metropolitan Housing Authority properties, Olde Cedar Estates, last year. I saw first-hand the influence of Master Gardeners on the residents. From beautification programs, to vegetable gardening and raising herbs for profit, these efforts make a difference to the residents of high-density urban neighborhoods.

Master Gardener Dorothy Ziegler is here today. Dorothy, would you please stand and be recognized? We will have a chance to have you introduced in a minute also, again. Dorothy, I don't know if you remember the fact that we met. We appreciate the wonderful job that you are doing on behalf of Ohio State in this great program in this city.

The Ohio State University Extension also is involved in economic development. Walter Williams is here today. Walt, will you please stand? We appreciate Walter as our economic development agent and he has a joint appointment with Ohio State and the Greater Cleveland Growth Association.

Again, as we were talking, we do have a very strong presence. This public-private partnership enables us to apply the resources of our university to the problems facing this area. Ohio State has been a partner in reviving the Lake Erie recreational fishing industry. Through the Sea Grant program, Ohio State researchers are examining the impact of the Lorain artificial reef and the effect of the zebra mussel on marine life. We are endeavoring to improve water quality in the lake and the quality of life along the north coast.

It might surprise some of you to know that the largest 4-H program in the state is not in a rural area, but right here in Cuyahoga County, with more than 12,000 youngsters participating. They receive knowledge and skills in the areas of nutrition, health, drug-abuse prevention, career exploration, latch-key safety, and gardening.

Leadership development is an important part of our 4-H initiative. Another of our great success stories in Cleveland is The Ohio State University Young Scholars Program. Today, 262 Young Scholars are attending schools throughout the Cleveland District. These sixth through twelfth graders have community mentors, and participate in tutoring, academic, and personal enrichment programs. All attend a Summer Institute on the Columbus campus studying a variety of subjects with university faculty.

The Young Scholars continue to outperform their classmates in standardized tests. Last year in Cleveland, 63 percent of our ninth grade Scholars passed all parts of the proficiency tests on their first try, compared, I might note, to 15 percent of all Cleveland Public School ninth grade students, and 48 percent statewide. Let me just say that again, 63 percent of our Young Scholars passed, as compared with 48 percent statewide, and 15 percent of the Cleveland Public Schools. That is a remarkable tribute to our program.

President Gee: (contd)

So we are especially pleased that the first class of Ohio State Young Scholars graduated from high school last June. Eighteen Cleveland Young Scholars are now first-year students at Ohio State. Among the senior Young Scholars were the senior class presidents of John Hay High School, Collinwood High School, Martin Luther King High School, and Lincoln West. The top three students in the senior class at Cleveland East High School were all Young Scholars. The great success of this program is due to the partnership we have formed with the parents of our Scholars, the leadership and faculty of the Cleveland Public Schools, and with our many friends and alumni in this community who support the activities of our Young Scholars.

With us today from our Cleveland Young Scholars Office are: Linda Woodard, Fred Baston, Jr., and Young Scholar Darnel Graham, a ninth grader at John Adams High School. Will the three of you please stand and be recognized? Welcome to all of you and thank you very much for being here. Cuyahoga County continues to send us very fine students.

Today, on our Columbus campus, more than 3,300 students from this county are enrolled. This year, we signed transfer agreements with Lorain, Lakeland, and Cuyahoga Community Colleges, in order to make the transition from these institutions to Ohio State an easier one.

Ohio State's entering class this fall includes more than 500 Cuyahoga County residents. Among them are outstanding students like Shoshana Bucholtz, a National Merit and Distinguished Scholar from Cleveland Heights High School.

We are very proud of Bill Novak of Parma's Normandy High School. Bill is a senior majoring in molecular genetics and minoring in Spanish. He is completing his senior thesis on herpes simplex viruses. Bill was a research assistant one summer to an orthopaedic surgeon at the Cleveland Clinic. He is a Cuyahoga County Alumni Scholar.

This is my final point. I am proud of what we are doing here and I want everyone here to know that Ohio State is your university. These fine students and our graduates make a great difference in this area. From "the Flats" to the factories, from Gateway to gardening, from the lake to the laboratories of this Clinic, Ohio State is a vital part of the greater Cleveland community. So I thank all of you for being here.

Let me introduce Dr. Bob Moser, Vice President for Agriculture and Dean of the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences, who has some special guests he would like to introduce.

Dr. Bob Moser:

Thank you very much. We have several folks here from our Extension program that we would like to introduce to you, and I will let Bonny Chirayath make those introductions. Then we have some young people who would like to make a few comments about their experiences in 4-H here in Cuyahoga County.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT (contd)

Ms. Bonny Chirayath:

I would like to introduce several of our 4-H members and have two of our 4-H professionals and one adviser stand. We have Gregory Siek, 4-H Agent; Richard York, who is a 4-H Program Assistant and works extensively with our peer volunteer development program, which is a federally funded program for youth at risk; and Mary Ellen Dale, 4-H Adviser. (Shalesha Askew, Charles Hill, and Shelvon Duke stood, introduced themselves, and told about the 4-H programs that they are involved in.)

Our peer development program is a leadership development program that involves the students in community service as a part of what they do. And our last brief speaker is Dorothy Zeigler, an outstanding community gardener in our area. She is going to tell you a little about what she has done.

Ms. Dorothy Zeigler:

Thank you. President Gee and members of the Board, I am Dorothy Zeigler and I am from Shaker Community Gardens located on East 120th Street. The gardens have meant a lot to the members of that neighborhood -- it has brought us joy, fellowship, and fresh vegetables. It is like having country folks living in the city, doing country things. And we thank you for that.

Ms. Chirayath:

Thank you very much.

President Gee:

Let's give these people who have shown up today a big round of applause. I would like to make just one final comment, particularly to the young people. We are proud to have you as part of Ohio State. Just remember you carry our banner wherever you go and that is a very special thing for us. Thank you all for coming today and being here with us. We really appreciate it.

CLEVELAND CLINIC/OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY AFFILIATION

Mr. Kessler:

I would like to call on Dr. Tzagournis, Vice President of Health Services, to introduce the presenters.

Dr. Manual Tzagournis:

Mr. Chairman and Board members, thank you for this opportunity to continue the theme that has already been established regarding the relationships of Ohio State University and the Cleveland area. We will specifically be giving you some facts on the Cleveland Clinic/Ohio State University Affiliation that you approved several years ago. We'd like to tell you briefly about our teaching programs and one research program and then give you an opportunity to ask some questions.

CLEVELAND CLINIC/OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY AFFILIATION (contd)

Dr. Tzagournis: (contd)

I would like to call on my colleagues to come and make the presentation: Dr. Andrew Fishleder from the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, Dr. Seth Kantor, and Dr. Fred Cornhill. We will start with Andy Fishleder who will talk a little bit about the perspective of this relationship from the Cleveland Clinic Foundation's point of view.
Dr. Andrew Fishleder:

On behalf of the Cleveland Clinic, I would like to welcome you all here. It is my privilege to help coordinate the partnership between the Cleveland Clinic and The Ohio State University in working out the details with a number of folks on the Ohio State campus.

The last time that the Board was here, I believe 3 years ago, we discussed many of the issues that were facing us to get the academic partnership up and running. We covered issues since that time -- in the first year or so after your visit here -- that related to really refining the way that we would get this partnership implemented and dealt with many of the small hurdles and logistical issues of having a relationship that is a bit long distance. Since that time, I believe, we have really accomplished quite a bit, particularly in the areas of medical student education and biomedical engineering, as you will hear about today. Those are the two areas that we have really focused on in the past two years, and Dr. Kantor and Dr. Cornhill will present the details of what we have been able to accomplish.

As we look to the future, we are very excited about other opportunities that are before us that this partnership has to offer. We believe that the model that Dr. Cornhill has established in biomedical engineering is one that will be fruitful in terms of graduate students and research activities in a variety of collaborative programs between the Clinic and Ohio State University. We have also begun to initiate discussions and build bridges in biostatistics, outcome research, and the College of Pharmacy, discussing potential programs in Cleveland with our Pharmacy group. We are looking at discussions with the College of Education for medical education and graduate student training. So there is a broad opportunity for a number of different collaborative programs to develop over the course of the next year.

As we look forward, I think that we are really beginning to see that the concept that was originally discussed by Dr. Tzagournis, Dr. Gee, and Dr. Healey, here in Cleveland -- that this would be an opportunity for both of our institutions to move forward together, share resources, and build on our complimentary strengths -- is really beginning to come to fruition. I think that what we will see in the not too distant future is that there will be more and more of these programs that will benefit not only both of our institutions and maximize our opportunities together, but will also benefit the communities that we are serving.

We are happy to have you here in Cleveland and look forward to having you back in another year or so, and hopefully we will be able to report on more accomplishments at that time.

Dr. Tzagournis:

Thank you, Andy. Seth Kantor is our Associate Dean for Education and he will give you a briefing on how the experiences are going for our students.

CLEVELAND CLINIC/OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY AFFILIATION (contd)

Dr. Seth Kantor:

I just have a few slides -- no medical educator can speak without a few slides. What I am going to present to you briefly represents many, many, man and woman hours of work, coordination, and administration to get these programs up and running. It has represented truly a partnership between the Cleveland Clinic and The Ohio State University College of Medicine.

We are very pleased at the results to date at the way we have been able to implement many of our programs up here in Cleveland, and we have really been able to broaden the experience of our students. We are very committed to this as a group.

Our goals when we set forth about 3 years ago were simple: 1) we wanted to provide a wider range of experience for our students both in basic science and clinical, and take advantage of the wonderful institution that is up here in Cleveland; 2) we wanted to enable interested CCF faculty to participate in teaching on a daily and ongoing basis, which would be to the advantage of both institutions; and 3) we wanted to collaborate on instructional material and curriculum development. Our curriculum has been in a constant state of revision, trying to adapt to the national health care mandate and we felt that by using our combined expertise we would be able to do that to everyone's satisfaction.

Before 1992 we had a few of our fourth-year students come up here on some clerkships. In 1992, we piloted our first third-year students who located up here one or two clerkships at a time. And in 1993-94, we were able to implement full-time third-year students up here at Cleveland, as well as part-time third-year students and full-time second-year students. This year we have now implemented a complete program and we have full-time second, third, and fourth-year students up at the Clinic.

This slide shows the options that we have currently for our students. We decided early on that all first-year students would do their first-year down in Columbus, because of the complexity of the first-year program, including the anatomy and medical humanities. Second-year students can come up to Cleveland now full-time and do our independent study program and third and fourth-year students can meet all of their graduation requirements up here at the Cleveland Clinic. This has evolved over the past 3 years and has taken a lot of effort on both of our parts.

Just a word on our ISP program -- it is truly an independent study program which gives our students detailed lists and objectives for learning, and then the students work at their own pace. They collaborate with the faculty, they take exams when they are ready to do so -- although they have to be within reasonable limits and those are set jointly -- and the students are able to progress and master each component through the second-year. Many of our MSP students -- M.D. and Ph.D. students -- undertake the ISP program because of the flexibility it offers.

We just spent a few days up at Ford learning about quality. One of our other programs that we are quite proud of and which really represents that type of quality is the Problem-based Learning Component. We have three tracks in the first two years and we think that the Problem-based Learning represents a major advance in terms of adult learning style. Students meet from day one in small groups, they set their own learning objectives, they set their own measures and benchmarks to see how they are meeting their objectives, and the students take exams based on the learning objectives that they identify. So it is truly a partnership for the students. Our faculty mentors facilitate, but they do not lecture -- this is a major difference particularly in terms of undergraduate education. We anticipate that the PBL program, in another year or two, will be able to move up to Cleveland as well.

This slide shows our third-year clerkships currently required in our new curriculum. We just implemented a total new curriculum this July and all these clerkships -- family medicine, general/internal medicine, OBGYN, pediatrics, psychiatry, and surgery -- are now available at the Cleveland Clinic. Our students take the same core rotations that they do in Columbus.

This next slide shows the highlight of our new curriculum -- something that we are very proud of. I think we are at the state-of-the-art nationally in curricular development. These are our DOC rotations -- DOC stands for Differentiation of Care. This is the major core of the fourth-year of medical education.

I would like to draw your attention to number three. We now have a month's requirement in chronic care. We just had the Hastings Center people for a day-long conference at Ohio State and they emphasized the paradigm shift from acute care to chronic care. We have a full curriculum now that students must take prior to graduation spending a month in chronic care. At the Cleveland Clinic these are some of the available rotations for chronic care: Geriatrics Service, HIV Infectious Disease Service, which is a chronic disease, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, and Alcoholism and Drug Dependency. In Columbus we also use nursing homes, hospitals, and in transplant programs to enable our students to experience the full spectrum of care in today's environment.

This slide shows the number of students at the Cleveland Clinic over the past three years -- both third, fourth, part-time and full-time. You can see that we have increased greatly the number of full-time students experiencing rotations at the Cleveland Clinic. If you translate that into 1994-95, we project that we will have three second-year students here full-time, 49 third-year students either on a full-time or part-time basis, and 38 fourth-year students. So ninety students in the College of Medicine will experience at least one rotation up here in Cleveland.

It is fairly impressive if you look at the percentage. Twenty-three percent of our third-year class, almost a quarter of our class, will experience at least one rotation up at the Cleveland Clinic. Eighteen percent of our seniors also will experience a rotation up at the Clinic. We are quite pleased with the progress that we have made in just three short years in having students come up and experience what is to me a very good experience up here. This is particularly important as we shift our paradigm from in-patient to ambulatory. It is an important thing for us to be able to educate our students in an ambulatory environment.

If you look at the other side, the actual number of clerkships that we have up here, you will see that we have progressed each year so that this year almost 100 third-year and fourth-year clerkships will be taught at the Cleveland Clinic. There are a significant number of students and faculty involved up here. Overall, that represents over ten percent of the actual clerkships. Our third-year is designed by departmental clerkships and almost 10 percent of those clerkships are taken up here in Cleveland.

Finally, I just want to point out our current status. We are running quite smoothly all things considered. We have had to sort of reinvent a complete student affairs office up here in Cleveland. As you are aware, all of those issues that revolve around students including matching, dean's letters and things of that nature we have had to reinvent up here. There have been a lot of issues related to grading and evaluation of students that we have had to reinvent as well. That has gone fairly smoothly.

We anticipate that enrollment will increase as word gets out and as students apply to medical school, specifically in Columbus. In order to come back to Cleveland in their second, third, and fourth-year, we think the enrollment will naturally increase. We anticipate this year that we will have over 8,000 applicants in the College of Medicine for our 210 slots. The number of applicants has increased dramatically every year and we will probably have an all-time record this year of over 8,000 applicants. Some of whom, I think, will be specifically from Northeastern Ohio in order to benefit from our Cleveland Clinic connections.

The next step will include teleconferencing, and the Cleveland Clinic has the capability. We are implementing that capability and that will be very important in order to make sure that the experience is academically comparable.

Finally, the future direction. We anticipate moving our Problem-based Learning Curriculum up to the Cleveland Clinic in the second-year. We want to increase our collaborative efforts in teaching bioethics to try to fill in gaps that exist in one institution or another and use the complete expertise in both institutions. We are interested in multi-media instructional development and use the expertise at both institutions as well.

We expect to develop a special clinical curriculum, and we met this morning on this. I am sure that you are all aware of the national issues in primary care and we feel that we might be able to pilot a new curriculum up at the Cleveland Clinic. We have a very successful MEDPATH program and I had the opportunity to talk to the Board about this program a few years ago. The MEDPATH program is continuing and is quite successful and we would like to extend some of those efforts up to the Cleveland Clinic as well, and possibly tie it into the Young Scholars program.

I think I will stop here. I just want to say that it has been a very fruitful experience for all of us. It has been one that has taken a lot of work and initiative that has truly evolved into a partnership. We anticipate that it will continue to be quite successful and benefit all our students and our College of Medicine. After this meeting, I am going to be meeting and having lunch with our students that are up here full-time to make sure that they feel that they are still part of the family down in Columbus. Thank you very much.

Dr. Tzagournis:

Thank you, Seth. Dr. Cornhill represents a joint effort in research and graduate study in Biomedical Engineering, and he will give you a brief progress report on his program. Dr. Cornhill spends approximately half of his time at the Cleveland Clinic and half of his time at The Ohio State University in Columbus.

CLEVELAND CLINIC/OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY AFFILIATION (contd)

Dr. Fred Cornhill:

It is a great pleasure for me to be able to give you an update on The Ohio State University/Cleveland Clinic Foundation affiliation in Biomedical Engineering. As you know, some three years ago we entered into an academic partnership with the goals of establishing a biomedical consortium of the highest quality -- conducting superior research and training scientists, biomedical engineers, and health care professionals to meet the challenges of the next century.

The Biomedical Engineering Center at The Ohio State University and the Department of Biomedical Engineering at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation have taken the lead in forging affiliations in the area of graduate education and research. I am very happy to report to the Board that after just two years of affiliation we have already graduated five biomedical engineering students from Ohio State with Masters of Science degrees for projects conducted at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation. Who would have thought a couple of years ago that we would now have twenty-eight graduate students who are pursuing their master's and Ph.D. research programs here at the Clinic, while taking their course work at Ohio State.

These students have been very productive in the first two years of affiliation and our students have authored more than 75 publications, presentations, and abstracts of their research work. This amazing achievement illustrates the high quality and commitment of the staff, faculty, and students in this collaboration.

The program has received considerable financial support from both Ohio State and the Cleveland Clinic. In the two years ending June 30, 1994, the Cleveland Clinic Foundation has provided in excess of $400,000 to support these students by providing student stipends in the form of Graduate Research Associateships. In the same period, Ohio State has provided graduate student tuition waivers in the amount of $160,000. This is one of the examples of the way in which the two institutions can work together and provide unique resources and opportunities.

As a result of the relationship between Ohio State and the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, the Whitaker Foundation awarded us a Special Opportunities Award of almost $0.75 million to develop a new curriculum in Biomedical Imaging Engineering. What is very interesting is that after the application was initially reviewed, the Whitaker Foundation requested a site visit. I assumed that they would want to visit Ohio State; however, they said no, they wanted to meet at the Cleveland Clinic to see: if the affiliation was real; and to meet in private with our graduate student here at CCF. When the president of the Foundation exited the meeting and told us that he would strongly encourage any young person wishing to study biomedical engineering to do it at the Cleveland Clinic, we knew then that we had received the award.

The affiliation has also caught the imagination of some local philanthropists. For example, Dr. Thomas Mastin who is a former CEO of Lubrizol was very interested in our program and endowed a fellowship in Biomedical Engineering specifically to support a graduate student from Ohio State doing graduate work here at the Cleveland Clinic.

Let me now briefly tell you about three of our students, and give you some idea of the types of research projects that they are doing. Shaun Hanson came to us from Utah State University where he received a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering. I believe that one of the things that is most important to Shaun is that here at the Clinic he is working on multiple real projects which are preparing him for a career after graduation. Shaun is working in the area of osteoporosis and using unique image processing techniques to understand that process. This is a particularly important problem in post-menopausal women, the elderly, and also astronauts.

Anila Lingamneni came to us from Iowa State University where she received a Bachelor of Science in Biomedical Engineering and has an undergraduate degree in electrical engineering from the Birla Institute of Technology and Science in India. She has been one of our most enthusiastic students and I believe that her statement, "This is the way biomedical engineering should be" really sums up her feelings. She is working with Dr. Pete Hardy and Dr. Rick White in Radiology and using a unique magnetic resonance imaging technique to study myocardial mechanisms.

Finally, Dominik Meier comes to us from the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology -- the MIT of Switzerland. He sees unique opportunities at the Clinic with the close interaction between the engineers and the medical staff. He is an outstanding student. He is by the way one of my students, so I may be biased. Dominik is working on the important question of arterial wall plaque rupture, which plays a major role in myocardial infarction and sudden death.

During the two years of the affiliation, four of our staff members of Biomedical Engineering at the Cleveland Clinic have obtained faculty appointments at Ohio State and there are six members of the staff who have their dossiers currently in review at Ohio State.

Now, I would like to present briefly some of the joint research projects in which faculty and staff from both organizations are participating. In the first two years of the affiliation, we have obtained almost $2 million in research funding for these activities. We believe that many of these grants would not have been possible if a single organization submitted them. The $2 million does not include the $0.75 million from the Whitaker Foundation or the Mastin Endowment.

Let me just speak very briefly about three of these projects. The first research project is on continuous magnetic cell separation. This joint project involves Jeffrey Chalmers, Associate Professor in Chemical Engineering at Ohio State, and Maciej Zborowski of the Department of Biomedical Engineering here at the Clinic. As a result of their efforts, they have received $180,000 in funding from the Whitaker Foundation and almost $400,000 from the National Institute of Health. Their project is to use antibodies to which iron particles are attached as a means of identifying individual cell types and then putting them through very high magnetic fields to separate the requisite cell. This project has the potential to have a major impact in the area of AIDS, cancer, and on health care costs. This very simple device may replace equipment currently in use which costs hundreds of thousands of dollars and requires a full-time operator.

Another research project in which I am personally involved takes the expertise in my laboratory at Ohio State and merges it with the expertise at CCF in Cardiology with Dr. Steven Nissen and in Biomedical Engineering with Dr. Kimerly Powell. The goal of this project is to identify Single Leg Separation, that is the lawyer's term for breakage, of the Bjork-Shiley Heart valve. The Pfizer Drug Company that owns Shiley is supporting this work. The problem here is that 40,000 of these valves have been implanted in people and the outlet strut is breaking initially on one side and then on the other side at a rate of 1 percent per year. When both sides break, the result is the death of the patient. So our challenge is to identify 25 micron cracks using x-rays in a heart that is moving in a rather erratic rhythm.

Finally, let me talk about the exciting project we are establishing in Non-Pulsatile Cardiac Assist. This project is developing a continuous flow pump which would supplement a failing left or right ventricle and would be implanted for long-term support or to keep patients alive awaiting cardiac transplantation. There is a very large number of individuals involved in this project. Leonard Golding, a Cardiac Surgeon in Biomedical Engineering at CCF, is heading the project; Sho Nakamura, from Ohio State, provides expertise in fluid mechanics; and Bill Smith, from CCF, provides expertise in design. Dr. Xu, an outstanding Ohio State faculty member in Electrical Engineering, is working on the pump motors. We also have a partnership with Motor Technology, Inc., Edison Biotechnology Center, and also the Office of Research. This group is now working very feverishly to submit a response to a request for a proposal from the National Heart and Lung Institute, to develop innovative cardiac assist devices. The NIH will set aside $30 million for this program and proposal would be funded at a level of $5 to $10 million each. This slide shows this very small size of the current pump. It has many advantages including its very small size, very simple design and its blood lubricated bearing. Because of its small size, the pump can be used in the right and left side of the heart. It is our hope that if we are successful with this project, that in the years to come when one goes to one's physician that he/she will say your blood pressure is normal, but you have no pulse.

In closing, let me just say that we believe that the biomedical engineering affiliation has been very successful. We believe however that there are a number of challenges left: 1) to streamline the appointment process at Ohio State; 2) to provide significant research seed funding for research projects conducted cooperatively at both institutions; and 3) to take the Biomedical Engineering model and replicate in the areas of Cellular and Molecular Biology.

Thank you very much.

Dr. Tzagournis:

Thank you very much. If you have any questions, we would be happy to answer them.

President Gee:

Let me just make one comment and, Andy, I hope you return this to your colleagues. I think, needless to say, that we are all very impressed by where we were two years ago and where we are now. I think the point that is most important is that we can go so much further. I want you, in particular, to understand that we are completely devoted to this effort and, indeed, I think that we were really energized by this presentation. Please let us know what we need to do. I speak on behalf of everyone when I thank all of you for your hospitality at this wonderful place. We will come up often.

Dr. Fishleder:

Thank you for coming, and hopefully next year we will have a report on more that we are doing.

CLEVELAND CLINIC/OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY AFFILIATION (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, doctors.

President Gee:

Mr. Chairman, before you go on I just noticed an oversight that I had. My dear friend and colleague, Gerald Reagan, Secretary of the University Senate, is here representing our faculty. He traveled all this way and, Gerry, for that, if nothing else, you ought to receive recognition. So welcome. I am glad to have you here.

REPORT ON RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Mr. Celeste:

You should all find a copy of the report of the August 1994 Grants and Contracts of The Ohio State University Research Foundation at your places.

I am pleased to report that expenditures from external sources are ahead of last year by 14.1 percent for a total of $35.4 million through August 31, 1994.

You will also find projects that are highlighted, in particular, four Young Investigator Awards from the NSF to faculty in Engineering. Two that I would like to highlight are: 1) Ohio State has been designated one of the NIH Women's Health Initiative sites. OSU will receive $8.6 million over the next 11 years to study cancer, heart disease, and osteoporosis in women, and what impact improved nutrition may have on these diseases; and 2) a $1.0 million grant to the Cancer Center to conduct clinical trials as part of a consortium of hospitals that includes the Cleveland Clinic Foundation.

I would like to mention that I had an opportunity to spend some time with Dr. Cornhill yesterday and had a preview of his presentation today. I think it is a tremendous part of what Ohio is all about in terms of this collaboration.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 95-40

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for August 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of August 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

At the September meeting, the Administrative/Operations Committee and Executive Committee continued their discussions on the actions required by the Medical Center in order to remain viable in the changing medical economy.

The discussions included a presentation on the potential significant reduction of payment for graduate medical education by Medicaid as Medicaid begins to allow commercial insurance companies/HMO's to manage Medicaid provider panels. There was also a report on the challenges associated with establishing local primary care networks and regional hospital networks. Highlighted were the current high investment costs for acquiring primary care sites, and the increased annual operating costs created by certain university and state regulations.

The Executive Committee reviewed and recommended for the University Board of Trustees approval the Hospitals participation with Grant Medical Center in the formation of a new consolidated helicopter corporation. Also, the Executive Committee received a preliminary report on the audited financials for Fiscal Year 1994. This report indicated an excellent financial/operating year. The financial report for the first two months of this operating year indicated the results are slightly above budget.

I would also like to recommend the following resolutions:

OHIO MEDICAL SCHOOLS CONSORTIUM

Resolution No. 95-41

Synopsis: Authorization for the University to become a founding member of the Ohio Medical Schools Consortium, a non-profit corporation is proposed.

WHEREAS the University has determined that it is advisable to enter into an agreement as authorized by Ohio Revised Code Section 140.03 to become a founding member of the Ohio Medical Schools Consortium (Consortium) in order to provide cooperative programs, projects, activities, and services; and

WHEREAS collaboration between the University Medical Center and the Consortium shall better provide for the health and welfare of the people of the State of Ohio by enhancing the availability, efficiency, and economy of the health care facilities and the services rendered thereby; and

OHIO MEDICAL SCHOOLS CONSORTIUM (contd)

WHEREAS the University Medical Center in cooperation with the other Ohio Medical Schools will be able to exercise a leadership role in health care reform by operating a model, statewide delivery system which can participate in statewide, regional, and local teaching opportunities and health care initiatives; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that it is in the best interest of the University for the University to become a member of the Consortium:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees hereby authorizes The Ohio State University to join the Ohio Medical Schools Consortium, subject to additional authorization by this Board before the University Medical Center may participate in any Consortium plan to implement a statewide integrated health care system or incur any major commitment of dollars or risk to such a program, and authorizes the Dean of the College of Medicine, or his or her designee, to serve as the representative of the University in its capacity as a member of the Consortium, with membership costs associated with such membership to be provided through funds of the Ohio State Medical Center; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Dean of the College of Medicine, or his or her designee, or any Trustee, officer, employee, or agent of the University, as selected by the President, or any faculty member designated by the Dean of the College of Medicine as may be required by the governing documents of the Consortium, is hereby authorized and directed, in his or her official capacity, to serve as a trustee, officer, or member of the Consortium, representing the interest of the University in such capacity as part of their official responsibilities to the University, and to do any and all things necessary or proper to carry out the matters and obligations of membership in the Consortium, and in so doing they shall be entitled to any immunity, insurance, or indemnity protection to which officers and employees of the University now are, or hereafter may become entitled.

UNIVERSITY MEMBERSHIP IN THE OHIO MEDICAL TRANSPORTATION CORPORATION

Resolution No. 95-42

Synopsis: Recommendation that The Ohio State University become a member of a new corporation to provide helicopter medical services to the Central Ohio area is proposed.

WHEREAS The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University authorized The Ohio State University to participate in the Hospital Helicopter Consortium of Central Ohio, (dba Skymed) to provide a helicopter transportation service; and

WHEREAS since 1987, The Ohio State University has been the principal member of the Hospital Helicopter Consortium of Central Ohio; and

WHEREAS the Hospital Helicopter Consortium of Central Ohio has provided a valuable service to the public at-large as well as other hospital facilities; and

WHEREAS a similar helicopter service has been operated by Grant Medical Center; and

WHEREAS University Hospitals and Grant Medical Center have determined that services to the community would be improved at a reduced cost if the two programs were consolidated; and

UNIVERSITY MEMBERSHIP IN THE OHIO MEDICAL TRANSPORTATION CORPORATION (contd)

WHEREAS the University Hospitals Board has determined that such consolidation would be in the best interest of the University as well as the community at-large:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That The Ohio State University Board of Trustees authorizes the University to form and participate in a new consolidated helicopter corporation and that the appropriate officials of The Ohio State University are empowered to take all such actions as are necessary to form and participate in such a corporation upon such terms and conditions as are in the best interest of the University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President and the Vice President for Health Sciences or their designees or any trustee, officer or employee of the University as selected by the President, is hereby authorized and directed in his/her official capacity to serve as a director of the new helicopter corporation, representing the interest of the University as part of their official responsibilities to the University thereby entitling them to any immunity, insurance or indemnity protection to which officers and employees of the University now are, or hereafter may become, entitled.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolutions by unanimous roll call vote.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Celeste:

The Agricultural Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees met at the Farm Science Review - Vice President's Luncheon on September 20. The Farm Science Review is held at the Molly Caren Agricultural Center near London, Ohio, and is an annual, three-day event.

Approximately 400 agricultural leaders, legislators, and University administrators attended the luncheon, which was held in a large tent on the Farm Science Review grounds. One of the annual treats is the role that Ed Johnson of ABN Radio plays as the emcee of this event. And for those who haven't heard him emcee, it is mandatory that you have the opportunity -- he does a magnificent job. The program included a welcome from Bob Moser, greetings from President Gee and Governor George Voinovich, and remarks by Richard Rominger, Deputy Secretary of the USDA. A special plaque presentation was made to House Speaker Vern Riffe for his support of agriculture. Craig Fendrick, Manager of the Farm Science Review gave an update of the Review and then participated with Bob Moser in the induction of three new members to the Farm Science Review Hall of Fame.

Following the luncheon, the Trustees, accompanied by two members of the Council on Agricultural, Research, Extension and Teaching, Joe Motz and Tim Hartsock, toured the Farm Science Review. Transportation was provided by a soy diesel bus supplied by the Ohio Soy Bean Association. Tour stops included the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences Tent, the Home Yard and Garden, and Utzinger Memorial Garden displays, the general exhibit areas, the Gwynne Conservation Area, and some field demonstrations.

Two all-time records were set at the Review this year. Pending verification, it is estimated that 132,400 individuals attended the Farm Science Review. There were 598 commercial exhibitors taking part in the 1994 Review.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Celeste: (contd)

One of the other functions at the luncheon was the opportunity for the Board to recognize Bob Moser for his excellent work in the past year on the reorganization efforts and restructuring. At this time, I would like to make a motion to ratify the Expression of Appreciation that was presented to Bob Moser at the Farm Science Review and ask Bob to come up so we can give him a more formal recognition for this effort.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

Resolution No. 95-43

WHEREAS Dr. Bobby Moser, as vice president for agricultural administration and dean, has demonstrated outstanding leadership abilities by bringing together faculty, staff, and students to work together as a cohesive group to engage in the challenging project of restructuring the college; and

WHEREAS Dr. Moser, and all concerned, have accomplished the college's restructuring in an equitable and prudent manner in order to better address current issues, as well as those that will emerge as we enter a new century; and

WHEREAS Dr. Moser initiated and led the college to consensus on renaming the college in more descriptive terms, changing its name to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences; and

WHEREAS Dr. Moser, in the spirit the University's mission and vision statements, has expanded efforts in affirmative action, with demonstrable results; and in the formation of a college-wide Affirmative Action Committee, charged with nurturing diversity; and

WHEREAS he is the recipient of several prestigious awards, including the Outstanding Alumni Award from Oklahoma State University, the Professional Excellence Award from the Ohio Turfgrass Foundation, and the Service Award from the Ohio Swine Industry;

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University express its sincere appreciation to Dr. Bobby D. Moser for his service and leadership to The Ohio State University and wishes him continued success in the future; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That this Board hereby ratify this Expression of Appreciation which was presented to Dr. Bobby Moser at the Farm Science Review on September 20, 1994.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Ailabouni:

We held our Student Affairs Committee Meeting earlier this week so that I could hear from the Student Government leaders. On behalf of the Council of Graduate Students, Vice President Aldo Aguirre-Caceres reported that CGS has been involved with various programming in an effort to reach out to its students. This began with the Orientation - Welcome Reception on September 19, which had a wonderful turnout. On behalf of CGS, he extended a special thanks to President Gee and Mr. George Skestos for their positive remarks to the students. CGS also participated in the Welcome Bash at the Wexner Center for the Arts on September 21. They have also been proactive in recruiting students to get involved by providing informational tables at various student resource fairs, including: Asian-American students resource fair; African-American students resource fair; and the Gay-Lesbian and Bisexual resource fair.

CGS internally also has established a committee on multicultural human diversity. This committee consists of graduate students who are currently serving on University-level committees dealing with diversity. The purpose of this internal committee is to learn and discuss with those students how the different University departments are viewing the place of diversity and how each department is implementing new policies with regards to multiculturalism and diversity.

Also CGS has passed a resolution on graduate student stipends, and they have resolved that both the average graduate student stipend and the minimum graduate student stipend be increased by 15 percent for the time period 1993-94 to 1996-97. CGS would like to thank Provost Sisson for his address at the Council meeting earlier this quarter and an early thank you to Dr. Gee for when he will be addressing their meeting at the end of this month.

On behalf of the Interprofessional Council, President Aaron Granger reported on IPC's recent programming which included two proposals. The first of those proposals involved the creation of a student diversity council. This council would have one student representative from all student organizations of the University who's primary goal is to educate the University community about their organizations' costs. He explained that the goal of this council is to get unlike organizations to do some jointly sponsored events that they would work together on. He also stated that diversity is more than the presence of those different organizations on our campus, but that they should all be working together. As part of that effort, those organizations would commit to attending each others' programming, even if they are not involved in it in a collaborative effort.

IPC's second proposal is for the three student governments to come up with a student 5-year plan so they could address where we, as students, want this University to be by the year 2000. This would be for the purpose of finding some sense of continuity even with the changing student organizations' administrations. With both of those proposals, IPC plans to work with both the Council of Graduate Students and the Undergraduate Student Government.

Unfortunately the Undergraduate Student Government was not able to provide me with a specific report this month, but I am confident that they are continuing with their positive programming, and I would report on that next month.

October 7, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Kessler:

This morning we will be conducting the remaining Committee meetings as committees of the whole and I would like to call on Mr. Skestos to chair the Educational Affairs Committee meeting.

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING

WAIVER OF PARAGRAPH (F) OF BYLAW 3335-1-08 OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE

Resolution No. 95-44

Synopsis: Recommendation of the following Waiver of Paragraph (F) of Bylaw 3335-1-08 of the Administrative Code is proposed.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University did, on January 9, 1976, amend paragraph (F) of bylaw 3335-1-08 of the Administrative Code to state that "buildings and structures shall not be named for any person who is an officer or employee of the University or the State of Ohio, but may be named for a person who has been retired or has otherwise left such a position for a minimum of three years"; and

WHEREAS the President wishes to recommend that the therapeutic recreational park adjacent to Dodd Hall, be named to honor Dr. Ernest W. Johnson, Associate Dean in the College of Medicine and Professor in the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, and the School of Allied Medical Professions:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the applicable requirements of paragraph (F) of bylaw 3335-1-08 of the Administrative Code be waived so that the therapeutic recreational park adjacent to Dodd Hall may be named for an officer or employee of the University or the State of Ohio who has not been retired from such position for three years.

NAMING OF PARK

Resolution No. 95-45

Synopsis: Naming of the therapeutic recreational park adjacent to Dodd Hall on main campus of The Ohio State University is proposed.

WHEREAS upon the recommendation of the President, with the concurrence of the President's Executive Committee, it has been proposed that the newly constructed therapeutic recreational park adjacent to Dodd Hall at the corner of 9th Avenue and Cannon Drive be named "The Ernest W. Johnson Park" to reflect Dr. Johnson's role as an advocate for the physically challenged and a driving force behind accessibility efforts; and

WHEREAS Dr. Johnson served as chairperson of the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation for 25 years, during which time he trained most of the physiatrist in Central Ohio and many throughout the nation; and

NAMING OF PARK (contd)

WHEREAS Dr. Johnson helped mold Dodd Hall into one of the most respected physical rehabilitation centers in the nation, named as one of America's top ten for the last five years; and

WHEREAS the park was designed to enhance the therapeutic rehabilitation process and provide a location to improve the quality of life for patients of Dodd Hall:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That hereafter the therapeutic recreational park adjacent to Dodd Hall shall be named "The Ernest W. Johnson Park."

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 95-47

Synopsis: Approval of eight Resolutions in Memoriam.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the family of the deceased.

Richard R. Davis

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on February 20, 1994, of Richard R. Davis, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Agronomy.

Dr. Davis was born on December 7, 1923, in Kennedy, Alabama. Dr. Davis served a three-year tour of duty with the U.S. Navy during World War II, prior to receiving his B.S. degree in 1947 from Auburn University in Agricultural Science. He received his M.S. (1949) and his Ph.D. (1950) degrees in Agronomy and Crop Production, respectively, from Purdue University. He joined the Agronomy Department at The Ohio State University as an assistant in 1950. He was promoted to assistant professor in 1952, associate professor in 1953, and to professor in 1959.

Dr. Davis won distinction as a turfgrass and pasture research scientist. In 1961, he was named associate chair of the Agronomy Department and in 1969 he became assistant director of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center. In 1978, he retired from the faculty in order to become vice president of Mississippi State University's Division of Agriculture, Forestry, and Veterinary Medicine. He retired from the faculty of Mississippi State in 1986.

A national leader in Agronomy, Dr. Davis was President of the Crop Science Society of America from 1973-1974. He was a Fellow in the Agronomy Society of America and a member of numerous scientific organizations. He and his wife Ruth, were avid square dancers and he was active in the Kiwanis.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Davis its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Allen W. Hall

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on July 30, 1994, of Allen W. Hall, Associate Dean and Professor Emeritus in the College of Dentistry.

Dr. Hall was born October 25, 1927, in East Liverpool, Ohio. He attended Westminster College before serving in the United States Army. He enrolled in The Ohio State University as a pre-dental student and earned a B.A. degree in 1951 and a D.D.S. degree in 1955. Dr. Hall then completed an internship in pediatric dentistry at the Columbus Children's Hospital.

He entered into the private practice of pediatric dentistry in Columbus, joining the College of Dentistry's faculty as a part-time clinical instructor in 1956. In 1960, he became a full-time instructor, advancing through the ranks to Professor in 1974. While a faculty member, he continued his education and was awarded a Master of Science in 1966.

He served as chairperson of the Section of Pediatric Dentistry and Chief of Dental Services at Children's Hospital from 1970 until 1976, and was appointed Assistant Dean and Secretary of the College. He retired in 1988 as Professor and Associate Dean.

In addition to his faculty and administrative contributions to the University, he will be remembered for his introduction and development of a dental health program for college athletes. His initial interest was spawned by his life-long love of athletics and his commitment to prevention of disease and injury.

He was able to convince the athletic department and football coach Woody Hayes of the value of mouthguards for football players and was appointed as the first team dentist in 1968. Dr. Hall provided a custom mouthguard program for the players. His program which is one of the first, if not the first, of its kind continued development under his guidance. It now provides a wide range of dental health services to all Ohio State student athletes and serves as a model for other universities.

He was a member of Delta Sigma Delta (dental fraternity), Omicron Kappa Upsilon (dental honorary fraternity), and The Ohio State University President's Club. Active in his profession, he held office in several organizations. He was a member of the American Dental Association, the Ohio Dental Association, the Columbus Dental Society, the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, and the American Society of Dentistry for Children.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his family. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Philip B. Hardymon

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 31, 1994, of Philip B. Hardymon, Clinical Professor Emeritus in the Department of Surgery.

Dr. Hardymon was born on January 17, 1914, in Maysville, Kentucky. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of Kentucky and his medical degree from Vanderbilt. Dr. Hardymon obtained his specialty training in Surgery at Bowman Grey Medical School, staying on as an Assistant Professor of Surgery in 1946.

Philip Hardymon joined the faculty of The Ohio State University in 1947 as a Clinical Instructor in Surgery while he started a busy private practice. Dr. Hardymon was a member of the staffs of St. Anthony, Grant, Children's, University, Mt. Carmel, and St. Francis Hospitals. He served as chief of staff at both St. Francis and St. Anthony Hospitals. The medical library at St. Anthony Hospital was named the Hardymon Medical Library in 1982 in honor of his many contributions and service to that institution.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Philip B. Hardymon (contd)

Professor Hardymon was certified by the American Board of Surgery, the American Board of Thoracic Surgery, and was elected a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons in 1949. He was active in numerous local medical societies including the Columbus Surgical Society (secretary-treasurer 1952-53), the Ohio State Medical Association (secretary-treasurer 1962-68), the Franklin County Medical Association, and the Association of Hospital Medical Education.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Hardymon its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Gilman D. Kirk

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 3, 1994, of Gilman D. Kirk, Assistant Professor Emeritus in the Department of Surgery.

Dr. Kirk was born on August 8, 1908, in Toledo, Ohio. He received his undergraduate degree from Yale and his medical degree from The Ohio State University College of Medicine in 1934. Dr. Kirk obtained his specialty training in Surgery at The Ohio State University.

Gilman Kirk first joined the faculty of The Ohio State University in 1937 as a Clinical Instructor in Surgery. He served the University for the next 42 years. This service was interrupted during World War II when Dr. Kirk served as Chief of Surgery of the 53rd General Hospital, Malvern, England, and the 297th General Hospital, Marsailles, France. Upon returning to Ohio State, Dr. Kirk was promoted to Clinical Assistant Professor of Surgery where he served until 1979. He taught students and residents at University Hospital as well as several other community hospitals during their rotations. He was a popular teacher and participated fully in rounds and conferences. He received an Alumni Achievement Award from the College of Medicine in September 1974.

Dr. Kirk was an active participant in local and national societies. He served as President of the Columbus Surgical Society, the Columbus Academy of Medicine, and the Medical Forum, was a Diplomat of the American Board of Surgery, a Fellow of the American College of Surgery, and a member of numerous local societies. Dr. Kirk was an active member of the staffs of Mt. Carmel, Children's, St. Anthony, and Grant Hospitals.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Kirk its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

John R. Knoderer

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 17, 1994, of John R. Knoderer, Assistant Professor Emeritus in the College of Dentistry (Restorative Dentistry).

Dr. Knoderer was born November 7, 1917, in Columbus, Ohio. He attended The Ohio State University and earned a D.D.S. degree with honors in 1941. His initial effort to establish a private practice was cut short by the entry of the United States into the Second World War. He served as a dental surgeon with the 11th Airborne Division in the Pacific War Zone and he rose to the rank of Major in the U.S. Army Dental Corps.

After the war, Dr. Knoderer returned to Columbus and entered private practice with his father, Dr. William H. Knoderer. He maintained a general dental practice at that office for thirty years. In 1950, he joined the College of Dentistry faculty as a part-time clinical instructor serving in several departments within the College. He was representative of many Columbus area dentists who held part-time appointments. They became the principal teaching cadre of the clinical disciplines. In 1973, he accepted a full-time appointment in the Department of Operative Dentistry and remained with the department until his retirement in 1988. During his tenure he devoted all of his time to clinical instruction.

Dr. Knoderer was a member of the Omicron Kappa Upsilon (dental honorary fraternity), a charter member of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, and he belonged to several other prominent Columbus area organizations.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Knoderer its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Harold E. Reynard

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on July 5, 1994, of Harold E. Reynard, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Educational Services and Research.

Dr. Reynard was a part of The Ohio State University for most of his life. At Ohio State, he received his B.A. in Chemistry in 1935, his B.A. in Education in 1936, his M.A. in Education in 1938, and his Ph.D. in Educational Foundations in 1954. After earning his Ph.D., he was hired as a professor in the Bureau of Educational Research at Ohio State, teaching and working with both undergraduate and graduate students until his retirement. His major writing and research interests were in guidance counseling and governance in public schools, working closely with Ohio's state superintendents in order to make public schooling better. Those working with Dr. Reynard said that he made them feel like they were all "teammates" working for students and for education. He was also a former teacher and principal at Ohio State University School.

After living in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, Professor Reynard and his wife returned to Columbus as they had always considered Columbus and Ohio State home. Dr. Harold Reynard was always a part of Ohio State, always considerate of his students and their education, asking that upon his death contributions be made to The Ohio State University Scholarship Fund.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Reynard its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Donald B. Robinson

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 17, 1994, of Donald B. Robinson, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Agricultural Education and the Ohio State University Extension.

Professor Robinson was born January 2, 1904, in Waseon, Ohio. He completed his B.S. in agriculture degree (1927) and his M.S. degree in agriculture (1942), both from The Ohio State University.

"Robbie" began his Extension career in Ohio on March 1, 1944, as the Agricultural Agent in Union County. In 1946, he became Assistant Supervisor of Agricultural Extension Programs, working in western Ohio and held this position until 1951, when he was appointed Extension District Supervisor. In 1954, he became Assistant Director of Programs and in 1962 was named a member of The Ohio State University Contract Team for developing agricultural universities in India. He worked as an advisor to the University of Udaipur in Udaipur, Rajasthan, India, until 1964, when he returned to The Ohio State University as a District Supervisor. In 1965, he again returned to India and worked with the farm families in improving farming and family living in India. He continued this work until 1967 and then returned to The Ohio State University as a District Supervisor. He was appointed State Leader, Program Development in 1968 and held this position until his retirement in 1969.

Professor Robinson's contributions in providing excellent Extension educational programs in agricultural research, teaching, and farming, as well as implementing and evaluating Extension programs during his career earned him the respect and admiration of co-workers and associates throughout the state.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his family. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Rudolph Speiser

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on February 4, 1994, of Rudolph Speiser, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Materials Science and Engineering.

Professor Rudolph "Rudy" Speiser was born in Cleveland, Ohio, on February 15, 1910. He was awarded B.A. and M.A. degrees in chemistry from The Ohio State University in 1938 and 1939, respectively. His M.A. thesis was concerned with "Critical Phenomena." He then entered Polytechnical Institute of Brooklyn, now called Polytechnic University, where he received a Ph.D. in physical chemistry in 1942 upon completion of his research on "Thermal Decomposition of N-Octane." From 1940 to 1942 he was an instructor in physical chemistry at "Brooklyn Poly." Before and during his years as an undergraduate student, Dr. Speiser worked as a technical director for many theater productions connected with the WPA, and he enjoyed telling stories about his encounters with young actors and theater personalities, such as Orson Welles, who later became celebrities.

Dr. Speiser's parents emigrated from Hungary shortly before his birth. His early years in Cleveland were made difficult by the death of his father who was killed in an automobile accident before he was five years old. After his widowed mother became ill, he spent several years in orphanages in the Cleveland area. There he was singled out as a particularly bright student and given special academic encouragement. In later years, Professor Speiser acknowledged this attention and often, in conversations with his family and colleagues, gave special recognition to some of the teachers in the Cleveland public school system who were instrumental in helping him. As a child, he developed a lifelong interest in reading and enjoyed frequent visits to public libraries. As a high school student, he earned needed money as a librarian's assistant. Financial pressures delayed and extended his college years.

Dr. Speiser joined the Eastern Regional Research Laboratory in Philadelphia as Principal Physical Chemist in 1942. There he did research in support of the World War II effort, particularly in connection with synthetic rubber proteins, starch, and pectinic acids. He developed light scattering equipment and refractometers, as well as special equipment for the determination of molecular weights and shape factors of polymer molecules. From 1942 to 1946, he also taught evening courses in thermodynamics and statistical mechanics and physical organic chemistry at Temple University. He also lectured on polymer chemistry at the University of Pennsylvania. In 1946, he left government service to join the research effort of Professor H. L. Johnston in the Department of Chemistry at Ohio State. Professor Johnston had an enormous program of sponsored research during and after World War II. Dr. Speiser's title was Supervisor of High-Temperature Research. He was one of several key members of Professor Johnston's group who later became faculty members in physics, chemistry, and engineering. While with Johnston, Dr. Speiser developed techniques to study the thermodynamic behavior and structure of materials at very high temperatures (1600 to 2000 C). He was widely recognized for his contributions in the areas of x-ray analysis at high temperature, calorimetry and vapor pressure measurements, and measurement of thermal and electrical conductivity of materials. Highly skilled as an experimental scientist, he also made significant advances in theoretical topics, particularly with regard to the thermodynamics of mixing in condensed phases and the kinetics of phase transformations. These interests grew in importance during his later years.

As a member of the faculty in Metallurgical Engineering, Professor Speiser offered courses in thermodynamics and kinetics of metallurgical systems. He developed new courses in metal physics which brought solid-state theory and crystal physics into use by graduate students in metallurgy. Although most of his teaching was at the graduate level, he taught several courses over the years to undergraduates who enjoyed his colorful style. During his early years in Metallurgical Engineering, he developed a sponsored research program with support from the US Air Force, the American Iron and Steel Institute, the National Science Foundation, etc., in the areas of oxidation of alloys, phase transformations in alloys, electronic behavior of compounds, and surface energies. He is well known for his papers with Joseph Spretnak on the influence of boron on the properties of steels, as well as his papers with George St. Pierre on the tungsten-oxygen system. Rudy Speiser developed a thermodynamic model to account for the behavior of interstitial elements which he later applied to hydrogen in alloys.

In 1948, Dr. Speiser was asked to serve as a Lecturer in the Department of Metallurgical Engineering at Ohio State. He was appointed Assistant Professor in 1949 and one year later given a tenured appointment as Associate Professor. He was promoted to full Professor in 1957. He retired from the Department of Metallurgical Engineering in 1981. In 1988, the department merged into a new Department of Materials Science and Engineering. Following his retirement, Rudy Speiser and his wife, Betty, made their home in Estes Park, Colorado, where Dr. Speiser could pursue his long-time interest in mountain climbing. Prior to his retirement, he survived a major accident, when he and his good friend, Milton Boone, former Professor of Electrical Engineering, were swept off a face of the Matterhorn in Switzerland by an avalanche. They suffered serious injuries that required extended hospital stays. Dr. Speiser was undeterred by this setback, and his fascination with mountains continued.

Professor Speiser maintained an interest in sports all his life. In addition to mountain climbing, he was an excellent handball player and was instrumental in introducing many young faculty members to the game. He frequently played handball with Woody Hayes, with whom he shared a common birthdate, and their friendship extended to enjoying hikes together. He also enjoyed playing golf at The Ohio State University Golf Courses.

Rudy Speiser was active professionally and frequently gave lectures at international symposia of his professional societies. He was the author of many papers and book chapters. He collaborated successfully with many colleagues over the years and was particularly fond of taking new, young faculty members under his wing. He was dedicated to his scholarship and pursued new subjects avidly. He had great spirit and enthusiasm and readily entered into scientific discussions with colleagues and visitors where his breadth of knowledge and imagination provided enlightenment. These interdisciplinary conversations often took place during lunch at the Faculty Club where he was a member. He contributed greatly to the work of many University associates in chemistry, physics, electrical, and nuclear engineering, as well as biological sciences through informal encounters. He was a gifted teacher who was always eager to help someone learn.

Following his retirement to Estes Park, he visited the University of Colorado frequently and maintained contacts at Denver Institute. An interest in the mechanistic aspects of hurricanes, tornadoes, and earthquakes developed at this time. After several years, he and Betty spent winters near Tucson, Arizona, which they made their permanent home in 1985, even though they still enjoyed visiting Colorado in the summers. In Tucson, Dr. Speiser taught a course in electronic materials at the University of Arizona and, true to form, developed a collaboration with one of the young faculty members.

Rudy Speiser was a colorful, engaging, and interesting man who made friends wherever he went. He enjoyed meeting people and telling stories based on his experiences. His wide interests and his enthusiasms made him a wonderful companion to his wife, his three children, and all of his friends.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. Rudolph Speiser its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and his many friends, students, and associates have sustained.

Upon motion of Mr. Skestos, seconded by Mr. Celeste, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolutions by unanimous roll call vote.

Provost Sisson:

I have some good news that I would like to share with the Board and everyone else in attendance here. It has to do with rewards for distinguished teaching at Ohio State University -- it has just gotten better. I have been informed by Tom Sawyer, Chair of the Board of Directors of The Ohio State University Alumni Association, and Dan Heinlen, President and CEO of the Alumni Association, that the annual Alumni Distinguished Teaching Award prizes and support for them has been increased -- they are going to be doubled. The magnitude of the stipend in 1995 and the number of awards are going to be increased. The award will be increased from $1,500 to $3,000, and the number from eight to ten.

I also want to remind everyone that those selected for these awards have an increase in their base pay of $1,200 per year, in addition to any merit allocation that is extended. And they become members of the University's Academy of Teaching, that honors those who contribute to distinctive and distinguished ways to the teaching mission of the University.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING

EMPLOYMENT OF ARCHITECTS/ENGINEERS AND PROJECT MANAGER AND REPORT OF AWARD OF CONTRACTS AND ESTABLISHMENT OF CONTINGENCY FUNDS

Resolution No. 95-48

ARENA AND DOAN/RHODES HALLS ELEVATOR MODERNIZATION

Synopsis: Authorization for the employment of architectural/engineering firms and project manager for the Arena project and to accept the report of award of contracts and establishment of contingency funds for the Doan/Rhodes Halls Elevator Modernization project is proposed.

WHEREAS the University desires to employ an architectural/engineering firm and a project manager to provide programming, planning, schematic design, design development, construction documents, and contract administration for the construction of a new University arena with a seating capacity of about 20,000 - 21,000, to be used for basketball and other related University uses; and

WHEREAS the University desires to employ a project manager to provide value engineering, construction estimates, and project scheduling during the design process and, should the University elect, to provide these same services during the construction process, including prime contractor coordination, and other tasks to be determined; and

WHEREAS the design process will include development of a program of requirements, feasibility studies, and validation of current planning assumptions; and

WHEREAS the total estimated project cost of this project is approximately $75,000,000 and the total estimated construction cost is $60,000,000, with funding provided by House Bill 790 ($15,000,000) and University bond proceeds and/or donor funds ($60,000,000); and

WHEREAS a resolution adopted by the Board of Trustees on June 5, 1992 authorized the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration to request construction bids in accordance with established University procedures, and if satisfactory bids were received to recommend the award of contracts for the Doan/Rhodes Hall Elevator Modernization project:

Doan/Rhodes Hall Elevator Modernization

This project will renovate four existing passenger elevators in Doan Hall, replace electronic controls on the main elevator bank in Rhodes Hall, and install one new elevator in an empty shaft in Rhodes Hall. The total project cost is $1,380,600; funding is provided from University bond proceeds. The estimated completion date is January, 1996. The contract awarded is as follows:

General Contract:	Otis Elevator, Columbus, Ohio
Amount:	$1,082,407 *+
Estimate:	$1,000,000 *
Total All Contracts:	$1,082,407 *

* Recommended alternates included in these totals.

+ The General Contract is in excess of the filed estimate of cost; however the total price of all contracts is within 10% of the total estimate of cost and is recommended for award as provided by Section 153.12 of the Revised Code.

REPORT OF AWARD OF CONTRACTS AND ESTABLISHMENT OF CONTINGENCY FUNDS (contd)

ARENA AND
DOAN/RHODES HALLS ELEVATOR MODERNIZATION (contd)

Doan/Rhodes Hall Elevator Modernization (contd)

Contingency Allowance: $108,204 (10% of construction cost)

Total Project Cost: $1,380,600

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized in compliance with the requirements of House Bill 790, to select qualified architectural/engineering and project management firms as necessary for the Arena and that the fees for these services be negotiated between the firms selected and the State of Ohio, Division of Public Works; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That pursuant to the actions previously authorized by this Board, the report of award of contracts and establishment of contingency funds for the Doan/Rhodes Halls Elevator Modernization project is hereby accepted.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 95-49

16.198 ACRES IN PIKE COUNTY

Synopsis: The sale of approximately 16.198 acres of unimproved real property located at OARDC's Piketon Research Extension Center is proposed.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University owns a tract of approximately 16.198 acres of unimproved real property located on the south side of State Route 32 just east of the intersection of Shyville Road in Pike County, Ohio; and

WHEREAS the Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) desires to purchase this tract of land for the purpose of making improvements to the Appalachian Highway; and

WHEREAS ODOT has offered to purchase the property for $24,770.00, which is consistent with the value based on the University's current MAI appraisal; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that this sale of property is in the best interest of the University, and it is the desire of this Board to accept this offer and sell all of the University's right, title, and interest in this property:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in the name of the Board of Trustees, to sell all of the University's right, title, and interest in this property to the State of Ohio for the Ohio Department of Transportation at a price of not less than $24,770.00, upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY (contd)

(See Appendix XVIII for background information and map, page 285.)

Ms. Pichette:

At the last Board meeting, the Board authorized the University to lease land to Edison Welding Institute for new materials joining the center. We have continued discussions with EWI regarding University use of this facility for our welding engineering program and related activities. We believe that we have come to general agreement on how to accomplish this without new general funds commitment and with appropriate protections for the University in any such arrangements.

Therefore we request an authorization to lease space in this new facility for academic and research use, consistent with the specific limitations on the general funds support. It is a joint use agreement which you are approving. I would be happy to answer any questions, and Ed Hayes may have additional comments about the academic linkages involved in the shared use and the benefits for the University.

Dr. Ed Hayes:

I would just comment that from a research point perspective and the impact on our academic programs, I think that this is a very important and appropriate move for the University to be making at this time. I think that the teaching factory that is planned to be a part of this shared use facility is very important. It will put our engineering program at the forefront of engineering programs in the world, in terms of being able to give our graduate and undergraduate students hands-on experience with modern technology. I would be happy to answer any other questions that you might have.

SHARED USE OF THE PROPOSED EDISON JOINING TECHNOLOGY CENTER

Resolution No. 95-50

Synopsis: Authorization to provide for University use of the proposed Edison Joining Technology Center in the University's West Campus Research Park is proposed.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees has authorized the lease of approximately ten acres of land in the University's West Campus Research Park so that the Edison Welding Institute (EWI) may construct a new materials joining technology center; and

WHEREAS under the joint use agreement governing the use of the $2 million capital appropriation for this project, the University will have access to use EWI equipment and technology; and

WHEREAS EWI and the University's College of Engineering wish to allocate a portion of the new facility to house components of the College's welding engineering program and other materials joining activities; and

SHARED USE OF THE PROPOSED EDISON JOINING TECHNOLOGY CENTER (contd)

WHEREAS this proposed shared use of the facility through the University's lease of space will strengthen the University's academic programs in welding engineering and result in higher quality programs and increased research activity for both institutions; and

WHEREAS this shared use will provide undergraduate and graduate students with research and practical experience in materials joining technology and a significant opportunity for increased interaction with private industry and will provide faculty members with increased opportunities for collaboration in research and technology transfer to develop and implement advanced joining technologies; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices have determined that the shared use of this facility is in the best interest of the University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees reaffirms Resolution 95-34 adopted on August 31, 1994, authorizing the University to lease land to Edison Welding Institute for the proposed Edison Joining Technology Center and authorizes the University to seek, at the appropriate time and in accordance with established University and State of Ohio procedures, release of the capital appropriation for this project contained in House Bill 790; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the University be authorized to enter into such agreements as necessary to provide for the appropriate shared use of this facility subject to the condition that no more than $365,000.00 (in current dollars) per year of University funds, including central General Fund support not to exceed $165,000.00 per year and up to $100,000.00 per year from College of Engineering funds and up to $100,000.00 per year from Office of Research funds, may be used to support the costs of University use of space in this facility and subject to a memorandum of understanding to be entered into by the University offices involved.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE MEETING

Mr. Colley:

Mr. Chairman, the monthly Endowment Portfolio report was sent to the Board in advance of this meeting. Mr. Jerry May will discuss the proposed purchase of real property by the University Foundation and present the University Development report for August 1994, including the establishment of twelve new named endowed funds and the amendments to two endowed funds. Mr. May --

Mr. Jerry May:

Thank you very much, Mr. Colley. If I could digress just for a moment, I'd like to introduce someone else who is here from Cleveland today -- Chris Tall. Chris, I wonder if you would stand up and stay standing for just a minute? Chris has recently joined us in the last few months as the new regional director of major gifts and the head of our Cleveland Regional Office. He comes to us from Case Western Reserve University and is now our permanent representative in this area working on fundraising and other kinds of things on behalf of Ohio State. So I want you all to welcome Chris here and you will get to know him over time. Thank you, Chris.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE MEETING (contd)

Mr. May: (contd)

I also want to call your attention to a document that was passed out earlier to you that we are starting to put together on a regular basis entitled, "Ohio State News." We have combined press releases and/or other activities related to fundraising over the past month or so into this document. Some of this information you have seen before, but we thought it might be helpful for you on a regular basis to have this as a reference in case there is somebody that you want to send it to or just for your own update in case you would miss it.

What I would like to do now is move to the issue of the sale of real property at the Riverwatch Tower. What we have decided to do today is bring this to you as an item for information and not for action. We will bring this back to you for formal action next month, but we wanted you to have a chance to look at this. I am working with the Office of Finance and the Treasurer's Office on this particular piece of property that we are interested in. Mr. Shkurti and I would be happy to answer any questions you have.

Hearing none, Mr. Chair, I would like to give a report on private support for July and August compared to the same period last year. If you turn to the Development tab in your notebook, you will notice that the private dollars for the first two months of the fiscal year were about $1 million or 16 percent ahead of last year.

I would like to mention a few of the highlights: individual giving is up 14 percent, due to a strong increase in alumni giving which is up actually 49 percent; corporate giving at this early stage of the year is up 31 percent; gift totals from associations and other organizations are double what they were a year ago; and gifts added to the Endowment are running slightly ahead of last year, up about 9 percent. Are there any questions regarding the details of this part of the report?

Mr. Chairman, I would like to recommend to the Board therefore the establishment of twelve new named endowed funds that are identified and detailed for you on those pages totaling $931,970 in restrictive support that has been received by the University. Also the revision of two named endowed funds, which also are itemized in your material. In addition, I recommend the acceptance of $1,580,423 in gift receipts in endowed funds and $5,109,000 to current use funds received during the months of July and August. Mr. Chairman, I present these resolutions for Board action.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT

Resolution No. 95-51

Synopsis: The report on the receipt of gifts and the summary for August 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from alumni, industry, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts are received through The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation; and

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT (contd)

WHEREAS this report includes the establishment of twelve (12) new named endowed funds and amendments to two (2) endowed funds:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the acceptance of the report from The Ohio State University Development Fund and The Ohio State University Foundation during the month of August 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Colley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

- A Overall individual giving is up 14% even though gifts from non-alumni during the first two months is 45% behind last year for the same period.
Alumni giving is up 49%. So far this year gifts of $10,000 or more from alumni total $1.9 million. For the same period of time last year gifts at this level totaled $1 million.
- B Corporate giving is up 31%. Last year there were 56 corporations providing private support of $10,000 or more ($1.4 million). This year private support at the $10,000 level exceeds $2 million (64 corporations).
- C Gifts of $10,000 or more from private foundations are about $400,000 less than last year for the first two-month period.
- D Last year during July-August 7 associations or other organizations gave $10,000 or more (nearly $100,000). This year during the same period 17 organizations or associations gave at this level for almost $400,000.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT FUND

Establishment of Named Endowed Funds

The Lane Avenue Horticulture Farm Endowment

The Lane Avenue Horticulture Farm Endowment was established October 7, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the proceeds of the sale of the Overlook farm real estate and gifts of friends and alumni, faculty and staff of the horticulture program; to be used for the ongoing programs and operations of the Lane Avenue Horticulture Farm, a horticultural education and research center.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used for program and operational needs of the Lane Avenue Horticulture Farm. These expenditures include, but are not limited to:

- 1) the maintenance of programs, structures and holdings, whether as supplies, services, equipment and labor in the form of permanent and/or temporary wages;
- 2) supplemental support for research and educational programs.

The chairperson of the Department of Horticulture, The Ohio State University, in conjunction with a six- member committee from the Ohio Horticultural Council shall have the responsibility for and must approve all expenditures from the fund.

It is the desire of the Department of Horticulture and the Ohio Horitculture Council that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. Should the need for this fund cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer.

$173,932.00

The Bernard F. Master Athletic Scholarship Fund

The Bernard F. Master Athletic Scholarship Fund was established October 7, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Dr. Bernard F. Master, Columbus, Ohio.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's permanent endowment fund, under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual income shall be used to supplement the grant-in-aid scholarship costs of student athletes who are members of the men's varsity basketball team pursuing undergraduate degrees at The Ohio State University. Recipients will be selected by the Director of Athletics in consultation with the University Committee on Student Financial Aid.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees, as recommended by the Director of Athletics, in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

The Gladys Foster Anderson Early Literacy Fund

The Gladys Foster Anderson Early Literacy Fund was established October 7, 1994, by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with gifts to The Ohio State University Development Fund from Richard W. Foster (B.S. Business Administration 1965), Louesa Callahan Foster (B.S. Education 1965) and their family, in honor of Richard's mother, Gladys Foster Anderson (B.S.Ed. '25) and in recognition of her commitment to early literacy.

All gifts are to be invested in the University's Permanent Endowment Fund under the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University with the right to invest and reinvest as occasion dictates.

The annual interest will support work in the College of Education toward the advancement of programs in early literacy. The purpose of the fund is to foster quality education for children in the preschool and primary school years, with an emphasis on reading.

A Request for Proposals will be issued by the College of Education to faculty and students and in-service teachers who are working in conjunction with a member of the faculty in early literacy. This RFP may be issued annually or every two or three years, allowing the interest from the fund to accumulate. Proposals should address the unique needs of early literacy. Proposals shall be reviewed by a selection committee comprised of faculty in early literacy and a representative of the Dean of the College of Education. A member of the Foster family will always be invited to participate in the selection process.

The "Foster Fund" may be drawn upon to contribute to a specific need, e.g. to support student assistants, to provide consultant help to the program, to supplement essential materials, to support student/faculty/practitioner research, or to fund a symposium in early literacy. Projects should be chosen which are original, address the critical needs of early literacy, support cross-disciplinary work, and attract recognition for the University, the College of Education, and the program area of early literacy.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then the income may be used for any purpose whatsoever as determined by the Board of Trustees, with preference being given to the recommendations from the appropriate administrative official of the University who is then directly responsible for the College of Education and the curriculum in early literacy. If another purpose must be designated, an attempt will be made to consult with a surviving member of the Foster family.

Mr. Colley:

Mr. Chairman, Mr. Nichols will now present the Monthly Endowment Portfolio Report.

Mr. Nichols:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Monthly Endowment Report is for the period August 19 through September 16, 1994. The market value of the Endowment on September 16 was $502 million. This total is approximately $3.7 million above the number reported to you last month. The equity portion increased $5.7 million, while the fixed income portion decreased $1.6 million in the face of increased interest rates. Net new additions for the Endowment for September totaled $900,000.

Since July 1, the Endowment Fund has increased $16 million including net new additions of $2.4 million. Current asset allocations is 61 percent in equities; 24 percent in fixed income; 8 percent in real estate; and 7 percent in cash. That is the completion of the report and I would be glad to answer any questions.

October 7, 1994 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Colley:

Mr. Chairman, Judge Duncan will discuss a proposed gift of real property to the University from Mr. Austin E. Knowlton.

Judge Robert M. Duncan:

Mr. Chairman and members of the Board, for some time now Mr. May, distinguished alumnus Mr. Gerlach, Mr. Kessler, and I have all had, from time to time, various conversations with Mr. Knowlton, who is a distinguished graduate of our School of Architecture. These discussions concerned the gift of $10 million from Mr. Knowlton to go towards the construction of a new School of Architecture.

As a product of those discussions, I think we have reached a consensus opinion with Mr. Knowlton concerning the terms and conditions of his pledge, and are the same matters of which the legal aspects were discussed with you this morning in Executive Session.

What Mr. May and I would like the Board to consider is approving the status of our negotiations in principle, and allow Mr. May and I to go back and complete the negotiations and the terms and conditions of the gift from Mr. Knowlton. We are delighted that Mr. Knowlton has seen fit to make this outstanding gift to the University.

Mr. Colley:

Mr. Chairman, I move the acceptance and approval, in principle of the gift from Mr. Knowlton.

Upon motion of Mr. Colley, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Welcome ladies and gentlemen, we are appreciative of your being here today. Let me note, that our students were busy this month with several campus-wide events including the Hispanic Fiesta, Alcohol Awareness Week activities, and, of course, Homecoming. Ohio State also hosted the National Conference of the Student Coalition For Action in Literacy Education, a program I visited in an important symbolic and substantive effort on behalf of this University.

One very special event I want to mention today was our community clean-up day, "High on Pride." Students, faculty, staff, and neighborhood residents came together on a Saturday and cleaned up the areas between High Street and Fourth Street, from Lane Avenue to Ninth Avenue. Very effectively, I might note, with the good cooperation from the city of Columbus, nearly 800 energetic volunteers cleaned 26 miles of curb line and 12 miles of alleys. We collected some 30 tons of "hard trash" like refrigerators, furniture, mattresses, and other bulky items; 25 tons of litter; and 2 tons of recyclables. The feedback we have received from the residents has been tremendous. We have scheduled a second clean up in April and plan to do these programs at least twice a year.

During the past month, I have visited four high schools: Hilliard, Youngstown East High School, Lordstown, and New Albany. In each case, the students have asked interesting questions about preparing for college and certainly about Ohio State. These visits give me an opportunity to work along side our admissions staff in our recruiting efforts.

As the enrollment reports given today will indicate, Dr. Jim Mager and his team continue to do outstanding work with principals and counselors, as well as with prospective students. On October 25, we held dedications for three programs in our Research Park. The Eisenhower National Clearinghouse celebrated their new Online Resources Services. Teachers from around the country can access a comprehensive collection of instructional materials and programs available from federal agencies, commercial publishers, and educators. It is being described as an electronic treasure-trove of materials for teaching science and mathematics, in which we take the leadership in this country.

We opened the Radiation Dosimeter Calibration Facility in the Research Park. This Ohio Emergency Management Agency testing center calibrates some 30,000 radiation tests each year, monitoring radiation exposure for workers in a number of industries. The program also includes funding for graduate students in health physics and research opportunities for our faculty in nuclear engineering and other fields.

Also in the Research Park, we dedicated the Business Technology Center, a technology incubator that is a laboratory for entrepreneurship. The B.T.C. is part of Ohio's Thomas Edison Program sponsored by the Ohio Department of Development. Having the center on the campus increases interaction between start-up companies and university resources, including university-developed technologies. All three of these activities in the Research Park are examples of public/private partnerships with the university of which we are very proud.

Among the personnel actions recommended to this Board today is the appointment of a new leader for our Social Work programs, Dr. Tony Tripodi. Dr. Tripodi comes to us from Florida International University. However, he is returning to the Big Ten, as he spent 21 years at the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

Also, Miechelle Willis is recommended as Associate Director of Athletics and the lead administrator for our women's varsity programs. Miechelle is an experienced and respected athletic administrator and will have responsibility for both women's and men's basketball and 14 other varsity sports.

Today, Sherri Geldin, Executive Director of the Wexner Center for the Arts, will be making a presentation on the Center's activities. As a reflection of our success, let me share a snapshot from last week's CBS Sunday Morning broadcast. Eugenia Zuckerman introduced a profile of choreographer Bill T. Jones, a Wexner Artist in Residence this past year. She highlighted the performance of his new work, "Still Here," in both New York and at the Wexner Center in Columbus, and I am sure many viewers recognized the Mershon Auditorium stage as his rehearsal site.

We continue to be enriched by the diverse programs offered through this remarkable Center. You most likely saw a member of our faculty on the network news several times this month as Assistant Professor of Finance Paul Schultz attracted a lot of attention for his publicized and published study of the Nasdaq Stock Market. This month we dedicated the Drees Laboratory Addition for the departments of Computer and Information Science and Electrical Engineering. The nine-story addition adds 90,000 square feet and includes high voltage laboratories and several computer-equipped classrooms.

This past Wednesday, the cornerstone of the Wexner Jewish Student Center was laid. This beautiful new facility represents a wonderful investment in our neighborhood. It is an important cultural and religious home for Ohio State's Jewish community. Significantly, this Center also has as part of its mission, supporting multiculturalism and diversity and eradicating intolerance wherever it is found. It serves as a model for the more than 400 Hillel Foundation Centers on campuses across the country for its commitment to serving all members of the university community.

Mr. Chairman, that concludes my report. I would like to note that our Vice President for Student Affairs, David Williams, is a new father. His son was born earlier this week, Nicholas McKenzie Williams. David, congratulations to you.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING

Provost Sisson:

Mr. Chairman, my report is going to be briefer at this gathering than it will at subsequent meetings during the year. Let me provide a little bit of context. We have looked at restructuring in two major ways this last year, one had to do with the Office of Academic Affairs and the units that are reporting to it.

The Managing For the Future Task Force for Ohio State noted that given the organizational complexity of the Office of Academic Affairs, that if it were left unchecked could lead to managerial apoplexy. We have done something about that. There is more organizational suppleness, I think, as a consequence of our reorganization and will lead hopefully to enhanced managerial effectiveness and clarity of leadership. That is something that you will be able to judge as the months and years go on.

From fifty units reporting directly to the Provost, we now have nineteen. There was reorganization in three colleges this last year, which resulted as well in a reduction of departments from thirty-one to nineteen.

There are a number of proposals that are currently under review, Mr. Chairman. One is for the reorganization of the College of Human Ecology. This proposal is currently under review by the Council on Academic Affairs and the Oversight Committee on Restructuring. An Ad Hoc Committee that was created by the Steering Committee of the University Senate this last year for the express purpose of providing advice to the academic community -- which includes us all -- on how we should go about and what we should do with respect to restructuring.

There is my proposal that will be reactivated, again, to convert the College of Social Work into a school housed within the College of Education. There is a proposal to create a school of public health, where that reflects our accent and our commitment to health policy research, teaching, and service here at Ohio State. It certainly would have, if approved, a solutary impact on extramural funding that would be brought to Ohio State.

There are several other proposals that are waiting in the wings for entry and to take their part in this drama. One is a proposal from the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences to combine Communication and Journalism. Another is a proposal for the reorganization within the College of Education. Another is a proposal -- which has just received approval of the deans and appropriate faculties of two colleges -- for the transfers of the Department of Geodetic Science and Surveying from the College of Mathematical and Physical Sciences into the College of Engineering.

UPDATE ON THE UNIVERSITY RESTRUCTURING (contd)

Provost Sisson: (contd)

The College of Food Agricultural and Environmental Sciences is reviewing, together with the Colleges of Veterinary Medicine and Engineering, the naming of departments and also reviewing appropriate programmatic initiatives and degree programs in their colleges.

I have asked all deans to update their restructuring proposals, which were submitted just last February, to take into account any change in those or any change in resources that may have occurred between the time of the original submission and now. With those in hand, we will plan on how we take the next step in terms of restructuring the University. They will be reviewed by the OCR, the Oversight Committee on Restructuring, and the Provost's Advisory Committee. As a consequence of these reviews, I am sure that I will have additional recommendations ultimately to bring to the Board for your consideration.

I look very much forward to this year. I would like to ask Dr. Amy Riemenschneider, Chair of the University Steering Committee, or Dr. Harry Allen, Chair of an increasingly engaged Faculty Council, if they have any remarks?

Dr. Amy Riemenschneider:

I would only like to say that this is my first year on the Oversight Committee and, believe you me, it's a lot of work. They really look at the proposals and really debate and seek input. So it is not something that somebody says and it goes through, there is a lot of involvement. So, I think, that there is a process involved.

Dr. Harry Allen:

The Faculty Council will be responding to Ohio State's restructuring throughout the year. We will be responding both reactively and, hopefully, proactively, with regard to specific recommendations that come forward and processes which are followed.

In a somewhat relationship to restructuring, during Winter Quarter we expect to sponsor two symposiums jointly with the Academy for Teaching. The first will involve evaluation of instruction and the second will involve innovation in instruction. In addition to these two activities, we expect to have a meeting -- it possibly might be a series of meetings -- with the Provost and the President at the end of Spring Quarter in order to discuss long-range University issues. These may well have an impact on the restructuring that is going on.

REPORT ON THE WEXNER CENTER FOR THE ARTS

Mr. Kessler:

I'd like to call on Sherri Geldin for a report on the Wexner Center for the Arts. I might also mention that it is her birthday today.

President Gee:

I promised Sherri that we wouldn't say anything about that.

REPORT ON THE WEXNER CENTER FOR THE ARTS (contd)

Ms. Sherri Geldin:

That is off the record! Good morning, I am delighted to be here this morning, and thank you all for the invitation. As Gordon mentioned earlier, and hopefully, some of you may have seen the CBS Sunday Morning clip on the Bill T. Jones project. I would like to spend just a few minutes talking about that project, because it really exemplifies on so many different levels the kinds of activities that the Wexner Center is aggressively pursuing on a local, national, and even international basis.

Bill T. Jones is, as most of you know, quite a renowned choreographer. He has actually been here in Columbus before with his company the Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Company. A couple of years ago, Bill T. began to conceive a new work of art, a dance that would, in effect, deal with issues of life threatening illness as they might be encountered by people of all races, ages, genders, and ethnicities. And Bill, having lived through a very devastating personal loss of his own, thought that through a kind of creative expression he could work through this and perhaps along the way help others to work through these kinds of devastating situations.

He customarily works with a number of performing arts and cultural arts presenting institutions around the country of which the Wexner Center is one, along with the Brooklyn Academy of Music in New York, the UCLA Center for the Performing Arts, Iowa's Hancher Auditorium, and on and on. There are about 20 different institutions where he regularly performs. In any event, he approached the Wexner Center to join this consortium of co-presenters and co-sponsors of a piece called, "Still/Here," in which not only would this performance take place in each of these various venues, but as part of putting together the piece itself, he would work with residents in each of those communities conducting what he calls survival workshops. These individuals participating would be selected by the host institution, in other words, the Wexner Center here in Columbus. Those workshops would then be video taped and ultimately that footage would be incorporated by his collaborator, Gretchen Vender, a video artist working in the Wexner Center's Art and Technology Lab, to put together a compendium of images that would form the backdrop of this particular piece.

Not only were we very enthusiastic about the prospect of being one of the consortium of co-sponsors, but in addition, offered Bill T. Jones one of the Wexner Center's Artist and Residency Awards. As I think you are aware, each year the Wexner Center selects one or more artists in the visual arts, the performing arts, and film and video -- each of the three programming areas that we deal with -- to come to the Center not only to create new work, but to interact with the community, the University staff, faculty, and students. To be not just a show case for the presentation of contemporary art, but for the Center to really assume a role as a catalyst in the creation and production of new work.

I could go on and on about this particular collaboration. What has been really extraordinary for all of us who have had a chance now to see it through its various stages was that this particular piece -- because of its subject matter -- gave us the opportunity to work with Dr. David Schuller, at the James Cancer Institute, who we met with early last fall as soon as this project began to get underway. Dr. Schuller helped us to identify some of the local residents who would take part in these survival workshops here in Columbus, which happened last December, and beyond that, will be working with us to co-sponsor a symposium on February 17 called, "Managing Mortality." That will proceed by one day the actual performance of "Still/Here," that will be in Mershon Auditorium on February 18. That will be a co-presentation between the Wexner Center and the Martin Luther King Complex, with whom we have had an ongoing, and, I should say, growing and strengthening partnership for some time now.

Bill T. was in Residence at the Wexner Center for the entire month of August. As Gordon mentioned, the CBS Sunday Morning crew was here and shot considerable footage at Mershon, as was Newsweek Magazine and PBS. Bill Moyer is working on a new series called, "Healing in the Arts," and we are hoping that footage shot during the Residency here will actually become ultimately a part of that series.

Part of the Residency Program, as I mentioned, is the opportunity for artists to interact with the community and principally, of course, the University community, but reaching well beyond. Throughout the one month Residency, there were five open rehearsals to which the public was invited. Having a chance to actually see the artistic process in motion so that they could watch this piece evolve, they had the opportunity to ask questions afterwards. Bill T. was very generous in terms of engaging in conversation with the public throughout these rehearsals. I might add for those of us watching this from day to day, we could actually see the impact of the comments and questions that were raised by the public as Bill built and finally finished work on this piece that then went off to really an ecstatic premier in "Leon," as part of the Leon Festival and is now on its national tour. Again, to return here to Columbus in February.

Now along with Bill T. Jones, we have two other eminent artists in Residence this year. Ann Hamilton in the Visual Arts. As many of you know Ann is actually a native of Columbus and has lived elsewhere for many years and now has returned here. Among other things, Ann is the only visual artist last year to have received one of the prestigious McCarther Awards. The University faculty was particularly pleased to learn that she would be our Artist in Residence this year, because they have long wanted the opportunity to have her come and work with students. She gave the first of what will be a series of talks in the Wexner Center performance space a few weeks ago to a full crowd.

Finishing up on Residencies -- a name that may not be as familiar to you, but which we are truly gratified to be able to announce, is Chris Marker. Chris Marker is a legendary French film maker. He is not particularly a household word here perhaps, but who at the age of 73 is now celebrating some 50 years in film making. He will be under the auspices of the Wexner Center Residency in January, creating his first ever new commission for an American Institution, which we will then be sending on the road to other institutions in the country, as well as abroad. This will be Chris Marker's personal tribute to the centenary of film and it promises to be a riveting installation.

Among other highlights -- in terms of the artistic programs coming up this year -- I should mention Robert Frank's exhibition, "The Americans." You have all probably seen a fair amount of press of late about Robert Frank, equally legendary in his own right as a photographer. In the mid-'50's, he really transformed the field of contemporary photography, particularly with this one series called, "The Americans." This was part of a Guggenheim Fellowship that he received in 1955, allowing him to make the cross-country sojourn for about two years in which he essentially documented his own travels and this has become a remarkable body of work.

It has not all been seen in its original sequence since the late 1950's, although Frank is currently the subject of a much acclaimed retrospective at the National Gallery of Art, which has occasioned all of this press. We are very fortunate that in being the premier venue for this smaller exhibition, which will travel at the same time as the full one, retrospective that we will be able to benefit from this resurgence of interest in Robert Frank. I should add that not entirely coincidentally in planning Chris Marker's presentation, at the same time it turns out that he and Robert Frank are not only contemporaries, but that they knew one another in New York back in the '50's.

REPORT ON THE WEXNER CENTER FOR THE ARTS (contd)

Ms. Geldin: (contd)

In the area of the performing arts, many of you have now heard about this rage percussion troupe called Stomp. I am happy to say that the December 3 performance of Stomp is sold out. We are hoping to bring them back next year and are struggling with an agent at the moment who is weighing his options. I should say that there is very hot competition in town for the Stomp engagement next year, but we are hoping the Wexner Center will prevail. This is perhaps the most rambunctious and irreverent percussion troop that you will ever see -- they play everything, but traditional instruments. Many of you have probably seen them on David Letterman and CBS Sunday Morning, they have been all the rage in New York.

We will also be launching a new effort in the area of film and video in the late winter or early spring. Looking at creating a cinematic program which, in effect, fills a niche that perhaps in Los Angeles or in New York or in Chicago is very well served, but not so in Columbus. That is to say, looking at the classics in the context whether we do a series that features a particular film director or screen writer or actor or certain theme. If one thinks about the resources in the Columbus area, that is not one that is particularly available on an ongoing basis. We see this as part and parcel of a program-wide endeavor to not simply present the most rigorous and compelling of the arts that is being made today, but to find a way to look back over recent history and bring to this community some of the now classics of the contemporary jonrun. And in the area of film, of course, dipping back to the full 100-year history of film at this point.

I passed around earlier an article which is, literally, hot off the press in today's New York Times. You will see a review of an exhibitio -- which I just attended in New York -- the Rem Koolhaas Exhibition. Rem is a Dutch architect, which as the opening paragraph of this review states, who is highly celebrated and yet has not, at this point any way, been commissioned to do a single building here in this country.

Shortly after arriving here at the Wexner Center last fall, we began to talk with MOMA about the prospect of bringing this exhibition to Columbus. I am pleased to say we will be doing this in May and, hopefully, might plant a spark here to see if perhaps Columbus can be the first on the map to commission Rem Koolhaas to do a major building. He is an architect of extraordinary range, depth, creative spark, and intellectual ability and someone who will certainly enrich this community. He has agreed to do some workshops or studio classes with the architecture students and we are hoping to actually engage him in even more significant ways that we have yet to pin down.

I should add that with Residencies and with Visiting Artists alike, we try always to find means of connecting them to the University community and at the same time to the larger Columbus community. We do that not just under the auspices of the Wexner Center, but through community partnerships as well. The most recent has been with the Columbus Museum of Art, as we join together to celebrate a very ambitious contemporary exhibition that they are currently presenting, "Landscape is Metaphor." Hopefully you will all have a chance to see this in the next few months.

REPORT ON THE WEXNER CENTER FOR THE ARTS (contd)

Ms. Geldin: (contd)

This is probably the most ambitious exhibition of contemporary art that the Columbus Museum has undertaken and a number of people have approached me saying, "Gee aren't they kind of encroaching on your territory?" I am sure that many of you have seen in the press that there is invariably a reference to the fact that this looks more like a Wexner Center show than a Columbus Museum show. In fact, I see that as a real plus. The more we can introduce this community to the various creative expressions being pursued by contemporary artists -- and, I might add, under the egest of an institution that is considered main stream -- and the venerable arts institution in the city, that is really a plus for the Wexner Center, in terms of trying to create a context for what we do as well.

We co-hosted a symposium here. I am having ongoing conversations with Irvin Litman, the new Columbus Museum Director, to talk about ways that we might join forces on marketing studies and other initiatives that could really accrue to the benefit of both institutions. Likewise in terms of some of the other outreach -- we have partnerships underway with Opera Columbus. We recently had a series at the Center on films on opera and the Columbus Opera Director, Bill Russell, came and introduced some of those. So we are looking for ways to introduce our audiences to other cultural institutions and likewise their audiences to the Wexner Center.

It was very clear to me after arriving here and having a chance to access the terrain, that while the Wexner Center may well be much acclaimed across the country -- and certainly when I visit other cities here and even abroad -- the Wexner Center has developed quite an amazing reputation. Yet here in Columbus, it is not the best kept secret, perhaps not taken as a core cultural resource in the same ways that some of the other cultural institutions might be. So we are looking to expand the awareness of this community and, hopefully, the appreciation of this community for the kinds of programs that the Center is bringing. But in part, it was about inviting people here and making them feel welcome. It is a building, that as you all know, can be a little bit mystifying, perhaps a little intimidating -- as can contemporary art itself be -- and we have been exploring all kinds of initiatives to make the place more friendly, more open, and more welcoming.

Thanks to all of you and, particularly, with some help from the Provost's Office, we were able this year to insert in all 50,000 plus tuition packets -- that went to students this summer -- a Wexner Center student membership card. In addition to familiarizing them with the Center and with the benefits that accrue to them -- simply of virtue of their enrollment at OSU -- we also found that this would be a good marketing tool for us. We invited all of the students to come to an open house on the first day of school. We had several thousands of them actually pouring through the doors. Of course, it did not hurt that we offered them a free T-shirt. Not only have I seen those T-shirts coming and going on campus, but I see them coming and going through the Wexner Center. So it was not just a one-time visit. Likewise, we have worked with the Graduate Student Council and the various offices who plan orientation programs to make the Wexner Center a more active part, of not only the curriculum on campus, but the extra curricular activities as well.

The student membership campaign was really a corollary to a direct mail piece that went to the larger community of Columbus. The one that we call, "a great deal." We have been having a lot of fun with a graphic designer that we have been working with to make the image of the Center, again, one that is a little more accessible, hopefully captivating, and intriguing but offering a sense of fun as well. I am pleased to say that we are approaching at this point a one percent return on this piece, which is considered very successful indeed. At the same time, we are trying to reinforce among the public here that the Center is really the place where all the art forms converge.

It is not just exhibitions, not just performing arts, not just film and video, but a place where all of these art forms are presented and where artists have the opportunity to weave back and forth between and among the disciplines. So we created this piece which is what I call, "The Wexner Center Year at a Glance." It's the little blue book, which is a reference for our members and for the broader public. It contains a short paragraph about each of the upcoming programs at the Center.

We are about to celebrate the Wexner Center's Fifth Anniversary. And I should say, that the response in terms of recruiting additional members for our Director's Circle and our Chairman's Council has been very gratifying. Again, we have a sold out house for next week's performance of Liza Minnelli. This is, as you know, an event, in a sense a thank you, to all of the very generous donors to the Center's Director's Circle and Chairman's Council. Since we have Mershon Auditorium and 3,000 seats to fill, we have also made seats available to our broader membership and to the students. I have to confess, I assumed that for a student population in the mid-'90's that Liza Minnelli might not be such a draw, but, in fact, we put student seats on sale and those went in a few hours. So we are delighted to be able to have that kind of mix of talent at the Wexner Center.

I will close simply by telling you that we have a number of programs in the works for next year. I am not quite at liberty to announce what they are, but I can promise you that there is one exhibition, in particular, that we will be bringing here next fall that will have a tremendous city-wide resonance and particularly an Ohio State resonance as well.

Coming up on Monday, I am going to be meeting with Andy Geiger to initiate what I hope will be an ongoing collaboration with the Athletics Department as well. That is one that I suspect is not often thought of in tandem with the Wexner Center, but my strong feeling is that anyone who has a captive audience of 100,000 people every other Saturday is an audience that I would like to tap into. Thank you and I would be happy to answer any questions.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Sherri. Are there any questions for Sherri? She is and has been doing a marvelous job since she has been here. We are thrilled you are here and the wonderful work that you are doing at the Wexner Center. Thank you for your presentation and have a happy birthday.

Ms. Geldin:

Thank you.

REPORT ON THE COUNCIL OF GRADUATE STUDENTS

Mr. Kessler:

I would now like to call on Dr. Sandra Solano, President of the Council of Graduate Students to report.

Dr. Sandra Solano:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman and good morning. I would like to start by telling you why I am here today. Three years ago, I came from Sao Paulo, Columbia, which is a very large city and a beautiful country. I hope some of you will be able to visit it some day and you can consider this a personal invitation. I was looking for the best graduate education and the resources to apply it. I have to confess that I found more than that. I found myself a member of the community of this University.

As a citizen of this community, I was honored by being elected President of the Council of Graduate Students representing more than 11,000 students. Today, I am speaking on behalf of those students.

You have received a copy of the Council's priorities for the coming year 1994-95 approved at our last meeting. This list is not organized in priority order, but I want to highlight some of the aspects of the seven points.

The greatest responsibility that I and every other graduate student sitting in a governance body of the University has is to act in the best interest of graduate students. Our best interest is to study in and graduate from the best institution that The Ohio State University can be. This common goal makes our role in governance important. I am sure that this is a better University when the view points of faculty, staff, undergraduate, graduate, and professional students are taken into consideration in the decision-making process. Unfortunately as a survey of the Patterns of Administration showed, our representation at the department and college-level is not always optimal. We have more opportunity to participate in the governance of the University, than in our own departments and colleges. The improvement of this participation is today more important than ever.

As you have heard for the last year, restructuring is probably the most important process for the future of the University and we are working to maintain and enhance the communication at different levels to help in the success of this process. The Provost has called for broad consultation and our responsibility is to fully participate in this process.

Regarding tuition and fees, I want to ask you not to raise tuition but to take into consideration many factors, including that about half of the graduate students are unsupported. Increasing the tuition and fees affect this group of students unproportionately.

Another aspect is the differential fees. The Council has opposed differential fees since 1992. Usually, if not always, the differential fees -- and I am referring to such things like the computers fees -- are not included in the fee waiver granted to its graduate students with their fellowships and associateships. In addition, we think that University-wide fees, to provide a major source of funding for a project or service, should be approved by University-wide referendum. We propose that students should decide if they want to pay or not for social services or projects.

Another priority of the Council's this year is to work in favor of diversity. Where in the world would you find representatives from so many countries in such a relatively small place? I will say probably the United Nations. However, the international character of this University is not our only treasure. The treasure is the opportunity to learn from all cultures, ideas, lifestyles, and life stories.

REPORT ON THE COUNCIL OF GRADUATE STUDENTS (contd)

Personally, this has been the best experience of my life. If you agree with me that graduate education should form more than its scholars, our education will have been complete if we are not prepared to be leaders and pioneers of the 21st century. An integral part of this education is to understand, accept, tolerate, respect, and, finally, celebrate differences.

The world does not have borders or limits anymore. In this new year, we will live closer and closer. To be successful we have to be able to interact with others, because diversity is our greatest human resource. The Council plans to assess and promote it. I hope that soon we will see more clearly and be brightly reflected in the buildings, spirits, and leadership of the University, the greatest of diversity and multiculturalism.

I didn't know if I was going to use this example, but I have been asked so many times why people want to keep their own culture, why not just accept the culture that is in existence? I always say, "Would the salad be better if we take out the tomatoes, broccoli, and cauliflower and put all the same type of lettuce in?" I am sure some people like only lettuce, but you will all agree with me that the salad is better if you have all of the elements instead of a single element.

The celebration of diversity includes the support of non-discriminatory policies in the University. This shall include the student health insurance plan. The Council of Graduate Students in its last meeting passed a resolution requesting the Student Health Insurance Committee to consider, again, the inclusion of domestic partner coverage in the health insurance plan. The graduate students want to see this portion of the plan included in next year. We hope that the Student Health Insurance Committee and, when the time comes, this Board will take serious consideration of this request. You will receive a copy of this resolution shortly. Because health care effects our education and quality of life on campus, and this is one of our main concerns.

We are looking forward to broad participation and consultation in the proposal to marriage the Student Health Services and the College of Medicine. Our main concern is to work for containing health care out-of-pocket expenses for students, while maintaining a high quality health care. This includes looking into alternatives according to student health arrangements.

Finally, graduate students are basing their decisions to select one program or the other not just on the high quality of the programs, but on the support available. The financial support to graduate students is essential to attract the best quality of students, however financial support is not enough. Applicants are looking into health care and other services, such as child care, to make their decisions. These services are essential to enhance the quality of life on campus. Again, we are working to get the best education and to graduate not just from a large university, but from a big university.

I want to thank you for the opportunity to express the concerns of the graduate students and I will be glad to answer any questions.

REPORT ON THE COUNCIL OF GRADUATE STUDENTS (contd)

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you, Dr. Solano. Are there any questions? Thank you for addressing us this morning.

REPORT ON RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Mr. Celeste:

You all should have a copy of the report for September 1994 Grants and Contracts at your places, which was previously mailed to you.

Once again I have good news, expenditures from external sources -- as you will find in Tab 1 -- are ahead of last year by 9.8 percent for a total of $48.9 million through September 30, 1994. Awards for the year are in excess of $54 million or 24.4 percent above the July to September time period last year. A summary of the award totals is given in the second section of this report.

At Tab 3, five projects are highlighted and at Tab 4, a complete list of new awards received in September is presented.

You were also previously sent a copy of the annual report, 1994 Research at The Ohio State University. I am pleased to report that expenditures for Fiscal Year 1994 exceeded $197 million, 4.6 percent higher than in Fiscal Year 1993.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS AND GRANTS

Resolution No. 95-52

Synopsis: The reports on research and other sponsored program contracts and grants and the summary for September 1994 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, and other agencies in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such monies are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein during the month of September 1994 be approved.

Upon motion of Mr. Celeste, seconded by Mr. Skestos, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

HOSPITALS BOARD REPORT

Mr. Skestos:

At the annual October Strategic Planning Retreat, members of the Hospitals Board and representatives of Hospitals management, of the College of Medicine, of the medical staff and of the independent practice group for the physicians discussed the strategies required to enable the Medical Center to remain viable in a changing medical economy.

These discussions resulted in consensus that the preferred operating strategy for a successful integrated finance and delivery system based in the University Medical Center would require all participants and/or partners in the system to commit to similar and, eventually, shared economic incentives.

The retreat concluded with the participants unanimously encouraging that the Medical Center:

- 1) Be in every managed care contract that supports the overall strategy;
- 2) Develop a competitive medical center-based health insurance product;
- 3) Contract with, or employ physicians in order to build an adequate primary care network;
- 4) Build a geographically dispersed system of clinical services by aligning with other hospitals and service providers;
- 5) Create a physician-hospital-organization that could assist in accomplishing the aforementioned tactics; and
- 6) Form a corporate structure that would have the ability and capacity to support these efforts.

At the October meeting, the Professionals Affairs Committee reviewed the Executive Summary of the first ever employee survey, the quarterly quality report, and a "hospital report card" format being developed by a regional insurance company. Action plans responding to issues identified in these reports are a partial basis for the hospital service quality improvement plans. During the meeting of the Executive Committee, a Medicare Select Insurance Program being developed by the Hospitals was described. This plan will be used to attract Medicare patients to OSU Hospitals and will enable the Hospitals to gain expertise with a "controlled risk" insurance product.

The Hospitals Board received a report showing strong operational and financial performance for the first quarter. However, it was also noted that recent changes to the Medicaid fee schedule will result in an approximately $1 million reduction in payments for the last six months of the fiscal year.

The Executive Committee was also provided updates on the incorporation of the captive malpractice insurance company and the helicopter merger -- two programs which will minimize future Hospitals operating costs.

The Fiscal Year 1993-94 Annual Audit was presented. The audit indicated a successful financial year and excellent compliance with previous audit recommendations.

REPORT ON AGRICULTURE

Mr. Celeste:

During the period October 30 through November 2, 1994, a team of OSU administrators visited the Dominican Republic to review project activities in which OSU is a partner and participates. The group consisted of Bob Moser; Thomas Payne, Director of OARDC; David Hansen, Director of International Programs in Agriculture; William Flinn, President and Executive Director of the Midwest Universities Consortium for International Activities (MUCIA); and myself.

While there, we visited the Superior Institute of Agriculture (ISA), with which we have an institution building contract funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development, entitled "University Agribusiness Partnership Project." We are the lead institution on this MUCIA project. At ISA, we met with their board members and administrators, including: Benito Ferreiras, who recently completed a one-year visit here at OSU. We reviewed current collaborative activities, including the OSU Study Abroad Program, which will place its fifth class at ISA this Winter Quarter. ISA arranged visits to several agribusiness industries in the region with whom they are collaborating through the project.

We also discussed future collaboration on several projects currently in the development stage, and for which we are jointly seeking funding support from the Interamerican Development Bank and the World Bank.

The visit also included meetings in Santo Domingo. On Tuesday, November 1, we met with the U.S. Ambassador and the USAID Mission Director to discuss the status of our project and agriculture education, research and extension needs in the Dominican Republic. Much of this conversation centered on problems shared between the Dominican Republic and Haiti, and inputs needed by Haiti in view of the recent political events in that country. We also met with representatives of the Dominican Ministry of Agriculture. With them we discussed major development constraints and project needs in the agricultural sector. As a side bar, I might add we also were witnesses to one of the main problems of the country in terms of their difficulty in dealing with electrical capacity, because our meeting was in total darkness as the lights were out. They did not have a generator in that particular building, but most of them do have generators which will power on.

We found the Dominicans to be genuinely interested in continuing collaboration with OSU. Over 50 Dominicans have been trained at the graduate level at OSU during the past decade, and over 60 OSU faculty have visited and worked in that country. This is definitely an international linkage which merits continued attention and nurturing.

That completes my report.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING

Mr. Shumate:

The Fiscal Affairs Committee met this morning and received reports from Vice President Shkurti regarding the Enrollment Update, the Board of Regents Funding Formula Recommendations, and the First Quarter Budget Report for Fiscal Year 1995. We also heard a report from Jim Mager on the Federal Direct Student Loan Program.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING

(See Appendix XX for a chart on the FY 1995 First Quarter Report, page 343.)

Mr. Shumate:

At this time I would like to call upon Mark Hilligoss and the team that will be presenting the annual audit report to the full Board. The Fiscal Affairs Committee received this report in detail on Tuesday, November 1, 1994.

ANNUAL AUDIT REPORT

Mr. Mark Hilligoss:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman and Mr. Shumate. As you know, the University has a five-year contract with Coopers and Lybrand for our annual audits of the University through Fiscal Year 1995, so we are in the fourth year of that contract. On Tuesday, we presented, in detail, the financial results for Fiscal '94 and today we will briefly summarize the points made earlier.

I have asked just two representatives to address the Board today from the team of many University staff and external auditors who have played a key role in the University's audit process. We have with us Dave Gaston, the C&L partner, and we have Don Seidelmann, Associate Controller. We will present our summary in two parts: the financial summary by Don; and the external auditors' summary by Dave Gaston.

Before I ask Don to provide you with the financial summary, I would like to say, once again, and thank Mr. Shkurti, that through coordinated extensive effort we have received an unqualified or clean opinion from Coopers and Lybrand on September 15 of this year. Finally, I would also like to recognize the leadership and service provided by our former Controller, Janet Achterman, over the last nine and a half years. With that, I will ask Don Seidelmann to present the five minute financial summary of Fiscal '94, followed by Dave Gaston's five minute summary of the external auditors.

Mr. Don Seidelmann:

On Tuesday, we presented to the Fiscal Affairs Committee a detailed explanation walking through the booklet that you have in front of you, "The Overview of Financial Conditions and Results of Operation for Fiscal Year 1994." What I would like to do at this time is to draw your attention to pages 26 and 27 of that book where we highlight six of the items that we feel are important conclusions barring on the fiscal representation of last year.
