JOHN DEWITT JACOB

Synopsis: The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow regarding the January 20, 2026, death of Dr. John Dewitt Jacob, proud Ohio State alumnus, member and chair of the university's Board of Trustees, and passionate Buckeye. He was 87.

Dr. Jacob was a lifelong central Ohioan, representing the third of five generations of the Jacob family to call the area home. After graduating from University High School in 1956, he attended The Ohio State University to earn his Doctor of Dental Surgery degree in 1963 and a Master of Science in Orthodontics in 1966. He was a member of Beta Theta Pi and the Psi Omega Psi dental fraternity while on campus. He then spent 25 years in private practice as an orthodontist in Worthington, Ohio. Throughout the course of his career, he became a life member of the Columbus Dental Society, the International College of Dentists, and the American Association of Orthodontists.

His deep roots in the area, combined with his generous spirit, drove Dr. Jacob to dedicate much of his life to serving the organizations and communities of which he was a part. A proud Eagle Scout, he served on Ohio State's Board of Trustees from 1975-84 and as the board's chair from 1983-84. He was also a life member of The Ohio State University Alumni Association. He was appointed three times by two consecutive Ohio governors to the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Review Commission, a post he held until 2007. He was also a life member of Scioto Country Club and a charter member of the Dublin-Worthington Rotary Club, which he helped establish in 1974.

When not pursuing his professional and civic interests, or cheering for his beloved Buckeyes, Dr. Jacob could frequently be found on the golf course. His passion for the sport led him to courses around the world and to numerous championships. It also afforded countless opportunities for fellow golfers to experience firsthand his warmhearted demeanor and belief in continuous personal growth — through skilled guidance, sincere encouragement and cheerful camaraderie.

On behalf of the university community, The Ohio State University Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. John Dewitt Jacob its deepest sympathy and sense of compassion for their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the board's heartfelt sympathy and appreciation.

JOHN JOSEPH KENNEDY

Synopsis: The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow regarding the death on August 9, 2025, of John J. Kennedy. He was 85.

John J. Kennedy devoted three decades of exemplary service to The Ohio State University, leaving a legacy that has shaped both the institution and the broader field of educational research. He earned his PhD from the University of Massachusetts – Amherst and joined Ohio State’s College of Education in 1969. He retired in 1999 as professor emeritus of educational policy and leadership.

He became one of the university’s most respected voices in educational statistics, research design and teacher education. His areas of expertise included problems of teaching, teacher clarity and Reflective Teaching. He was known for making complex quantitative methods accessible as well as for being a pioneer in the statistical analysis of qualitative data. He was making sense of “big data” before the term was even coined.

Nationally, Kennedy was well known for his foundational contributions to the study of teacher clarity, now recognized as a central element of effective instruction and a core component of modern, evidence-based teaching frameworks. As a key member of the Ohio State teacher-education research group, working alongside colleagues such as Professor Emeritus Donald R. Cruickshank, Kennedy helped define, operationalize and empirically validate the construct of teacher clarity.

His seminal works, including “Teacher Clarity” (1986), “An Empirical Investigation of Teacher Clarity” (1977) and “Additional Investigations into the Nature of Teacher Clarity” (1978), provided a research foundation that continues to guide inquiry into how teachers communicate, how students learn and how instructional quality can be systematically improved. These studies remain touchstones for contemporary researchers studying the behavioral, cognitive and communicative dimensions of effective teaching.

Kennedy was also a gifted methodologist whose work strengthened the statistical sophistication of educational research at a time when many investigators were seeking new analytic tools. His book Analyzing Qualitative Data: Log-Linear Analysis for Behavioral Research, co-authored with his former PhD student Andrew Bush — now an emeritus professor — and published by the University Press of America (1983; 2nd edition, 1992), introduced applied researchers to the practical use of log-linear models for categorical data, an area in which Kennedy offered unusual clarity and accessibility.

Kennedy’s co-authored An Introduction to the Design and Analysis of Experiments in Behavioral Research (1985) provided one of the field’s most comprehensive and usable treatments of research design and analysis. It bridged the gap between advanced methodology and real-world educational research. Both texts continue to be cited and used in training researchers across disciplines.

In 1985, Kennedy received the college’s Award for Excellence in Research. He served on the doctoral committees of students whose dissertations received seven awards from national associations.

In the field, Kennedy was active and influential in the American Educational Research Association and the Midwest Educational Research Association. He was instrumental in growing the Midwest Association membership and developed several long-term, professional relationships with fellow members.

Kennedy inspired thousands of students and colleagues worldwide, many of whom continue to build on the foundations he created. Those who studied with him remember not only his brilliance, but also his patience, generosity and dry wit, which made even complex ideas engaging. His distinguished career was defined by methodological rigor, intellectual clarity and unwavering commitment to students and colleagues.

On behalf of the entire university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Emeritus John J. Kennedy its deepest sympathy for their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the board's heartfelt appreciation.

STEPHEN F. LOEBS

Synopsis: The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow regarding the death on November 10, 2025, of Stephen F. Loeb, former associate dean and professor emeritus in the Division of Health Services Management and Policy in the College of Public Health. He was 87.

Professor Loeb received his bachelor's degree from Bowdoin College (1960) and a master's degree in hospital administration (1962) from the University of Michigan. He went on to serve as a commissioned officer in the U.S. Air Force Medical Service Corps, spending three years as assistant administrator of an Air Force hospital before he was honorably discharged as a captain. He then returned to Michigan, where he joined the faculty and earned a master's degree in political science (1971) and a PhD in medical care organization (1974). In 1972, he traded maize and blue for scarlet and gray, joining the faculty of The Ohio State University.

For the next 30 years, Professor Loeb would shape the field of health administration and inspire generations of students at Ohio State. He served as chair of the Master of Health Administration (MHA) program from 1980-2002 and as associate dean of the College of Public Health from 1997-2002.

A respected scholar, Professor Loeb's research and publications focused on health insurance organization and health management education, and he was the principal investigator of an influential study of health care costs and cost containment strategies in Ohio. In 2000, the Association of University Professors in Healthcare Administration awarded him the Filerman Prize for Educational Leadership, recognizing his impact on the profession.

Professor Loeb was known for his mentorship, humor and an unwavering belief in his students that binds the program's tight-knit alumni today. Professor Loeb believed he was strengthening the health care system by supporting graduates who would be successful leaders and took great joy in teaching and helping graduates launch and develop meaningful careers. He was especially supportive of women in the program during a time there were few.

Professor Loeb's supportive spirit was instrumental in developing the MHA program's strong sense of community and creating a culture of alumni involvement and giving back. In celebration of his retirement, alumni and friends raised funds to establish an endowed chair in his name, the Stephen F. Loeb Professorship in Health Services Management and Policy.

On behalf of the entire university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family and loved ones of Professor Stephen F. Loeb its deepest sympathy and compassion for their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the board's heartfelt sympathy and appreciation.

GEORGE ARTHUR SKESTOS

Synopsis: The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its deep sorrow regarding the January 9, 2026, passing of George Arthur Skestos, civic leader, philanthropist and former member of the Board of Trustees and Wexner Medical Center Board. He was 97.

A native of central Michigan, George Arthur Skestos demonstrated early on the drive that would later define his life. After graduating from high school a year ahead of schedule, he attended the University of Michigan to earn three degrees: a Bachelor of Arts in history in 1948, and a Master of Business Administration and Juris Doctor in 1951. He then served in the United States Navy Judge Advocate General Corps.

In business, Mr. Skestos made his mark in the world of real estate. After salvaging an investment, he founded the Homewood Corporation in 1963. The Columbus-based firm constructed tens of thousands of single- and multi-family homes in the years that followed, forever shaping the landscape of the region. Not content with personal success, Mr. Skestos was also deeply engaged in the civic life of central Ohio. He served on the boards of numerous organizations and gave generously to causes ranging from education and the arts to healthcare and companion animals.

Mr. Skestos served on The Ohio State University Board of Trustees from 1992-2001, including a year as its chair. The university made significant investments in its athletic campus during his tenure, including the construction of the Jerome Schottenstein Center and Bill Davis Stadium, and the renovation of Ohio Stadium. Mr. Skestos was also a member of the boards of University Hospital, University Hospital East and the Wexner Medical Center for 23 years. He was instrumental in the development of the medical center's inpatient and outpatient facilities and services on Columbus' East Side. Along with his wife, Tina, he co-chaired its "Power to Change Lives" fundraising campaign.

In so many ways, Mr. Skestos committed his life to serving others. This focus — combined with his tireless effort, principled leadership and keen insight — have crafted a legacy that continues to impact greater Columbus and The Ohio State University, and will for generations to come.

On behalf of the university community, The Ohio State University Board of Trustees expresses to the loved ones of George Arthur Skestos its most sincere condolences for their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy and profound appreciation for Mr. Skestos' service to the university and enduring impact upon the entire Ohio State community.
