The Board of Trustees met at its regular monthly meeting on Friday, July 6, 1990, at The Ohio State University Fawcett Center for Tomorrow, Columbus, Ohio, pursuant to adjournment.

The Chairperson, Mrs. Bowser, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on July 6, 1990, at 11:05 a.m. She requested the Secretary to call the roll.

HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

The Executive Committee of the Hospitals Board met on Thursday, June 28, 1990. Mr. Richard Schrock, Administrator for Financial Services, reported that increased activity in both in-patient and out-patient areas during May helped improve the Hospitals' cash position by $661,000, although it is true we will still have approximately a $1 million loss for the fiscal year.

Dr. Mekhjian informed us that the Clinical Productivity Task Force, which was formed to identify ways to increase cost efficiency without compromising the quality of care, has submitted its report to the Medical Staff Administrative Committee. Its recommendations were endorsed and additional suggestions were made. This will become a standing committee which will make regular reports to the Medical Staff leadership. Dr. Mekhjian, also, presented the 1990-91 Medical Staff Appointments and Reappointments which the Hospitals Board's Executive Committee did endorse and which we have forwarded to you for action today.

Another piece of evidence that the Hospitals are working very diligently on is cost cutting, but still keeping in mind that it will never touch the quality of care. This has been a regular practice of the Hospitals. And, I think, you will find that despite the kinds of publicity there are about hospitals today, University Hospitals is really on a lean budget and a good one.

Mrs. Patricia Bennett presented the annual report of the Hospitals' Service Board, outlining their considerable friend- and fund-raising efforts through the past year. We expressed our appreciation to Mrs. Bennett and the entire membership and welcomed Mrs. Amelia Nasrallah as the incoming president.

Mr. Bruce Pontious shared insights into effective and successful fund-raising strategies for the future and proposed the establishment of a Medical Center Development Council. This Council would be composed of major donors, community and regional leaders, and representatives from various medical center components. The plan is that the University Trustees would be represented through one of the Hospitals Board members, hopefully Mr. Shumate. We endorsed the establishment of the Council because of the strong support it would provide for the Medical Center's development plans as outlined in the strategic plan. Without significant contributed funds, the Hospitals simply will not be able to meet its capital needs. So this becomes a very, very, important component. It is made all the more difficult because the Hospitals will be competing with the Cancer Hospital and Research Center Institute for funds.

Ms. Karen Jackson reviewed the Safety Program which is in place for employees, visitors, and patients in the Hospitals. Such reports will be a regular quarterly feature of the Hospitals Board meetings because that is now a requirement of the accrediting body.
Mr. Jerry Maier summarized the activities of the helicopter service and its dollar impact on the Hospitals, and did demonstrate, by his report, that despite the fact that the helicopter service is subsidized, it does result in net gains for the Hospitals increased patient revenue. He also reported that Children’s Hospital has recently decided to rejoin the Helicopter Consortium. Mr. Maier also provided progress reports on MedOhio and the Camera Center and Beechwold Center affiliations.

Ms. Kam Sigafous reported that we are developing a special hospitality area at the Ramada Inn for use by ambulatory surgery patients and their families, and thanked Mr. Nichols for his effort. Special rates and transportation services are being provided to our ambulatory patients.

The Hospitals' administrative and medical staffs recommended that we move forward with a Certificate of Need to extend the use of the biliary lithotripter for clinical applications. The lithotripter is currently limited to research purposes only. In other words, we can't charge anybody for using the machine. We authorized the Hospitals to proceed with the new Certificate of Need.

That completes my report, Madam Chair, but I do have a proposed Resolution. There is presently a vacancy on the Hospitals Board and we are recommending the appointment of Bernadine P. Healy, M.D., to that vacancy. I might point out that Dr. Healy is the Director of Research at the Cleveland Clinic. The one doctor member of the Board is retiring and so it is particularly important that we add another doctor to the Board.

NOW THEREFORE
UNIVERSITY HOSPITALS BOARD APPOINTMENT (contd)

BE IT RESOLVED, That the following nominee be approved as a general public member of the University Hospitals Board, effective immediately, for a term ending April 30, 1993:

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

The Investments Committee met this morning and reviewed the status of the Endowment Portfolio as presented by Mr. Rodack. As of June 15, 1990, the market value of the endowment was $321 million, an increase from $312.6 million just last month. We were informed that in the last two months, due to the favorable market, our portfolio increased $19 million. For last year, or at least through 11 1/2 months of last year, the endowment portfolio increased by $33.7 million, $20 million of which was in new money. That is the largest amount of new money added to the endowment in any area in the history of the University. The earnings to date last year were $16.3 million, and $14.7 million will be distributed in 1990, or has been. It is estimated that $16 million will be available for distribution in 1991.

(See Appendix I for complete context of The Ohio State University Endowment Summary, June 15, 1990, page 113.)

We also heard a report on the Student Endowment Portfolio by students and professors. I might point out that the return in the four months that the students invested the $5 million fund was 13.2 percent, which is on an annualized basis of 40 percent. That is 3 percent above Standard and Poor, so indeed that is a very fine performance.

I indicated to them that in order for anyone to receive an "A" in that course we would expect that percentage to be maintained. It is interesting to note that there are some 100 students involved in the course over four different quarters. Several students referred it to a capstone course. One of the students is now a member of the Alumni and he indicated that this course had really been a very valuable experience in preparing him for his career.

(See Appendix II for The Student Investment Management Program, page 129.)
INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

We are also recommending the following resolution:

AUTHORIZATION FOR DESIGNATED OFFICIALS TO BUY, SELL, ASSIGN AND TRANSFER SECURITIES, TO DEPOSIT OR WITHDRAW FUNDS FROM BANK ACCOUNTS, AND TO DESIGNATE DEPOSITORIES

Resolution No. 91-2

Synopsis: The Investments Committee recommended reaffirmation of Board of Trustees Resolution No. 90-2 (July 7, 1989), which authorized designated officials to buy, sell, assign and transfer securities, to deposit or withdraw funds from bank accounts held in the name of The Ohio State University, and to designate depositories.

WHEREAS designated officials of the University buy, sell, assign and transfer stocks, bonds and other financial instruments owned by The Ohio State University; and

WHEREAS various financial institutions are designated as depositories for The Ohio State University; and

WHEREAS accounts at various financial institutions are opened and maintained in the name of The Ohio State University:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Business and Administration and/or the Treasurer be authorized and empowered to buy, sell, assign and transfer any and all stocks, bonds, evidences of interest and/or indebtedness, rights and options to acquire or to sell the same, and all other securities corporate or otherwise, standing in the name of or belonging to The Ohio State University in any capacity; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Business and Administration and/or Treasurer be authorized and empowered to designate various financial institutions as depositories for The Ohio State University and open and maintain accounts at various financial institutions in the name of The Ohio State University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Vice President for Business and Administration and/or the Treasurer be authorized, on behalf of The Ohio State University and in its name, to sign checks, drafts, notes, bills of exchange, acceptances or other orders for the payment of money from said accounts; to endorse in writing or by stamp checks, notes, bills, certificates of deposit or other instruments owned or held by this University for deposit in said accounts or for collection or discount by said banks; to accept drafts, acceptances, and other instruments payable to said banks; to waive, demand, protest, file notice of protest, or dishonor any check, note, bill, draft or other instrument made, drawn or endorsed by the University.

Upon motion of Mr. Teaford, seconded by Mr. Barone, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.
INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford:

Also, you will be happy to know that in the Fiscal Year 1990, the portfolio was even with inflation. So inflation did not have a negative factor on the portfolio.

I concluded that meeting by, again, recognizing the extraordinary assistance of Weldon Ihrig to this Board, and I want to do that publicly as well, at this meeting. Weldon has been a tower of strength for this Board. His integrity is beyond question and we very much appreciate the efforts that he has given us. That completes my report, Madam Chair.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

The Academic Affairs Committee received a report this morning on the Deans' Meeting in Washington, D.C., headed by Dean Donald Harris and Dr. Manuel Tzagournis. Fred, if you could just briefly talk about the meeting --

Dr. Hutchinson:

We adopted an agenda this year for the Deans. I asked them a year ago to set up an agenda of things they wanted to work on for the year. One item was what we could do to enhance the academic image of Ohio State, not that Ohio State doesn't have a good image, but we would like to enhance it both in the State and nationally. One idea was the deans meeting in Washington, D.C., and, in fact, meeting with the heads of several of the major federal agencies. We were able to do that on June 13 and 14 of this year. I would like to note that there was no extra cost, because all of our deans have to go to Washington, periodically, and we simply scheduled that so they all went at the same time. Almost all of the deans were there for the two days. We do have some pictures on display for you to look at and I am passing out programs for your information.

Mr. Kessler:

Thank you. The Committee is recommending the following resolutions:

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY

Resolution No. 91-3

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of amendments to rules 3335-5-19, 3335-47-10, and 3335-47-11, of the Rules of the University Faculty.

WHEREAS the University Senate pursuant to rule 3335-1-09 of the Administrative Code is authorized to recommend through the President to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty as approved by the University Senate; and
July 6, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (cont’d)

WHEREAS the proposed changes in the Rules of University Faculty were approved by the University Senate on June 2, 1990, as follows:

AMENDED RULES

3335-5-19 Faculty.

As used in these rules the term "faculty" shall include persons appointed by the board of trustees with regular, regular clinical, auxiliary, and emeritus faculty titles on full- or part-time appointments, with or without salary.

(A) "Regular faculty": persons with the titles of professor, associate professor, assistant professor, and instructor who serve on appointments totaling fifty per cent or more service to the university.

(B) "Regular clinical faculty": persons with the titles of professor of clinical (division, department or college), associate professor of clinical (division, department or college), assistant professor of clinical (division, department or college), and instructor of clinical (division, department or college), who serve on appointments totaling fifty per cent or more service to the university. Regular clinical faculty appointments are made only in the college of dentistry, the college of optometry, the departments of veterinary clinical sciences and veterinary preventive medicine in the college of veterinary medicine, the divisions of pharmacy practice and pharmaceutical administration in the college of pharmacy, and the following departments in the college of medicine: anesthesiology, emergency medicine, family medicine, internal medicine, neurology, obstetrics and gynecology, ophthalmology, otolaryngology, pathology, pediatrics, physical medicine, preventive medicine, psychiatry, radiology, and surgery.

The number of persons holding regular clinical faculty titles in each division, department or college cannot be greater than one-third the number of persons holding regular faculty titles in that division, department or college. Individuals appointed to the regular clinical faculty are limited to participating in governance at the division, departmental and college levels, but may not participate in promotion and tenure matters of regular faculty.

3335-47-10 Regular faculty ranks (requisites, capacities, and tenure accrual).

(A) Instructor.

(1) Recommendations for appointment as an instructor are subject to the following conditions:

(a) Formal requisite: baccalaureate degree and master's degree, or its equivalent, and at least three years of graduate study or relevant professional experience.

(b) Capacities: satisfactory evidence that the person being appointed possesses the capacity to develop and meet substantially the criteria described in criteria for promotion and tenure, rule 3335-47-02 of the Administrative Code.

(c) Tenure: before an instructor will be granted tenure at that rank, a six-year probationary period must be completed.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

(2) Initial appointments as an instructor are on a probationary basis. Performance is reviewed annually during the probationary period to determine whether or not the appointment will be renewed, subject to the standards of notice set forth in rule 3335-47-09 of the Administrative Code. If the appointment is renewed for a fourth year, the university will inform the instructor during the fourth year as to whether or not the individual is a candidate for tenure. If the instructor is not considered a candidate for tenure, the appointment will not be renewed after the end of the fifth year. If the appointment is renewed for a sixth year, the person involved will be informed by the chairperson or dean, during the sixth year of service, if tenure is to be granted beginning with the seventh year of service. If tenure is not granted, a one-year terminal appointment as instructor will be offered.

(B) Assistant professor.

(1) Recommendations for appointment as an assistant professor are subject to the following conditions:

(a) Formal requisite: Ph.D. degree or equivalent qualification.

(b) Capacities: demonstrated evidence that the person being appointed possesses the capacity to meet substantially the criteria described in rule 3335-47-02 of the Administrative Code.

(c) Tenure: before an assistant professor will be granted tenure at that rank, a six-year probationary period must be completed. Service to the university as an instructor (without interruption on any campus) will be counted in meeting this probationary requirement. Tenure may be granted at an earlier time upon promotion to associate professor.

(2) Initial appointments as an assistant professor are on a probationary basis. Performance is reviewed annually during the probationary period to determine whether or not the appointment will be renewed, subject to the standards of notice. If the appointment is renewed for a fourth year, the university will inform the assistant professor involved during the fourth year as to whether candidacy for tenure is to be considered. If the assistant professor is not considered a candidate for tenure, the appointment will not be renewed after the end of the fifth year. If the appointment is renewed for the sixth year, the person involved will be informed by the chairperson or dean during the sixth year of service, if tenure is to be granted beginning with the seventh year of service. If tenure is not granted, a one-year terminal appointment as assistant professor will be offered.

(C) Associate professor.

(1) Recommendations for appointment as an associate professor are subject to the following conditions:

(a) Formal requisite: Ph.D. degree or equivalent qualification.

(b) Capacities: demonstrated evidence that the person appointed meets substantially the criteria described in criteria for promotion and tenure, rule 3335-47-02 of the Administrative Code, and that professional development will continue.
AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

(c) Tenure: a person promoted to associate professor from a lower rank at this university will acquire tenure upon the effective date of promotion.

(2) A person appointed from outside of this university as an untenured associate professor will serve a probationary period.

(a) The probationary period will be two years except as noted in paragraph (C)(2)(b) of this rule. During the second year, the person involved will be informed by the chairperson or dean if tenure is to be granted beginning with the third year of service. If tenure is not granted, a one-year terminal appointment as associate professor will be offered.

(b) In cases where the appointment of an individual to the associate professor rank is based upon professional experience of a non-academic nature, the probationary period may be as long as four years. The additional time is provided to give the individual an opportunity to demonstrate appropriate academic accomplishments. The length of the probationary period will be part of the official appointment offer and will have approval of the appropriate dean and the vice president for academic affairs and provost. In this case, the decision to award tenure must be made no later than the last year of the approved probationary period. The decision will be made according to the unit's normal review procedures. If tenure is not granted, a one-year terminal appointment as associate professor will be offered.

(3) A person appointed from outside this university as a tenured associate professor must have prior approval of the appropriate dean and the vice president for academic affairs and provost.

3335-47-11 Regular clinical faculty ranks.

The titles of regular clinical faculty are professor of clinical (division, department or college), associate professor of clinical (division, department or college), assistant professor of clinical (division, department or college), and instructor of clinical (division, department or college). Individuals in this track may have a full range of responsibilities to appropriate academic units with emphasis on patient care and clinical teaching activities. Clinical activities for faculty members in this category are to be included in approved practice plans.

(A) Appointment criteria.

Initial appointments, or transfer, to the regular clinical faculty will be made for individuals with the following experience or credentials:

(1) They are strict or geographic full-time faculty members in academic units authorized to make regular clinical faculty appointments (see paragraph (B) of rule 3335-5-19 of the Administrative Code).

(2) They engage in activities which consist primarily of patient care and clinical teaching and supervision.
AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

(3) They have the appropriate educational background and credentials to engage in the activities outlined in paragraph (A)(2) of this rule. Formal requisite: D.D.S., D.V.M., M.D., Pharm. D., or O.D. degree or equivalent qualification.

(4) They are essential to the continuing mission of the relevant college as determined by the appropriate clinical division or department chairperson, dean of the college, and vice president for academic affairs and provost.

(B) Term of appointment.

(1) In the first term of appointment to the regular clinical faculty, appointees will be reviewed annually. During the fourth year, a formal review will be conducted. The faculty member will be informed if the appointment is to be renewed after the fifth year.

(2) Subsequent appointments will be for periods of five years in lieu of tenure. A formal review will be conducted in the fourth year and the faculty member will be informed if the appointment is to be renewed after the fifth year for another five-year term.

(3) All appointments will be based upon criteria established by the academic unit authorized to make regular clinical faculty appointments (see paragraph (B) of rule 3335-5-19 of the Administrative Code), approved by the dean of the college, and the vice president for academic affairs and provost.

(4) If the appointment is not renewed, standards of notice must be in accordance with rule 3335-47-09 of the Administrative Code.

(C) Transfers.

It is generally expected that the needs of the academic unit and the career goals of the prospective faculty member will result in meshing of need, expectation, responsibility, and expertise to allow a long-term appointment to either the regular faculty or regular clinical faculty. Should a transfer be considered appropriate, the following must be accomplished:

(1) through (3) unchanged.

(4) All transfers must be approved by the department appointments, promotions and tenure committee (or college if no departments exist), the division or department chairperson, the dean of the college, and the vice president for academic affairs and provost.

(5) Only one transfer to or from the regular clinical faculty will be approved during an individual's period of employment at the Ohio state university.

(D) Promotions.

Nominations for promotion originate in the department (or college if no departments exist) in accordance with criteria and procedures established by departmental (or college) faculty.

(1) A department or college may recommend the promotion of an instructor of clinical (division, department or college) to the rank of an assistant professor of clinical (division, department or college) or the promotion of an assistant professor of clinical (division, department or college) to the rank of associate professor of clinical (division, department or college) at any time up to the end of the ninth year. An individual who is not promoted by the end of nine years will be reviewed by the chairperson or dean and the appointments, promotions and tenure committee of the department or college to determine if continued employment is warranted. All recommendations will be reviewed by the appointments, promotions and tenure committee of the department, the college, and the office of academic affairs.

(2) A department or college may recommend the promotion of an associate professor of clinical (division, department or college) to professor of clinical (division, department or college) in recognition of outstanding accomplishments. Promotion may be recommended no earlier than the third year of service as an associate professor of clinical (division, department or college). All recommendations will be reviewed by the appointments, promotions and tenure committee of the department, the college, and the office of academic affairs. (B/T 10/5/84, B/T 5/4/89, B/T 7/6/90)

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty be adopted as recommended by the University Senate.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

RESOLUTION IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 91-6

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of a Resolution in Memoriam for Fanchon Warfield.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolution in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey a copy to the family of the deceased.

Fanchon Warfield

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 5, 1990, of Fanchon Warfield, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Home Economics Education.

Professor Warfield was born in Summerfield, Ohio, on February 6, 1903. Following an introduction to education at Ohio University in 1928, she continued with her Master's degree from Washington State College in 1947.

Professor Warfield began her career in education as a public high school teacher in southeast Ohio from 1922-1936. In 1950, she began her work with the Cooperative Extension Service as County Home Economics Agent (County Home Demonstration Agent) and continued in this position for fourteen years. Also in 1950, she became the Assistant State Leader; and from 1956 until her retirement in 1970, she was Leader of Training.

In 1955, Professor Warfield received the "Professor of the Year" award and worked as faculty advisor of the University 4-H Club for four years. She also gave many presentations at county meetings, served as consultant to study groups in the counties, worked on many programs for the National Training Conferences, and was professional advisor to many students. Professor Warfield will be well remembered by many students.

Professor Warfield was also involved in the Induction Training Committee; Workshops for Credit; the Annual Conference; The Ohio State Fair; and the Public Relations and College Recruitment Committee. She was a member of OHEA, AHEA, AAUW, Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Epsilon Sigma Phi.
RESOLUTION IN MEMORIAM (contd)

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Paige:

The Student Affairs Committee began with a report from David Mucci and Mike Pollway. They updated the Committee on the recent developments in the Ohio and Drake Unions. The Unions' renewed commitment to serve as its campus community center provided the content for their presentation.

Three key issues confront the Unions today: infrastructure, deterioration, and deferred maintenance. These issues remain a serious challenge for the Unions now and in the foreseeable future. Fourteen million dollars in renovations will be required within the next two decades; $2.5 million of that sum is immediately needed. The Unions have recently had $1.5 million in projects funded through a recent OSU bond issue. The Unions financial state continues to improve but the current $1.8 million deficit will take several years to eliminate. The Unions are working vigorously to achieve such through various revenue generating and cost eliminating efforts.

The Unions' Student Program and Leadership Development Activities continue to engage students and campus services. The Unions have redoubled their program commitment with their assignment of Student Affairs Committee major events which include: concerts, Michigan Weekend, Afro-American Heritage Festival, and Welcome Week. In fulfilling their curricular role, Union programs serve the institution's academic mission through academically related programs. The Unions have also made strides in the area of diversity and international retention programs.

We next heard reports from the student government leaders:

Ms. Benetta Lucius:

Good morning. I have officially taken over my duties for the Council of Graduate Students and I am glad to have this opportunity to serve in this position, and, also, the opportunity to speak before you. I am going to try to continue to follow the traditions set by the past Presidents, Roger and Luke, except for one -- I will not grow a beard. Our other new officers are: Vice President, Randy F. Rush, a Ph.D. student in Educational Theory & Practice; Secretary, Beth Miller, a Ph.D. student in Pathology; and Treasurer, John E. Quintoc, a Master's student in City and Regional Planning.
July 6, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Ms. Lucius: (contd)

Vice President Randy Rush is busy scheduling interviews for those graduate students interested in serving on the University Senate, the Council of Research and Graduate Studies, and University-wide committees. He is also planning our orientation for new graduate students this Fall. Our Ad Hoc Committee, the Quarter Re-evaluation Committee, is conducting an informal poll of graduate students to ask questions concerning their view as to the appropriateness of the quarter calendar at Ohio State. We will continue to study that issue.

By consensus our spring picnic was a success. The weather was picnic perfect. The band, the electricians, and the sound crew were all there on time to set up. All was a success, except our attendance wasn't as great as we had hoped. Therefore, today we are having a summer cookout for graduate students, faculty, and staff to divest ourselves of the remaining food from the picnic. You are all welcome to attend.

Finally, I would like to say thank you to the Search Committee for all of their hard work and to the Board in their selection of the new President for this University. We know that it was not an easy job. We would like to welcome Dr. Gee to Ohio State University, knowing that he represents the finest among 150 applicants. I like his bow tie. I can't say that this is true for all graduate students. We think that he shares his trademark with good company: Humphrey Bogart, Winston Churchill, and Pee Wee Herman. The emphasis, I think, should be that the bow tie is an attire of a gentleman and from what I can tell, it is suitable. We are, indeed, glad to have Dr. Gee as President of this University. Thank you.

Ms. Paige:

Are there any questions? Next, we will hear a report from Mike Clark, President of the Undergraduate Student Government.

Mr. Mike Clark:

Good morning. First, I would like to introduce John Lewis, our USG Treasurer. I am going to try, periodically, to bring members of USG to these meetings so they can get a feel for and see actually what the Board of Trustees are about. This is the beginning of my fifth year here, and I had no conception of who the Trustees were and what they did until I got involved in this office. I am trying to get our organization more involved -- to see what we do and what you do.

I would like to talk about some of the concepts USG will be working on next year. I feel that in the past few years the Undergraduate Student Government has been somewhat isolated. We seem to be confined to the realms of the Columbus area. We are starting to get involved in the organization called OSA (Ohio Student Association). Their success has been a roller coaster over the last few years and Ohio State's involvement with this organization has been a roller coaster. I don't know if we're on the same roller coaster or the same track or not, but seeing that we are the center of Ohio and we are the largest school in Ohio, we can play a major role in the reconstruction of this organization by trying to get other public universities in the State together and discussing some of the issues of higher education. Along those lines is Voter Registration. With the elections coming up in November, we are try to set up an All-Ohio Voter Registration Campaign. Hopefully if we get a great turnout, which we are predicting, maybe we can use this as some kind of poll or whatever you want to call it with funding for the State and the University, and things of that nature.

I would also like to update you on some of the things we are doing ourselves. I don't know if you are really involved, or if you really have the understanding of all the projects we do for the students, but one thing we do is the Crime Watch Escort Service which is involved with the campus safety issue. It has been in existence for about five years. It is ranked third in the country for a university escort service. It has been growing quite a bit every year. What we do is publicize on campus to provide escorts back and forth from the dorms and the libraries, etc. The students don't have to walk by themselves and feel the threat of being attacked or harassed. What we want to try and do is improve the service this year and to try and develop some better orientation programs for these people, we call them roves. These are the people who go out and do the escorting. We are trying to have programs with OSU police to educate people on first aid and how to handle certain crisis situations that might occur when they are doing the escorting.

We are also trying to create better publicity for this service. Right now it is operating by word of mouth. We want to come up with posters we can put in the dorms and in the libraries to remind people of the service. We are also going to be using the Lantern, and trying to come up with key chains, things of that nature. We are hoping with greater publicity we will have an increase in the number of people requesting the Escort Service for this coming fall. Now with the University's new hourly rate, we will probably have to decrease the number of people working in the organization. We are really going to have our hands full.

Also, Mike Stiziano has been working on a program for the Campus area. I understand this program is on hold right now and I don't know the exact details. We really haven't been too involved with that, but we hope to try and intermix our Escort Service and Mr. Stiziano's program once this gets off the ground.

To sum everything up, USG has to break out of its shell. Not only do I feel that we have been somewhat isolated at the national level with all other student organizations, but I think we have isolated ourselves on this Campus. The faculty and administrators are somewhat aware of what the Undergraduate Student Government does, but the students really are not aware. We really have to start concentrating on and put more emphasis on USG Involvement with student organizations, not just financially, but going in and helping them work the programs. Also, we think we should start working with the Council of Graduate Students and IPC on some of their programs. We can all accomplish a lot more for the students if we all work as one single unit. That is what we hope to do in the upcoming year. Are there any questions?

Mr. Tonnies:

The Escort Service has seen an increase in the number of requests for their service -- getting from the library back to the dorms or whatever, right? So the word is getting out.
July 6, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Clark:

Yes, the word is getting out. Like I said before, right now it is just by word of mouth. We need to do more than that. We want to become even bigger. You know how the crime rate has been escalating. We want to start publicizing the service more via the Lantern, posters, or however we can.

Ms. Paige:

How many students utilize this service?

Mr. Clark:

I don't have the exact figures, but, I believe, we average 17 escorts a night. That is actually fall, winter, and spring. We don't have it operating during the summer because of budget constraints.

Mr. Shumate:

You might be interested to know that Dr. Gee is a strong supporter of the Escort Service and actually participated, at the University of Colorado, in an effort to promote this very important function.

Mr. Clark:

The Director of the Escort Service and myself met with Dr. Gee on Thursday of last week. Dr. Gee said he will go out with us when he gets here. It will be interesting to see how it comes out.

Mr. Teaford:

He will. That has been his history at Colorado. I have heard from a number of persons who had sons and daughters at the University of Colorado, talking about how distressed they were because they have had personal involvement with Dr. Gee. In fact, it is quite awesome the number of people who have said that to me.

Mr. Clark:

We would like, hopefully, in the future to have this Escort Service expand a little bit more to the off-campus housing area. There are a lot of students that are considered commuter students because they live off-campus. They might live a half mile from campus and come to the libraries and have to walk that extra distance, sometimes through one of those problem areas. We are trying to come up with ways to deal with that, maybe that is what Mr. Stzano's program is about.

Mr. Celeste:

Mike, you said that there is an increase in requests. Is it an actual fact that the crime rate is increasing?
Mr. Teaford:

Ted, according to statistics we have had exceptions, but, indeed, the statistics are remarkably level over 10 years. We had that report sometime last year.

Mr. Clark:

Whether it is really increasing or not, I think, the perceptions are what you have to worry about. People think the crime rate is up, you have to respond to that demand.

Amb. Wott:

We had some highly publicized activities beginning this past academic year which really--

Mr. Teaford:

It turned out some of them didn't happen.

Mr. Shumate:

Mike, are undergraduate students participating in this study on quarters vs. semesters or is that just the graduate students?

Mr. Clark:

I believe it is just the graduate students.

Ms. Lucius:

We feel that the graduate students have had more opportunity to experience quarter or semester systems, so they have more of a way of comparing this system with another system.

Ms. Paige:

The Graduate School Study is for the undergraduate system. Their proposal is not yet for the whole system.

Mr. Shumate:

That's what I was asking.

Mr. Tonnies:

Ohio State does have a large number of transfer students. All you have to do is look at any college office and see that. Maybe you can tap into that source, because many undergraduates come from semester schools.
AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Mrs. Bowser:

This morning, since Ms. Casto is in China, we had our Vice Chair of the Agricultural Affairs Committee, Steven Maurer, with us. Steven is the Director of Agriculture for the State of Ohio. He has been a regular attendee to the Agricultural Affairs Committee meetings, but generally you don’t see him at the Board meetings. We are very happy to have you with us this morning, Steven, and will you please report for us on the Agricultural Affairs Committee.

Mr. Steven D. Maurer:

Thank you, Madam Chair, it is a pleasure to be here. I think this is the first time I have had the opportunity to Chair the meeting and, I guess, I can thank Ms. Casto for that. The Agricultural Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees received two reports, one was an update on the Ag Situation in Ohio this year and the second was on our international programs at the University through the College of Agriculture.

Dr. Bob Moser, Associate Dean of the College of Agriculture and Director of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, and Dr. Don Pritchard, Assistant Director of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, described the 1990 Ag Situation in Ohio. As in 1989 Ohio has, again, experienced another wet spring that is impacting agriculture. The impact has been very severe in the southern and southeastern counties. Twenty-two counties have been declared disaster counties, eight additional counties have been recommended for disaster status. While the weather has caused a serious impact in these counties, it has not seriously effected most of the major crop producing counties. Two-thirds of the income produced from crops in Ohio, are generated from the northwest to west central and southwestern counties, which generally have had acceptable weather conditions. Virtually all of the corn and soybeans have been planted, except double cropped soybeans which should be planted in the next two weeks.

The wheat harvest has progressed rather well. The yields and test weights are up. Northwestern Ohio is awash in combines at the moment trying to get that harvest in. What limited Konola planting exists in this State will also be harvested at about the same time. That is a relatively new crop and we are all interested to see just how that fares in the State. Fruit crops in Ohio were damaged by earlier frost and while there is going to be a diminished crop there will be peaches, apples, and grapes.

The College, through the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, has distributed news releases and news letters that provide the farmers and home owners information on crop and plant cultural practices related to the wet weather. Also, responses were made to individual requests for specific research-based information. I might also note that we had a discussion on the role that the Extension Service played in relation to the disaster that took place in Shadyside, and really regarding the role that this institution plays whenever there is a disaster in Ohio. We find that the Extension Service is a very, very strong and important link when our counties have difficulties.
July 6, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Maurer: (contd)

Next, we received a report from Dr. David Hanson, Associate Dean and Director of International Programs, who briefed the Committee on the international dimension of the teaching, research, and service programs of the College of Agriculture. International programs involve: faculty overseas travel; research teaching and technical assistance; recruitment of international graduate students; study and research abroad opportunities for graduate and undergraduate students; and the use of international students to inform the OSU community, as well as communities throughout Ohio, about other countries and international issues.

Current programs conducted by the College include: a $10.1 million program in Uganda, funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development; $7.25 million for a U.S. AID funded program in the Dominican Republic; $100,000 for a U.S. AID funded program in Swaziland; $150,000 program/support project funded by AID; and a number of graduate training programs for international students. The International Programs Office in the College also administrators an International Agriculture Intern Program that places OSU students on farms and in agri-businesses. A Peace Corps recruiting office for Central Ohio is located in the College’s International Programs Office.

I think it was the general consensus of the Committee that we, as a State, considering the nature of the world today, need to pay a lot more attention to our international programs throughout the State government and here at the University. In developing nations, the role of agriculture can be very important and one from which Ohio can learn, as well as teach.

Madam Chairperson, that concludes my report. I would like to mention that within the last month the Ag Income Enhancement Center funding, which was promised by Governor Celeste two years ago, has finally been completed. The State’s share has been completed and the program is now fully funded. Thank you, Madam Chairperson.

Mrs. Bowser:

Thank you very much for giving us your morning. We appreciate your time. This kind of report reminds us of our land-grant mission here at Ohio State. We do reach out and that is why we were founded and how we were founded. It always makes me very proud when I hear of our participation with people around the State. Shadyside is a good example of Ohio State’s commitment to the people of Ohio.

Mr. Teaford:

Another thing, Madam Chairperson, in the course of our interviewing the candidates for the Presidency, it cannot be overemphasized how important it was to all of them that we are a land-grant institution and where the future of higher education lies.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENT FUND (contd)

The annual income and additional gifts shall be added to the fund's principal until the minimum amount for funding an endowed chair ($1,250,000) has been reached. At that time, the annual income shall be used to attract and retain an internationally recognized scholar in the field of chemical engineering. This support shall provide supplemental salary, plus expenses for research, for professional travel and for graduate and undergraduate student assistants. Appointment to the chair shall be recommended by the Dean of the College of Engineering to the Provost and approved by The Ohio State University Board of Trustees.

The scholar who accepts this coveted position will do so knowing the following expectations:

- Responsibility for teaching at least one doctoral level course per year;
- Advisory service for doctoral dissertations, masters theses and other research projects by superior students;
- Participation in colloquia and workshops with appropriate faculty;
- Provide intellectual leadership through publishing in scholarly journals, participating in professional meetings, presenting public lectures, and giving testimony before public bodies;
- Exemption from any substantial commitment to faculty, college or university service, committee or administrative work.

Moreover, the Helen L. Kurtz Chair holder will understand and appreciate the special relationship this position has to the Ralph W. Kurtz Chair in Mechanical Engineering. Both distinguished faculty members will be dedicated to advancing their respective areas of engineering. Both will do so though with close interaction between the two programs. The resulting synergy will benefit each effort and symbolize the mutually beneficial marriage of Ralph and Helen Kurtz.

It is the desire of the donor that this fund should benefit the University in perpetuity. If the need for this fund should cease to exist or so diminish as to provide unused income, then another use shall be designated by the Board of Trustees in consultation with the appropriate college dean, department chairperson, or program administrative officer, in order to carry out the desire of the donor.

* Note - the donor has requested no publicity in regard to the establishment of this fund.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION (contd)

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, that this Board, in recognition of Weldon E. Ihrig's dedicated service and noteworthy contributions to The Ohio State University during the past twenty-five years, expresses its sincere appreciation for a job well done; and

Mrs. Bowser:

Weldon, I, too, add my congratulations to you and thanks for the job that you have done for us. We will really miss you.

Mr. Ihrig:

The feeling is mutual. I have really enjoyed the relationship with this Board, with every one of you and you have helped me grow. The only trouble with this type of resolution is that it tends to give away the aging process. Now, I have a real opportunity to be a true alum of Ohio State University and I will be able to look over your shoulders at a different advantage point. I wish you all well in the future of this great University. Thank you, again, for the opportunity.

Mrs. Bowser:

I would like to say, too, that this is the last meeting that we will have Ed Jennings at the head of the table. As long as I've been a Trustee, Ed has been the President of this University and he is leaving us with our best wishes as he returns to the faculty. We wish you well and we hope you will join us from time to time.

APPENDIX II

THE STUDENT INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT PROGRAM
July 6, 1990

Presented to the Investments Committee
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The student investment management team received an allocation of $5 million in endowment funds in mid February. Initial investments totalling roughly $1.5 million were made on February 16th. The amount invested in equities was gradually increased to roughly 95% by the end of the current reporting period (June 15th).

The initial return on the student portfolio has been impressive. Realized and unrealized gains totalled $609 thousand dollars which, together with dividends and interest produced a total return of 13.2% over the four month period. On an annualized basis, the total return was just under 40%.

The educational return on the student investment management project has continued to grow at an impressive rate as well. Each year more than 100 undergraduate and graduate students rotate through the program and are emersed in the practical rigors of real world investments. The quality and depth of our industry speaker series continues to improve. And, despite a general downturn in the securities industry, we are continuing to expand our efforts to place students in summer intern positions and permanent jobs in the investments community.

Student-managed account gains 9.5% in 13 weeks

By Barnett D. Wolf
Dispatch Business Reporter

Although the top money managers in Columbus may be plying their trade at the city's top pension funds, mutual funds or investment companies, a group of young upstarts possibly could give them a run for their money.

In the three months that finance classes at The Ohio State University have overseen a tiny chunk of the institution's $300 million endowment fund, the students' portfolio has outperformed not only the stock market, but the fund's professional money managers as well.

At the market's close Friday, the original $30 million Student Managed Account had appreciated $419,000 since it was initiated Feb. 16, and it added another $59,000 in cash dividends and interest to the endowment fund's coffers.

That's nearly a 9.5 percent combined increase in just 13 weeks, or a 36 percent annualized gain.

During the same period, the Standard & Poor's 500 gained 6.6 percent, and an investment in the S&P 500 for those three months would have resulted in a stock-value appreciation of about $210,000.

"I must admit I'm very pleasantly surprised," said Stephen A. Buser, a professor of finance whose class of undergraduates was the first money manager for the new account.

According to Alvin C. Rodack, OSU's associate treasurer, the Student Managed Account has been the major manager of OSU endowment funds during its first two months in existence. Buser believes that is true through Friday, too.

The endowment fund has nearly a dozen money managers, including companies such as Chicago Corp. and Neuberger & Berman. The OSU Board of Trustees in December approved letting finance students act as investment managers after a two-year trial using a model portfolio.

Results from three months "is not a telling piece of information" for long-term investment performance," Rodack said. He admitted, however, "They're certainly off to a good start."

Mr. Madison H. Scott

CAMPUS

Dear Scottie:

As I prepare to leave the Office of President I wanted to write you and express once again my sincere appreciation and gratitude for all the help and support you have given me during the years of my administration. Your wise counsel and ability to take on critical and sensitive issues for the University have been superb. You have contributed much to the success we have achieved and I want to thank you personally and for The Ohio State University.

I am also aware of the fact that you have served with distinction two other former Presidents of The Ohio State University, Presidents Fawcett and Enarson. This in and of itself is a remarkable feat. More importantly, however, your demonstrated record of accomplishment attests strongly to your professional ability, commitment and dedication to Ohio State.

Over the last several months I have thought about ways in which the University might recognize your splendid effort. This is not a simple matter. You have served the University for more than 25 years, and during that time you have served as the University's Chief Personnel Officer for 19 years and you have the third longest tenure, 11 years, in the history of the University as Secretary of the Board of Trustees. Given your outstanding record of service to the University I shall recommend to the Board of Trustees the purchase of three years public service credit in the Public Employees Retirement System.
As I understand it the cost to make this purchase is minimal. You have earned this recognition from the University and I wanted to get this accomplished during my tenure. I am delighted and pleased to be able to recommend to the Trustees this action.

Sincerely,

Edward H. Jennings

LETTER OF APPOINTMENT

Adopted by the Board of Trustees July 6, 1990
(See page 109)
July 6, 1990

Dr. E. Gordon Gee
3600 Caddos Parkway
Boulder, CO 80303

Dear Dr. Gee:

Tuesday, June 26, 1990, at a special Board meeting of the Trustees of The Ohio State University, you were appointed as the eleventh President of The Ohio State University to take office effective September 1, 1990 at an annual salary of $155,000. That formal action is being supplemented by this letter of appointment more clearly to delineate material terms and conditions of your employment as President. If you are in agreement, please indicate by signing a copy of this letter and returning it to me.

You are to perform the duties incident to the Office of President of The Ohio State University, including, without limitation, the duties set forth in provisions of the Ohio Revised Code, the Bylaws of the Board of Trustees, the Rules of the University Faculty and other actions of the Board of Trustees. Pursuant to those provisions, your appointment as President is a non-tenure accruing appointment. You will serve at the continuing pleasure of the Trustees on an annual basis. Your performance and your salary will be reviewed annually coincident with consideration for annual appointment. Other reviews of your performance as President may be conducted in the discretion of the Chairman of the Board or by vote of a majority of the Board of Trustees.

With your appointment as President, you will be simultaneously granted tenure as a full professor in an appropriate department to be determined by the Trustees, the Provost and by you. Though you will receive no salary for the tenured appointment during the time you are President, you are protected by the rules governing termination of tenured faculty.

Subject to legislative appropriations where necessary, effective September 1, 1990, your annual salary as President will be paid in twelve equal monthly installments, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the University. There will also be funded for you a deferred compensation account of $20,000 per year for each year of full-time employment. The deferred amount will be credited to a reserve for you on the University books on or before August 30 of each year of full employment.

Your duties will include performing activities related to maximizing the productivity and benefits of alumni and community support, including University-related and public relations functions of the President's Office (resource development). Principally, this involves promoting the University, enhancing its image with the public, and reaching out to various existing and potential constituents for financial and other support.
As an accommodation to and for the convenience of the University in having the functions of the office of President most efficiently discharged, you will reside in a house provided by the University. The house will be suitable to the President's position and obligations. The preference of you and your wife will be carefully considered in choosing it. Modest living quarters in that facility will be provided to you and your family. The University will maintain it and the grounds on which it is located, providing staff, utilities, furniture, furnishings and insurance, as well as any remodeling necessary to make it suitable for University functions. Staff, equipment, and supplies will be provided sufficient to operate the facility and support the functions to be held in it. This will include, among other things, housekeeping services, and operating expense budgets commensurate with the unusually extensive financial and human resource development efforts you are required to undertake.

Health, disability, and life insurance, along with vacation and sick leave and dependent fee authorization will be provided for you at the same levels and on the same conditions as provided all senior faculty and senior staff members. Until you and your family have been covered under The Ohio State University's health insurance plans long enough to remove the exclusion for pre-existing conditions, continuation of prior coverage at the University of Colorado for any family member with a pre-existing condition will be paid for by this University.

In furtherance of fulfilling your obligations as President for travel on official business, you will be provided a full or intermediate size car and a driver to operate it, when requested by you. Another car will be provided for official use by you or your spouse and for personal use to the extent you desire. You will be expected to buy liability insurance to cover the latter car and you are to provide gasoline and oil when using the car for personal use. You should maintain a log book to accurately reflect the amount and nature of official use.

Likewise you will receive full reimbursement for all reasonable business expenses for entertainment and other official functions including, but certainly not limited to, luncheons, receptions, dinners, official functions for University officials, staff, alumni, friends and those doing business with or recruited by the University. This includes reimbursement for all official travel and incidental expenses consistent with University policy guidelines, for you and your spouse.

Contributions to the State Teachers Retirement System in which you will participate will be made on your behalf according to the provisions of the Ohio Revised Code.

All reasonable expenses incurred by you in the transition from Colorado to Columbus, Ohio, will be reimbursed, including the cost of moving you and your family, your household furniture and personal effects and also expenses for a reasonable number of trips back and forth to Denver to complete business affairs and to arrange transfer of family health therapy programs. In addition, you will receive reimbursement for reasonable attorneys fees and expenses incurred in evaluating, negotiating and memorializing the new employment relationship.

As mentioned earlier, you will be required to live in and use the official residence provided by the University and to use the automobile provided for official functions. Should any questions or concerns arise in connection with use of either, you should consult with the Chairman of the Personnel Committee of the Board of Trustees.
July 6, 1990

Your appointment has been received in an extraordinarily, positive way, both in the University community and the community at large. We are looking forward with great anticipation to your arrival and assumption of your duties as soon as possible. If there is anything we might do to accommodate you in any respect, please let me know.

I wish you all best wishes for a great future at The Ohio State University.

Sincerely,

Recipients of Honors

Frank H. Netter
Doctor of Arts

As an elucidator of the complexities of human anatomy, Frank H. Netter knows no peer. His superb medical illustrations have enabled generations of anatomists, physiologists, pharmacologists, and physicians to better understand the mysteries of the human body.

Netter began his career as a commercial artist, drawing pictures for calendars, magazines, and advertisements, as well as working with layout, typography, and stage scenic painting. He studied at the National Academy of Design and the Art Student League.

He turned to the study of medicine, believing he was giving up art. After graduating from the New York University School of Medicine and completing an internship and residency at New York City's Bellevue Hospital, he started his surgical practice during the Depression. He began to supplement his income by doing medical illustrations, and, as demand for his illustrations increased, he eventually gave up surgery.

In conjunction with CIBA-GEIGY Pharmaceutical Company, Dr. Netter has created the widely acclaimed CIBA Collection of Medical Illustrations, which pictures all the anatomy, embryology, physiology, pathology, and diseases of mankind, system by system. He has completed seven volumes and is at work on a three-part eighth volume dealing with the musculoskeletal system. Dr. Netter has also illustrated for the magazine Clinical Symposia.

His more than 4,000 medical illustrations, noted for their clarity of concept and meticulous execution, make him one of the most influential physicians of all time.

Dr. Netter has received numerous honors and awards in art and medicine throughout his career, including honorary degrees from the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, Georgetown University, and the University of Sherbrooke, Canada. In 1986, the Netter Library was dedicated at CIBA-GEIGY's headquarters in Summit, N.J.

Netter now lives and works in Palm Beach, Fla., and has traveled extensively to gather information for his illustrations. The Ohio State University proudly recognizes this eminent scientist, influential educator, and gifted artist.

Robert W. Wissler
Doctor of Science

Robert W. Wissler has gained the respect of colleagues and students alike during his long and distinguished career as a clinical and experimental pathologist. A 1939 graduate of Earlham College in Indiana, Wissler entered the University of Chicago School of Medicine that same year. His studies were interrupted during World War II when he withdrew to do Armed Forces-sponsored nutritional and immunologic research for which he received civilian honors in 1944.

After earning his M.S., Ph.D., and M.D. degrees from the University of Chicago, Wissler remained in that university's Department of Pathology. In 1957 he was named full professor and chairman, a position he held for 15 years. He also has served as scientific director of the Specialized Center of Research in Atherosclerosis at the University of Chicago, as program director of several training programs, and is emeritus Donald N. Pritzker Distinguished Service Professor of Pathology.

Wissler's ground-breaking work in the pathogenesis of atherosclerosis has had profound impact on modern medicine. He is a pioneer in advocating nutritional modifications of the American diet to decrease incidence and extent of atherosclerosis. In 1985 he was named program director of a $25 million multicenter cooperative study on the "Pathobiological Determinants of Atherosclerosis in Youth," sponsored by the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute. As a result of his support, The Ohio State University Biomedical Engineering Center was designated a central laboratory for the study.

His many original contributions to the fields of nutrition, immunology, pathology, and experimental pathology are reflected in an extensive bibliography of published works. He has held academic appointments as a visiting scientist throughout the world, including Switzerland, Japan, and Australia, and his many honors include honorary degrees from the University of Siena in Italy and the University of Heidelberg in Germany. Wissler received the American Medical Association Joseph B. Goldberger Award In Human Nutrition in 1979 and the American Association of Pathologists Gold Headed Cane Award in 1983.

He is an enthusiastic teacher and tireless promoter of training opportunities in his field. More than 150 students, from undergraduates to residents, have passed through his laboratory over the last 40 years. It is fitting that The Ohio State University honor this eminent scientist, teacher, and humanitarian.
Recipients of Honors

Francille M. Firebaugh
Distinguished Service Award

A scholar of international repute, Francille M. Firebaugh has travelled the world in search of better understanding of the family system. On the homefront, she has been an efficient and productive university administrator, first at Ohio State and now at Cornell University.

Firebaugh was named dean of Cornell's College of Human Ecology in 1988, the seventh person to hold that title in the college's 65-year history. She received her Ph.D in home economics from Cornell in 1962 after completing her undergraduate studies at the University of Arkansas and receiving her master's degree from the University of Tennessee.

Firebaugh joined the Ohio State faculty in 1962 as assistant professor in the School of Home Economics, and became a full professor in 1969. During her 26 years at Ohio State, Firebaugh served the University in a variety of key academic and administrative positions, including director of the School of Home Economics (now the College of Human Ecology); associate dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics; acting vice president for agricultural administration and executive dean for agriculture, home economics, and natural resources; associate and acting provost; and, finally, as vice provost for international affairs.

Firebaugh's contributions to The Ohio State University community were invaluable in helping to create the Office of International Affairs in 1984, in elevating home economics to college status, in utilizing the Molly Caren Agricultural Center as permanent site of the Ohio Farm Science Review, and in planning for the University's part in the 1992 celebrations.

Her academic life has always had a global perspective. Teaching and consultancies have taken her to Afghanistan, Egypt, India, and Malaysia. In 1988, Phi Beta Delta, an honor society for international affairs, awarded her its first Faculty Award for Outstanding Accomplishments. She is listed in Who's Who of American Women and Who's Who of America. As a family resource management specialist, she has authored or co-authored numerous scholarly articles and co-authored two books.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE
ONE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIFTH MEETING
OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Columbus, Ohio, September 7, 1990

The Board of Trustees met at its regular monthly meeting on Friday, September 7, 1990, at The Ohio State University Fawcett Center for Tomorrow, Columbus, Ohio, pursuant to adjournment.

** ** **

Minutes of the last meeting were approved.

September 7, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

The Chairperson, Mrs. Bowser, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on September 7, 1990, at 1:20 p.m. She requested the Secretary to call the roll.

Mrs. Bowser made the following statement:

We would like to take this opportunity to, once again, welcome Dr. Gordon Gee as the eleventh President of The Ohio State University. As I said earlier this summer when we announced that Dr. Gee was coming to Ohio State, he certainly is an inspirational leader with dynamic visions and insight. It can be said that his decided optimism and energy is truly infectious to those who have had the opportunity to come into contact with him. We are both delighted and fortunate to have him here as our President and he can be assured of our support and best wishes from the Board of Trustees, the faculty, the staff, and, most importantly, the student. He will lead Ohio State to meet the challenges of the new decade and beyond. And we are simply delighted to have you with us.

President Gee:

Thank you, very much. I am delighted to be here, and on behalf of my family, I want to thank the Trustees for this decided honor to now be part of this great University. I want my colleagues on the faculty and staff, and certainly our student colleagues, to know that this is the time, the place, and the opportunity that I think is truly unique in higher education. I am blessed to be part of this place at this time. And that has already been borne out. If you didn't have an opportunity to see it, the first day I drove up to work everyone was wearing their nice, bright red T-shirts. From that point on, it has been a wonderfully warm and gracious beginning. And I thank all of you for that.

Today, I want to take up two matters that are on your agenda. First, I have the very pleasant task of announcing some excellent news to our faculty and staff. As the Trustees are aware, for the month of September we have been able to give our faculty and staff a premium holiday. That is the individual share of the benefit premium that is not being deducted for that particular month. Today, you will receive a resolution calling for another premium holiday in December. I wish I could take credit for this after only 6 days on the job, but I, in reality, cannot do so. The credit belongs to the good people of Ohio State whose responsible use of our wonderful benefits program has kept our costs steady in an escalating environment. With the fine tuning of the program over these past months, the reserves from our medical programs will be somewhat in excess of the standard industry requirements. Therefore, the premium payments will not be necessary again in December. Ohio State is proving itself the leader in benefits administration and we can all take pride in the outstanding benefits program available to us.

My second bit of good news today, concerns an extraordinary opportunity for The Ohio State University. I am delighted to report that in a resolution to be introduced later in this meeting, we are asking your support for our negotiations with the Cleveland Clinic Foundation to form a partnership in the Health Sciences. The association of these two great institutions, The Ohio State University and the Cleveland Clinic will strengthen each in teaching, in research, and, clearly, in patient care. By becoming an academic center, Cleveland Clinic will offer Ohio State medical students exceptional opportunities for learning. Furthermore, the centralistic relationships between Ohio State's faculty members and a wide variety of disciplines in the outstanding staff at Cleveland Clinic will, I believe, advance the frontiers of medicine. Clearly, this action is consistent with the University's mission as Ohio’s land-grant institution, and as one of this nation's leading research universities. We are, indeed, delighted to be working so closely with our colleagues in Cleveland on this most exciting new venture. I hope and expect, Madam Chair, to have as much positive news to bring to you at these meetings in the future. Thank you, very much.

Ms. Casto:

The Research Foundation contracts and grants for the months of June and July 1990 are shown in the Board agenda book. For June there are 203 awards listed, providing an income of $17.5 million. For July there are 149 awards listed, which provide a gross income of $15.99 million.

Funding for the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1990, amounted to $125 million, which is up 8.5 percent from the previous year. The funding was the largest in the history of the Research Foundation. Funding for the new fiscal year has begun on a very positive note with awards for the month of July being 18.9 percent ahead of the month of July last year.

Some highlights of awards are:

$320,000 from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Science and Education to the Departments of Architectural Engineering, Agronomy, and Geology and Mineralogy, for archaeological management systems project. This proposed management system evaluation project combines faculty members in three different departments at the University. The project is located in a unique area of Ohio, which has a water table similar to the ground water supporting agriculture throughout the Midwest. It affords an ideal site to study chemical applications to crops. Public perception is that fertilizers and pesticides are contaminating our ground water quality. This interdisciplinary study will take advantage of supercomputer modeling and will test various farming techniques.

$750,000 from General Electric Company to the Department of Radiology to investigate and develop magnetic resonance spectroscopy and imaging.

$547,000 from the University of Pennsylvania to the Department of Physics to train students in the field of conducting electronic polymers.

$398,000 from the National Science Foundation to the Byrd Polar Research Center to conduct a combined airborne radar and air magnetic survey of the Antarctic.

Thank you, Madam Chair. That completes my report.

HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

It is my pleasure, Madam Chairperson and Mr. President, to present the summary of the Hospitals Board activities for the month of August. The University Hospitals Board met on Thursday, August 9. The Medical Director, Dr. Mekhjian and Chief of Staff, Dr. Smead, reported on general medical staff issues. One of those issues reviewed by the Board was the credentialing process for medical staff appointments and reappointments. As of July 1, performance-based data will be utilized as an additional component of the reappointment process. This gives the ability to review each physician’s performance profile and will help ensure that our patients receive the best possible care.

Since this was the last Hospitals Board meeting for former President Jennings, Board members acknowledged his service with a gift and a resolution and wished him Godspeed in his future endeavors. Dr. Jennings stated that he feels the Hospitals are making good progress and he was pleased to see the high level of cooperation between the medical staff and the Hospitals administrative staff.

The monthly financial report revealed that patient admissions, clinic visits, and emergency visits all exceeded budget during June. However, patient revenue for the month was higher than expected -- almost $24 million versus a budget of $22.2 million. The bottom line for the year was a loss of $1.6 million, as was predicted in February. A large expense item continues to be salaries, because of the need to utilize agency and traveling nurses. The utilization of agency and traveling nurses was a conscious decision by the Board in order to keep beds open, even though the expense of utilizing those nurses is at least 40 percent higher per individual than regular staff nurses. The good news is that we had a successful recruiting season this year, and have been able to reduce nursing turnover to approximately half of last year's rate. And I might add, that this nursing shortage is a national problem that we are attempting to effectively deal with here at Ohio State.

In addition, Dr. Henry Nasrallah, Chairperson of the Department of Psychiatry, discussed in-patient and out-patient services and teaching and research issues. It was pointed out that the neurosciences rank second only to cancer among the Strategic Plan's Centers of Emphasis. Dr. Nasrallah and Mr. Fraley summarized the proposed expansion and the renovation of the west wing of Upham Hall. The goal of the renovation is to provide a setting conducive to the delivery of the highest quality of care in terms of safety, privacy, dignity, therapeutic environment, and the latest and most effective psychiatric techniques and treatment.

The current proposal meets capital expenditure guidelines established by the Board. Board members voted unanimously to authorize completion and submission of the required Certificate of Need; completion of the architect's drawings; and the initiation of a construction contract, subject to established University policy and procedures. The total expenditure of $14,013,612 was approved by the Board, this is in addition to the original $1 million for planning. Since the Department of Health will most likely respond to our Certificate of Need in January or February, we anticipate this project will be brought forward to the Hospitals Board and to this Board in March or April for final review and approval.
HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

I might add that the Hospitals Board is looking forward to its joint meeting with this Board where we can discuss some of these issues in more detail.

Mr. Teaford:

I have a resolution that deals with what President Gee told us earlier. I do not think there is any more significant resolution that has been before this Board in the time I have been on it. I think it is a chance for the medical teaching and research at this institution to achieve extraordinary levels.

PARTNERSHIP BETWEEN CLEVELAND CLINIC FOUNDATION AND THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

Resolution No. 91-17

WHEREAS discussions between the Cleveland Clinic Foundation and The Ohio State University regarding a potential partnership between the two organizations in the area of health sciences have generated enthusiastic support; and

WHEREAS as envisioned such a partnership would create a number of superb and creative opportunities for the two institutions to work together in research, teaching, and service that would enhance and enrich each institution as well as possibly expedite the advancement of the frontiers of medicine; and

WHEREAS a Cleveland Clinic/Ohio State University partnership would strengthen both institutions as fully integrated centers for research and medical care, thus making the partnership one of the premier health resources in the world:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That this Board whole heartedly endorses the proposal that the University proceed with discussions with the Cleveland Clinic Foundation to establish a joint task force to investigate potential for a partnership in the health sciences.

Upon motion of Mr. Teaford, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

CANCER HOSPITAL COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Barone:

Madam Chairperson, Mr. President, I have attended The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital on two occasions. When it first opened, I spent most of the afternoon there with the Administrator, Dennis White, and went through the entire Hospital. And I wish to report at this time that on July 9, 1990, the first patients were admitted to The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital, either through the discharge or subsequent admission of University Hospitals cancer patients or through scheduled admissions. In total that day, seventeen patients were admitted to the Cancer Hospital, which initiated the phase-in operation. Following that date and extending through September 4, 1990, the rest of the Hospital was phased in on schedule.

The phase-in included not only the opening of three patient floors, but also the opening of the operating room, the Bone-Marrow Transplant Unit, Out-patient Chemotherapy Care Unit, and the first floor examination room and treatment center. The phase-in was deliberately extended over two months and limited in operations to help assure a smooth opening. I might add that Dr. Tzagournis, as well as Dr. James and Dennis White advocated a very slow phase-in operation of the Hospital in order to provide the best service.

To date, three of the operating rooms are functional, with the fourth to go on-line September 10. The sixty-day phase-in operation proved to be uneventful and without incident. I viewed each and every room and I strongly advise every member of the Board to visit sometime soon.

The Finance Committee, including representatives from the University, University Hospitals, and the Cancer Hospital, has now met for the third time to review the pertinent financial data. The focus of these meetings is on the projected operational budget and capital needs for the CHAI. Current projections indicate a cash flow deficit for the first year of operations of $6.4 million. These numbers are again projections only, and are based on a phase-in schedule. It should also be noted that these projections assumed that the exceptions from DRG reimbursement would be granted from the health care financial administration following a successful completion of a medicare survey, which is currently slated for sometime in early October. All information is being received through the consultants in Baltimore, and they have indicated that the DRG exception should be awarded.

Promotional efforts continue through the contracted service of Hameroff, Milenthal, and Spence. To date, Dr. Schuller and others have visited four cities: Cleveland, Cincinnati, Youngstown, and Pittsburgh, to promote the opening of the Cancer Hospital. Eleven other cities are scheduled for these promotional events. The focus of these promotional and other media tours is to promote an awareness and for image building to support fund raising efforts.

We also viewed a thirty minute tape from the American College of Pathology on prostate cancer. Prostate cancer is the number one cancer in the United States, although some people don’t realize it. The important thing to note is that prostate cancer, if detected early enough, has a very high cure rate.

We also discussed having Mr. White and Dr. Schuller coming before the Board at sometime to discuss the Cancer Hospital and the function of the Cancer Hospital.
INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

The Endowment Portfolio lost $21 million since our meeting last month; obviously due largely to the 400 point drop in the stock market. While that's dramatic, it is rather typical of the long-term history of our endowment portfolio. It does have down turns, as well as up turns. At the meeting we did discuss improving the flexibility of the endowment -- mechanisms that will allow us to switch from equities to fixed income -- and we will be looking for a way to do that in the coming months.

We also received the Quarterly Cash and Investments Summary which indicated $667 million in the various funds of the University. This is a little higher than typical because of the recent funding of $50 million in bonds. We had a report on the Endowment Real Estate by Mr. Nichols. Two highlights of that: the shopping center which we received at a lower price in a gift-type circumstance this spring currently has a return of 8.46 percent; and the Ramada Hotel which, of course, we own the stock on, but we don't own the building itself, the gross income for the first eight months of the year was $700,000. The net income after debt service is a loss of only $90,000. Those numbers are on target, if not a little ahead of what was expected in the first couple of years of operation. So, I think those numbers are very encouraging.

We also received a summary of the now completed Campaign. As I think most of you know, we raised $460.2 million. We were significantly above goal in all of those areas of the Campaign. It is interesting to note that before we started that Campaign, Ohio State was ranked 44th nationally in voluntary support; it now ranks 16th. And we were ranked 25th in corporate support before; we now rank 6th in the nation. Another very important thing to point out is that our faculty and staff made gifts and pledges to this University of $15.8 million. That is a resounding vote of confidence from our faculty and staff at this University.

When we started the Campaign, all of the various colleges submitted "wish lists." It is interesting to note that we did achieve 42 percent of those wishes, in terms of the kinds of designations of gifts. That is, indeed, well above the normal percentage. And Dean Glower has indicated to me that the next time we do this, we will even have greater sophistication among the faculty and colleges as to how to get the "wish list" in line with what is likely.

Finally, we were told about the costs of the Campaign. Our direct costs were 9 cents on every dollar raised, and an overall direct and indirect -- 11 cents. To put that in perspective, the Chronicle on Higher Education has recently reported that a typical number is 16 cents on the dollar. So, indeed, we got that money for a lot less than is typical.

We are also recommending the following resolution:
September 7, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

TREASURER'S BOND
Resolution No. 91-18

Synopsis: The Investments Committee recommended the approval of an amendment to Board of Trustees Resolution No. 82-46 to increase the Treasurer's Bond requirement from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, pursuant to Section 3335.05 of the Ohio Revised Code.

WHEREAS Section 3335.05 of the Ohio Revised Code requires that the Treasurer of The Ohio State University give bond to the State of Ohio in such sum as the Board of Trustees determines; and

WHEREAS such sum required was established by Board of Trustees Resolution No. 82-46 on November 6, 1981, to be $3,000,000 as the probable amount that realistically will be under the Treasurer's control in one year; and

WHEREAS the size of the University's accounts and investments have increased over time, and the coverage of the Bond has been changed to include the Treasurer's Ohio State University Foundation responsibilities:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the bond sum required of James Lee Nichols, Treasurer of The Ohio State University, as required by Section 3335.05 of the Ohio Revised Code, be revised to $5,000,000 by amendment of Board of Trustees Resolution No. 82-46.

Upon motion of Mr. Teaford, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Shumate:

The Academic Affairs Committee received a report this morning from Dr. Anne Pruitt, Director of the Center for Teaching Excellence at The Ohio State University. In addition to her report, she showed a video tape that highlighted the services provided by the Center. The Center's mission is to provide leadership and services in support of professors who teach at Ohio State. The services include providing teacher orientations for new faculty and graduate teaching associates; conducting teaching improvement workshops and consultation services; providing the audio/visual equipment and materials used by the faculty in the classroom; working with faculty on designing and developing graphic, video, audio, and microcomputer-based materials; and administering the instructional enhancement grants program.

Dr. Pruitt pointed out that the Center assists the spoken English program in assessing the language proficiencies of international T.A.'s through mock teaching sessions; leading faculty seminars on teaching for the retention of minority students; working to develop academic uses of video satellite telecommunication services; and coordinating Ohio State's role with seven other leading universities in a three-year national project entitled, "Focus on Teaching." This project funded through Syracuse University is aimed at examining and improving the balance and reward structure for faculty involved in teaching. In addition to Ohio State and Syracuse, the other participating universities are the University of California-Berkeley, Carnegie-Mellon, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Northwestern University, Stanford University, and Texas A & M.

Dr. Pruitt spelled out five challenges for the Center for Teaching Excellence: 1) assist the Office of Academic Affairs to create a balance between research and teaching; 2) to help determine how to best evaluate teaching; 3) to take increasing responsibility for training teaching assistants; 4) to help faculty to work through the implications of cultural diversity in the classrooms; and 5) to increase the amount of funds available for faculty to conduct research on teaching.

In addition the Committee is recommending:

NAMING OF STREET

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of the naming of the street on the north side of the Veterinary Hospital on the Columbus Campus in honor of Vernon L. Tharp.

Tharp, D.V.M., Professor Emeritus, was Associate Dean of The Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine (1972-82), Director of the Veterinary Clinics (1947-72), Chairperson of the Department of Veterinary Medicine (1960-70), and Acting Chair of the Department of Veterinary Clinical Sciences (1970-72); and

WHEREAS under Dr. Tharp's leadership as Director of the Veterinary Clinics, the College's Ambulatory Clinic expanded to include two off-campus facilities; and

WHEREAS Dr. Tharp was instrumental in having the Ohio State Racing Commission Laboratory established at the College of Veterinary Medicine; and

WHEREAS Dr. Tharp has served the Veterinary Medical Profession as President of the American Veterinary Medical Association, President of the Ohio Veterinary Medical Association, and Vice President of the World Veterinary Medical Association; and

WHEREAS Dr. Tharp was named "Ohio Veterinarian of the Year," and is an appointed member of the Ohio State Racing Commission; and

WHEREAS due to his dedication and continued service to the veterinary profession and The Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine, its dean, faculty and staff wish to name the street north of the Veterinary Hospital in honor of Vernon L. Tharp, D.V.M.; and

WHEREAS the President recommended, with the concurrence of the President's staff, that the street north of the Veterinary Hospital be named "Vernon L. Tharp Street":

NOW THEREFORE
September 7, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

NAMING OF STREET (contd)

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of Resolutions in Memoriam for Clyde C. Allison, Delbert M. Byg, Leona J. Calvin, John H. Herrick, Ben E. Jacoby, and Marilyn M. Reed.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey a copy to the families of the deceased.

Clyde C. Allison

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on April 9, 1990, of Clyde C. Allison, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Plant Pathology.

Professor Allison, plant pathologist, was born in Champlin, Minnesota in 1905. He received the Bachelor of Science degree in 1928, Master of Science degree in 1930, and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1935, all from the University of Minnesota. Following the baccalaureate degree, Dr. Allison spent a year as a Student Exchange Fellow at the University of Halle, Germany. From 1936 to 1938 he was Associate Plant Pathologist with the USDA at the Tobacco Experiment Station in Greenville, Tennessee.

Joining the Department of Botany as Extension Plant Pathologist in 1938, Dr. Allison developed a comprehensive extension program with meetings, short courses, and field demonstrations throughout the State. In 1946, he attained the rank of professor and was assigned responsibility for graduate education in the area of plant pathology. Under his leadership, an outstanding graduate program in plant pathology was developed. Prior to his retirement as Professor Emeritus in 1972, he advised and supervised the research of 45 Ph.D. and 50 Master of Science students including many international students. In 1964, Dr. Allison received the University's Distinguished Teaching Award.

His goal as he taught graduate classes in plant pathology was to help students think in a logical and critical manner. This was further stressed through weekly formal and informal seminars. Scientific thinking based on an understanding of concepts and principles was emphasized rather than definitions and detailed information. He was an active member of the American Phytopathological Society, serving as Secretary from 1942-1944.

During the several years prior to and following his retirement, Professor Allison maintained a strong interest in international agriculture, contributing his expertise to the improvement of teaching, research, and extension programs in plant pathology. He held a Fulbright Lectureship at the University of Rhodesia in 1960, and accepted an assignment at the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil, from 1964 to 1969 under a Technical Assistance Contract with The Ohio State University. While in Brazil, he encouraged the formation in 1966 of a new Brazilian Society of Phytopathology. Dr. Allison served as a councilor for several years and was elected an honorary member for his assistance in the development of this Society. During brief visits to India between 1960 to 1966 he presented seminars and consulted with plant pathologists as Banaras Hindu University and Punjab Agricultural University.

Through a significant contribution by Professor Allison and contributions from his many students and friends, the C.C. Allison Fund in Plant Pathology was established in 1984 by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University. Annual income is used each year for the presentation of the C. C. Allison Award to an outstanding undergraduate or graduate student in the Department of Plant Pathology.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in its loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Delbert M. "Bud" Byg

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on July 8, 1990, of Delbert "Bud" Byg, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Agricultural Engineering.

Professor Byg was born July 3, 1921, in Hartford, South Dakota. He graduated from Hartford Public High School as class Salutatorian in 1939. He obtained a B.Sc. Agricultural Engineering from Iowa State in 1947 and a M.Sc. in Agricultural Engineering in 1957 from The Ohio State University.

Professor Byg joined the faculty of the Department of Agricultural Engineering at The Ohio State University in 1947 teaching courses in Dairy Engineering, Farm Machinery, and Farm Electrification. In 1955, he became Farm Electrification Specialist as well as Secretary of the Ohio Farm Electrification Council. In 1958, he became the Agricultural Engineering Advisor for the University's Education and Research Mission to India. As such, he and his family lived and worked in Northwest India for more than six years. He continued to maintain a strong interest in agricultural institutional development in India and was a consultant on programs there in 1972, and again in 1979.

His international interests are reflected in his long association with the American Society of Agricultural Engineers International Relations Committee, having held all of their committee offices, as well as those of the professional development department.

From 1964 until his retirement in 1980, he was an Extension Agricultural Engineer in Farm Power and Machinery and provided leadership for educational and research programs on improved grain harvesting equipment and systems. His leadership in developing and conducting educational programs in Extension netted him more than 17 ASAE Blue Ribbon Awards and numerous citations for excellent service.

Professor Byg will always be remembered, not only for his many achievements in his profession, but for being one of the kindest, most unselfish, and most caring individuals that one would ever want to have known. The smile that was always there will not be forgotten.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as a sincere expression of the Board's realization of the loss which the family, the University, and his many associates have sustained.

Leona J. Calvin

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on July 6, 1990, of Leona J. Calvin, Instructor Emeritus in the Cooperative Extension Service.

Leona Calvin was born October 29, 1904 in Radcliff, Ohio. She received her B.S. in Education degree from The Ohio State University in 1938. Graduate work was done at Colorado State and Ohio State University where she received an M.S. degree in 1947. Her educational career began as an elementary teacher in Vinton County in 1922. She later moved to Meigs County where she continued her elementary teaching and assumed the responsibilities as principal. In 1938, she became the Vocational Home Economics teacher in Morgan and Athens counties. She moved to Ford County, Illinois, in 1943, as Home Advisor only to return to Ohio as a faculty member at Ohio University in 1944. In 1951, she joined the faculty at The Ohio State University as a home demonstration agent in Vinton County and continued in this position until her retirement from the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service in 1967.

An active participant and member of the Grange, Eastern Star, Delta Kappa Gamma, and Home Economics Club, Leona Calvin also helped organize and lead 4-H Clubs and rural youth groups.

Leona Calvin's contributions included her dedicated interests to the home economics and 4-H Extension programs in Vinton County for many years. Her continued professional contributions were deeply appreciated.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to friends of Leona Calvin. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

John H. Herrick

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 28, 1990 of John H. Herrick, Executive Director Emeritus in the Office of Campus Planning and Space Utilization and Professor Emeritus in the Department of Educational Policy and Leadership.

John H. Herrick was associated with The Ohio State University for more than 60 years as student, faculty member, and administrator, beginning with his entry as a student in 1924. He received his bachelor's degree in history in 1928, master's degree in education in 1936, and the Ph.D. in educational administration in 1944 all from The Ohio State University.

After several years as a teacher and administrator in the Shaker Heights and Cincinnati Public Schools, Dr. Herrick became a University faculty member in 1947. In 1956, he was appointed Executive Director of the newly created Office of Campus Planning and Space Utilization by former President Novice G. Fawcett. Dr. Herrick left that position in 1967, returning to the faculty in Educational Administration until his retirement from the University in 1972.

Following his retirement Dr. Herrick worked part-time for another 17 years during which time he researched and wrote a five volume history of all buildings ever existing on the University main campus, a history of The Oval, a history of Mirror Lake Hollow, and a history of campus planning at the University. Dr. Herrick also located and preserved over 300 historical maps tracing the University campus development. All this work was done as a volunteer without compensation. These valuable research documents are available for historians and others to use in the University Library and in several offices on the campus.

During his tenure as head of Campus Planning, Dr. Herrick directed development of the University campus master plan which was considered an exemplary work and used as a model by many other campuses. He was considered one of the leading authorities in educational facilities planning in the United States.

Throughout his career at the University, Dr. Herrick was associated with Kappa Phi Kappa, an education fraternity, as an active member and advisor. He was also very active in community affairs, serving on many boards and commissions in the City of Columbus.

More recently Dr. Herrick co-chaired the faculty-staff portion of The Ohio State University Campaign. The Board of Trustees in 1989 recognized Dr. Herrick's significant contributions to the University and to his profession by naming a portion of the campus loop road as "John H. Herrick Drive."

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Ben E. Jacoby

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on May 25, 1990, of Ben E. Jacoby, M.D., Clinical Associate Professor Emeritus in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Dr. Jacoby was born in Marion, Ohio and received his undergraduate education at Ohio Wesleyan in Delaware, Ohio, graduating in 1936 with a B.A. He then went to Case Western Reserve University, graduating from the Medical School in 1940. He served his internship at the old White Cross Hospital, now known as Riverside Hospital, from 1940 to 1941, and then did a residency in obstetrics and gynecology from 1941 to 1942.

From 1942 to 1945, Dr. Jacoby served in the military with distinction in the medical corps of the U.S. Navy. He then attended the University of Pittsburgh, receiving obstetrics training as well as gynecologic pathology from 1946 to 1948, when he returned to Columbus, Ohio, to practice. He joined the faculty at The Ohio State University as a Clinical Instructor in 1952.

Dr. Jacoby was a widely respected obstetrician/gynecologist in central Ohio, and was a diligent teacher as well. He was a member of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and had received his board certification from the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Dr. Jacoby will long be remembered for the tireless hours that he spent devoted to the education to students and residents at University Hospitals. He was a marvelous practitioner and we all will miss his devotion. Dr. Jacoby became Clinical Associate Professor Emeritus in 1988.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.
RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Marilyn M. Reed

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 21, 1990, of Marilyn M. Reed, Instructor Emeritus in the Cooperative Extension Service.

Marilyn Reed was born April 24, 1935, in Juneau County, Wisconsin. She received her B.S. in Home Economics from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, in 1957. She became a Home Demonstration Agent in Langlade County in Antigo, Wisconsin.

In 1959, Marilyn Reed joined The Ohio State University as an Instructor and Assistant Extension Editor, Home Economics. She found time to attend graduate school at The Ohio State University earning an M.S. degree in Adult Education. She continued in the position of Assistant Extension Editor producing and voicing a daily educational program, "Home Time" on WOSU AM radio which focused on home economic topics. She also produced short programs for radio stations throughout the state. Upon her retirement in 1987, she was named Instructor Emeritus.

Marilyn Reed was a member of The Ohio Home Economics Association and Franklin County Home Economics Association, serving as past president of both. She served as Secretary for the American Home Economics Association, Women in Communication. Other memberships included the Quota Club of Columbus, Epsilon Sigma Phi, O.S.U. Faculty Club, Extension Professors Association, University Women's Club, and the Clintonville Women's Club. She served on the Home Economics Committee for the Farm Science Review, almost from its inception and was the adviser for the Spectrum, the Home Economics student newsletter. She attended many Extension conferences throughout her association with the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service.

Her contributions in providing excellent Extension educational programs during her career earned Marilyn Reed the respect and admiration of her co-workers and many thousands of Ohio citizens throughout the length and breath of Franklin County.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to the family of Marilyn Reed. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Teaford, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Paige:

This morning we heard an update on Student Life presented by Dean Richard Hollingsworth. In summary, the Office of Student Life is a division of Student Affairs which has restructured and stream-lined its operations to enable staff to gain a higher level of understanding about students and their educational experiences. The department will emphasize the assessment of the quality of student life; advocacy on behalf of students; and in-service programs in educational opportunities which are critical for the student's development in the success at The Ohio State University.

Staff from Student Life and Student Affairs who regularly work with students have identified several general issues which will require the attention of all members of the University community. These issues include:

1) The cost of education: including the increasing amounts of debts being carried by students; students needing to work more hours as they assume the increased share of educational expenses; and staff benefits for graduate assistants.

2) Safety: including street crime, acquaintance violence, and incidence of hate behavior, and harassment.

3) Increased academic competitiveness: the quality of instruction; academic resources; and a high academic advisor/counselor to advisee ratios.

4) Mental and physical health issues: including alcohol and other substance abuse; sexually transmitted diseases, particularly herpes and AIDS; stress resulting from academic, financial, family, and social demands; as well as frustration with the system.

There are also many promising trends evident in today's students. Students are more serious about their studies and have high academic goals. They are increasingly involved in the community service and volunteer opportunities and are assuming leadership for peer education areas of substance abuse, AIDS, and human relations. Students are demonstrating an increased concern for the environment and other social and political issues. In the future, we can expect students to seek greater university involvement and accountability with these issues, trends, and related areas.

After Dean Hollingsworth's report we heard reports from the student government leaders:

Mr. John McClintock:

Good morning. I am John McClintock, Treasurer of the Council on Graduate Students. Our President, Benetta Burton, and Vice President, Randy Rush, have their general exams this week and can't make it, so Luke Evans, the former President of CGS last year, and myself will be speaking on their behalf.

The Council of Graduate Students is preparing for the upcoming Orientation Program to welcome the new graduate students to the University. It will be held on September 17, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. The program will include addresses by the President of our Council, Benetta Burton, the Associate Dean of the Graduate School, Jean Dickerscheid, and other distinguished speakers. At that time we will hold a "For Your Information Session," conducted by several of our current students. It will give the new students an opportunity to ask questions and receive answers concerning graduate life at the University. The session will end with a library workshop and a tour of the various departmental libraries. We believe this orientation program will be both informative and enlightening.

The Council is also hosting a reception and welcome party for the new students. We like to honor their achievements as new graduate students and welcome them into the University. The reception will be held on Thursday, September 20, from 7:00 to 10:30 p.m. There will be refreshments, music, and door prizes. We are also grateful for the support of the Graduate School and the Office of International Students and Scholars, as well as the business community, who donated the door prizes.

We will be preparing a summary of the activities that our various committees have been actively involved in this summer and we'd like to present that to you at the next session of the Board. At this time Luke will tell you some of the current issues that we are dealing with.

Mr. Luke Evans:

One of the current issues that we are working on is our quarter reevaluation. Our Quarter Reevaluation Committee took an informal poll of graduate students this summer and we are receiving back a strong response from that poll. Basically, we asked the graduate students what their experiences have been with previous calendars, what their preference has been, and what they would like to see changed here at Ohio State, if anything. I don't have the statistics with me -- they are still being compiled -- but the last I saw them, over 60 percent of the people were overwhelmingly in favor of some form of early semester system.

Mr. Tonnies:

Is that just for graduate students?

Mr. Evans:

Just graduate students. This is not a scientific poll. You can only generalize to those people who turn the surveys back in, not for all 10,000 graduate students.

Ms. Paige:

What type of return did you have?

Mr. Evans:

We have probably 300 right now. We sent out 1,000. That is not too bad considering that many people are not here right now. The office is still receiving responses. We are hoping to correlate the responses with the preferences to what their previous experiences have been. We suspect that perhaps the people who are in favor of a quarter system have probably not experienced any other system. However, most graduate students have experienced other systems if they are coming from other universities. Most universities are on some form of semester system -- about 80 percent.
Ms. Paige:

Your proposal would be that the whole University go on the semester system, or are you talking about, specifically, the Graduate School students?

Mr. Evans:

No. I don't think that would be feasible at such a large institution. It is okay for the Law School, which is sort of off by itself, but not for the Graduate School. We are thinking along the lines that the early semester would be more feasible for a school of this size and should be a part of the strategic plan of this University for the next decade.

Ms. Paige:

Have you done any investigation on other institutions that have switched from quarter to semester?

Mr. Evans:

Yes. We received a packet from Michigan State which is switching to early semester in 1992. I just did a literature review -- there is no research as such, what is written is in the form of reports from college and university administrations. Basically, what we can do is read those and see what others' experiences have been. We are looking not only at the academic benefits of being on a semester system, such as doing better work, but also we are looking at the cost implications that may exist for the university. For example, three registration periods are probably cheaper than four and less paperwork. We also want to see if the quarter system brings on a lot of stress. Quarter systems are in place in schools like Stanford and Chicago. Chicago is where it started. But those are smaller institutions and maybe they can arrange their curriculum in such a way that it doesn't have any significance.

President Gee:

Have we taken a serious look at semester versus quarter? Have we come to some conclusion? Is that what you're saying, that we haven't come to some conclusion?

Mr. Evans:

Obviously the University has come to a conclusion, because they have remained with the quarter system.

President Gee:

That doesn't mean that they have come to a conclusion at all, it means that they have come to inertia, perhaps.

Mr. McClintock:

The conclusion reached was that it is agreeable with maybe 50 percent of the population of the University. My own sense is that there is about a 50/50 split across the University.
STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Dr. Herb Asher:

There actually were some surveys done with faculty and students and there was a substantial minority of faculty who opposed any change. The plurality of faculty, I think, did favor a semester system. The students opposed it. I think it was an OSU poll and when the students were asked about this they opposed the change. The most common reason being given in this whole survey was that if you had a bad class, it was over sooner! There really hasn't been a full and thorough discussion of this, and I think the main reason is that it is a very difficult issue given the diversity of the institution.

President Gee:

I guess that is what I am driving at. It strikes me that rather than having one segment of our University family thrashing about over this issue, if we are going to revisit it, maybe we ought to revisit it in a very substantive way for all parties involved. I have been here only four days, but I think that it is an issue that should be revisited. I think what you are suggesting is that we do it in a comprehensive fashion involving all of the various parties. Sophia, it just strikes me that this is an issue of major interest. I know Michigan State is moving to the semester system and that there are several institutions considering moving to quarter systems -- it is not necessarily a one-way flow. Maybe we ought to talk about how we could get a systematic, comprehensive approach with all of the various constituencies involved. We could get that done in some sort of short order so that we don't continually revisit this. We could look at what the strengths of the issues are, what the problems with change are, and what the opportunities are.

In any kind of survey where there is a lack of information, that ambiguity can create difficulties. So there is always going to be a large proportion of people who say "don't change," because they think that it may in someway adversely effect them directly. I suspect that is due to a lack of information and not due to some commitment to either a semester or a quarter system.

Dr. Asher:

Some groups of faculty members have been upset by the quarter system for a long period of time. I think in the last 2 or 3 years they have pushed the issue of greater flexibility in course scheduling, and that has gone through the Office of Academic Affairs. It was typically the case at this University, that an undergraduate course was a 5 credit-hour course, and was taught five days a week. Many faculty felt that that was the most onerous part of the quarter system. Other institutions may have had a quarter system, but they may have had classes Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. But there was this alleged rule that a 5-hour class met five times a week. I think that in the last year and a half there has been greater flexibility for it in scheduling -- which ameliorates some objections. But, again, there has not been a full review. I think people have just tried to adjust to it, without addressing the fundamental issues.
President Gee:

My strong inclination would be that we all join together and institute, through our government systems and administrative reviews, a formal review. I think the information we are going to provide will be interesting and helpful, but it ought to be part of a larger mosaic in which there is a determined time in which we can make some decisions. I don't know if you agree, but I think it would be very helpful.

Mr. Evans:

Oh, yes, we agree. We just thought we would start with the graduate students first to see what their preliminary interests might be.

President Gee:

I would urge you to continue with that, but I would like to put that into a more comprehensive mosaic.

Mr. Evans:

We certainly understand and believe that if anything like this is beneficial it has to benefit everyone -- administrators, faculty, and students. Which is tough to do.

President Gee:

Certainly it will not be universally applauded, whatever you do.

Mr. Evans:

Also, we would like to welcome you, President Gee, to the University.

President Gee:

Thank you. I noticed, by the way, that you have a reception on September 20.

Mr. McClintock:

Yes, September 20, from 7:00 to 10:30 p.m., in the Ohio Union. If you are able to come, please do.

President Gee:

I'm particularly intrigued where the invitation said a "good band" would be there, because I love to dance.

Mr. McClintock:

We would be glad to have you.

Ms. Paige:

We will now have a report from the Undergraduate Students.

Mr. Mike Clark:

Good morning. I just have a few areas of concern that I want to talk about. We are finalizing all of our internal reorganization of the Undergraduate Student Government and are getting ready for the fall and the upcoming year.

We concentrated most of our time and efforts this summer on a few big projects. We are preparing for the Voter Registration Campaign. We feel that a more informed student is going to be a more involved student. That is our major goal for this year. We want to get the student body more involved in what is happening within the University. We feel by starting off with the Voter Registration Campaign for the gubernatorial race, that it might carry over and get students more involved in the democratic process that we have here.

On the September 19, which is our tentative date, we are going to kick-off our voter registration drive. Senator Watts and Representative Mike Stinziano are going to come and help by working a voter registration booth. We will have registration booths set up across the campus, making them more accessible for the students to register to vote.

In addition, we have gone ahead with a joint invitation with the American Association of University Professors to sponsor a debate between Mayor Voinovich and Mr. Celebreeze. We have submitted letters to both sides and they are both reviewing it now. We are waiting to hear back to see if they will be interested. We are trying to come up with a time, and we are tentatively trying to reserve the Mershon Auditorium. We hope to have the discussions center around higher education issues and things of that nature. Again, we feel that a more informed student is going to be a more involved student. So what better way than to have a debate here at the campus, where more students would be able to attend. We also feel this is a very unique invitation because it is a joint invitation of faculty and students. And what better place to talk about higher education issues than at the flagship university of the State of Ohio.

Lastly, I would like to thank Dr. Spillman for giving us a 16 percent increase for our Crime Watch Escort Program. We feel this is going to help us increase the number of people we have providing the safety escorts -- being those extra eyes and ears for the police department. The money will also help us in publicizing the service better. Right now, our safety escort service is publicized by word of mouth and we would like to reach more students. This is the first time that we have received an increase since the program started five years ago. We are very excited about that.

In a nutshell, those were our major accomplishments this summer. We are really looking forward to a very good year.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Casto:

This morning we heard about the 28th Edition of the Ohio State Farm Science Review which will be held September 18, 19, and 20. We are expecting over 10,000 people over the attendance last year, which is 135,000 -- so it is not just a small farm event.

Special events that are planned for the 1990 Review include the Vice President’s Recognition Luncheon on September 18. Attending this luncheon will be the family of Dr. James D. Utzinger, in whose memory the 1990 Review is dedicated, and the first five inductees into the Farm Science Review Hall of Fame. On Wednesday, September 19, Clayton Yeutter, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, will visit the review and give a public presentation.

Also, we heard about the so called, "Killer Bees" -- the Africanized Honey Bees. Dr. James E. Tew, Associate Professor in the Agricultural Technological Institute and Bee Keeping Specialist with the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, described a unique cooperative program between The Ohio State University and the U.S. Department of Agriculture regarding the Africanized Honey Bee, sometimes referred to as the "killer bee."

Since 1972, The Ohio State University Department of Entomology has played a major role in studying the Africanized Honey Bee. During September 1988, Dr. Tew began serving as the National Program Leader for the Extension Service of the USDA in Washington, D.C. In his USDA responsibilities, Dr. Tew serves as a liaison between individual state cooperative extension services and the Extension Services, USDA. He also represents the Extension Service on the USDA's Interagency Technical Working Group on the Africanized Honey Bee. Dr. Tew's national responsibilities have helped us to maintain The Ohio State University's internationally recognized bee keeping reputation.

WHEREAS resolutions adopted by the Board of Trustees on August 23, 1989, and October 6, 1989, authorized the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration to request bids in accordance with established University procedures, and if satisfactory bids were received, to award contracts for the following projects: North Athletic Complex Playing Fields and Coffey Road Intramural Fields:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That pursuant to the actions previously authorized by this Board and upon the recommendation of the Fiscal Affairs Committee, the Report of Award of Contracts and Establishment of Contingency Funds for the AmeriFlora '92 Biocontainment Facility, Bridge and Street Improvements (Fawcett Center for Tomorrow Loop Road), Lima - Parking Lot Lighting Upgrade, Mansfield - Roadway and Parking Lot Repairs, North Athletic Complex Playing Fields, and Coffey Road Intramural Fields projects are hereby accepted.

Upon motion of Mr. Teaford, seconded by Mr. Wexner, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

(See Appendix XVII for background material, tabulation of bids and maps, 339.)

Mr. Nichols:

I might mention two comments with regard to this contract. An estimated $750,000 was saved on this contract because over a period of several years we accumulated dirt on that site. As many of you will recall, we called it Dick Jackson's dirt pile. And as a result, we did not have to buy any dirt and have it moved to the site.

And then second of all, I think there should be some recognition of George Igel Company who, earlier last fall, donated the time and equipment to move dirt at no cost to the University and also did some grading as part of that project. And they were very kind to have done that and we are very appreciative of that.

Mr. Scott:

Madam Chair, Mr. President, I would like to put this in perspective for everyone. I think it is a unique opportunity for us and, more importantly, it is a real achievement at a time when in most areas employers, in general, and universities in particular, are having a great deal of difficulty containing their benefits costs.

By way of background, you may recall that over the last two years members of the administration and the University community have undertaken several reviews of our costs associated specifically with our medical care. As a result of those studies, last May the Board of Trustees reviewed recommendations and approved a series of actions that I think brings us to this recommendation today. Specifically, the Board authorized the administration to put in place a series of co-payments, deductibles, and premium sharing elements for our health care programs for faculty/staff and for individuals who were part of the bargaining units, effective July 1, 1989. We have negotiated agreements with each of the bargaining groups. The Ohio Nurses

Association was brought into the premium sharing program effective January 1, 1990, and the Fraternal Order of Police was brought in in more recent months. And as part of our negotiated contract with Communication Workers of America, we stipulated that they would not be required to share in any premium payments for health and medical benefits prior to June 30, 1990. So, all groups are now participating. There are roughly 15,000 individuals.

For your frame of reference, I should tell you a little about what those premiums are. For the health care program, total premiums for a single person is $106.50. Individuals are asked, if they have single coverage, to contribute $19.17. That is less than what we proposed to the Board last June. Two person coverage is $213.00, with the individual share being $38.34. The total cost for family coverage is $333.00, with the individual share being $59.94.

As a result of a combination of good fortune and circumstances, we have had a tremendous change in the mix, in terms of users. The physicians have attempted to be helpful in looking at their practices in terms of procedures, and we have taken measures to make sure that the costs of drugs are under control. For a range of reasons our costs seem to be holding, despite the fact that nationally the inflation index in the health care area is running in double digits -- about 10 percent.

In addition to the premiums, we indicated that as a part of the industry standard requirement we had to have a reserve. Our reserve has reached a level now where we believe that we will have in excess of our needs once again. So this proposal before you is to establish an additional premium holiday for the faculty and staff of this University for December 1990. As you know, you approved earlier a premium holiday for September 1990, meaning explicitly that the University and all participating faculty/staff members will not contribute to the cost of this program. We are asking at this time that we have one additional premium holiday for December. We believe this will bring our reserves in line. Assuming that our costs hold and we do not see an escalation in our health care premiums, then my sense is that next year as part of the President's budget -- and we have talked about this -- there will be a general review of all the premium rates. But again, with the reserve, that gives us an opportunity to have flexibility without coming back to the Board asking that we increase individual premium rates.

Amb. Wolf:

What is the total amount of the waiver?

Mr. Scott:

Roughly $3 million. Once we subtract the September premium holiday, we will have roughly $14 or $15 million. We think we should have about $11 or $12 million. So, the $3 million for December will bring us down to $11 or $12 million.

Mrs. Bowser:

So, it is $3 million a month?
September 7, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Scott:

Yes.

Amb. Wolf:

That is $36 million a year, and you have $11 or $12 million reserved, which is one-third.

Mr. Scott:

Yes. That is running a little less than we had anticipated. I think one of the reasons is that roughly 2,000 people retired over the last 2 or 3 years, and we anticipate that another 400 to 800 will retire in the next 15 months. So the demographics have changed rather dramatically, and utilization patterns have also changed as indicated. There have also been changes made by the physicians. So there has been a combination of good successes here, but I certainly don't want to leave anyone with the impression that Ohio State has found the secret to containing health care costs.

Amb. Wolf:

Madison, thanks very much. That was a real fine report, very clear, very thorough. We are very fortunate in having you monitor that phase of our program, among other things.

PREMIUM HOLIDAY

Resolution No. 91-29

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended the approval of a second premium holiday for the month of December.

WHEREAS as a result of favorable financial experience in the University's medical care program the Board of Trustees at its May 3, 1990 meeting, approved a premium holiday for the month of September; and

WHEREAS the recent reversal in medical care cost escalation continues to hold firm; and

WHEREAS it is estimated that should the current trend continue the University's health care insurance reserve will still be somewhat in excess of standard industry requirements:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That in accordance with the recommendation of President Gee, the Vice President for Personnel Services is hereby authorized and directed to implement a second health care premium holiday for the month of December 1990.

Upon motion of Mr. Teaford, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Receipts: Cash, gifts-in-kind, securities and irrevocable trusts received during the period May 1, 1985 - June 30, 1990. Also includes OSP awards from industry and selected private agencies.

Academic Divisions: Gifts to colleges and departments for items other than faculty compensation, research, student financial aids or buildings and equipment. Examples include discretionary accounts and hundreds of restricted accounts for college and departmental use such as library support, friends' funds to various areas (Friends of Orton Hall, etc.), alumni funds, general support for operations within the department, etc.

Faculty Support: Gifts for faculty compensation and direct support (chairs, professorships, etc.)

Research: Gifts to research projects including OSP awards from industry and selected private agencies

Student Programs: Gifts to scholarship, fellowship and student program support accounts

Buildings/Equipment: Gifts for buildings (e.g. Wexner Center, Law School, Athletics Complex, etc.), gifts-in-kind (computer equipment, livestock, etc.) and operation and maintenance of the physical plant

Unrestricted to University: Gifts with no restrictions as to how the University is to use the money

REPORT: THE 1990 FARM SCIENCE REVIEW

Presented to the Agricultural Affairs Committee
September 7, 1990
(See page 225)
Agricultural Affairs Committee
Board of Trustees

Report: The 1990 Farm Science Review

The 28th Edition of the Ohio State Farm Science Review is on course to become a record setting event. As of our close of business on 9/6/90 a total of 523 commercial exhibitors, representing some 2600 agricultural organizations, were under contract to participate. These exhibitors have leased approximately 225,000 sq. ft. above and beyond that leased in the peak year of 1983. Over 96% of the 83 acre exhibit area is under contract as of this date.

In addition, a record number of advance sale tickets have been consigned to over 250 outlets across Ohio and her neighboring states. As of this date, advance sale consignments are running at 116% of the 1989 record pace. Should the tradition of ticket demand and gate sales be followed, it is very possible that the 1990 Review could host some 135,000 persons. The previous all-time record for attendance was set in 1989 with 125,733 persons in attendance.

The Review is also pleased that special guests and programs will be hosted during the 1990 Review. The Vice President's Recognition Luncheon on Tuesday, September 18, will bring some 400 distinguished guests to the Molly Caren Agricultural Center. Included in that number will be the family of Dr. James D. Utzinger, in whose memory the 1990 Review is dedicated, and the first five inductees into the Farm Science Review Hall of Fame. President E. Gordon Gee will attend his first Farm Science Review and will be part of the scheduled activities. On Wednesday, September 19, the United States Secretary of Agriculture, the Honorable Clayton Yeutter, has scheduled a visit to the exposition. His visit, the first by a U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, will include a presentation to the public.

The 1990 "Showcase of Ohio Agriculture" is truly shaping up to be the best ever. The welcome mat is in place for the members of the Board of Trustees to enjoy clear skies and pleasant temperatures during their visit to the 1990 Farm Science Review on September 18, 19 and 20.

THE AFRICANIZED HONEY BEE AND THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

Presented to the Agricultural Affairs Committee
September 7, 1990
(See page 225)
AFRICANIZED HONEY BEES

In 1956, researchers in Brazil attempted to develop a more productive honey bee than the honey bee that had been imported from Europe. Honey bee queens from Africa, whose offspring were presumably better suited for Brazilian conditions, were imported and established in test colonies in Sao Paulo, Brazil. African bee swarms escaped into the Brazilian countryside where their queens interbred with the more docile resident European honey bees.

The offspring of these "mismatings" defended their nests more vigorously than European bees and swarmed more often, and therefore, were better suited for survival in the tropics. Researchers named this hybrid the Africanized honey bee. However, as a result of widely publicized stinging incidences, the name "Killer Bee" was used by the movie industry and the media to describe the Africanized honey bee.

Unlike the docile European honey bees common in the United States, the Africanized honey bee defends its hive quickly and will pursue intruders greater distances than European honey bees. The venom from one Africanized honey bee sting is no more potent than the venom of a single European honey bee sting. Most stinging incidences have involved animals, but on rare occasions humans have also been attacked. Stinging attacks occur only after someone or an animal has threatened the Africanized honey bee nest or has entered their territory.

In some cases, the noise or vibration of tractors or motorboats have provoked a stinging incidence. However, chance encounters with individual Africanized honey bees on blossoms pose no greater threat than an encounter with European honey bees on blossoms. Even though mass stinging attacks are terrifying and could be life threatening, they are not common. Common sense is the best defense for avoiding stings from all stinging insects - not just honey bees.

In spite of its reputation, the Africanized honey bee is actually smaller than the European honey bee. For conclusive identification, specialized identification techniques must be used to distinguish the Africanized honey bee from the European honey bee already in the United States.

Occasional swarms on board ships coming from South and Central America have been intercepted and are a concern, but are not major threats to the U.S. public or to the U.S. beekeeping industry. By natural spread, sustained Africanized honey bees from Mexico are expected to arrive in Texas sometime during 1991 - 1992. This permanent invasion has caused concern for both the public and the United States' beekeeping industry.

States having obvious cold months may not have to contend with Africanized honey bees initially; however, in the future even honey bees in northern states may show some of the Africanized honey bee traits.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY AND THE EXTENSION SERVICE, USDA, COOPERATIVE PROGRAM

Though many scientists have studied the Africanized honey bee (AHB) for many years, The Ohio State University has always either directly or indirectly had a major role in studying the Africanized honey bee. In 1972, Dr. Walter Rothenbuhler, Professor Emeritus, the Departments of Entomology and Zoology, was in the first scientific group to go to Brazil to evaluate early reports of a new defensive strain of honey bees that had been released into the jungles. Of Dr. Rothenbuhler's many students involved with the AHB, three are now directors of USDA Agricultural Research Laboratories across the United States. More recently, Dr. Robert Page, currently an Africanized honey bee researcher at The University of California, conducted behavioral research on the infamous bee while at OSU. Now, Dr. Brian Smith, also an insect behaviorist, is initiating AHB studies at the new OSU Rothenbuhler Honey Bee Laboratory.

Since September 1988, in a position unique to The Ohio State University, Dr. James E. Tew, of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service and the Agricultural Technical Institute, has been serving as the National Program Leader, Extension Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. Tew is also the OCES State Beekeeping Specialist and is responsible for beekeeping education programs at ATI.

In his USDA responsibilities, Dr. Tew serves as a liaison between individual state cooperative extension services and the Extension Service, USDA. A monthly newsletter, "Apicultural Awareness," is sent to 600 state and federal educators, researchers, and regulatory workers. Additionally, he has published two general fact sheets that have been distributed nationally (including both Houses of the United States Congress) by the USDA Office of Information. Currently, Dr. Tew and Dr. Anita Collins, Director, ARS Honey Bee Laboratory, Weslaco, Texas, are co-authoring a USDA sponsored beekeeper's manual that addresses current AHB concerns. Several training workshops have been offered by Dr. Tew for state and federal workers in Ohio and other states. Tew and the Extension Service, USDA, has had strong support from the U.S. beekeeping industry. He is the AHB advisor for the National Honey Board.

Dr. Tew represents the Extension Service on the USDA's Interagency Technical Working Group on the Africanized Honey Bee. The Working Group meets every three months to review various AHB issues and to coordinate activities among the various USDA agencies involved in research, education, and regulation of the AHB. The TWG developed a Model Africanized Honey Bee Action Plan for states to emulate if/when the AHB arrives. Recently, the group developed the USDA Africanized Honey Bee National Policy that was presented to Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter for his use and review. Even though his relationship is with ES USDA, Dr. Tew acts for all USDA and its agencies through the direction of the TWG. Because of his Extension responsibilities, Dr. Tew guides the TWG on education and information matters, and he is part of the early warning mechanism instituted by USDA that will be put into action upon the arrival of AHB in the United States.

In addition to frequently speaking with the press, Dr. Tew has travelled extensively, both nationally and internationally, addressing AHB policy concerns and distributing current AHB information. Of particular use in the various educational programs has been The Ohio State University's extensive holdings of TV quality original AHB footage. Funding was supplied by the OCES and ATI. The tape, done in Venezuela and Mexico, has resulted in two satellite presentations from Kottman Hall and one broadcast from WOSU.

The United States beekeeping industry, though beleaguered by Africanized honey bees and predaceous mites, is still the best developed in the world. The industry has an estimated 300,000 beekeepers who manage 4 million colonies. The value of honey bee pollinated fruits and vegetables is approximately $10 billion. The State of Ohio has nearly 9,000 beekeepers, making it one of the largest beekeeper states in the United States. The unique Ohio State University - Extension Service USDA Cooperative Program is one of many components required to build and maintain The Ohio State University as a national center for beekeeping excellence and leadership. The Ohio State University can take pride in its highly visible and reputable beekeeping programs.

Employment of Architects/Engineers and Request for Construction Bids

Background

OARDC - Dairy Maternity and Calf Barn Replacement

This project will provide facilities for housing parturient dairy cows and calves from birth to 26 weeks of age and related support areas and mechanical systems, including a separate hay and bedding storage building, manure handling system, and appropriate ventilating system. These facilities will replace those destroyed in a fire on April 11, 1990.

Funds for this project are available from insurance proceeds and University funds. Construction costs are estimated at $640,000.00, and the total estimated project cost is $800,000.00.

McCracken Power Plant - Water Treatment Facilities

This project will provide for utilities replacement to improve the water treatment at the Power Plant. This will involve new equipment, systems layout alterations, and upgrading the Power Plant to meet current EPA standards.

Funds for this project are available from University bond proceeds. Construction costs are estimated at $2,058,000.00, and the total estimated project cost is $2,572,000.00.

McCracken Power Plant - Rebuild Hot Water Heating System

This project will replace the old, deteriorated hot water heating system which services 56 central campus buildings, including pumps, steam turbines which drive the pumps, steam to hot water heat exchangers, and related components.

Funds for this project are available from University bond proceeds. Construction costs are estimated at $410,000.00, and the total estimated project cost is $515,000.00.

McCracken Power Plant - Replacement of Steam Lines

This project will replace the deteriorated, direct burial conduit system which supplies steam heat to Newton Hall, Graves Hall, and Prior Health Sciences Library.

Funds for this project are available from University bonds proceeds. Construction costs are estimated at $236,000.00, and the total estimated project cost is $295,000.00.

133.86 ACRES IN PIKE COUNTY, OHIO, FOR THE AGRICULTURAL MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS EVALUATION AREA PROJECT

Adopted by the Board of Trustees, September 7, 1990
(See page 282)
Lease of Land and Research Agreement

Background

133.86 Acres in Pike County, Ohio, for the Agricultural Management Systems Evaluation Area Project

Description and Location of Property

The property consists of approximately 133.86 acres of farmland in Pike County, Ohio, located in the southwest quadrant of the intersection of U.S. Routes 23 and 124. The property is approximately two miles west of the University's Piketon Research and Extension Center and two miles south of the City of Piketon. The property is part of the 650-acre Vanmeter Farm, owned by Helen J. Vanmeter, John I. Vanmeter, and Emma C. Vanmeter.

Description of Research Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Midwest Water Quality Research Initiative makes Federal funds available to set up research areas to evaluate crop production systems that are economically feasible and minimize contamination of water resources - particularly groundwater - from agricultural fertilizers and pesticides. In March 1990, USDA announced that it would accept the University's proposal for a buried valley aquifer site near Piketon as one of five Management Systems Evaluation Areas. (The other four sites are in Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, and Nebraska.) This multi-agency project will involve approximately $6-8 million over the first five years, with the University receiving $2 million from USDA and $1 million from the State of Ohio. The program will involve the USDA, the U.S. Geological Survey, the State of Ohio, as well as Ohio State's College of Agriculture, including OARDC and the Cooperative Extension Service. The project will be coordinated through the University's Department of Agricultural Engineering.

This research program will examine different farming systems and compare varying degrees of chemical use; monitor an extensive network of groundwater wells; and evaluate new and improved farming system components. The objectives are improved agricultural management systems, especially with regard to groundwater contamination and water quality impacts, and development of educational programs to promote improved agricultural management.

The Piketon site was selected for this research project because the aquifer has a supply potential of 1.5 billion gallons per day and is typical of Midwest aquifers; there is extensive hydrological and management information available regarding the site; surface water and groundwater systems in the area have been impacted by agriculture; and the site is close to the University's Piketon Research and Extension Center.

Terms of the Lease and Research Agreement

The lease is for a term of five years, with three renewal options for five years each. 0.83 ACRE ON SAWMILL ROAD, COLUMBUS, OHIO

(See page 282)
Sale of Real Property

Background

0.83 Acre on Sawmill Road
Columbus, Ohio

Description and Location

As a part of its land holdings in the Don Scott Field area, The Ohio State University owns the parcel at the northeast corner of the intersection of Case and Sawmill Roads. The land involved in this proposed sale consists of two tracts totalling approximately 0.83 acre located along the west side of the property. The first tract is approximately 0.72 acre that currently forms part of Sawmill Road. When the University acquired the property in 1972, the current roadbed already existed, but no road right-of-way easement had ever been executed. The second tract is approximately 0.11 acre located immediately to the east of the existing right-of-way and used for University farming operations. Title to both tracts is in the name of the State of Ohio for the use of The Ohio State University.

Proposed Sale

The City of Columbus desires to purchase the 0.11 acre tract to provide land for the widening of Sawmill Road, as part of the City's Bethel Road Improvement Project, Phase III. The City also desires to convert the permanent easement for the existing right of way on the 0.72 acre tract into a fee simple ownership. An MAI appraisal done for the City in June 1989, by HER Appraisal Services valued the 0.11 acre tract at $2,000.00, plus $300.00 for a temporary construction easement for a strip of land adjacent to the east, and $10.00 for a permanent road occupancy payment to transfer to the City fee simple ownership for the existing right of way on the 0.72 acre tract. A "Desk Review" appraisal done by Nash Wilson Associates for the University in March 1990, concurred with this valuation. The City of Columbus has offered to pay the total amount of $2,310.00. The proceeds of the sale would be deposited in an account to support future land acquisitions.

Because title to the property is held in the name of the State of Ohio, sale is subject to the approval of the Ohio General Assembly through an act authorizing the Ohio Department of Administrative Services to sell the property to the City on the University's behalf.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Madam Chairperson, Members of the Board, since we last met, the pace of the University has quickened with the opening of the Autumn Quarter. More than 10,000 students have moved into residence halls and thousands of others into near campus apartments, rooming houses, and fraternity and sorority houses. We welcomed 235 new faculty members to the campus.

To give you an idea of the activity during the opening of Autumn Quarter at some of the typical pressure points:

-- Traffic and Parking this year sold 14,917 "C" stickers to students -- and those people are at this moment driving around looking for a parking space.

-- The Office of the Treasurer distributed 9,387 student loan checks and 60,857 fees have been paid.

-- The new University Bookstore, which by the way is a marvelous addition to this campus, experienced a 15 percent increase in the sale of textbooks over the same period last year, which gives me great pleasure. I am glad it was textbooks and not T-shirts.

I have had a chance to get out and see the beauty of the Columbus campus in the fall, and also the wonderful facilities at our Mansfield Campus and at Stone Lab on Lake Erie. I was literally overwhelmed by the fantastic Farm Science Review. This is, by the way, an amazing, important, and significant exposition and a real point of pride for Ohio State and the State of Ohio. It is clear that this University touches all parts of the State and, indeed, the world.

Upon visiting our many friends in Cleveland, I became even more excited about the increased presence of Ohio State in that community through the possibility of an affiliation with the Cleveland Clinic and many other ties we have and can nurture in that area. And I want, today, to thank Ambassador and Mrs. Wolf, who were gracious in providing an opportunity for me to meet many of the folks who are in support of this University, and in whom we take pleasure in having the opportunity to get to know in a most gracious way. Thank you, very much. I really do appreciate that. By the way, if you want to have a heck of a party, just have him throw it!

At the International Students Orientation Picnic, I met Ohio State students from all over the world. I say from all over the world, and I was struck by how this truly is an international university.

Also making news around the campus:
Today, the third exhibition at the Wexner Center for the Visual Arts opens to the University community and tomorrow to the public. "New Works for New Spaces" marks another landmark for the Center, as works were commissioned specifically for the Center. I hope that each of you in this room and those who are involved with the University and the wider community will visit the exhibit between now and January 6.

Also, today marks the beginning of Disability Awareness Week. The University has a very rich tradition of accessibility and enrolls a number of students having special physical needs or learning disabilities. I visited the Office of Disability Services, and was very impressed with the services available to more than 800 students -- from talking computers to reading machines.

This weekend one of the largest patient reunions ever held in Central Ohio will occur when more than 800 people attend a reunion of patients cared for during the past 10 years at Dodd Hall. This is all the more significant inasmuch as recently U.S. News and World Report named Dodd Hall one of the nation's best rehabilitation hospitals.

One of the very exciting student activities of the quarter has been the "Just Say Hi" Program, initiated by Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity and the African American Heritage Committee. Several thousand buttons -- and several of the folks in the audience are wearing them today -- have been passed out bearing the slogan "Just Say Hi." I think this is a significant contribution by an important group for this University.

The purpose of this program is to increase the sense of community and to make students, particularly minority students, feel more welcomed and feel part of The Ohio State University family. This is a terrific idea, and I hope that it challenges other students groups, faculty, and administrators to initiate activities that will add to this goal of increasing the sense of community on campus.

Finally, two major issues have been in the forefront as we open the school year: personal safety and intolerance. As you all are aware, there is substantial concern for the safety of students on campus and in the near campus area. While crime statistics for the campus show a decline in crime over the past few years, the perception, at least, and certainly several incidents from the on- and off-campus areas indicate that we must heighten our efforts of education and at crime prevention.

A number of things are underway, including close work with the city to address the near campus problems and efforts led by University Public Safety personnel to make the campus safer. From foot patrols to improved lighting, many actions have been taken. I personally have been out a number of times over the past several weeks to visit areas of the campus and off-campus activities, and I can assure you that we are undertaking efforts to make certain that safety is a primary concern. I want all of you to know that this is a matter of high priority, and one that I believe that we can more effectively address.

In terms of the second issue, I want to express my deepest concern about behaviors that can be described as acts of intolerance and hate. Whether it is graffiti or a violent attack on a person, such instances simply will not be tolerated at this University. In a community of scholars, where the values of free and open exchanges of ideas and opinions is celebrated, there is no room nor will there ever be room for such actions. It is my fervent hope that we can encourage and nurture at this University a climate of civility and a true sense of community among our students, faculty, and staff. Only in such an environment can the goals of this institution be met.

With that, Madam Chairperson, I submit to you my first report of my first month.

Mrs. Bowser:

Thank you, very much. And on behalf of the Board, I only worry about you and the amount of activity that you are doing. Every time I pick up the paper or I read a communication from the University, Dr. Gee has been involved in greeting and learning.

President Gee:

Actually, Madam Chairperson, I brought three winners of the "E. Gordon Gee Look Alike Contest" with me.

Mrs. Bowser:

Well, we certainly appreciate all of your efforts.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Ms. Casto:

Yesterday, the Research Foundation Board of Directors met and I will just highlight some of the activities that went on in the past fiscal year.

Twenty-eight hundred proposals were submitted through the Research Foundation and a record total of 1,442 awards, valued at $125.3 million, were received during the year. This is an increase of 8.5 percent over the prior year. Funding from the National Institutes of Health and the National Science Foundation, two barometers of peer reviewed research for universities, increased approximately 14 percent from the previous year.

The Research Foundation supported over 100 faculty visits to sponsoring agencies last year. Information on approximately 20,000 funding opportunities were distributed to faculty. A new database service for graduate students enabled the Research Foundation to conduct over 400 funding searches for them as well.

Also made part of the Research Foundation this past year, was the University's new Technology Transfer Office and within the last few weeks its first director was identified. This signals the University's move into a more aggressive marketing of inventions made by its researchers. While there is room for considerable growth in the transfer of university-conceived inventions, it should be noted that OSU is already a leading institution in royalty income from patent and licensing activity.
October 5, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT (contd)

Ms. Casto: (contd)

During the last year, OSU researchers filed almost 50 disclosers and the University received over $2.1 million in royalty income.

I would like to close by highlighting two awards received during the month of August:

$160,000 from the U.S. Department of Education to the Department of Educational Theory and Practice and the Department of Mathematics for a technology-enhanced mathematics project. This project will provide an intensive in-service experience for 144 high school teachers from around the country to prepare them to use a computer and calculator approach to teaching and learning calculus. This approach has attracted funding from the National Science Foundation, the Ohio Board of Regents, and BP America.

$50,000 from the State of Ohio to the Cooperative Extension Service for a recycling education program. Consumers are barraged with information and misinformation on waste management. What do the words "recyclable" and "recycled" really mean? What is meant by environmentally-safe plastic? An educational series will be developed by this program for consumers, retailers, manufacturers, and environmentalists to help create a rational approach to solid waste management in our society.

That concludes my report.

HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teafrord:

Thank you, Madam Chairperson. On Thursday, September 27, the Administrative/Operations Committee, Executive Committee, and Professional Affairs/Education/Research Committee of the Hospitals Board met.

The Administrative/Operations Committee had a full agenda. The Committee authorized Hospitals Administration to submit a Certificate of Need application to renovate and expand the facility for the Surgical Intensive Care Unit to 17 additional beds for a total of 38 SICU beds. This will support both University Hospitals and The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute which has no ICU of its own. The expanded SICU would be located on the fourth floor of a three-story addition on the top of the existing Medical Logistics Facility. Those of you familiar with the Hospitals will understand how something could be on the fourth floor of a three-story addition. The reason for this location is that the operating rooms of both facilities are on the fourth floor and the Department of Health will not grant a Certificate of Need unless the ICU is on the same floor as the operating rooms. The two floors underneath the SICU will be shelled-in space, which will be assigned only with the review of the Hospitals Board. The $10 million cost of this project is included in the Hospitals' five-year capital plan.
October 5, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

During the same meeting, the Committee also authorized submission of a Certificate of Need for an addition of five bassinets to the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit. University Hospitals is currently licensed for 32 intensive care bassinets. The NICU is very crowded and is regularly in excess of 100 percent of capacity. In order to accommodate additional bassinets and upgrade the Women and Infants facilities, these functions will be relocated into other areas, requiring renovation to those areas as well as the NICU. The total cost of these four projects will be $500,000 and is included in the capital plan. And I might note that part of those are on the agenda today.

An important fact that all of us should be aware of is that with these allocations the Hospitals has in effect allocated all of its capital funds and there are no capital funds available for further capital projects in the Hospitals. As soon as the Certificate of Need is acquired on the SIUC, that will then come to this Board.

The Administrative/Operations Committee also heard about new programs, three in particular, all designed to increase the income of the Hospitals. The first is a program with a company called Optifast. I might say, this contract was reached by competitive bidding. This will set up a diet program for significantly obese persons.

The second is the Sports Medicine Program which is going to be set up in the Camera Center. You may remember, as part of our contract to operate the Camera Center for the State, we were given two sections to use for our own facilities, and the Sports Medicine facility will be set up there. There is probably no finer facility for sports medicine in the State, and we are able to use the entire facility including all of the track and swimming pool and all those other facilities. I think you will find that will be a significant moneymaker for us.

And finally, the Stoneridge facility which is located in the northwest part of the city is going to have established within it a rehabilitation unit. As Dr. Gee mentioned earlier, we have perhaps the finest program in rehabilitative medicine in the United States. This will allow us to expand our services in that area to further outpatient care at the Stoneridge facility.

We also received updates on all of the Certificates of Need which are out there with the Department of Health. We were informed about financial benefits realized through membership in the University Hospitals Consortium. It is important to note that not only are we trying to find ways to enhance income, but indeed we saved over $800,000 last year by purchasing through this Consortium of University Hospitals around the country.

We also heard a progress report on the implementation of recommendations to enhance operations of the Hospitals' Clinic. If you have not been in the Clinic of late, you will be pleasantly surprised to find the significant enhancement of patient services.
October 5, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

The Executive Committee was pleased to welcome President Gee to his first meeting as a Hospitals Board member. The Committee approved the actions on the SICU and NICU Certificates of Need and received the financial and statistical report for the month of August. The Hospitals' activity and net income during July and August were much higher than budgeted, largely because few patients were transferred to the Cancer Research Hospital at this point and, therefore, remained at University Hospitals. The net income was $2.2 million versus a budgeted $1.9 million. The cash balance improved and indeed the patient accounts receivable also declined by four days. In all of those areas there were significant pluses.

The Committee received updates on the Hospitals Volunteer Program, public relations, and development activities. Mr. Fraley reported that the annual Wyatt Company review confirmed that the Self-Insurance Fund is actuarially sound and recommended no additional contributions need be made to that fund this year. Although University Hospitals continue to test the market for the availability of excess insurance, it remains cost-prohibitive at this time.

The Committee also learned that the claims paid through settlement or verdict during the past fiscal year totalled only $17,000. I might add that the legal fees were significantly in excess of that, and this is in large part because the Hospitals and the University has a policy of not settling claims for which we feel there is no liability. That does obviously enhance legal fees, but I think also results in such small verdicts as $17,000.

Mrs. Bowser:

I would expect you to defend your fellow attorneys, Mr. Teaford.

Mr. Teaford:

Legal fees are not always a good investment, but these seem to be. Dr. Drago, Chairman of the Central Billing Committee, reported on progress toward developing a single, combined physician's bill for our patients. And I think I shall soon be able to report to our former Chairman, Mr. Redman, that we've got his project finally taken care of.

Mr. Jerry Maier reported that major elements of the Near East Side Project, formally known as the Mt. Vernon project, should be in place no later than January 1, 1991. This is really in the land-grant tradition of the University, not simply to take agricultural services to the community, but, in this case, to take medical services to the near east side of Columbus. These services will include a program for the prevention of pre-term birth, nursing and dietetic services for the elderly, and various types of monthly health screenings and trainings for care givers. We will be using existing facilities on the near east side, including the Second Baptist Church, and will be cooperating with existing organizations such as Life Care Alliance, in provision of the services for the elderly.
October 5, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

Lastly, the Professional Affairs Committee received confidential reports on Quality and Resource Management, with one report being our regular hospital-wide report and the other being specific to the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology. This is a program which has developed over the last couple of years and is now firmly in place. What we were able to learn in that Executive Session is that the high quality of care at our Hospitals is statistically measurable and is indeed there.

The Committee reviewed and approved the Annual Quality and Resource Management Plan for fiscal 1990-91. Dr. Mekhjian and Dr. Smead commented on medical staff activities, and Mr. Fraley reported that the accreditation survey of Dodd Hall, meaning the rehabilitation area, appeared to be quite successful. The formal report from the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities is expected in approximately six months. I am satisfied, having taken part in that, that we will receive very high praise as a result of that report. The accreditation visit from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations will take place November 6-9, and preparations are underway to ensure that this survey will also be positive.

I would also remind the Board Members that we will be meeting jointly with the Hospitals Board on December 5, and I hope that you will all be there. I am sure that this will be a highly substantive meeting, in contrast to past meetings, and especially given some of the financial circumstances of the Hospitals that I alluded to before. I hope that we will all be there. Thank you, Madam Chairperson, that completes my report.

Mrs. Bowser:

Thank you, Mr. Teaford. As the Chairperson, I want to thank each of you for representing the Board of Trustees at these important meetings. I know it takes time from your busy schedule. We appreciate it.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

The Investments Committee met both yesterday afternoon and this morning. This morning we heard a report on the Endowment Portfolio, and not surprisingly, given the state of the market, it is down some $6 million from my last report to you, and $29 million down since June 30. Those numbers are low because of offsets due to some additions of $3.5 million in the last month, and $5.6 million since June 30.

Of our equity managers, only Nicholas-Applegate and Siebel are ahead of the average. On the fixed income side the University's Ginnie Mae portfolio, Duff and Phelps are the only ones above the Shearson Lehman average. I might point out that W.R. Lazard which was hired to match that average has done so.

(See Appendix XX for complete context of The Ohio State University Endowment Summary, September 21, 1990, page 427.)

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

We also had the Quarterly Endowment Performance Report and I would commend that to your reading. It does outline how the moneys of the endowment have been expanded. I won't go into that, but would recommend that you take a look at that pie chart. This is, interestingly enough to note, the worse period of endowment shrinkage in recent times. But I am satisfied that it is due entirely to the market. Though, when we added the EAFE and the small cap funds to the investments of the University, we probably did it at the worse possible time, because we did it at the top of the market. So that has contributed to the decline somewhat. We must always, when we look at that Endowment Fund, remember that we are in it for the haul that is longer than any of us, and small whips like that do not effect the University in the long run.

Projections for 1991 are that some $16 million will be distributed from match funds as opposed to some $14.8 million last year. We also looked at the comparison of the 1, 3, 5, and 10-year performance of the fund, and of all of those, the fund has significantly exceeded the goal, namely of beating inflation. Ranging from 2 to 3 times more earnings than the inflation in the period.

(See Appendix XXI for complete context of The Ohio State University Quarterly Performance Comparison Reports, September 21, 1990, page 439.)

We also had a report on a proposed revision to the report that you now get about the Endowment Fund. In the future the report will include the entire investment pool, including the University Foundation and Transportation and Research Center funds. So you will note this in your report next month.

Finally, at this morning's meeting Mr. Shkurti reported on the Audit of Campaign Contributions. Most significant of those is that the expenditures over the life of the Campaign was $1.1 million below budget, resulting then to a cost of $.10 per dollar collected, as opposed to the projected $.11.

Now I need to report to you on yesterday's meeting. We met with all five fixed income managers of the University. We are extremely pleased with the performance of the managers which we are recommending for 1991. Despite the difficulties of the current markets and such they are doing very well. I would point out, in particular, to you that W.R. Lazard which was hired last year, as I said, to replicate the Shearson Lehman Index was indeed only 1/100th of a percent off from that index and that was on the plus side.

We are, as a result of that meeting, recommending the following resolution:

REAPPOINTMENT OF FIXED INCOME INVESTMENT ADVISORS
Resolution No. 91-33

Synopsis: The Investments Committee recommended the Reappointment of Fixed Income Investment Advisors.

WHEREAS it is the policy of The Ohio State University to utilize the services of external Investment Advisors to assist in the management of the University's Endowment Fund; and

Mr. Teaford:

I just want to add one thing. You will note that under both Boatmen's and STW they show initial amounts of $25 million. If you read that, you would think that they had lost money, indeed only $20 million has ever been allocated to them to date and so as part of this we continue the recommendation from last year that they do receive an additional $5 million when that is available.

Upon motion of Mr. Teaford, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

James W. Baughman

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 10, 1990, of James W. Baughman, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Art.

James Baughman received a Masters in Art in 1953 from the University of Berkeley. He joined the faculty of The Ohio State University in 1956. Upon his retirement in 1982, he was named Professor Emeritus.

He served the University in various capacities and his outstanding service to students included his appointment in the Office of Records and Advising in the College of The Arts. James W. Baughman was honored with several awards for his deep understanding and commitment to students.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to the family and friends of James W. Baughman. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Maude A. Stewart

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 5, 1990, of Maude A. Stewart, Ed.D., Professor Emeritus in the Department of Psychology.

Dr. Stewart was born in Auburn, Nebraska, where she completed her elementary and secondary education, graduating from Auburn High School in 1922. She attended the University of Nebraska studying math, physics, and education; was elected to Phi Beta Kappa; and received her B.S. degree in 1928.

From 1923 until she began post graduate study in 1939, she was a teacher in Nebraska schools, beginning as a rural teacher in the Nemaha County School District. She was also a high school math teacher and counselor in Johnson and in West Point, Nebraska.

She began her graduate studies in 1939 in educational psychology and student personnel at Syracuse University where she received her M.S. in 1941 and her Ed.D. in 1947. During these years, she had several part-time positions at Syracuse including student personnel assistant, acting dean of women, and instructor in education.

In 1947 she was appointed Assistant Professor and Assistant Academic Director of the Student Personnel Training Program at Syracuse University, with responsibilities as teacher and research advisor. Subsequently, she was appointed Associate Professor at Southern Illinois University where she taught techniques of counseling, measurement in public schools, seminars in student behavior problems, statistics, and performed consulting work in the community and schools. In 1957 Dr. Stewart came to The Ohio State University as Associate Professor of Psychology and Director of the Graduate Resident Program in the Dean of Women's Office. This later became the Student Personnel Assistant Program in the Office of Vice Provost for Student Affairs. In 1960, she was promoted to Professor of Psychology. Upon her retirement in 1973, she was named Professor Emeritus.

Dr. Stewart was nationally known and respected for her work in the field of college student personnel and student development. Her commitment to the Student Personnel Assistant Program at The Ohio State University was truly exceptional. The integrated program of work and study in student personnel achieved national visibility as a model program and grew from seven to fifty-seven students under the leadership of Dr. Stewart. Although she devoted much of her time to selecting, orienting, and supervising practicum and internship experiences in the Student Personnel Assistant Program, she was adviser to more than 50 M.A. students and had taught most of the undergraduate and graduate courses in the counseling Psychology program at Ohio State. She also provided volunteer services to many programs in the University and the community.

Among Dr. Stewart's honors and awards were: Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Lambda Theta, and Phi Mu Epsilon. She also was listed in Who's Who in the Midwest, Who's Who of American Education and Who's Who of American Women. Dr. Stewart was twice honored by The Ohio State University's Student Personnel Assistant Program for appreciation of services to the program and its participants. In 1988 the Maude A. Stewart Achievement Award in Student Personnel Work was established. In 1983 the Robinson, Fletcher, Pepinsky and Stewart Endowment Fund was established to support faculty development and faculty and graduate student research primarily in the area of Counseling Psychology.

Dr. Stewart will be remembered by students, colleagues, and friends from her 50-year career as an educator and counselor, for her devotion to them, and to the advancement of college student personnel work and student development.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Barone, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Paige:

We first heard a report from the Office of Fees and Deposits. The presenters were Jim Nichols, Treasurer, Leonard Copeland, Assistant Treasurer, and Al Rodak, Associate Treasurer.

The Office of Fees and Deposits reported on the Students Services related activities of its Office. This Office collects student fees, processes University deposits and disburses student loan checks. This Autumn Quarter over 60,000 fees were paid, 9,400 checks disbursed and over 16,000 phone calls answered. The Office has expanded its phone services to aid students and has used the fee bill to provide important messages and frequently used phone numbers. The Office has worked with individual colleges to provide specialized services in disbursing loan checks to colleges who are on different class schedules. I wanted to bring this up because the College of Medicine begins school at the end of August, and usually we have to wait until the undergraduates start school to get our loan checks. But this year the Office of Fees and Deposits personally sorted all of the medical school students’ loan checks and made them available to us at the end of August. So, I want to personally thank the Office of Fees and Deposits for that, because it was greatly appreciated by the medical students.

Fees and Deposits is working on several projects for future implementation. These include receiving account balances by phone, payment of fees by phone, using a credit card, and direct credit of student loans to bills without students having to pick up their checks.

Finally, concern was expressed to the burden placed on Ohio State in disbursing guaranteed student loan checks due to restrictive Federal regulations. Ohio State historically has not had a default rate problem. In 1988, our default rate was 3.3 percent, yet regulations affect all institutions, which has caused the University to disburse checks later and more frequently, thus providing greater inconvenience for students. Further restrictions are possible under the proposed Federal budget package. It was brought to our attention that it is proposed that students not be able to get their loan checks until 30 days after the quarter starts. So, that again bring a lot of problems to students. The Office of Fees and Deposits is committed to providing efficient services to the student population.

Next, we heard reports from the student government leaders:

Mr. Steve Sloan:

Thank you, it is good to be here again. This is actually my third year presenting to the Board, but this is my first meeting as the official President of the IPC. It feels quite different now, being responsible for showing some progress in terms of our actions.

I missed the last meeting, but I wanted to let you know that we are quite busy and happy with our progress. Today I wanted to talk about where I want to lead the organization and some of the issues that we will be facing. Recently I was interviewing candidates for a position that we needed to fill and I asked them, “What do you like about being a Buckeye?” I basically asked them that question because a university is a special place for me, and I wanted to make sure that the candidates have the same feeling that I do about this university. I thought about how a professional student would answer that question, and why they might not have the same kind of feelings that an undergraduate student would. I guess there could be several reasons why. First of all, they may have allegiance to their undergraduate institutions already; and therefore, feel they have less to give to OSU. I think there is little you can do about that, but there are other places where the University can take measures to improve the way a professional student feels he/she belongs to OSU.

There are areas where professional students share concerns with all students, and I would like to outline them briefly. They involve the following areas: Traffic and Parking, Libraries, Bookstore, Lincoln Tower (or Fees and Deposits, which we have heard about this morning), Public Safety, and one that is special to us -- the Athletic Ticket Policy.

Mr. Sloan: (contd)

Briefly, we have talked about Traffic and Parking several times. I have heard that it costs $10,000 per parking spot to build a ramp. We have talked about how much it would cost, but the most frequent thing that professional students bring up is how long it takes to find a parking space. They complain that they spend 20 minutes looking for a space, only to end up parking illegally. I think that it is time that we "bite the bullet" and spend more resources on parking. I think that is probably our biggest priority.

Mr. Teaford:

But what program do you think we ought to cut? Because that is the question --

Mr. Sloan:

I think I'll defer to you on that. The next area is the Athletic Ticket Policy. This is a special issue to professional students. It is one in which the University could take a step to make professional students feel more like a part of this University.

Currently, Undergraduates, as they progress from freshmen to seniors, get better football seats each year. That is not the case for professional and graduate school students at all. Each year they receive no increase in their ranking. As a result, they have terrible seats. Except that there are some schools who have individual arrangements with the people who make the ticket policy -- and I don't know how they did that, but they have done that in the past. There are some schools that have seats all together. The rest of the professional students have terrible seats, year after year.

The University should realize that to make professional students feel more a part of the University -- and thereby having stronger alumni, which may show up as alumni contributors -- they need to treat professional and graduate students more like undergraduate students in terms of the ticket policy.

We have worked a lot on that issue and they tell us it is a very difficult problem. The ticket policy needs to be changed. Maybe the first year you apply for a ticket, you would be treated as a freshmen, and then the fourth year you would be treated as a senior. Then after that, you would have to go through the rotation again. They need to take some kind of step like that.

The next issue is the libraries, particularly the Health Sciences Library. Many in our organization do rely on the Health Sciences Library. As we have mentioned before, many professional schools have calendars that are different from the Undergraduate calendar. Nonetheless, the libraries seem to ignore this fact and they say it is because they can't find student workers. That may be the case, but as a result, it is embarrassing when the Health Sciences Library closes a full two weeks before finals for medical students and a full four weeks before our national boards, which is the most important test these students take. It is the only way that residency programs can compare all medical students across the nation. Our library closes weeks before these boards are given, and then throughout the summer when most medical students are in session and need to use the library, they are open for maybe five hours a day in the middle of the day. This is of great concern to all of us. We would like your support on this issue, because we have been frustrated for three years trying to resolve it.

Dr. Spillman:

I'll check on that.

Mr. Teaford:

You can be assured that we don't find that attractive.

Mr. Sloan:

The next item is the bookstore. This is another issue we have worked on before. The prices both for the law bookstore and the medical bookstore, which encompasses all the professional students, are extremely high. The law students and the vet students have actually gone together and they have saved substantially by getting their books directly from the distributors. I know it is something that the Medical School and the Dental School are considering. The prices are really high and the bookstore assures us that all they do is raise it somewhere around 30-33 percent, I can't remember now. That's fine, that is what they do. As a result though, I pay $100 for a text book.

Lincoln Tower is a topic we heard discussed already this morning. This is another place where professional students interact directly with the University. By and large, most professional students are satisfied with the Office of Fees and Deposits, except for the special times when we have to come and stand in very long lines. I think the steps that they have made with the health professionals are good, and we hope that that will be extended to all students. I know I have found the phone numbers and paying by mail convenient. I do have one example of a student who paid by mail and never received her paid fee sticker. As a result, she cannot use the University's resources, she cannot get a parking permit, etc., because you have to show the paid fee sticker. When she contacted Fees and Deposits, she was told she had to wait in line for it. If you expect students to take advantage of paying my mail so they won't have to stand in line, then it defeats the purpose if they have to stand in line anyway for the paid fee sticker. We are really happy though with the progress that has been made and we want that to continue.

I think I will just conclude there and say that I am really happy to be President of the IPC and I look forward to working with the other students and the Board. Thank you.

Ms. Benetta Burton:

First let me say, Good Morning. As you know, last month I did not appear before you because I was doing my written exams for my Generals. I am still in that process, so I am going to be very brief.
STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

I wanted to say first that I appreciate the work and the efforts of the Office of Fees and Deposits to reduce the time that students have to stand in line. I also want to comment about the Athletic Ticket Policy. This was a concern of some of the new graduate students that attended our orientation. They wanted to know how to go about getting football tickets. There was some concern among those who were not able to get them. We do know that there is a low supply of those!

Our orientation program was a success. Associate Dean Jean Dickerscheid and Professors Hogan and Notes gave wonderful addresses, and the people appreciated that. We had a "For Your Information" session and it included topics that were both academic and non-academic. Among the things we covered was academic misconduct this time. That is because some of the graduate students on that committee found, to their surprise, how many graduate students were guilty of academic misconduct. So, we wanted to make these new graduate students aware. We know that some people have not been in the habit of doing papers and might not know how to properly footnote their papers. So, one of the things that we will be doing is featuring the Dulles Writing Center within our Graduate Voice to let them know that there is a service available to them on this campus that will help them in doing their papers.

Our reception was also a big success. This was the third one we have had and there were about 500 people in attendance. The food went faster than we anticipated! I think the advertising helped and also the fact that we had it closer to the end of the week. We did not mean to conflict Rosh Hashanah, but when we scheduled it, we needed a space that could hold 500 to 1000 people. With our limited resources, we found the best place was the Ohio Union. All their weekends were already booked and so the closest day to a weekend was that Thursday. We do believe the fact that it was at the end of the week made it more successful, because earlier in the week people are getting use to the University, etc.

We are grateful for the support from the Graduate School and the Office of International Students and to the businesses that supported us.

The council will continue to address the academic calendar issue. I don't know if you read the Lantern on Friday, September 28, which had an article in it concerning the calendar. We will continue to discuss this issue. There were some inaccuracies in the article. One was that it spoke to the discipline needed by students in the quarter system. It really meant the discipline that the traditional semester students must have. Because with so much time to do the work there is a tendency to relax a bit more, instead of working ahead and getting work done. We feel that the traditional semester does require more discipline. Another mistake was that it talked about the reduction in Christmas vacation for students. That is the traditional semester calendar, not the early semester calendar. We favor the early semester calendar. We will be discussing this with the Undergraduate Student Government and they will be polling their constituency to see how they feel about this issue. We basically want the University to consider this issue and we feel that it deserves a well thought-out discussion.

Mr. Teaford:

By an early semester calendar, you mean that you start in August and finish in May?
STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Ms. Burton:

That is correct.

Ms. Paige:

Thank you. We will now hear from the President of the Undergraduate Student Government.

Mr. Mike Clark:

First, I would like to say that all students, especially Undergraduates, are most appreciative of the efforts that the Office of Fees and Deposits is making. Maybe not everyone is aware of the things that you have been doing, but I think they will see the benefits of the shorter lines in the near future. It seems we are going down the right path in accomplishing that. I realize it is a long goal, but it is good to see that things are being done to address the concerns of students. It's great.

I have just a few issues -- I'd like to keep this short. One of the things that we have been involved with and that we feel is of vital concern to the University and the students is registering to vote and voting in the elections coming up on November 6. The deadline is October 9, which is this coming Tuesday. We felt that by spending most of our time and concentration on a Voter Registration Drive, we could bring much more attention from the State of Ohio to the University by encouraging the students to go out and make a difference and vote. This should show the Ohio politicians that the students are concerned about their tuition, they are concerned about safety and these types of issues.

Our Voter Registration Drive has been going on for about two or three days and we have already registered in excess of 1,000 students. Our goal is 1,500 students by Tuesday, but I think we have the possibility of surpassing that -- maybe up to 2,000. On Wednesday, we had Representative Mike Slinziano and Senator Eugene Watts come and help us kick off our campaign on the Oval. Yesterday afternoon, we had the Secretary of State, Sherrod Brown, come and help us out. Channel 4 and the news media came in and that really helped us out. So, our Legislative Affairs department has really been working overtime. I think the University as a whole will benefit from it. I think it is a good reflection of the student's attitude of trying to make a difference.

The other thing I would like to talk about is campus safety. You are probably going to hear me mention that quite a bit in this next year, because I think it is very important. All facets of the University will be affected by it. I would like to thank the Department of Public Safety for the support they have given us with our radios and our jackets, etc. They are really helping us out.

Also, we are experiencing a 100 per cent increase in the utilization of our escort service itself. I think that is a very good reflection of the University's efforts in increasing the awareness of campus safety issues. I would like to urge the University to continue to increase this awareness. I think we, as students and faculty, are very concerned with this issue.

Lastly, this coming Saturday, we have "Pompon Mania." We will be distributing 90,000 pompons at the football game.

President Gee:

How many?

Mr. Clark:

There will be 90,000 pompons.

President Gee:

I didn't know there were that many pompons in the world!

Mr. Teaford:

You'll see them Saturday.

Mr. Clark:

We do it every year. We are working with Denny Hoobler in the Department of Athletics and we are trying to get the Buckeyes excited about the game tomorrow and to see if we can get our first Big Ten win.

There was one more thing -- I believe this summer we talked about the possibility of some of the members of the Board coming to a President's Council that we are starting up. We are trying to pull all of the student organization leaders together to start sharing ideas, concerns, and issues that they are faced with within the University. We have a tentative date set for the November 14, from 7:00 - 8:00 p.m. I will try to get some more information to you on this. I understand that you are busy and have full schedules, but if you could reserve that date, we would really appreciate it. I think the students would benefit from it as well.

Our primary concern with this is to let the Trustees come and reach out to the students to make them more aware. We feel that a more informed student is a more involved student. At this time, I will entertain questions.

President Gee:

I am sorry for barging in like this, I was listening to the Agricultural Affairs report. There is one thing that I did want to ask about regarding the escort service. There was some question about the legality of expanding the escort service to off campus. I asked Jim Meeks about that and we are looking into it. My own belief is that an escort service off the campus is probably the best opportunity that we have to be effective.

Mr. Tennies:

Are you having an increase in use all over campus?

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Clark:

Yes we are. Two years ago, we had an average of 5 or 6 escorts an evening. Last year, we averaged 18 or 19. This year, we have been fully operational as of September 24, and we are experiencing between 40 to 50 escorts an evening. So, you can see how much we are increasing.

Dr. Spillman:

And I think as we advertise and have our campaign for personal safety and what have you, that is going to increase even more.

Mr. Teaford:

Do we have the ability to provide more service?

Mr. Clark:

It just takes money.

President Gee:

But I thought it was volunteer.

Mr. Clark:

No, it is not. We pay our students the University minimum wage to provide the escorts in the evening.

President Gee:

Have we thought also of increasing it by adding a volunteer service?

Dr. Spillman:

We have given some thought to that, but there is a dilemma here in that we have had a paid escort service for about five years. We also have the new program that the city will start which is another paid service. I know there is some dialogue going on within some of the fraternities right now. I think that is what we have to try to encourage, but it is not going to be easy to do.

Mr. Jim Meeks:

There are some pocket volunteer services operating. In particular, at the Law School, and I think the Medical School has one, too. But there is some problem setting up a volunteer organization when there is this complimentary paid program going on.

Ms. Paige:

I would like to have the other Student Trustee, David Tonnies, make an announcement at this time.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Tonnies:

Thank you, Ms. Paige. I would briefly like to announce the new student appointment to Dr. Gordon Gee's President's Council, her name is Elisa Abes. She is a junior in the Honor's Program, majoring in English. The Presidents of the three student governments, Ms. Paige, and myself, nominated several students for this position. Interviews were conducted last night with the candidates, and Ms. Abes was selected from this group. She has been very active in student life at Ohio State. Currently she is the Vice President of Bucket and Dipper, Junior Class Honorary; she has been active in the past with leadership at Ohio State; and she was very influential in bringing Justice Kennedy to the campus who will speak later this month. We believe Ms. Abes will make a wonderful addition to the Council.

Ms. Paige:

Thank you. That completes my report.

Ms. Casto:

Thank you, Mrs. Bowser. As President Gee stated, the 1990 Farm Science Review was a huge success. President Gee spoke at the Vice President's Luncheon and also the Secretary of Agriculture, Clayton Yeutter, was a special VIP at the Farm Science Review. There were a total of 118,900 visitors and 523 commercial exhibitors.

We then had a report from Dr. Rosanne Fortner, Professor in the School of Natural Resources. She described the School's research and instruction programs in Environmental Resources Information and Education. The faculty members who are specialists in environmental education teach 25 courses and administer sponsored projects worth $1.3 million. Research and development activities focus on: environmental knowledge and attitude assessment, especially in developing countries; effective methods for dissemination of environmental information; curriculum development for formal and nonformal education; teacher enhancement; global climate change education; and marine and aquatic education.

The School of Natural Resources and its faculty are internationally known for their leadership in environmental education. A number of national and international environmental thrusts have their origin and headquarters at Ohio State. Faculty members have successfully forged cooperative research and instruction links with a number of other units on campus, including the Center for Mapping, the Byrd Polar Research Center, Civil Engineering, the College of Biological Sciences, and the College of Education.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Resolution No. 91-43

55.4 ACRES IN SOUTHWEST FRANKLIN COUNTY

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended the approval of the sale of approximately 55.4 acres of land in southwest Franklin County.

WHEREAS The Ohio State University owns approximately 55.4 acres of undeveloped land located in southwest Columbus, Ohio; and

WHEREAS the appraised value of this property is approximately $249,300.00, and Deltar, Inc., of Columbus, Ohio, has offered to purchase the property for $325,000.00; and

WHEREAS this property is not needed for University programs and the appropriate University offices have determined that this sale of the property is in the best interest of the University and it is the desire of this Board to accept the offer of Deltar, Inc., and to sell all of the Board's right, title, and interest in this property:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Acting Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized, in the name of the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University, to sell all of the University's right, title, and interest in this property to Deltar, Inc., at a price of $325,000.00 upon such terms and conditions as are deemed to be in the best interest of the University.

Mr. Scott:

As you know, the Board overtime approved the concept of a preferred provider health care plan for regular faculty and staff on the main campus. We have been working now for the last year and a half to establish a reasonably equivalent plan at the regional campuses and at Wooster. One component of the PPO, of course, is the pharmacy component. We have that in place here for our faculty and staff on the main campus.

In an attempt to round out the PPO for faculty and staff at the regional campuses, OARDC, and, also, the Ag Tech Institute, we requested bid proposals from the pharmacy providers in that area. Twenty-eight companies received the bid specifications. Out of the twenty-eight companies, nine submitted proposals, but only five were judged to be relevant in terms of the standards set forth in the specifications.

Mr. Scott: (contd)

The resolution today is to request the authorization for the establishment of a Preferred Provider Pharmacy Program, which complements the already existing medical components at Wooster. We think that this, indeed, will give our faculty and staff at Wooster the equivalent of what our faculty and staff on the main campus already enjoy.

I should tell you, parenthetically, there has been some concern at the regional campuses that they were not getting full benefits, so this should diminish those concerns. At some point in time we should have the network complete for Lima and Mansfield campuses, and we are moving ahead at the Newark campus. That should give all of our faculty and staff, irrespective of geographic location, the equivalent of the program that we have on the main campus. That is the resolution.

Mr. Teaford:

Is the cost to the University roughly the same as the cost to the University for the program here?

Mr. Scott:

That is correct. You ask a very good question. One of the things, Mr. Teaford, that we are also looking at in the pharmacy program for the main campus is the component at University Hospitals. This service is not as effective as it should be and the reason for this is that the numbers of users exceeds our capabilities. It may very well be in time that the administration will want to recommend the inclusion of other pharmacies, based on a bid, so that we can accommodate the needs of our people in a fashion that will be helpful to them.

REGIONAL PREFERRED PHARMACY PROGRAM

Resolution No. 91-44

Synopsis: The Fiscal Affairs Committee recommended the approval of the Regional Preferred Pharmacy Program at regional campus locations.

WHEREAS the University desires to provide reasonably equivalent medical benefit PPO options for the regional campus faculty/staff as compared with main campus faculty/staff; and

WHEREAS hospital and physician PPO arrangements have been implemented at the Wooster/OARDC location and are in progress at the other regional locations; and

WHEREAS a regional pharmacy network provider is needed to complete the regional PPO program; and

WHEREAS after public advertisement, specifications and proposal forms were issued to twenty-eight (28) companies; eight (8) did not respond, eleven (11) declined in writing to quote, and nine (9) submitted proposals of which five (5) were responsive to our specifications; and

WHEREAS the appropriate University offices, and Pharmaceutical Horizons, Incorporated (a pharmacy program consultant firm), have reviewed the proposals and, based on prescription drug pricing, administrative fees, and network service capabilities and associated services, it is the recommendation of the Office of Personnel Services that the best proposal is offered by ValueRx,
October 5, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

REGIONAL PREFERRED PHARMACY PROGRAM (contd)

Prescription Drug Price - Average Wholesale Price less 13% discount
Administrative Services Fee - $3.75 per prescription
Dispensing Fee - (included in Administrative Services Fee)

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the contract for the program of providing PPO pharmacy services to eligible regional campus faculty and staff be awarded for an eight-month period beginning November 1, 1990, with the pricing, fees, and performance of the provider to be reviewed on July 1, 1991, and annually thereafter. This contract will remain in force after the initial term until the Administration deems it appropriate to recommend review of the designated provider and/or seek a new pricing quotation.

Upon motion of Amb. Wolf, seconded by Mr. Teaford, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mrs. Bowser: Is Senator Suhadolnik with us? We have had a request from you to address the Board, Senator.

Senator Gary C. Suhadolnik:

Thank you, very much. It is kind of funny; normally, it is the other way around. It is kind of a unique circumstance to appear before a committee, but I do appreciate you giving me the opportunity. Also, I'm normally sitting on the other side of the table. Knowing how painful it is to go through long testimony, I will be very brief. But, I thought it was important that I make a personal appearance to express some concerns that I have.

Specifically, it was pointed out to me by someone who wrote a letter to my office that, in fact, there is an Office of Gay, Lesbian, and Bisexual Affairs that has been established at the University. As one who is responsible for setting public policy in the State -- and the University is obviously an arm of that -- I guess that I am rather concerned that somehow we are endorsing, or encouraging, or lending credibility, or giving any stature to a gay, homosexual, and lesbian organization. My concept of equal rights is that equal rights for all means special privileges for none. And so by granting them a special office, somehow you are granting them some special rights.

I don't believe in violence and I don't believe in discrimination. And I am not so naive to believe that gays and homosexuals aren't the subject of some discrimination or possibly some violence maybe right here on campus. But I guess I somehow believe that the current University structures and institutions can deal with that. If there is violence against them, then I would assume that the campus police would be brought in. Just as I heard someone talking about some program here to protect women, I would assume that some program might be established to ensure that certain areas of the campus were made safer, or attempt to make them safer, by putting up some more lights, more police, or whatever might be the need. If professors are discriminating against those groups, I would assume that someone would go to the dean of that particular college and ask them if they would straighten out the various faculty under their control so there is no discrimination. So I guess I really don't know why we need to set up a separate office for this particular group.

Senator Suhadolnik: (contd)

If you are to take this one step further -- certainly there is a group out there that has some believes and a different life style that I don't particularly condone, but there are many other groups out there, and I don't think this University would think twice about them. What if the Nazi's decided -- there might be some members on campus who decided that they were discriminated against, would you set up an office for that?
You certainly would not. What about if the Moonies came forward on campus and said they wanted an office because they were discriminated against. Would an office be set up for them? I doubt seriously that it would be. So, I just guess I find this rather shocking that this has happened.

Now, I guess it is my understanding that these are not tax dollars that are subsidizing this office, but, in fact, student fees. Either way, I still have some responsibility for setting public policy, and when there is something that I disagree with, I think I need to let you know. And I come here maybe wearing two hats in that not only am I a State Senator, but I will say a proud father of a student who goes here. I am generally very pleased with the activities and the education here on campus, but this is one area that I have some concerns about. So I thought I needed to express it to you.

I also would say, with all due respect, that I'm not going to go away. So I hope somehow we can resolve this. If not, it just seems as time goes on through Legislative process we bump into Ohio State -- I wouldn't say on a day to day basis, but quite often. So I'm just not going to go away. I think this is a very important issue and I hope somehow we can resolve this.

Mrs. Bowser:

Thank you. I am going to ask Dr. Hutchinson, our Provost, to make a response.

Dr. Hutchinson:

Thank you, Madam Chairperson. Senator, I would point out that this campus has grown and did grow in the period of the 1950's and '60's, very, very rapidly. Presently we have a student body is about 54,000 on this campus. I think that it is obvious that as the campus grew, there was a strong concern that existed to keep it an approachable campus, a place that people could feel that they had an opportunity to participate and be recognized. We also know that much of the social and intellectual development of students occurs outside the classroom. For that reason, most universities have set up a division of student affairs, an office that relates to students and their many activities on the campus outside of the classroom.
We have a Vice Provost for Student Affairs, who is responsible for that area and have several offices under the Office of Student Affairs in the whole area of student life.

Dr. Hutchinson: (contd)

We have found over the years that an effective way of relating to the large number of students on this campus is to recognize that they come to us in areas of interests, concerns, and needs. We have a variety of offices that have been created over the years to work with Greek organizations, Minority Affairs, and a great many other organizations in the ways that students come together and have concerns. Because it is obvious that society has come to accept that gays, lesbians, and bisexuals have rights and the right to be treated as equals in society, and certainly a university is the place that should exemplify that. Therefore, we did, a little over a year ago, create the Office that the Senator refers to.

It is an Office that has a budget of about $64,000, a director, and some assistants to work with a large number of students. If one recognizes that the national figures show that approximately 10 percent of our population falls into this category. And if that is true in our student body, and we wouldn't know that necessarily, that is a very large number of students on this campus who we feel responsible to recognize and to work with. And thus the Office was created. We can't say that some State funds are not going towards supporting this Office. Because, in fact, money that comes to my office and then goes out to support this is a blending of funds that come to the institution -- some of which are State funds, some which are tuition, and some of which are student fees. So this we would not want to say is totally funded from students fees, because it is not. Thank you, Madam Chairperson.

Mrs. Bowser:

Thank you. I would like to acknowledge, Senator, that on behalf of the entire Board we have indeed received your letters and have given much thought and consideration to the concerns that you have raised in those letters. You have reaffirmed those concerns this morning, and I want you to know that all of us here at the University -- the Board, as well as the administration -- are very sensitive about the issues that you have raised. We are also aware of and sensitive to the need to ensure that the University has in place appropriate and reasonable programmatic structures to address the diverse interests of our students, faculty, and staff. As the administration moves through this transition period, you can be assured that a more in-depth response will be provided to you with regard to this particular matter. We thank you for appearing before us this morning.

ENVIRONMENTAL RESOURCES INFORMATION AND EDUCATION

Presented to the Agricultural Affairs Committee
October 5, 1990
(See page 389)
Environmental Resources Information and Education (ERIE)
Rosanne W. Forman

In education we are aware that there exists a teachable moment, a situation in which all factors come together to produce the optimum conditions for learning. The teacher who is able to anticipate that opportunity and is prepared to respond can create an instant and lasting awareness of the situation, an internal spark that could never be derived from a textbook.

The decade of the '90s is the teachable moment for the "endangered planet." Events of the last two years have vividly shown that as we seek to improve our living standards, we create inadvertent threats to human lives and natural resources. The mass media and other masses have sought to become environmental educators. Is their message correct? Current? Committed?

In the School of Natural Resources, environmental education has been strong in all of its 22 year history. Our methods have changed, but not our message; our habitat has expanded, and so has our niche. The environmental educators of the '70s have become "Environmental Resources Information and Education" (ERIE) for the '90s.

Our faculty of about 4 FTE is responsible for 25 courses and is administering sponsored projects worth $1.3 million. Our research and development activities focus on

- Environmental knowledge and attitude assessment, especially in developing countries
- Effective methods for dissemination of environmental information
- Curriculum development for formal and nonformal education
- Teacher enhancement; Global climate change education
- Marine and aquatic education

We are internationally known for leadership in the field: all our faculty have been Presidents in their professional societies and active in international cooperative efforts. The clearinghouse for environmental education research literature (ERIC/SMEAC) is at OSU, as is the headquarters of the Great Lakes education efforts of the International Joint Commission, the Secretary General's office for the International Society for Environmental Education, the home office for the Program for Leadership in Earth Systems Education. New thrusts link us with the Center for Mapping, Civil Engineering, and the Byrd Polar Research Center. Cooperative activities with Educational Studies and Biological Sciences have always been productive, and they continue to offer new opportunities.

To teach the technologies of environmental communication, to support the eager young graduate students who are determined to make their careers in environmental information and education, and even to enhance our own classroom materials and professional visibility, we continually pursue programmatic partners and support. We critically need additional faculty to respond to the growing demands for our courses and outreach expertise. With a PhD program we will be able to attract bright newcomers into the field and expand our potential for professional contributions. Theodore Roosevelt admonished us to "do what you can, with what you have, where you are." Our programs have stretched "what we have" to its maximum, and with great success, and we are now poised to grow with the challenges of increased environmental awareness. We expect that new state and federal legislation, along with cooperative programs through the College and University, will foster needed enhancement of programs, and we look forward to a period of expansion to take full advantage of this teachable moment in earth's history.

APPENDIX XXVII

55.4 ACRES IN SOUTHWEST FRANKLIN COUNTY

Adopted by the Board of Trustees, October 5, 1990
(See page 421)
Sale of Real Property

Background

55.4 Acres in Southwest Franklin County

Description and Location

The property consists of approximately 55.4 acres of undeveloped farmland in southwest Columbus. The property is south of Big Run Road and west of Gantz Road, about one-half mile north of Interstate 270.

Acquisition and Use

In December 1986, the University purchased approximately 98.4 acres (of which the 55.4 acres represents roughly the southern portion) from Kenyon College for a total purchase price of $300,000.00. Funds for the purchase came from the WOSU Stations through the Friends of WOSU. The University has used the northern portion of approximately 41 acres to provide the WOSU-AM night broadcasting antenna site. The southern portion of 55.4 acres is not needed by the WOSU Stations or for any other University purpose.

An appraisal by The Robert Weiler Company in August 1990, valued the entire 98.4 acre tract at $4,500.00 per acre, resulting in a value of approximately $249,300.00 for the 55.4 acres. Deltar, Inc., of Columbus, has offered to purchase the property for $325,000.00. The net proceeds from the sale would be used by the WOSU Stations to support WOSU-AM programming.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE

ONE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SEVENTH MEETING

OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Columbus, Ohio, November 2, 1990

The Board of Trustees met at its regular monthly meeting on Friday, November 2, 1990, at The Ohio State University Fawcett Center for Tomorrow, Columbus, Ohio, pursuant to adjournment.

** ** **

Minutes of the last meeting were approved.

** ** **
The Chairperson, Mrs. Bowser, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on November 2, 1990, at 11:20 a.m. She requested the Secretary to call the roll.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

It has been a busy and exciting month for the University, with a number of comings and goings, openings and celebrations. Let me just mention a few of the highlights if I may.

Coming to Ohio State this past month was Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy, whose appearance was sponsored by our own honor students. It filled the Weigel Auditorium to capacity.

Going were PCB's. It was announced that we completed the project to remove the PCB coolant, a toxic substance, from campus electrical systems before the federally mandated deadline.

Coming to campus was Marilyn Quayle for the celebration of the grand opening of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Center. She joined Dr. Robert Schweitzer, national president of the American Cancer Society, for this important occasion.

Also coming to our Columbus campus this month was Ohio State's recycling program. Did you know that this University produces over 7,000 cubic yards of waste paper per year! It might seem as if you receive that much at each of these meetings! Ohio State has been recycling paper and metals since 1965, and we are now implementing a pilot program in 12 buildings and a number of offices, including my own, to separate refuse and sort recyclables. This program complements the research we are doing on environmental issues, an area that deserves even more of our attention and effort. I really want to congratulate the students and the student leadership, as well as our own staff leadership in this regard. It is a remarkable program.

We had some other openings this month. Yesterday, we celebrated the opening of the Community Crime Patrol Office. It is a joint effort with the city and state to increase the observation and reporting of crime and promote crime prevention and personal safety efforts in the University area. I have seen the CCP in action, and it is an important part of our continuing effort toward campus safety.

Another opening about which we are excited is the dedication of the Wexner Arts Libraries. The University Fine Arts Library and the Cartoon, Graphic, and Photographic Art Research Library are up and running in the Wexner Center Complex.
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

PRESIDENT'S REPORT (contd)

President Gee: (contd)

And, of course, Chairperson Bowser and I had the pleasure of participating in the ground-breaking ceremony for the addition to The Ohio State University Law Building. This addition, to be completed in 1992, will enable us to expand the law library, which is particularly important to the future strengths of the College of Law. I would just note, that in the Lantern today, our College of Law continues to lead the State law schools in terms of bar passage, which I think is to their benefit and clearly shows the leadership that our Law School is undertaking.

This has also been a month for anniversaries:

--We kicked off the 25th anniversary celebration of Ohio State at Mansfield. Let me say that I have already visited Mansfield, Marion, Newark, and Wooster, and I am extremely impressed with the good work being done on Ohio State's extended campuses across the state. On its silver anniversary, Ohio State at Mansfield has a great deal to be proud of, including an absolutely gorgeous campus.

--Synchronized swimming celebrated its 50th anniversary last weekend. Of course, this has been a center of excellence at this University, with our students and alumni representing us as Olympians and international medal winners. Coach Mary Jo Ruggieri is clearly the leader in this sport.

--This weekend we are helping playwright Jerome Lawrence celebrate his 75th birthday. Of course, this award winning author is one of our graduates and has been instrumental in the development of Ohio State's Lawrence and Lee Theatre Research Institute.

Our faculty continue to pursue interesting and important research. It was announced that we received nearly $7 million from the United States Department of Education to establish the National Center for Science, Teaching, and Learning. This interdisciplinary center will place Ohio State at the forefront of science education -- an extraordinarily important academic initiative that will benefit all Ohioans and, in fact, our nation.

In the international arena, as part of our 1992 Columbian Quincentenary celebration, Ohio State has announced that we will head a team of American experts, working with Italy's Polygraphic Institute and Mint of the State, to translate Christopher Columbus's diary and other books concerning his life and times, making them available to American scholars. The volumes will include newly edited documents from Columbus's time and updated research on his life and work.

Recognition continues to come to the good people of this University in many forms. Ohio State was honored by the United Negro College Fund this month at their 46th annual dinner. In addition to the well-deserved recognition of former president Ed Jennings, the UNCF also honored the University for its partnerships with UNCF colleges, particularly in encouraging graduate and professional studies at Ohio State.
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

President Gee: (contd)

Ohio State also is proud to be participating in the University Consortium for Research and Development, a group of 14 Black institutions paired with 7 midwestern research universities. Our partners are North Carolina, A & T, and Hampton University. We will conduct joint projects with exchange students and faculty to strengthen the research base and research opportunities for all institutions involved.

And I am proud to share with you that an Ohio State student has received the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame Award, a $10,000 fellowship for graduate education. It was announced this week that Greg Frey, an English major and History minor from Cincinnati, and Ohio State’s second all-time leading passer, was among the eleven football players across the country to receive this honor. And I might note, again, that this is a remarkable recognition for Greg. The recipients are selected on academic performance, athletic ability, and leadership in the community. Since the inception of the award, thirteen Ohio State students have been winners. The rest of the Big Ten together can claim only 11 such awards. We can be proud of our student athletes.

Speaking of athletics, last weekend, we celebrated Homecoming. An extraordinary group of undergraduate students was chosen by a faculty and alumni interviewing committee for the homecoming court. The Homecoming King, Bryan Selby, is a senior in the College of Engineering from West Chester, Ohio. I first met Bryan as president of his fraternity, Kappa Sigma, when I visited the house, and he and I went out one Friday night to see the High Street scene. The Homecoming Queen, Diane Straub, is also a senior. She is from Akron, and will receive two degrees, one from the College of Agriculture in Nutrition, and the other an Arts and Sciences degree in microbiology. Diane is applying to medical school and, coincidentally, works in my office. They are outstanding young people--scholars and leaders--who represent us so well. They are, after all, the reason we are here.

As the pace begins to quicken around the University, I can assure you on this second day of November, that another productive and enjoyable month is ahead for our University.

REPORT ON AUTUMN QUARTER ENROLLMENT

Mr. Shkurti:

In your Board book there is a report entitled, “Highlights of Fourteenth Day Enrollment for the Autumn Quarter 1990” prepared by the University Registrar. You are also receiving a handout which is a summary of that same report. What we’ve tried to do is extract from that report those numbers and issues we feel are important for the Board of Trustees.
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

REPORT ON AUTUMN QUARTER ENROLLMENT (contd)

The four issues that I will be reviewing are as follows: 1) what is our current enrollment; 2) what is the composition of the student body beyond the overall number; 3) what progress has been made at increasing minority enrollment; and 4) what are the implications of these changes and these trends for the future. Each one of these questions is on a separate page. If you will turn to page I.A. of the summary, I will deal with the issue of Autumn 1990 Enrollment by campus.

The first and most important number is the total enrollment. The total enrollment this fall is 60,165, the highest total enrollment in the University's history. Secondly, the Columbus Campus enrollment is the highest since 1980. At the Lima Campus, the enrollment is up. But at the other three extended campuses, Newark, Marion, and Mansfield, enrollment is slightly down. And, finally, the Agricultural Technical Institute in Wooster continues to regain enrollment that it lost in the 1980's.

The next issue is the composition of enrollment on the Columbus Campus. The number of new first quarter freshmen is 6,072, and that is the lowest level since Autumn Quarter 1966. On the other hand, our retention of new first quarter freshmen from last year is at its highest level ever, 83.4 percent. So it shows that the policy the University embarked upon, which was increasing retention and getting more students to stay, has been successful so far.

Third, the number of continuing undergraduate students is the highest since that statistic was first recorded in Autumn Quarter 1974. Graduate enrollments have increased slightly, while professional enrollments remain steady. You'll notice the specific numbers that amplify those statements on the next page. Again, the number of new first quarter freshmen has declined for undergraduates, but transfers, returning, and continuing students has increased. That is the reason the total number of undergraduate students has gone up. The total number of graduate students has gone up as well, and the number of professional students has remained virtually the same.

The next issue is minority enrollment. This Autumn Quarter, minority enrollment of 5,102 on the Columbus Campus is at its highest level in the last 10 years. It is up 454, or 9.8 percent, from Autumn Quarter 1989. So the minorities now represent 9.43 percent of the student population on the Columbus Campus. Another number we are very proud of is the retention of black new first quarter freshmen. It has risen to 73.5 percent; 19.5 percent higher than in 1986, and the highest level in history. Again, it is a little lower than it is for white new first quarter freshmen, but the gap is closing steadily, and we are really happy with that figure.

Mr. Barone:

What constitutes a minority?

Mr. Shkurti:

Mr. Barone, that is on the next page under Autumn 1990 Columbus Campus Minority Enrollment.
Mr. Barone:

I see that. The reason I ask is that you have the American Indian listed as a minority. How are the categories selected?

Mr. Scott:

John, as you may recall many years ago, the Federal Government, more specifically the Department of Education, tried to come up with broad categories of individuals who would be classified as a minority for statistical purposes. What you see here represents categories as defined by the Department of Education for recording purposes.

Mr. Shkurti:

On page IV we have the Summary and Implications. First, I should summarize in response to the questions I laid out at the beginning. As I said, our current enrollments is 60,165. Now that is the number of students, not the full time equivalent. It is clear the University continues to attract students at virtually all levels. Secondly, the composition of the enrollment of the University is shifting. It is going from freshmen to upperclassmen, transfer students, and graduate students. Third, our minority enrollment and retention of minorities is increasing, although slowly.

We must look at the implications of this in terms of the amount of money we might expect from the State since our State subsidy, which is our single largest source of income, is based on the number of students we have. At this point in time, and I think these figures should hold up, it looks like the additional enrollment that we carried in this fall should translate to about $2 million more than we anticipated at the time the budget was passed in June. We will show it on the budget when we do the budget revisions in February, indicating the mid-year revisions. But I should also caution everyone that we are in somewhat of a dynamic situation economically and budget-wise in the State. What the State gives us with one hand, they can always take away with the other. But we will be monitoring that situation carefully, and will have a more refined estimate for you when we do the budget revisions at mid-year.

Again, these additional students do mean additional income. We are not exceeding the enrollment caps that the Board of Regents has put on Ohio State University, so we will suffer no enrollment penalties. So, in some ways we have the best of all worlds. And any finance person is nervous when things go that well, it usually means that something bad is due to happen sooner or later. But at this point, the $2 million dollars is a pretty good estimate and that will be additional income that we can apply to various University issues.

The second implication from this comes from the demographic trends that the country has gone through. If you take a look at the attached chart, it shows both a projection and an estimate prepared by the Ohio Department of Education, on the number of students that will eventually be graduating from Ohio high schools. You can see from a peak of nearly 152,000 in 1989, the State is expected to drop to about 122,000 high school seniors by 1994. And, of course, that is part of the pool this University draws from in terms of recruiting new first quarter freshmen. So, that not only Ohio State University, but all the other universities in the State and around the country will be recruiting intensely from what is a decreasing pool because these trends in Ohio are also in effect nationally.

I should also point out that although the numbers are expected to decline steadily through 1994, as the children of the "baby boom" generation start to grow up and move through the high schools, the number of high school graduates will begin to increase starting in 1995, on a fairly steady basis.

Mrs. Bowser:

That is a very dramatic curve, isn't it?

Mr. Shkurti:

Yes it is. And, again, it is important to realize that the curve has the bottom cut out from zero to 120, which tends to exaggerate in some ways the change, but it is still a very dramatic change. With any kind of projections one has to be suspect, but these are population projections. So, in other words, we know that students that are in 8th grade now, 4 years from now will be in 12th grade. So, as projections go, these are fairly good numbers.

The implications for this in terms of the composition of the student body, and I think we are already seeing it this fall, is that it will be more difficult to attract traditional new first quarter freshmen. But there are other sources of students for the University: 1) to improve retention of the students that are already here, and we have already seen some good progress on that level; 2) to take more transfer students, and, again, the number of transfer students is up this fall; and 3) more graduate and professional students. Another place to look, if a decision is made to keep a consistent enrollment growth, is at non-traditional students that are in the work force who might come back to the University.

That in turn leads to the fourth implication in terms of what these numbers mean for the size of the institution. Obviously, if the number of available new first quarter freshmen continue to decline the University is faced with a number of important decisions and these have to be approached very carefully.

One decision is what we do about recruitment of new students and retention of the students that are already here. Another is what we do about replacing perhaps a smaller number of new first quarter freshmen with more graduate students or transfer students. In turn, those decisions have implications for the amount of income or resources that the University has. They have implications for minority enrollments and for admissions and selective admissions. They have implications for student housing and a variety of areas. All of these implications -- and there are quite a few of them -- will be carefully reviewed over the next few months. And the President has already indicated to us on the staff that he wants a careful review of those implications -- and I have to stress a careful review. I should also add all of the political implications, in terms of the expectations of the State and the State Legislature about our enrollments as well. And we look forward to working with the Board on addressing these issues over the coming months, and doing that which makes the most sense for The Ohio State University.
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Shkurti: (contd)

Let me stop at this point and see if there are any questions. And because, by trade, I am a budget person, not an enrollment person, I have also asked Gene Schuster, the University Registrar, and Jim Mager, the Director of Admissions, to both be here today. So if there is a question I can't field, I will turn to them.

Mrs. Bowser:

Thank you, Bill.

Mr. Teaford:

Madam Chairperson, I just want to recheck one statistic. The numbers indicated four graduate students under the age of 14. I suspect that is not correct, but I would like to meet them if they are here.

Mr. Shkurti:

Madam Chairperson, if I may defend Mr. Schuster's report, which was done very carefully. Although we believe in a diverse campus, we do not have any graduate students that are 17 or under. As you know, because this is a big campus, we have to rely on computers to do a lot of our computations. As I understand it, when a birth date is not clear on the student record, the computer automatically kicks it into what would be called a default category. Out of the 60,000 students that we have, there were only 4 birth dates that we couldn't track down. I think that is an excellent record. It is my understanding that the registrar will be working diligently over the next quarter to nail down the exact birth dates of those four mystery students.

Mrs. Bowser:

Actually this was a test Joel was putting you up to. I'm not sure, but I think he knew the answer. Are there any other questions?

Ms. Casto:

As part of our first quarter freshmen enrollment, what were our projectile figures that we wanted to meet compared to what the actual figures were?

Mr. Mager:

When we started the admission process last fall, our target was 6,300. But, again, we ended up with a class of 6,072, so we came a little bit short on that.

Ms. Casto:

This also happened last year. Are we seeing a trend here?

REPORT ON AUTUMN QUARTER ENROLLMENT (contd)

Mr. Mager:

Definitely. Ohio State is certainly seeing a trend. We had a 12 percent decline in applications. We attribute much of that to the declining population in the State of Ohio and in the surrounding states. We also attribute some of that to self-selectivity that students in the lower parts of their class realized that they probably weren't going to be admissible or to succeed at Ohio State. We surveyed that very carefully and those were the two major trends that we saw.

Amb. Wolf:

I think also, Madam Chairperson, that the growth of the regional state schools such as Cleveland State in my area, would quite naturally take some of the potential freshmen enrollment from a school such as Ohio State University. And those regional state schools are growing.

Dr. Hutchinson:

Perhaps we should report to the Board that when we detected this this winter, we did put a group together to really go to work on this and Jim and several others served on that. We have, in fact, taken several steps already to recruit more effectively and be more aggressive out there, and we have invested some money in Jim's office in order to get that under way. So, we are already trying to respond to this increased competition.

Ms. Casto:

I know that this was one of our concerns when we implemented selective admissions -- to make sure that we were in fact projecting what will come to the University as far as first quarter freshmen.

President Gee:

I might note on the selective admissions side that the most heartening part of the report is the much higher retention of students. In the end, what we are about as a University is not bringing students in, but about educating students when they're here and making certain that students are leaving with an Ohio State degree. I think clearly that is the healthy part of the trend, and one that we really want to make certain continues.

I've been talking a lot lately about the fact that I believe there really is a developing new majority out there. Bill calls them the non-traditional student. But, I think, as we see what is happening educationally, the new majority of students are really going to be those that are either job bound, or place bound, or a variety of other constraints that are put on them, but now really want to further their education. And this University has to be more willing to be user-friendly in that regard. And I think that is part of the challenge that we are taking a look at. Isn't that right, Mr. Provost?
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

REPORT ON AUTUMN QUARTER ENROLLMENT (contd)

Dr. Hutchinson:

Right. Also, it seems that the increase in transfers is something that we anticipated with the selective admissions. We would see people coming from places like Columbus State --

President Gee:

That also plays into Ambassador Wolf's commentary, too, that we clearly have some very fine regional universities in this State. But as the student makes it into the second tier, the upper level, many of them are finding that programs at some of the regional institutions are not quite what they want or are unavailable. So many of those students are taking a look at Ohio State as a place where they will finish their degree. And many of our very, very specific and highly honed programs offer another opportunity for us. By the way, that is what this University is about. The opportunity that we have because of the rich resource that we provide in terms of our curriculum and the development of that to be able to enhance other institutions clearly is a positive trend in many ways.

Mrs. Bowser:

And our Graduate School, too, has increased. I believe it increased last year also.

President Gee:

We have about 40,000 undergraduates, and about 15,000 graduate students when you count the professional schools.

Dr. Hutchinson:

There has been a plan to increase the graduate enrollment.

Ms. Casto:

I think it has a real positive effect.

Mrs. Bowser:

Any more discussion?

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Ms. Casto:

The Research Foundation Grants and Contracts for the first quarter of the fiscal year are shown in the Board agenda. There are 411 awards listed which provide a gross income of $35 million. Funding for the quarter was 8.7 percent behind that of the first quarter of 1989. I would like to call on Dr. Sweeney to explain this decrease.
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT (contd)

Dr. Sweeney:

Thank you, Ms. Casto. After coming off a fairly good year of solid growth, we have moved into a first quarter of some decrease. We believe that most of that is due to the uncertainty on the part of our principal sponsor, the federal government, and that once the budget problem is behind us that we will see a return to levels that we expect. Although, you don't have it in front of you October was an extremely good month. At the next Board Meeting, when we report on October, it will show that we are 1 percent behind. So we have made up essentially all the lost ground in this last month. I am very hopeful that the rest of the year will be less exciting than the first quarter and we will see, again, some solid growth. Thank you, Ms. Casto

Ms. Casto:

Thank you. I would like to highlight two awards:

First, faculty members in the Department of Preventive Medicine, Family Medicine, and Lifespan Processes received a grant for $345,000 from the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute for the smoking cessation program for Southeast Asians.

The number of Asian/Pacific Islanders in the United States has a higher percentage increase than that of any other ethnic group. Approximately 60 percent of all these new Americans are economically disadvantaged. Many are enrolled in public assistance programs or suffer from unemployment. Compounding the problem posed by poverty are cultural, linguistics, and other barriers of health care. The most important preventable cause of death and perhaps the most serious chronic disease risk factor of South East Asian men is smoking. The program designated by this multidisciplinary OSU team trains Southeast Asians as peer counselors and offers ethnically specific smoking cessation intervention programs.

Also, Professor Richard Sayer in Biochemistry received a grant of $150,000 from the International Department of Cooperation Agency for a project on reduced cyanide toxicity in cassava.

Cassava, among all other major crop plants, is perhaps the crop most associated with farmers in tropical third-world countries. Cassava is regarded as an insurance crop which can be "counted on" to grow under difficult environmental conditions. In several regions of the world currently experiencing growing population pressures and environmental deterioration, cassava is the major source of calories. Dr. Sayre aims to genetically engineer cassava so that residual toxins may be removed during processing, but steady state levels are not reduced in living plants and thus may continue to protect the plant. The development of cassava varieties with reduced cyanide toxicity would be most beneficial to populations which subsist on cassava. In addition, given cassava's ability to grow and survive in drought conditions, cassava could help stabilize agricultural production in dry regions of the world.

And that concludes my report.

Mr. Teaford:

The Administrative/Operations, Executive, and Strategic Planning Committees of the Hospitals Board met on Thursday, October 18, 1990.

The major agenda item for the Administrative/Operations Committee involved review and approval of the University Hospitals' proposed 1990-91 Renovation, Construction, and Equipment Budget and the five-year capital plan. The Committee approved carrying forward with prior commitments and authorized an additional $7 million for current year capital commitments. The Committee agreed that with the limited resources and uncertainties about federal and local budgetary decisions, it is not prudent to go beyond $7 million for this fiscal year. However, the Committee is concerned that the OSU Hospitals' capital equipment and construction needs are being minimally met at this level of funding. The need for more financial support from legislative and philanthropic sources was also discussed.

The Administrative/Operations Committee also received a report on safety statistics; reviewed the status on Certificates of Need projects; and received information reports on the CHRI service contracts. As you know, many of the essential services in the Hospitals are being provided by the University Hospitals under a contract. University Hospitals' managed care strategy was also discussed, as well as the MedOhio operations.

In the Executive Committee meeting, the Committee endorsed the capital budget and five-year plan. Dr. Kramer informed the Committee that Dodd Hall received a very positive report and a full three-year accreditation as a result of the recent survey by the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities. When I met briefly with that group, it was clear that they are honored to be at what they consider the premier rehabilitation facility in the country.

The Executive Committee also discussed the unusually high census for September and early October and the resultant impact on operations and staffing. Through that point we had been averaging 600 patients per day, but had projected in the budget only 520 patients per day. It was noted that with the implementation of the Nursing Task Force recommendations and aggressive recruitment and retention strategies, University Hospitals enjoyed its greatest success in recruitment and the reduction of nursing turn over rates in the past six years. Perhaps the single greatest problem in the Hospitals today is that there are not enough nurses, but we have made real progress in that area.

The preliminary financial and statistical report indicated that September was a good month for the Hospitals. Patient activity was high -- admissions, Clinic visits, and Emergency Room visits were all above budget. Patient revenue for the first three months of the fiscal year was almost $10 million above budget. The Hospitals' cash position continues to improve with significant positive changes during September. The year-to-date net income is $200,000 over budget, which is unusual.
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

Mr. Walter McLarty, Administrator for Human Resources, described University Hospitals' new PACE program -- a criteria based employee appraisal system which allows evaluation of performance based on criteria and standards established jointly by supervisors and employees. Mr. Bruce Pontious updated the Committee on development activities and Ms. Nancy Grover discussed several recent newsworthy events including the Dodd Hall patient and staff reunion held October 7. Mr. Fraley's report included reference to the first annual Executive Director's Awards Dinner, where some 70 outstanding employees would be honored for their commitment to University Hospitals' patients.

Finally, at the Strategic Planning Committee meetings, Ms. Cathy Bruno presented a Market and Service Analysis to measure performance as compared with the 1990-91 strategic planning goals. Ms. Bruno's very thorough report was very helpful and easily understood. The report reaffirmed some strategic actions already taken and will be the basis for continuing budget decisions. I want so say that the report also highlighted how important strategic planning is and how much it makes a Trustee's job more meaningful. It makes it possible for Trustees to determine whether the organization is indeed accomplishing what it intends. It also becomes a very good forum for revising the goals of the institution in a logical fashion.

The report also emphasized the patient volume and financial strength of the Women and Infants, Cardiovascular, and Eye programs, and identified which areas of the State are sources for patient referrals. Also, we saw areas where our pricing is not keeping pace with the excellence of the care available, and I think there will be some changes in that regard. The Committee was informed of a marketing proposal aimed specifically at OSU alumni.

Madam Chairperson, that concludes my report.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

The Investments Committee met yesterday afternoon and, again, this morning. First with regard to the Endowment Portfolio, there has been an increase in the portfolio of $1.5 million since my report last month. This is due, in part, to the $4.2 million in additions to the fund and to the moderation of the stock market decline, but unfortunately not to the elimination of that. There have been nearly $10 million in additions to the Endowment Fund since June 30, and the percentage and equities in fixed income securities has now been adjusted. Due to the decline in the stock market, we now have 47 percent in equities and 27 percent in fixed income -- the battles being in real property and cash.

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

We, also, received a report on the development fund for this fiscal year through the end of September. The number of donors is up from 14,000 to 16,000 and the dollars are up 92 percent from last year to $12.4 million. This increase is largely due to estates and deferred gifts which came through in this period. One of those estates, I understand, is an expectancy we have had for some twenty years.

(See Appendix XXIX for a complete context of The Ohio State University Foundation and Development Fund Receipts, page 571.)

Yesterday, the Investment Review Committee met for five hours with the seven equity advisors of the Board, including the student managers. After the student managers presented their report we did permit them to stay and see the competition, a courtesy we do not afford the other investment managers. We are satisfied that all those equity managers are doing as well as possible considering the current equity market. As a result of those meetings, the Investments Committee is recommending to this Board some additions of cash to four of our investment advisors. We are recommending an increase of $5 million in the Lazard Fixed Income Index Fund; $2.5 million added to the Ginnie Mae Fund managed by the Treasurer's Office; $7.5 million to the Wells Fargo Standard and Poor Index Fund; and $5 million to Nicholas-Appelgate, the most successful of our equity managers over the past year. You'll note, in particular, that the bulk of that money is going into index funds which we think given the size of our endowment, makes a great deal of sense. You have in your agenda books a recommendation regarding the reappointment of the investment advisors. You'll notice that the initial balances have been increased by the amounts that I have just mentioned.

REAPPOINTMENT OF INVESTMENT ADVISORS (contd)

Upon motion of Mr. Teaford, seconded by Mr. Casto, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Teaford:

Finally, Madam Chairperson, we have received the preliminary NACUBO Report which is the report on the endowment performances of all the major universities in the country. We continue to be consistently near the median in terms of the production of our investments, which is the goal of this body. If we are near the median we feel we are being neither too risky nor too wimpish. We will have a full report on this next month. That completes my report, Madam Chairperson.

Mr. Kessler:

Joel, several years ago we brought in an outside group to evaluate our investment managers, as well as look at the recommended mix between cash, real estate, fixed, and equities. I wonder if there is any plan to look at that again, as the portfolio becomes larger?

Mr. Teaford:

I am glad that you raised that question, because one of the things we did by these increases in the capital, was to more nearly conform to that recommendation of last year. I think the recommendation was --

Mr. Nichols:

Sixty percent in equities, 25 percent in fixed income, and 15 percent in real estate.

Mr. Teaford:

So these additions more nearly conform to that.

Mr. Kessler:

I also think that we should continue to evaluate them, in terms of how they are performing versus their peer groups in the country and endowments. The one who has a good year this year may not be the one who is good next year. I think that is something that is prudent and something we should do as a Board.

Mr. Teaford:

And, indeed, their reports did demonstrate to us that they are all above average compared to their peers even though it is a down market.

Honorary Degrees

Background

Nyle C. Brady

Dr. Nyle C. Brady is an example of a remarkable individual with a rare combination of talents who has made outstanding contributions in soil science and agronomy as scientist, teacher, administrator, and a counselor. He has fostered cooperation in international agricultural research, in teaching, research and development.

Dr. Brady had a distinguished career spanning over a period of four decades. He served North Carolina State and Cornell Universities, University of the Philippines, International Rice Research Institute, USAID, and UNDP. Background (contd)

In 1965, Dr. Brady served as member of the Environmental Pollution Panel of the President's Science Advisory Committee. In 1966, he was a member of the World Food Supply Panel of the President's Science Advisory Committee. From 1968-1971, Dr. Brady was Chairman of the Agricultural Board, National Academy of Sciences. He was also a member of the Executive Committee, Division of Biology and Agriculture, National Academy of Sciences, and a member of the Panels on Environmental Quality and on Chemicals and Health of the President's Science Advisory Committee.

Dr. Brady was a consultant for USAID-sponsored Southeast Asian Ministers of Educational Secretariat Project on Agriculture, a member of the U.S. National Air Quality Criterion Advisory Committee, and Chairman of the USAID Central Research Advisory Committee. He served for two years as a member of the Board on Science and Technology of the National Academy of Sciences Foreign Secretary's Office.

Dr. Brady was instrumental in establishing the Indo-U.S. Science and Technology Initiative that promoted joint soils research between Indian and U.S. scientists. As head of the USAID-Science and Technology, he has been a strong supporter of the Title XII program.

Dr. Brady's book Nature and Properties of Soils is a textbook used throughout the world. He is editor-in-chief of the prestigious review journal Advances in Agronomy, in which many important science topics are reviewed and placed in scientific perspective. Advances in Agronomy is the standard reference journal in agriculture.

Dr. Brady has contributed greatly to soil science and agronomy through his support for soil science research and educational programs and through his lectures, writing, and editorial capacities. The influential posts he has held at IRRI, USAID, and several governmental panels, made him a person of influence in soil science around the world.

Without doubt, Dr. Brady is one of the world's eminent soil scientists and most deserving candidate for the award of the honorary doctorate degree from The Ohio State University.

D. Allen Bromley

D. Allen Bromley is Henry Ford II Professor of Physics at Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut. He received his B.Sc. with highest honors from the Faculty of Applied Science, Queen's University at Kingston, Ontario in 1948. His Ph.D. in nuclear physics was awarded in 1952 from the University of Rochester, Rochester, New York. For his outstanding research he has received nine honorary degrees from universities around the world. He is currently Assistant to the President for Science and Technology, Director of the White House Office of Science and Technology, and Chairman, President's Council of Science and Technology Advisors. He has been the recipient of Guggenheim, Humbolt and Benjamin Franklin fellowships and was awarded the National Medal of Science in 1988.

Honorary Degrees (contd)

D. Allen Bromley (contd)

As Science Advisor he acts to advise the President on matters of science and technology. It is not an understatement that his council can, and will, influence the course of basic and applied research as well as the development of the strong technological base that the United States must have to compete globally. He has already obtained universal approval after the first seven months in office. His broad interests and his skill as a communicator have brought coherence and visibility to science and technology at a level unheard of in Washington.

It is not surprising that Professor Bromley has outstanding letters of support from a wide range of experts in science and technology, as well as from a number of distinguished faculty and administrators here at Ohio State. Secretary of Energy James D. Watkins, Admiral, U.S. Navy (Retired) states that "His presence at the White House has made a difference, his clear thinking has proven to be a great asset to the fine President we both serve." Alexander Zucker, Director of Oak Ridge National Laboratory, says "in the world of physics Bromley has a unique position of a superb scientist, a talented teacher, and a servant of science in the finest sense of the word." Dr. Erich Vogt, Director of TRIUMF, Canada's premier accelerator facility, states that "Bromley has been, for more than three decades, one of the most outstanding scientists in the world of nuclear physics." Benno C. Schmidt, President of Yale University, points out of Bromley that "his laboratory at Yale has graduated more Ph.D.'s in experimental nuclear physics than any other institution in the world." Every reference speaks of Professor Bromley's outstanding career as a scientist. In short, Professor Bromley is a scholar of amazing breadth and depth, a public servant of integrity and wisdom, and is most deserving of an honorary degree from The Ohio State University.

Robert L. Metcalf

Dr. Robert L. Metcalf received his B.A. (1939) and M.A. (1940) degrees from the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana. He completed his Ph.D. degree at Cornell University in 1943. Dr. Metcalf has served as a teacher and scholar at the University of California at Riverside (1946-68) and the University of Illinois (1968-present) for more than 40 years. He is renowned for his research contributions to several fields including carbonate chemistry, insecticide physiology and toxicology, environmental fate of pesticides and plant/insect co-evolution. He is considered one of the pioneers of the discipline of environmental toxicology. His many research achievements and his prodigious output are documented in his 400 journal articles and books. Dr. Metcalf's impact on science has been publicly acknowledged through receipt of numerous awards in several fields including induction into the National Academy of Sciences at a relatively young age. But equally compelling is his influence on society. His insistence on making environmental compatibility an essential property of pesticides and his determination to institute a pesticide registration process that emphasizes safety as much as efficacy have been instrumental in reducing environmental damage caused by pesticides and assuring public safety.

In his 44 years in academia, Dr. Metcalf has given freely of his time and expertise. He has been the primary adviser to more than 70 graduate students who now hold positions around the world. He is revered by his students for his continuing generosity of spirit, his wealth of knowledge, and his capacity to continue to make fundamental scientific discoveries even as his peers drift towards retirement. He remains to this day as influential as he ever was; his students and colleagues continue to look to him to define the national research agenda in his areas of expertise.

RESOLUTION IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 91-59

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of a Resolution in Memoriam for Robert F. Daly, M.D.

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolution in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey a copy to the family of the deceased.

Robert F. Daly, M.D.

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 2, 1990, of Robert F. Daly, M.D., Professor Emeritus in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology.
RESOLUTION IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Robert F. Daly, M.D. (contd)

Dr. Daly was born on April 11, 1908, in Middletown, Indiana. He received the Bachelor or Arts degree in 1929 from Walbash College in Indiana, and taught science at Alexandria High School in Alexandria from 1930 to 1932. He earned his Doctor of Medicine degree in 1937 from The Ohio State University. His professional training included a one year internship in Medicine (1937-1938), an internship in assistant residency in Surgery (1938-1940), and he had his residency in Obstetrics and Gynecology (1940-41), all at The Ohio State University Hospital.

Dr. Daly entered the practice of Obstetrics and Gynecology in Columbus, Ohio, and continued his contribution to teaching at The Ohio State University College of Medicine as a clinical faculty (1942-1974), rising to the rank of clinical professor in 1965. He became an emeritus faculty member in 1974. He also served as director of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus (1945-1962). Dr. Daly served as president of the Columbus OB/GYN Society, and was active in many local, state, and national organizations in medicine. He was a founding fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Dr. Daly was a talented clinician and teacher who cared about his patients and students with compassion and rich sense of humor. He will be remembered for his four-decade contribution to The Ohio State University.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and his many friends and associates have sustained.

Upon motion of Mr. Kessler, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Paige:

This morning we heard a report on Recreation and Intramural Sports by Frederick Beekman, who I might add has served the University for over 43 years. He conveyed to the Board that the mission of the Department of University Recreation and Intramural Sports is to provide desired recreational sports programs and services for the purpose of enhancing students' knowledge, interests, and behaviors that promote healthy lifestyles, positive human relations, attitudes, behavior, and leadership skills. Also, the Recreation and Intramural Sports Program at Ohio State is the largest of its kind in the nation, with over 2.4 million facility participations last year. And when physical education and athletic facility participations are added to this total, it is nearly 4 million.
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Ms. Paige: (contd)

A recent OSU poll determined that 87 percent or 47,000 different students utilized some of the recreational facilities and programs during the year. In addition, the same OSU poll reported that over 70 percent of the faculty also utilized the facilities and programs. Approximately 60,000 to 70,000 people visited the Larkins Hall Recreational Facility on official University tours last year. Larkins Hall is a 360,000 square foot multi-purpose facility, housing 11 varsity athletic teams, and nearly all basic instruction Physical Education classes.

In addition to our facilities, Ohio State has the largest Intramural Sports program in the nation, with nearly 4,300 teams and 53,000 participants playing 13,500 contests annually. We have over 920 basketball teams; 700 flag football teams; and 690 volleyball teams. Last Spring Quarter, nearly 1 out of every 3 students played on an intramural softball team. So I think that illustrates the great job they are doing in that department.

After Mr. Beekman's report we heard reports from the student government leaders:

Ms. Benetta Burton:

Good morning. Sometimes the message that we intend to be heard is perceived differently. In Dr. Gee's speech, entitled Time and Change, he mentioned that Ohio State was a "sleeping giant" and to change constructively, a person or institution must not go gently into it. However, it seems that the "sleeping giant" is not ready to move ahead so quickly, human nature struts into the picture. Although we know as human beings that change is inevitable, we resist it. Sometimes people have to be convinced about the necessity of change. They want to know how the change will benefit them. For this purpose, more communication needs to take place.

Dr. Gee mentioned in his speech about the appropriateness of the quarter system for Ohio State, he expressed that perhaps it is time for the flagship to join the flotilla. The Council of Graduate Students wants to publicly thank Dr. Gee for calling for discussion on the academic calendar. The change in the academic calendar is a quality of life issue for graduate students. We believe that the change to an early semester system would contribute to a less stressful environment.

The Council of Graduate Students is pursuing another quality of life issue that we believe will also contribute to reducing stress in the lives of graduate students. The Graduate's Associate Committee is looking into the possibility of adding health benefits to the total stipend package. A number of schools around the country are paying the health care, in some fashion, for their graduate associates. We are cognizant that we have a relatively good health care plan here at Ohio State; however, we are concerned that some graduate students are forgoing purchasing Student Health Insurance. The cost may be prohibitive for various reasons. For example, it may be hard for a student with a family to purchase health insurance, if the family is trying to live off of the student's stipend. We are exploring the addition of such benefits with the graduate population and with other constituents in the University.

Ms. Burton: (contd)

The Council is concerned about increasing the amount of funds generated by the dollar checkoff for student government projects. We use these funds to sponsor social events and to co-sponsor activities of other recognized graduate student groups. Our funds from this source have dropped off dramatically. To increase funds, we have communicated this need to students by making them aware of the purpose of the funds through ads placed in the Lantern and in our own publication, The Graduate Voice. We also are pursuing changing the script in the Brutus Registration System. Currently you have to go through an option section to make the donation. The students should be asked directly, "Do you want to give a dollar to student government projects?" We will pursue this topic with the proper authorities.

The three student government presidents have met with the Student Trustees to discuss the Student Trustee position that will come available May 14. We will be getting together to discuss rules and so forth. Hopefully, another professional student will not be elected.

Mr. Shumate:

One of the issues last year was the participation of the students. We want to try to get a larger number of students interested in the trustee position. Are you working on those steps that were discussed last spring?

Ms. Burton:

We know one of the things we need is better advertising and allowing enough time for applying. One of the problems last year was that there was not enough time given for students to apply.

Ms. Paige:

Thank you. Next, we will have a report on the Undergraduate Student Government.

Mike --

Mr. Mike Clark:

Good morning. First of all, I would like to reiterate the importance of Mr. Beekman's remarks on the Recreation and Intramural Sports Program. I think it is excellent and a very important part of student life. I commend you all for what you are doing; I think it is just great.

I just have a few short things to discuss. You have heard me talk about it before -- and I will continue to talk about it -- Campus Safety. We are experiencing a 40 percent increase in the use of our USG Crime Watch Escort Service. We are investigating alternatives to meet the demands of the students and to help provide a safer environment at OSU. One way we can meet these demands is by the use of vans which provides a safer and more efficient means of escorts. If you know any one who might have some extra vans we could use, please let me know.
Mr. Teaford:

We were told this morning that is going to happen. That has been taken care of from what I understand.

Mr. Clark:

That is correct. We are looking for some people who are willing to donate -- maybe make a contribution, or something of that sort. As you are probably well aware, the CCP (Community Crime Patrol) had a press conference yesterday afternoon. We have established a good working relationship with them already, and some things that we are doing with them are training, self defense, radio operations, and CPR. We are trying to work in conjunction with them because we are all here for the same reason, and that is to make sure people are safe.

This leads me to the next topic I would like to discuss, and that is the Undergraduate Student Government President's Council. I believe all of you received letters inviting you to attend this on November 13, from 7:30-8:30 p.m. We think this would be an excellent opportunity for the Trustees to meet the students and to hear and discuss some of the concerns that the students have. Ms. Paige, Mr. Tonnies, and Mr. Teaford have already said that they would be able to attend. I was wondering if Mr. Shumate and Mr. Celeste would be able to attend as well? And maybe you could help communicate this to the other Trustees. I would like to try and encourage you to make that.

To reiterate on the Student Trustee search that was mentioned earlier, we are trying to provide undergraduate students with the same opportunity. As you are probably well aware, it is difficult for a sophomore to compete with someone who is in law school or medical school. So we are going to try and better educate them on the process, on the things they can do, and how they can better represent themselves to the committee itself.

Ms. Paige:

We were looking at the application itself -- we want to be sure the students are judged on standard qualifications, as opposed to being judged on how thick their resume is. That is something we are definitely concerned about. We have found that younger students are not making it as far in the process. We want to look at that and see how the process is discriminatory to the sophomore, junior, and senior; and how we can make it so more students can make it through the process.

Mr. Clark:

I guess at this time I will answer any questions that you may have.

Mr. Teaford:

Have you actually given any thought to making one of the Trustees an undergraduate and the other a graduate by only submitting that group of names to the Governor?

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Clark:

We have thought about that, but there would probably be some competition between Benetta and myself, because a graduate student has never been on the Board.

Mr. Teaford:

I do lump graduate and professional students together since they are all post-graduates.

Ms. Burton:

We are pleased with our representatives and we want all students to have the opportunity. We don't feel that we need to restrict the process.

Ms. Paige:

Thank you.

Ms. Casto:

We had two reports today. The first from Dr. Larry Phelan, in the Department of Entomology, who reported on the OARDC Insect Chemical Ecology Laboratory. Dr. Phelan explained that insect chemical ecology seeks to understand how insects utilize chemical cues in their struggle to survive, particularly in their need to locate food and mates. By understanding how insects use these natural behavior modifying chemicals, "semiochemicals," we are able to apply this information to help reduce pest populations. The potential in disrupting pest populations is an alternative to the present heavy dependence on pesticides. This is just another example of how we are trying to protect our environment and find a happy medium and balance to still produce quality food.

Dr. Harry Hoilink, in the Department of Plant Pathology, then reported on The Ohio State University's response to solid waste management. He noted that the United States has, for some time, been in a solid waste crisis -- landfiling is no longer an acceptable option. Ohio State has, for almost two decades, been performing basic applied research in waste management. Contributions through this research have been: the isolation and characterization of the first natural product fungicides and beneficial microorganisms in composts; use of compost as a food base for beneficial microorganisms; development of Federal guidelines for control of fecal parasites and pathogens through composting; and elucidation through basic principles for composting of solid waste.

Present research is aimed at improving the efficiency of composting systems, the biodegradation of Xenobiotics through composting and further substitution of pesticides with compost suppressive to disease. That completes my report.
AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mrs. Bowser:

Dr. Gee and I saw those very same experiments going on in the laboratories when we were in Wooster. It is a response of a natural kind, instead of using chemicals for everything.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Amb. Wolf:

Mr. Shkurti presented a first quarter budget report and no changes are proposed at this time in our budget.

(See Appendix XXX for The Ohio State University 1990-91 Current Funds Budget, 1st Quarter Report, page 573.)

The Fiscal Affairs Committee is recommending the following resolutions:

Mr. Nichols:

Several years ago a resolution on the Hospital Helicopter Consortium was approved by the Board and more recently that organization has undergone some restructuring. I would like to ask Reed Fraley to make a few comments to briefly bring you up to date on that restructuring.
November 2, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Reed Fraley:

As Mr. Nichols indicated, several years ago the Hospitals became part of the Hospital Consortium of Central Ohio which is responsible for governing and managing Sky Med, the helicopter medical transport program. Initially, there were four other hospitals from the community involved and over the initial 2 1/2 years (1986 to 1989) for various reasons, the other hospitals chose not to continue their involvement.

We have looked at that program from University Hospitals' perspective and felt that it is very crucial in terms of our trauma program and several other outreach activities. We have spent some time looking at how to restructure the organization so there could be continued participation. We are at the point that the restructuring has occurred, and we have been able to work with Children's Hospital so that they will become a member of the Consortium. Together we will manage the Sky Med Program, with the option for other hospitals to join the organization if possible. Since we have a leadership position in the organization of the Consortium and the restructuring of it, we thought that is was appropriate for Gerald Maier, who has the administrative responsibility of that area in the Hospitals, to sit on the governing board and cast the vote on behalf of the University Hospitals in issues of governance that relate to the direction of the Sky Med Program. So we are asking for Mr. Maier to be appointed as a member and soul voter from the University on behalf of the Hospitals.

Amb. Wolf:

What impact on the financial arrangements that the University has -- will this new arrangement --

Mr. Fraley:

This arrangement does not change the financial relationship to the organization at all. What it changes is the governance of the organization. We have had organizations terminate their relationship that have been responsible for the nature of it, but not factually the content of this structure. This structure does not change the functional nor financial relationship, it changes the governance. By Children's willingness to rejoin the organization it gives an opportunity for other hospitals to join the Consortium.

Mr. Barone:

I wish to announce that The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute has been examined by Medicare and fully approved. I am very happy to report that all patients and research in the Hospital will be taken care of by Medicare.

Mrs. Bowser:

I would like to call on Mr. Roy Nichols, Executive Director of the Christian Civil Liberties Union, has requested to address the Board.

Mr. Roy Nichols:

Thank you, Madam Chairperson. I was here last month with State Senator Gary Suhadolnik, and want to echo and add my support to the concerns he raised concerning the funding of the Gay and Lesbian Liaison Office here at the University. We understand that there is $64,000 in funds and at the meeting last month learned that it is partially from students' fees and partially from other revenue sources. In addition to taxpayers, there are also students who are concerned with the use of those monies for that purpose.

The concerns are that the office will not be utilized in a way that would encourage those who are caught up in a pathological or addictive behavior to find a recovery route from that. But rather, to condone and encourage people to believe that there is nothing abnormal about deviant behavior and that the problem is with the other guy. Our concern is, also, that the Civil Rights laws were never intended to protect behavior-based groups. We don't normally set up liaison offices to address other types of socially unacceptable behavior, especially not unless it is aimed toward recovery, such as for drug addicts.

We have had some correspondence on the issue. Last month at the meeting there were a couple of remarks made by the Provost, which I would like to address. They indicated that, in part, the University has made its decision based upon some false premises. He made the statement that 10 percent of the population falls into this category and was quoted in the paper as indicating that the estimate would be some 6,000 students.

First of all, that is based upon a frequently misquoted passage in the Kinsey Report of 1948; which indicated that 10 percent of the male population at some point in their life -- over a period of time, between the ages of 16 and 55 -- were a part of that lifestyle. From that, people in the Gay Rights Movement have tried to conclude that at any given point in time, there are 10 percent who are. Secondly, as much more recent research has shown, Dr. Kinsey's estimate was based on very false data because he used a disproportionate number of prisoners, ex-convicts and sex offenders as his population base. Thereby, getting very skewed results. More reliable research has indicated that the real numbers are closer to 1 1/2 percent for men and 1/2 of 1 percent for women at any given point in time.

The statement was also made in the meeting that society has come to accept that gays have rights. Well, if we are talking about the Constitutional rights that are common to all, I don't think that has ever been in dispute. But if we are talking about rights that belong to them as a group, then I think that is completely off base. Society has not recognized that. Every city and state that has had the opportunity for people to vote on that issue on the ballot has rejected it. Only two states have accepted it by Legislation, and one of those is in the process of repealing it.

I don't think that it is accurate -- in fact, the U.S. Supreme Court has indicated clearly that there is no Constitutional right to the practice of that particular lifestyle. That the laws of over half of the states prohibiting such activity are not unconstitutional laws. And, therefore, I think there certainly can be no inference that there is an entitlement of any sort to the benefits of public funds in a manner which will condone or encourage a lifestyle which is very injurious to those who participate in it, as well as injurious to the public health. Our concerns are that it sets a bad precedent to have a behavior-based group given recognition as though they were a minority that is covered and protected by the Civil Rights laws, when that is not, in fact, the case, and when it is very injurious to public policy and public health and even the interest of those participating in the lifestyle to suggest that this is so.

I also have with me a copy of an article which I would like to distribute to the members of the Board. It reviews a book which, in much greater detail, analyses much of the recent research that has been done debunking some of the false premises and conclusions of the Kinsey Report and indicates the false data on which even the government has based much of its policy. For example, in the fight against AIDS, the government has consistently overestimated the anticipated number of AIDS cases and has had to revise its estimate downward. One of the reasons for that is because they grossly overestimated the number of people in the population who were in the at-risk groups. Thank you, very much.

APPENDIX XXXIV

Degrees Conferred at

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
COMMENCEMENT CONVOCATION

December 7, 1990
Commencement Speaker

Stanley J. Aronoff
Doctor of Laws

As an energetic and committed public servant, Stanley J. Aronoff has devoted his considerable abilities to positioning Ohio as a leader in the areas of higher education, fine arts, and welfare reform.

A member of the Cincinnati law firm of Aronoff, Rosen & Stockdale, he has been a Republican state senator from the eighth district since 1967. Previously, he was a member of the Ohio House of Representatives from 1960 to 1966. Aronoff is currently president of the Ohio Senate.

A graduate of Harvard Law School, Aronoff focused his attention on higher education as a freshman representative and eventually became a leader in the movement for junior colleges, serving on the subcommittee that created the Community College Bill. He was also an active participant in the legislation that created the Ohio Board of Regents and the Ohio Student Loan Commission.

In 1965, Aronoff was instrumental in the establishment of the Ohio Arts Council. This council fosters a statewide cultural environment that attracts more business to the state. His experience and expertise in this field resulted in his being named the national chairman of the Arts, Tourism, and Cultural Resources Committee by the National Conference of State Legislatures in 1983. He has also served on the National Task Force for the Arts.

Aronoff has received numerous awards and recently received honorary degrees from the University of Cincinnati and Kent State University. Miami University awarded him its President’s Medal, the Ohio Museums’ Association named him “Museum Legislator of the Year,” the American Physical Therapy Association named him “Man of the Year,” and he received certificates of appreciation from the Ohio Farmers Union and the Sickle Cell Awareness Group of Greater Cincinnati, Inc. Columbus Monthly named him “one of the five best Ohio legislators” in 1988 and 1989. He received the Ohio Bar Association’s Distinguished Service Award in 1986.

His commitment to the ideal of accessible higher education for all Ohioans makes Stanley Aronoff a particularly appropriate speaker for this commencement ceremony. Ohio State is honored to welcome him.
Recipients of Honors

Richard Armitage
Distinguished Service Award

Richard Armitage's 35 years of service to Ohio State were distinguished by a high regard for scholarship, professionalism, and the value of personal communication.

Armitage received his bachelor's degree from Oberlin College and his master's and doctoral degrees from Ohio State, where he was designated a University Scholar in Romance Languages in 1940-41. He joined the Ohio State faculty in 1941 as an instructor in the Department of Romance Languages and rose to the rank of full professor, specializing in Spanish and Latin American studies. In 1955, he was named assistant dean of the College of the Arts and Sciences. In 1957, he assumed the duties of assistant dean of the Graduate School and became dean in 1963.

As dean, Armitage became deeply involved in the qualitative improvement of Ohio State's graduate programs, raising standards for both faculty and students. During his tenure, Armitage also brought Ohio State's University Press into prominence through his insistence on publishing selective scholarship in a high quality manner.

He served as the University's first ombudsman—a position that grew out of the campus turmoil of the late '60s and early '70s. The understanding he demonstrated in this position led to his appointment as Ohio State's vice president for student affairs in 1973.

Armitage is remembered not only for his sensitivity in dealing with the University community during troubled times, but also for his efforts to bring Ohio State's athletic programs up to higher academic standards.

In 1978, the Ohio State chapter of the American Association of University Professors honored Armitage with the first Nemzer Award, given each year to a member of the University community who has promoted and defended academic freedom.

Armitage took the position of vice chancellor for student services at the University of California at San Diego in 1978. By 1981, he became director of student academic services at the University of California at Los Angeles until his retirement.

At the time he left Ohio State, Armitage was hailed by President E beer for his "vital role in the life of the University." Today, Ohio State is pleased to recognize that role with its Distinguished Service Award.

Jack L. Beal
Distinguished Service Award

As a dedicated researcher, committed teacher, and loyal alumnus, Jack L. Beal has served Ohio State in an outstanding manner.

Beal joined the faculty of Ohio State's College of Pharmacy in 1952, after receiving his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Kansas and his Ph.D. from Ohio State. During his 34-year tenure at the University, he pioneered research on antihumor, antihypertensive, antibiotic, and other types of biologically active constituents from plants. His research brought him international recognition in the field of natural product chemistry, and from 1977–84, he served as editor of the Journal of Natural Products.

Thousands of undergraduate pharmacy students have benefited over the years from Beal's skills as an educator. Many of his former students occupy distinguished positions as researchers and teachers around the world.

In 1961, as a Fulbright Fellow, Beal was visiting scientist at the University of Baghdad, and in 1976 he was visiting professor at the University of Munich. That same year, he was awarded honorary membership in the Egyptian Pharmaceutical Society. Among his many other honors are The Ohio State University Centennial Service Award, The Ohio State University Distinguished Alumni Award, Outstanding Educator of America, Research Achievement Natural Products Chemistry, honorary membership in the American Society of Pharmacognosy, and the Distinguished Economic Botanist Award.

In the latter stages of his academic career, Beal assumed administrative responsibilities as the College of Pharmacy's associate dean for graduate and research studies, the position he held at his 1986 retirement. Throughout his long service to Ohio State and to the College of Pharmacy, Beal maintained a lively interest in the college's alumni. Through his initiative and commitment, he developed an energetic College of Pharmacy Alumni Association in which, as professor emeritus, he continues in an active role.

The Ohio State University proudly recognizes Jack L. Beal's enduring contributions to scholarship and alumni relations with the Distinguished Service Award.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE
ONE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-EIGHTH MEETING
OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Columbus, Ohio, December 6, 1990

The Board of Trustees met at its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, December 6, 1990, at The Ohio State University Fawcett Center for Tomorrow, Columbus, Ohio, pursuant to adjournment.

**          **          **

Minutes of the last meeting were approved.

December 6, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

The Chairperson, Mrs. Bowser, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on December 6, 1990, at 11:55 a.m. She requested the Secretary to call the roll.

Mrs. Bowser:

With us today is Steve Maurer, Secretary of Agriculture for the State of Ohio, who attends our Agricultural Affairs Committee meetings. He has agreed to stay over and would like to address the Board. Let me first say, Steve, that we have certainly appreciated your time and attention in attendance at our meetings.

Mr. Steven D. Maurer:

Madam Chairperson, that goes both ways. I have thoroughly enjoyed both the hospitality and the honor that the Board has given me to be an ex-officio member of the Board of Trustees' Agricultural Affairs Committee. This being my parting shot and my last opportunity to propagandize the Board, I did bring with me copies of the Ohio Agricultural Statistics and Ohio Department of Agriculture Annual Report for distribution.

As I was sitting here thinking of what I might say, I looked at the Seal of the University and noted that in the Seal the word "agriculture" lies directly above knowledge. Knowledge being the foundation of what we are about, I would like to remind the Board that agriculture is basic, just above knowledge, and to all else that we are about. Hopefully, we can keep that in mind. I am sure that my successor will be granted the same hospitality that I have been and hope that he or she takes it upon themselves to participate in their capacity as Director of Agriculture for this University.

Mrs. Bowser:

Thank you. You have been a true friend of agriculture. We certainly will miss you and we wish you well.

President Gee:

Thank you, Steve, for your long-term participation and for being with us today.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

Madam Chair, doing these monthly commentaries for you, and having done them several times, puts me in mind of Garrison Keillor's weekly radio monologues. Only he traditionally begins his essay with the line: "It has been a quiet week in Lake Wobegon, my hometown." Well, we have yet to have a quiet week here at Ohio State, but as I reminded an audience this fall, Ohio State has many things in common with Keillor's slice of midwestern life. This University is a bit like Ralph's
President Gee: (contd)

Pretty Good Grocery -- if we don't have it, you probably don't need it. What is it Keillor says? "All the women are strong, all the men are good looking, and all the children are above average." That sounds exactly like Ohio State to me!

Seriously, it has been a busy month since we last met. We have welcomed several distinguished visitors to our campuses. Gertrude Elion, a 1988 Nobel Prize winner in physiology and medicine for her work on chemotherapeutic drugs, spoke at The James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute. She also received the first honorary staff appointment to the Institute.

Jerome Lawrence, one of our most distinguished graduates, was welcomed back to campus. Mr. Lawrence graciously lent his presence to a dinner for the Lawrence and Lee Theatre Research Institute, one of the jewels in Ohio State's collections.

On the occasion of the first anniversary of the dedication of the Wexner Center for the Arts, Mikhail Baryshnikov and the White Oak Dance Project graced the stage of the Mershon Auditorium. Before the dance program, I was honored to participate in the meeting of the Wexner Center Foundation Board and the Wexner Center International Arts Advisory Council. Luminaries in the arts from literally around the world have volunteered their time and talent to assist this University in the enhancement of an outstanding arts program in the College of The Arts and in the Wexner Center.

Thanks to the continued generosity of Trustee Les Wexner, The Ohio State University has announced the creation of the Wexner Prize, an annual award of $25,000, recognizing an established professional's continuing contributions to the advancement of creative freedom, innovation, and risk-taking in the arts.

We also have announced the Wexner Center Residency Awards, designed to bring outstanding artists to the University to create or complete new works and explore new directions with our faculty and students. These awards and other creative initiatives in the College of The Arts, will enrich the life of this University and enhance the educational experience for our students, faculty, and staff alike. It is this kind of environment that will enable us to attract Ohio's brightest scholars. We hosted a reception for National Merit finalists and their families this month, and our admissions counselors have been busy across the state meeting prospective students.

I visited over a half a dozen high schools this month, and the questions I was asked by students were quite interesting. One young man asked if standardized tests such as the ACT and SAT are overemphasized. Another asked about choosing a major, and always I am asked about financial aid. One question this Board might have been interested in hearing the answer to was asked by a young lady when she inquired: "Just what does a university president do all day?" Another asked what my salary was.

With my visit to the Lima campus, I completed my first tour of our extended facilities across the state. I can assure you that our colleagues in these settings are doing a great deal to advance our mission of teaching, research, and service.
And what is going on today, literally as we speak? Ohio State is hosting the first international zebra mussel research conference, with presenters and participants from around the world looking at this serious problem. Most students are packing up and heading home for the holiday season. An unlucky few are probably sitting in a classroom at this very moment taking that last final exam.

Seniors are getting in a last round of visits with their friends before graduation tomorrow. State Senator Stan Aronoff will be our speaker, and Dick Armitage and Jack Beal will receive Distinguished Service Awards at the ceremony.

For faculty and staff, this next month provides an opportunity to work on research, write, "push some paper," and prepare for Winter Quarter. I created a bit of work for myself -- and others -- with the November issue of my monthly "President's Letter" to all faculty and staff members. You might remember that I called for a reduction in bureaucracy and a more humane and efficient organization in my fall address to the Senate.

Toward that end, this month I asked faculty and staff members to write to me with their suggestions -- and they certainly have!

One faculty member began a lengthy letter with this suggestion:

"Develop a bureaucratic ten commandments.

The first one should be: Thou shalt not say "no" to new projects, ideas, and so forth. The second should be: Thou shalt not let a form sit on thy desk for more than 24 hours."

This person clearly has the right idea. I have received many good suggestions on everything from purchasing procedures to the mail, from travel forms to, yes, even parking. The people out there know what needs to be done!

This is reflected in a so-called "research report" that I received from one faculty member titled: New Element Discovered at The Ohio State University. And as my final comment, just allow me to read it to you if I may. And I quote:

"The heaviest element known to science was recently discovered by physicists at The Ohio State University. The element, tentatively named ADMINISTRATIUM, has no protons or electrons and thus has an atomic number of zero. However, it does have 1 neutron, 126 assistant neutrons, 75 vice neutrons, and 11 assistant vice neutrons. These 213 particles are held together in a nucleus by a force that involves the continuous exchange of particles called morons.

"Since it has no electrons, ADMINISTRATIUM is inert. However, it can be detected chemically as it impedes every reaction it comes in contact with. According to the discoverers, a minute amount of ADMINISTRATIUM caused one reaction to take over four days to complete, when it would normally occur in less than one second. ADMINISTRATIUM, if it is allowed to accumulate, can easily destroy productive reactions."

PRESIDENT'S REPORT (contd)

President Gee: (contd)

Well, I hope that the future results of our efforts to deal with "ADMINISTRATIUM" and bureaucracy will be more promising than that.

And, finally, Madam Chair, I take this opportunity to wish you, members of the Board, and members of this University family a happy holiday season.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Ms. Casto:

The Board of Directors of The Ohio State University Research Foundation met yesterday. The Board was pleased to welcome President Gee to his first OSURF meeting. Dr. Gee briefly commented on his perceptions of the capacity for research at The Ohio State University. He also acknowledged the dedication and sensitivity of OSURF staff to faculty research needs while challenging the organization to continue to evaluate ways that can best assist research programs to grow and prosper in these strained financial times.

The Board received an update on the status of OSURF's move to new quarters. A new computer has been delivered to the building and office systems furniture is currently being installed. The move is scheduled to be completed by mid-February with specific units planning their moves to minimize interference with proposal submissions and project services during the period.

The Board received descriptive reports from two units within OSURF, the Purchasing Department and Editorial and Printing Services. The Purchasing area assists faculty researchers in obtaining specialized equipment, research materials, and supplies needed to carry out their research projects. The Purchasing Department at OSURF exists in an environment that recognizes both the faculty desire for timely and efficient service and the regulatory requirements mandated by the federal sponsoring agencies.

The Research Foundation grants and contracts for the first four months of fiscal year 1990 are shown in the Board agenda book. There are 532 awards listed which provide a gross income of $47 million. Funding for this quarter is approximately 1 percent below that of the first four months of 1989.

Among the grants and contracts submitted to the Board of Trustees for October are:

-- $187,000 from the Department of Health and Human Services for a study on farm family health and other farm hazards. Some hazards of farming include the operation of heavy machinery, exposure to pesticides and similar chemicals, and contact with animals and animal wastes.

The investigators will study the health and safety of Ohio farm operators and family members, specifically those participating in cash grain farming, which is one of the most important agricultural activities in the State. The project will emphasize agricultural trauma, pesticide exposure, and occupational stress disorders.
December 6, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT (contd)

Ms. Casto: (contd)

-- $125,000 from Apple Computer, Inc., for the development of a classroom of tomorrow. The classroom is a unique computer environment where students have access to "state of the art" computer hardware and software. These classrooms and the research conducted there have become well-known among researchers interested in the potential of computer environments for learning.

This recent award will support faculty work in the form of a research center that will provide a unique opportunity to examine multiple dimensions of a computer classroom, monitoring students from elementary through high school.

That concludes my report, Madam Chair.

HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

Other than the joint meeting with this Board last night, the Hospitals Board has not met since our last meeting. Since we were virtually all there, I will give you no report on that.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

The Investments Committee met this morning and reviewed the status of the Endowment Portfolio as presented by Mr. Rodack. As of November 16, the market value of the University Endowment is $303.4 million, which is up $7.3 million since last month I am happy to report. And $5.4 million of that is indeed a recovery in the stock market. An interesting thing to note at this point is that the addition to the endowment so far this year is $11.7 million, which is about $1 million above last year, which was a record year.

We also received the Quarterly Cash and Investments Report as of September 30. The total cash and investments of the University had declined from $667 million to $620 million. The major reason for the decline from June to September was the decline in the stock market in that period. Some minor reasons were just simply seasonality. Some of those funds are lower at certain times of the year, and the spending of certain borrowed funds.

We also had a brief report on development. As of the end November, contributions to the University were at $19.1 million, up 60 percent over last year. And $5.6 million of that is pledges from the campaign just ended, but all of the rest of it is indeed new money. Also, the number of donors is up 23 percent and the number of donors exceeds 29,000. And that completes my report, Madam Chairperson.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Kessler:

The Academic Affairs Committee met this morning and the recommendation to appoint Victor J. Mora as Director of Minority Graduate Students Development and Hispanic Affairs, was discussed extensively in our Committee meeting. Catita Williams and Arturo Presas appeared before the Committee and raised questions regarding Mr. Mora's qualifications for the position and some aspects of the search process. Information presented established that the search process followed all regular University procedures for administrative appointments.

Mr. Mora was in a top group of candidates based on the search committee's recommendation to Vice Provost Russell. In addition, the six candidates interviewed on campus met with other faculty, staff, students, and community leaders. For each of the candidates interviewed, at least a dozen letters of assessment were received by Dr. Russell supplementing the recommendations of the search committee.

On the basis of all the information received, Dr. Russell selected Mr. Mora for the appointment. A majority of the Academic Affairs Committee voted to recommend approval of Mr. Mora's appointment.

We are also recommending the following resolutions:

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 91-67

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of Resolutions in Memoriam for Ruth M. Beard, John Gersten, Milton W. Overholt, and Gilbert W. Woodburn.
RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey a copy to the families of the deceased.

Ruth Mildred Beard

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 15, 1990, of Ruth M. Beard, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Family Resource Management.

Ms. Beard was born in Columbus, Ohio, on September 20, 1909. She received her B.S. in Home Economics Education in 1931 from The Ohio State University, and her M.S. in Home Management and Household Equipment in 1933 also from The Ohio State University.

Ms. Beard was associated with the University as a Graduate Assistant beginning in 1931 in the Household Equipment Division with the School of Home Economics. She subsequently held an Instructor position in the Household Equipment Division, and then Assistant Professor, Household Management Specialist with the Ohio Agricultural Extension Service from 1941 to 1946. Ms. Beard was an Assistant Professor from 1946 to 1955, when she was promoted to Associate Professor. Ms. Beard also served as Acting Chairperson of the Household Equipment Division from 1954 to 1955, and chairperson from 1955 to 1959. She again served as Acting Chairperson from 1960 to 1962.

Ms. Beard was considered one of the best teachers by both undergraduate and graduate students. She was chosen "Professor of the Year" by students in the School of Home Economics, Spring 1954. She was an honorary member of Omicron Nu, 1949, a national home economic honorary and in 1960 and honorary member of Phi Upsilon Omicron. In 1968 Ms. Beard was chosen an honorary member of Chimes, a Jr. Women's Honorary, and she was also a member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority.

Dr. Dorothy D. Scott, former director of the School of Home Economics stated in regards to Ms. Beard, "A dedicated teacher who has devoted her entire professional life to Ohio State University -- very resourceful and imaginative. Devoted to extension and adult education and contributes much in these areas." The College of Human Ecology pays tribute to Ms. Beard's many contributions to teaching and the College and University.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Beard its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and her many friends and associates have sustained.

John Gersten

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 25, 1990, of John Gersten, M.D., Associate Professor Emeritus in the Department of Cell Biology, Neurobiology and Anatomy in the College of Medicine.

John Gersten (contd)

Dr. John Gersten, a native of New York City, was born on June 25, 1904 and reared in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He graduated in 1926 from the University of Pennsylvania with an A.B., but could not continue on to medical school because of lack of funds. Determined to continue his education, he enrolled in the graduate school at The Ohio State University: after one quarter he was hired by Dr. Landacre, the chairman of the Department of Anatomy, College of Medicine, to assist in the teaching of human anatomy. This was the beginning of a lasting love John had for teaching. This job enabled him to enroll in the College of Medicine at The Ohio State University in 1929. In order to help pay his way through medical school, he continued to teach human anatomy, preparation of which required him to take summer courses at the University of Michigan. He graduated in December 1933 with an M.D. from The Ohio State University's College of Medicine.

Dr. Gersten served his internship in California at Stanford and at San Francisco County Hospitals. Upon completion of his Internship, he moved to Toledo, Ohio. From 1935-1949, Dr. Gersten had one of the largest general practices in Toledo. His love of teaching, however, pulled him back to Ohio State where he taught human anatomy, once again, in the College of Medicine. He was made an assistant professor in 1950.

His boundless energy called him into a residency which he completed in 1955 and he obtained board certification in otolaryngology. In 1961 he was promoted to associate professor. He retired in 1965 as associate professor emeritus.

In May 1962, Dr. Gersten went to Vienna, Austria, to study surgical procedures on the middle ear and while there was given the honorary position of vice president of the American Medical Society of Vienna. Besides a life membership in this organization, he also held memberships in the Academy of Medicine; the Ohio Medical Historical Society; Sigma Xi; the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology; charter member of the American Committee of World Medical Association and Fellow of the Board of Otolaryngology.

He also did research at The Ohio State University and published articles on human anatomy, autoradiography and cancer of the mastoid bone.

Dr. Gersten was loved by his students for his fine teaching, his clever witticisms and his desire to be a good friend of the medical students. His lectures were erudite and lucid. He held that the good student needs little help, but he was ready to help the confused or the slow student. He was a longtime Columbus Physician who was beloved by his patients.

It is always difficult to put down the sum of a man's life in a few words and especially difficult to summarize the life and achievements of John Gersten, as a man, as an anatomist, as a physician and as a friend. He had the great fortune to, live a rich, productive life that matched the sparkle of his personality and the individuality of his character.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. Gersten its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and his many friends and associates have sustained.
RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Milton W. Overholt

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 14, 1990, of Milton W. Overholt, Associate Dean of Men Emeritus in the Office of Student Affairs.

Milton Overholt was born December 29, 1917, in Lafayette, Ohio. He graduated from Medina High School, Medina, Ohio, in 1936, and was awarded his B.S. in Education from The Ohio State University in 1941. As an undergraduate, he was elected to the honor societies Kappa Phi Kappa (where he served as vice president), Phi Eta Sigma, and Alpha Phi Omega. Also as a student leader, he served on the College of Education Council and was president of the Men's Physical Education Association.

Mr. Overholt entered the U.S. Navy in September 1941 as Chief Petty Officer and was honorably discharged as a Lieutenant in 1945. From 1943 to 1945, he was the Officer-in-Charge of the Registered Publications Issuing Office, 14th Naval District, Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. He was entitled to wear the American Defense, Pacific Theater, and Victory Decorations.

He returned to the University in 1946 as a graduate assistant and as Director of the Naval Station Dormitory, and was named manager of the River Road housing for veterans. He also served in the Dean of Men's Office with the huge responsibility of providing housing for the thousands of military veterans who enrolled as students. He was named Assistant Dean of Men and Supervisor of Men's Residence Halls in 1954, and was promoted to Associate Dean in 1961. With the creation of the Dean of Students Office in 1969, his responsibilities were broadened to include the administration of all residence halls. Upon his retirement on June 30, 1977, he was named Associate Dean of Men Emeritus in the Division of Student Affairs.

Milton Overholt was a member of the Association of College and University Housing Officers (where he served as chairman of the Nominations and Resolutions Committees), The National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, Big Ten Housing Officers, and the Ohio Association of College Housing Officers. Included among his University committee assignments were the Council on Student Affairs, Scholarship Committee, Employee Relations and Negotiating Committee, Council on Student Housing, the Ohio Union Board, The Ohio State University Student Loan Foundation, Inc., The Ohio State University Golf Course's Greens Committee, and the Faculty Club House Committee in 1968 and 1974.

Mr. Overholt earned the respect and admiration of students, colleagues, and friends and will be remembered for his tireless efforts and professional leadership to enhance the quality of life in The Ohio State University community.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to the family of Milton W. Overholt. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Paige:

This morning Dr. James Mager, Director of Admissions made a presentation to the Student Affairs Committee regarding University Undergraduate Student Recruitment. This has become a highly visible topic within the past year because of the declining numbers of high school graduates from most states including Ohio. Leaders within the University community have been working towards the goal of attracting the best qualified students who will have the highest potential for success.

Dr. Mager indicated that the focus of recruitment has been on those students that The Ohio State University can best serve -- namely students who have taken the college preparatory curriculum and who have performed well in that curriculum. Special efforts have also been implemented to attract high ability, minority, and students with special talents in such areas as music, the arts and leadership.
Recruitment efforts are decentralized with several university offices and departments participating. Some of the major offices include: the Admissions Office, the Office of Minority Affairs, the University Honors Office, the Office of Student Financial Aid, college offices, and the Alumni Association. Recruitment initiatives include: high school visits, direct mail, visitations on campus, telephone campaigns, alumni participation, the admissions video, and publications.

These efforts have been successful in attracting academically prepared freshman classes which include increasing numbers of minority students and otherwise talented students. And I am pleased to say that some of us got copies of the new official Ohio State University video.

Next we heard reports from the student government leaders:

Mr. Mike Clark:

We are addressing the issue of the search for the next student trustee. I believe that in the past, this has been the time for the three governing presidents to bring their recommendations forward and let you know the progress. We feel that to have a better search and a better method of finding more qualified students for this position, we need to extend the deadline for applications to a later date. The three student governments (Undergraduate Student Government, Council of Graduate Students, and Interprofessional Council) are working together on the nomination process for a new student member to the Board of Trustees. We certainly appreciate the opportunity to have student advocates on the Board and believe that the three students who have served us thus far have contributed to a greater understanding and awareness of student issues.

We have already made applications available to students and also to faculty so they can distribute them to students. We will try to follow an application deadline of January 25, 1991; a Screening Committee deadline of February 11, 1991; and have the final Interviewing Committee deadline March 4, 1991. Although this time line may not be in keeping with previous years, we believe that this schedule will allow sufficient time for more qualified students to apply.

We have a brief list of what we feel this may cost. We would like the Board, if possible, to support us in the process of finding students. We feel that we definitely need to advertise more than what has been done in the past. I don't know exactly all of the details from the past years, but we need to increase advertising to attract more qualified students for the position.

Mr. Teaford:

Do you have the money, Russ?

Dr. Spillman:

The Board did provide funds last year with the help of Mr. Scott.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford:

Scottie said last year that the Board did provide the funds afforded.

Mr. Clark:

We are asking for this Committee to bring the issue to the entire Board when you have your meeting today.

Mr. Tonnies:

How much money was given last year?

Dr. Spillman:

I don't remember off the top of my head. You may recall, those of you who were on the Board last year, that we had the earlier deadline. That original deadline, from my perception, was established when the Legislation first came out and the Governor wanted the names by December 15. That makes it very difficult for students on the quarter system. By the time they are settled in, December is upon us. Last year we had to go beyond that deadline. The Board was concerned about the number of candidates and asked that the students go back and do some additional advertising and get additional candidates, which they did. At that time, I believe, Mr. Scott assisted them. I support this extension because I really don't think trying to have the names by December 15 gives us enough time to advertise and get people involved.

Mr. Shumate:

Mike, as you know, we have been very supportive of this effort. Just out of curiosity though, it says $300 for copies of applications, what does that --

Mr. Clark:

These are actual copies of the applications -- three pages each. We try to distribute those to the different colleges, professional students, graduate students, and undergraduate students. We also try and make copies available at each college office. We distribute them to faculty members so they can take them to students that they know; to different student organizations; fraternities, sororities, and honoraries.

Mr. Shumate:

The Lantern won't give you a discount?

Mr. Clark:

No.

Ms. Burton:

They told us that the $214.00 price was the discount. That was $4.00 less.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford:

I hope that in some part of this program we will work on this. I take a lot of grief, because there are no undergraduate trustees. I point out that the Trustees don't have anything to do with that, but a lot of people seem to think that we, non-student trustees, somehow do. So I hope that you will work on addressing that problem.

Ms. Burton:

We thought we would go back to our constituencies and discuss this process. We are concerned about the perception that students have equal rights to the position, and if the perception out there is that they don't have the opportunity, we need to go back and change the process. I think we could change it between our groups and maybe decide only to present certain applications to the Governor.

Dr. Spillman:

We need to say that if they make any changes in the process, it must come back to the Board for review and approval.

Ms. Paige:

I think my main concern is that if you would decide to present an undergraduate student that it be clearly stated this year, so there would not be any misinterpretation. I think that if a student applies, they have every right to that position. If you want to give it to an undergraduate, you have to clearly state that in the application because you would be wasting a lot of applicants' time otherwise. But if you go ahead and say that these applications are open to any student, then that is how you need to proceed.

Ms. Burton:

And it is our intention to proceed in that manner this year. We are going to wait and see what the Governor does and the perception among our constituencies, as to how they feel about the process, before we think about changing it.

Ms. Paige:

Has there been any discussion about restricting the position?

Dr. Spillman:

A year ago the three student governments discussed the possibility of alternating -- one year submitting an undergraduate slate and the next year submitting a graduate/professional slate, but they never came to an agreement. They never came forth with a proposal to the Board. I think that it is also fair to say that the guidelines indicate that the student government must submit five names to the Governor and the Governor makes the final choice. I believe that on both slates there were undergraduates, but in the minority.
December 6, 1990 meeting, Board of Trustees

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Evans:

We were confident with all of the selections going to the Governor, as were the undergraduates.

Ms. Paige:

I am not sure about your budget, but I think that Mr. Sloan asked for a particular amount that would be designated for the search process.

Mr. Clark:

I am not sure what Steve has done. We had an agreement -- the three of us -- to equally share the burden three ways. I don't know when he did his report to the Council of Student Affairs or what that constituted.

Dr. Spillman:

And I don't know whether that was approved or not. I could look it up.

Ms. Paige:

I know that Steve submitted it in his budget, and I thought that he did get money for that.

Dr. Spillman:

Let me check that. I don't think you need to take any action unless you are uncomfortable with the time line being extended.

Mr. Teaford:

No problem.

Ms. Burton:

As you know, the Council of Graduate Students has been discussing the quarter versus semester issue since January 1990, and an ad-hoc committee was formed by our former CGS President Luke Evans. They have researched the issue and conducted a poll and brought forth a resolution to the Council. On October 30, the Council approved this resolution, I would like to share this resolution now and then add a formal request that the Chair shared with the entire Board:

WHEREAS over 70 percent of U.S. colleges and universities operate on some form of semester calendar; and

WHEREAS of those universities on a semester calendar, 80 percent are on an early semester calendar; and

WHEREAS a recent poll by the Council of Graduate Students indicated that two-thirds of the graduate students who responded preferred a semester calendar; and
WHEREAS the opportunity for higher quality education and scholarship can be enhanced under a semester calendar by providing more opportunities for in-depth pursuit of academic studies; and

WHEREAS a semester calendar could better attract graduate students from outside the university, both domestic and international, by facilitating credit transfer, joint research efforts, and student exchange; and

WHEREAS expanded use of facilities, a primary reason for adopting the quarter calendar in 1922, is equally met by an early semester calendar; and

WHEREAS savings would be realized by changing to a semester calendar, in that the administrative cost for a semester calendar is lower than that of a quarter calendar due to one less registration period; and

WHEREAS the current curriculum reform seeks to improve the technical, social, and critical thinking skills of its students, an early semester calendar provides a structure that better promotes these goals and the University's stated goal "... to enhance the quality of human life through developing the individual capacity for enlightened understanding, thinking, and acting"; therefore

Let it be resolved that the Council of Graduate Students supports changing the academic calendar from a quarter to an early semester calendar, and that the Council authorizes the President of the Council to direct the ad hoc Quarter Re-Evaluation Committee to speak on behalf of the Council before University officials and the constituencies of the University, and

Let it also be resolved that the Council of Graduate Students thanks President Gee for encouraging discussion of calendar reform and that the Council supports the formation of a University-wide Committee, which would include graduate student representation, and

Let it further be resolved that the Council recognizes the complexity involved in changing the academic calendar and urges a major effort and commitment to a spirit of cooperation by the constituencies of the University.

To conclude, the Council firmly believes that the change in the academic calendar to the early semester calendar would afford us the opportunity to change the sleeping giant from very good into an outstanding institution in terms of promoting more in-depth academic learning, reducing the complexity and cost of this bureaucratic structure. It would also allow for the development of stronger social relations through longer terms, thus enhancing the quality of life not only for graduate students, but for all students, faculty, staff and administrators. We believe that a change to the early semester calendar would compute to a less stressful and more positive environment for all. This Council desires through the Board of Trustees to support discussion of this issue and we would hope that you would honor our request.

President Gee:

I might note that Dr. Hutchinson, in conjunction with the steering committee of the University Senate, has formed or is in the process of forming a committee to look at this issue, at the request that I put forth some time back. I'm enthusiastically committed to discussing it and in fact I have my own views which are very similar to yours. I might just note one thing, Benetta, that one needs only to serve a very short period of time as President of this University to understand that if there is anything sleeping about this giant, I would sure like to know what it is.

(See Appendix XXXVII for complete context of the Procedures and Criteria for Nominating Students to Serve on The Ohio State University Board of Trustees, page 691.)

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Casto:

Dr. Jourdan described novel materials that can be used for science instruction at all levels of learning (from kindergarten to graduate school). These materials consist of a group of plants, the Rapid Cycling Brassicas, that because they have a very short life cycle, facilitate the use of a live organism for demonstration of various biological concepts. A result of these activities, it is likely to be a more effective way to learn science and perhaps more students will consider science as a career.

I thought it was very interesting. They took things that were very practical -- anyone could find around the house. It is something that anyone in the elementary schools could do and they were even doing genetic studies on it in graduate school. Within a thirty-day cycle -- or close to a five week cycle -- it has full growth and has gone through its complete life cycle. It is certainly an alternative method and it is also increases the appreciation that people can have for plants.

Mr. Shkurti:

As you may have read in the past, the State has a budget problem projected for this current fiscal year ending June 30, of approximately $260 million and the Governor has sent a proposal to the Legislature for dealing with this problem. Traditionally, the way the Legislature deals with a budget problem is by cutting appropriations to those who receive state money. Complicating the fact this time around is that the State does have a significant rainy day fund, so we don't know quite what the Legislature is going to do. The problem here at Ohio State, where we receive approximately $300 million in State funds yearly, is if we wait too long and the cut comes later in the year, we only will have a couple of months to make it up and that becomes very difficult. On the other hand, we don't want to over react to this problem and inflict a lot of pain unnecessarily. So, as an initial measure a memo is going out today to all vice presidents and deans over my signature and Jim Nichols' signature, as head of Personnel, indicating that at the President's direction we are instituting some additional controls on hiring. Those controls will have exemptions for teaching positions and also for other selected areas such as patient care, people in the Hospitals, and people who bring money into the University.

The second element in this memorandum will be instruction to deans and vice presidents to carefully monitor, and we hope they do that anyway, other discretionary spending. The third element will be a discussion indicating that the deans and vice presidents and other elements of the University community should plan for some form of reallocation later this year or early next year -- not just to deal with the issue of possible state budget problems, but the issue of continuing to use our resources effectively here at Ohio State University. And we will work with those people on developing a reallocation plan that makes sense for the University.

In addition, we will continue to monitor what the State does so that we can stay flexible depending on what they do. As I said, this memorandum will go out today and I wanted to make sure that the Board knew we were doing this and why. Again, it is important that we don't be overly complacent in a time of fiscal stress, but at the same time not over react. And I think this memorandum, which has been discussed with the University Senate, deans, and other elements of the University community, is a way of balancing these two needs.

The other thing I feel I should say is that because this is a rather large University and what may be bad news in one context, there is other news sometimes that offsets it. The Board may recall at the last meeting I mentioned that we would get more income than we originally planned when we put the budget together last June, because enrollments were higher than anticipated. So, somehow that has to fit into the mix as well. We don’t know what the numbers will be at this point in time, but by the time we do the mid-year review for you in February, hopefully we will have that worked out and have more information for you. That concludes my report, and I will be glad to answer any questions if there are any.

(See Appendix XLV for complete context of the Guidelines for Implementation of Budget Contingency Plans, page 723.)

Mrs. Bowser:

I want to join President Gee in wishing all the members of the Board and University family a very happy holiday season. However, I have a second part to add. I would very much like to see Ohio State win in the Liberty Bowl, since I am going to Memphis and going to have a good time. I hope that the new year holds a big win for us all.

Thereupon the Board adjourned to meet Friday, February 1, 1991, at The Ohio State University Fawcett Center for Tomorrow, Columbus, Ohio.

December 6, 1990
(See page 631)
PROCEDURES AND CRITERIA FOR NOMINATING STUDENTS TO SERVE ON THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

INTRODUCTION

The initial process for nominating students to serve on The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University shall be the responsibility of the three student governments of The Ohio State University (Undergraduate Student Government, Council of Graduate Students, Interprofessional Student Council). Each student government will be responsible for devising and administering its own process for the selection of nominees from among its constituents in good academic standing and not on disciplinary probation. However, nominees must be Ohio residents. All affirmative action policies, university rules and state laws regarding student service to the university shall be observed throughout the nomination process.

PHASE I - SCREENING COMMITTEE

The Screening Committee will evaluate all nominees forwarded by the three student governments. Each student government shall appoint a maximum of three members to serve on the Screening Committee. The Vice Provost for Student Affairs will also appoint one faculty member and one administrator who will serve as non-voting members. A quorum shall be constituted by two-thirds of the voting members of the committee.

The Screening Committee shall develop written procedures and criteria by which all nominees in good academic standing and not on disciplinary probation will be considered. The Screening Committee shall forward to the Interviewing Committee at least ten nominees considered by the Screening Committee to be most qualified and most worthy of an interview.

PHASE II - INTERVIEWING COMMITTEE

Each student government shall appoint a maximum of three members to serve on the Interviewing Committee. No person who served on the Screening Committee may serve on the Interviewing Committee.

The Vice Provost for Student Affairs will also appoint one faculty member and one administrator who will serve as non-voting members. A quorum shall be constituted by two-thirds of the voting members of the committee.

The committee shall develop the written procedures and criteria by which all recommended by the Screening Committee, in good academic standing and not on disciplinary probation will be interviewed and evaluated.

Upon completion of all interviews and evaluations, the committee will select a slate of five students to be presented to the Governor of the State of Ohio as nominees for appointment to the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University.

INITIAL TIME LINE

The respective student governments will make their nominations to the Screening Committee no later than January 25, 1991.

The Screening Committee will present its recommendations to the Interviewing Committee no later than 6:00 A.M. on February 11, 1991.

Assigned interviews will take place through February 11-22, 1991.
The Interviewing Committee will present its final slate of five candidates to the Governor of the State of Ohio no later than March 4, 1991.

We, the presidents of the respective student governments, hereby acknowledge that the initial time line recommended herein is at the request of the student government presidents and in no way reflects the opinions, attitudes or actions of any member of The Ohio State University Board of Trustees or of The Ohio State University administration.

NOMINATION FOR STUDENT CANDIDATES FOR APPOINTMENT TO THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

One student will be appointed to serve on The Ohio State University Board of Trustees in early 1991. ALL students who are in good academic standing, not on disciplinary probation and are residents of the state of Ohio are eligible to apply for this position. All appointees will be expected to maintain enrollment, good standing and residency during their term. As required by state law these are voluntary positions, so no salary can be offered to those appointed in exchange for their service.

A Screening committee will review the initial nominations and forward a select group of files to the Nominating committee by 8:00 A.M. on February 11, 1991. The Nominating committee will review the qualifications of these nominees, conduct interviews February 11 thru February 22, 1991, and will forward a slate of five candidates to the Governor of the State of Ohio by March 4, 1991. One of these five students will be appointed to the Board of Trustees by the Governor. Term of appointment will be for two years, beginning and ending in the spring. Students wishing to be considered for nomination must return their application and supporting material to their respective student government office prior to 4:00 P.M. on January 25, 1991.

INSTRUCTION IN PLANT SCIENCE:
EXCITING AND RELEVANT

Presented to the Agricultural Affairs Committee
December 6, 1990
(See page 636)
Instruction in Plant Science: Exciting and Relevant

In response to the need for improved science education at the elementary through high school level, and for more effective instruction of introductory plant science at the university level, the Department of Horticulture has initiated a program to promote the use of unique and exciting educational materials that may enhance student learning. These materials are based on a single group of plants, the Rapid Cycling Brassicas (RCB), which possess special attributes that make them ideal for instruction in science. These plants:

- have a short life cycle—one of the species flowers in 14 to 18 days and produces mature seed for the next generation in 35-40 days;
- are small and easy to grow;
- can reproduce at high densities (up to 2500 plants/m²) under fluorescent lighting in a classroom;
- can be pollinated with ease;
- have a wide range of morphological mutations (genetic markers);
- are safe, non-threatening; are related to important crops associated with good health (broccoli, cabbage, turnips);
- are inexpensive and readily available.

These attributes combine to create a unique instructional environment in which students learn biological principles through hands on activities, undertaking experiments of their own design. The focus is on science as a process and not as a set of facts to be memorized. The emphasis is on the excitement and importance of science in our daily lives.

The program consists of workshops for school teachers where they learn about these plants and development of new laboratory activities for appropriate university courses. The RCB are currently used in Horticulture undergraduate and graduate courses to demonstrate principles of plant growth and development, genetics, physiology, classification, and biotechnology.

This focused approach to science, utilizing a single live organism, also provides an opportunity to integrate biological concepts at all levels of organization: from the molecule in cell to the population of organisms in the environment.

ALUMNI HOUSE ADDITION - FAWCETT CENTER; MEDICAL LOGISTICAL SERVICES FACILITY EXPANSION; AND WISEMAN HALL - MEDICAL RESEARCH FACILITY

Adopted by the Board of Trustees, December 6, 1990
(See page 659)
Employment of Architects/Engineers and Request for Construction Bids

Background

Alumni House Addition - Fawcett Center

This project will provide a study of the space needs for The Ohio State University Alumni Association for the foreseeable future and the design and construction of an addition to the Fawcett Center for Tomorrow to meet the needs defined by the study. Design of the project will encompass both the existing Alumni Association space (9,575 square feet) and the addition (estimated at about 19,375 square feet) to provide a unified and integrated facility to meet the Association's needs.

The cost of the project will be funded by the Alumni Association. The building addition will be owned by the University, but there will be a long-term lease of the space to the Association to ensure the availability of the space to meet the Association's needs. Design and construction of the addition will be funded from gifts raised by the Association. Funds for the study (estimated at $40,000.00) and promotional materials for gift solicitation currently are available from the Association. At this early stage, the construction costs are estimated to be approximately $2,700,000.00, with an estimated total project cost of $3,800,000.00.

Medical Logistical Services Facility Expansion

This project will construct a three floor addition of approximately 57,000 square feet to the existing Medical Logistical Facility and the renovation of approximately 10,000 square feet of space in Doan Hall. This space will house a Surgical Intensive Care Unit (SICU) which requires expanded space to provide effective care and emergency equipment. In addition, support space, including conference areas, satellite lab and pharmacy, physician and staff lockers and lounges, and other clinical support and storage areas also will be housed in the addition.

Funds for this project are available from University Hospitals. Construction costs are estimated at $7,900,000.00, and the total estimated project cost is $10,017,600.00.

Wiseman Hall - Medical Research Facility

This project will construct additions of approximately 80,000 square feet to the existing Wiseman Hall. The first phase will add approximately 40,000 square feet of space to the west and possibly on top of the existing building with a separate identity and entrance. The facility will house generic research laboratories and related support facilities, designed to provide the greatest flexibility for future needs of the College of Medicine. The space is intended primarily for the Clinical Departments and several other departments within the College for disciplines such as Molecular Biology, Physiology, Cell Chemistry, and Whole Animal Physiology and Pharmacology. A future second phase is intended to add another 40,000 square feet of space.

Funds for phase one of this project in the amount of $6,000,000.00 will be provided from contributions pledged by the Central Practice Groups of the Clinical Departments of the College of Medicine, with construction costs estimated at $4,925,000.00. The estimated cost for phase two is $7,000,000.00, with construction costs estimated at $5,500,000.00. Funds for the second phase also would be provided through contributions from the Central Practice Groups.

GUIDELINES FOR IMPLEMENTATION OF BUDGET CONTINGENCY PLANS

(See page 668)
SUBJECT: Guidelines for Implementation of Budget Contingency Plans

DATE: December 6, 1990

FROM: William J. Shkurti
James L. Nichols

TO: Deans and Vice Presidents

The purpose of this memo is to communicate the University’s response to the projected state budget deficit. On November 7th Governor Celeste announced that the state of Ohio faced an estimated budget shortfall of $263 million for the period ending June 30, 1991. He reduced the budgets for departments under his control by 4%. In addition, he proposed a series of actions to the legislature which included a possible reduction in state support to higher education. If the legislature chooses to reduce appropriations, The Ohio State University will lose approximately $3.0 million in revenues for each one percent reduction in the current fiscal year.

Although it is not possible at this time to know exactly what the legislature might do, it is important to begin to prepare now. Consequently, the President has directed us to implement selective hiring controls, effective immediately. These controls apply to all new and vacant non-instructional positions as outlined below. They will remain in effect until the University knows for certain what state funding will be for the remainder of this fiscal year.

The following guidelines will be used to implement the hiring controls:

Instructional positions - Because of the critical role of teaching and research to the mission of this university, regular and auxiliary faculty positions are not affected by the hiring controls at this time.
Non-instructional positions - All postings for temporary, vacant, or new Administrative and Professional and Classified Civil Service positions, as well as offers made after the date of this letter, must be approved by the Office of Personnel Services. Only positions which are required to provide essential University services should be submitted. Each position will be reviewed on an individual basis by the Office of Personnel Services upon receipt of a written request from the appropriate Vice President. Specific exceptions are granted for the following staff positions:
- Patient care personnel at University Hospitals.
- Individuals fully funded on externally sponsored research grants.
- Public safety personnel and personnel performing functions specifically required by law.
- Personnel who provide direct services for revenue producing units.

It should be noted that use of temporary personnel or contract services is not an acceptable alternative to filling vacant positions.

In addition to the personnel actions identified above, we are asking each Dean and Vice President to carefully monitor expenditures for all other discretionary items. Only expenditures considered as highest priority should be made at this time.

While these specific guidelines currently apply only to fiscal year 1990-91, there is considerable uncertainty as to the impact of the current state budget shortfall on funding for the next biennium. More importantly, there is a continuing need for the University to reallocate and reevaluate resources to meet changing needs. Therefore, the President has instructed us to work with you to develop options for some form of reallocation for fiscal year 1991-92. This means it is important that you begin identifying alternatives for permanent cost reductions. This will also provide you with the flexibility to manage additional fiscal constraints should the state budget picture continue to deteriorate.

If you have questions about the details of the hiring controls, please contact the Office of Personnel Services at 292-8993. For questions about other aspects of this memorandum, please contact your analyst in the Office of Financial Management at 292-8981.
Given the uncertainty of the state and national economic conditions, it may be necessary to further modify hiring and budget commitments during this fiscal year. We recognize the difficulties this uncertainty presents in managing your programs. We will continue to monitor the situation carefully and will be providing updates on further developments as they evolve. Thank you for your assistance in implementing these guidelines.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Gee:

The life of the University and the lives of each of us have been changed significantly by the war in the Persian Gulf. Another generation is experiencing war for the first time -- on the television sets in their residence hall rooms and apartments, in lunchtime conversations, and in classroom discussions.

We have a special responsibility and opportunity at this University in times of national crisis. The University is a place where issues are discussed and personal views are formulated. A number of our distinguished faculty members are providing context and expertise on subjects ranging from military history and national defense policy to understanding Islamic and Arab cultures.

The voices and views on the war expressed on our campuses are certainly not all of one mind. There is a diversity of opinion as broad as the diversity of people in our community. Rallies and meetings have been held reflecting a variety of perspectives on the conflict -- the greatest number of these without incident. In a community of educated women and men, we expect respect for others and their views. We must always combat intolerance and bigotry, protecting the rights of all of our University citizens, and particularly, those students from foreign lands. Most directly effected by the war, of course, are the students, faculty, and staff who have been called to active duty -- numbering, I might add, nearly 100 to date, and that number is growing daily. They are joined in the service of our country by a great many Ohio State alumni. Our hearts and our prayers are with them and their families.

Even with these important events on our minds, the life of the University community goes on. Since our last meeting, I had the privilege of presiding at my first Ohio State commencement ceremony. I must say, what a fabulous spectacle and pageant! We now have 1,766 more alumni -- and I believe I shook every one of their hands!

We had another graduation as well. The Ohio State Police Department Training Academy graduated a class of 21 officers, ten of whom have joined the University force. Students continue to enhance and enliven our University community with their many activities.

I visited the Leadership Ohio State program, a leadership development workshop for 100 talented freshmen planned by upperclass student leaders. I saw the Ohio State production of "The Desert Song" in the Thurber Theatre at the Drake Union, and the new art exhibit just opened at the Wexner Center.
President Gee: (contd)

A number of special activities took place this month to honor Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and United Black World Week begins next week. As I am certain you will hear reported later in this meeting, the student governments are well into the selection process for a student trustee.

We have welcomed to the University community a new dean for the College of Business, Professor Joseph Alutto, whose appointment is on your agenda today. Joe Alutto is one of this country's most respected leaders in business education. A scholar with international experience, he has a strong record in graduate business education. His eagerness, by the way, to come to Ohio State is a reflection of the quality and direction of the University and the quality of our business school.

Further reflecting our quality is the continuing outstanding work of our faculty. Mentioning only a couple of examples:

The work on zebra mussels by Professor Susan Fisher, Associate Professor of Entomology, continues to receive international attention, including a very favorable mention in a recent Time magazine article.

Professor of Geological Sciences, William Ausich, received the Schuchert Award, a prestigious national award from the Paleontological Society, recognizing excellence in a young paleontologist. Of course, as a discipline with fossil studies spanning millions of years, I am not sure how they define young!

Recently announced was the awarding of this year's University Professorship to Susan Huntington of the Department of History. Professor Huntington's areas of concentration are Asian art and its history. She is a former recipient of the University Distinguished Scholar Award and of the University's Outstanding Teaching Award.

George Martin, Professor of Cell Biology and Anatomy, received this year's Presidential Professorship. A distinguished researcher in neuroscience, he has received 14 teaching awards since 1971.

It should be clear that our most distinguished teachers -- such as Professors Fisher, Huntington, Ausich, and Martin -- are also among our most outstanding researchers. It is these remarkable people who bring such great honor to our University.

Speaking of bringing honor to Ohio State -- how about that men's basketball team! Of course they did lose last evening, and that was the one time that I turned over their charge to Russ Spillman! This group of exceptional student athletes is generating a great deal of Buckeye pride. They are a team you admire as athletes, but more importantly, I think we all agree, they are a team you like as young men.

From the pages of Sports Illustrated to the New York Times, the nation is discovering what Ohio State knows about Coach Randy Ayers: he is a remarkable educator representing the best in intercollegiate sports. I can't tell you how proud I am of him and the program. I absolutely love the electricity that we all have come to enjoy in St. John Arena!

President Gee: (contd)

Finally, I would be remiss if I did not pay tribute to one of Ohio State's great citizens whose death has saddened us all. Dick Jackson's life was dedicated to public service. His legacy at this University is a beautiful campus and a commitment to a quality environment for learning. He will be greatly missed by his many friends and colleagues and fondly remembered for his dedication to The Ohio State University.

That completes my report, Madam Chair.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Ms. Casto:

The totals for the Research Foundation grants and contracts awarded from July 1, 1990 to December 31, 1990, are shown in the agenda book. There are 674 awards that total $63 million. Funding is slightly higher in the last six months of 1990.

Some highlights of the awards for November and December are:

--$73,500.00 from the National Endowment for the Humanities to study theory in narrative writing. The funds will support a summer seminar for college teachers. The goal of the seminar will be to help participants become better teachers of the narrative style of writing.

--$58,000.00 from the Kellogg Foundation for an in-service training program for high school science teachers. Special attention will be directed to having students apply knowledge they have learned in the classroom to daily life. The funds will support a series of workshops for the teachers.

--$59,500.00 from the Procter and Gamble Company to study conservation as related to the use of disposable diapers. The study will look at the diaper materials present after final decay in the landfill.

--$487,000.00 from C-I-C Net to provide computer network support services for the member institutions of the Committee on Institutional Cooperation. The data base provides a regional network within a seven state region of the Midwest.

That completes my report, Madam Chair.

HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

The following are highlights from the December 1990 and January 1991 Hospitals Board activities:
February 1, 1991 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

On December 13, the Professional Affairs/Education/Research Committee reviewed quality indicators and trends for the Hospitals overall and for nursing quality. The Committee asked the Executive Director, Medical Director, and Chief of Staff to work out solutions to the complex issues that cause admitting delays. All other indicators were within appropriate levels or the requested actions were deemed acceptable.

At the December Hospitals Board meeting, Mr. Shkurti reviewed the September 30 James Cancer Hospital financial report with Board members. Dr. Tzagournis reported that the Cancer Hospital will probably reach a break-even status in its fourth year of operation. Mr. Fraley pointed out that the combined James Cancer Hospital/University Hospitals enterprise has more admissions, more patient days, and higher daily census than last year's actual or this year's budget. Mr. Ralph Hudson presented details relating to the planned College of Medicine Research Facility. The $12 million for construction is to be raised through a bond issue, which will be retired through monies pledged by the College of Medicine's central practice groups and individual clinical departments.

On January 24, the Administrative/Operations Committee, along with Mr. Hilligoss and representatives of Deloitte and Touche, reviewed the Letter of Recommendations to University Hospitals resulting from the audit for the year ending June 30, 1990. The auditors discussed the six recommendations made, and commented that they did not encounter any material weaknesses in the internal control structure and its operation. There has been excellent communication and cooperation among the auditors and Hospitals personnel. Impact of the audit on the Hospitals' 1989-90 financial statement was an adjustment of $220,000 in net income; therefore, the net loss for last year was $1.8 million instead of $1.6 million.

At the January Executive Committee meeting, Dr. Smead complimented the Hospitals' Administration for sharing strategic planning and marketing information with the medical staff's elected officers. The December financial report revealed that admissions and patient days continued to exceed budget. In stark contrast to the numbers I just gave you, the Net income year-to-date was $380,000 versus a budgeted loss of $806,000 -- so we have a positive improvement of $1.6 million. Ms. Judy Gilliam, who is head of nursing, presented an in-depth progress report on implementation of strategies for coping with the national nursing shortage. These include recruitment activities, pilot units, scholarship programs, school affiliations, special training programs, and a career ladder for nurse advancement. Because of these efforts, University Hospitals was able to open 27 additional beds during the past 12 months, with 6 more beds planning to open in February.

Mr. Fraley requested and was granted authorization to increase the capital equipment budget from $7 million to $7.75 million for the current fiscal year. About $500,000 of the increase is in savings realized from the Health Insurance Premium Holiday, and $250,000 will be taken from the current excess of revenues over expenses. The funds will be used to cover the cost overrun for the MRI building and for previously unfunded equipment requests. Mr. Fraley reported that the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations awarded University Hospitals a full 3-year accreditation and, in addition, sent a letter of commendation for the Hospitals' outstanding performance. I've been informed that a letter of commendation only goes to hospitals in the United States that are in the top 10 percent. The most wonderful thing about the 3-year accreditation is that they don't even have to file any reports for 3 years, which is an almost unbelievable accomplishment.

HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

During December and January we also reviewed: medical staff issues; Medical Center development activities; safety statistics; Certificate of Need and construction projects; the SkyMed helicopter program; and the Hospitals public relations and media coverage. We also learned that some revisions to the Medical Staff Bylaws have been proposed. These include changing the medical staff appointment term from 1 year to 2 years, and the creation of a special committee to deal with any instances of physician impairment. The appropriate Bylaws revisions will be brought to the Hospitals Board and then forwarded to this Board for final approval.

I also want to call your attention to a notification that appeared in the paper over the last couple of days that featured The Ohio State University Hospitals being awarded one of the four positions in the Medicare Heart Bypass Surgery Project. Only four hospitals in the United States were chosen out of 206 hospitals which applied. Once again, we see further prove of the outstanding work that is being done in the Hospitals despite the budget problems.

That completes my report, Madam Chair.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

This report was a happy one all the way through, Madam Chair. We first heard the portfolio report in which there has been an increase of $13.9 million in the market value of the portfolio since the last meeting. And as a consequence, the portfolio is now $319 million, almost back to the $321 million it was at the end of June.

Six of our nine equity managers beat the Standard and Poor; and I am happy to report that Standard and Poor is back on the plus side. Particularly interesting to note is that the student investment group, which had the second highest performance of any of our investment advisors, was 6.7 percent above the Standard and Poor average. On the fixed income side all five of our managers beat the Shearson Index, which is the equivalent of Standard and Poor on the fixed side.

We also received the Quarterly report as of December 16. So far in the fiscal year we have 53 new funds in the endowment; in all of last year we had 60. So we are on target for a record year. So far $16.4 million has been distributed in endowment income. It is interesting to compare that the per share distributions from the endowment have increased by 50 percent since 1985. So in other words, if your department was entitled to receive monies back in 1985, they are getting 50 percent more from that same fund. We had $13 million in additions so far this quarter, last year was a record of $22 million, so we may beat last year.

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

We also saw the comparisons with the higher education index and the CPI. You will recall that one of the goals of the endowment fund is to beat those indexes and using 1980 as a base year of 100, we have gone from 100 to 220. The higher education index is only at 182, and the CPI at 164. So you can see we are significantly beating that.

We also had a report on the River Road Hospital Corporation, the Ramada down the street, again, a very positive report. Occupancy has doubled to 62 percent; revenues have doubled to $4 million; and the cash flow, which is net profit less depreciation, has gone from the previous year's loss of $1.4 million, to a positive $4,000. We also had a report on the Busch Boulevard Centre which we acquired last year. It maintains currently 82 percent occupancy, and Ms. Casto and I can assure you that is a remarkable figure in this day and age. It had a net income of $235,000, which is a return on the investment of 8.72 percent. Which is not bad at all.

Finally, we received a Development Fund report equally exciting. The dollars contributed are up 36 percent over last year. I might point out that when you back out pledges which had come in during the Campaign we are still over last year in terms of receipts. The number of donors is up 16 percent. There were 42,000 donors so far this year; 21,000 of them in the month of December -- the third best month in the history of the fund. And the period from October to December was the best quarter ever.

That completes my report, Madam Chair.

Mrs. Bowser:

Thank you. That was indeed a good report. It is nice to hear the students doing so well. It's wonderful.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

The Academic Affairs Committee met this morning and received a report from Dr. David Hothersall, Director of the University Honors Program and Professor of Psychology. Currently, there are 3,771 students who are members of the University Honors Society. This quarter 53 Honors courses are being offered. Last year, 120 graduating students completed an Honors thesis. Honors students in last year's graduating class won a Fulbright Fellowship and prestigious fellowships from the National Science Foundation; the National Institute of Mental Health; the Department of Defense; and the Rotary Foundation. In January, three Ohio State students were selected as Truman Scholar finalists. Merit based scholarships available at Ohio State for this year's incoming class have significantly improved. We are now able to offer 50 Distinguished Scholarships for National Merit and National Achievement Scholars. We are also able to offer 10 Presidential Scholarships and 40 Medalist Scholarships. It is expected that these awards will improve and increase the number of high ability students who are attending this University.

In addition, Dr. Hothersall reported that there is a rich and diverse program of co-curricular activities that are sponsored by the Honors Society. Highlights from this year's program include a visit by Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy; a dinner and discussion at Honors House with members of this Board; the successful Leadership Ohio State Conference; the Mershon Honors Global Affairs Conference; and a spring trip to Toronto. The Honors Society is also sponsoring publication of the Mosaic and the Renaissance Festival. Ohio State's seven honoraries indeed have rich traditions and they play a very active role in this University.

Plans for the future include continued attention to attracting high ability students to Ohio State; establishment of an alumni and faculty Honors Advisory Board; and a program to identify and mentor candidates for post-graduate awards such as Rhodes, Marshall, and Truman Scholarships. We indeed should be very proud of this Honors Program and the job that Dr. Hothersall has been doing since his appointment in September.

In addition, Madam Chair and members of the Board, we are recommending the following resolutions:

THE MARTHA G. AND MILTON STAUB CHAIR FOR RESEARCH IN OPHTHALMOLOGY

February 1, 1991 meeting, Board of Trustees

THE MARTHA G. AND MILTON STAUB CHAIR FOR RESEARCH IN OPHTHALMOLOGY (contd)

WHEREAS at the time of the establishment of the endowed fund it was agreed that the fund be redesignated "The Martha G. and Milton Staub Chair for Research in Ophthalmology" when the level of funding reached $750,000.00; and

BE IT RESOLVED, That the "Martha G. and Milton Staub Chair for Research in Ophthalmology Fund" be changed to "The Martha G. and Milton Staub Chair for Research in Ophthalmology." In keeping with the provisions of the original endowed fund, the annual income shall be used to provide support for the work of a distinguished researcher in Ophthalmology.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Teaford, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY
Resolution No. 91-77

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of the following amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty.

WHEREAS the University Senate pursuant to rule 3335-1-09 of the Administrative Code is authorized to recommend through the President to the Board of Trustees the adoption of amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty as approved by the University Senate; and

WHEREAS the proposed changes in the Rules of the University Faculty were approved by the University Senate on March 3 and December 1, 1990, as follows:

AMENDED RULES

3335-5-03 Appointment of faculty and staff; tenure.

The board of trustees shall annually appoint the president and all employees of the university not in the classified civil service, subject to the laws of the state of Ohio, and in the case of regular faculty, to the rights and protection of tenure as provided for in these rules. Tenure is a commitment by the university and may be earned by all individuals with regular faculty status subject to successful completion of a probationary period. Regular faculty status is defined in rule 3335-5-19 of the Administrative Code. The protections of tenure and academic freedom extend to all levels of faculty responsibility within the university in accordance with rule 3335-5-01 of the Administrative Code and are not restricted to activities identified with specific instructional, research or public service programs. Tenure is lost only by formal resignation, by voluntary reduction of appointment below fifty per cent of service to the university (as specified in the notice(s) of appointment) except in the case of an approved leave of absence, by retirement, by transfer to regular clinical faculty or auxiliary status, or may be terminated by reason of proved incompetence or grave misconduct in accordance with rule 3335-5-04 of the Administrative Code, for causes set forth in rule 3335-5-02 of the Administrative Code, or under the conditions of bona fide financial exigency, as specified in rule 3335-5-021 of the Administrative Code. Tenured members of the regular faculty who serve the university as administrators do not lose tenure by virtue of being administrators.

3335-5-37 Membership.

There shall be a university senate, a unicameral body constituted as follows:

(A) Voting members: the voting members of the senate (throughout this document the word "senate" shall be taken to mean the university senate) shall consist of:

- Twenty-five administration members
- Seventy faculty members
- Forty-one student members, consisting of twenty-six undergraduate, ten graduate, and five professional student members.

Any change in the number of members representing one of three primary categories shall necessitate an adjustment in the total membership in order to maintain to the nearest percentage the ratio of these numbers.

(B) Non-voting members: senate members not entitled to vote on the floor of the senate, but otherwise to participate in all senate deliberations, shall include the university ombudsperson, the director of alumni affairs, the secretary of the university senate, the president of the freshman senate, the president of the undergraduate student government, the president of the council of graduate students, and the president of the inter-professional council.

3335-47-06 Tenure initiating unit.

(A) A tenure initiating unit is a division, department, school, or college approved by the council on academic affairs, the university senate, and the board of trustees. A tenure initiating unit has the following responsibilities for all faculty members assigned to it: to assist in professional development; to evaluate; to maintain official personnel records; and to initiate promotion, tenure, and nonrenewal recommendations. The office of academic affairs shall be responsible for maintaining the official list of tenure initiating units.

(B) A single division, department, school, or college must serve as the tenure initiating unit for each faculty member, including individuals with multiple appointments. Multiple appointments to the regular faculty totaling fifty per cent or more of service to the university shall be considered to be the same as a single appointment of fifty per cent or more for the purpose of determining eligibility for tenure or tenure candidacy.

(C) Change of tenure initiating unit may occur only with the voluntary consent of the faculty member, and with the approval of the vice president for academic affairs and provost and that of a simple majority of all tenured faculty members in the receiving tenure initiating unit.

(D) Should a tenure initiating unit cease to exist, every effort shall be made by the vice president for academic affairs and provost to transfer each faculty member in that tenure initiating unit to another tenure initiating unit, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (C) of this rule. Should such agreement be impossible, the person's tenure responsibility shall reside with the vice president for academic affairs and provost. The vice president for academic affairs and provost shall assign the faculty member appropriate duties. If the faculty member's previous assignment has been at a regional campus, the vice president for academic affairs and provost shall consult with the dean and director of the regional campus regarding an appropriate assignment. The provisions in this section do not supersede the requirements for treatment of tenured faculty members during conditions of financial exigency as specified in rules 3335-5-021, 3335-5-022, and 3335-5-023 of the Administrative Code.

3335-47-07 Campus assignment.

(A) Every member of the faculty shall be assigned to serve on one of the university's campuses: the central campus in Columbus, the regional campuses in Lima, Mansfield, Marion, and Newark, or the agricultural technical institute (Wooster).

(B) Decisions regarding the selection, assignment, responsibilities, salary, assessment, and promotion of a regional campus faculty member should involve full cooperation between the tenure initiating unit and the regional campus administration. All formal personnel recommendations must bear the signatures of the chairperson of the tenure initiating unit, the dean of the college of the tenure initiating unit, the dean and director of the regional campus, and the vice president for academic affairs and provost or designee.

(C) Campus reassignment may occur only with the voluntary consent of the faculty member, and with the approval of the vice president for academic affairs and provost and that of a simple majority of all tenured faculty members in the transferee's tenure initiating unit when the reassignment is from a regional campus to the Columbus campus or all tenured faculty members on the receiving regional campus when the transfer is to a regional campus.

3335-47-08 TO BE RESCINDED.

3335-9-171 Additions to approved schedules.

(A) Until the official closing time on the first Friday of a quarter additions to approved schedules in undergraduate colleges require the approval of the student's enrollment unit.

(B) After the first Friday of a quarter and until the official closing time of the second Friday, additions to approved schedules require the permission of the instructor (or, with the instructor's concurrence, a representative as appointed by the department) and the approval of the student's enrollment unit.

(C) After the second Friday of a quarter, additions to approved schedules require the permission of the instructor (or, with the instructor's concurrence, a representative as appointed by the department), the permission of the chairperson of the instructor's department or the director of the school (or of the designated representative of the chairperson or the director), and the approval of the student's enrollment unit.

(D) After the third Friday of the quarter, additions to approved schedules will not be permitted. Exceptions will be granted only by petition. Petitions must be filed with the authorized representative of the dean or director of the enrollment unit. Petitions will be approved only on the basis of clearly documented clerical error or unusual and extenuating circumstances beyond the student's control.
February 1, 1991 meeting, Board of Trustees

AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY (contd)

(E) Because of the accelerated nature of summer-term courses, deadlines for adding these courses are as follows: from the first day of classes until the official closing time on the first Friday of each summer term a student may add a course only with the permission of the instructor (or, with the instructor's concurrence, a representative as appointed by the department) and the approval of the student's enrollment unit. After this date a student wishing to add a summer-term course to the approved schedule must have, in addition, the permission of the instructor's department chairperson or the director of the school (or of the designated representative of the chairperson or the director).

(F) For courses of shorter duration deadlines and approval procedures will be established by the instructional unit in which the course is offered after consultation with the office of the university registrar.

(G) The graduate school and graduate professional colleges shall formulate rules to govern additions to approved schedules, subject to approval of the council on academic affairs and publish them in their respective bulletins.

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the foregoing amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty be adopted as recommended by the University Senate.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Amb. Wolf, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Mr. Shumate:

I would also like to note for the record, Madam Chair, that we thank the administrators for providing the impact statements and the background memorandum on these important amendments.

Honorary Degree

Background

Martin Meyerson

Martin Meyerson was the University of Pennsylvania's president from 1970 to 1981. Educator and author, he serves nationally and internationally with governmental and cultural programs, and with companies and private organizations. His accomplishments were reviewed when the building for the Graduate School of Fine Arts was named Meyerson Hall by the Trustees. Their resolution read in part: "The extraordinary intellectual and physical integration of the University in which we take such pride is in large measure a tribute to the leadership of Martin Meyerson." The chairman of the Trustees added, "No one in the history of our institution has done so much to internationalize the university." In 1986 he became president of FISCIT, the Foundation for the International Exchange of Scientific and Cultural Information by Telecommunications, which is chartered in Switzerland and in the United States. Between 1981 and 1985, Martin Meyerson served as chairman of the board of the Institute of International Education. Having acted as president of the board of the International Association of Universities (based in Paris), he was designated Honorary President in 1985. Selected as an Overseas Fellow of Churchill College, Cambridge University, he is a trustee of the International Council for Educational Development and has served as a Director's Visitor at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton.

He began an academic career in 1948 to 1952 as an assistant professor of the social sciences at the University of Chicago in its college and graduate division. In 1949, he was an associate of the Committee on National Policy at Yale University. He became, in 1957, the Frank Backus Williams Professor of City Planning and Urban Research at Harvard University and 1963 acted as dean of that university's Graduate School of Design. From 1958 to 1963, he was the first director of the M.I.T.-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies, a research group working on theoretical and applied problems. In 1963, he was appointed dean of the College of Environmental Design of the University of California at Berkeley, and in 1965, acted as chancellor of Berkeley.

Martin Meyerson became president of the State University of New York at Buffalo in 1966. DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES - WINTER QUARTER COMMENCEMENT

Resolution No. 91-80

Synopsis: The Academic Affairs Committee recommended the approval of Degrees and Certificates for Winter Quarter.

She remained in this position until 1970, when she accepted the Area Home Economics Extension Position in Fremont, Ohio, and continued in this position until her retirement in 1972.

Professor Balsizer was an active participant and member of the American Home Economics Association, Ohio Home Economics Association, National Association of Extension Home Economists, Ohio County Extension Agents Association, and Epsilon Sigma Phi. She was nominated as one of twenty women recognized for her contribution to better living in the area.

Leota Balsizer's contributions included her dedicated interests to the home economics programs in Sandusky County and the Fremont Area Center for many years. Her continued professional contributions were deeply appreciated.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to her family and friends. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Robert Bartels

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 16, 1989, of Robert Bartels, Professor Emeritus of Marketing in the College of Business.

Professor Bartels was born in Wheeling, West Virginia, on January 28, 1913. He received his undergraduate education at Carnegie Institute of Technology and The Ohio State University, where he received his B.S. degree in 1935. He received an MBA from Northwestern in 1936 and a Ph.D. from Ohio State in 1941. Professor Bartels initially taught at the University of Washington and, for a short period, at the University of California at Berkeley. He subsequently became a member of the faculty at Ohio State and to many of his students, Professor Bartels was a treasured mentor and friend. He was named Professor Emeritus in 1978.

Professor Bartels authored numerous books and articles on marketing theory. His research was widely published in the United States, and some of his publications were translated into Spanish, French, Japanese, and Greek. Two of his books, The Development of Marketing Thought (1962) and The History of Marketing Thought (1976, 1988) reflect Professor Bartels' intense interest in learning how personal influences affected the development of marketing thought. He was the first to examine theory development in marketing. His book, Marketing Theory and Meta-theory (1970), was the result of his attempt to develop a methodology for developing marketing theory.

Dr. Bartels published two key articles in 1968 that remain classics. "Are Domestic and International Marketing Dissimilar" was the first published piece examining this subject. "The General Theory of Marketing" is still on the reading lists of many marketing theory courses. The American Marketing Association awarded him the Harold H. Maynard Award, which recognizes significant contributions to marketing theory and thought, for "Macromarketing," published shortly before his retirement.

Professor Bartels served as a Fulbright Research Scholar at the University of Salonica and the University of Athens. During his year in Greece, he authored over a dozen articles and a book on marketing in Greece. Over the years, he also lectured on American business and marketing in Canada, China, Japan, India, Mexico, Russia, Sri Lanka, and Taiwan. He was a visiting distinguished professor and guest lecturer at two dozen universities around the U.S.

After industrial work for 13 years, he entered the Graduate School at Cornell University where he received M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in engineering in 1944 and 1947, respectively.

In 1947 Dr. Williams was appointed an Assistant Professor in the Department of Industrial Engineering. Several years later he joined the Department of Metallurgical Engineering where he was subsequently promoted to Professor. Upon his retirement in 1978, Professor Williams was named Professor Emeritus.

Douglas C. Williams was a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity at Chamberlain Science Club at Beloit College. His professional activities included memberships in the society of Sigma Xi and the American Foundrymen's Society. At Ohio State he was an Honorary Member of Alpha Pi Mu, Industrial Engineering Honorary Society; Texnikoi, The Ohio State University Engineering Honorary; and Alpha Sigma Mu, Metallurgical Honorary Society.

His teaching and research led to many publications in the field of casting and foundry engineering. He received several recognitions for his teaching, research, and student advising activities. He was known by all of his students as a thoughtful and stimulating person of high standards.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in its loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Paige:

This morning we heard the University's response to the Gulf Crisis. First, Richard A. Hollingsworth, Dean of Student Life, stated that the University expresses its deep concern and support for the students, employees, and families affected by the Gulf War. For students and employees called to active duty, procedures have been developed to facilitate the transition. President Gee is sending personal letters of support to each of the 60 students and nearly 40 employees called-up to date. Families of employees are receiving calls of support from the Office of University Communication, and the families of students will be contacted by representatives of the Office of Student Affairs. To ensure that the rights of all persons to freely express their beliefs are protected, and that demonstrations are conducted in an atmosphere of civility and non-confrontation, the Office of the Dean of Student Life and the Office of University Public Safety have been in regular contact with the leadership of students supporting the government's policies, as well as those students calling for immediate peace initiatives.

Multiple educational programs on the Middle East have been instituted jointly and separately by the Office of Student Life, the Center for International Studies, the Office of International Students and Scholars, various academic departments, and student organizations, including the Students for Peace and Justice and the Undergraduate Student Government. The University is functioning at its best when we can respond on multiple levels to world events.

Next, Louise Douce, Director of Counseling and Consultation Services, informed the Board that support services are being provided for Ohio State University students who are being affected by the Persian Gulf War. Three groups are of special concern: 1) students who are obsessed with the war and unable to carry on their other activities; 2) students who are very stressed by other events or have past traumatic experiences that are being triggered by the war events; and 3) the large number of students with friends and relatives in the Gulf. In cooperation with the Faculty and Staff Assistance Program and Campus Ministries, the Office of Counseling and Consultation Services is offering a series of support workshops, a stress management hour, and a walk-in counseling service. Handouts on "Strategies to Cope with the Stress of War" and "Available Community Resources" have been prepared and are available in several locations around campus.

Finally, John Greisberger, Program Director for International Students and Scholars, stated that the total number of international students enrolled at The Ohio State University is 3,028. Of these, 317 students are from the Middle East -- about 10 percent; nine from Iraq, and four from Kuwait. Staff members in the Office of International Students and Scholars have maintained contact with these students since the Gulf Crisis began on August 2, 1990. The office staff have also developed and implemented a number of programs on the Middle East which have been presented in various residence halls and the Ohio Union.
Ms. Paige: (contd)

In addition to students from Iraq and Kuwait, students from throughout the Middle East and beyond have been adversely affected. A number of our students' parents and other relatives live and work in the Gulf region. Due to the war, these students have been experiencing great difficulty in getting funds, and for long periods of time lost contact with their families. We continue to help these students work through their difficulties, as well as help our students from Iraq and Kuwait.

Next we heard reports from the student government leaders:

Ms. Benneta Burton:

Good morning. First, I would like to say that the retreat in Cincinnati, was a wonderful opportunity to learn about issues in higher education and how Ohio State stands in those particular areas. I also thought it was good that the representatives from the various sections of the University were able to attend. I enjoyed Dr. Freedman's talk on "How to Respond to Society's Needs as a University in the 1990's and Beyond" and the specifics that he provided for us concerning graduate education.

The average graduate student today is probably older than the graduate students of the past. The graduate students today are probably married and have children, perhaps the graduate student is a single mother or father who needs sufficient support in order to pay for child care. The Council of Graduate Students has been made more aware of this problem of adequate low cost and close proximity day care for graduate student dependents. We have formed an ad-hoc committee on child care to address this growing need. This committee has done some initial investigations of our current OSU day care facility, which is one of the finest. But they right now care for about 300 children of faculty, staff, and students. Though this sounds sufficient, it isn't. They have a waiting list of 1,200 children. We have learned since that time that the Provost does have a commission to study day care and dependent care for elderly. Perhaps that problem will be addressed. As far as graduate students are concerned, we are looking for some short-term and long-term solutions.

Also, I would like to make you aware of our Graduate Research Forum which will be held April 20, 1991. We hope that many more faculty and students will become involved. I would like to invite you right now, but you will also be getting a personal invitation. We are currently looking for faculty to serve as judges -- we need about eighty. We would like to have an external judge for each of the ten graduate student areas. That is what we are in the process of doing right now. That concludes my report.

Mr. Teaford:

I was wondering if we have any statistics in the University, as to what percentage of graduate students don't complete --

Dr. Spillman:

I don't know if we do or not, but I could try --
Mr. Teaford:

We ought to try and get that, it would be interesting to compare that with Dr. Freedman's percentage.

I suspect that the graduate students may get a lot more support around here as the next year unfolds. As you know, my wife is a graduate student and I understand that two other wives of Trustees are considering that. So you may really be in!

Mr. Mike Clark:

Good morning. I would also like to comment on the pleasure I had being in Cincinnati; it was an excellent experience. I wish every student on this campus could have the opportunity, but I realize that is not possible. It was a very educational experience. Sometimes I felt lost on things that were talked about, but I feel a lot more informed. I feel privileged to have been able to participate and have a say in that. I hope that things like that will continue in the future and that other students, or student government presidents, will have the opportunity as well.

Discussions that weekend included: "What is the purpose of a university?" and "Universities are about the future and for the future." Of course, I would assume that Ohio State has that same role as well. There were a lot of issues that were talked about and discussed, but the one that really wasn't discussed much was "What happens when students graduate from OSU?" I think we need to try to encourage students to set goals, go after them, and accomplish them. I think we would all agree with that. That is what we want for the students who graduate from here. After their formal education has ended, they should go after and get what they want.

The ability and incentive doesn't come from attending a lecture, it doesn't come from reading a book, it is not measured by obtaining a 4.0. That ability or that perception is developed by working with people, communicating, and dealing with people on a regular basis. I think one of the ways we can provide incentives for students is to try to increase our commitment towards extracurricular activities -- whether it be honoraries, sporting events, student government activities, fraternities and sororities, or other student organizations. We all think about this and it is in our minds and our hearts, but the University really hasn't done that much about it. Through my discussions with Dr. Gee, I know that it is on his mind and that he going to try his best to do that. So, I just want to encourage everybody to see if we can't continue that commitment.

Next, is our favorite topic -- the search for the next Student Trustee. Our deadline is over and we are gathering the people who will be serving on the Screening Committee. The Screening Committee will be made up of three members of the Undergraduate Student Government; three members from the Council of Graduate Students; three members of the Interprofessional Council; and an administrator and a faculty member appointed by Dr. Spillman. They will be meeting this week and discussing the criteria for the Screening Committee. They have a deadline of February 11, when they will submit their names to the Interviewing Committee. The Interviewing Committee will then interview from February 11 to February 22; and March 4 will be the Interviewing Committee's deadline for submitting five names to the Governor.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford:

Do you have a sense of how big the pool is right now?

Mr. Clark:

Well, I don't have the exact numbers. I still have to find out exactly how many applications Benneta and Steve have. I believe it is approximately 40. I think that the understanding of what the Board of Trustees is and what they are doing, is increasing. I think it is because a lot of the Trustees have been attending the Council of Presidents meetings and were able to discuss issues and concerns on an open basis. The Trustees have also been attending Council of Graduate Student meetings, and things of that nature. Also, the three student governments have had the opportunity to go out and talk to other student organizations and try to convey the message of who the Board of Trustees are and what they actually do. I see a bright future for this, and I see this perception from the students' point of view increasing every year.

I don't know if you are aware of this, but Dr. Gee has ask me to take him out tonight and show him "from the eyes of an undergraduate" what we do on a Friday night on campus. So, I think it is going to be a very entertaining evening for myself and my colleagues. I hope that you don't read anything about it in the papers tomorrow.

At this time, I would like to entertain any questions that you may have.

Ms. Paige:

What is the different breakdown on undergraduate, graduate, and professional student applications?

Mr. Clark:

I am not involved with it myself. I am appointing people within our student government to handle that and they haven't looked at the applications yet. The first step for the Screening Committee is to come up with the criteria as to how they will be judging and evaluating these applications. So no one has looked at these applications yet. Most of the applications were accumulated at the Undergraduate Student Government office. Personally, I am hoping that will reflect the number of undergraduate applications, but at this point I am not sure.

Mr. Shumate:

Do you have the files from the previous years to see the process and criteria they used?

Mr. Clark:

Yes, we do. I did not serve on any of those committees, but Benneta served on one of the committees and she could probably better answer your question.
Ms. Burton:

We don't have that much within our files. There needs to be more supporting documentation, which I plan to do for this year. I served on the Screening Committee both years. One year we decided our criteria using a point system and weighing certain questions. For instance, there were seven questions asked on the application, we weighed those, and the top numbers were what we wanted. We decided that we should send forth a broad representation -- that is undergraduates, graduates, and interprofessional students. We also wanted to send forth women, and minorities. Once we decided upon a number, like 15, we sent them to the Interviewing Committee so that they would get the broadest representation of the campus. The Interviewing Committee then decided on their own criteria -- what they were going to look for in the applicants. They also decided how they were going to do the process. I understand that last year the Interviewing Committee met and interviewed each applicant. One of the criteria for broad representation was that they wanted to send forth undergraduate, graduate and interprofessional students, but they also wanted to send forth the best candidates. The first year, I know for instance, only the top five candidates were offered, and that is because they out shone the other candidates. Last year, the committee was very happy with the candidates that were sent forth.

Dr. Spillman:

I will be recommending to the governing presidents -- now that we have had three years experience -- that we look at the criteria. It is obviously their decision to make recommendations to the Board, but I think it would be appropriate, now that we have had some experience, to say "is this the best process for Ohio State?"

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Casto:

This morning we heard a report by Mr. David Boothe, from the Cooperative Extension Service, on EXCEL (Excellence in Community Elected Leadership). The objective of the program is to improve the leadership management resources available to local, elected, and appointed leaders, especially in small and mid-size communities. Twenty counties have expressed interest in the program and over 300 individuals have participated in workshops and seminars.

Next, we heard from Dr. Joseph Donnermeyer, Associate Professor of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, who reported on LEAD (Leadership Education and Development). LEAD is a two-year leadership development program for men and women in agribusiness and farming. It is one of thirty such programs across the country. LEAD is currently working with its third class who will graduate in June; class 4 will begin in September. The goal of LEAD is to develop the future spokespersons and leaders for Ohio's agricultural community. Dr. Donnermeyer is the current Director of LEAD. That completes my report.

FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Amb. Wolf:

First, I would like to call upon Mr. Shkurti, Acting Vice President of Finance, to give us both a Mid-Year Financial Review and a 1990-91 Current Funds Budget Report for the Second Quarter.

Mr. Shkurti:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Probably one of the most overworked phrases of 1991 is the old Chinese phrase: "We are cursed to live in interesting times." And because we have interesting times in terms of budgeting, we decided to depart from the tradition of just showing you the numbers which are in the traditional report and which I think miss a lot of important things that are going on. I have prepared an economical one page handout. One side has the details of the financing of the Cancer Hospital, and on the other side is The Ohio State University Board of Trustees Mid-Year Financial Review. This is the report which I would like to begin with. It is sort of in a "good news, not so good news" format. There are areas where finances are a little better than expected and areas where we have some problems that we need to address.

I would like to start where enrollments and retention are up. You may recall, last November I reported to the Board that enrollments and retentions were higher than what was estimated at the time the Board passed the budget in June. In terms of revenues, we are now able to calculate what that means. It means an additional $5 million that we were not planning on in June. About $3 million of that comes from the State in terms of higher appropriations and $2 million in terms of higher tuition. Now when there is additional income there are also some additional needs related to enrollment and some other things that were not anticipated, and those total a minimum of $4.4 million. The biggest portion of that is a structural deficit in the College of the Humanities, which totals $2.2 million dollars. It has built up over a number of years, and the primary reason is that there has been a tremendous enrollment increase in courses offered in that College. The budget process, for one reason or another, has not recognized that.

Additional enrollment related needs are in the College of Business and Office of Admissions. We hope to work on resolving those problems yet this year, so they don't carry over into next year. In addition, our researchers are very successful. They are demanding more space, and that requires more money. But, we would also be bringing in more money to the University.

As Mr. Teaford pointed out in his report, the bottom line for University Hospitals has been improving steadily and that is a very good sign. On the other hand, there is the issue of start-up costs for The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute, and I will get to that in a minute. Mr. Teaford also pointed out that our investments are growing and also our contributions, which we treat as restricted funds because the endowments can be used only for specified purposes. It is a real positive sign that those continue to grow. On the other hand, some of our earnings units are under financial strain. When I say an earnings unit, it is a unit like Residence Halls or Ohio Unions, that generally doesn't receive support from Central University Funds and are supported by charges that they provide for their services. Now, I want to make it clear that there is not a crisis in this area. But because of lower freshman enrollments and that type of thing, the Residence Halls are not getting the amount of income growth they used to get in the past. This is a situation that we are monitoring very carefully.

The next item concerns future commitments. One of the things President Gee asked me to do when he came here was to try to get a handle on what the University is committed to and what it is not. This is an interesting process in its own right, but I think we have it nailed down. We almost have the process finished as we start to prepare for the 1992 budget. We will be sharing that with you so that everybody knows what the expectations are in terms of what the University is committed to or not committed to, as the case may be.

The next item concerns management information systems and the auditors will talk more about this when they present the 1990 audit at the next meeting. But it appears that the University is underinvested in updating its management information systems. As a result, our information is not as timely as it should be. I think we have managed anyway, but that is an issue that is going to need to be addressed.

Finally, to get to the bottom line, our hope originally was to present to you the final audit for Fiscal Year 1990, that is the Fiscal Year that ended last June 30. But because of the heavy agenda today, we thought it would be better to put it off until next month. I can summarize it at this point by saying there are no unpleasant surprises in that report. In fact, the University's bottom line has improved in Fiscal Year 1990 and we are anticipating the bottom line will improve again in 1991, partly for the reasons I have mentioned. Now there is one unknown -- rapidly becoming not an unknown -- that does affect it, which are the State Budget problems.

As you know, we are in a national recession. We are finally beginning to acknowledge that and admit the "R" word. That affects the State of Ohio and State finances as well. At the time this was put together, it was not known what the State would do in response to this crisis. But it is my understanding that today Governor Voinovich will announce additional cuts in appropriations to deal with what he feels is a $127 million State budget problem in this fiscal year. It appears that higher education will suffer a reduction in State appropriations for the year of between 3-5 percent; 3 percent on the student subsidy and 5% on most of the line items. That will translate to a loss of approximately $12 million to The Ohio State University. In other words, the $12 million we were counting on earlier from State appropriations will not be available. That is not good news. Twelve million is a significant amount of money. On the other hand, it shouldn't come as a surprise to anybody.

As you recall at the last meeting, I indicated that the President asked Jim Nichols and myself to send out a memo indicating that there were possibly State budget cuts coming and to initiate additional hiring controls and other steps in the event this happened. It has happened. It will not be easy to deal with, but we will deal with it in a way that protects the financial solvency of the University and also protects our core academic programs.
FISCAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

In summary, I can say our financial picture at mid-year is mixed. There is both good news and bad news. In general, the University's financial condition is gradually improving. We are not rich; on the other hand, we are not on our way to the poor house. I think the challenge that faces us in the months ahead is to make the most effective use of the resources we have and, also, to continue to work with the State Legislature to make sure we have more resources to invest in Ohio's future.

Let me now turn to the specific issues of the Cancer Hospital and Research Institute. This is a rather unprecedented undertaking to open a new hospital of this type virtually from scratch. This data is for the first six months. The way I have laid out this chart is to show you what the assumptions were in the budget that was put together last year and then the results, and compare them with what was planned in the budget, with what actually happened.

The big difference was the plan to open the hospital and have patients in there effective July 1, 1990. Because of the water problem and other delays, patients were not in until July 9 and the phase-in was not completed until September 4. In addition, reimbursement from the various carriers, who would pay for those patients, did not begin until October 25. As a result, there was a lag in both the average daily census -- because the beds weren't open as soon as we anticipated -- and also a lag in the amount of income that was anticipated. The Hospital did have to staff up to have these employees available to treat the patients as they came in, so the paid FTE's ran ahead of the plan.

Expenses were a little higher than usual -- net revenues were expected to be $18.5 million at this point, in fact they were $16.2 million. The total expenses were expected to be $21.9 million at this point, in fact they were $24.2 million. When I say at this point, I mean at the end of December. So a net loss was expected to be $3.4 million in the first six months, and it turned out to be a net loss of $8 million.

It was also anticipated that the start-up costs for beginning the Cancer Hospital would be money borrowed from University Hospitals. It was initially planned that the total would be $26.5 million. Obviously with net losses higher than expected, the total borrowed from University Hospitals through December was $29.8 million. I think it is important to stress the context of these numbers. As your chief financial officer, I can never be happy with red ink appearing anywhere. It was planned, as Mr. Teaford mentioned, that the Cancer Hospital would eventually break even even at the end of three or four years, but it would lose money in its first two or three years as it started to gear up, and that has happened.

The other thing that I should stress is that most of you are in the private sector, so the term "fund accounting" really doesn't mean much to you. It means a lot in the non-profit sector. The funds we are talking about, in terms of deficits and spending, are basically funds that the Hospitals have as an earnings unit. Those are segregated from the funds that run the central campus, in terms of state aid for student education and student fees. So this is not money that would otherwise be available for the educational mission of the central campus in terms of its academic core. Obviously, the financial health of the central campus and the academic core are related to the financial health of the University Hospitals. But, again, it is not that the Cancer Hospital is stealing $30 million that would be available for student purposes or out of tuition. Rather think of the Hospitals as a holding company and that they are loaning money back and forth. Again, as Mr. Teaford mentioned in his report, in general, the Hospitals, taken as a collective, are doing rather well this year.

The other thing important to mention in terms of the context of these numbers, was that the first priority for the management of the Cancer Hospital was to get the facility up and running without incident, and to get patients in there receiving high quality care. They have done an admirable job and the patient figures, in terms of people being admitted to the Cancer Hospital and being treated, are very encouraging.

One of the things I have learned from President Gee is whenever I bring financial news that is less than happy news, the first question he asks is, "what are we doing about it?" I think that is a fair question to ask -- what is being done about the fact that the deficits are higher than planned in the Cancer Hospital. Well, there are a couple of things going on.

First, the management of the Cancer Hospital is in the process of initiating internal controls by department. Now if this were an existing facility, that is something that would be taken for granted. But again, for a new facility that requires new computer systems and new procedures. Those are very well along the way and will help the Cancer Hospital in terms of controlling its costs.

Second, the Cancer Hospital management is reporting monthly now to a special review committee that was set up by Weldon Ihrig before he left. This committee consists of not only myself chairing, but the University Controller, the Chief Financial Officer of University Hospitals, and the Executive Director of University Hospitals. We are reviewing the monthly results to make sure and monitor the progress of the Cancer Hospital with what is expected and planned.

Third, the hiring of additional people in the Cancer Hospital is going through a second step of monitoring, under the December 6 memo. Additional hiring controls means that the Vice President for Health Services has to review every hire that goes through the Cancer Hospital. So, again, there is another level of review making sure that only the people that are needed are hired.

Fourth, the Cancer Hospital staff is working with the staff of University Hospitals and with my staff to develop a long range financial plan. As part of that plan, we will develop a very detailed schedule of how the Cancer Hospital will reach a break even point and how it will pay back with interest the money that is owed University Hospitals.

Fifth, we are very close to working out a draft agreement with the Cancer Hospital and The Ohio Cancer Foundation to encourage additional fund raising to support research. As you know, one of the missions of the James Cancer Hospital is patient care. Another mission is research, and to the degree to which we can get endowed funds set up on a continuing basis to support research, we improve the financial position of the Cancer Hospital.
February 1, 1991 meeting, Board of Trustees

And finally, we are working very hard to point out to the State of Ohio that it is to their best interest to make an investment in helping the Cancer Hospital get started on a strong financial basis, because we think it is good for the State of Ohio. Although the State provided $2.5 million worth of start-up support this year, we are asking in the next budget year for $4.5 million of start-up support.

So we think the combination of all of these things will allow The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute to be a premier institution of its type in the country, and to do it in a way that is financially sound. We will continue to keep you posted on what the financial developments are, because this is a great deal of money and it is a very important project for the University, both in an academic sense and a financial sense. Mr. Chairman, that concludes my report at this time. I will be glad to answer any questions.

WHEREAS the Purchasing Policy of The Ohio State University, adopted by the Board of Trustees on September 7, 1984, provides that the President and/or Vice President for Business and Administration may grant a waiver from competitive bidding in the event of an emergency, when a sufficient economic reason exists, or when the goods or services can be purchased from only a single source, with a report on such waivers to be made quarterly to this Board; and

WHEREAS the Acting Vice President for Business and Administration has submitted a report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements granted for the period of October-December, 1990:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the report on waivers of competitive bidding requirements for the period of October-December, 1990, is hereby accepted.

Upon motion of Amb. Wolf, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

REPORT OF RESEARCH CONTRACTS, GRANTS, AND GIFTS
Resolution No. 91-84

Synopsis: The reports on contracts, grants, and gifts and the summaries for November and December 1990 are presented for Board acceptance.

WHEREAS monies are solicited and received on behalf of the University from governmental, industrial, other agencies, alumni, and various individuals in support of research, instructional activities, and service; and

WHEREAS such gifts and grants are received through The Ohio State University Research Foundation, the Engineering Experiment Station of The Ohio State University, and The Ohio State University Development Fund:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the research agreement between The Ohio State University and The Ohio State University Research Foundation for the contracts and grants reported herein, and the acceptance of the reports from the Engineering Experiment Station, The Ohio State University Development Fund during the months of November and December 1990 be approved.

Amb. Wolf:

I would like to ask you a question about the numerous Eminent Scholar programs where the General Assembly is giving us $500,000 and the University is matching funds for $500,000. Is that a million dollar Chair being established or is that just a million dollars to be exhausted as long as it lasts?

President Gee:

Well, they are designated as Ohio Eminent Scholars. Dave, you may want to explain exactly how we approach that particular program.

Dr. Boyne:

The $500,000 from the State combined with $500,000 from the University will go into an endowment. In addition, in each of these areas there will be $250,000 added to the $1 million so that the amount of the endowment, when fully established, will be $1.25 million. The proceeds of that then are available each year to support the Eminent Scholars in these areas.

President Gee:

Amb. Wolf it is an endowed program very similar to an endowed chair, but this public/private partnership makes it what we call the Ohio Eminent Scholar, which is somewhat of a different approach.

Amb. Wolf:

It is a marvelous program.

Upon motion of Amb. Wolf, seconded by Ms. Casto, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

Dr. Warmbrod:

We are seeking to acquire this property as an adjunct to the acreage where we house the Molly Caren Agricultural Center. It will be used as an integral unit and, basically, a major purpose will be the eventual relocation of our animal facilities at Don Scott and the dairy operation on Lane Avenue. This will be a long range effort to consolidate both the research and the animal area facilities. The operation will be integrated with the Molly Caren operation where we have the Farm Science Review. It would be highly advantageous for us to be able to make this move at this time.

Mr. Teaford:

How big is the Caren property?

Dr. Warmbrod:

Slightly over 900 acres -- the combination would be about 2,100 acres.

Mrs. Bowser:

Does this fit in to your strategic plan in the College of Agriculture?
February 1, 1991 meeting, Board of Trustees

Dr. Warmbrod:

Yes, it does. At the present time, we have detailed planning going on for what facilities we will need at that location.

Mrs. Bowser:

Your plan, I know, is to farm this and make all or part of the payments with profits. Will the University do that, or will you handle this in another manner?

Dr. Warmbrod:

We plan to farm it ourselves.

Mrs. Bowser:

You're about to learn something!

Mr. Celeste:

What does happen if the funding isn't sufficient?

Dr. Warmbrod:

Perhaps John Ellinger, Assistant Vice President, can give us the details of the plan for acquiring the funds to pay the loan.

Dr. Ellinger:

Our opportunity here is to combine the operations that we currently have at the Farm Science Review, Molly Caren Agricultural Center. We have two full-time staff there, two additional full-time staff that manage the Farm Science Review, and two students. We feel we can pick up this additional property and farm it in a productive way, because this property has 20 percent more productive capability than even the Molly Caren property next door. The second piece is that we can add to this operation with a one full-time person and an additional student employee.

A number of our students in the College have questioned the move of our animal facilities from Columbus, which is a close proximity for them. In our recommendation for these facilities, we hope to convert the dairy operation at Lane Avenue into an enclosed teaching animal holding facility. That way our students will not have to leave Columbus to take classes, but we will bring the animals to the students here on main campus for any academic work, as well as, for the programs the student clubs put on.

Mrs. Bowser:

What is your projected time in paying this farm off?

Dr. Ellinger:

Depending upon what eventual bonds would be done -- within 15 or 20 years -- depending upon what our financial arrangements are when they are sold.
February 1, 1991 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Teaford:

Do we really anticipate that they will let us have bonds that are only secured by farm revenues?

Mr. Nichols:

Mr. Teaford, all of the bonds that we issue for any of our auxiliaries are not guaranteed, if you will, by the income solely from that. They are general receipts bonds, they are therefore guaranteed by the general receipts of the University. We in turn, from a financial point of view in the Office of Finance and, also, in the Treasurers Office, do a very careful analysis to make sure that those auxiliaries can indeed pay off their portion of the overall issue so that it does not become a drain on the general University.

Amb. Wolf:

Thank you, very much. I think we all agree that this would be a great addition to the University and would insure the future of our agricultural program.

Mr. Teaford:

I have one additional question. This becomes Trustee property, as opposed to State of Ohio property, is that right?

Mr. Nichols:

That is correct.

1990-91 FUNDRAISING PERFORMANCE AND
THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION AND DEVELOPMENT FUND RECEIPTS

Presented to the Investments Committee and Adopted by the Board of Trustees, February 1, 1991
(See page 733)
Gift totals for the period July 1, 1990 to December 31, 1990, as compared to the same period last year, were up by 36 percent. Gift receipt dollars for the six-month period in 1990 were $29.4 million, as compared with $21.6 million in 1989. Donors increased by 16 percent (42,401 as compared to 36,945).

(A complete end-of-December summary is attached. The Trustee agenda packets also contain an "as of November 30" summary. We -- Development -- have just this week completed our counting.)

Other highlights:

- The gift receipt total during December, 1990, was $10,203,239. This is the third best single month's gift production in the University's history, exceeded only by the $15.2 million received in December, 1986, and the $12.1 million received in December, 1988.

- The $29,338,063 in gift receipts during July - December 1990 is the most ever received during any six-month period in the University's history.

- Only 26 percent of the gift receipts represent payment against pledges made during the recently completed Campaign. Therefore, 74 percent, or $21,732,170, of the amount received during the first six months of 1990-91 is new gift money.

- Of the $29.4 million raised (July to December), $7.3 million is deferred gifts.

- There were 21,841 gifts received in December.

APPENDIX L

CLEVELAND CLINIC FOUNDATION - THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC PARTNERSHIP

Presented to the Academic Affairs Committee and Adopted by the Board of Trustees, February 1, 1991
(See page 738)
ACADEMIC PARTNERSHIP

AGREEMENT made and dated as of this ___day of _____, 199_, by and between THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY (hereinafter referred to as "OSU"), a public institution of higher education created under the laws of the State of Ohio, having its principal offices in Columbus, Ohio, and THE CLEVELAND CLINIC FOUNDATION (hereinafter referred to as "CCF") a not-for-profit corporation chartered by the State of Ohio, having its principal offices in Cleveland, Ohio.

W I T N E S S E T H

WHEREAS, an affiliation between OSU and CCF would be a highly beneficial and logical extension of OSU's mission in teaching and research and in meeting the growing needs of the region, the State, and the nation in biology, bioengineering, biotechnology, the health care professions (including medicine, dentistry, nursing, optometry, pharmacy and the allied health professions) and would substantially strengthen existing OSU programs by providing additional space, personnel and facilities for OSU's Ph.D. research and graduate programs and educational offerings in the health care professions.

WHEREAS, an affiliation between the CCF and OSU would significantly enrich the existing programs of CCF in research and education and create a total biomedical and health sciences complex of the highest quality capable of dealing with all the needs for the training of scientists and health care professionals required to meet the challenging health problems of the next decades, and to bring to medical training and research, extensive programs in the humanities, behavioral sciences, chemistry, physics, biomedical engineering, mathematics, biotechnology, economics, statistics, and health and science policy.

WHEREAS, the parties consider it in the public and community interest and to their mutual interest for each to enter with the other into an agreement of academic partnership.

AND WHEREAS, it is recognized that this initial agreement cannot be a definitive resolution of all of the details that must be worked out and implemented through the internal governance processes of both OSU and CCF, but that it is desirable at this time to agree upon and articulate the general principles that will instruct the resolution of those details.

NOW, THEREFORE, IN CONSIDERATION OF THE MUTUAL PROMISES HEREIN OUTLINED, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1) An academic partnership shall be established by CCF and OSU involving the biomedical sciences, medical bioengineering, biotechnology and the health care professions, and the allied health professions. The purposes of the partnership shall include development of programs in education and in research, and where appropriate, patient care, which will be of the highest quality and in compliance with all statutes and regulations.
promulgated by The State of Ohio and the Ohio Board of Regents.

2) A Center, The Ohio State University-Cleveland Clinic Foundation Health Services Center (OSU-CCFHSC), composed of subunits that reside within appropriate colleges at OSU shall be established as a unit of OSU to carry out the purposes of this academic partnership. OSU-CCFHSC shall report directly to the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost at OSU and the subunits shall report directly to the appropriate College Dean at OSU. Faculty appointments to OSU-CCFHSC shall be made by the relevant College at OSU. OSU-CCFHSC shall be located at CCF in Cleveland, Ohio. A general guiding principle of this partnership, subject to modification by future agreement, shall be that CCF shall be primarily responsible for the management of business and administrative aspects of the partnership and of OSU-CCFHSC and OSU shall be primarily responsible for academic aspects.

3) Auxiliary OSU faculty positions shall be created at OSU-CCFHSC pursuant to OSU Rules of the University Faculty, Section 3335-5-19(C). Members of the staff of CCF shall be eligible for nomination to these faculty positions on appointments at less than fifty (50) percent service. Such position shall reside in the appropriate colleges and schools at OSU, with duty assignment at OSU-CCFHSC. The faculty of OSU-CCFHSC will accept the responsibilities and obligations inherent in such appointments at OSU and agree to abide by the academic codes of conduct, academic policies, research policies, and other relevant regulations established by OSU. Additionally, OSU-CCFHSC faculty shall be afforded all academic rights and privileges inherent in such appointments, including committee assignments appropriate to auxiliary faculty status.

4) Unless agreement between OSU and CCF is to the contrary is arrived at, all faculty assigned to OSU-CCFHSC shall be staff members at CCF. CCF will review proposals for appointment of faculty to OSU-CCFHSC under the guidelines existent at OSU. Approved nominations for appointment shall be forwarded to the Office of Academic Affairs at OSU. The Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost will review nominations and submit each to the appropriate college or school where it will be evaluated in accordance with established university policies and criteria for appointment. Once the appointment has been approved by OSU, OSU-CCFHSC will assign the faculty member to the appropriate division within OSU-CCFHSC (i.e., Anesthesiology, Biological Sciences, Laboratory Medicine, Medicine, Radiology, Surgery).

CCF will review proposals for promotion in auxiliary rank for OSU-CCFHSC faculty under the guidelines existent at OSU. Approved nominations for promotion will be submitted to the appropriate college where they will be evaluated in accordance with established University policies for promotions.
5) Except as provided otherwise in future agreements between CCF and OSU, the management of OSU-CCFHSC shall be the responsibility of CCF. No member of the staff of CCF or other employees of CCF, whether a member of the OSU-CCFHSC faculty and therefore having an auxiliary faculty appointment at OSU or not, and whether or not participating in educational or research programs pursuant to this agreement, shall be considered employees of OSU or of any of its constituent colleges for any purpose whatsoever, including but not limited to salary, tenure, practice plan participation, retirement or benefits. This does not preclude remuneration from OSU for specific academic activities or projects performed by OSU-CCFHSC faculty, where appropriate under separate agreements or special arrangements not involving an employment relationship.

Pursuant to these provisions it is agreed that OSU shall acquire no tenure obligations whatsoever.

6) OSU shall have the sole responsibility and authority to approve all course, curricula, and the academic appointment and promotion of faculty. Where appropriate, and consistent with their faculty status, members of OSU-CCFHSC faculty will be represented on relevant OSU committees.

7) CCF shall not be deemed to be part of OSU, or OSU a part of CCF; nor shall either entity, CCF or OSU, be under the control or supervision of the other's Board of Trustees. The Board of Trustees of CCF shall retain full responsibility and authority for CCF operations, and the Board of Trustees of OSU shall retain full responsibility and authority for OSU's operations, except as otherwise provided for herein.

8) Neither OSU or its Board of Trustees shall have any responsibility or obligation, whether under this agreement or as a matter of law, for the operating or capital expenses and fiscal affairs of CCF. CCF shall be financially autonomous and shall have complete authority with respect to its funds, expenditures and financial operation, including among other matters:

a) The establishment of its own budget and its schedule of compensation and fringe benefits for its faculty and employees.

b) The application for and receipt of grants, both public and private, and the dealings in all respects directly with the agency or foundation making such grant.

Similarly neither CCF nor its Board of Trustees shall have any responsibility or obligations, whether under this agreement or as a matter of law, for the operating or capital expenses and fiscal affairs of OSU. OSU shall be financially autonomous and shall have complete authority with respect to its funds, expenditures and financial operations, including among other matters:

a) The establishment of its own budget and its schedule of compensation and fringe benefits for its faculty and employees.
b) The application for and receipt of grants, both public and private, and the dealings in all respects directly with the agency or foundation making such grant.

9) Notwithstanding the separate financial operations and responsibilities of OSU and CCF, it is the intent of both parties to work toward combining financial research performance reporting, particularly in national surveys such as those done for R&D obligations and expenditures by the National Science Foundation. Such reports will require joint approval of OSU and CCF before dissemination.

10) Both OSU and its Board of Trustees and CCF and its Board of Trustees will retain independent, full responsibility and authority for public policy and legal issues relating to directives from federal, state and local government entities.

11) Standards of selection and admission and the establishment of the number, qualifications and academic status of students to be trained at CCF shall be determined by OSU and shall be consistent with the admissions and evaluation policies of OSU.

CCF shall share in recruiting students who will be based at CCF. It is understood by both parties that the OSU-CCFHSC of OSU will have the opportunity to develop a designated body of predoctoral M.D. and Ph.D., and eventually nursing, pharmacy, and allied health, students to be based at the OSU-CCFHSC campus in Cleveland. These students will receive a substantial portion, as appropriate to progress toward their degree, of their education and/or research experience at that site. OSU will have continuing oversight of these students and their educational programs. It is recognized that CCF will provide the necessary infrastructure to support the academic program.

12) The academic curricula carried out at CCF will be subject to the approval of appropriate OSU faculty committees. Faculty of OSU-CCFHSC shall have appropriate input into the deliberations and decisions of such committees.

13) This agreement is designed to concentrate on the development of an academic partnership of educational and research programs. The full range of governance issues defining the relationship of the OSU-CCFHSC to OSU's University Senate and other OSU governance organizations and the relationship of OSU to the CCF Board of Governors, will be addressed in detail at a later time. Exploration of these aspects of the relationship will continue, and will be reviewed annually. Five (5) years after the effective date of this agreement, these relational issues will be completely reviewed by both parties.

14) CCF and OSU recognize and warrant that nothing in the relationship between these institutions precludes relationships by either with any other hospital, university or agency, public or private. However, it is understood that for the purposes of these programs in research and education OSU will represent the primary academic affiliation of CCF.

15) Each party shall be solely responsible for its own legal liability for any matters growing out of the partnership established by this agreement. Neither will sue the other for any damages for which it has been found liable by a court of law. OSu will assure CCF that all students enrolled shall be covered by malpractice insurance where appropriate. CCF shall assure OSU that all staff members appointed to OSU-CCFHSC shall be covered by malpractice insurance where appropriate.

16) It is the full intention of both parties to make this affiliation a permanent one. However, if in the opinion of either party it becomes essential for the proper advancement and development of its institutional mission to terminate this affiliation, then the following procedure shall be followed:

a) Written notice of intent to terminate shall be filed by the chief executive officer and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of one party with the corresponding officials of the other.

b) Representatives of both Boards shall convene within sixty (60) days of the receipt of this written notice to discuss the proposed termination in full detail.

c) A period of not less than two (2) years shall elapse from the date of receipt of this written notice before termination can become effective. In no case shall termination occur until the end of the academic year, and reasonable provision must be made for all students fully enrolled to complete their designated period of training. Moreover, programs in existence when such notice of termination is given, under which students of either institution must take courses of instruction at the other institution, shall remain in effect until all students who are enrolled therein on the date of such notice, and who maintain continuous enrollment in the program, have completed or otherwise discontinued their participation in the program, and all financial arrangements and joint participation and control of such programs shall remain in effect.

d) Upon any such termination, the parties shall make within sixty (60) days such payments as are due to each other, and all equipment, appurtenances and personalty shall be turned over to the institution which purchased the same.

17) Differences or questions arising out of the affiliation shall be presented by the President of OSU or the Chief Executive Officer of CCF, or their designees, to an OSU-CCF Liaison Committee. The Liaison Committee shall be composed of ten (10) members, five (5) to be appointed by the Chief Executive Officer of CFF and five (5) to be appointed by the President of OSU. The appointees may include the Chief Executive Officer or President himself/herself. Each appointee shall serve at the pleasure of the appointing authority. The position of Chairperson of the Committee will alternate between the two institutions. and shall be designated each January 1 by the Chief Executive Officer of CFF or the President of OSU, as appropriate. The appropriate institution to designate the first Chairperson shall be OSU. If that first chairperson is designated during the course of a year, that Chairperson shall serve for that partial year and then the President of OSU may either renew the term of that chairperson for the next full year or designate a different chairperson to serve for the next full year.

Matters which cannot be resolved by this committee shall be referred to each Board for action as it deems desirable, consistent with the provisions of this agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this agreement in duplicate on the day and year first above written.

APPENDIX LV

1,102 ACRES IN MADISON COUNTY, OHIO

Adopted by the Board of Trustees, February 1, 1991
(See page 797)
Purchase of Real Property

Background

1,102 Acres in Madison County, Ohio

Location and Description

The property is an approximately 1,102-acre farm located on both sides of State Route 38 in Deer Creek Township of Madison County, Ohio. The farm, known as the Yoder Farm, is approximately 15 miles west of the Columbus metropolitan area and three miles north of London. Adjacent to the farm to the south is The Ohio State University's Molly Caren Agricultural Center, site of the Farm Science Review. Buildings on the farm include a one and a half story frame residence (approximately 1,300 net square feet) and metal garage, both in fair condition, and several barns, silos, grain bins, and sheds. The farm contains about 951 tillable acres. Not included within the 1,102 acres is a 20-acre homesite in roughly the middle of the property, accessed from State Route 38, that is owned by Mr. Joseph Yoder.

Appraised Value and Purchase Price

An appraisal by Earl Liff & Associates in July 1990, valued the property at $1,314.00 to $1,466.00 per acre, or total value about $1,448,000.00 to $1,615,500.00. The owner of the property, the Prudential Insurance Company of America, has offered to sell the property to the University for $1,600,000.00. Funds to purchase the property will come from the farm's earnings, with the farm being considered an auxiliary operation of the College of Agriculture, and from College fundraising.

Use of the Property

The College of Agriculture's Columbus area livestock facilities, located at Don Scott Field and Waterman Farm, are 20 years old and no longer adequate for modern agricultural teaching and research. There is a pressing need to replace these obsolete facilities. In addition, the present locations do not provide sufficient land for proper maintenance and replacement to improve the College's livestock programs, and at Don Scott Field, Airport operations and FAA regulations have reduced the amount of land available for agricultural use.

Acquisition of the Yoder Farm will provide the land necessary to replace the current inadequate facilities. Because the farm is adjacent to the Molly Caren Agricultural Center, the operation of the farm can be tied in with that of the Farm Science Review to better benefit each. Staff from the Review can be used to support the operation of the farm, and the farm will greatly enhance the Review's capabilities to demonstrate a greater variety of production practices.

D. Allan Bromley
Doctor of Science

As a researcher, scholar, and public servant, D. Allan Bromley brought science and technology to a new level of coherence and visibility in the national consciousness.

A member of the Yale University faculty for 31 years, Bromley was named assistant to the president for science and technology, director of the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy, and chair of the President's Council of Science and Technology in 1989. As the President's chief science adviser, Bromley is in the position to influence the course of basic and applied research, as well as the development of the strong technological base that the United States must have to compete globally.

Bromley is one of the world's leading nuclear physicists and is considered the father of modern heavy ion science. With his students and collaborators, he has carried out pioneering studies on both the structure and dynamics of nuclei. The Nuclear Structure Laboratory he established at Yale is one of the world's leading laboratories in this field and has graduated more Ph.D.s in experimental nuclear physics than any other institution in the world. He has published more than 450 papers and edited 18 books, including the three-volume Physics in Perspective, a survey of physics undertaken by the National Research Council.

A native of Ontario, Canada, Bromley received his doctorate in physics from the University of Rochester in New York and spent two years on that university's physics faculty. After five years as a research officer with Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., he joined the Yale University faculty, serving as chair from 1970-77. He is currently the Henry Ford II Professor of Physics at Yale, on leave from his presidential appointment.

In addition to his teaching and research, Bromley has played an active role in both national and international scientific affairs. He was president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and has served on numerous committees of the National Research Council, the National Science Foundation, and the National Academy of Science. His many honors include the 1988 National Medal of Science.

Because of his commitment to the advancement of science in service to humanity, Bromley is respected throughout the world's scientific communities. Ohio State is proud to recognize his distinguished achievements.
Recipients of Honors

Nyle C. Brady
Doctor of Humane Letters

One of the most respected and acclaimed agricultural scientists in the world today, Nyle C. Brady has made major contributions to both global and domestic agricultural communities.

Now senior consultant to the United Nations Development Program, Brady continues his lifetime work of applying science and technology to solving the problems of world famine and hunger.

A native of Colorado, Brady received his bachelor of science degree from Brigham Young University in 1941 and his doctorate in soil science from North Carolina State University in 1947. He has enjoyed a distinguished teaching career first at North Carolina State University and then at Cornell University, where he served as professor of soil science, head of the Department of Agronomy, director of the Cornell University Agricultural Experiment Station, and associate dean of the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences.

During his tenure at Cornell, Brady was tapped in 1963 by then Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman for a two-year stint as director of science and education for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, where he worked closely with the nation’s land-grant colleges and universities.

From 1973 to 1981, Brady served as director general of the prestigious International Rice Research Institute in Los Banos, Philippines, where he had a major role in sustaining the “Green Revolution” in Asia through enhanced rice production. He was also instrumental in creating the International Board for Soil Resources and Management, now located in Thailand.

Brady served from 1981-89 as senior assistant administrator for science and technology at the United States Agency for International Development, where he influenced both the global importance of soil science and agronomy.

A prolific writer and researcher, Brady authored The Nature and Properties of Soil, one of the most widely used soil science textbooks in the world for the past 35 years. Since 1967 he has been the editor-in-chief of the respected scientific journal, Advances in Agronomy, a book-length monograph that is avidly sought by agronomists internationally as a current reference.

Because of his distinguished contributions as educator, agricultural administrator, soil scientist, and humanist, Ohio State is proud to honor this eminent individual.

Robert L. Metcalf
Doctor of Science

In research, teaching, and science, Robert L. Metcalf has few equals. His contributions in the fields of entomology and environmental toxicology have had enormous impact on both science and society.

Renowned for his research efforts on pesticides, model ecosystems for monitoring environmental hazards, and plant-insect interactions, Metcalf has made a lasting contribution to a safer planet. Long before concern for the environment became mainstream, he worked tirelessly to design and promote environmental compatibility as an essential property of pesticides.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, Metcalf received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Illinois in 1939 and 1940 and his doctorate in entomology from Cornell University in 1943. After a brief stint with the Tennessee Valley Authority, he served on the faculty of the University of California at Riverside for 22 years. He has been a member of the University of Illinois faculty since 1968, holding appointments in entomology, biology, and veterinary pharmacology. Since 1981 he has been a professor at the University of Illinois' Center for Advanced Study.

In his 44 years in academia, Metcalf has been primary adviser to more than 70 graduate students who now hold positions throughout the world. He is the author of more than 400 scientific articles and has written or edited a number of books.

He has won major awards in several fields, including the International Award for Pesticide Chemistry from the American Chemical Society (1972), the Memorial Lecture Award of the Entomological Society of America (1978), and the prestigious Founder's Award of the Society for Environmental Toxicology and Chemistry (1984). He is an elected member of the National Academy of Sciences, the highest honor that can be bestowed on an American scientist.

Metcalf has served as a consultant for international organizations, such as the World Health Organization, and has played an active role in numerous National Academy of Sciences committees on insect control and the environment. He holds eight U.S. patents and one Canadian patent related to his career efforts to develop more readily degradable pesticides.

Ohio State is proud to recognize this distinguished scientist and concerned member of the human race for his many pioneering achievements.

President Gee:

In making these reports to you each month, I attempt to reflect, in some way, the breadth, the variety, and, especially, the quality of our undertakings over the last month. Today, I want to use one theme to capture a great deal that has gone on in this short month and it is our most important theme -- teaching. It is, after all, what we as a University are about. And it is carried out in as many settings, on as many subjects, as there are departments on our campuses.

Yesterday, the Center for Teaching Excellence sponsored a forum titled “Teaching Matters,” in which I was pleased to participate. A packed room of interested faculty and staff began a dialogue on questions of quality teaching: “How is it learned?” “How is it measured?” “How is it rewarded?” Indeed, I can say that it was a very stimulating discussion.

At the Lima campus this month, an interactive teleconference was held on “Issues and Conflicts in Writing Across the Curriculum,” a national initiative aimed at enhancing writing skills at all levels of education.

Ohio State was named one of six institutions in the nation to participate in the Focus on Teaching Project, a 3-year federally funded initiative, aimed at finding ways in which major research universities can recognize, reward, and support effective teaching. Ohio State faculty members Mary Margaret Fonow, Center for Women’s Studies, and Mary Ann Sagaria, College of Education, are teaching personal safety for young women through a pamphlet they have authored titled “On Your Own.”

As part of United Black World Week, hundreds of area schoolchildren were brought to the Ohio Union for a morning program called: “Teaching children of African descent the truth about their culture through dance, music, folklore, and film.

How about the combination of learning and earning that was celebrated this month, the one-year anniversary of the student investment program. The students out performed some of their professional competition, and did an outstanding job, showing a gain of $1 million on their $5 million portfolio. This Board’s confidence in them was clearly not misplaced!

We know that outstanding faculty are essential to the success of our teaching efforts, so, too, are outstanding alumni. And the two came together in a very special way. I was delighted to participate in a program in Chicago this month that honored one of our very distinguished graduates, Richard Morrow. On the occasion of his retirement as chairman of Amoco Corporation, the Amoco Foundation has created an endowed chair at Ohio State in polymer engineering in Mr. Morrow’s name. That is a marvelous tribute to a fine member of the Ohio State family.
President Gee: (contd)

Another essential for outstanding teaching is exceptional students. Let me mention a few we are especially proud of! Three Ohio State students are among the 200 finalists in the nation for the 1991 Truman Scholarship. Kelly Boggs, a junior from Jefferson, Ohio, majoring in Japanese and economics; Randall Neprash, a junior from Columbus, majoring in civil engineering; and Alice Wolfe, a junior from Baltimore, Ohio, majoring in agronomy, are competing for these prestigious $30,000 awards for undergraduate and graduate study.

You may have seen Scott Wright's name in USA Today as a member of the Third Team in USA Today's All-American College Student recognition program. Scott is a mechanical engineering student from Mineral City, Ohio.

I had the opportunity to witness some terrific teaching and learning on a recent visit to Larkins Hall. Make no mistake, our fine staff in recreation and our varsity coaches are outstanding teachers working with terrific students.

I saw our synchronized swim team preparing for a meet last weekend -- which they won, of course. They have won everything for the last fourteen years. I visited with that wonderful Number Two ranked men's team -- and I know how proud you are of our gymnastics program. Coach Kormann and his young men are fabulous. You heard it here first: there are several future Olympians on that squad. And, of course, as you well know, they did beat Penn State the number one ranked gymnastics team in the country. They are truly remarkable.

The men's swimming team is undefeated this season and has beaten both Indiana and Michigan for the first time in years! On the women's side, Susie Gottlieb was named Big Ten Swimmer of the Year and her coach, Jim Montrella, is Coach of the Year.

By the way, how about those basketball Bucks! The number 2 ranked Buckeyes have ignited a spirit of pride not only across the campus and the State, but among our friends and alumni across the country. I can attest to that having just visited several of our alumni programs in Florida, where I was asked a good deal about our basketball programs. Sunday, they will win their first Conference title since 1971! I want to say, too, and this is very consistent with the point that I have been making, that Coach Ayers is a wonderful teacher and a fine representative of this University.

Teaching is what we are all about. From the hardwood of St. John Arena to the computer labs in Hagerty Hall, students and teachers are fully engaged in exciting pursuits.

Madam Chair, this is my report for the month.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION REPORT

Ms. Casto:

The Research Foundation grants and contracts for the first seven months of the current fiscal year are shown in the agenda book. There are 799 awards listed which provide a gross income of $73 million.

Funding to date is approximately one percent ahead of the first seven months of last fiscal year. Federal funding has increased both overall and in all but three federal sponsor areas. Funding from the State of Ohio and Industrial sectors has also increased. Some highlights of awards for January are:

$595,000 from the National Endowment for the Humanities for an Arabic language and culture summer institute for secondary school teachers.

$475,000 from the Electric Power Research Institute for a study to determine the factors in the home that might contribute to an increased risk of transmission of Legionnaires' disease.

$20,000 from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for organizing the workshop on non-linear dynamics to be held in Columbus.

That completes my report, Madam Chair.

CANCER HOSPITAL REPORT

Mr. Barone:

On July 9, 1990, The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute opened its doors to patients and began an operational phase-in period which concluded on September 4, 1990. Immediately following the phase-in of operations, the Cancer Hospital was surveyed by the Health Care Financing Administration for approval as a Medicare hospital and secondly, surveyed by the Joint Commission for Accreditation of Hospitals. Both surveys were passed which resulted in The James Cancer Hospital receiving a Medicare provider number, an exception from the DRG reimbursement scheme and, finally, a three-year accreditation by the Joint Commission. The receipt of the DRG exception allows the Cancer Hospital to be reimbursed for patient care activities on a reasonable cost basis.

As of January 31, 1991, the Cancer Hospital is running an average daily census of 61 patients compared to a budget of 65. Additionally, year-to-date net revenues are $20,934,000 compared to a budget of $22,363,000 and total expenses run $30,294,000 compared to a budget of $26,163,000. This equates to an actual net loss of $9,360,000. Although this loss is greater than anticipated in the original budget, it can be attributed to the delay and extended phase-in of operations due to the flood. Additionally, there are approximately $2.7 million in receivables from medicare which were billed prior to the October 25, 1990, receipt of the Medicare provider number. These bills have been submitted and we anticipate maximum reimbursement. Currently there is a University based finance committee working closely with the Cancer Hospital administration, as well as the University Hospitals administration, to monitor the financial position of this health care institution.
Cancer Hospital Report (contd)

Mr. Barone: (contd)

On March 1, 1991, a six-month strategic planning process will begin which will outline the strategic plan for The James Cancer Hospital and Comprehensive Cancer Center for the next five years. The Douglass Group from Dallas, Texas, a subsidiary organization of Deloitte & Touche, has been awarded a contract to assist us in these efforts. The Douglass Group has a strong background in working with other health care organizations specific to cancer such as M. D. Anderson, Memorial Sloan Kettering, Lee Moffit, and others. Additionally, their focus for strategic planning has been with academic health care centers and they have worked in a strategic planning capacity with many of the National Cancer Institute designated Comprehensive Cancer Centers.

Hospitals Board Committee Report

Mr. Teaford:

The Hospitals Board met on February 21 and received the following Committee reports:

On February 14 the Strategic Planning Committee compared the results of surveys conducted in 1987 and 1990 to determine consumer attitudes and preferences toward healthcare services and providers. They learned that in 1990 OSU Hospitals was viewed more favorably overall and for specialty services than it had been in 1987. However, many of those surveyed go to the hospital designated by their HMO, PPO or insurance plan -- and 71 percent on the basis of what their physician chose. University Hospitals is viewed as the first or second choice for state-of-the-art services, cleanliness, and caring staff; our ranking falls to fifth in the areas of access and ease of getting around inside the Hospitals. Which comes as no great surprise to anyone who has ever attempted access.

The Committee discussed whether the Hospitals should move more aggressively into the managed care arena and decided that employers and unions would be very receptive to a managed care plan offering cost-based prices, quality, and value. The Committee, also, focused specific attention on the development plan for the Neurosciences Area of Emphasis. As you may recall, the Hospitals Board and the Medical College have chosen five areas, in particular, where emphasis will be placed and Neurosciences is one of those. It was noted that in all our planning and marketing efforts that the University Hospitals must not lose sight of the overall objective of placing the College of Medicine in the nation's top 10 medical schools.

On February 21 the Professional Affairs/Education/Research Committee looked in detail at the Department of Ophthalmology's quality assurance program. Dr. Bay reported on combined efforts of several departments to help drug-dependent mothers and their babies. He also reported on actions taken to ensure timely consultations. The Committee reviewed hospital-wide quality indicators and received a report from Mr. Fraley about actions taken to reduce one of those indicators which had fallen below where we would want -- namely the waiting time for patient admissions. Dr. Mekhjian reported that a combination of educational programs and monitoring of drug utilization has resulted in significant cost savings. Dr. Mekhjian also discussed the Performance Based Credentialing System which the Hospitals are moving toward whereby each physician's performance is monitored by means of specific indicators and compared with his or her peers. Deviations from the norm are analyzed to determine whether any corrective actions need to be taken, although deviations do not necessarily indicate poor medical practice. These confidential profiles are available to the Credentials Committee during the reappointment process. Mr. Fraley provided and reviewed the survey reports of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations; the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities; and the Ohio Department of Health's Validation Survey for Compliance with Medicare Conditions of Participation. Indeed, all of those reports gave the OSU Hospitals their highest accolades.

After receiving reports of Committee activities, Board members were addressed by Dr. Thomas Prior, who gave us a short course on DNA testing and its use in diagnosing muscular dystrophy. This can also be used for carrier detection and prenatal diagnosis. The January financial and statistical highlights for University Hospitals and The James Cancer Hospital were reported. For the year-to-date, patient activity is ahead of budget in University Hospitals and below budget in the Cancer Hospital for the reasons my colleague told you about a few minutes ago. Combined admissions are 5 percent above budget and 5.7 percent more than last year at this time. Combined patient days are 5 percent above budget and 4.7 percent over last year's activity for the same time period. Combined average length of stay is essentially on target and roughly 1.2 percent less than last year's actual for the same time period. University Hospitals' net income through January was $99,000 versus a budgeted loss of $1.6 million. That is more than $1.7 million ahead of budget.

Board Chairman Dr. John Kramer appointed a nominating committee for the Hospitals Board officers for the coming year and we received a report of development activities for the medical center.

During the briefings held on February 21, Mr. Fraley informed Board members of the following:

-- The University has hired an architectural and engineering firm to review the feasibility of expanding the 12th Avenue parking ramp.

-- A formalized affiliation agreement between Unverferth House and OSU Hospitals is being developed. The House was established by a volunteer group in honor of the late Dr. Donald Unverferth to provide accommodations for University Hospitals' pre- and post-heart transplant patients.

-- The Office of Business and Administration has initiated a major study of visitor access to all OSU campuses, extended facilities, and University properties. The project will address signage, graphics, and visual communications providing a sense of physical identity with the University. The first of nine segments has just begun and encompasses State Route 315/University Hospitals/Western Gateways.

HOSPITALS BOARD COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford: (contd)

-- Last October the Hospitals Board approved a continuous program to upgrade our rehabilitation facilities. As we conclude renovation of the first and second floors of Dodd Hall, construction bids are now being solicited for renovation of the third and fourth floors.

That completes my report, Madam Chair.

INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Teaford:

It was, indeed, a fun meeting this morning. We were advised that the total investment pool is now at a record $371 million; that the total endowment funds are now at a record $346 million; and that the share value increase last month was 7.8 percent, making it the second highest month in the history of the University. It is important to point out that the highest month was some five years ago when the total dollars was less.

In addition, we were advised that additions to the endowment funds, in other words new money, are ahead of last year's record year. All fund managers but one are up for the year and, of course, the second ranking fund manager is the University students. I will certainly point that out to the other investment managers next year.

We also received a report on NACUBO, the National Association of College and University Business Officers. We now have the thirty-fourth largest endowment in the country and that is up four places from last year. On the four measures: the one, three, five, and ten-year measures of the fund, we are even with our peers -- in other words, the similar sized endowment funds. We are ahead of public universities on every one of those measures and ahead of the Big 11. Penn State is now in the numbers, even if they haven't quite made it yet in basketball and football. I would point out that last year the last place in the Big 11 was held by the university in the state to the north. We are also in the middle quartile, in terms, of the performance of all of the NACUBO universities. And as you will recall, that is indeed our goal. We also are a little better than that middle quartile on the ten-year comparison -- where we like to be. Our theory being, "If you are in the middle every year for ten years, you will be ahead." And it is holding. Also, in the gift flow rate, in other words the amount of new monies coming in, we are ahead of NACUBO in our peer-sized endowments and all of the public endowments.

We also received a report on the Quarterly Cash and Investments and all of that was in accordance with the usual numbers.

That completes my report, Madam Chair.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Mr. Shumate:

The Academic Affairs Committee received a very positive report this morning from Dr. Robert Arkin, Professor in the Department of Psychology, on the Undergraduate Recruitment Initiatives that we have instituted at the University. Perhaps the most accurate statement is to say that this Committee is now coordinating, on a campus-wide basis, the efforts towards actively recruiting students for our undergraduate school. They are also responsible for implementing strategic efforts in order to ensure that in this time of decreasing student population graduating from high school, that we still have students appropriately applying to Ohio State for admissions.

Some of the activities that they have engaged in during the past year have been to implement a campus-wide telephone campaign; a presentation regarding financial aid that particularly highlights merit scholarships being available; increased visits by Admissions Office representatives to high schools and college night fairs; and improving the data base on information for prospective students, as well as sending follow-up letters to students who have visited the campus or contacted the University. The alumni are also being actively involved and engaged in the recruiting efforts that are being coordinated by the undergraduate recruitment committee.

The committee continues to work on issues such as enhancing the campus tour, with an effort towards emphasizing the fine academic aspects of this University. They would like to see the University hire a coordinator for alumni activities in the Admissions Office, and they are also interested in moving Admissions and other student service offices to a more centralized, attractive location. Dr. Arkin requested that the Board of Trustees consider appropriately funding this committee's efforts for the continuation of their activities.

In addition, the Committee is recommending to the Board of Trustees the following resolutions:

Distinguished Service Awards

Background

Wendell W. Ellenwood

One of the true pioneers among union directors nationally, under his leadership union support services have kept pace with changing populations and needs; in particular, he was instrumental in the approval, funding, and construction of the Drake Union which opened in 1972. He inaugurated many revolutionary concepts, including fast food franchises housed in the Union building.

Wendell has been deeply interested in student development and leadership and, both by his personal example and by establishing highly effective programming within the Ohio and Drake Unions, he has been a vital and positive campus leader for over a generation. Numerous testimonials from current and former students are proof of Ellenwood's abiding concern for student welfare and growth. His having been elected to honorary membership in Sphinx is further evidence of students' respect and admiration. Among the many student organizations benefiting from his active involvement is Ohio Staters, Inc., which he served as faculty treasurer and as a member of its Board of Directors.

Among many honors he has received, has been a scholarship in his name which is designed to provide $600 scholarships to two students each year who are active with the Ohio-Drake Unions Activities Board.

Albert J. Kuhn

Professor Emeritus Albert J. Kuhn has had a distinguished career of scholarly teaching and dynamic administration since he came to Ohio State in 1954 after having earned his Ph.D. in English literature from Johns Hopkins University. His commitment and dedication to effective teaching and research was recognized by his faculty colleagues as he moved rapidly through the ranks from instructor to full professor in 1965. Dr. Kuhn was elected chair of the English Department in 1964 and served in that capacity until he was called to be Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost in 1971. In June of 1979, he planned to return to the classroom as a full-time teacher ending his career as it had begun, but that was not to be.

When it became apparent that the University needed a highly respected academic leader and skillful administrator to direct the University Honors Center, Dr. Kuhn responded to the President's call at the urging of his faculty colleagues and served nobly in that position until his retirement. His highly regarded reputation for academic integrity, his commitment to excellence and life's humanistic values were basic to the expansion and increased visibility of the Undergraduate Honors Program.

Dr. Kuhn's distinguished service has extended to all of the colleges and campuses of the University through his participation as a member and/or chair of the University Library Council; University Athletic Council; The Ohio State University Conference on Humanities; the University Press; Big Ten Consortium Committee on Institutional Cooperation; President of the Research Foundation; Board of Overseers of the Academy for Contemporary Problems; and Region VIII, Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Selection Committee.
Distinguished Service Awards (contd)

Paul E. Watkins

Mr. Paul E. Watkins has been a loyal alumnus, a generous supporter, and a particularly good friend of The Ohio State University. Over these many years, he has given very generously of his time, his counsel, and his resources to such units of the University as the College of Humanities, the Department of Classics, the Center for Epigraphical Studies, the Department of English, the Department of Philosophy, and the University Libraries, to name but a few.

The breadth, level, and regularity of Paul's service evidence his deep commitment to the educational mission of the university in general and his steadfast loyalty to The Ohio State University in particular. In essence, Paul has chosen to build and cultivate a lasting relationship with his alma mater, which exemplifies the "firm friendship" heralded in Carmen Ohio. In recognition of Paul's commitment to his University, his loyalty and dedicated service, he is most assuredly deserving of a 1991 Distinguished Service Award.

Robert J. Watkins

Robert J. Watkins, attorney and partner with Porter, Wright, Morris and Arthur in Cincinnati, and former legal counsel to Proctor and Gamble, has served The Ohio State University in many areas and many capacities. He has been active in the College of Law having served on its Centennial committee and made a major gift to its Centennial fund. He has served four over twenty-one continuous years on various boards, executive committees and councils for University Development and the University Campaign. He is a leader of the University's regional activities in Cincinnati, and has hosted numerous regional events. A life member of the Alumni Association, Bob has received the Alumni Centennial Award (1970) and the Ralph Davenport Mershon Award (1989).

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

Resolution No. 91-97

RESOLVED, That the Board adopt the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey a copy to the families of the deceased.

Donald P. Cottrell

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 21, 1991, of Donald P. Cottrell, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Educational Theory and Practice.

Donald P. Cottrell was born in Columbus on February 17, 1902, and earned a bachelor's degree from Ohio State in 1923. He received a master's degree in 1927 and a Ph.D. in 1929 from Columbia University. He began his career in higher education as a professor at Teachers College, Columbia University, from 1929 to 1946. Among his positions at Teachers College were executive director of Horace Mann-Lincoln School and executive officer of the Division of Instruction. He was Dean of the College of Education at Ohio State from 1946 to 1967. After stepping down as dean, he continued as a professor in the Department of Educational Policy and Leadership until he retired in 1972.

Dr. Cottrell wrote extensively on teacher education. He was the author of Redirecting Teacher Education (1936) and editor of and contributor to Teacher Education for a Free People (1956).

In 1949, the Board of Higher Education of New York City engaged Dr. Cottrell to direct a study of the long-term needs of the four city colleges for buildings and other capital improvements. The study, "Public Higher Education in the City of New York," was published in 1950. In 1961, he made another study with recommendations for the future of the Bernard M. Baruch School of Business and Public Administration. He served as member and chairman of the Board of trustees of Talladega College, Alabama, and as a trustee of Western College for Women in Oxford, Ohio.

His other memberships included the American Association of University Professors, the Society of College Teachers of Education, and Kappa Delta Pi.

Recognized internationally as an expert consultant, Dr. Cottrell advised the U.S. Military Government in Germany on university education (1946), went to the Philippines, Japan, and China as chairman of a survey commission on Protestant-sponsored education (1948), served as chief of the United Nations Educational Planning Mission to Korea (1952-53), and advised the Indian government on the establishment of four regional centers for teacher education in the late 1950's and early 1960's.

Upon retirement, Dr. Cottrell pursued a second career as a painter. His works were shown in Columbus, Zanesville, and Paris, France.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Dr. Cottrell its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and his many friends, students, and associates have sustained.

Richard D. Jackson

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 26, 1991, of Richard D. Jackson, Vice President Emeritus of Business and Administration.

Dick Jackson was born on February 19, 1934, in Oyster Bay, New York. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering from Tri-State College in Angola, Indiana, and was a registered professional engineer in the State of Ohio. After working for the Ohio Department of Transportation, in positions ranging from design engineer to Deputy Director, and as an engineer in private practice, he served as Service Director for the City of Columbus from 1972 to 1975. He was Director of the Ohio Department of Transportation from 1975 to 1977, and from 1977 until 1979 he directed the Ohio Department of Administrative Services. Dick Jackson joined The Ohio State University in June 1979 as Vice President of Business and Administration and served with distinction in that position until his retirement in March 1990. He also served two terms on the Ohio Ethics Commission and twice (in 1984 and 1989) was elected Chair of the Commission.

As Vice President, Dick Jackson had management responsibility for the departments of Business Management, Business Services, Internal Audit, Legal and Contracts Services, Physical Facilities, Public Safety, University Architect's Office, and University Systems.

During his career in public service, Dick Jackson managed the planning, design, and construction of approximately one and one half billion dollars of public improvements. At Ohio State, his leadership was instrumental in undertaking and completing projects that have enhanced the physical and academic environment of the University - Rhodes Hall; the Wexner Center for the Arts; The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute; the new chemistry laboratories; and the Research Park - and projects to support the academic mission - service and warehousing facilities; a new telecommunications system; a coal-fired boiler; intramural playing fields; and the child care center. He continually focused concern, attention, and planning on the need for modernization of the University's infrastructure and instituted the now annual International Symposium on Preserving a Quality Environment for Learning. His stewardship and curatorial concern for the campus inspired others and made Ohio State a better place in which to learn.

Throughout his service to this University, Dick Jackson demonstrated an abiding concern for the welfare of students, faculty, and staff and a sincere dedication to the best interests of Ohio State. He was indeed quietly effective and respected both within the institution he served so well and by the larger University community.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to his family and friends. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Floyd I. Lower

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 13, 1991, of Floyd I. Lower, Instructor Emeritus in the Cooperative Extension Service.
RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM (contd)

Floyd I. Lower (contd)

Mr. Floyd I. Lower was born on May 16, 1893, in Alliance, Ohio. He graduated from Alliance High School in 1914. In 1918 he received a certificate upon the completion of coursework in Agriculture at The Ohio State University, majoring in general agriculture. He then entered the military service and served until February 1919.

Mr. Lower began his professional career in the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service as a County Agricultural Agent in Carroll County in 1920, and resumed his extension experience in Columbiana County in 1925. He returned to The Ohio State University to receive his Bachelor of Science degree in 1940. Throughout his career, Mr. Lower was interested in seed potatoes, land use, conservatism, and rural economics. He held membership in the County Extension Agents' Association and the Ohio Forestry Association. In 1961 he was honored by the Ohio County Extension Agents' Association for 40 years of outstanding service to clientele in Ohio. Upon his retirement in 1963, he was named Instructor Emeritus.

Mr. Floyd I. Lower was believed to be the oldest retired agent and had served longer than any other agent in Ohio's agriculture Extension. Upon his retirement, he became manager of Ohio's annual potato field trials, which test new potato varieties under typical Ohio growing seasons. He was fondly known as "Mr. Potato" and was recognized nationally for his meticulous records. He helped from Lisbon's first Chamber of Commerce, becoming its first executive director and held that position for 17 years. He was founder and chairman of the Lisbon Shade Tree Commission and founded the community's Johnny Appleseed Festival in 1967. Many people were astonished that Mr. Lower was as active in his 90s as many men were in their 60s. He proved to be a challenge and an inspiration to those he worked with.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family and friends of Mr. Lower its deepest sympathy. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's realization of the loss that the family, the University, and his many, many friends and associates have sustained.

Milton B. Trautman

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 31, 1991, of Milton B. Trautman, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Zoology.

Professor Trautman was born in Columbus on September 7, 1899, and did not complete high school due to a chronic illness. Largely self-taught and tutored, he became an internationally-known and respected ornithologist and ichthyologist. He was a research assistant for the Ohio Division of Conservation from 1925-34, and assistant curator of fishes at the University of Michigan Museum of Zoology from 1934-39. He came to Ohio State in 1939 and eventually became a full professor. He served as curator of ornithology at The Ohio State University Museum of Zoology for several years after his retirement in 1970.

He was the author of more than 100 scientific publications. His first book, The Birds of Buckeye Lake, Ohio, was published in 1940. His classic and definitive book, The Fishes of Ohio, was published in 1957 by The Ohio State University Press. It has been called the "most complete report of the fishes of any state ever published."

Milton B. Trautman (contd)

Professor Trautman received an honorary doctor of science degree from the College of Wooster in 1951. He and his wife, Dr. Mary A. Trautman, who was his able assistant and collaborator, received the first honorary degrees awarded spouses by The Ohio State University in 1978.

Professor Trautman was a charter member and president of the Wheaton Club. He was president and life member of the Columbus Audubon Society and the American Ornithologist Union. He was a life member and held offices in the American Society of Ichthyologists and Herpetologists and the Wilson Ornithological Society. He was a fellow in the Ohio Academy of Science, the American Fisheries Society, the American Institute of Fishery Research Biologists, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deep sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

John A. Walker

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on January 27, 1991, of John A. Walker, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Theatre.

A native of Chapel Hill, North Carolina, Dr. Walker received a bachelor of arts degree in 1936 and a master of arts in 1938, both from the University of North Carolina, and a Ph.D. from Cornell University in 1952. Following teaching appointments at Finch College, Alabama College, the University of Virginia, Michigan State University, and Ohio University, Dr. Walker became chairperson of the Theatre Department of The Ohio State University in 1971, a post which he held until his retirement in 1981.

Dr. Walker distinguished himself as teacher, journalist, administrator, and stage director. He was general manager of the outdoor historical drama, THE LOST COLONY, in 1946-47. He published reviews in "Quarterly Journal of Speech" and "Educational Theatre Journal." Among the theatrical productions he directed over the years were CANDIDA, OUR TOWN, SUMMER AND SMOKE, and WAITING FOR GODOT.

Professor Walker was particularly active in improving the Ohio arts community. In addition to his work with Ohio University and The Ohio State University, he was the first president of the Ohio Theatre Alliance from 1973-1974, president of the Athens Children's Theatre, and a member of the Columbus Junior Theatre of the Arts. On the national level, Dr. Walker served as president of American Playwrights Theatre and was chairperson of the American Theatre Association standing committee on standards from 1971 to 1973.

Dr. Walker spent 42 years contributing to the improvement of university theatre wherever he taught. His services as professor, director, journalist, arts administrator, and department chairperson testify to a lifetime of satisfying achievement.

On behalf of the University, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding in their loss. It was directed that his resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon retirement, she was named Professor Emeritus.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses its sympathy and understanding to the family of Professor Watson. It was directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to the family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Upon motion of Mr. Shumate, seconded by Mr. Barone, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous voice vote.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Shumate:

The Student Affairs Committee received a very spirited and lively report from the Director of Traffic and Parking, Mr. Caleb W. Brunson. I wish I had accurate notes on the "Fact and Fiction" presentation that Mr. Brunson gave to the Committee. He wanted us to be sure to know that: it is a fact that there are ample parking spaces at The Ohio State University. He also wants us to know that it is fiction that his department spends so much of their time writing traffic tickets.

The Division of Traffic and Parking is a self-sustaining division; their $6.5 million budget is self-generated through the sale of decals, visitor parking and special events parking. Mr. Brunson noted that 50 percent of that revenue actually comes from visiting parking income. The Division of Traffic and Parking operates the largest parking operation on a single campus in the United States. They are working diligently to insure that there is adequate parking and engaging in efforts to make that parking as convenient as possible for the staff, faculty, administration, students, and visitor to this campus.

The Student Affairs Committee next heard reports from the student government leaders:

Mr. Mark Slivka:

One issue going on right now is the non-tuition related living expenses budget that was proposed by the Financial Aid department. Due to discrepancies between actual and proposed student living expenses, students are being forced, at the present time, to make up the differences by either working part-time or seeking high interest loans from private lenders. What we found in our investigation was that there are major discrepancies between OSU and other Ohio colleges and universities in relation to rent, utilities, clothing, groceries, and transportation. On the average, Ohio State's living expenses estimates are approximately $3,800 less than all other schools. For example, Ohio State does not include essential commodities such as car insurance in its budget, and it grossly underestimates rent and utilities, on and off campus. So, it is our general feeling that the estimated cost proposed by the Financial Aid department is not an accurate reflection of the actual cost incurred by the student. It is our recommendation to the Council of Student Affairs to take the proper steps to re-evaluate the proposed cost of living expenses for the students and to make any necessary corrections to bring us more in line with the other Ohio schools. I don't think that it should be cheaper to live in Columbus than it is to live in Toledo, Dayton, or Cincinnati. Something is very wrong here.

Dr. Spillman

Mark, I might suggest that you have your representative on the Council of Student Affairs bring that issue to the meeting next Wednesday. We meet at 1:00 on Wednesday and we will get to it right away.

Mr. Slivka:

I might just come to that meeting. That is my report.

Mr. Teaford:

What kind of professional students are you and your vice-president?

Mr. Slivka:

I am a third-year dental student and I will be with you for the next year and a half. Lisa is a second-year medical student, potentially taking on my role in the future.

Mr. Shumate:

Thank you, very much. Nice meeting you.

Mr. John McClintock:

Benneta couldn't make it today, so she asked that I speak on her behalf. I am John McClintock, Treasurer of the Council of Graduate Students. I am not going to drop any bomb shells on you today, just give you an idea of what we have been looking at this month.

We have formed an ad hoc committee on child care to address some of the problems of low cost and adequate close proximity day care for students that have children or dependents. We have a couple of child care fairs coming up this quarter to inform graduate students of opportunities on campus and to establish a network of graduate students who are willing to swap child watching hours. We are also looking at a long-term goal of a drop-in co-op day care service.
March 1, 1991 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. McClintock: (contd)

Next, we are carrying out our plans for the 1991 Graduate Research Forum to be held on April 20, at the Fawcett Center. Ninety-one abstracts have been submitted and they are being reviewed right now by fifty-five faculty members who are serving as the abstract judges. Along with the Forum, we are also going to have a workshop on April 2, which will inform graduate students about how to present research at academic conferences. Dr. John Stegman, College of Business, and Dr. Lowell Hedges, College of Agriculture, will present the workshop. That is my report.

Mr. Teaford:

There is a University-wide committee studying dependent care, both elderly and child care. So you might try and hook into that as well.

Mr. McClintock:

I did not know that, but I will tell Benneta.

Mr. Shumate:

Any questions for John? John, thank you, very much.

Mr. Mike Clark:

Good morning. First of all, I would like to introduce Mr. Shane Dawson, Director of P.R. and Marketing for USC. He is going to be commenting on some things that I will be talking about.

I would like to bring you up to date on the Student Trustee Search. I am sure you all have been waiting to hear about it. I would like to ask Mr. Sloan or Mr. Slivka to comment on the search because they were on the actual interviewing committee and I was not. We have selected the top five candidates and will be sending the top five list to Governor Voinovich's office on Monday. The list consists of two undergraduate and three professional students. From what I have heard, each individual is very good and has excellent qualifications. The people on the committee feel very confident in the selection and that each candidate is an excellent choice. Again, if you have any questions about the Committee, Steve Sloan or Mark Slivka have the details.

President Gee:

How much interest did we have this year?

Mr. Clark:

I have not been involved in student government in the past, so I am not aware of the history itself. I would think that the turnout we had was decent, but I think it could be a lot better in terms of the size of Ohio State. I guess in theory, if you think about it, all you need is for one qualified person to apply. But I do think it is getting better.
March 1, 1991 meeting, Board of Trustees

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Teaford:

What was the number of students who applied this year?

Mr. Clark:

I am not sure of the exact number, but it was just under 50.

Mr. Shumate:

It was under 30 last year, wasn’t it?

Mr. Clark:

I think so. I would say more than half of those were undergraduates and I was very happy to see that. I think it was excellent. I think the perception of the Board members are, what they do, and the importance of the Board of Trustees is starting to increase the awareness on campus. That somewhat reflects the involvement of the people applying for these positions. I think it is definitely getting better and the future looks bright.

Next, I would like to talk about our elections coming up -- the Student Government elections. We are starting to experience an increase in participation in the electoral process. I would like to ask Mr. Dawson if he has any points to interject at any time.

We had some informative meetings about the process itself and have 9 or 10 teams thinking about running; last year we had 2 teams that ran. We really think that we have a good chance at increasing our student participation in the electoral process from 6 percent last year, to about 20 percent this year. And we think that is an excellent reflection of not only what the student government has been doing and the things we have been involved with, but also the fact that we are a little more organized in our election’s governing board. I think students are starting to become less apathetic. They want to get involved in what happens within the University itself. With the decrease in the apathetic attitude, we hope to help get the State to increase its support for higher education in the State of Ohio. At this time, I would like to Mr. Dawson to explain some of the roles that we will be participating in to get the State to help out Ohio State.

Mr. Dawson:

One of the things that we see as being an issue is higher education funding. I am sure you all know that on March 15 when the Governor submits his budget, we expect to see somewhere in the range of a 5 to 15 percent decrease in higher education spending before inflation. We haven't seen problems like that since the early 80's when there was a flat rate and inflation was in double digits. Luckily, we were asked to meet with the IUC (Inter-University Council), and they gave us a lot of information, regarding what the other universities are doing in order to lobby. We realize as students that the money is going to have to come from somewhere. They are not planting money trees around the Oval. The money is either going to come from the State, come from other programs, or the students. We see these cuts as being very detrimental to higher education. Without money, you just can’t do certain things. So we sat back and tried to figure out what we could do. The IUC has been gracious enough to include us, as students, in their process. To help us learn and understand, but at the same time we have to turn around and perform, we have to get involved. There are three different steps we can take.

First, we need to get out and educate our own students, and in turn, their parents as to what the problem is. The legislators are going to have this after the fifteenth and their concern is going to be toward their constituencies. We need to get the students and their parents involved, let them know that we think this is a problem, that we don't want higher education in Ohio to suffer. Ohio is already about 40th in the nation for funding. We hope that the education governor will realize that.

Second, our involvement with student government. We have become involved with the OSA, which is a fledgling lobbyist organization. Basically it is working as far as networking information among the different public universities in Ohio. We can take all this different information that we learned through IUC, and get it out to the constituency, that being the students, and in turn their parents. This will enable them to go to their home districts, write to their congressperson, and let them know that they are concerned about this. That is probably the best way to make an impact.

And, finally, the student leaders of Ohio State. We will be speaking directly with some of the legislators, both in the Senate and those on the House Finance, and Education committees and subcommittees. We want to express our concerns and let them know that we are not just sitting back at school and letting whatever happens take its course. We want to show them that we are, in fact, part of their constituency. I think part of that came out this fall when we had such a great voter turnout drive. We got a lot more people, student-wise, registered to vote. We can continue doing that. We want to let them know that, yes, we are concerned and we are going to vote one way or another when it comes time for their re-election. We will be testifying before some of the subcommittees and committees. We have also organized some meetings with the senators and representatives in order to let them know our views at this time. We really can't do much more until after the State Address and the budget is proposed.

Mr. Teaford:

I think what you are doing is a very important effort and is very essential. If you can really turn out students and parents you will make a difference.

Mr. Shumate:

I agree, the OSA is the Ohio Students' Association, who is president of that this year?

Mr. Dawson:

Robert Noce at the University of Miami is acting president. They just passed a new Constitution and Bylaws and this spring there will be a transition period where they will be changing over to a Board of Directors -- with a leader from each of the schools.

STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT (contd)

Mr. Clark:

This organization has been a roller coaster in its involvement over the years. Ohio State's involvement has been on the same track, as well. One thing that we have defined is to establish a base, an office of some sort, to start sending out the information to the schools. We are going to try and help set up a base perhaps in our office, starting the first year. We are not sure how it is going to go from there, but OSA might be working in our office to help get it going.

Mr. Celeste:

I suggest you think about it in a long-term plan as well, because that Board will always be necessary. This may not be a short-term discussion -- it may have longer term implications. You need to build that support and continue to be there to have that voice. It will make a difference.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE REPORT

Ms. Casto:

This morning we heard about the Chadwick Arboretum. I think it truly pertains to the quality of life here at the University that we are trying to achieve.

In 1980 The Ohio State University Board of Trustees designated a 36-acre site adjacent to Route 315 and Fyffe Road and a five-acre site paralleling Lane Avenue between the Agricultural Administration Building and the Agriculture Engineering Building to be the Chadwick Arboretum. Over time, goals and objectives were formulated by a volunteer board of directors from many disciplines and a master plan was prepared. The plan includes a 2 1/2-acre lake to be used for research and demonstration in fish and wildlife. A series of model residential gardens and a taxonomic collection/nursery area which, through a leasing program to nurseries and contractors, will provide ever-changing exhibits for residents and a reason for frequent return. Research and educational gardens will permit the All-American Annuals and the All-American Roses already maintained by the University to be placed where the public can view them for the first time. The arboretum will include a garden of design history, a garden of experimental landscape design, and will create opportunities to display outdoor sculpture. The naturalist will have the opportunity to see a prairie, meadow and wetlands -- all low-maintenance exhibits -- on a miniature scale.

Integrated into the arboretum landscape are multiple-use lawns and terraces to be used by the University at-large for musical performances, art exhibits, a broad array of lectures, programs and socials, and for industry-related conferences. Beyond the arboretum proper, campus projects are also arising. As a result of efforts by the Chadwick Arboretum, beautification projects involving civic organizations, the University, and private industry are going forward as joint ventures. With these joint ventures it will ultimately be evident that a total campus beautification program will be the objective.

Ms. Casto: (contd)

I do think it is a great program. The problem with it is we are not sure when the completion date will be because of funding. I hope that we will take a close look at this project in the future as it relates to the quality of life here at Ohio State.

EMPLOYMENT OF ARCHITECTS/ENGINEERS AND REQUEST FOR CONSTRUCTION BIDS (contd)

CLASSROOM IMPROVEMENTS - PHASE VII; CAMPBELL HALL ADDITION; AND UNIVERSITY AIRPORT RENOVATION - 1991 (contd)

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, That the President and/or Acting Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to select qualified architectural/engineering firms as necessary for these projects and that the fees for these services be negotiated between the firm selected and the University; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the President and/or Acting Vice President for Business and Administration be authorized to request construction bids on these projects in accordance with established University procedures, and if satisfactory bids are received, to award contracts, with all actions to be reported to this Board at the appropriate time.

Mr. Teaford:

Mr. Nichols, I assume that those airport renovations are in accordance with the plan that we saw before?

Mr. Nichols:

That's correct.

Ms. Casto:

I'm concerned about the funding for Human Ecology. Could you explain it to me a little bit better? Half from University Funds or State Capital Appropriations -- that is real vague.

Mr. Nichols:

The agreement that was made with the College, which is a format that has been agreed upon with other colleges, is that when they want to add additional material, basically to the base, that they will raise half of the funds and the University will provide the other half. With regards to the University's half, if that is what you are referring to, the decision has not yet been made whether it will involve internal funds or be part of the Capital Project. That decision will be made in the next few months as we review the entire list of projects that we will potentially take forward in the State Capital Appropriation process. With regards to the gift-half, the large majority of that already is either in hand or has been pledged.

Ms. Casto:

How do you not get confused on which one is which, and which one we are going to use, and are you sure we have it?

Mr. Nichols:

We have the money, but it really depends on whether or not we want to put it on the capital list for the next biennium.
EMPLOYMENT OF ARCHITECTS/ENGINEERS AND REQUEST FOR CONSTRUCTION BIDS (contd)

Upon motion of Mr. Teaford, seconded by Ms. Casto, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution by unanimous roll call vote.

Mr. Teaford:

Yesterday, the Fiscal Affairs Committee met with the Auditors of the University, Deloitte & Touche and Parmes and Company, and were very satisfied with the report we received. We were advised that in every way the University's fiscal affairs are in order and that the quality of persons working in that area of the University has significantly improved over the five years that our current auditors have been with us. We also thanked our auditors, Deloitte & Touche, for their work over the last five years. Unfortunately, the State Auditor has a rule which says that we have to change auditors every five or six years. So we will now have to begin the unfortunate process of having to reeducate an auditor, because, of course, there are no auditors in the world who have ever audited an operation like this one. We really did receive very outstanding service from that firm over the last five years, and I would like that noted in the record.

WHEREAS the Deloitte & Touche audit of the University for 1989-90, meeting the requirements of the Auditor of State, has been received and the accounts, records, files, and reports of the University have been found to be in satisfactory condition, but certain recommendations have been included in the audit report; and

WHEREAS the auditors' recommendations have been studied by the appropriate University offices, and procedures and responses have been developed as a result of the recommendations:
