Dr. Wadsworth:

Good morning. I would like to reconvene the meeting of the Board of Trustees and ask the secretary to note the attendance.

Dr. Thompson:

A quorum is present, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you. So that we are able to conduct the business of this meeting in an orderly fashion, I ask that the ringers on all cell phones and other communication devices be turned off at this time. I ask that all members of the audience do observe rules of decorum, proper to conducting the business at hand. Thank you.

While we are conducting the business of the meeting, please refrain from using any items that could cause noise such as electronic devices and instruments.

Let me go ahead and note that we have a lot of energy and attendance here at today’s board meeting. We even had a record turnout for the Audit Committee meeting yesterday.
August 29, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

We have important business of the university to conduct today. Please allow me to lay out the order of today's business and how we might provide for an appropriate civil discourse.

We will first recognize two outstanding students. This is one of the board’s favorite presentations during our meetings. The president will then deliver his first comments to the full board. Then our committees have reports that comprise our consent agenda which we will then vote on.

When we have finished our work I would like to invite a representative, of those here representing the band regarding the former band leader, to address the board. I will do that after we’ve conducted the business of the trustees in an orderly manner.

The first order of business is approval of the minutes of the June meeting of the Board of Trustees, which were distributed to all members of the board. If there are no additions or corrections, the minutes are approved as distributed.

I will now call upon Steven Loborec to present the Student Recognition Awards, Steven.

STUDENT RECOGNITION AWARDS

Dr. Loborec:

Thank you Dr. Wadsworth. I would like to ask our student honorees today to join us here at the table. Is Abbey Strazar in the room? Perhaps Abbey is having parking issues today. Thank you for joining us, Tyler.

I would like to introduce to everyone, Tyler Friesen. Tyler is a senior majoring in mathematics. He came to Ohio State in the fall of 2011 as a valedictorian, an AP scholar, a National Merit Scholar, and winner of the Franklin B. Walter All-Scholastic Award. During his time here, he made the Dean’s List every term.

Tyler grew up in a small, rural town, with few educational opportunities outside of the standard high school curriculum. His graduating class of 70, and during his time in high school, only three AP classes were offered. Encouraged by his parents (a philosopher and a mathematician, both teachers at a nearby branch campus of Ohio State), Tyler filled the gaps in his formal education with self-study. He has received numerous awards and honors including the 2014 Goldwater Scholarship, the most prestigious national award for undergraduate researchers in science, math, and engineering. Congratulations Tyler.

I would now like to invite you to say a few words.

Mr. Friesen:

I’d like to thank a few of the many people who helped me get here. First, I’d like to thank the Board of Trustees. I am greatly honored to receive this award and be here today. I’d like to thank Dr. Vitaly Bergelson in the math department who taught the two most challenging courses I’ve taken at OSU and contributed greatly to my intellectual growth. He also encouraged me to apply for the Goldwater Scholarship and then later when I wanted to back out of it, encouraged me again.

I would also like to thank Dr. Sergei Chmutov, also in the math department who runs the Knot and Graph Undergraduate Research Group every summer, and who also acted as a mentor for my research which started in that research group but continued over several years. If it were not for the Knot and Graph Group and for Dr. Chmutov’s willingness to go far beyond his job description to help me and other students achieve our research goals, none of the research that I have accomplished at OSU would have been possible.

More generally, I’d like to thank the math department for providing many excellent honors classes and research opportunities.

Finally, I would like to thank the student community at OSU. The stresses of research and a challenging course load were made manageable by having friends who were going through the same things and could be supportive of me. In particular, I would like to mention the Academic Team which is a student organization I’m a part of, which participates in academic trivia competitions. In the Academic Team I have found a community of bright and intellectually curious people across all disciplines and I found many of my closest friends who have both supported and motivated me over the past three years. Thank you.

Dr. Loborec:

Unfortunately, Abbey Strazar was not able to be with us today but we would still like to recognize her amazing accomplishments during her time here.

Abbey Strazar, a 3rd professional year student from Rocky River, Ohio and is in the Doctor of Pharmacy Program. She first joined the Ohio State family in 2008 as an undergraduate student and later earned a Bachelor of Science in Pharmaceutical Sciences.

Dean Mann has shared that Abbey “is an exceptional student leader. She has an excellent academic record in a very rigorous program.”

During her time in the PharmD program, Abbey has continued her involvement while maintaining an excellent academic record. One item of note is that Abbey was chosen to be an Albert Schwietzer Fellow. Her fellowship project will focus on blood pressure management and education for the underserved and underinsured population of greater Columbus.

Abbey is a selfless leader and always makes time to volunteer. Throughout her time at Ohio State she has dedicated her time to helping counsel patients at numerous care sites including Grace in the City-Hardin Clinic, Helping Hands Free Clinic, Southeast Inc., Physician Care Connection, the Charitable Pharmacy of Central Ohio, and the James Cancer Hospital.

After she graduates in the spring of 2016, Abbey would like to pursue postgraduate training via a pharmacy residency. I may be a little biased here but I think that is a great option. She does not quite know yet exactly what she wants to do, but she knows that she wants to be able to directly improve a patient’s health by ensuring the safety of their medications while also being a valued resource to other healthcare professionals. Congratulations Abbey.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Again, one of our most favorite parts of the whole business.

Dr. Drake, before we turn to your first president’s report, I want to thank you and your wife Brenda for hosting the board for dinner last night, and again take this opportunity to publically welcome you both to Ohio State.

In addition, the city of Columbus and Franklin County have extended a formal welcome to your new home here in Columbus. We have for you a proclamation from Mayor
President Drake:

Thank you very much Chairman Wadsworth. It is great to be here this morning. This is the end of my 9th week at The Ohio State University. It’s been an exhilarating and exciting time for Brenda and for myself. We’ve had the opportunity to meet with many people and engage with many individuals from all over the community. At the least of which, were thousands this past weekend for move-in; which was great.

I’d like to begin my comments by welcoming several new board members who are here with us today. Alex Fischer leads the Columbus Partnership which serves as an economic and cultural engine for Central Ohio. We know that our partnerships with the City of Columbus are essential to the university, our histories and our futures are intertwined. We look forward to building and developing these vital relationships with Alex’s insights. Welcome Alex.

Our other new board member is Abigail Wexner; a lawyer, community volunteer, and firm friend of The Ohio State University. The Wexner family has been closely involved with many of the signature programs connected with the Medical Center and Abigail currently serves on the Wexner Medical Center Board. Abigail, thank you very much for your continued support and leadership and again welcome to the board.

Over these last nine weeks, I’ve had a chance to do a few things on my Buckeye list. I began with a campus tour with students, met extraordinary families, and learned some new traditions.

I had a chance to visit the Wooster campus where I met with faculty and got to see fascinating research on food security, sustainability, and bio-based fuels.

I attended the Ohio State Fair and learned about the state’s great agricultural industry and met a butter cow.

I had a chance to ride in Pelotonia. I rode with 7,000 other riders. That was a really inspiring event: inspiring for the purpose for which the money is raised; for the amount of money that is raised; for the amount of people who participate in Pelotonia; inspired on the 50-mile route, which was the one that I took; and inspired by the number of people who came out to encourage us all as we rode along. I think about how focused and important that is.

We had, earlier this month 1,800 graduates at the 407th commencement exercise at Ohio State. I enjoyed that very very much. In particular, I enjoyed meeting the graduates. I was very impressed with the global attraction of the university as represented by the people who were getting their doctoral degrees; who came from all over the world and will take the great knowledge that they learned here and make the world a better place.

This past weekend marked the beginning of autumn semester with the first day of classes on Wednesday. We welcomed 7,000 of the most academically talented and accomplished students in our university’s history. I participated in move-in weekend and met many of the families and their students. I particularly was touched by families whose first child was coming to the university, often the first in their family to come to a university, and by the tug of emotions when the last child was leaving home after years of preparation. I had a chance to meet many parents and students this weekend. That was great.

I would also like to share a special thanks to all the faculty and staff who help prepare the campus for the arrival of our students. It was an extraordinary effort by all involved. We had 6,000 people move-in over a couple of days and that meant 10,000 to 15,000 people coming with their students. All of us have moved and know what a big hassle that is. To have thousands of people moving in on the same day was amazing and the staff really did a great job of organizing this, including the thousand OWL volunteers who helped us a bunch.

On Monday, I greeted our students at an official university welcome at Convocation. We got to take a selfie which was fun. I appreciated that.

We had a unique event, held downtown in Columbus, for a welcome event by the city. The town-gown relationship in many places is a relationship of friction but here it was great to see the city open its arms and welcome our new freshmen to our community. This was a wonderful opportunity to connect our students with Columbus and everything that it has to offer. As a land grant university, The Ohio State University’s role is to connect with and elevate communities and this was a great way to get that started.

Our land grant mission is foundational to our history as well as to our future. When we think of issues in higher education, such as affordability, access, and inclusiveness, our land grant mission has never been more relevant. Our mission is to first educate the next generation of leaders, scientists, innovators, inventors, teachers, artists, and policymakers. Second, to create and to apply new knowledge to better society. My role is to work with the outstanding men and women of our faculty and staff to carry out this historic mission. There are initiatives underway right now at Ohio State to make the college experience more accessible and more affordable. The Young Scholars Program, our student life and graduate school financial education programs, are a big help.

We have a number of programs and initiatives in place to elevate the quality of our academics; the First Year Experience and Discovery Themes. These are areas that must work in unison, access and excellence is not an either/or proposition. Access and excellence really work to help each other and these are programs that both welcome our students to the campus and give them very close relationships with our faculty and doing things that make a difference and we are very excited about that.

We have a lot of work ahead but we also have tremendous milestones to celebrate. The Wexner Center for the Arts 25th Anniversary is coming up with an exhibit of modern masters on loan from the Wexner family collection. Thank you Wexner family.

The university’s third global gateway is also opening in Sao Paolo, Brazil.

Our medical center is working with Battelle on a technology that has enabled a paralyzed man to move his hand. The neurobridge program is absolutely amazing. We witnessed that a little bit earlier today. To take a person who is a quadriplegic and have him, by his own thoughts, be able to move his hand is a step into the future. This would have been science fiction or fantasy a generation ago and now with our partnership with Battelle and the great scientists here at The Ohio State University, this has become a reality. It’s an amazing step forward.

The new James Cancer Hospital and Solove Research Institute will be opening at the end of the year and the 125th Anniversary of Buckeye football kicks off tomorrow. These are many things to look forward to.
August 29, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

Finally, I want to say how privileged I feel to be at Ohio State at this moment in time. I want to again thank the members of the Board of Trustees for this honor and opportunity. I look forward to working closely with our talented faculty, our extraordinary students, our highly committed staff, and our loyal and dedicated alumni and friends. The university leadership before me has put the university on course to elevate its excellence; in research, in innovation, in academics, and student experience. I am excited to do whatever I can to further this work.

Thank you Mr. Chairman, excuse me, Dr. Chairman that is my report.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much, Mr. President. At this time we will move into brief committee reports. We are going to start with Corbett Price on the Wexner Medical Center Board update.

Mr. Price:

Thank you very much Mr. Chairman. I shall be brief here today.

The Wexner Medical Center Board met this morning and approved a series of accreditation requirements including: the University Hospital plan for patient care services for fiscal year 2015, the James Center plan for patient care services for fiscal year 2015, and the University Hospital’s clinical quality management, patient safety and service plan, and the Arthur G. James Hospital clinical quality management, patient safety and service plan. These items are essential prior to an accrediting body coming in to, in essence, survey our facilities.

The Wexner Medical Center Board also approved a resolution supporting the verification of the Medical Center’s Burn Center. Our burn center is one of three burn centers in the State of Ohio that treat adults. It’s one of the outstanding burn centers as well. This is a process for accreditation, supporting the application for the burn center’s verification by the American Burn Association and College of Surgeons and Committee on Trauma. The burn unit will undergo its onsite review by the verification committee on September 9 and 10, 2014.

The Wexner Center Board also approved a resolution supporting the 2015 Medical Center Budget. The Wexner Medical Center’s budget is part of the university’s budget which is on the consent agenda for approval by the full board.

We also looked at the performance of the medical center for fiscal year 2014. I will highlight a couple of items there. The EBIDA was 14.4% versus a budget of 14.1%. That is quite good in terms of earnings before interest, depreciation, and amortization. The key factor is that we had an excess revenue or profit for 2014 of $222 million. I thought that was quite outstanding given a new paradigm that we’re faced with here as it relates to healthcare. Days cash on hand was approximately 69. We are going to work on improving that particular statistic.

We then reviewed items for discussion. We reviewed the Medical Center’s initiative scorecard and Jay Kasey provided us an update regarding the expansion project. We closed with an update on the Upper Arlington Ambulatory Care Center. That’s an upcoming new ambulatory care center where we have a number of employees and patients living in that particular area. We are in the process of negotiating the lease for that particular center.
August 29, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

As it relates to NIH grants, we are ranked 34th. Are there any other items I need to mention Dr. Gabbe?

Dr. Gabbe:

You covered it very well, thank you.

Mr. Price:

Thank you very much. This concludes my report. I am prepared to answer any questions that you might have.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you, Corbett. I think the president has a comment.

President Drake:

I have one other comment to make about that report today. I recognized Dr. Gabbe for something I found remarkable and it is extraordinarily important.

Not everybody who enters a hospital survives. You look at your case mix that comes in and know that not everyone is going to survive but we are going to do our very best. Hospitals have an observed-to-expected mortality rate. If you expect a certain level or mortaility and you observe that level of mortality you get a rating of 1.0. If you have more mortality than you expect, that number is above one. Our hospital’s observed-to-expected mortality rate last year was 0.63; about one-third less than expected. That represents hundreds of lives saved over what was expected. This is really a remarkable achievement that makes a difference every day in those families. I would like to recognize Dr. Gabbe for the fine work that he and his staff do at the hospital. That’s a remarkable statistic.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you. That was very well said. This is a very profound issue and we thank all the people that make it possible.

I’d like to now call upon Erin Hoeflinger to provide a summary of the Advancement Committee.

Mrs. Hoeflinger:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Advancement Committee met yesterday and reviewed five items for action. The resolutions, which are on the consent agenda, are being recommended from the committee to the full board for approval today.

Our first item for action is the University Foundation Report. Fiscal year 2014 was a success. We’ve engaged a record 233,185 donors, I mention all of them because every last one of them is very important to us, and raised over $404 million. We secured $14 million over our goal; that number is $14 million higher than the goal that we had. In mid-August our campaign hit the $2 billion mark and is tracking overall ahead of pace. We are in the process of setting our 2015 goals as well and will take that into account. The team, led by the Foundation and Mike, is doing a great job overall.

Also submitted for approval with the University Foundation Report is the establishment or revision of endowments totaling $28,381,279; which includes three endowed chairs, three endowed professorships, one faculty-support fund, 14 scholarships, 17 program support funds, one research fund, nine named funds, 17 revisions, and one fund closure.

Four namings were then presented to the committee for approval. The namings were fully vetted through the gift acceptance process and include the following: internal spaces in the new James; Bartels Career Management Administrative Office; internal spaces in the new Optometry Pre-Clinic; and the Phyllis A. Jones Legacy Park.

The committee then reviewed several items for discussion. Larry Moore provided the committee with an update on the Alumni Association. He reviewed their success in fiscal year 2014 as well as provided an update on how the alumni association is really reaching out and creating new programs that are very exciting.

Mr. Eicher provided the committee with an Advancement Scorecard update. The scorecards are new to us, we are continuing to improve them, but great work so far.

Provost Steinmetz then gave the Dean’s Engagement Report. It should be noted that the provost spends a lot of time connecting with deans across the units to think about bigger ideas and the discovery themes and helping to link that to fundraising as well.

We concluded with an update on the James Cancer Hospital opening plans which we mentioned earlier. It’s a historic moment for us to celebrate and it promises to impact not only the medical center, the university, and the community, but certainly the State of Ohio as well.

That concludes my report.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much. Any questions from the trustees? Thank you.

We now move to Mike Gasser, the first of two appearances. This one is the Audit and Compliance Committee Report update.

Mr. Gasser:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Audit and Compliance Committee met yesterday and we had two items on the agenda.

The first item for discussion was an update on the external audit from Krista DeWire from PricewaterhouseCoopers. The fiscal year 2014 audit is well underway. All the fiscal year 2014 audit planning is complete. There were no changes in the significant risks communicated to the Audit Committee in April. The interim procedures are nearing completion and no significant issues have been identified to date.

Regarding the year-end procedures, those began in mid-August. Weekly status meetings are being held with management in order to track progress and overall surprises. However, Mrs. DeWire had no concerns to report at this time. Overall, the major components of the fiscal year 2014 consolidated university audit are on track to be completed by early October.

Gates Garrity-Rokous provided his regular compliance program report. He reported on the fiscal year 2014 compliance plan performance and discussed the process for conducting a mid-cycle refresh of the compliance risks assessment for fiscal year 2015. That process informed the generation of the fiscal year 2015 annual compliance plan and the project plans for individual compliance risks identified in the plan. Among the major 2014 compliance accomplishments were partnering with risk management in the development of University Risk Management Committee, developing and implementing a more robust investigative tracking system, and partnering with key stakeholders across the campus to develop core competency risk identification and mitigation processes, as well as more generally continued to enhance the integrity culture and governance across the campus.

Mr. Chairman that concludes my report.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Mr. Gasser. Questions?

Seeing none, let us move on to the next report by Linda Kass on Academic Affairs and Student Life.

Mrs. Kass:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Yesterday’s meeting of the Academic Affairs and Student Life Committee began with the committee’s endorsement of a number of routine personnel actions. The committee also endorsed the revocation of a Bachelor of Science degree. Both of these items are on the consent agenda for approval by the full board.

After a review of the Academic Initiatives Scorecard, and that scorecard is aligned with our six academic priorities, the committee engaged in a discussion on Ohio State’s student financial wellness and education by Dr. Jauvaune Gaston-Adams and Bryan Ashton of the Office of Student Life and Dr. Pat Osmer of the Graduate School. Financial wellness is a critical topic for institutions of higher education across the country. The goals of Ohio State’s financial education programs are to provide information and tools that will enable our students to begin their post-Ohio State lives on a sound financial base. In 2013, 56% of Ohio State’s undergraduate students had loans. Their average amount of debt was $26,000. For graduate students the average debt was $36,000 with 46% of students having loans. For professional students in the health sciences, debt levels ranged from $144,000 to $199,000 with 89%-98% of the students having loans, I would add that these loan amounts are consistent with national averages.

Financial concerns are a leading cause for stress for college students nationwide. Ohio State has developed workshops and modules as well as concentrated support services for all students. Efforts are aimed at developing a student’s financial capability, helping them manage financial stress, and offering support to students in financial crisis. A specific concern is the roadblock to graduate school represented by large amounts of undergraduate debt. Thanks to grant support, Ohio State is developing a multipronged end-to-end approach, reaching out early to those undergraduate students who plan to attend graduate school to lessen this compounded debt problem for graduate students.

Ohio State’s work in this area has not gone unnoticed. U.S. Secretary of Education, Arne Duncan, has highlighted student life’s Scarlet and Gray Financial Peer Counseling Program as a model for other institutions. Ohio State is focusing on long-term outcomes through the program such as these and through our leadership in developing and administering a national multi-institutional student financial wellness study that will generate both policy recommendations and best practices.

That concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much. Obviously, student debt is a very important topic of our time.

Any questions? Yes, Gil.
Dr. Cloyd:

I would like to make a comment on this. This is such a terrific program, as Linda outlined, and the point I would like to make is we often look at things that get clustered under administration. I think everyone thinks we are making sure we're doing everything we've been doing as efficiently as we can.

This is a good example, I think, of the leadership we have at this university; to take a function like that, look at a huge need as Linda outlined, and come forward with a wonderful program that's going to be beneficial to our students. It really deserves a lot of praise.

Dr. Wadsworth:

It definitely does. Thank you for highlighting that, Dr. Cloyd. Any other comments?

If not we will go to our penultimate report, Mr. Gasser, Finance Committee.

Mr. Gasser:

The Finance Committee met yesterday and had a full agenda. I will try to keep my remarks as concise as possible but we do have quite a bit to cover.

During the meeting six items were presented for discussion. Mr. Chatas presented the University Financial Scorecards and the Fiscal Year 2014 Interim Financial Report stating the university and Wexner Medical Center are overall financially on budget through June 30, 2014, 12 months into the fiscal year. This is very good news.

The draft Physical Environment Scorecard was then reviewed by Mr. Kasey. Two additional metrics around parking are going to be added to this scorecard; garage parking availability and temporary closure of spaces. It was also discussed during this time to increase student safety and awareness around the North Residential District as that area experiences an increase in foot traffic from students living both on and off campus. If you recall, we are doing a lot of construction in that area. We had a good discussion on how we make sure student safety is of paramount importance.

Ms. Ready then reviewed the Construction Project Status Report with the committee where it was noted that all major projects are rated green as of this time and two of the projects are coded yellow for being on budget to date; those two projects being the North Residential District due to an increase in construction costs and the East Regional Chiller Water Plant due to an increase in the price of distribution mechanics. These projects coded yellow are being monitored closely and contingency plans are in place. Again, there will be an increase in raw material cost, primarily as we go forward, and they are monitoring that very closely.

Mr. Chatas and Mr. Papadakis then presented the annual review from the Office of Investments and Office of the Treasurer. The portfolio funds has more than doubled in the past five years to roughly $3.2 billion, due primarily to investment income and other additions. One of those would be the $483 million in parking funds. The university portfolio outperformed the benchmark portfolio for fiscal year 2014. We also thank Mr. Papadakis for his double effort during that time because he was also Treasurer and the Chief Investment Officer in the interim. We thanked him for that.

Finally, Mr. Geier gave a brief update on the Upper Arlington Ambulatory Care Center by responding to questions raised in the last Wexner Medical Center Board meeting. We estimated that final lease terms will be submitted for approval at the next Board meeting.
The Finance Committee additionally discussed six items that are on the consent agenda today. I will briefly review these resolutions.

Mr. Chatas and Mr. Kasey presented on the Capital Investment Plan for fiscal year 2015-2019. The total request for the five year period is $1,362 billion, with $941 million made up from prior commitments.

Mrs. Devine then presented the fiscal year 2015 budget plan. The budget, as presented, is based upon the tuition and fee levels approved at the June Board of Trustees meeting. If you remember, we had a discussion on tuition at the last meeting. That discussion was incorporated in the 2015 plan.

Mr. Chatas then presented the modification of asset classes and allocation of benchmarks for the long-term investment pool. We made the changes to give us a better feel if we are doing a good job or bad job on our investment.

Ms. Ready then presented on the approval for the university to enter into professional services and construction contracts totaling $140 million.

Mr. Meyers presented one joint use agreement for approval with the Reed Avenue Center, which is a non-profit agency, the university, and the City of Columbus for the use of a state capital appropriation of $2 million for improvements to the former Reed Elementary School which will house a number of non-profit agencies.

Finally, Mr. Meyers presented on an authorization for the sale of real property of 0.1 acre located at the intersection of Shier Rings Road and Wilcox Road in Dublin, Ohio to the Ohio Department of Transportation.

These resolutions were all passed by the Finance Committee, are on the consent agenda, and are recommended for approval by the full board today.

Committee members, do you want to add anything? If not, Mr. Chairman, that was our report.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much, Mr. Gasser. Again, we’re a $5.5 billion enterprise. Between the medical center and the balance of the university, the Finance Committee covers tremendous space and responsibility. We thank them for their work.

Our final committee report is by Mr. Smucker and is on Governance. There is motion involved in this report.

Mr. Smucker:

Thank you Mr. Chairman.

The Governance Committee met yesterday morning. Two items for action were presented to the committee. The ratification of committee appointments approves the committee appointments for our two new trustees. Abigail Wexner will serve on the Advancement and Academic Affairs and Student Life Committees. Alex Fischer will serve on the Advancement and Finance Committees. The ratification of appointments to the Wexner Medical Center Board appoints Abigail Wexner as a trustee member of the Wexner Medical Center Board. She will take over the position held by Mike Gasser which will allow him to focus all his energy on chairing the Finance Committee. Both resolutions are on the consent agenda and the committee recommends them for approval to the full board.
PRESIDENTIAL PERFORMANCE REVIEW

Mr. Smucker:

It is also my pleasure on behalf of the Governance Committee to present the President's Evaluation and Compensation Report. I would like to offer the following highlights on behalf of the committee. For those that participated in the performance discussions, the Board Chairman and I, thank you for your time and your thoughtful feedback.

Last August, Dr. Alutto presented a list of goals and objectives that he would position for the new president and the goals that he would achieve as interim president. The feedback was very consistent and overall it was felt that Dr. Alutto performed up to the expectations of the Board of Trustees.

While looking at performance based compensation and the accomplishments of Dr. Alutto, we are recommending that Dr. Alutto receive performance based compensation which represents a payment of $187,500 or 30% of his base salary. Consistent with this board’s prior commitment, performance-based compensation will not be paid by Ohio taxpayers or student tuition dollars.

In conclusion, the board recognizes that The Ohio State University has had an outstanding year under the leadership of Dr. Alutto. Dr. Alutto worked tirelessly on behalf of the university during his tenure as interim president. We are certainly indebted to him for his service.

Mr. Chairman I would like to move for adoption of the report and approval of the compensation recommendation and would like to respond to any questions that the Board members might have. Also, I would like for any other members of the Board to comment.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much, Mr. Smucker. We have a motion on the floor regarding the Presidential Evaluation and Compensation Report. May I have a second? Any discussion or would any trustees care to comment further?

Upon motion of Mr. Smucker, seconded by Mr. Shumate, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing motion by unanimous roll call vote, cast by Trustees Mrs. Wexner, Mr. Fischer, Mr. Porteus, Mrs. Hoeflinger, Mr. Gasser, Ms. Krueger, Mr. Smucker, Mr. Kellogg, Mrs. Kass, Judge Marbley, Mr. Shumate, and Dr. Wadsworth.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you. We are about to review the consent agenda but I have been told that our second Student Recognition Award winner, Abbey Strazer, is now here. Abbey, will you please come up to the table?

We already had a glowing account of your accomplishments from another pharmacist. We are very impressed by your accomplishments and we’d like to invite you to say a few words.

Ms. Strazer:

Thank you. I first want to thank everyone that was involved for nominating me for this incredible award. Words cannot describe my gratitude and surprise.
August 29, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

I was recently asked what academic or professional accomplishment I was most proud of. My answer was getting into The Ohio State University College of Pharmacy. However, as I sat down to decide what I wanted to say when I accepted my award, I started to reflect on the past six years here at the university. As an undergrad, I believed that I wanted to be a pharmacist, however, I knew that this was a huge commitment and I wanted to be sure that this profession was right for me.

By attending Ohio State I was exposed to the necessary resources to do this. I began searching for professors within the College of Pharmacy and in clinical research. I believed that this would be a great way to interact one-on-one with a pharmacist while interacting with patients, learning more about the profession of pharmacy, and determining if this was the correct career path for me. I eventually found Dr. James McAuley who allowed me to join him in determining why some epileptic patients listen to medical recommendations while others did not. This was a very unique opportunity. I was able to go to clinic inbetween my classes to recruit patients and shadow pharmacists. I was also exposed to developing research questions, submitting a proposal to the IRB, recruiting patients, and collecting and evaluating data.

As a result of this clinical experience, I finally determined that pharmacy was the profession for me. Furthermore, because of this opportunity, I was able to present my research project to my committee and graduate with distinction. I later went on to present at the Denman Forum and won first place in the College of Pharmacy Research Day. Without professors like Dr. McAuley or access to the many resources at The Ohio State University, I never would have been exposed to this experience.

Going back to the question, what academic or professional accomplishment am I most proud of, I would now have to say getting into this fine university. Where else would I have been exposed to research, outstanding academics, terrific and accomplished professors, and a great football team? This school has challenged me and made me into the individual I am today.

Because of the many opportunities that come along with being a student at The Ohio State University, I was able to apply and become an Albert Schweitzer Fellow, publish research in a national journal, excel academically, and make lifelong memories. Overall, The Ohio State University has challenged me in the most positive way possible, but without friends and family I would not have been able to succeed. I again want to thank Dr. James McAuley for serving as a mentor throughout my college career and for answering my many questions in regards to pharmacy school and pharmacy career choices. I also want to thank my parents, Tony and Fran, for always supporting me even when I am being overdramatic or calling multiple times throughout the day because I am stressed about an exam.

I again want to thank you for this opportunity and thank you for your time.

Dr. Loborec:

Congratulations Abbey. Now I would like to invite your family and friends to come join us here for a photo.

James L. Moore

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on June 12, 2014, of James L. Moore, Associate Professor Emeritus in the School of Music.

Professor Moore held BA and MA degrees from the University of Michigan and a PhD degree from The Ohio State University. He spent three years in the United States Army, and was an instructor in the Armed Forces School of Music. From there he became a percussionist in the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and taught at Butler University. It was in 1963 that Professor Moore was recruited to become the first full time percussion teacher at The Ohio State University, where he remained on the faculty until 1992. Jym was a devoted educator and mentor to his students in the School of Music for 30 years and even after his retirement he continued to serve The Ohio State University for 12 more years. From 1981 until 2004, he served as percussion instructor and assistant band director of TBDBITL, The Ohio State University Marching Band, where his musical influences are felt to this day.

His summer teaching included the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Michigan, the International Music Camp at the International Peace Garden in North Dakota/Manitoba, and The Ohio State University Marimba/Vibes Camp, which he founded and directed for 13 years.

He was an early member and advocate for the Percussive Arts Society (PAS) and started one of its earliest publications, Percussive Notes, which has become an important journal for the society and for the art of percussion. His devotion to the profession was recognized in 2005 with the Lifetime Achievement Award at the annual Percussive Arts Society International Conference (PASIC).

Professor Moore wrote his doctoral thesis on the acoustics of bar percussion (keyboard) instruments, and he was instrumental in the development of synthetic materials for marimbas and xylophones, which was key to the growth and development of percussion. He was an educational consultant for Ludwig Industries and Hal Leonard Publishing and his passion for education and the search for new and better music for the growing field of percussion led Professor Moore to start PerMus Publications in 1979. PerMus developed and distributed new percussion literature and featured music written by Professor Moore, among many other well-known composers.

An active performer his entire career, Professor Moore was principal percussionist of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra and the Brass Band of Columbus for 17 years. His retirement took him to Florida, where he continued to perform with the Port Charlotte Symphony Orchestra, the Naples Concert Band, and he even sang in the choir at the First Presbyterian Church of Bonita Springs.

Professor Moore was a key figure in the growing field of percussion during his years at The Ohio State University. His devotion to the art of percussion, his students, the School of Music, The Ohio State University Marching Band, the entire University community, and his family was exemplary. His gracious and kindly demeanor will be missed but his legacy lives on in the hundreds of students he impacted and the tradition for excellence he promoted and displayed.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor James L. Moore its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board’s heartfelt sympathy.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you. That concludes the public agenda. We have made available the opportunity for a representative from those here regarding the former band leader to address the board for five minutes; this is the time we usually set aside for such presentations. I will invite somebody to come forward and make those comments. Thank you.

Mr. Leppla:

Thank you members of the Board of Trustees and Mr. President. My name is Gary Leppla and I am a member of the Board of Governors of the TBDBITL Alumni Club, the alumni of The Ohio State University Marching Band.

We have concerns about being heard, concerns about having a dialogue with this Board and with the university. We had a good impromptu conversation with your representative this morning and appreciate the opportunity to have these five minutes on the agenda. We know that if we sat here for five hours, we would not all get to the bottom of every issue that ought to be discussed but we appreciate this beginning and this opportunity. Nobody is satisfied with five minutes but everybody is respectful of it. Jon Waters’ family is also present and they’ve agreed to be respectful of that five minutes as well in order to allow us to continue the dialogue.

We have people here who have spent 45 years of their life associated with the organization and we embrace the promise this morning of a continuing open dialogue with you, between the Board of Trustees and the Band alumni, their family, and supporters. We’re told specifically that channels are open and for that we are very appreciative and we will stay involved in that dialogue.

There was a large crowd out here, an impromptu band, gathered as they often do. They’re fairly personally invested. They’re unparalleled in their motivation and they have a lot of questions. Maybe the point of departure, as we pursue an ongoing conversation, is how was this investigation conducted, witnesses, and opportunities for responses, how broad were the interviews? Why was such a report written? Why was it released in the fashion it was, with the attachments, in a fashion that we felt was not balanced and was very demeaning to the organization and its history?

What’s the role of Title IX in this? That’s important to us because in 1973, The Ohio State University Marching Band led the way among many such organizations nationally in embracing Title IX. Dr. Paul Drozdy said “That’s the way it is and we’re going to go forward and we’re going to do it right” and we did. We’re proud of that. We embrace Title IX. Change came and we embraced it. To have that part of the issue here is a bit ironic from our standpoint, to say the least.

Among the questions, what perfect storm led to these events that we could never have seen coming; what forces in the university; what departmental issues? We should explore that.

We should explore the success and honor brought to this university by this band. Last year, the 2013-2014 band, even us old timers can see, is the greatest band in the history of the school. They performed more, they did more community service. They represented this university coast to coast and the they became the envy of bands all around the world, an international event.

Right now, they are on busses to the Navy game, many of those same students who are still in the band. When videos were sent to them from the impromptu playing out here on the plaza, we’re told there were cheers on the bus and tears. But, that’s how a family reacts. That’s how a family reacts when they stand up for each other.

The issues include considering Jon Waters. Honestly, he is among the finest people most of us know, one of the finest persons most of us know. His balance, skill, and respect; I’ve heard it said that sometimes the tallest tree in the forest is the one that gets struck by lightning. Well maybe that helps us understand what happened here. He’s an innovator musically, marching wise, socially, and culturally. He told me that from 30,000 feet up he tried to look down on this band when he took it over; not just performance wise but culturally and towards the future. That’s Jonathan Waters. That’s the Jonathan Waters that some of you know, and that we know like a loyal son and brother. He’s the last person on Earth we believe this could have happened to.

There’s been talk of culture. The culture of The Ohio State University Marching Band is hard work, loyalty, discipline, respect, friendship, honor, and excellence. You could not see what you see publically on the field without those values. We need to embrace those. We felt incredible support in the community and in this university as these events went down. As again, we told Jon Waters, you don’t know who your friends are until you’re under siege and he’s learned in this band and this alumni group has learned.
We’ve never conceded that this discussion’s over. We still think it is the early chapters in a book. We collectively know you as trustees. We know your honor, we know your friendship, and we know your love of Ohio State. We have to get to the truth. We have to solve this like a family. We have to solve it like my dad would have when he was a student here, like my kids would have when they were here. Like all the generations of band members would address things openly, honestly, and looking each other in the eye, like a family at the kitchen table.

We’re really the soundtrack for this university in a way. We feel that we are among the most loyal and supportive alumni. We all need to take ownership of the truth, the history and the future, and we all take ownership of The Ohio State University. Thank you and we look forward to that continuing dialogue.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much for your comments. We appreciate them. I would like to make everyone aware, and I am sure you are, that the president and I did commission a continuing investigation led by Betty Montgomery. Any of you that have comments and ideas are welcome to, and in fact, she’s inviting all people to send her those comments.

If there is no further business before the Board, this meeting is now adjourned. Thank you.

Currently a Distinguished Professor of Organizational Behavior, Dr. Alutto completed his second term as interim president in June 2014; he previously served as interim president in 2007. Arriving at Ohio State as dean of the business college in 1996, Dr. Alutto presided over a remarkable transition at the Max M. Fisher College of Business during his 16 years at the helm, including the construction of a six-building business complex. He was named the John W. Barry Sr. Chair in Business in 1999. While serving as business dean, Dr. Alutto also served as executive dean for the professional colleges at Ohio State.

In 2007, Dr. Alutto was named the university’s executive vice president and provost. In this role, he was the chief officer for all academic functions of the university, including coordinating all budgeting expenditures as chair of the university’s Integrated Financial Planning Committee. To date, he is the second longest serving provost in the history of the university.

Prior to Ohio State, Dr. Alutto served as the Clarence S. Marsch Professor of Management at the State University of New York at Buffalo, where he focused his research on Sino-U.S. joint ventures and the relationships between improvement processes and corporate performance. He also served as dean of the SUNY-Buffalo School of Management from 1979 to 1990.

Dr. Alutto received his bachelor’s degree in business administration from Manhattan College, a master’s degree in industrial relations from the University of Illinois and a doctorate in organizational behavior from Cornell University.

Recipients of Honors

William G. Lowrie
DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

Born in Patenoeville, Ohio, William Lowrie of Sheldon, South Carolina, earned early in life the importance of hardwork, dedication and loyalty. Those bedrock values served him well during a 33-year career that saw the 1966 Ohio State graduate rise from engineer to president of Amoco Corporation, one of the world’s largest petroleum companies.

Backed by a bachelor’s degree in chemical engineering, Mr. Lowrie played a major role in increasing recovery and advancing drilling technology in the petroleum industry. Highly regarded for his innovative thinking, he was involved in the development of environmental fuels, managed International acquisitions and directed projects that were the basis for technology for producing methane from coal beds. He retired as deputy CEO of BP Amoco in 1999.

Since the early ’80s, Mr. Lowrie has performed key leadership roles as an alumni volunteer at The Ohio State University. He served as a charter member of the Department of Chemical Engineering’s Advisory Committee, which he chaired 1990–96, and as chair of the National Committee for the new Koffolt Laboratories since 2004. He joined the Foundation Board in 1996, serving as vice chair 1997–2001, then as chair until 2004, and is currently serving as chair again.

He is also chair of the But for Ohio State Campaign Coordinating Committee and serves on its Steering Committee.

In 2005, Mr. Lowrie made a transformative financial commitment to support the construction of the new Koffolt Laboratories in the Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering and Chemistry Building, the creation of a professorship and an endowed chair and advancement of education and research opportunities. In recognition of the significance of this gift, the chemical engineering department now bears his name—a signal honor.

Mr. Lowrie’s service and achievements have been recognized previously by the Technician Outstanding Alumnus Award, Distinguished Alumnus Award and Benjamin G. Lamme Mentorship Achievement Medal from the College of Engineering. He was the first individual in the history of the college to receive all three awards. He also received the 2004 Everest O. Reese Medal, the university’s highest honor that recognizes exceptional service in private philanthropy. In 2008 he was honored with the Alumni Association’s Medalist Award for career achievement.

Ohio-based commercial boards, Reppe Corporation and Marathon Pipe Line.

thorized by the potential of leap-to-learn mathematics and dedication to learning numbers and formulas, Professor Emeritus Daniel Shapiro has spent his career improving the study of mathematics for students ranging from middle school to university age. Professor Shapiro joined the mathematics faculty at The Ohio State University as an assistant professor in 1974, and has shaped the teaching and learning of math through various roles at Ohio State for 40 years. Although he retired in 2015, he continues to lead a disciplined and recognized math program.
Since 2000, Professor Shapiro has directed Ohio State’s Ross Mathematics Program, a six-week summer immersion in mathematics for talented high school
elevating this program stems partially from his own participation in the program at a high school student, which inspired him to pursue a career of mathematical teaching and research in quadratic forms. Since then, he has worked in multiple capacities to cement the program as a unique and valuable educational opportunity.
Professor Shapiro also created and led both the Ross Program for Teachers and Columbus Math Circle. These outreach initiatives further demonstrate his dedication to developing math skills in teachers and students alike.
At the collegiate level, Professor Shapiro’s expertise as a teacher and administrator has touched countless components of Ohio State’s Department of Mathematics. He served as vice chair for lower division studies for 12 years, where he was responsible for academic and operational oversight of approximately 40 percent of all math credit hours. He was instrumental in implementing the online math placement process and spearheaded the department’s curriculum conversion to a semester schedule. He also served on several Ohio board of gerents committees to help clarify state policies for articulation and transfer of math courses.
Professor Shapiro earned his bachelor’s degree from Harvard University in 1970 and his PhD from the University of California, Berkeley, in 1974.

Executive Summary

The Ohio State University continues to move forward to achieve its vision to be the world’s preeminent public comprehensive university, solving problems of world-wide significance and, to fulfill our mission to advance the well-being of the people of Ohio and the global community through the creation and dissemination of knowledge. In order to meet this vision and mission the university has continued to work towards augmentation of traditional revenue streams and streamlining expenses while seeking to expand the revenue base in new and unique ways in order to invest in areas core to the university vision and mission.

As fiscal year 2014 draws to a close, the university remains financially strong. Tuition revenue is stable as student applications and enrollment continue to grow. However, there are a number of challenges that we must manage. State subsidy revenue continues to decline in real dollars. We anticipate continued pressure on government expenditures for research and student financial aid. The anticipation of nominal growth from traditional government revenue sources, coupled with our intent to maintain student affordability, create an imperative to continue to explore alternatives to traditional financial strategies. The university must also consider leveraging core assets into incremental revenue while continuing to explore non-traditional revenue opportunities. A strong focus on both revenue enhancement and expense streamlining is required to ensure that resources are in place to fund our strategic initiatives while maintaining a strong balance sheet.

The OSU Health System continues to strengthen its financial position in advance of the opening of the new James Cancer Hospital and Critical Care Tower (CCT) scheduled for December, 2014. The fiscal year 2015 Health System budget meets aggressive targets to deliver improvements in profit margin, cash on hand and debt service ratios. Numerous expense control and productivity initiatives have been implemented or will be implemented during the course of fiscal year 2015. These measures are critical in order to manage operating risk associated with transitioning into the new facility and the uncertainty surrounding the impact of federal insurance exchanges and Medicare rate reductions.

We continue to explore new revenue opportunities in addition to the leased parking funding, century bond funding, and current affinity contracts. We continue to focus on our financial investment strategies, streamlining activities and procurement strategies in order to maximize the funding available to advance our goals of Teaching and Learning, Research and Innovation, Outreach and Engagement, and Resource Stewardship.

In fiscal year 2013 we invested $483 million into our long-term investment pool as a result of leasing our parking operations to a third party. From the investment yield, we expect to distribute $20-25 million per year to be used to fund faculty initiatives and research, transportation and sustainability, scholarships and invest in our university Arts District.

This document presents The Ohio State University’s Fiscal Year 2016 Budget for approval. The Budget is presented on a consolidated basis with the university and Health System also presented as unique operating entities. This document also provides narratives on the overall budgeting process, and the key drivers of revenue and expenses budgeted for fiscal year 2015.

STRATEGIC CONTEXT

The fiscal year 2015 budget is built upon the foundation of The Ohio State University strategic plan. The plan outlines four core goals, with a specific focus for investment across three discovery themes: Health and Wellness, Energy and Environment, Food and Production Safety.

Core Goals

Four institution-wide goals are fundamental to Ohio State’s mission and future success and must be reflected in all that we accomplish:

- Teaching and Learning: to provide an unsurpassed, student-centered learning experience led by engaged, world-class faculty and enhanced by a globally diverse student body.

- Research and Innovation: to create distinctive and internationally recognized contributions to the advancement of fundamental knowledge and scholarship and to solutions of the world’s most pressing problems.

- Outreach and Engagement: to establish mutually beneficial partnerships with the citizens and institutions of Ohio, the nation, and the world so that our communities are actively engaged in the exciting work of The Ohio State University.

- Resource Stewardship: to become the model for an affordable public university recognized for financial sustainability, unsurpassed management of human and physical resources, and operational efficiency and effectiveness.

Discovery Themes at The Ohio State University

The university’s move to eminence will be founded in the university’s three discovery themes of Health and Wellness, Food Production and Security, and Energy and Environment. These themes are based on their broad, and deep expertise across the university. Through these discovery themes, Ohio State will focus its resources and activities on finding durable solutions to issues at levels of both as well as regional importance. The discovery themes are essential elements of Ohio State’s strategic planning. The initial area of focus for all three of the Discovery Themes will be data analytics.
Data analytics is a process of collecting, organizing, integrating and examining vast amounts of information in order to extract insight. With today’s increasingly large, complex, and diverse data sets, problem-solving is more data driven than ever. In this environment, the ability to find, analyze, and interact with these data will be the difference-maker in accelerating the pace of change—from disease prognosis to smart materials, from environmental mapping to sustainable energy systems, from bioinformatics to precision agriculture. As part of this focus, the university has established a new interdisciplinary undergraduate major in data analytics. This major was designed by the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Engineering, Medicine and Fisher College of Business. With this new degree offering, Ohio State becomes the first university in the country to offer an undergraduate degree in data analytics.

Faculty from every college and all six campuses of the university will be encouraged to actively contribute to these discovery themes. Meanwhile, as these colleagues concentrate their efforts on the issues the discovery themes are meant to address, they and others will continue to advance our understanding of history and philosophy, languages and cultures, and the arts as they pursue excellence in our core goals. Our programs in medicine, agriculture, veterinary sciences, engineering, business and many other fields of study are rich and strong because they are grounded by excellence in the arts, humanities and physical as well as social sciences.

Strategic Finance: Planning for Success

In recent years, we have launched a number of successful initiatives to increase the resources available to support the core academic mission. Revenue generation initiatives have included the establishment of unique partnerships and collaborations, such as the affinity agreements with organizations such as Huntington Bank and Nationwide Insurance; innovative financing strategies such as the issuance of $500 million in century bonds; asset monetization strategies such as the 50-year parking concession agreement; and strengthening the endowment through diversification and value orientation strategies.

Going forward, The university must increasingly focus on generating additional revenue from traditional and innovative sources, including continued exploration of asset monetization opportunities, enhanced funding, continued exploration of public/private partnerships, technology commercialization and endowment growth.

We will also continue to build upon successful cost containment strategies that have included strategic procurement initiatives such as reducing the number of suppliers in our database, leveraging the buying power to negotiate more aggressively, implementing systems designed to improve operational efficiencies, lean process reengineering; and supporting the university’s sustainability efforts by moving to paperless systems.

Fiscal Year 2015 University Budget: Key Themes

The Fiscal Year 2015 Budget continues our commitment to hire 500 new tenure or tenure-track faculty by 2023 who will be specializing in disciplines that support the Discovery Themes. Start-up funding is also budgeted to ensure that the university can hire the best faculty for our programs. The fiscal year 2015 budget includes a $20 million investment in Data Analytics focused around Discovery Themes.

Fiscal year 2015 will be the second year of the State of Ohio’s new funding model for higher education. The recommendations were developed by the Commission on Higher Education under the leadership of former President Gee. This new model emphasizes degree completion as the main driver for funding and course completions as secondary. It will also reward the ability of the university to retain the best and brightest in Ohio after graduation. The state has increased its pool of funding allocated to state colleges and universities by 1.6% in fiscal year 2015. The university continues to assess the impacts of the funding model change within the context of growth in distance education and other non-traditional programs across the state.
The budget also focuses on additional compensation for faculty and staff, increasing the institutionally funded financial aid for undergraduate students, supporting colleges with additional revenue generated from tuition dollars, funding for increased benefit costs and priority requests for support operations, all while assuring that general funds are balanced.

The Fiscal Year 2015 Budget Plan outlines important aspects of the university’s financial strategy in the year ahead. The budget plan, coupled with our Annual Financial Report, presents our current financial state and our future opportunities and challenges. It illustrates our financial path for achieving our vision of being the world’s preeminent public comprehensive university.
Fiscal Year 2015 Budget: Financial Statements

The fiscal year 2015 budget includes a consolidated financial statement in addition to discrete financial statements for each of the following segments:

- The Ohio State University
- The Ohio State University Health System
- The Ohio State University Physicians Practice Plan

Given the operational differences between segments, we will provide narratives around the key drivers for each segment.

Tuition and Fees

Gross tuition and fees, before scholarship allowance, are expected to increase by $19 million, or 1.9%, to $996 million. The increase is driven by both an increased mix of non-resident students and increased fees for fiscal year 2015. Undergraduate and graduate Masters/PhD instructional and mandatory fees will not increase in fiscal year 2015. Instructional fees for tagged masters and professional students are scheduled to increase 2.0%. For all student levels, the non-resident surcharge will increase 5.0% across most colleges.

The university is committed to maintaining tuition affordability. However, the limited increases are necessary to partially cover inflation and to provide continued investment in excellence within the core academic mission. Tuition and fees provide more than 70% of university revenue available to fund the core academic mission. The remaining 30% is largely provided through the State of Ohio instructional subsidy (SSI). SSI has continued to decline, when adjusted for inflation, in recent years.

Enrollment - The university continues to execute against the most recent Enrollment Plan, which was implemented in fiscal year 2012, to increase the quantity, quality and diversity of the student body. The Plan has been successful in meeting those objectives and in providing higher levels of new students to offset the temporary decline in existing students due to semester conversion in fiscal year 2013. Enrollment has since stabilized and enrollment for fall 2014 (fiscal year 2015) is expected to be essentially flat versus fiscal year 2014. With many students taking advantage of the free credit hour option in May term, summer revenue-generating enrollments and credit hours continue to lag behind pre-conversion levels.
Regional campuses, which account for 10% of the university's enrollment, continue to be negatively impacted by several factors including the semester conversion, continued poor economic conditions in the communities they serve, the decreasing number of high school graduates and the competition from community and technical colleges. As a result, fiscal year 2015 enrollments are projected to decline an average of 1.8% over fiscal year 2014 levels.

Undergraduate Fees - Resident instructional fees will not increase in fiscal year 2015 at all of the Ohio State campuses. Also, the general and mandatory fees, including the recreation fee, student activity, student union facility fee, and COTA bus fee will again not change in fiscal year 2015.

Graduate and Professional Fees - Masters and PhD instructional fees will not increase in fiscal year 2015. Some graduate and professional students pay a higher or differential instructional fee based principally on market demand and market pricing. Revenue generated from these increases is earmarked to support the graduate and professional programs that generate the fee income. Most differential fees are expected to increase 2%, while some are budgeted to increase between 3% and 6% in fiscal year 2015.

Non-Resident Surcharges - Effective Autumn term fiscal year 2015, the non-resident surcharge will increase 5.0% for most undergraduate, graduate, and most professional programs at each campus. Exceptions to this include the Colleges of Law and Optometry, which will see no increase, four graduate business programs, an on-line FAES program and an on-line Engineering Program that charge a flat non-resident surcharge.

Program, Technology, and Other Fees - Several colleges and academic programs have established additional fees to support specific programs and initiatives. These include program fees designed to provide financial support for specific programs, technology fees, international student fees, and course fees and distance education fees.
Comparison with Selective Ohio Peers - Among Ohio’s public universities, Ohio State ranks highest in academic reputation, yet has the second lowest undergraduate student fees among Ohio’s six public four-year universities with selective admissions. Given the continued commitment to keep tuition affordable by not raising resident undergraduate rates in the 2014-15 academic year, Ohio State will continue to have one of the lowest student fees among the selective public institutions. This makes Ohio State an excellent value for students and taxpayers.

Again, even among other highly ranked institutions across the nation, Ohio State continues to be an excellent value for students.

State Share of Instruction (SSI)

The SSI allocation is the State of Ohio’s primary funding support for enrollments and degree completions at its colleges and universities. SSI funds campuses on the basis of several criteria including successful course completions, indexed by financially and academically at-risk students, degree completions with added funding for degree completions by at-risk students, research activity, and a number of other criteria intended to advance the goals of the State.

In total, the State is appropriating approximately $1.82 billion for SSI in fiscal year 2015, an increase of $28.5 million or 2% over fiscal year 2014. In total the university will receive $364 million in SSI funding for fiscal year 2015. This is roughly $1.4 million below fiscal year 2014, driven by the reduction in State stop-loss funding for regional campuses.

In the fall of 2012, Governor Kasich asked former President Gee to chair a committee comprised of the presidents from Miami University, Ohio University, Wright State University, and Shawnee State University to recommend changes to the State Share of Instruction (SSI) formula to better align it with the goals of the state. The committee was tasked with finding ways to use the formula to support the following objectives:

- Increase participation rates
- Encourage the best and brightest to attend
- Improve graduation rates
- Make higher education more affordable
- Graduate students with the skills they need
- Encourage graduates to stay in Ohio
In fiscal year 2014, the first year of implementation, the formula shifted to rewarding degree recipients, adopted a universal three year average as the basis of calculation for the distribution of the allocations, adopted STEM weights to degree completions, and removed the re-allocation of funds from campuses to those whose allocations had dropped below a certain threshold.

In fiscal year 2015 the formula will combine the regional campus allocations with the main campuses, award proportional degree credits for transfer students, award associate degree credits for all campuses, and implement degree credits for out of state graduates that remain the in the state. In the next biennium the formula will remove all remaining earmarks currently in the formula.

The university is assessing the impact of the funding changes on its campuses and is engaged in discussion with the Interuniversity Council of Ohio and the Board of Regents on ways that the funding formula can better meet the needs of the State.

State Line Item Support

In addition to SSI funding, the university also receives funding directed to specific purposes. In fiscal year 2015 the university expects to receive $86.6 million in line item funding. This is roughly flat to our fiscal year 2014 projections.

In total SSI and line item support to the university are expected to be down $1.5 million from fiscal year 2014. On an inflation-adjusted basis, State funding per resident student continues to trail historical levels.

Capital Appropriations

The university also receives capital appropriations from the state to improve the physical infrastructure of the university. The state capital budget process occurs in the off years from the state budget process. The fiscal year 2015-16 capital process allocated approximately $99.2 million to the university, of which approximately $4.5 million is expected to be received in fiscal year 2015 and will be used to fund such projects as the renovations of Oxley and Pomerene Halls to support Discovery Theme recruitment, renovations at the regional campuses and other infrastructure projects.
Grants and Contracts

For fiscal year 2015, revenue from grants and contracts is planned at $574 million, essentially flat from the fiscal year 2014 forecast. Grants and contracts revenue is administered in two ways: recorded by individual units in segregated grants and contracts funds, or as sponsored projects administered by the Office of Sponsored Projects.

Of the $574 million, $487 million is administered by the Office of Sponsored Projects and $187 million is administered directly by colleges and support units. Projects administered by the Office of Sponsored Projects typically have more stringent process and documentation requirements than projects that are directly administered through the colleges and support units.

Sponsored Research Programs

The university secures funding for sponsored research programs from a variety of external sources. External grants are awarded by federal, state and local agencies along with private foundations and corporate sponsors. Revenue for sponsored research programs administered by the Office of Sponsored Projects is expected to decrease slightly by $3 million, from $490 million projected in fiscal year 2014 to a budget of $487 million in fiscal year 2015. This is due primarily to decreased governmental funding and elimination of ARRA funds.

The sponsored research revenues discussed above include facilities and administrative (F&A) recoveries which are projected to be $59 million, a $2 million, or 1.5%, decrease from fiscal year 2014 levels. F&A costs are recovered from most sponsored programs to offset the cost of maintaining the physical and administrative infrastructure that supports the research enterprise at the university. Because some direct cost expenditures do not recover F&A, direct and indirect cost expenditures do not necessarily align when comparing expected revenue streams.

Agencies differ in how they award funds to the university. Some sponsors will provide all spending authority at the beginning of a multi-year award whereas others tend to fund in annual increments; therefore, awards and expenditures do not necessarily track together.

Not unexpectedly, awards from not-for-profit entities that provide grants from funds they raise from charitable donations (e.g. American Cancer Society) are also trending downward. In addition, State funding is also being redirected toward private enterprises and not toward research development at universities.

The university is working to mitigate ongoing downward trends using two primary strategies. First, we are actively focusing on increasing the competitiveness of researchers through activities internal to the university, including facilitating multidisciplinary research to take advantage of the breadth of expertise at the university; establishing new centers focused on current and emerging research challenges; creating a proposal development center; and establishing and maintaining cutting edge core facilities to support our growing community of research-intensive faculty. The second strategy involves building external relationships that will help grow the university’s portfolio of federally-funded research, expand strategic partnerships with industry and promote and develop the Ohio Technology Consortium (Ohio-Tech).

College / Support Unit Administered Grants and Contracts

Revenue for grants and contracts administered directly by individual colleges and support units is expected to increase slightly from $184 million projected for fiscal year 2014 to $187 million budgeted for fiscal year 2015.
August 29, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

The following graph represents the trend for each component of Grants and Contracts since fiscal year 2009.

Sales and Service Revenues

Sales and Services of Educational Departments - Sales and services of educational departments are expected to remain flat versus fiscal year 2014. This revenue consists largely of clinical revenue in colleges such as Optometry and Veterinary Medicine and non-college departments such as Recreational Sports and CARNET.

Sales and Services of Auxiliary Enterprises - Student Life and Athletics comprise the majority of sales and services of auxiliary enterprises. Operating Revenue from sales and services of auxiliary enterprises are expected to increase $14 million, or 6.1%. Athletics revenue is budgeted to increase $10 million driven largely by increased football revenue from ticket sales ($3.6M), incremental Big Ten bowl revenue ($2.4M) and guaranteed payment for the away game with Navy ($1.8M).

Student Life increase in Sales and Services is primarily driven by room and board revenue from planned fee increases averaging 4.2% on most services in fiscal year 2015. The increase is necessary to cover increased debt payments associated with the new North Residential District and to cover basic inflation for supplies and services. University leadership has asked the Office of Student Life to reduce costs, beginning in fiscal year 2015, with a target to reduce ongoing costs by $1.8 million.
UNIVERSITY BUDGET: EXPENSE

Salaries and Benefits

Salaries - Salary expense is expected to increase by $41 million or 3.1% over fiscal year 2014 projections. Faculty and staff salary guideline increases of up to 2.0% have been included in the budget for fiscal year 2015.

Salaries expense is planned to increase by $28 million in colleges, including guidelines increases and a $7.5 million investment in the Data Analytics Discovery Theme. The remaining $13 million increase is attributable to support units, including guideline increases and investments in areas such as proposal development and compliance efforts in the Office of Research, OSU Online, Advancement and a full year of fully staffed Office of Integrity and Compliance.

In an effort to drive increased efficiency and ensure that funding is maximized to support the core academic mission, the University has indicated that it will only fund 50% of any net increase to salary and benefits within support units through the current budget allocation model. For instance, if a support unit proposes an aggregate 2.0% increase, the unit will have to fund 50% of that dollar value, effectively 1.0%. It is expected that the unit will deliver cost savings in order to offset the other 50%.

Consistent with prior years, the approved salary guidelines take into consideration the financial condition of the university as well as statistics of the current labor market. The University continues to employ its philosophy of setting faculty salaries at a level that will maintain or advance Ohio State's position nationally for the highest quality faculty, and to set staff salaries to be competitive with the local employment markets.

Benefits - Benefit costs are expected to increase by $19 million or 4.8% over fiscal year 2014. Benefits are driven by the 2% salary guideline increase, which directly affects the retirement plan contribution expenses and a 7% average rate increase on other benefit plans combined. Benefits include the University's contribution to employee retirement plans, various medical, dental, vision, life and disability plans, employee and dependent tuition plans and university expense related to compulsory plans, such as workers' compensation and unemployment compensation.

Retirement Plans - University employees are covered by one of three retirement systems. The University faculty is covered by the State Teachers Retirement System of Ohio (STRS Ohio). Substantially all other employees are covered by the Public Employees Retirement System of Ohio (CPERS). Employees may opt out of STRS Ohio and CPERS and participate in the Alternative Retirement Plan (ARP) if they meet certain eligibility requirements. Under each of the plans, the University contributes 14% of the employee's pay to the plan annually, while the employees contribute 10%. Vesting varies by plan.

Medical Plan - The University is self-insured for employee health insurance. Fiscal year 2015 medical plan costs are budgeted based on historical cost trend data, projected employee eligibility, and expected plan changes associated with governmental regulations. Given these factors, we are projecting a 7% increase for fiscal year 2015 across all medical plans. The University will continue to monitor the impact the new health care laws will have on the University as an employer as legislation and regulations evolve.
Student Financial Aid

Financial aid is a critical investment of resources that keeps the cost of education manageable for students. The Ohio State University engages both the federal and state governments in conversations to stress the importance of financial aid and reasonable loan programs for students. Interactions with donors also stress the importance of gifts that support financial aid.

The financial aid plan seeks to advance two specific goals for the university: to invest in the quality, quantity and diversity of students in order to continue to move Ohio State towards its goal of being in the top ten public universities in the country, and to invest in students to fulfill our role as the land grant university for the State of Ohio, whereby access to college is afforded to those students with limited resources. The university continues to work to support both goals and continues to develop the appropriate balance in moving the university towards eminence. Fundraising efforts are also underway through various initiatives including the Ohio Challenge in which all 88 Ohio counties are raising funds to recruit students from each county to attend Ohio State.

Ohio State expects to distribute a total of $315 million of financial aid, excluding graduate fee authorizations, to students in fiscal year 2015. Sources for the aid include institutionally funded aid, federal and state programs, and gifts and endowments. The university financial statements present a portion of financial aid, in accordance with GASB accounting requirements, as an allowance against gross tuition and, in the case of Athletic scholarships, an allowance against Auxiliary sales. For fiscal year 2015, $169 million of the $315 million of financial aid has been presented as allowances.

Institutionally funded financial aid is expected to increase by $9.4 million, or 6.6%, in fiscal year 2015 to a total of $147.9 million. These increases are driven by further investments in financial aid to support the Enrollment Plan, funding for need-based financial aid, funding for the Eminence Financial Aid Program for high-performing students, and for the inflationary costs of room and board.

Federal financial aid, which consists primarily of Pell and some Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG) grants, is expected to increase $0.9 million, or 1.6%, to $56.8 million in fiscal year 2015. State financial aid is expected to hold steady at approximately $8.4 million in fiscal year 2015 and is driven by funding levels for programs such as the Ohio College Opportunity Grant (OCOG). Donor and other funds are also expected to remain flat in fiscal year 2014 at $21.4 million.

Athletic scholarships are planned to remain roughly flat at $17.4 million. The remaining $63.6 million in financial aid is administered directly by colleges for graduate fellowships and departmental awards.
Fee Authorizations

Fee Authorizations are an additional component of student aid directed toward graduate student appointments. Total University Fee Authorization expense is expected to increase by $2.2 million or 2.3% in fiscal year 2015. This is driven by a larger number of planned graduate appointments versus fiscal year 2014 and by the incremental cost to fund this aid for some resident and non-resident students.

Supplies & Other Expenses

Supplies and Other Expenses are projected to increase $19.1 million or 3.1% versus fiscal year 2014. However, fiscal year 2014 Other Expenses include a one-time $10 million insurance payment for tornado damage at Wooster. Once fiscal year 2014 costs are adjusted for this one-time proceed, costs are planned to increase by $9.1 million or 1.5%. The primary drivers are a $7.8 million increase in utilities cost versus fiscal year 2014. Other increases include $1.0 million to support development of OSU Online programs, $0.8 million for new programs in the College of Public Health and $1.4 million to develop a marketing plan and implement new software in the Office of Enrollment Services.

Utilities - Columbus campus utilities expense is expected to increase by $7.8 million, or 8.1%, in fiscal year 2015 to $103 million. The increase is driven primarily by increases in debt service associated with utilities projects, such as the addition of more efficient cooling plants, and increases in purchased power costs. The university’s internal budget model contains a mechanism to smooth changes in rate, both increases and decreases, charged to colleges and units in order to provide for less volatility in annual funding and facilitate planning.

The Wexner Medical Center and major auxiliaries such as Student Life and Athletics are not charged for utilities by the assignable square foot but are directly billed for specific utilities based on meter data. This direct billed revenue is deducted from the total utilities expenses in calculating the rate per assignable square foot paid by other units.

The university has contracted with Johnson Controls for a pilot project to install energy conservation measures in five energy-intensive buildings: Biomedical Research Tower, RPAC/McCorkle Aquatics Pavilion, Scott Lab, Physics Research Building, and the Veterinary Hospital. The total minimum guaranteed energy savings for these buildings will be $1 million annually after the project is completed.

Building Maintenance and Custodial Services - Services provided include repairs resulting from normal wear and tear, including plumbing, central HVAC and electrical systems, elevator repair and maintenance, and maintenance of the building envelope, including windows, foundations, walls, and floors. Maintenance expenses are expected to increase by $400,000, or 2.0%, in fiscal year 2015 to $32.3 million. The increase is driven primarily by increased salaries and benefits for university maintenance staff.

Custodial expenses are expected to decrease by $200,000, or 0.2%, in fiscal year 2015 to $16.5 million. For fiscal year 2015, contract services will provide custodial services for approximately 56% of Columbus campus buildings.

Maintenance and Renewal - In an effort to keep pace with maintenance needs for newer buildings and prevent additions to the deferred maintenance backlog, the POM rates provide annual funding for a preventative maintenance pool and a second fund for a deferred maintenance endowment. Annual funding set aside for preventative maintenance pool will remain at $4 million in fiscal year 2015.

The deferred maintenance endowment was established to provide funding for future maintenance on buildings constructed after 2000. $6 million will be added during fiscal year 2015 to the quasi endowment established for this purpose. The addition in fiscal year 2015 will increase the principal balance to approximately $43 million. Distributions of up to $1.5 million from this fund will be expendable beginning in fiscal year 2015 for any in-scope deferred maintenance.

University Overhead

Overhead is charged to non-general funds units to help fund centrally-provided services. In fiscal year 2015, $7.3 million is expected to be allocated via internal charges to fund centrally-provided services, an increase of $1 million from fiscal year 2014. Since overhead is an intra-university allocation, entries are eliminated in the financial statement consolidation process.

Specific expense categories comprising the overhead rates include Facilities Support, Administrative Support, and Specialized Support [Health Administration and Student Services]. Different overhead rates are calculated based on participation in the different expense categories. The base rate includes all expense categories; other rates are calculated to include only those expenses applicable to those units. For example, the regional campus rate includes only the insurance, academic administration, and central support expense categories. For fiscal year 2015, the rates ranged from 2.8% for the Wexner Medical Center to 5.7% for most earnings operations.

For all units except the Wexner Medical Center, overhead is calculated based on the overhead percentage times net revenue. Net revenue is defined as revenue less direct pass through costs. The Wexner Medical Center’s overhead is charged a dollar amount based on actual prior year expenses, in order to be compliant with federal Medicare reimbursement policies. The calculated overhead rates for fiscal year 2015 are stable compared with fiscal year 2014 rates, reflecting moderate growth in both revenues and allocated overhead costs.

Advancement

The university launched the public phase of its $2.5 billion But for Ohio State campaign in October 2012. The fundraising campaign invites those who believe in Ohio State to invest in our students, our faculty, and our potential. By supporting Ohio’s land-grant institution, alumni, friends, parents and partners can help us secure educational opportunities for futures generations of students and meet the enormous challenges we face as a society. Campaign proceeds will be used to fund scholarships to attract the most promising students, elevate faculty, create modern learning environments, promote multidisciplinary research, and drive high-impact innovation.

In fiscal year 2015, the university expects to raise aggregate fundraising dollars of $390 million, including pledges and certain private contracts, by engaging a variety of constituents, including students, faculty and staff, alumni, friends, corporate partners and private foundations. The Advancement strategic plan focuses on aligning fundraising with communications and alumni/constituent engagement to use innovative funding approaches with Ohio State’s partners across all facets of the university.

The Advancement related line items of the fiscal year 2015 financials exclude pledges of $36 million where we do not expect to receive cash in fiscal year 2015. In addition, $106 million of the $390 million of expected fundraising is recognized in grants and contracts within the fiscal year 2015 budget.

Financial Services and Investments

The Office of Financial Services manages cash, short and intermediate term investments and other funds totaling over $2.0 billion. They also oversee a debt portfolio of $2.5 billion. In performing these functions, the office serves as internal bank to the university taking deposits, issuing debt, investing operating funds and approving loans. The internal bank is a framework for coordinating these activities and providing a consolidated view of the associated assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses.

The Office of Investments manages the Long Term Investment Pool (LTIP), which totals over $3.4 billion and includes gifted endowment funds, designated funds and a significant portion of operating funds. Through a partnership with external managers, the Office of Investments has adopted an asset allocation model for the LTIP that groups assets into four broad categories. This model enables the investment team to build a portfolio of specialized investment teams around the world to implement our strategic allocation and to be responsive to changing market conditions.

Investment Income - Investment income on cash, short and intermediate term investments is budgeted at $12.0 million, a $1.0 million increase over our fiscal year 2014 forecast. The fiscal year 2015 budget reflects the continued low interest rate environment.

The LTIP is budgeted to return $275 million, at an 8.0% return, in fiscal year 2015. The LTIP has produced a 10.6% return, or $333 million in the first 10 months of fiscal year 2014, net of investment expenses. This compares to an 11.6% return or $319 million for the full fiscal year 2013.

Debt - The proceeds of past debt issuance have been utilized to fund major construction projects including the Wexner Medical Center expansion and dormitory refurbishments, as well as significant campus infrastructure improvements.

The debt is comprised of a mix of tax exempt and taxable bonds. Over 82% of the outstanding debt balance is comprised of fixed rate obligations ranging between 1.2% and 4.85%. The remainder is variable rate agreements. The variable rates, most of which are subject to change every seven days, averaged 0.06% through the first ten months of fiscal year 2014 and have a 15 year average of 1.5%. Under the terms of the variable rate agreements, the rates cannot exceed 8% or 12%, depending on the issue.

In fiscal year 2015, we plan to issue approximately $300 million of new debt to complete the funding of the Wexner Medical Center expansion. The university expects to incur approximately $95 million of interest expense on plant debt in fiscal year 2015, an increase of $10 million over fiscal year 2014 projected levels. Approximately $10 million will be capitalized resulting in a net expense of $76 million for fiscal year 2015.

The 2015 OSU Wexner Medical Center Health System (Health System) operating budget generates margins and cash flows sufficient to meet or exceed the Health System’s three strategic financial targets. The first goal is to earn an EBITDA margin of at least 12%. The fiscal year 2016 budget generates a 14% EBITDA margin. The second goal is to increase the number of days of cash on hand by three days. The fiscal year 2015 budget results in a three day increase from $339 million to $374 million. The final goal is to achieve a debt service coverage ratio of 4:1. The budget results in a 4.3:1 debt service coverage ratio.
Cancer and Critical Care Tower Opening

The opening of the new James Cancer Hospital and Critical Care Tower (CCCT) scheduled in December 2014 represents one of the final phases of the $1.1 billion dollar Medical Center Expansion project. This twenty one story, one million square foot facility will open 346 new beds, will contain 14 operating rooms, expanded radiation therapy units, and over 100 ambulatory exam rooms. The CCCT has been designed to provide state of the art care to patients, support teaching and research activities close to the bedside and provide a comfortable and nurturing environment for families.

The opening of the CCCT poses financial challenges in 2015 that will be alleviated in 2016 as the Health System anticipates return to normal day to day operations. The opening of the CCCT frees beds currently used in the existing James facility and in Doan Hall. When James patients move to the new facility, a backfill plan is in place that will make more beds available for University Hospital, while also reconfiguring space to house the Brain and Spine Hospital, privatizing some existing dual occupancy rooms and decompressing faculty office space.

The impact of the opening on both University Hospital (UH) and The James is significant and will be discussed below. The expense of opening the building will begin early in the fiscal year, likely depressing traditional margin levels in the first six months. Upon opening, The James is projected to fill beds quickly and is expected to reach planned operating levels in the fourth quarter. Critical care cancer patients currently treated by University Hospital will transfer to the new tower, lowering revenues and some expenses to UH. UH backfill is expected to occur over a slightly longer period. Due to historic bed constraints across the health system, physician referral patterns to the Medical Center may take time to build.

Revenue Drivers

Overall revenue is budgeted to increase approximately 5.5% compared with the current year rate of 5.8%. Activity increases account for approximately 3.2% and rates account for 2.3% of fiscal year 2015 growth. Outpatient activity growth is expected to be consistent over the fiscal year, while the majority of inpatient growth will occur when beds become available in the second half of the fiscal year.

Medicaid Expansion has been favorable for the Health System as patients previously covered under charity programs now have coverage. Medicaid rates have been cut to offset the large increase in enrollment, but the 2015 budget anticipates positive outcome from this increased volume. Overall charity care write offs will drop significantly if this trend continues. The impact of federal insurance exchanges continues to remain unclear. There is significant risk that new enrollment is heavily skewed toward high deductible plans, which will drive all hospitals' bad debt costs to unprecedented levels. Overall, management believes that exchanges will not have a significant impact on the Health System in 2015.

Medicare rates will decrease slightly in certain service areas. The 2% federal sequestration reduction on Medicare payments is expected to remain in effect. Some federal cuts legislated under ACA have been deferred, although the Health System experienced a sizable cut in state funds intended to support safety net hospitals. Managed care arrangements are negotiated through the end of 2015 and in some cases into 2016. The payment increases for managed care contracts provides most of the 2.3% rate growth noted above. There are no planned price increases in this budget.

Expense Drivers

Expenses before interest and depreciation will grow by 5.9% compared to the current year growth of 5.7%. The fiscal year 2015 budget includes estimated one time expenditures of $17 million for the CCCT opening. Excluding those costs, expenses will grow at approximately 4.8%, of which 3.2% will be activity driven and 1.6% rate driven. Increases under the OQA contract provide a 3% salary growth for nursing. Salary increases averaging 2% overall will be given to employees earning less than $250,000. Excluding pharmaceutical costs and increases for a new retail pharmacy, non-salary costs will decrease after accounting for volume increases.

Extensive expense reduction is anticipated in the 2015 budget. Some interventions are fully implemented such as improved coding, new staffing models in the hospitals, centralized imaging to increase throughput and improve patient satisfaction, and reducing pharmacy costs. We continue to focus on growth initiatives in the areas of cancer, outreach/hospital affiliations, ambulatory expansion, neurosciences and primary care in order to protect the value of our franchise. Many additional interventions are in implementation or will be launched soon including increasing physician productivity, reducing the cost of unfunded research faculty, evaluating organizational span of control and layers of management, embracing and implementing a “true” shared services model for clinical and administrative shared services, and aggressively overhauling our supply chain activities.

EBIDA and Profitability

With the opening of the CCCT, depreciation and interest expense will increase from $87 million to over $131 million and debt service will exceed $60 million. The increase in depreciation and interest expense reduces the 2015 operating margin. Knowing that the opening of the building would have material impact on operating margin, the Health System has historically utilized EBIDA (Earnings before Interest, Depreciation, and Amortization) as a metric to provide comparability across fiscal years. The Health System set an aggressive target to grow 2015 EBIDA by 3% while it faces the challenges of bringing the new building on line. Although margin decreases from $216.5 million in 2014 to $163.7 million in 2015, EBIDA increases from $304 million to $314 million, indicative that the clinical engine will continue to produce cash for the university.

Cash Management

Although EBIDA is expected to grow 3% that will not be sufficient to service the increased debt, grow cash by three days and fund other working capital needs. Therefore, funds available for program and capital investment are being reduced. The Health System will lower its support for clinical and academic activities by $20 million in 2015 and will maintain its capital budget at $68 million, the same as 2014 levels. These reductions will be offset by improved productivity. As 2015 unfolds, cash growth will be monitored closely; should estimates of revenue and expenses result in unfavorable cash flow, further reductions in operations or investments will be considered.

2015 will be one of the most challenging and potentially unpredictable budgets in recent years. Uncertainty in the hospital industry and the midyear opening of a $1.1 billion facility combine to create a difficult forecasting process. However, this budget is predicated on our fundamental financial strength, our ability to control costs, and the strength that the OSU Wexner Medical Center brand carries locally and state wide. Although it is aggressive, it is certainly achievable.

OSU Physicians, Inc. is a multi-specialty faculty practice bringing outpatient care to Central Ohio communities with physicians focusing on personalized healthcare, patient satisfaction, research and education.

The fiscal year 2015 budget for OSU Physicians, Inc. includes an increase in operating revenue of $36 million, or 11.6%, based on an expected 13% increase in volume, as measured by work relative value units (WRVUs), a system for measuring physician productivity. Provider related expenses are budgeted to increase by $15.6 million, or 7.6%, due to 62 new physicians that either recently started in fiscal year 2014 or will start in fiscal year 2015.
University Budget Process

THE BUDGET PROCESS AT THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

For the Fiscal Year 2015 Budget Plan, the university continued to implement a revised budgeting process that encompasses all funds of the university. This approach affords a holistic view of all operations of the university in an easily understood format that will enable the university to highlight the evolution of funding sources. This will allow leadership to make informed strategic decisions in a timely manner.

This all funds, total operating budget will provide the base framework for evaluating the activities of all academic and support units within the university, allowing proactive responses to changing economic issues as they arise.

Budget System

The university uses a budget system that is comprised of two components: a modified Responsibility Center Management (RCM) model and the strategic investment of central funds. This structure allows for decentralized decision making and control of financial resources at the colleges and support units. The modified RCM budget model assigns substantial control over resource decisions to individual colleges and support units. The underlying premise of the university’s decentralized budget model is entrusting academic and support unit leaders with significant control over financial resources, leading to more informed decision making and better results and outcomes for the university as a whole. Through this decentralized model, colleges in particular are incentivized to increase resources by teaching more credit hours and increasing research activity.

The OSU Health System and OSU Physicians, Inc. prepare their budgets based upon projected activity and associated costs. External factors, such as government regulations and reimbursement rates, as well as contractual agreements with health care payers also play an integral part in developing the health system’s budget.

Fund Accounting

The university’s budget is developed and managed according to the principles of fund accounting. We manage over 19,000 active expendable funds and over 4,800 endowment principal funds through a robust accounting system. Revenue is segregated into a variety of fund types, the use of which is governed by the restrictions of the specific fund. Some fund types are unrestricted, including general funds and some earnings funds. Others have restrictions derived from the source of the revenue, including grants and contracts received from government agencies, foundations, and other outside sponsors. Individual funds are set up to ensure strict adherence to the terms of the grant or contract that governs these funds.

Endowments are another type of restricted fund, where separate funds are set up to preserve the corpus or principal of the gifts. As those funds earn investment returns, annual income distributions are made out of the endowment fund and into a current fund for spending in accordance with the donors’ restrictions. The segregation of each gift allows the university to ensure the funds are spent appropriately and to enable reporting to donors on the activities that their funds support.

Although emphasis was placed on including all university funds in the fiscal year 2015 budget process, general funds continue to remain a key component of the budget. General funds can generally be used for any university purpose whereas restricted funds are more specifically targeted. These funds play a major role in the budget, as they cover many expenses in the college and support units for which it is... difficult to raise money. The main sources of general funds are tuition and other student fees, state support of instruction, indirect cost recovery, and overhead charged to earnings units.

Allocation of Funds

Each college and support unit receives a portion of general funds in support of both academic and administrative functions. The process for allocating the funds is administered through the Office of Financial Planning & Analysis under the guidance of the Chief Financial Officer and Provost. General funds are allocated to colleges and support units on a marginal basis under an established set of criteria. In other words, increases (or decreases) in the pool of general funds available each budget year are allocated back to colleges and support units as increases (or decreases) to their base general funds budgets.

Marginal changes in revenue are allocated to colleges based on three primary funding formulas. The first funding formula for colleges utilizes a model to distribute undergraduate marginal tuition and state support. Sixty percent of the funding is allocated based on total credit hours taught, while forty percent is allocated based on the cost of instruction. This budget allocation method takes into account the fact that some courses have a higher cost for delivery and are, thus, allocated a greater share of the funding. The other two primary funding formulas allocate graduate tuition and state support based on credit hours in fee-paying categories (tuition) and type of course taught based on cost of instruction (state support). As a college teaches more of the share of total credit hours, it receives a larger share of the incremental funding. Conversely, if a college’s share of the hours taught declines, the college’s allotted share of incremental funding will correspondingly decline. Colleges will receive their share of revenue on indirect research cost recovery, based upon the college’s share of research revenue. Fee revenue from learning technology, course and program fees are provided directly to colleges based upon course.

Support units are funded through a combination of central tax, specific activity-based assessments charged to colleges and an overhead rate charged to auxiliary and earnings units. The central tax, assessments and overhead charges are designed to provide the funds necessary to maintain support services such as payroll services, central human resource services, and student life services. Support units are generally ineligible for marginal revenue changes because the funding formulas rely on credit hours taught; instead, support units must request additional funding during the annual budget process to support new services or mandates.

Auxiliaries and earnings units are expected to operate at a break even or better margin and generally do not receive general fund support. One exception is the Office of Student Life which does receive general fund support via special Student Activity, Ohio Union and Recreational Facility fees that were enacted to specifically advance the student experience.

Regional campuses develop their own individual campus budgets primarily based on the student tuition and fees received from the regional campus students, the State Share of Instruction they expect to collect and costs directly incurred to operate those campuses.

University-wide initiatives and special requests by colleges and support units are funded through the formal budget process or through central reserves established to fund campus-wide projects that benefit the entire population or advance the mission of the university.
BACKGROUND

TOPICS: Modification of the asset classes utilized within the Long-Term Investment Pool (LTIP) and the university's Investment Policy. Also, modification of the benchmarks utilized to gauge overall investment performance within the LTIP.

CONTEXT: The university’s Investment Policy was last amended in August 2013. At that time the long-term and short-term policies were combined into a single university Investment Policy to allow for ease of management and oversight of the various investment pools. Within the Investment Policy, specific to the LTIP is guidance on overall asset allocation and specifically asset classes and allowed ranges of investment within each asset class. Separate from the university’s Investment Policy are the benchmarks which are utilized to gauge overall investment performance of the LTIP.

SUMMARY: Over the last 12 months, the university’s finance and investment teams have been reviewing the asset classes and investment allocations along with the benchmarks for the LTIP. The team has come to the conclusion that a simplified model of asset allocation and benchmarking would serve the university’s interests better as it reflects current market conditions and would allow for improved oversight and measurement of performance in today’s financial markets.

The existing four asset classes (Global Equities, Global Credit, Private Capital & Real Assets) will be reduced to three (Global Equities, Global Credit and Real Assets). The assets in the eliminated category (Private Capital) will be reallocated to their respective investment area (Equities, Credit & Real Assets) to achieve this modification. Each of the three asset classes also has a range of allowed investment (Global Equities: 40-80%, Global Credit: 10-50%, Real Assets: 5-20%) as a percentage of the total LTIP and the relative midpoints of each range (Global Equities: 60%, Global Credit: 30%, Real Assets: 10%) will serve as the portfolio standard weighting for purposes of performance benchmarking. The allowed ranges of allocation will give the investment team the flexibility to adjust to changing market conditions and to ensure proper return and risk analyses are conducted.

The simplification of asset classes from four to three will also allow the university to simplify and enhance the LTIP benchmarks. The Global Equities and Global Credit benchmarks will be based on established financial indices (Global Equities - MSCI ALL Country World Index & Global Credit - Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index). The real asset benchmark will be the U.S. Consumer Price Index (CPI) + 5%. In addition, the university will add a secondary benchmark to evaluate the total risk-adjusted performance of the LTIP. The Sharpe ratio which measures the excess return (or risk premium) per unit of deviation in an investment asset will be utilized to compare the risk taken in the portfolio to that of the benchmark and to better assess the relative performance.

REQUESTED OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE: Approval of the resolution.

OBJECTIVE

The objective of this Investment Policy is to establish the overall goals, management responsibilities, investment strategies and discipline for the investment portfolios of The Ohio State University (the "University"). This Investment Policy is intended to permit sufficient flexibility to capture investment opportunities, yet provide parameters that ensure prudence and care in the execution of the investment program. This Investment Policy is issued for the guidance of fiduciaries, including the Board of Trustees, Finance Committee members, staff, investment managers, investment consultants and custodians for oversight of the University’s investment portfolios. It also states the standards and disciplines adopted so that the Board of Trustees and its Finance Committee can effectively evaluate the performance and operations of the investment portfolios. This Investment Policy is divided into two sections: Long-Term Investment Pool and Operating and Agency Funds Portfolios.

I. LONG-TERM INVESTMENT POOL PORTFOLIO

A. GOALS

The Long-Term Investment Pool (the LTIP) was established to provide financial support for the long-term use and benefit of the University in support of its mission. The goal is to manage LTIP assets with prudence and discipline to achieve that purpose. The LTIP will be invested using a total return objective to meet its goals. Funds in the LTIP will be invested in a manner that over the long term will preserve and maintain the real purchasing power of the principal while allowing for an annual distribution as described below.

B. COMPONENTS OF THE LONG-TERM INVESTMENT POOL

The LTIP consists of endowments, quasi-endowments, term endowments and those funds held for the benefit of others.

Endowment funds are funds received from donors or other sources with a restriction that the original principal is not expendable, and distributed income is to be used as prescribed.

Quasi-endowment funds are funds in which the principal can be spent at the discretion of the University’s Board of Trustees. Quasi-endowment funds may include funds derived from sources described in Ohio Revised Code Section 3345.05, including tuition. Quasi-endowment funds also may include operating funds of the University available for long-term investment, as described below in Sections E(3) (Asset Allocation and Rebalancing) and G (Operating Fund Limitations) under Operating and Agency Funds Portfolio.

Term endowment funds are funds for which there is a stipulation that the principal may be expended after a stated period of time or upon the occurrence of a certain event.

C. FIDUCIARY STANDARDS

The Board of Trustees, Finance Committee members, staff, investment managers, consultants and custodians are fiduciaries. Accordingly, these individuals are required to:

- Act solely in the interest of the University, for the purposes of providing income and maintaining the real purchasing power of the principal.
- Act with the care, skill, prudence, and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims.

- Diversify the investments of the LTIP in order to minimize overall risk, and to provide investment returns to achieve the LTIP’s stated goals.

D. DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

1. Board of Trustees. The University Board of Trustees has overall responsibility for this LTIP Investment Policy and approval of Finance Committee members. The Board of Trustees votes on items brought forth by the Finance Committee.

2. Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees. The Finance Committee has strategic oversight responsibility for the investment program and operations of the LTIP. The Committee shall work with the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance and the Chief Investment Officer to ensure the LTIP is well managed, in accordance with this LTIP Investment Policy. The Finance Committee shall meet at least quarterly.

3. Senior Vice President for Business and Finance. The Senior Vice President for Business and Finance has oversight responsibility for the LTIP’s investment operations and reporting. The Senior Vice President for Business and Finance shall review operations and reporting within the Office of Investments to ensure compliance with established policies and procedures.

4. Chief Investment Officer. The Chief Investment Officer is responsible for managing the LTIP’s investment operations and reporting. The Chief Investment Officer shall review and recommend policies and procedures that are consistent with the investment objectives of the LTIP. The Chief Investment Officer shall report to the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance and the Finance Committee, at least quarterly.

5. Investment Managers. The University utilizes external investment managers approved by the Chief Investment Officer and Senior Vice President for Business and Finance to provide portfolio management services. The investment managers may be given discretion, consistent with specified objectives and guidelines, to manage LTIP assets. Investment managers operate under a formal contract with the University that delineates responsibilities, risk parameters, administration requirements and compensation. The Investment Management contracts may be terminated by the Chief Investment Officer and/or the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance.

6. Consultants. The University may utilize the services of one or more investment consultants to assist the Chief Investment Officer in the areas of: policy development, asset allocation, investment structure analysis, investment manager selection, performance review and other specialized investment topics. Consultants operate under a formal contract with the University that delineates responsibilities, risk parameters and performance expectations, administration requirements and compensation. Consulting contracts may be entered into and terminated by the Chief Investment Officer and/or the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance.

7. Custodians. The University retains one or more custodian banks or trust institutions to custody and report on the assets of the LTIP. Custodial contracts may be entered into and terminated by the Chief Investment Officer and/or the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance.

E. DISTRIBUTION POLICY

Each component fund of the LTIP has a separate distribution account. Distributions will be credited to a fund’s distribution account at the beginning of each fiscal year according to a formula approved by the Board of Trustees as follows:
August 29, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

1. The aggregate distribution amount is calculated on a seven-year moving average of the market value of the LTIP, except as set forth in Section H below.

2. The distribution rate is 4.25%.

Distributions may be reinvested into principal; however, any reinvested distribution cannot be redistributed or withdrawn at another time except as stated above.

F. ASSET ALLOCATION AND GUIDELINES

1. Time Horizon. The LTIP’s investment horizon is perpetual; therefore interim performance fluctuations should be viewed with this perspective. Similarly, the underlying capital market assumptions of the University’s asset allocation plan for the LTIP are based on this long-term perspective.

2. Risk Tolerance. The Board of Trustees, the Finance Committee, and staff recognize the challenge of achieving the LTIP’s investment objectives in light of the uncertainties and complexities of investment markets. They also recognize that prudent levels of investment risk are necessary to achieve the stated investment goals.

3. Asset Allocation and Rebalancing. Asset allocation is thought to be the largest contributor to overall LTIP return performance and risk characteristics. The Finance Committee and the Board of Trustees will periodically evaluate the LTIP’s asset class strategies and opportunities, and establish a long-term asset allocation plan. After a thorough study of the available asset class opportunities, return objectives and risk tolerance, the Board of Trustees and Finance Committee approved the following asset classes and allocations for the LTIP:

<tr>
<th>Asset Class</th>
<th>Range</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Global Equity</td>
<td>10-60% - 80%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Global Credit</td>
<td>10-50%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Capital</td>
<td>10-25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Real Assets</td>
<td>10.5-25.20%</td>
</tr>

Futures, options, forward contracts, and swap agreements may be utilized in a manner that is consistent with the policies and objectives contained within this LTIP Investment Policy. Such instruments should be used to hedge risk in the LTIP portfolio or to implement investment strategies more efficiently and at a lower cost than would be possible in the cash market. Such instruments should not be used for purely speculative purposes.

4. Investment Manager Guidelines. The investment guidelines incorporated into each manager’s contract documents the risk parameters of the manager’s investment approach. The guidelines also specify the typical characteristics of the portfolio. These characteristics are used to monitor a manager’s investment style adherence to insure that the manager is continuously fulfilling its investment role in the LTIP.

5. Benchmarks. The Board of Trustees is responsible for approving performance benchmarks to evaluate the performance of the LTIP portfolio. The Chief Investment Officer will review the benchmarks annually and recommend changes, if any, to the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance. Based on such recommendations by the Chief Investment Officer, the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance may recommend to the Finance Committee changes to the benchmarks. If the Finance Committee approves such recommendations, then the Finance Committee will bring the recommendations forward for a vote by the Board of Trustees.
G. INVESTMENT MONITORING PROCESS

The LTIP’s investment managers and consultants will be monitored for consistency of investment philosophy, return relative to objectives, and investment risk. The Office of Investments will monitor the overall LTIP results and investment portfolios, but results will be evaluated on a long-term basis. The following manager issues will be considered potential causes for termination by the Chief Investment Officer: (1) failure to comply with the applicable investment style, guidelines, performance objectives, and fees, (2) a material change in ownership or personnel, or (3) a violation or potential violation of the terms of the investment manager agreement or other applicable laws and regulations.

H. ACCOUNT VALUATION

LTIP funds invested in the LTIP are allocated a number of units. At the end of each month LTIP investments are valued and a unit value calculated based on the aggregate number of units assigned to each LTIP fund. The unit value calculation also takes into account earnings, investment expenses and fees. New LTIP funds and additions/withdrawals from established funds are processed at the end of each month. Additions will be allocated units only with the addition of cash. Non-marketable gifts will be liquidated first, and units allocated based on cash proceeds. Withdrawals may be made only from invadable funds upon the written request of the applicable Dean or Vice President.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the President, the Provost and the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance of the University, in consultation with the Chair of the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees, may direct that certain LTIP funds that are transferred to the LTIP from Operating Funds as further described in Section II(E)(3)(b), up to a maximum amount of $100 million, be invested at their discretion in compliance with this Policy, other than the Asset Allocation and Rebalancing and benchmarks provisions and as expressly set forth in this paragraph. Such LTIP funds will not be allocated units in the LTIP and any investments made using such funds will not be included in the unit value calculation referred to above. Such LTIP funds will constitute a separate component fund of the LTIP and will receive distributions in the amount of and only to the extent of distributions on the underlying investments made using such funds. Investment expenses and fees will be assessed on such funds to the extent applicable.

I. EXERCISE OF SHAREHOLDER RIGHTS

The University recognizes that publicly traded securities and other assets of the LTIP may include certain ancillary rights, such as the right to vote on shareholder resolutions at companies’ shareholders’ meetings, and the right to assert claims in securities class action lawsuits or other litigation. The University requires of itself and its external managers the prudent management of these LTIP assets for the exclusive purpose of enhancing the value of the LTIP. The Chief Investment Officer has the authority to delegate proxy voting to external managers to maximize fund value, reserving the right to direct the voting on specific issues as needed. The Chief Investment Officer will make best efforts to implement this policy in a socially and environmentally responsible manner.

J. REVIEW AND MODIFICATION OF INVESTMENT POLICY STATEMENT

This LTIP Investment Policy is in effect until modified by the Board of Trustees. While material changes are expected infrequently, the Chief Investment Officer will review the LTIP Investment Policy at least annually for continued appropriateness and recommend any changes to the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance. Based on such recommendations by the Chief Investment Officer, the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance may recommend such changes to the Finance Committee. If the Finance Committee approves such recommendations, then the Finance Committee will bring the recommendations forward for a vote by the Board of Trustees.
K. EXCEPTIONS

Modifications and exceptions to this LTIP Investment Policy shall be authorized by resolution of the Board of Trustees or as provided herein. The terms and conditions of this LTIP Investment Policy as to endowment funds may be waived to accept and administer donated funds or property with donor restrictions and approved by the Board of Trustees.

In order to meet its fiduciary responsibility to its academic programs and its donors, the University seeks to maximize its investment returns within appropriate levels of risk under guidelines established by the Board of Trustees as granted by the Ohio Revised Code. As a public institution, the University also recognizes a duty to support larger societal objectives as well.

Divestment for non-economic reasons should be recommended through the governance process, i.e. student government, University Senate or an appropriate committee. The recommendation would go to the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance. The Senior Vice President for Business and Finance should ask the Chief Investment Officer to review the potential impact on the LTIP of any divestment. If the cumulative impact to the LTIP of divestment for non-economic reasons is less than $5,000,000 over a two-year period, the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance may then bring the recommendation forward to the President’s Cabinet for final approval. If the cumulative impact to the LTIP is greater than $5,000,000, the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance may then bring the recommendation forward to the President’s Cabinet for approval, but if approved, a policy change must be brought forward for a vote by the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees.

L. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

It is critical that there be no conflicts of interest or perceptions of conflicts of interest when making investment decisions related to the management of the LTIP. Therefore, if a member of the Board of Trustees, Finance Committee or the OSU Foundation Board is connected to an investment firm, the University will not invest in any funds managed by that firm. In addition, no employee of the Office of Investments will invest his/her personal monies in funds in which the LTIP is invested.

II. OPERATING AND AGENCY FUNDS PORTFOLIO

A. GOALS

The Operating and Agency Funds (the “Operating Funds”) will be invested in diversified portfolios with the intention of obtaining a reasonable yield, balanced with a component invested for appreciation, while adhering to a prudent level of risk, and retaining sufficient liquidity to meet cash flow requirements of the University. Certain of the agency portfolios may have additional goals and policies specific to their use. These goals and policies will be in writing and approved by the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance.

B. COMPONENTS OF THE OPERATING AND AGENCY FUNDS

The Funds consist of the Short-Term Operating Fund, gift annuity and trust funds, student loan funds, and other non-LTIP funds which are under the control and supervision of the Vice President and Treasurer. The Short-Term Operating Fund consists of two pools: the Short-Term Pool and the Intermediate-Term Pool, as described below.
C. FIDUCIARY STANDARDS

The Board of Trustees, Finance Committee members, staff, investment managers, consultants and custodians are fiduciaries. Accordingly, these individuals are required to:

- Act solely in the interest of the University, for the purposes of providing income and preserving principal.
- Act with the care, skill, prudence, and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims.
- Diversify the investments of the Operating Funds in order to minimize overall risk, and to provide investment returns to achieve the Operating Funds’ stated goals.

D. DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

1. Board of Trustees. The University Board of Trustees has overall responsibility for this Operating and Agency Funds Investment Policy and approval of Finance Committee members. The Board of Trustees votes on items brought forth by the Finance Committee.

2. Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees. The Finance Committee has strategic oversight responsibility for the investment program and operations of the Funds. The Committee shall work with the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance and the Vice President and Treasurer to ensure the Operating Funds are managed, in accordance with this Operating and Agency Funds Investment Policy. The Finance Committee shall meet at least quarterly.

3. Senior Vice President for Business and Finance. The Senior Vice President for Business and Finance has oversight responsibility for the Operating Funds’ investment operations and reporting. The Senior Vice President for Business and Finance shall review operations and reporting within the Office of the Treasurer to ensure compliance with established policies and procedures.

4. Vice President and Treasurer. The Vice President and Treasurer is responsible for managing the Operating Funds’ investment operations and reporting. The Vice President and Treasurer shall review and recommend policies and procedures that are consistent with the investment objectives of the Funds. The Vice President and Treasurer shall report to the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance and the Finance Committee at least quarterly.

5. Investment Managers. The University utilizes external investment managers approved by the Vice President and Treasurer and the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance to provide portfolio management services. The investment managers may be given discretion, consistent with specified objectives and guidelines, to manage assets of the Operating Funds. Investment managers operate under a formal contract with the University that delineates responsibilities, risk parameters, administrative requirements and compensation. The Investment Management contracts may be terminated by the Vice President and Treasurer and/or the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance.

6. Consultants. The University may utilize the services of one or more investment consultants to assist the Vice President and Treasurer in the areas of: policy development, asset allocation, investment structure analysis, investment manager selection, risk parameters, performance review and other specialized investment topics. Consultants operate under a formal contract with the University that delineates responsibilities, and performance expectations, administration requirements and compensation. Consulting contracts may be entered into and terminated by the Vice President and Treasurer and/or the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance.
August 29, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

7. Custodians. The University retains one or more custodian banks or trust institutions to custody and report on the assets of the Funds. Custodial contracts may be entered into and terminated by the Vice President and Treasurer and/or the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance.

E. ASSET ALLOCATION AND GUIDELINES

1. Time Horizon. The University's Short-Term Operating Fund is divided into two pools: Short-Term Pool, which represents at least thirty (30) days of total University expenditures, and has an investment horizon of less than one (1) year; and the Intermediate-Term Pool, which represents the remainder of the Short-Term Operating Fund and has an investment horizon of one (1) to five (5) years.

2. Risk Tolerance. The Board of Trustees, the Finance Committee, and staff recognize the challenge of achieving the Operating Funds' investment objectives in light of the uncertainties and complexities of investment markets. They also recognize that prudent levels of investment risk are necessary to achieve the stated investment goals.

3. Asset Allocation and Rebalancing. Asset allocation is thought to be the largest contributor to overall return performance and risk characteristics of the Operating Funds. The Short-Term Operating Fund serves as the working cash balance to provide necessary liquidity for the University's operations. The Board of Trustees and Finance Committee will periodically evaluate the allocation between the LTIP and the Short-Term Operating Fund for appropriateness. Market fluctuations, cash flows and liquidity issues will cause the actual asset allocations to fluctuate. The Vice President and Treasurer will rebalance the portfolio to policy as follows:

   a. Short- and Intermediate-Term Pools. The Short-Term Pool shall cover at least thirty (30) days of University cash flow. At least 25% of the Short-Term Operating Fund should be in the Short-Term Pool, as a reserve, in accordance with Section G below. The amount of the Short-Term Operating Fund must be enough to cover at least sixty (60) days cash flow and must be greater than or equal to 110% of all variable rate debt including commercial paper.

   b. LTIP. After the amount of each of the Short- and Intermediate-Term Pools is determined, monies may be transferred to the LTIP. Operating Funds available for transfer to the LTIP should be net of bond construction funds. No more than 60% of Operating Funds may be transferred to the LTIP.

   c. General. The allocation amounts will be reviewed periodically by the Vice President and Treasurer but at least semi-annually. The number used to calculate days of University cash flow will be based on the Board of Trustees approved University budget.

   d. Other Funds. Operating Funds other than the Short-Term Operating Fund will be managed according to this Operating and Agency Funds Investment Policy with asset allocations approved by the Vice President and Treasurer.

4. Investment Manager Guidelines. The investment guidelines incorporated into each manager’s contract documents the risk parameters of the manager’s investment approach. The guidelines also specify the typical characteristics of the portfolio. These characteristics are used to monitor a manager’s investment style adherence to insure that the manager is continuously fulfilling its investment role in the Operating Funds.
August 29, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

5. Benchmarks. The Board of Trustees is responsible for approving performance benchmarks to evaluate the performance of the Operating Funds portfolio. The Vice President and Treasurer will review the benchmarks annually and recommend changes, if any, to the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance. Based on such recommendations by the Vice President and Treasurer, the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance may recommend to the Finance Committee changes to the benchmarks. If the Finance Committee approves such recommendations, then the Finance Committee will bring the recommendations forward for a vote by the Board of Trustees.

F. INVESTMENT MONITORING PROCESS

The Operating Funds’ investment managers will be monitored for consistency of investment philosophy, return relative to objectives, and investment risk. The Vice President and Treasurer and the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance will monitor the overall results and investment portfolios of the Operating Funds, but results will be evaluated on a long-term basis. The following manager issues will be considered potential causes for termination: (1) failure to comply with the applicable investment style, guidelines, performance objectives, and fees, (2) a material change in ownership or personnel, or (3) a violation or potential violation of the terms of the investment manager agreement or other applicable laws and regulations.

G. OPERATING FUND LIMITATIONS

Ohio Revised Code Section 3345.05(c)(i) requires that investment of at least twenty-five percent (25%) of the average amount of the Operating Funds portfolio over the course of the previous fiscal year be invested in securities of the United States government or of its agencies or instrumentalities, the treasurer of state’s pooled investment program, obligations of this state or any political subdivision of this state, certificates of deposit of any national bank located in this state, written repurchase agreements with any eligible Ohio financial institution that is a member of the federal reserve system or federal home loan bank, money market funds, or bankers acceptances maturing in two hundred seventy (270) days or less which are eligible for purchase by the federal reserve system, as a reserve. Eligible funds above the funds that meet the foregoing condition may be pooled with other University funds, including the LTIP, and invested in accordance with Ohio Revised Code Section 1715.52.

H. EXERCISE OF SHAREHOLDERS RIGHTS

The University recognizes that publicly traded securities and other assets of the Fund may include certain ancillary rights, such as the right to vote on shareholder resolutions at companies’ shareholders’ meetings, and the right to assert claims in securities class action lawsuits or other litigation. The University requires of itself and its external managers the prudent management of these assets for the exclusive purpose of enhancing the value of the Operating Funds. The Vice President and Treasurer has the authority to delegate proxy voting to external managers to maximize fund value, reserving the right to direct the voting on specific issues as needed. The Vice President and Treasurer will make best efforts to implement this policy in a socially and environmentally responsible manner.

I. REVIEW AND MODIFICATION OF INVESTMENT POLICY STATEMENT

This Operating and Agency Funds Investment Policy is in effect until modified by the Board of Trustees. While material changes are expected infrequently, the Vice President and Treasurer will review this Operating and Agency Funds Investment Policy at least annually for continued appropriateness and recommend any changes to the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance. Based on such recommendations by the Vice President and Treasurer, the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance may recommend such changes to the Finance Committee. If the Finance Committee approves such recommendations, then the Finance Committee will bring the recommendations forward for a vote by the Board of Trustees.

J. EXCEPTIONS

Modifications and exceptions to this Operating and Agency Funds Investment Policy shall be authorized by resolution of the Board of Trustees or as provided herein. The terms and conditions of this Operating and Agency Funds Investment Policy may be waived to accept and administer donated funds or property with donor restrictions and approved by the Board of Trustees.

K. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

It is critical that there be no conflicts of interest or perceptions of conflicts of interest when making investment decisions related to the management of the Operating Funds. Therefore, if a member of the Board of Trustees, Finance Committee, or the OSU Foundation Board is connected to an investment firm, the University will not invest in any funds managed by that firm. In addition, no employee of the Office of the Treasurer involved with investments will invest his/her personal monies in funds in which the Operating Funds are invested.

Office of Administration and Planning
In 2014 the Ohio General Assembly appropriated state capital funds in the amount of $2,000,000 to Ohio State for capital improvements to the former Reeb Elementary School. The Reeb Avenue Center, an Ohio nonprofit agency, in collaboration with the City of Columbus, Ohio will use funds appropriated in the State of Ohio Capital Bill to restore the historic Reeb Elementary School located in Columbus, Ohio to house a number of nonprofit agencies serving the needs of Columbus, Ohio residents. The pass-through of this capital appropriation will promote the university’s mission to address issues and problems of global dimension that are affecting the quality of the human condition. Programs conducted with the aid of these capital funds will advance university efforts to address issues such as health, education and social welfare and in-turn will provide an immeasurable value to families served by the agencies to be housed in this improved facility.

Before the state capital appropriation of $2,000,000 may be released to the Reeb Avenue Center and the City of Columbus, the Ohio Board of Regents requires that a Joint Use Agreement (JUA) between the university, the Reeb Avenue Center and the City of Columbus be signed to document the value of the appropriation to OSU and to ensure the benefits to the university will continue for a minimum period of twenty years. In summary, the proposed JUA for this appropriation includes the following provisions:

1. The Reeb Avenue Center and the City of Columbus commits to the university that the monies for the project shall be used for capital improvements to the former Reeb Avenue Elementary School facility located in Columbus, Ohio.

2. The Reeb Avenue Center commits to providing educational and research opportunities to students and faculty of The Ohio State University providing them with first-hand experience in addressing the public health, educational and social welfare needs of Columbus area families.

3. The term of this JUA shall commence as of the date of its approval by the Ohio Board of Regents and shall expire twenty (20) years thereafter. In the event that the JUA is terminated prior to the end of the term, the Reeb Avenue Center and the City of Columbus are obligated to reimburse the State of Ohio the proportionate amount of the appropriation representing the years of use remaining under this JUA.

4. Except for the funds used to cover the university’s reasonable administrative costs related to the project, the funds provided under this JUA shall be used by the Reeb Avenue Center and the City of Columbus only for capital improvements or purchases and shall not be used for operating expenses.

Board of Trustees approval is required before the JUA may be completed and sent to the Ohio Board of Regents and the Ohio Controlling Board for approval and release of funds.
Background

The Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) has requested the Board of Trustees transfer in fee 0.1 acres of property in Franklin County located along State Route 33 to ODOT to support the State Route 33 widening project.

LOCATION AND DESCRIPTION
The affected property is located at the intersection of Shier Rings Road and Wilcox Road in Dublin, Ohio and is comprised of +/- 21 acres. The northern property boundary lies along State Route 33. The property is currently zoned Technology Flex. The majority of the property is wooded, but approximately four acres are tillable. The tillable acreage will be unaffected by the requested transaction.

APPRAISAL
An appraisal of the property was completed by ODOT in March 2014 and indicated a market value of the 0.1 acres at $17,675. ODOT’s appraisal uses a base value of $175,000/acre.

PROPERTY HISTORY
The property was originally gifted to the university in 1978 by The City National Bank and Trust Company of Columbus. The gift came with no restrictions on the use by the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University.

SALE OF PROPERTY
Physical Planning and Real Estate recommends that the .1 acres be sold under terms and conditions that are deemed to be in the best interest of the university. ODOT will cover all expenses related to the transfer. Provided that the parties proceed with a sale of the property to ODOT, no appropriation proceeding will be required.

AUTHORIZATION AND APPROVAL
The appropriate offices at the university have determined that sale of the 0.1 acres is in the best interest of the university. Authorization is requested to transfer the 0.1 acres in fee to ODOT under terms and conditions acceptable to the university.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Good morning. I would like to convene the meeting of the Board of Trustees and ask the Secretary to note the attendance.

Dr. Thompson:

Dr. Wadsworth:

I hereby move that the Board recess into Executive Session to consider business sensitive trade secret matters required to be kept confidential by Federal and State statutes, to discuss personnel matters regarding the appointment, employment, compensation, discipline, and dismissal of public officials, and to consult with legal counsel regarding pending or imminent litigation.

May I have a second?

Upon motion of Dr. Wadsworth, seconded by Judge Marbley, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing motion by unanimous roll call vote, cast by Trustees Wadsworth, Ratner, Shumate, Marbley, Kass, Reid, Jurgensen, Kellogg, Krueger, Gasser, Porteus, Hoeflinger, and Fischer.

November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you. So that we are able to conduct the business of this meeting in an orderly fashion, I would ask that the ringers on all cell phones and other communication devices be turned off at this time, and I would ask that all members of the audience observe rules of decorum proper to conducting the business at hand.

I would also remind everyone that we are in a very busy hospital complex and it is important that we are not impairing the important work that goes on here. While we are conducting the business of the meeting, refrain from any items that could cause noise. This includes electronic devices and any other equipment.

Today is an exciting day in the history of not only this medical center, but the entire university. Today marks the day that we celebrate the new James Cancer Hospital and the impact that this facility will have on patients, the university, the state, and beyond.

After we recognize two outstanding students, always my favorite part of the meeting, one of whose area of research is cancer, we will hear a presentation about this state-of-the-art hospital by Drs. Gabbe and Caligiuri. At a ceremony this afternoon, we will formally dedicate the building and celebrate the opening of the new James. I would like to confirm, that the project is still on time and on budget. I’m looking at Gil Cloyd and others as I say that.

The first order of business is the minutes of the August meeting of the Board of Trustees which were distributed to all members of the Board. If there are no additions or corrections, the minutes are approved as distributed. Hearing none, consent is implied.

I will now call upon Steven Loborec to present the Student Recognition Awards. Steven, thank you.

STUDENT RECOGNITION AWARDS

Dr. Loborec:

Thank you Chairman Wadsworth. I’d like to have the students join me here at the table. We are honoring two students today.

Allison is an undergraduate student majoring in interior design from Mundelein, Illinois. She has shown tremendous leadership as a co-president of our student organization, Design Circle. Last year, Allison spearheaded a new direction for the organization, increasing its events and activities, and successfully encouraging broader membership. Under her leadership, Design Circle sponsored several well-attended activities including hosting numerous local design practitioners for a networking evening that was successful by the standards of all participants. Allison has sought ways for Design Circle to benefit the department as well as its student members by trying to respond to and support the larger goals with student-driven initiatives. She is one of the top performers from an academic perspective and she spent the second half of last spring studying in Rome with Knowlton’s interdisciplinary study abroad experience. She is a great representative of the department and has garnered many achievements. Allison is a recipient of the Trustees scholarship; she is a national buckeye scholar, and an architecture scholar. She also received the arts and humanities undergraduate research small grant and the Aida Cannarsa Snow endowment fund for significant undergraduate achievement and research in the arts and humanities program.

After graduation, Allison hopes to continue her working relationship with Baxter, Hodell, Donnelly, and Preston, Inc., now known as BHDP, and move into a full time interior designer position. She wants to continue to develop her project management skills through the design practice and collaborate with local communities to improve their daily life through design. Allison aspires to attend graduate school in two to three years for design management or design research to better her understanding of these emerging professions. Congratulations, Allison.

Ms. Bulgart:

Thank you. This is really shocking, especially when I got the e-mail from Dr. Loborec. I just want to thank the Board and the whole College of Arts and Sciences. It's really great being here at Ohio State and seeing the collaboration that does happen here.

I have been in many different departments, collaborating with many different students and it is really an honor to see everyone working towards one goal and helping each other. I'm currently working on my thesis and the other day I met someone from the geography department and by the end of our hour conversation, which just happened to be on the oval, very casual, he had given me a couple different people to reference for my thesis who I am meeting with next week. It is amazing that this can happen, on the oval of all places.

Thank you very much and I really do hope to keep the collaboration here with OSU after graduation as well as when I go out to the professional field because I see the benefits of it and what it can do for us and progressing in the world. Thank you.

Dr. Loborec:

Our next student is Hans Meisen. He is a PhD student in biomedical sciences originally from Stafford, Virginia. He received Bachelor of Science degrees in Biology and Chemistry from the University of Virginia, and a Master of Science degree in Microbiology from Georgetown University. He is passionate about cancer research, cancer immunology, and the potential this evolving field has to create novel cancer therapeutics. He completed his candidacy examination in December 2012 and will likely complete his dissertation work in 2015. He has many outstanding academic accomplishments and is among the best students in the Biomedical Sciences Graduate Program. Hans’ research is developing a novel cancer therapeutic modality in which special viruses attack cancer cells, but leave normal cells alone. These oncolytic viruses are very promising in particular for intractable tumors, such as in glioblastoma. He works in the laboratory of Dr. Balveen Kaur, a Professor in the Department of Neurosurgery.

He was awarded a two-year NIH T32 fellowship to support his research from the Systems and Integrative Biology Training Program lead by College of Medicine faculty.
He recently had a first author paper accepted to Molecular Cancer Therapeutics, which is a very high impact journal and very impressive. He has published a first author review in the journal, Expert Review of Neurotherapeutics, and, consistent with his being in his final dissertation year, he has three additional first author papers in preparation. He is also a co-author on 12 other articles published or under review. This large number of publications sets Hans apart from other students in the program. He works very hard to improve the research community of graduate students. He is collegial, collaborative, and volunteers to recruit the next group of incoming students each year. He aspires to be an independent investigator working to develop new, targeted cancer treatments.
Congratulations, Hans. Very impressive.

Mr. Meisen:

Thank you very much for this incredible award. I am extremely excited and proud to be a graduate student here at Ohio State. The research programs, the faculty, the administrators, and graduate programs all create an environment that allows students to succeed. I recognize that President Drake, Chairman Wadsworth, and this Board plays a big part in making that happen.
November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

I’m very fortunate to be a student in the biomedical sciences program here at OSU. This program is led by Dr. Joanna Groden and Dr. Jeffrey Parvin and they have done an excellent job of putting together a curriculum and a program that prepares students to be successful scientists and I am fortunate to be a part of that program.

I’d also like to recognize my incredible mentor Dr. Balveen Kaur. She is an amazing scientist and administrator and she is extremely dedicated to her students. I think that she is a very strong example of what a researcher should be and I consider myself lucky to be a part of her lab. I think that OSU also benefits tremendously from investigators like Dr. Kaur.

And lastly, I’d just like to thank my wife, Isabel, and my lab mates for their incredible support, advice, and friendship.

Again, thank you very much for this very incredible award.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Well that’s what this university is about and it’s great to be reminded of that every time we meet.

At this time, I would like to call upon Drs. Gabbe and Caliguri to present an update on the medical center.

OPENING OF THE NEW JAMES CANCER HOSPITAL

Dr. Gabbe:

Thank you very much. We’re honored to join you this morning. As Chairman Wadsworth said, this is a very special day for all of us as we dedicate the new James Cancer Hospital and Solove Research Institute. The ground breaking was June 18, 2010, by the way. We thought we would begin with a quiz to see if you’ve learned a little bit about the construction project over the year.

Our first question for you, there will be prizes awarded, how many tons of structural steel were used to build the new hospital?

Dr. Gabbe:

Correct. This is amazing. And now, the next question is how many buckeye leaf helmet stickers did workers earn for safety and quality? We had an incredible safety record with our Turner Construction team.

Dr. Loborec.

Dr. Gabbe:

We have some very intelligent student trustees. I hope we have enough left for the football team but I’m sure they do.
November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

This is an exciting day. I hope many of you saw this announcement in the New York Times. It points out something that I know Mike will emphasize as well. There are no routine cancers and this is not a routine cancer hospital. I want to ask Dr. Caligiuri, who of course leads our comprehensive cancer center and leads the James Cancer Hospital and Solove Research Institute, to comment on the impact of this new hospital.

Dr. Caligiuri:

Presentation

Thanks Steve, and thanks to all of you.

This is an incredible day for us. You know, this is the single largest project in the history of our university and the largest economic impact project for the state of Ohio. We are incredibly proud and we are incredibly grateful to have the opportunity to have completed this.

I want to talk a little bit about the impact on patient care. There are over 300 rooms in here. Every room is private, every room has natural light, every room has room for family, and every room has a private bath. This is very different from virtually any cancer hospital, any hospital in entire nation. To hear those three words, you have cancer, and then to realize you’re in such a facility just brings inspiration and hope all the quicker to the patient, which we believe is a very important part of the healing process.

Second, the teaching and education to inspire students, like the students you’ve heard today, this facility and of course all of those who will be in it, will be a guiding light for those interested in pursuing a career in cancer research, research in general, education, the folks who will find the answers to the treatments of all ailments, not only cancer, but other diseases as well.

The impact on research, you know, can’t be understated. Here is an example of people we’ve been able to recruit. We’ve recruited over the last 15 years in partnership with many people, as Steve mentioned, in the cancer center. We have about 300 researchers that are across 12 of the 14 colleges. They are dispersed throughout law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, and veterinary medicine, to name a few. All, in some way shape or form, pursuing cancer research.

This is a tremendous partnership; the unique structure, the facilities, really the emphasis that The Ohio State University places on cancer, is extraordinary and it’s unique in the country. There isn’t another university in America that has this commitment as stated by the facilities, as stated by the people that we recruit, that does what The Ohio State University does for cancer.

Here you’re looking at David Carbone, and again not to exaggerate at all, the world’s authority in lung cancer recruited from Vanderbilt University, now the President-elect of the International Society for Lung Cancer. There are over 3,000 lung cancer specialists in this organization. David is leading our thoracic oncology.

Maura Gillison, recruited from Hopkins, discovered the cause of head and neck cancer in the non-drinking, non-smoking population. That’s the HPV, or Human Papilloma Virus. Worldwide, leading international randomized trials for the prevention in terms of vaccine and treatment of oral cancers.

Raif Pollack is one of 18 people we’ve recruited from MD Anderson over the last three or four years. Raif was the chair of surgery of MD Anderson for nearly two decades. World’s authority in the treatment of sarcoma and just an outstanding internationally recognized cancer surgeon in general.
November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

Why do they come to Ohio State? You know, they see this amazing commitment. It’s not only the building, but it’s the commitment of the entire university and therefore the Board of Trustees, what we mean when we say we are going to create a cancer-free world. Steve.

Dr. Gabbe:

Thank you, Mike. I want to comment on the impact on our local and state economies. The new James will generate $1.7 billion each year for Ohio’s economy. This impact is being felt through the 5,000 construction jobs, 6,000 direct full-time jobs at the hospitals and clinics, and 4,000 indirect full-time jobs through spending by Ohio State’s faculty, employees, and visitors, to the cancer hospital and beyond.

Something that we’ve tracked very carefully with Jay Kasey and our facilities team is the fact that 30% of our contractors and subcontractors were minority-owned firms. This is well above the university’s 20% goal and four times the state requirements. That is the EDGE (Encouraging Diversity, Growth and Equity) contracting. 87% of the contracts were awarded to Ohio based companies, 87% creating Ohio jobs. We think these are incredible figures and we haven’t even opened our doors yet. Economically, the new James will make an enormous impact.

Presentation

Here is this incredible structure and yes buildings are important. It is where we take care of patients and where we work. I wanted to share with you a comment I received in a letter from a long-time Ohio State patient, someone we’ve cared for for many years. She wrote, "After all, buildings are just bricks and mortar, machines are just nuts and bolts, it’s the people inside the buildings. It’s the people inside the buildings, operating the machines, caring for us that make a real difference to the patients that pass through your doors every day." At the Wexner Medical Center, at the new James, we’re blessed to have such skills, with compassionate and dedicated healthcare providers.

I want to close by commenting on the role of our Board of Trustees. In the midst of planning the new James, there was really tremendous economic uncertainty across this country. If you remember back to 2008 and 2009, many universities cancelled or halted building programs due to the economic recession. Our trustees never lost sight of what the Wexner Medical Center and the new James could and should be. The people sitting around this table, many of you are responsible for the success and I know you share in celebrating this with us at the dedication. We thank you for your support, for your dedication, for your leadership, and for your commitment to this project.

To close, I wanted to show you a time lapse video that’ll take you back to the beginning and then the end of this project.

Thank you.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you both very much. It is a fantastic accomplishment and it’s just what a world leading university should be doing; building a world leading capacity. We are all very proud of what the team did in accomplishing this. On behalf of the trustees, thank you very much. It’s a terrific accomplishment. Gil.

Dr. Cloyd:

Mr. Chairman, I’d like to make one comment to highlight. I think this is a tremendous enabling capability. As I’ve had the opportunity to view the James over the last decade, it really has a unique combination of outstanding research and outstanding clinical care. I think that’s very special because many places can either be very good on the research side and very good on the clinical side and you know, as recognized nationally, our James is doing that on both sides. Now with this kind of a capability, I mean I don’t know where the limits are, if there are limits for this group but it really is an exciting one.
November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

Again, thanks to everyone for what you’re doing every day both on the research side and the clinical care side.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Gil. I think at this point we will turn it over to our President. Thank you.

PRESIDENT’S REPORT

President Drake:

Thanks. Good Morning. It’s great to be here and what a great presentation Steve. You know well the thousands of hours of focus that this took from the two of you and from the colleagues who worked with you, and then the thousands of people from the initial vision to the process of being able to imagine what it would look like and how to organize those things that took to get the right approvals and all that. Then to build a hospital really for our doctors and nurses and our staff to be able to take care of people, something that is quite evident when one walks through.

To what Gil was saying, being a research institution, we build a hospital to take care of people, yes, we also build it to work with our scientists, with our students, and with all of our staff, to be able to find new ways to address people as we move forward. The therapies that we were previewing last night were things that weren’t even possible at the time the hospital was being imagined and the therapies that will be done in five years and 10 years from now are things that we can’t imagine yet today. We have a place to have those dreams and to be able to turn those dreams into plans and those plans into reality. Then that reality turns into the answer to prayers from our patients who will be coming in just a few short weeks.

I am really happy to be here at this point. I’ll say to the Board members, those of you who were here before I was, that the ability to see the future and to plan and to continue to work towards the future even though there were uncertain times is what is required for us to be able to have days like the day that we have today. I’m looking forward to this afternoon because I think that we’re scheduled to cut the ribbon at about 3:00pm. We are still on time and under budget. I want to make sure we get there in time to get that done. We want to make sure we’re there.

Our university is 144 years old and this is one of our real highlights. It rises to the top, actually at 21 stories, I think it’s about as tall as we’ve ever been and that’s great.

I would like say something about the role of our scientists. We had a wonderful award with our students and faculty this morning who do this work. The thing that’s great about our university is that the science we do is focused on knowledge creation. We don’t necessarily know where it is going to go. It’s not necessarily product driven, it’s looking for answers to questions that perplex us and sometimes we’re looking for an answer in one way and we find an answer in another area and we use that as a building block to something we hadn’t even been thinking about.

To have a scientist like Dr. Caliguri who is in charge of our hospital, allows us to incorporate those thoughts and those processes and all the things that we’re doing. Part of the unique structure of the hospital is that in addition to clinical work, which clinical research takes place in many hospitals, there’s also basic and translational work which will take place in the hospital. That is really a unique association. We are very pleased to have those things moving forward.

I’d like to also recognize Dr. Gabbe. I’ll speak a little more this afternoon, but just in case someone is not able to make it, what I will talk more about there is what’s going to happen in the hospital in 2015, which is really when the work of the hospital begins. When we are really able to take our patients in and really do the work that this was all built to be able to accomplish.

It’s a great day for us. I’d also like to say a word about Dr. Gabbe and thank him very much for his leadership in elevating our medical center to the highest ranking that it’s had in national ranking polls.

About two or three weeks ago, we received the results from the University Hospitals Consortium (UHC) on 2014 Quality and Safety Rankings. For those who don’t know, many of the Board members have heard but some may not have heard, UHC is an organization that started nearly 30 years ago where a few of the most competitive hospitals in the country began sharing data. This was something that’s actually enabled by electronic medical records, being able to record voluminous data on patients and then being able to share that data with other hospitals to look to see how everyone is doing. This was something that started with just a few hospitals and with a few parameters in the 1980s.

It’s now moved to a consortium of broadly 117 of the largest and most influential academic medical centers in the country, all the ones that you’ve heard about. The ones that Mike mentioned today, recruiting people from Vanderbilt, MD Anderson, Johns Hopkins; all are part of the UHC consortium, as are we at The Ohio State University.

What this group does is compares how we all do on the outcomes that we derive from our treatments, how well are we treating our patients? It goes from patient satisfaction and equity, to patient centeredness, and to the varied outcomes that people receive. That data is all added up and compared and we’re very pleased this year to be ranked third in the country in this incredible set of statistics. We were ranked just behind the Mayo Clinic and as I said a week ago, I’m sure they hear our footsteps and will be looking to them for the next year. There are 6,000 hospitals in the country, there are 300 hospitals that are a part of the 117 medical centers that are a part of the University Hospital Consortium and to be at the very top of that list, really reflects the dedication and the work that so many people, people actually in the building that we’re in now, things that people are doing right this moment are making these things true.

I want to also make a point to remind myself that it is also the surgeons and the nurses and the ward clerks. It’s the people who clean the rooms and make sure that the lights are coming on. All of those things contribute to the kinds of outcomes that we are measuring to make sure that we get the very best patient care. Steve, you’ve led an incredible institution that has risen right to the top of all that we do here in the United States or really around the world. Let me say that as I know that you’re ready to transition to the next chapter, I want to take a moment to congratulate and thank you and say what a legacy you’re leaving.

I mentioned this a couple of weeks ago when we were looking at the different statistics that we were measuring in the hospital. The one that meant so much to me was the mortality statistic; that is people who were expected not to make it at all and who went home because the quality of treatment. When I speak of a legacy, there are families that will be celebrating this Thanksgiving with a loved one who if they had just had the average care among the best hospitals in the country, wouldn’t be there. It really is something that’s so heartfelt.

To move on to other things we’re doing at the university. I am happy to announce that Professor Anil Mikihja has been named as the new dean of the Fisher College of Business. Anil has served on the Fisher faculty since 1998 and previously chaired Fisher’s Department of Finance, which is ranked among the top 10 in the world for research and it’s a great example of our success in retaining talented faculty members; people who come here, grow with us, and then are able to be appointed to this prestigious position. I know Anil was recruited by at least two other universities to be dean of the college of business there and we’re happy to be able to retain him here at The Ohio State University. I would also like to thank Christine Poon for leading Fisher for the last five years. Last week, Fisher and GE Capital hosted the 4th Annual National Middle Market Summit and that’s just one of the innovations that happened under Dean Poon’s watch.

We had a very nice talk with a fellow buckeye, Jack Nicholas, who said that he had kind of a reverse life. He said that during his working life, he played golf and now during his retirement, he was a businessman. I thought that was a good way to talk about the things he’s done. Really focusing on middle market businesses and the real contributions they’ve made and how important The Ohio State University is to that effort. We had elections earlier this week and I’d like to offer my congratulations to Governor Kasich who was reelected for a second term. We are grateful that the Governor has demonstrated deep commitment to higher education and recently renewed his pledge to make affordable education a focus of his second term. I’d like to also congratulate Senate President, Keith Faber and Representative Cliff Rosenberger on their victories this week. We all look forward to working with our Governor and our colleagues on both sides of the aisle to do everything we can to make higher education more accessible and more affordable here in Ohio.

I’m deeply committed to building strong commitments and partnerships with our community and our government and business leaders in order to move our university forward. Last Thursday, I gave my first address to the University Senate and Ohio State community. I shared my belief in our ability to continue to be a leader among the land grant universities here in the country.

On Sunday, I went to the Association of Public Land-Grant Universities annual meeting in Orlando, Florida. I can say that we are really a leader among that group. Ohio State has made steady and impressive gains in its academic reputation over the last two decades and we’re continuing to work to elevate our excellence in everything we do. We’re already distinguishing ourselves in a number of ways. The stature of our medical center and the opening of a 21st century cancer center is certainly a good example, just things that we’re doing today.

There are a number of other areas in which I believe that we can have success and be real exemplars. In two specific areas of focus for me, our founding principles of our land grant mandate and that is access and teaching. We want to do everything that we can to continue to provide access to an excellent and affordable education and we want to do everything we can to continue to elevate the arts and science of teaching. Our commitment with access aligns with our participation in a national effort to boost completion rates, that is degree granting and time to degree. A University Innovation Alliance, UIA, composed of 11 public research universities has come together, and together we will work to develop the best practices and programs to retain and graduate more students in a timely fashion. At Ohio State, we know our regional campuses are doorways to access for many students and we’re particularly interested in what we can do to support our students at the regional campuses. The alliance, the UIA, will initially examine predictive analytics to determine how to help students there be more successful. We want our students on all of our campuses to be successful and we’ll focus on the students on regional campuses in this particular alliance at the beginning but look for lessons that we can use broadly to move us forward.

I’d also say that in order to continue the legacy of being the best example of the modern land grant university, we must be willing to adapt, innovate, and modernize. Last week we announced that we are beginning to evaluate opportunities to advance our sustainability goals and transform our energy systems and how we might do that in a way that provides increased support for our academic priorities.

Because of innovative funding done over past years we have considerable resources to focus on critical global issues through our Discovery Themes initiative. We know that exploring these revenue streams can make a tremendous impact as we hire for the Discovery Themes, as well as for other areas. We must also be committed to continuing to improve the search and selection process so that we promote diversity, broadly defined and that means inclusiveness and excellence are things that modify each other. We know that works in the best universities and we want to continue to be an exemplar there.

This is certainly an important aspect of moving forward as a 21st century American university. This morning before the Board meeting, I was able to stop by the 16th Annual ACE (American Council on Education) conference on the ACE Women’s Network of Ohio. This is a conference that happens every year where women, academic leaders from all of the public universities in Ohio, come together to talk about ways they can mutually support each other's careers and move forward. The women’s place at Ohio State is focused on providing opportunities for women faculty, staff, administrative leaders, and graduate students to move forward.

Speaking of innovation, I want to mention that Dr. Carol Whitacre awarded our annual innovator awards last Friday. I want to take a moment to mention these outstanding research scientists. The innovator of the year, Ali Rezai, received this award for his remarkable work in the field of deep brain stimulation. I think that many people here know of Ali’s work and it absolutely is innovative and it absolutely is remarkable. He has great partners as well. The early career innovator was Kubula Certel, who developed and commercialized the first real time telehertz camera used for medical communication and security applications. Student innovator of the year, David Mong, is the chief architect and software developer for an at home gaming program for stroke patients. These are just a few examples of transformative research that have significant commercial potential. Congratulations to these innovators and many others across the university. Keep up the good work and let's pause for a round of applause.

Finally, with Veterans’ Day next Tuesday, I want to say a little bit about our veteran and military students. I had the opportunity to see our ROTC members post the colors of United States last week before our football game. It was very impressive assemblage of young men and women who stood all across the goal line before the game. We’re very proud that we have more than 2,000 current buckeye students who have served or continue to serve. We have many programs across our campuses that support character and leadership excellence but perhaps none are as specifically focused on character and leadership as ROTC. We wish to thank them and all of those serving in the armed forces and all of our veterans for their service. Could any military members and veterans who are here today please stand so we can show our appreciation, I know we have at least one. Thank you for our service.

For this first four months, I’ve spent much of my time listening to and learning from all of you and from many others, and I am grateful for your insights and dedication to this extraordinary university. We will be working together in the coming weeks, months, and years to continue our ascendancy among the truly great universities in the world. My belief in our ability to do so is the reason that Brenda and I came to Ohio State. You know that our second visit, third visit, and fourth visit were all in January 2014 and I want to say there were repeat visits. I am very excited about the opportunities that lie before us and I even look forward to January 2015. It’s very much an honor to be here with you all today and thank you very much.
November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much, President Drake. At this time, we’re going to move into committee reports. The consent agenda and committee reports cover a tremendous scope of work and what you hear today is just the tip of the iceberg. There is a lot of material presented each time we meet.

I want to emphasize how much effort goes into the work of the university. We have six reports and it covers, as I said earlier, $5.5 billion dollars of annual work. It is something we pay a lot of attention to.

I will now ask Mrs. Wexner to start off very appropriately with a Wexner Medical Center Board update.

Mrs. Wexner:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Wexner Medical Center Board has met twice since the last meeting of the Board of Trustees. Let me provide a brief summary of both meetings.

The Wexner Medical Center Board met on October 3. We reviewed and approved the Patient Complaint and Grievance Management Process for both the University Hospitals and the Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital. We also reviewed several resolutions. The Wexner Medical Center Board approved and is recommending to the full board for approval the Amendments to the Bylaws and Rules and Regulations of the Medical Staff of The Ohio State University Hospitals and Amendments to the Bylaws and Rules and Regulations of the Medical Staff of The Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Richard J. Solove Research Institute. These two items are on today’s consent agenda.

During our meeting on October 3, we also reviewed the proposal for the Upper Arlington Ambulatory Center. Wexner Medical Center Board members had several questions regarding the proposed lease and asked that management come back at a future meeting with the questions answered. We then recessed into executive session.

The Wexner Medical Center also met on Wednesday, November 5.

First, Dr. Gabbe provided an update on Ebola preparation for potential cases in Columbus and at the Wexner Medical Center. In a plan developed with The Central Ohio Hospital Council, the Wexner Medical Center would receive the first five Ebola infected patients followed by Riverside, Grant Hospital, and Mount Carmel West. Nationwide Children’s Hospital will care for pediatric patients.

Dr. Susan Moffatt-Bruce then updated the Wexner Medical Center Board on the recent recognition of the Wexner Medical Center as a recipient of the University Health System Consortium Quality Leadership Award for 2014. This is the award the Dr. Drake has just described to us. This award was given to only 12 of the 104 academic medical centers who are members of UHC. The Wexner Medical Center again was ranked third among these 12 centers and moved from 8, and again, we want to acknowledge the incredible work and dedication it took on behalf of the entire Wexner Medical Center to achieve that result.

Mr. Geier gave an update on the operating and financial highlights through September 30, 2014 for the health system. Inpatient admissions, total surgeries, and outpatient visits are all exceeding budget and prior-year numbers. Dr. Drake noted that between those two reports it was quite an achievement for the center.
Ms. Hill-Callahan presented a review of philanthropy over the past five years. She noted that the Wexner Medical Center now ranks 20th among both private and public medical centers in fundraising activity and 6th among public medical centers. The James Cancer Hospital and Solove Research Institute leads in fundraising, having grown from $34 million in 2010 to $72 million in 2014. That figure includes fundraising through Pelotonia.

We ended with a presentation by Dr. Rezai who provided an update on the work of the Neuromodulation program. We first heard about Dr. Rezai and his work at our meeting in August and then we viewed a video from the Neurobridge collaboration with Battelle. Dr. Rezai noted other applications of neuromodulation technologies for disorders such as Parkinson's disease, tremors, Alzheimer's, obsessive compulsive disorders, obesity, depression, and migraine. Of note, last week, Dr. Rezai was named Innovator of the Year for these advances by the Ohio State University, as Dr. Drake has mentioned.

I believe I speak for the entire Medical Center Board members when I say truly how remarkable this work is and the meaningful impact this innovative science can have on so many lives. We then recessed into executive session.

That concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much Mrs. Wexner. Any questions from the trustees? Seeing none, I’d like to ask Dr. Reid to report on the Advancement committee.

Dr. Reid:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Advancement Committee met yesterday and we began with several items for action.

We first reviewed the university foundation report and I will share a few highlights.

Our foundation board held very successful meetings on October 16th and 17th. The discussion theme for the meeting was centered on scholarship fundraising; to bring awareness to the need for scholarship support and focus on raising our sights to continue increasing our private gift support each year. This, of course, is consistent with where the Governor is, making higher education affordable.

As it relates to fundraising activity, fundraising goals have been set at $425 million for Fiscal Year 2015. Currently, we are at 16% of our goal through about 25% of the year. It should be noted that the first quarter fundraising aligns with pace of previous years.

Related to the Campaign, total activity through September 30 is over $2 billion. Progress is ahead of pace at 81.41% of our goal through 76.66% of time, we are ahead. Currently there are 17 units ahead of pace. There are 5 units that have exceeded their campaign goals, that represents 22 units at pace or ahead and then 12 units are behind.

Submitted for approval with the University Foundation Report is the establishment or revision of endowments. This includes one endowed fellowship, 16 scholarships, four program support funds, two named funds, and seven revisions. The committee then heard six naming resolutions which were presented by Mr. Ripple. These have been fully vetted through our internal gift acceptance process. The resolutions relate to two major building projects that are drawing to a close: the medical center expansion and the new chemical and bimolecular engineering and chemistry building. Mr. Ripple then presented a center revision to the committee. This resolution revises the purpose of the Marci and Bill Ingram Comprehensive Center for Autism Spectrum Disorders. The Ingram’s have redirected prior contributions and will provide future contributions to the Marci and Bill Ingram Adult Autism and Developmentally Disabled Patient Program Fund. The new purpose of the center more accurately recognizes the Ingram’s commitment. These resolutions were passed by the Advancement Committee and are included in the consent agenda today.

Mr. Ito provided an overview of how the Alumni Association engages alumni and friends through their Ohio State Alumni Tour (OSAT) program. The tour program provides opportunities for alumni and friends to travel on fun and interesting trips, resulting in deeper relationships with the university and fellow alumni. Ms. Julie Anstine then presented to the committee on Scholarship Donors Experience. A pressing fundraising priority is scholarship support for our students, as we know. A team from donor relations, led by Ms. Anstine, has reviewed current efforts and made recommendations for enhancing our processes around scholarship stewardship, creating consistency in the donor experience, and amplifying messages about the impact and importance of scholarship support.

Mr. Eicher then provided an update on the advancement scorecard and I will share some highlights here. Our insight community launched just over a month ago with 6,000 members and will soon be the largest of its kind in higher education. Members are currently completing the three key surveys that will fully populate our scorecard. We hope to have these new data by our next meeting in January. New to the scorecard, we are now reporting on Pelotonia-only donors and alumni giving numbers. Goals are currently being set for these areas as they are key drivers of our success. Our event attendance is up nearly 300 constituents from this time last year, a strong indicator that our fiscal year goal of 15,000 will be met. The overall metric for social media remained flat for the 3rd quarter and continues to be monitored as we aim for a score of 6.8 by the end of the fiscal year. The committee also met in executive session.

That concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Dr. Reid. Any questions? Seeing none, I will ask Mr. Jurgensen to report out on Audit and Compliance.

Mr. Jurgensen:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Audit and Compliance Committee met yesterday where we had four discussion items on our agenda.

The first item for discussion was an update on the results of the fiscal year 2014 external audit from our audit partner, Krista Dewire, from PwC. I am pleased to tell you all we have an unqualified opinion and a clean bill of health with respect to our financial statements. There are required communications that PwC needs to cover with the Board and they went over all of those. There were no material adjustments noted in those required communications.

At the end of audits typically you find mistakes here and there; that is part of what the audit process is intended to do. They fall into two categories, corrected misstatements and ones that are uncorrected. On the corrected side, there was one adjustment proposed to us by PwC and this item was picked up and included in the current period financials. For uncorrected misstatements, there was one adjustment identified by PwC that was not recorded but it was evaluated by management for materiality. It was deemed not to be material so it was not picked up in the period.

For internal controls, there were no material weaknesses to report. However, PwC noted a significant deficiency. This is below the level of material weakness and it is something clearly to pay attention to. This related to some estimation techniques that are embedded in how we determine the collectability of patient account receivables. We’re in an era now where deductibles are higher and there are more private pay propositions going on inside the medical center. Understanding the quality of these receivables is a very important task. I would like to note this deficiency, or the significant weakness rather, came out of a computer systems conversion. We converted to EPIC, which is part of our electronic medical record system. Those conversions are not only important, they’re very complex and it’s not uncommon at all in a conversion of that magnitude and scale and complexity to come across the kinds of things that PwC found with respect to these receivables. We asked whether or not the weakness continues and the answer is no. It has been identified and it has been fixed and will not be in our subsequent year audits.

Next, Gates Garrity-Rokous provided his regular compliance program report. Among the items that he covered was an overview of university activities with respect to ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) compliance. Gates also presented on the university’s efforts regarding the implementation of new Big Ten Conference Governance Standards adopted by the Big Ten Presidents last December. These standards require each member institution to develop its own organizational governance standards that demonstrate the allocation, authority, responsibility, and accountability for athletics within the institution. These standards detail member institution requirements in five areas: academic support, compliance, admissions, student conduct, and medical services.

We asked some questions of Gene Smith, our athletic director, with respect to this. We wanted to know where there are things to learn from other Big Ten schools and how can we make our program better. I think that the significant item that the athletic director noted for us is that all of these areas of academic support, compliance, admissions, student conduct, medical services, at Ohio State, our athletic department is integrated into the base of the university for all of these. The athletic director noted that this isn’t the way that it happens in all the other schools. Athletics tends to be a little bit more of an island at some other schools and not as integrated. Ohio State is on the leading edge of best practices and we thank the athletic director and all the staff for that.

We submitted our draft describing the way we do things here at Ohio State to the Big Ten last week. All the controls that are necessary, we believe are in place. There are some remaining implementation items that will be followed up on as we go forward.

Next, Kevin Patton, who is in charge of internal audit here at the university, provided an overview of internal audit; what the organization looks like, what the main tasks are, how they conduct internal audit here at the university. We, like others, have a risk based approach to this. All the major items across the breadth of the university are scheduled for review at one time or another. You generally have many more things to look at than you have staff in most organizations, this one included. That risk based approach has a science element to it and it has an art element to it because risks, often times, are in the eye of the beholder. Kevin went over all of that with us. We’ve done a good job but we have more work to do. I think that there is more that Ohio State can learn from other organizations and it’s one of the benefits of having the kind of breath of people we have, both at the Board level but also on the Audit Committee. They can bring to the university best practices from other places and then compare what we do here.

Finally, the committee reviewed the Department of Internal Audit’s charter and the Board Audit and Compliance Committee Guidelines in anticipation of a regularly scheduled external quality assessment. Think of it as a peer review. An outsider comes in and takes a look at what we do and how we do it and will offer us their observations. That review should begin in early 2015.

The committee then met in executive session and that concludes my report.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you, Mr. Jurgensen. Any questions?

Now I will ask Mr. Shumate to report out on Academic Affairs and Student Life.

Mr. Shumate:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Academic Affairs and Student Life Committee met yesterday as well. Our meeting began with a review as well as an endorsement of a number of resolutions that are on the consent agenda; personnel actions, the awarding of degrees and certificates for autumn semester, the awarding of Honorary Degrees; the establishment of a Master of Quantitative Risk Management Degree in the Department of Mathematics, approval to change the name of the Department of ENT in the College of Medicine, the establishment of a mid-autumn semester break, and the adoption of the provisions of Amended Substitute House Bill Number 4788 which provides a number of measures in support for veterans and service members. As I mentioned, these items are on the consent agenda for approval by the full board and we endorsed all of those resolutions.

We then turned to a discussion of the Academic Initiatives Scorecard. As we have reported before, we have been amending and revising as well as updating our scorecard with the goal to make sure we’re aligned with the substantive and strategic initiatives of the university. We appreciate the work of our provost and his team in working with the committee to align the items that we’re measuring with the goals and objectives and our strategy.

I am very pleased to report that there has been an increase in merit as well as need based aid. Also, I am happy to report that there’s improvement in the undergraduate six-year graduation rate and we are monitoring a number of areas that we’d like to strengthen. Those areas include the graduate and professional student experience, the total research expenditures as well as our rank among public universities, and an increase in tenure track faculty. Again, we’re working closely with the provost and the Office of Academic Affairs to make sure that we stay focused and really push the right levers to help us achieve these important goals.

Consistent with the strategic focus of our committee we then heard a report from the Vice President for Strategic Enrollment, Dolan Evanovich, who provided us with an update of the Enrollment Plan and progress towards the goals that were established for the five-year period of 2010 to 2015. As we all know, this enrollment plan is really at the heart of our academic plan. We are focused on the overarching goal that the Board has identified as critically important to our success, focusing on not only access but affordability as well as excellence. I am pleased to report, again, that in terms of academic progress, there has been improvements in both the ACT and SAT scores and they have risen steadily since 2010 with a record 28.8 this semester. Our goal for 2015 for the ACT is 29. I appreciate the progress of the university in this important area.

Equally as important is our first year retention rate which has improved to 94%. Our target goal for 2015 is 95%. Our enrollment numerically is increasing as well. We are at 65,000 students. The goal for 2015 is 66,000. Again, Vice President Evanovich indicated that the university continues to make progress towards our diversity goals from 2010 to 2014. We’re up in all diversity categories including transfer enrolments, non-resident students, international students, and students of diverse color and ethnicity.

Lastly, the provost updated us on the Discovery Themes Initiative, which focuses on the theme areas of Energy and Environment; Food Production and Security; as well as Health and Wellness. We are very pleased to hear that the state of Ohio has provided $52.8 million for renovations at Pomerene and Oxley Halls. This is very important towards achieving our academic goals.

We concluded our meeting by focusing in on measures for success in the Discovery Themes Initiatives and those include: the number of new faculty hires, the richness of cross-unit collaboration, the potential of the new Discovery Themes faculty to enhance diversity, the growth in internal and external partnerships, and the return on our financial investment.
November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

We then adjourned into executive session and that concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much Mr. Shumate. Any questions?

I know the full board had a chance to have a lot of discussion about access, affordability, and excellence, the trades, and the financial implications of these very complex selections. A lot of profound decisions have to be made and that will certainly define the character of the university. Thank you for all your work.

I’d like now to ask Mr. Ratner to report out on the Finance committee.

Mr. Ratner:

The Finance committee met yesterday and covered numerous items. In the interest of time, I will keep my summary as concise as possible.

During the meeting, 6 items were presented for discussion.

Mr. Chatas presented the University Financial Scorecards and the Fiscal Year 2015 Interim Financial Report stating the university and Wexner Medical Center are overall financially on budget through September 30, 2014, three months into the fiscal year.

The University Financial Scorecard has all metrics listed as exceeding goals except for the change in net assets. This metric reflects the lower than expected return on the long term investment pool for the first quarter of fiscal year 2015 compared to budget.

The Physical Environment Scorecard was then reviewed by Mr. Kasey, who briefly discussed those items coded yellow, including crimes both on and off campus. The main factor to these being yellow relates to vehicle break-ins. In response, additional patrols have been scheduled.

Ms. Readey then reviewed the construction project status report where it was noted all major projects are rated green on the report as on time and most of the projects are coded yellow for being on budget to date; the east regional chilled water plant specifically was discussed as construction and materials costs continue to rise, though this is offset by other projects that are tracking favorable to budget overall. Ms. Readey also presented the capital projects annual report for fiscal year 2014. This included a 10-year look back at total expenditures and funding source. The amount of construction that we’ve done has been very impressive and has changed the look, character, and function of our campus over a decade. I want to again just personally thank the extraordinary teams of people here at the university and the professionals that we work with who’ve made that possible. In total, it has been on time and on budget and it has also been done with really, well I don’t live here every day and many of you do, it’s been done I think with minimal interruption to the daily life and the ability to get all the other work of the university to happen.

Finally, Mr. Myers presented the Comprehensive Transportation and Parking Plan (CTPP), very dry sounding document but one that I think will have a big impact on our campus. It’s a 5-year plan that has emerged in order to address a number of issues, primarily the issues that were identified in the framework plan and the leading one of those is the goal of “park once”. That is a significant issue for us and one that we’re making real progress on. We obviously have to take into account growth at the Wexner Medical Center, the planned relocation of Cannon Drive, increased bicycle and pedestrian traffic, completion of the North Residential District within the next two years and that includes adding all second-year students that have the ability to live on campus. That means a lot more traffic on campus particularly in the pedestrian and bicycle segments of our transportation plan and obviously we also have an increased number of events at the Schottenstein Center and in the athletic district overall.

The plan includes changes to the current parking system, transit system, and campus and regional street networks. There are a couple of very significant changes including a couple of new on-campus roads that will make for a much better traffic plan but will also mean that we can exit cars out of our core campus in a much easier fashion, leaving more of the core campus for pedestrian and bicycle traffic.

The Finance Committee additionally discussed 5 items for the consent agenda. I will briefly review these resolutions.

Mr. Myers presented on two joint use agreements, the first being between Ohio State and Hattie Larlham and the second being between Ohio State and Tech Town New Market. Resolutions approved by the board are required to permit the release of $250,000 of funds appropriated in the state Capital Bill for each joint use agreement. Hattie Larlham will use funds received to construct a community food processing hub in Akron. Tech Town will use these funds to design and build-out space in Dayton to support the application, commercialization, and convergence of cutting-edge technologies and collaborations between the Air Force Research Laboratory and non-defense organizations, including the university.

Mr. Myers then presented the sale of real property, for seven properties that have been determined to be in excess, with no immediate or future need to the university.

Ms. Douglass then presented two amendments, one to The Ohio State University Supplemental Retirement Plan and one to the Harding Hospital Employees’ Retirement Plan Agreement. These amendments would apply the guidance set forth by the IRS in the U.S. v. Windsor court case. These resolutions were passed by the Finance Committee and are included in the consent agenda today.

The committee also met in executive session. And that concludes my report.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Mr. Ratner. Any questions? Yes, Gil.

Dr. Cloyd:

The technology commercialization activities that we have are nested within the finance committee. We have had a stated goal at the university to stimulate economic development in the state of Ohio and also find ways that we can better monetize, I'll use the word, our technical capabilities to benefit the university's research and education programs.

Dr. Rezai, who was mentioned earlier has developed, what I see, a very unique model of public/private partnership in the neurotechnology innovations translator. I think it really has a lot of uniqueness to it and it holds very high potential. It moves away from the traditional approaches that big universities have utilized. I know we still have some final legal structuring things to get done and I personally see it as the most positive step that we have taken since I have been associated with this university; to come up with a novel way where we really can move forward more aggressively in our goals to stimulate the economic development in this state and also bring more funding back to the university with our intellectual and physical technical capabilities.
November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

Dr. Wadsworth:

Certainly. Well said, and I couldn't agree more. It’s a very powerful portfolio and we look forward, not only the human and societal impact, but the ability to reinvest as we move product.

The last report prior to the consent agenda is the Governance committee. I’m going to call upon Mr. Shumate for double duty. Alex.

Mr. Shumate:

Yes, thank you Mr. Chairman, I will be brief. Tim Smucker was unable to be with us for this meeting.

The Governance Committee met yesterday morning. There is one item on the consent agenda, that being the Ratification of Committee Appointments. It involves Mr. Smucker moving to the Audit and Compliance Committee to help us with our numerical balance on our committees. He also brings a background and expertise in finance and regulatory matters which will add to the strength of the Audit and Compliance Committee.

We then spent time talking with Dr. Drake and as you know, we've been working to identify and establish goals for the 2014-2015 academic year. The charge from the board was for the committee to come forward with not only valuable strategic goals to emphasize in this academic year but also to make those goals measurable.

We have had a process as a committee and have identified five areas of focus for this first year. Those five areas are: the Wexner Medical Center, academic excellence, financial stability, talent and culture, and building relationships. We’ve identified specific objectives under each of these categories and as you know, that sets the framework for the Presidential Performance Review. We will be focusing and working on that, and again, working with our president to help us achieve these strategic and important goals.

We then focused on the undergraduate student trustee appointment. Time does pass quickly and it’s time, unfortunately, for Stacie Seger’s term to end this spring. Stacie has stepped up to lead the process for the selection of the next undergraduate student trustee and has developed a process that’s inclusive to make sure we have a number of qualified candidates to review. We will submit three recommendations to the governor's office. We’ll report back on that as well.

I would point out quickly that the Governance Committee will also be looking at the next charter trustee appointment, which will be coming up. Regrettably, Dr. Cloyd’s second term is ending this spring. We are committed to finding a national trustee who’s an alum of the university to bring additional expertise to the Board. They will have big shoes to fill but we’ll work diligently on that process as well.

That completes my report.

CONSENT AGENDA

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much Mr. Shumate. The consent agenda is now before the trustees and I will call on Dr. Drake to present it to the Board.

President Drake:

Thank you Chairman Wadsworth. The consent agenda has been updated based on the actions at yesterday's committee meetings from what was previously distributed. Revised copies are available.

Today we have a total of 24 resolutions on the consent agenda. We will hold separate votes for items one and two, Amendments to the Bylaws and Rules and Regulations of the Medical Staff of the Ohio State University Hospitals and Amendments to the Bylaws and Rules and Regulations of the Medical Staff of the Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Richard J. Solove Research Institute; item 12, University Foundation Report; and item 15, naming of Internal Spaces in the Ohio State University Comprehensive Cancer Center, Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Richard J. Solove Research Institute.

We are seeking approval for the following:

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM Resolution No. 2015-20

Synopsis: Approval of Resolutions in Memoriam, is proposed.

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees approves the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the families of the deceased.

Margaret E. Griffiths

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 9, 2014, of Margaret E. Griffiths, Associate Professor Emeritus of The Ohio State University Extension Service.

Margi was born May 15, 1941, in Salem, Ohio. She received her BS degree in 1963, in Education from Kent State University and her MA degree in 1974, in Adult Education from The Ohio State University.

Her Extension career in Ohio began on July 1, 1965 as the County Extension Agent, Home Economics in Meigs County. Professor Griffiths became the County Extension Agent, Home Economics in Richland County, April 1, 1970 and then on January 1, 1973 she became an Area Extension Agent, Home Economics in the Mt. Gilead Area. The area was changed to the Northwest Area on July 1, 1984. She held this position until her retirement on April 30, 2004.

Professor Griffiths was recognized for her leadership in the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program and working with low income families. She was well known for her culture diversity in working with the NW Ohio migrant population and brought teams together to create bilingual family and consumer science educational materials. Margi initiated the first “Sewing for Profit” workshop in the state of Ohio and was highly regarded as an innovator by other professionals in the field of home economics. She served on many committees, was a member of the National Association of Extension Home Economists and received the media award from that organization during her Extension career. Professor Griffiths was also a recipient of the Florence Hall award for her team work with her peers.

Margi always said, “There were never two days alike, my work was always changing and interesting and I loved it”.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Margaret E. Griffiths its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their
The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 9, 2014, of William A. Jensen, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Molecular Genetics in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Professor Jensen received a PhD degree in Biology, MS and PhD degrees in Botany, from the University of Chicago. Just before he began his undergraduate studies at the University of Chicago, Professor Jensen was drafted into the service at the end of World War II. During that time he worked in an army hospital lab. He continued in the reserves once he returned to the University of Chicago. Professor Jensen held Atomic Energy and Public Health pre-doctoral fellowships at the University of Chicago and at the Carlsberg Laboratory in Copenhagen, Denmark, where he completed his PhD research. He also carried out postdoctoral work at the California Institute of Technology and at the University of Brussels, Belgium.

Professor Jensen taught at the University of Virginia and then at the University of California, Berkeley, where he quickly rose through the ranks to Professor of Botany. During his tenure at UC Berkeley, he served as Assistant and Associate Dean of the College of Letters and Science. He also served as Chairman of the Department of Botany and served for ten years as the Chairman of the Department of Instruction in Biology. Professor Jensen came to The Ohio State University in Columbus in 1984 where he served for five years as the Dean of the College of Biological Sciences. Until his retirement in 2009, he was Professor in the Department of Plant Cellular and Molecular Biology which later merged with the Department of Molecular Genetics.

His early professional interests were in the areas of cell differentiation associated with plant embryos and embryo sac development which led him to combine techniques of histochemistry and electron microscopy, pioneering approaches at that time. From this work he became the sole author of the still popular book, Botanical Histochemistry (1962). Professor Jensen mentored numerous graduate students and postdoctoral fellows who hold, and have held, major teaching and research positions at institutions of higher learning in the United States, Canada, and Europe. His research has been published in more than 100 articles in a variety of outstanding journals. He served as Program Director of Developmental Biology at the National Science Foundation from 1973-1974. He was a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and at the California Academy of Sciences. He received the Merit Award (Distinguished Fellow) from the Botanical Society of America where he served in many capacities, as well as serving as president in 1978.

Throughout his career Professor Jensen developed a passion for teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels and received several awards for these efforts from the University of California and The Ohio State University. He also received the Charles E. Bessey Award for Teaching from the Botanical Society of America. In his later years at The Ohio State University, he taught very popular large classes to non-science majors who enjoyed his portrayals of famous scientists as well as his multimedia presentations. His authoring of entry-level texts in General Botany and General Biology supported his love for making botany and biology fun and understandable.

Professor Jensen was also an artist. His insatiable curiosity and talent for creating beautiful, abstract, color pen drawings of images of cells he had studied with his electron microscope became his passion in later years. He loved creating them, displayed them at art shows and in the Department of Molecular Genetics, sold them, and sometimes gave them as gifts.
November 7, 2014 meeting, Board of Trustees

On behalf of the university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor William A. Jensen its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Angelene E. Phillips

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on September 10, 2014, of Angelene E. Phillips, Assistant Professor Emeritus of The Ohio State University Extension Service.

Professor Phillips was born August 29, 1921, in Mt. Vernon, Ohio. She received her BS degree in 1943, and the MS degree in 1961 both in Home Economics from The Ohio State University.

Her Extension career in Ohio began on July 1, 1973 as the County Extension Agent, Home Economics in Knox County. She held this position until her retirement on June 30, 1983.

Professor Phillips was recognized for her leadership in the many home economics programs that encompassed foods and nutrition, clothing and textiles, housing and home furnishings, child development and family living and consumer economics and management. She also developed the “infant enrichment” program in Ohio. This program was duplicated in several Ohio counties and received national recognition. Professor Phillips served on many committees and was a member of the National Association of Extension Home Economists.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Angelene E. Phillips its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to her family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Cary B. Rader

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 26, 2014, of Cary B. Rader, Associate Professor Emeritus of Mathematics at The Ohio State University at Newark.

Professor Rader held a BS in physics and a PhD in mathematics from the University of Washington. He taught mathematics at The Ohio State University for 27 years and had previously taught at the University of Colorado at Boulder, Rutgers University, the University of Chicago, and Universidade Federal Rural de Pernambuco in Recife, Brazil. He was a dedicated teacher who was known for his patience and his skill in making mathematics clear to his students. He was actively involved in working for social justice and was former President of the Democratic Club of Licking County; Treasurer of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Licking County, and won “Democrat of the Year” multiple times. He ran twice for Newark City Treasurer with the campaign slogan, “A Mathematician for Treasurer Makes Cents.”

Bert K. Waits

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on July 27, 2014, of Bert K. Waits, Professor Emeritus of Mathematics in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Professor Waits earned Bachelor and Master Degrees in Mathematics, and a PhD in Mathematics Education, from The Ohio State University. He taught in the Department of Mathematics from 1961 to 1991, with scholarship interests focused on effective ways to impart mathematical ideas with appropriate uses of technology.

In the early 1970s, Professor Waits was involved with the CRIMEL program (Curriculum Revision and Instruction in Mathematics at the Elementary Level), providing OSU students with self-paced math courses aided by televised lectures. He was the cofounder and director of the Ohio Early College Mathematics Placement Testing (EMPT) Program of the Ohio Board of Regents, a program that became a model for the nation. He served a three year term on NCTM’s Board of Directors, was a member of the College Board’s AP Calculus Development Committee, and was a consultant for Texas Instruments, Education Technology Division.

Professors Bert Waits and Frank Demana cofounded several major initiatives, including: Teachers Teaching with Technology (T-Cubed), the annual International Conference on Technology in Collegiate Mathematics (ICTCM), and the biannual International Conference on Technology in Mathematics Teaching (ICTMT). They also codirected many mathematics education projects funded by the National Science Foundation.

Professor Waits published 70 articles in refereed journals of mathematics and math education; coauthored numerous middle school, high school, and college textbooks in precalculus and calculus; and presented hundreds of invited lectures, workshops, and minicourses worldwide. He was a coauthor of Curriculum and Evaluation Standards for School Mathematics. That 1989 book, published by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, strongly influenced the movement toward national school standards.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Bert K. Waits its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board’s heartfelt sympathy.

Thomas M. Woodson

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on August 17, 2014, of Thomas M. Woodson, Professor Emeritus of English in the Department of English.

Professor Woodson held a BA, MA, and PhD in English from Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut. He taught English at Williams College in Massachusetts before coming to The Ohio State University in 1963. Professor Woodson was a professor of English in the Department of English for over 32 years. He served as the Chairperson of the Comparative Studies Department from 1975-1977. In 1968-1969, he was named a Fulbright Scholar and taught in the English Department at the University of Pau, France. He also served as a visiting scholar in the Department of American Studies at Yale University from 1969-1970.
Dr. Woodson’s scholarship included articles on American writers, Henry David Thoreau and Herman Melville, and a book on Edgar Allan Poe. Tom was a long-time professor of 19th-century American literature specializing in Hawthorne and other writers. He served as president of the Nathaniel Hawthorne Society and as a general editor of the Centenary Edition of the Works of Nathaniel Hawthorne (OSU Press). Within that Centenary Edition, he was editor of The French and Italian Notebooks and several volumes of the letters as well as co-editor of The English Notebooks, 1856-1860. The Centenary Edition received an award from The London Times (England) as the literary research book of the year in 1995.

Professor Woodson was President of the Nathaniel Hawthorne Society and received the House of Seven Gables Hawthorne Award for Hawthorne Scholar of the Year in 1991.

On behalf of the University community, The Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Thomas M. Woodson its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board’s heartfelt sympathy.

Degrees Conferred at

COMMENCEMENT CONVOCATION

December 21, 2014
David Steigerwald

Professor David Steigerwald is a nationally recognized scholar of 20th-century American history, specializing in the 1960s and American consumer society.

After earning his bachelor's degree from The Ohio State University, followed by his advanced degrees from the University of Rochester, Professor Steigerwald became a faculty member in Ohio State's Department of History and has taught at the Marion and Columbus campuses since 1990. His teaching repertoire includes courses on modern America, the '60s and the Vietnam War. He also serves as director of the university's World War II Study Abroad Program, guiding groups of students each year on three-week tours of key battlefields, memorials and museums in Europe.

Stemming from his passion for history education, Professor Steigerwald secured a $1 million grant from the U.S. Department of Education for History in the Heartland, a K-12 program for Ohio public school teachers.

He is the author of many essays and books, including Wilsonian Idealism in America, The Sixties and the End of Modern America and Culture's Vanities: The Paradox of Cultural Diversity in a Globalized World. He coauthored Debating the 1960s: Liberal, Conservative and Radical Perspectives, and his 2010 essay, "Walter Reuther, the UAW and the Dilemmas of Automation," was recognized as the year's best essay in American labor history by the journal Labor History.

In addition to his remarkable scholarship, Professor Steigerwald is an acclaimed teacher. Twice, Phi Alpha Theta has honored him with the Clio Award for outstanding teaching, and in 2009, he received Ohio State's highest recognition for teaching excellence, the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching.
RECIPIENTS OF HONORS

Martha M. Garland
DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

Over the course of nearly 40 years, Martha Garland built a distinguished career at The Ohio State University as a professor and senior administrator.

After earning her undergraduate degree from Tulane University and her master's degree from Cornell University, Dr. Garland arrived at Ohio State as a doctoral candidate in 1971. She completed her doctorate in 1975 and served in various administrative roles at the university before rejoining the Department of History as a faculty member in 1982. She taught courses in European and modern British history while publishing her research on English intellectual and social history.

In 1992, after receiving tenure as an associate professor, she became associate dean of the College of Humanities. Five years later, she was appointed vice provost for Enrollment Management and dean of Undergraduate Education.

During her administrative career, Dr. Garland helped develop many student-focused initiatives, including the First Year Experience program and the Office of Undergraduate Research. She spearheaded or significantly supported a wide range of projects, including the elimination of University College and a shift to direct enrollment in the college of each student's major, the creation of a campus-wide Service Learning Initiative, enhancements to the Denman Undergraduate Research Forum and the creation of an integrated Student Information System.

She served on the University Senate and numerous other committees, including co-chairing the Committee on the Undergraduate Experience, which explored all aspects of the student experience and recommended sweeping changes. These changes led to marked improvement in recruitment and admission efforts and, ultimately, graduation rates.

In 2010, after retiring from her role as vice provost, she returned to the university to serve as acting vice president of Student Life. Currently, Dr. Garland advises the university's committee working to raise scholarship funds.

Robert J. Weiler
DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

An esteemed member of the Columbus community, Robert Weiler has maintained a deep connection to Ohio State since the 1960s, when he earned two degrees from the university. Over the years, Dr. Weiler has achieved great success in the real estate industry, currently serving as chair of the board of the Robert Weiler Company, a full-service commercial real estate firm. He has shared his extensive knowledge with the next generation of leaders as an adjunct faculty member at the Moritz College of Law, and as a frequent lecturer for student groups from Moritz and Fisher College of Business.

A loyal supporter of the university and its students, Dr. Weiler made his first gift to Ohio State in 1959. Since then, he and his wife, Missy, have supported the university as leadership donors, establishing the Robert Weiler MBA Scholarship Fund at Fisher in 2004, and generously providing rent-free housing for Ohio State MBA students. In 2013, they created the Robert and Missy Weiler Scholarship Fund in the College of Education and Human Ecology, supporting students with financial need who major in urban education.

For his exceptional service, Dr. Weiler was honored in 2002 with Fisher's Community Service Award. In 2012, he joined the university's Foundation Board of Directors.

He has devoted much time and energy to increasing access to higher education. While president of the Columbus Board of Education, he helped found the "I Know I Can" college access program, one of the most successful of its kind.

Dr. Weiler received his master's degree in real estate and his doctorate in finance from Ohio State. He earned his undergraduate degree from the University of Arizona, and his juris doctorate from Capital University Law School. He has served in leadership roles for numerous organizations, including the Columbus Board of Realtors, the Columbus Metropolitan YMCA and COSI.

Michael L. J. Apuzzo

Michael L. J. Apuzzo is one of the world’s best known and respected neurological surgeons and is often considered to be one of the principal fathers of modern neurosurgery. He holds the Edwin M. Todd/Trent H. Wells Professor of Neurological Surgery and Radiation Oncology, Biology, and Physics at the University of Southern California Keck School of Medicine in Los Angeles. He is Director of Neurosurgery at the Kenneth Norris, Jr. Cancer Hospital and Research Institute and Director of the Center for Stereotactic Neurosurgery and Associated Research at that institution. He is also Senior Clinical Director of Surgical Neuro-Oncology and the former Director of Surgical Epilepsy Treatment Programs at the Keck School of Medicine. He is Director of the Gamma Unit Facility at the USC University Hospital and Neurosurgical Director of the Norris CyberKnife Facility.

It is difficult to overstate his importance in his field. Many of the current standard practices and pieces of equipment in a modern neurosurgery suite are present because of Dr. Apuzzo. For example, he devised, described, and advocated complex midline routes through the brain to reach deep within to remove previously inoperable tumors while limiting damage during surgery, ultimately popularizing these approaches internationally. During the mid-to-late 1970’s, he helped to establish the microscope as a regular and essential component of the general neurosurgical toolkit. Devices that he developed brought the performance of intracranial surgery to a new level of precision and safety, universally affecting the technical practice of neurosurgery. Dr. Apuzzo’s texts are considered classics in the field and are employed globally as principal technical guides in clinical practice. He has authored over 750 shorter pieces and has served on some 25 editorial boards. For 18 years he was editor-in-chief for the flagship journal in his field, Neurosurgery.

Dr. Apuzzo has been honored by the World Health Organization (WHO), World Federation of Neurosurgical Societies and Queen Sophia of Spain with the Sixto Obrador Medal and Sweden’s National Center for Research and Higher Education in Medicine with the Herbert Olivecrona Award. At the award ceremonies that were in parallel with Nobel Prize activities in Stockholm, he was lauded as "the primary intellectual catalyst in neurological surgery." He has received a Doctorate honor pro causa from the Italian National University Consortium and recently received University Gold Medals from Boston University and the University of Messina for his contributions to neurosurgery, medicine, internationalization, and humanities.

Dr. Apuzzo has served as special consultant to the NFL and has played a central role in the development of protective protocols that are mandated by both the NCAA and the NFL related to cerebral concussion.
Adrian Frederick Melhuish Smith

Sir Adrian Frederick Melhuish Smith is one of today’s leading statisticians. A distinguished British civil servant, he has been vice chancellor of the University of London since 2012. He is also Deputy Chair of the UK Statistics Authority with responsibility for governance of the Office for National Statistics. He was knighted in the 2011 New Year Honours.

Sir Adrian’s contributions to the field of statistics have been extraordinary and their impact on society far-reaching. He is a proponent of Bayesian statistics and evidence-based practice. Dr. Smith’s monographs are considered the most comprehensive available and his work has had a major impact on the development of monitoring tools for clinicians. The application of his work throughout science is felt in archeological digs, cancer therapy, climate change, criminology, drug trials, educational testing, environmental science, evolution and speciation, insurance sales, marketing, materials science, obesity, portfolio optimization, psychological responses, transportation research, and more.

In the late 1990’s Sir Adrian chaired the UK government’s inquiry into post-14 mathematics education and he later led Great Britain’s independent review of crime statistics, commissioned by the Home Secretary. In 2008, he was appointed Director General of Science and Research at the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (since merged with another department to form the UK’s Department for Business, Innovation and Skills). The following year, he led an advisory group reviewing the UK’s postgraduate education.

Formerly Principal of Queen Mary, University of London, Sir Adrian was previously at Imperial College, London, where he was head of the Mathematics Department. He is a member of the governing body of the London Business School and a former Deputy Vice-Chancellor of the University of London. He served on the Advisory Council for the Office of National Statistics from 1996-1998, was Statistical Advisor to the Nuclear Waste Inspectorate from 1991-1998 and was advisor on Operational Analysis to the Ministry of Defence from 1982-1987.

Sir Adrian was President of the Royal Statistical Society between 1995 and 1997 and won the society’s Guy Medal in Bronze (1977) and Guy Medal in Silver (1993). He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society in 2001 in recognition of his contribution to statistics. He was educated at Teignmouth Grammar School, Selwyn College, Cambridge, and University College, London. He holds honorary doctorates from City University; the University of Loughborough; Queen Mary, University of London; and Plymouth University.

(APPENDIX XVII)

(APPENDIX XVIII)
Background on the Plan:

The university’s Supplemental 415(m) Retirement Plan (the “415(m) Plan”) was originally adopted effective as of July 1, 2001 and was subsequently amended and restated effective as of July 1, 2011. The 415(m) Plan is a “qualified governmental excess benefit arrangement” under Section 415(m) of the Internal Revenue Code. The 415(m) Plan provides additional retirement contributions to employees in excess of limitations otherwise imposed by the Internal Revenue Code on the university’s Retirement Continuation Plan and the Alternative Retirement Plan.

Summary of Changes:

On June 26, 2013, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in U.S. v. Windsor that Section 3 of the Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) is unconstitutional. Section 3 of DOMA defined marriage as the union of one man and one woman for purposes of federal laws, rules and regulations. As a result of the Windsor decision, lawful same-sex marriages are now recognized by the federal government.

Earlier this year, the Internal Revenue Service issued guidance that clarifies its position with respect to the application of the Windsor decision to tax-qualified retirement plans. Specifically, the guidance provides that certain retirement plans are required to treat same-sex spouses the same as opposite sex-spouses effective as of June 26, 2013. This guidance applies to the 415(m) Plan.

The 415(m) Plan is being amended to incorporate these changes. The amendment has been approved by the Office of Legal Affairs, the Office of Human Resources, and outside counsel.

Purpose of the Resolution:

The resolution would:

- Approve the amendment of the 415(m) Plan, effective as of June 26, 2013, the date the U.S. Supreme Court issued its decision in Windsor.

- Authorize the senior vice president for business and finance and chief financial officer to sign the amendment and any other documents needed to carry out the amendment.

- Delegate authority to adopt and effectuate certain technical or non-discretionary amendments to the 415(m) Plan necessary to secure or maintain compliance with federal tax laws to the senior vice president for business and finance and chief financial officer, in consultation with the Office of Human Resources and the Office of Legal Affairs, without further review or resolutions by the Board.
FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
SUPPLEMENTAL 415(m) RETIREMENT PLAN

WHEREAS, The Ohio State University ("Ohio State") maintains The Ohio State University Supplemental 415(m) Retirement Plan, effective as of July 1, 2001, and amended and restated effective as of July 1, 2011 (the "Plan");

WHEREAS, pursuant to Section 10.1 of the Plan, Ohio State has the right to amend the Plan; and

WHEREAS, Ohio State desires to amend the Plan as described herein.

NOW, THEREFORE, effective as of June 26, 2013 (the "Effective Date"), Ohio State hereby amends the Plan as follows:

1. Section 5.5 of the Plan is hereby deleted in its entirety and replaced with the following:

   5.5  Beneficiary Designation  Upon commencing participation, each Participant shall designate a Beneficiary on forms furnished by the Plan Administrator or its delegate. Such forms shall be maintained in files held by the Plan Administrator or its delegate. From time to time, the Participant may change his Beneficiary by written notice on forms furnished by the Plan Administrator or its delegate given to the Plan Administrator or its delegate. Upon such change, the rights of all previously designated Beneficiaries to receive any benefits under this Plan shall cease.

   Further, to the extent there is no beneficiary designation under the 415(m) Plan at the date of death of the Participant, or if the Beneficiary designated has died prior to the death of the Participant, or if the Participant has revoked a prior designation in writing filed with the Plan Administrator without having filed a new designation, then any death benefits which would have been payable to the Beneficiary hereunder shall be payable to the Participant's spouse, if living; if not living, equally to the Participant’s children; or if none survive, then to the Participant's estate. For purposes of this Plan, "spouse" shall mean an individual whose marriage to a Participant is recognized by the Internal Revenue Service for federal income tax purposes.

2. Capitalized terms not otherwise defined herein shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the Plan.

3. All other terms and conditions of the Plan shall remain in full force and effect.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, Ohio State has executed this First Amendment effective as of the Effective Date.

Background on the Plan:

The university maintains the Harding Hospital Employees’ Retirement Plan Agreement (the “Plan”). In 1999, all contributions to the Plan ceased and the Plan was frozen to new participants. However, the Plan remains subject to the Internal Revenue Code.

Summary of Changes:

On June 26, 2013, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in U.S. v. Windsor that Section 3 of the Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) is unconstitutional. Section 3 of DOMA defined marriage as the union of one man and one woman for purposes of federal laws, rules and regulations. As a result of the Windsor decision, lawful same-sex marriages are now recognized by the federal government.

Earlier this year, the Internal Revenue Service issued guidance that clarifies its position with respect to the application of the Windsor decision to tax-qualified retirement plans. Specifically, the guidance provides that certain retirement plans are required to treat same-sex spouses the same as opposite sex-spouses effective as of June 26, 2013. This guidance applies to the Plan.

The Plan is being amended to incorporate these changes. The amendment has been approved by the Office of Legal Affairs, the Office of Human Resources, and outside counsel. The changes to the Plan do not change its status as a frozen Plan or increase the university’s financial obligations with respect to the Plan.

Purpose of the Resolution:

The resolution would:

- Approve the amendment of the Plan, effective as of June 26, 2013, the date the U.S. Supreme Court issued its decision in Windsor.
- Authorize the senior vice president for business and finance and chief financial officer to sign the amendment and any other documents needed to carry out the amendment.
- Delegate authority to adopt and effectuate certain technical or non-discretionary amendments to the Plan necessary to secure or maintain compliance with federal tax laws to the senior vice president for business and finance and chief financial officer, in consultation with the Office of Human Resources and the Office of Legal Affairs, without further review or resolutions by the Board.

HARDING HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES’ RETIREMENT PLAN AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, The Ohio State University (the “Employer”) maintains the Harding Hospital Employees’ Retirement Plan Agreement, as amended and restated, effective as of January 1, 2009 (the “Plan”);

WHEREAS, pursuant to Section 8.1 of the Plan, the Employer has the right to amend the Plan; and

WHEREAS, the Employer desires to amend the Plan as described herein.

NOW, THEREFORE, effective as of June 26, 2013 (the “Effective Date”), the Employer hereby amends the Plan as follows:

1. The following new Section 2.21 shall be added to the Plan:

   2.21 “Spouse”: An individual whose marriage to a participant is recognized by the Internal Revenue Service for federal income tax purposes. Where appropriate, the term “spouse” as used in the Plan shall be revised to the formal term “Spouse”.

2. Capitalized terms not otherwise defined herein shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the Plan.

3. All other terms and conditions of the Plan shall remain in full force and effect.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Employer has executed this first amendment effective as of the effective date.

RECOGNITION OF 2015 NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP FOOTBALL TEAM

Dr. Wadsworth:

Today is a really special day for us, for the university, and for the community. We are holding a board meeting where we will conduct important work of the institution. However, today is a day of true celebration also. We will celebrate a national championship, a national hero, and we will honor outstanding students and outstanding citizens. It is a very special day.

We’re going to start our meeting with a recognition of our 2015 National Championship Football Team. This season was about more than just winning. It was about overcoming adversity, preparing for big opportunities, and achieving more than anyone thought possible.

At this time, I would like to ask our athletics director, Gene Smith, to bring forward to the table and introduce one of our coaches along with a small group of our players. I believe we will hear a few words from some of you. With that, let me turn the mic over to Gene Smith.

Mr. Smith:

Good morning. I am going to say a few words and then I will to turn it over to Coach Fickell and he can introduce our players. I want to thank the Board of Trustees for this opportunity to be recognized and have these young men have a chance to represent their team.

I think you all know the story that it was a magical season from a competitive point of view but I just want to point out and share in front of them, how proud all of us are on how you represented yourselves off the field and at the Championship event. I think we’d all agree that the massive media attention that we were blessed to receive was beneficial to our institution and all of our buckeye fans around the world. We are really proud of how you guys represented yourselves on that stage and thank you for that performance.

I am going to turn it over to Luke Fickell. We all know his background. He’s a buckeye. He’s a graduate in Exercise Science. Frankly, he was recognized in 2010 by the American Football Coaches Association as the Assistant Coach of the Year. Great recruiter, great teacher, great husband, great father. He’s got a couple of kids. We are extremely proud of him and glad that he’s, I think you just finished your 14th season here, just blessed that he’s a part of the buckeye family. Luke Fickell.

Coach Fickell:

On behalf of Coach Meyer, the entire coaching staff, and our entire football team, we want to thank you guys. Obviously, we can’t do what we do without the support of, not just of the buckeye nation, but more importantly the support of everybody, the entire university and the board. The things that we do for these guys is unmatched, I think, in college football and it’s because of the opportunity that you guys allow us and Coach Meyer to do whatever it is we have to do for these guys because of the things that we ask of them.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

It was a magical year. It was quite a run; as these guys will be able to tell you and attest to, as you guys saw. The reality is, it was another year. We did have a lot of ups and downs and a lot of adversity and I think that is what, as I step back in the brief time that we’ve had to step back and look at it, I think the thing that is quite unique about it is the way that these guys come together.

Really the credit should be given not just to these guys, the seniors, but the entire team. Because to me, in my 19 years of doing this, I don’t know that I’ve seen a team that has come together like they have. The selfless commitment to one another, the selfless commitment to the team and to something bigger than themselves, is really the reason that we’re standing here today.

I know we don’t like to talk about it, but the adverse things that happened to us is really what defined us. You don’t like to see those things. JT is sitting here with us today but might have been as big a part of our success as anything. It is hard to say that and I know it’s hard for him, but the reality is, the run that we made in the last three games, two months of the season, is in big part because of what we lost.

I think that’s what’s most gratifying in my 19 years of being a part of this and being here at The Ohio State University. The most gratifying thing is to see how these guys came together, to see their commitment, their belief in what we always tell them, “Together, we all achieve more” is a true testament and as coach always says, it’s a testimony to what these guys did today and what they did this football season.

I’m going to start by introducing these four guys, give them a quick second to maybe say something, a little reflection on the season. First off, here to our left is our quarterback, JT Barrett.

Mr. Barrett:

How are you doing? We appreciate everything that you all have done for us this season. It was a dream come true. It’s one of the reasons that I came to Ohio State, is to win a National Championship, honestly.

During the off-season, we talk about what it takes in order for us to win a championship. It did come quicker than I expected, to be honest with you.

To reflect over the season, I was a red shirt freshman, trying to be a backup. You know Braxton Miller and all the things that he has done for this university and for our team. I was just trying to get a backup spot. I thought I was going to be holding field goals to be honest with you, not really throwing touchdown passes. But, he went down, unfortunately. It became one of those times where you look at the people on the team, looking into their eyes, and see that it’s deeper than just yourself and you have to keep encouraging the guys.

The biggest thing in our season was losing to Virginia Tech. I don’t think we would have won the National Championship game is we hadn’t lost to Virginia Tech. A lot of people think it was the fall of our season. We didn’t think we were going to recover from that. It just made us stronger. When you lose, it’s not really about the game, it’s about what you learn from it. We looked at each other and decided that we could do this but it’s going to take a lot from everybody and not just one individual. We just kept on going.

At Penn State, I sprained my MCL (medial collateral ligament). I didn’t play very well. Fortunately for our defense held their own and held them to 17 points in the second half. We then came out as an offense. I looked at Taylor Decker, our left tackle over there on the end, and said let’s go get in the end zone, just taking it one step at a time.

I think that was a big thing for our season, we didn’t try to get everything all at once. We didn’t try to look too far ahead. We took it one game at a time, one play at a time, and knew that we were going to be alright. I don’t think a lot of people really thought we could have done what we did, but at Ohio State, we knew what we had and we just kept on going with that and just believing in each other and just taking it one step at a time.

It was a great run. Unfortunately, I got lost to the team up north. I tried to do the best I could as far as being a leader on the team and trying to encourage guys and making sure that everybody stayed focus and not trying to get too ahead of ourselves. We were still looking at the college football playoff and trying to get into that. Fortunately, it all worked out in the end.

It was crazy. This is why we came to Ohio State, definitely for sure.

Like I said, thank you for all of the things that you do for us as a football team. We definitely appreciate it.

Coach Fickell:

Next, Adolphus Washington, defensive tackle from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Washington:

Hi, how are you all doing? My reflection on the season is the brotherhood of trust. Going through all of the adversity, I think, brought us closer together.

When Braxton went down, as a defense, we knew that we had to play even better. Once JT went down, we knew we had to step it up even more. I just think the brotherhood of trust is what got us through the season to get to the National Championship to win, because when you have that fear of letting a person down next to you, you play even harder. It is not about yourself, it’s about not letting the person next to you down.

Coach Fickell:

Joshua Perry, linebacker from Olentangy, Ohio.

Mr. Perry:

It was a great season. I would like to say thank you to everybody for the support this year. I would say the big thing about this championship is that it has been life changing for us. You go out there and learn a lot throughout the year but you get closer to the people around you. Then, you come back here to Columbus and it’s a great place to be.

All of us, I think, are a little bit different people now, we’re a little bit changed. As a kid who grew up around here and has been here since he was eight years old, I’m really glad that we were able to bring the championship back to Columbus as a group.

Coach Fickell:

Offensive tackle, Taylor Decker from Vandalia, Ohio.

Mr. Decker:

First of all, thank you guys for having us here. I would like to reiterate some of the things that they already touched on.

You know this season, a lot of people counted us out. As it has been stated, we went through a lot of adversity. I think for a lot of guys on our team, we grew up in Ohio, we were from Ohio, we watched Ohio State growing up. I know when I got the opportunity to come play football here, it was like a dream come true. Over the last three years, I’ve tried to do everything I can and I know these guys have done everything we can in the off season to bring a championship back to Columbus. You know, it really is a dream come true and I think it’s still something that is surreal.

As Josh said, things are different around here right now and we’ve had this support all along the way. I definitely think this is something that’s not going to set in for a long time.

It was quite a journey. I think the biggest thing that I’m going to take away from it is not only how much I grew as an individual and a young man but how this team grew and how we came together. We were underdogs in a lot of games. Michigan State game, the Big Ten Championship, against Alabama and Oregon. Everybody was expecting us to lose. I think the family cohesiveness that we have and the love that we have for one another is what got us through and I think, that kind of reciprocates through all the support we’ve had from people like you and from all our fans and all our students.

Buckeye Nation as a whole is what brought this championship back to Columbus.

Mr. Smith:

I just want to close by mentioning these are all great students. They do great in the classroom but we do have an exemplar here that I thought that we should pay tribute to. Joshua is going to graduate in August, correct?

Mr. Perry:

Yes.

Mr. Smith:

He has another season of eligibility so he’ll be taking graduate classes like Darrell Baldwin did this past year and other athletes in the past. Graduating early and setting the standard, Joshua Perry.

John Glenn wants to say a few words.

Senator Glenn:

I want to say congratulations, number one, to all you guys for the great job you did this year. There is another aspect of this team that I think most people are not aware of.

I was talking last night to a good friend of ours from Cincinnati, Louis Beck, who I asked to come with us this morning and he had a little story he was telling me about this team last night that I think is also worthy of real note because it shows a lot of heart.

Louis, would your tell them what you were telling me last night.

Mr. Beck:

I’ll be brief, the real judge of one’s character and what they are made of is not what they do when the lights and the cameras are in front of them. It is what they do when nobody is really looking. We had an employee whose son is an athlete and had a serious heart issue. Members of the team found out about that, unsolicited went to the hospital, visited with him, gave him some souvenirs, and really made a difference in this kid’s life. I think it really speaks to the culture that you’ve all developed and we should be very proud of what we’ve got here.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

Dr. Wadsworth:

That's just fantastic; a very special moment for all of us. Thank you Josh, Taylor, Adolphus, and JT. Fantastic performance. Thank you Coach Fickell, thank you Gene Smith.

I think all of us felt we learned a lot from the performance this year. The way that people just stepped in. You didn’t miss a beat. It's a life lesson. It's not just a football lesson.

Dealing with adversity, dealing with things that you're not expecting to happen, people being able to just step up, a fantastic lesson for all of us. Thank you all very much on behalf of the trustees.

Now we will move on to recognize two more outstanding students who've also had a brilliant start to their careers. This is one of our favorite moments in the trustee meeting. Sometimes we forget that college life and graduate school have a lot of similarities to the football season. Overcoming adversity, preparing for big opportunities, and achieving more than any one thought possible. I will now call upon Steven Loborec to present the Student Recognition Awards. Steve.

STUDENT RECOGNITION AWARDS

Dr. Loborec:

I would ask now for Gwen and Brian to please join us here at the table.

The first student that we will be honoring today is Gwendolyn A. R. Donley. Gwen Donley graduated from Cleveland Heights High School in 2011 and is now an OSU Scholar with a double major in Anthropological Sciences and Italian with a minor in Neuropsychology. She absolutely loves learning and the research process. Last summer, she participated in a primate field study at the Maderas Rainforest Conservancy in Costa Rica.

Following that, she turned her attention to the bio-cultural interface in humans and is currently at work on a project examining interactions between the genome and physiological stress. She is combining data collected by Dr. Douglas Crews from the American Samoans with those data collected by Dr. Barbara Piperata on South Americans to do a cross-cultural analysis. These data will be used as the basis for her senior honors thesis.

The pilot study for this research was presented at the 2014 Denman Undergraduate Research Forum, where she received the first place award. In recognition of these accomplishments, she received the Outstanding Undergraduate Anthropology Award for 2013-2014. This award recognizes the leading undergraduate out of its 250 majors, representing the highest achievement for an undergraduate major in the Department of Anthropology.

Gwen serves as the President of the Undergraduate Anthropology Club, after having served previously as the club’s chair of physical anthropology and vice president. She is a founding member of the Medical Anthropology Club, and is laboratory assistant in the forensic anthropology laboratory, overseen by Dr. Jules Angel. She is also a member of the Italian Club and the OSU chapter of A Kid Again.

She is adored and respected by the faculty and by her peers, both as a leader and as a person. After graduation, she plans to either pursue a PhD in Biological Anthropology or a Master of Public Health and then a PhD.

Best of luck to you, Gwen, and congratulations.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

Ms. Donley:

Thank you so much for the introduction, I wasn’t actually expecting that. Thank you very much and thank you to everybody here. I cannot believe the gratitude that I have towards everybody here. The honor and respect that is going around this room and the pleasure that I have to be present here with members of our National Championship team, congratulations again. It's incredible. And also, of course, Senator John Glenn, it's an incredible honor to be here with all of you today. Thank you very much and I have never felt so inadequate in my life.

As members of our football team said, being at Ohio State is never about one person’s accomplishments. I know that both Brian and I could not be where we are today without the support of our entire Buckeye family.

I would especially want to thank my research mentor, Dr. Doug Crews whom Steven mentioned. Without his support every step along the way and every opportunity that he presented to me, I most certainly would not be here. The unbelievable support that is available to you at every turn from mentors, staff, friends, and family, everybody here is willing to support you and reach out to you to get you where you want to be.

It is truly about the entire buckeye community in everything that you do here. Thank you.

Dr. Loborec:

Next up is Byungdo Han, who also goes by Brian. Brian is a DDS/PhD student in the Comprehensive Training in Oral and Craniofacial Sciences program. At the age of 17, Brian traveled alone from Seoul, Korea, to the United States, determined to take advantage of the array of educational opportunities that are available in this country. Now in his seventh year of the dual degree program, Brian’s success as a researcher is evident as he works closely with Susan Mallery, Chair of the Division of Oral and Maxillofacial Pathology and Radiology.

While presenting his research at various conferences, Brian’s achievements have been recognized at local and national competitions. He won the third place prize in the basic science category of the ADA/DENTSPLY Student Clinician Research Competition at the 2014 Annual Meeting of the American Association for Dental Research. Following this achievement, he was selected as a finalist in the International Association for Dental Research Unilever Hatton Competition for 2015. He is also a co-author for three research papers and he is the first author on a manuscript being reviewed by the journal Cancer Research.

Along with his academic successes, Brian is known for his abilities as a leader. On a national level, he has served as the Regional Representative to the National Student Research Group of the American Association for Dental Research. He also served as the President and Treasurer of the College of Dentistry’s chapter of the National Student Research Group, and he is a Student Research Mentor for undergraduate students, dental students, and dental residents. Within the college clinic setting, he consistently demonstrates his dedication to the needs of his patients. As a husband and father of two young children, he is also known for his commitment to his family, his faith, and his impeccable moral standards. As a researcher-clinician, he has contributed significantly to making the College of Dentistry a better place to educate students, provide care for patients, and develop new knowledge that improves the oral health of Ohioans.

Congratulations Brian.
Mr. Han:

Thank you so much Dr. Loborec, and thank you to the Board of Trustees. Thank you everyone for being here. I am extremely humbled and honored to receive this Student Recognition Award.

I came to The Ohio State University after spending my first years in the United States at Bob Jones University. It’s a small Christian college that I first attended when I first came here in Greenville, South Carolina.

During the past seven years at the university, OSU has provided me with more than just education for my future career. I made life-long friends and matured as a person and of course became a fan of the best team in college football. Go Bucks!

I have created so many memories here that I'll cherish for the rest of my life and I am so grateful for that. Countless opportunities, one in particular, and Pelotonia represents one such powerful experience. I’ve participated in Pelotonia for the past four years and it’s been an amazing experience that I will never forget. The amount of people that I came across, the countless hours that I spent on riding and organizing as a team captain this year; the event provided me the impetus to continue my research in cancer biology.

Of course, I owe all my success to the people that I love and the people that have sacrificed their lives to make my progress possible and pursue my dreams.

First I’d like to thank Dean Lloyd for his tireless work for our college and his dedication and his incredible care for his students. I would also like to thank my mentor Dr. Mallory who has been my role model, my greatest advocate, and my third parent.

Finally, I have two ladies that I dearly love, my mom for her incredible faith and unceasing prayers for me and Heather, my wife, who is the love of my life and for her unyielding devotion and love for me. They bring out the best of me and my life would not be complete without them.

I’m very proud to be a Buckeye and it is your contribution and work that make The Ohio State University an outstanding institution. Thank you and I greatly appreciate it.

RECOGNITION OF SENATOR JOHN GLENN

Dr. Wadsworth:

I would like to take a moment to again congratulate the students receiving recognition today. Seeing remarkable students like yourselves is a reminder to all of us why we’re here. Thank you.

Now, in the third installment, before we go to our regular business, we’re going to recognize two more individuals who are truly national heroes. While our students are just beginning their career, these two individuals are mid-career. This is a pair who has also overcome adversity, prepared well for big opportunities, and achieved more than I suspect they ever thought possible.

It is always a wonderful opportunity to hear from and to talk with John Glenn and Annie. We had an opportunity last night. They are a truly remarkable couple.

We are going to show a video and then John and Annie will come to the table and we’ll say a few words and then hear from them.

(Video)

Mrs. Glenn:

Seeing that last picture, I’d like to know where in the world he was going into that.

Dr. Wadsworth:

I don’t know how to follow a video like that. It is fantastic to welcome you both. In our agenda today, we will be establishing the Glenn College of Public Affairs.

Over the past several years, we’ve come to know first the Glenn Institute and then the Glenn School but today it becomes a College. We are a College.

Senator Glenn told us last night about the motto of the Glenn School which he repeated here: "Inspiring citizenship, developing leadership." These words serve as a call to action, not only to a generation of students but to all of us that have been inspired by your actions. With Senator Glenn’s steadfast support and vision, the Glenn College has enriched the academic quality of this institution. Today we celebrate you, Senator Glenn and your wife Annie, and the move of the Glenn School to a College. This is recognition of the importance of the work done at the Glenn College. Your service has been unwavering, I thank you, we thank you, and for all that you’ve done for this university, for the State of Ohio and for the nation. Thank you.

Senator Glenn:

Thank you very much. Annie and I have talked about this a little bit and the thing that really impresses us and impresses me, important as it is and as much as I appreciate it, is not just having my name connected with a college; although that’s an honor I never could have envisioned having it. It is one of the highest you can have because it involves a future and educating our younger people.

Important as that may be in the background, the important thing is looking forward, is setting up conditions so that more and more of our young people can participate in this unique form of government we have in this country. We really are unique and we’re a work in progress, still. The future of our nation is going to come as some of our best and brightest young people, which are so impressive on campus here today, also taking an interest in that, a special interest.

An interest that every citizen should have but you need leaders in that area also to make sure that this country goes the direction we all want it to go in the future. And heaven knows we have enough problems in the world right now.

While we’re proud to have our name connected with this college, the main thing is that becoming a college opens up many possibilities of other things that we can do and broadens the scope of things from the days when we were, and Herb Asher back here behind me, was heading this up in one room in the ground floor level of Bricker Hall, and how far we’ve come since then but I think that is only the beginning. This elevation to a college is indeed one that opens up new possibilities and new avenues that we hope can lead the way in some of the inspiration for our young people for the future.

I know that you’re exhibiting a level of confidence in us in your vote today. I am sure our Director, Trevor Brown, and the faculty and the people that are already in place and what we can see coming as the future activities of this college will confirm your judgment that this was deserved.

Thank you all very much for your action and we look forward to working with you in the future. Thank you.
Mrs. Glenn:

I would like to add one more please. Somebody I know who is watching this and hearing one of your students, he’s going to be a dentist. I know my dad is up there watching this. He got his dental degree way back in 1920 from Ohio State University. He was so proud of that. I have got to meet this fella. He’s at a wonderful place.

My mother and dad moved down, and I was born here. When my mother died, I went through all of her things and she had a picture of the seniors graduating. They were all in their white outfits. I gave that to the dental school here.

This place means a lot to me and John is thrilled. It is a good group, it’s a good school and we are going to have lots of good things to our kids. Our family is thrilled.

Thank you very much.

Dr. Wadsworth:

I know that President Drake has some comments he is going to make in his address but at this time, there are so many wonderful stories about Senator Glenn and Annie that I do want to open it up for any trustee who would like to make a comment.

I’ll just say on my own that we had a chance with the two student trustees last night to spend 10 or 15 minutes with Senator Glenn. He gave us a hair raising account of how he flew through an electric storm without radar. I think we’ll all remember that for the rest of our lives.

Senator Glenn:

I didn’t mean to scare everybody out of aircrafts.

Dr. Wadsworth:

It was a fantastic account. To think that we have this man in front of us is very special.

Let me open up the floor for anyone who would like to make a comment. Everyone is intimidated. Yes, thank you, Steve.

Dr. Loborec:

Senator Glenn I am so happy that you and your wife Annie are here today. The evening last night that you spent with us really was special. I appreciate the time you both took out of your schedules to talk with us and meet with us. Your dedication to this university and the college is really unmatched. We are so proud to have you as an Ohioan and as a friend of this university. Thank you.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Very good. Judge.

Judge Marbley:

Yes, I’m particularly honored to be here with you and Annie today, Senator. I had the pleasure to serve on the Glenn School Advisory Board when it was the Glenn School. Even as importantly, Senator Glenn nominated me for my position on the Federal Court. He did it, I believe in the most unbiased way. He didn't look at our political record saying anything like that and the commission that he put together has been an exemplar for judicial nominations throughout the 50 states.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

The fact that we are naming a college after you, comes as no surprise, given your exemplary record. We hope that we can honor your name in the work that we continue to do at this great university.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Judge. Yes, Gil Cloyd.

Dr. Cloyd:

Yes, thank you. Senator Glenn, when you decided to take on this aspect in your career, that is becoming proactive in higher education, I’m sure you could have gone to any university in the nation and they would have been proud to have a national hero and a citizen that you have been in the country, come to their university and help them start the kind of program you did here with the institute. We at Ohio State are very blessed that you chose Ohio State to come forward.

Many people of prominence associate with university; they'll have their name associated with something in the university and that is wonderful. But from the start of the institute, you have been proactive on a mission. A mission that is going to serve young people, very well in their education and ultimately I believe too, the confidence that you have as well stated, these people will have a positive impact on the state of Ohio and our nation.

Again, that has been a blessing to us. It’s not only that we have one of our country's greatest national heroes associated with one of our colleges, we also have had that national hero's passion, dedication, and hard work to drive a mission forward that’s going to make this a greater university and make this a greater country. Thank you.

Senator Glenn:

Thank you very much.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Very well said, Gil. Brent.

Mr. Porteus:

Senator this is especially gratifying to for me to sit in this position. I grew up about 12 miles from New Concord in the neighboring school district. I got to play basketball in John Glenn High School when we competed against New Concord. I spent a lot of years coming to your office as a U.S. Senator after growing up.

Being born in 1956 I grew up in your career; from your space travel, to all the things you did in the U.S. Senate, and then to be able to be part of this event, to raise your school to a college. All of us need a leader. All of us need that hero. Whether you’re young and need a hero or as we get to later stages in our life when we need that person who is that inspiration to our public service. You have definitely been that and your leadership here is exemplary of that and we want to say thank you.

Senator Glenn:

Thank you.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Dr. Reid.

Dr. Reid:

At our national championship game, I bought my granddaughter's third space suit. She has been wearing them since she was two years old. And she's outgrown two and now she's on her third. Because of you, sir, I do believe that one day she will dawn a real one and I thank you.

Senator Glenn:

Good for her. Maybe we will welcome her back from Mars someday.

Mr. Fischer:

Senator and Mrs. Glenn there is no more enthusiastic vote that I think any of us will take than the vote that we'll take in a few moments, to move this to a college status. On behalf of a grateful state obviously, but a city, I run the Columbus Partnership. What many don't know is that we certainly know your service to the nation, we know your service to the world, and we know both of your service to this university, but every single day you're also waking up in our city. You're helping us to make it better in all sorts of ways. You remain very active and you are our first family of Columbus and of Ohio. We are indebted for everything that you've done, but candidly, the continued impact in big ways and little ways that you're having in our community, this university, and our country. With indebtedness, thank you.

Dr. Wadsworth:

With that, let me say again, Senator and Mrs. Glenn, thank you both for all that you have done for us.

Senator Glenn:

Thank you. I think we ought to finish with O-H-I-O!

Dr. Wadsworth:

Well I can’t imagine a better illustration of what this university is about than to have celebrated a national championship, two brilliant young students, and Senator and Annie Glenn. That is what this university is about, those are the values we care about. Thanks to all of you.

The first order of business is the minutes of the November meeting of the Board of Trustees which are distributed to all members of the Board. If there are no additions or corrections, the minutes are approved as distributed. No vote is needed.

Mr. President. We now turn to your report. Thank you.

President Drake:

Thank you very much. What a wonderful way to begin a day by being able to talk about heroes and champions. The champions are going back to class, see you guys later.

I would like to add my voice to the chorus of praise this morning for John and Annie Glenn who really embody the essence of what it means to be a buckeye, actually what it means to be an American, what it means to be exemplary human beings.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

The John Glenn School, under consideration today to be become the John Glenn College of Public Affairs maintains an important mission to inspire citizenship and develop leadership. It says that it is under consideration today, I think that one could lay good odds that this will be successful in a few moments.

In that same vain though there are few figures in our nation’s history who demonstrate John Glenn’s commitment to citizen leadership. His dedication to public service is profound; the military, as we heard and saw, one of our nation’s first astronauts, a long serving U.S. Senator, and finally as a great friend to this university. We were hearing everyone share the stories they have of John Glenn as someone growing up in that age. People were speaking, Alex spoke of what he meant to Columbus, and Brent was speaking of what the senator meant to Ohio. I was in California and I'll say that I, like hundreds of millions of Americans and actually billions of people around the world, were inspired in the same way. Personally, the potential was for the United States to be able to do that magnificent science and courage were coming together. It also showed the world what was possible, what we could all do as people when we put our best efforts forward and work together as a team to do something.

It is amazing and humbling and awe-inspiring to imagine the number of people whose spirits you lifted and the number of people who you allowed to look further down the road and to try to do a little more with their lives in every corner of this nation and all around the world. After doing that, to continue to do that in so many ways, and serving all the way through these days now when you’re still so active at the college and the school. It has been a wonderful lesson and something we can all look up to.

I’ll say about Mrs. Glenn, about Annie, that the importance of partnership and to know that the support was there for you to take those steps forward. That you had a heart to kind of underlying all of the things that were happening. Then to see the two of you being supportive for all of these decades is another lesson for us all and something that really touches our hearts and inspires us. Everyone here is honored and privileged to bask in your glow for these few moments and to thank you so much for what you have done and what you continue to do. And as the chairman said, what you will do for the next half of our career which we look forward to with great anticipation. Thank you very much.

Let me say that our team was here today and we saw traits in abundance with the football team. This is my rookie season with the buckeyes. I had a chance to meet with the team a bit in practice at the very beginning of the year. To have a chance to chat a bit about the kinds of things that were possible when one works together and when everyone is supporting each other. I would say these things normally to teams and it felt good to say those things out there in August.

I also spoke about the legacy of a champion and I mentioned to them the great legacy of a champion. My father was the captain of a national champion football team. I have his trophy hanging on the wall of my office. It’s a little smaller than this one back from 1934 but how when you are able to achieve something like that, it’s great for the moment but it is also great as an inspiration, all the way for your life going forward, and inspires families and inspires colleagues. It shows people what is possible. It was nice to have that chat with the team and then to watch them actually do it, I think it was as JT said, it came a little more quickly than we would have dared hope but not more quickly than we believed was possible. I think we all saw many things with them that again showed us what was possible and what we could do by working together.

I will say as a momentary aside, JT spoke today about the Penn State game and about how he looked at one of the offensive linemen when they were going into overtime and said, we need to do something special to make this happen. Watching, I remember that JT was a little nicked and was about a step slow and that that was a worry for us. The places where he would have taken an extra step for the first down, he was getting tackled. We were in the overtime, I think, because of his mild knee injury. But then in the overtime, if you remember back to that, he actually stepped up another level and what you saw, I think, was a hero, was a real leader saying, I’m going to take this on my back and make sure that we win this game. I felt that I saw him. I don’t mean me as an individual, but you could see him performing that way. It was great to hear him say that he looked one of his teammates in the eye and said, we gotta get in charge of things and take it forward. You can see what that is actually able to do. That is another example of leadership, of dedication, of focus, and again, we are all basking in the glow of the success that we are able to see.

Then we have our students, our student awardees who are representative of so many students on our campus, actually tens of thousands of students who are, everyday, making themselves a little bit better, doing a little more to be able to prepare themselves to go out and be great citizens in the world and to pay it forward. It is great to begin our meeting today by celebrating many people and such great achievements and a privilege for us as I said.

We had a great celebration last Saturday in the Shoe, with 45,000 fans. As we said there were more fans in attendance there than most teams get for their games. We were proud of that, I think there were actually more fans in attendance than there were for the PAC-12 championship game. We had a great celebratory audience there and I think that Buckeye Nation traveled well for those who watched or were present at the game. All the games were home games to us and it was a great thing to see. I think that our team was able to perform especially well because of the great support that everyone here and across buckeye nation brought to them.

We’re successful in outer space, we’re successful on the field, but we’re also successful on the campus. There are a few things just to mention that happened this fall. We once again welcomed the most talented academic class in our history, we successfully recruited a new CEO of the Wexner Medical Center and Executive Vice President of Health Sciences, Dr. Sheldon Retchin, who spent time with us yesterday and who will be joining us here in a month. Business Insider ranks us number 11 on its recent lists of the smartest public colleges in America, top 10 seems just around the corner, that’s great. Also very importantly, we continue to move up on Kiplinger’s Annual Best Value Colleges Ranking. We’re number 15 among public universities, we were 37, 26, and now 15 and moving up. That is very important for us. According to U.S. News and World Report Best Online Programs, we were number 124 a bit ago, we moved up to number eight in that category for our national online undergraduate program. Real progress across the board in so many ways.

Academic excellence receives generous support from many alumni and friends who are champions at giving to the Ohio State University. In the days leading up to our National Championship, our advancement team engaged Oregon in a Bucks versus Ducks giving challenge. Ohio State won handily, by about the same ratio as we won the football game. We had 1,027 donations to their 577. We tried to make this not about how much you gave but how many people gave. We are also proud that we raised over $100,000, the bulk of which will go to need-based scholarships for our undergraduate students. We are very excited about that. These were humbling measures of the buckeye love that surrounds us.

On the subject of giving I want to mention again that the Transfigurations: Modern Masters from the Wexner Family Collection set an all-time attendance record at the Wex. We brought in nearly 120,000 visitors to the galleries this fall; Annie Leibovitz, and Andy Warhol’s shows that was great. We had more than 130,000 visits to the exhibitions webpages. Once again, thanks to Les and Abigail. I’ve said in your presence and absence, I know the real care and attention that you put into assembling this collection over many decades. All of us, when we leave the house, we would take the kids and the photos, you’d have a lot of precious things to carry out of the house. To take your most precious possessions and to put them on loan for the entire community to benefit from is as generous a gift as I can imagine. The fact that 100,000 people benefitted from that is something that is really quite gratifying, so thank you very much.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

As our alumni and friends support our work, we as a land grant university also strive to pay forward and be champions in our communities. Last year our students performed more than 1.1 million hours of community service. Before the Sugar Bowl and National Championship games we had the chance to join students, faculty, staff, alumni, parents, and volunteers to do community service projects. Both of those were wonderful. We built a community garden, a food garden in the lower 9th ward, an area devastated by Hurricane Katrina and still not recovered amazingly all these years later but something that will stand permanently for quite a while. Then we went on to Dallas to work at a Community Storehouse in Texas to sort clothes and stockpile food. One of the things that I noticed as I was leaving, when we looked at the group of people working on the farm project, on the urban garden project, you couldn’t tell if the person working was a student, a parent, a trustee, a volunteer; everyone was working vertically together as a group trying to do something to pay some benefit forward.

Very nicely at the game the next week in Dallas, before then we were doing the sorting and the food warehouse, you couldn’t tell the position that a person had in a university or actually which university the person was from. People worked together in spontaneous teams of Ducks and Buckeyes all working together to do something for the community.

There was a bit of singing. I think Dr. J here, they were playing some songs from the 60s and people were singing together and there were spontaneous groups that were forming that were made up people from both universities in different positions. It was really nice to see that happen. Oregon’s president, prior to the event, said that at the Rose Bowl in 2010 we had organized a public service event and invited the Ducks to participate. They participated there and then made it their tradition at every one of their bowl games to do a public service event and invite whoever their opponent was. I think that is a very good thing to do. We love to work other teams before the game. We love to give them a good thrashing after, and leave them with a couple of lessons: one, what they need to do to be a better football team and what they can do to be better public servants. I think we are able to do those two things very nicely.

I’ll say something else too that’s nice. In lieu of a bet, President Coltrane from Oregon and I agreed that we would exchange trees. We will make a gift of a buckeye tree to them that they will plant and they’ll give us a fir tree that we will plant here in the spring. Our buckeye tree will be next to the very large Buckeye tree that they have growing outside their School of Business from our defeat of them in the 1958 Rose Bowl. It will now have a family member tree. After a while we will have a nice buckeye forest, one step at a time.

Let me say that next week, over 4,000 of our students will be at it again this time participating in the 24-hour Buckeyethon Dance Marathon to raise money for the young patients at Nationwide Children’s Hospital.

Last month, The Ohio State University, among others, received a $16.5 million grant to establish an early Head Start childcare program. This is a city wide partnership that will ensure that kids in Columbus from infancy to three years of age receive a healthy start in life.

Our commitment to service isn’t limited to communities in the United States. Earlier this week, our Ethiopia One Health initiative was selected to receive a national award for its work to improve health and build capacity in Sub-Saharan Africa. Our College of Engineering’s new Humanitarian Engineering Center is creating solutions for impoverished communities at home and abroad.

For all of these efforts, we are thrilled to have our own Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching 2015 Community Engagement Classification to honor The Ohio State University’s extensive support of high impact community involvement.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

Finally, we’re also champions in research from pushing the frontiers of medicine to creating more efficient vehicles. In December, the National Science Foundation renewed an $18 million grant to continue funding broad impact science at our Center for Emerging Materials (CEM). Only 12 such centers received funding including those at prestigious or private institutions; Princeton, Harvard, et cetera. They and we are all in good company. Eleven Ohio companies have already benefitted directly from the centers cutting edge research tools.

As evidenced by the recent transformation at the new James, we know how important it is to provide our world class research talent with world class facilities. To that end we are celebrating the opening of our new Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering and Chemistry building, a mouthful, which will be called the CBEC. It is the first of its kind collaboration between two colleges. CBEC epitomizes the principles of the “One University” framework with our academic mission driving the development of our physical world. CBEC also demonstrates how thoughtful planning can benefit our students, our faculty, and our research. At the official unveiling in April, we look forward to highlighting how CBEC will advance our work from cutting edge research with grand societal impact to preparing students for high tech jobs. The disciplines housed in CBEC are crucial to our discovery themes, which we continue to develop in new innovative ways.

Earlier this month, I attended Ohio State’s first Health Sciences Innovation Conference in Mumbai, India. While there, I signed a memorandum of understanding with IIT Bombay, one of India’s premiere engineering institutions. IIT has an acceptance rate of roughly 1%; it is an extraordinarily selective institution. Our partnership with them will focus on developing materials for a sustainable world and solar energy, advance materials, and bioengineering. Creating partnerships like this will greatly enhance our discovery themes as well as provide opportunities for our students to connect with the world beyond Ohio State.

As you heard during the Academic Affairs committee meeting yesterday, we are preparing our students to live and work in an increasingly global society. At Ohio State, 2,000 students a year study abroad; we have about 600 foreign language courses offered; and 800 courses with international content. We serve as the lead administrator of a half million dollar passport to India initiative to increase the number of American students studying and interning in India.

Last week, I had the opportunity to visit the State of the Union address as a guest of Senator Rob Portman. This was a wonderful invitation and a chance to represent our institution. I had a great privilege to be in the Senate dining room with your successors Senator Glenn, a whole series of your colleagues, and it was nice and intimate as a small gathering; people were chatting. One of the Senators from the Southeast conference came and was interested in talking about football. He said something very nice. He congratulated the team in victory and said everyone was proud to see what they had done. Then he said “that Ezekiel Elliot, what an incredible player he is.” I said, “we have a lot of incredible players but Ezekiel Elliot is also a great player.” He asked what kind of a young man he is. I was able to proudly say that I know him, I’ve met him, and I know his parents. He is a fine young man with parents who love and support him.

What a great thing it is that people look at our team and what’s happening and what they’re doing on the field, but there really is a great concern about what they’re like as people and how proud we are that there are such fine young men doing such good things. They are scholar athletes, like the ones that we met here today. Ezekiel Elliot is an All-Big Ten Scholar Athlete, as were four of his offensive linemen. It was a great thing to be able to share that aspect of our team as well.

I want to acknowledge a couple of other things. This is Judge Marbley’s last meeting as a member of the Board of Trustees. We will celebrate his many contributions to the Board at our meeting in April. I want to take a moment to recognize your great work the past eight years, Judge, and thank you here today.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

As you also know, there have been some transitions in our senior leadership. Dr. Steven Gabbe, the CEO of the Wexner Medical Center and Professor Herb Asher, Senior Vice President for Government Affairs are stepping down from their current posts to return to the faculty. In the coming months, we'll celebrate their many contributions to Ohio State. In the meantime, I want to publically acknowledge their wonderful work. We would not be where we are today without their work.

Before the two of you stand for applause, let me just say one quick thing about Steve Gabbe and another great achievement for our medical center. We had our Wexner Medical Center Board meetings a couple of days ago. We were looking at many of the achievements of the Wexner Medical Center, including looking at more than 120 large level one trauma centers in the United States. There are 120 of these. The Ohio State University ranks number one nationally in mortality; more lives saved per patient admissions at our level one trauma center than any other one in the United States. What a great achievement that actually is, Dr. Gabbe and the Wexner Medical Center. Steve maybe you can stand for that. Thank you.

Herb, after 44 years to date and counting, of service to us and to higher education. Among your greatest contributions, was being the director of the Glenn Institute early on and helping to sow the seeds of what grew into what we will be proudly acknowledging as a college later on this morning. Herb, thank you so much, congratulations for all you've done. Please stand for just a moment if you will.

I'm having a bit of deja vu today. Exactly a year ago today, I attended my first Board of Trustees meeting where I was announced as the 15th President. Brenda and I left California and flew into a polar vortex and had a wonderful day. I would just like to say, for the record, not for a particular attribution, I want to really acknowledge the hundreds of hours of dedicated service that Brenda has given to this community and to the university. Things that are unseen, that work when she visits the schools and colleges, things that she's done. We have hosted hundreds and hundreds of people at the Pizzuti House. She travels throughout the community, representing the university.

She has also been a leader nationally. She is on the executive board of the partners of the AAU (Association of American Universities) for many years. She is known and respected there as one of the senior and most influential partners in the AAU. She does a lot of work that I see and I just want to take a moment on the record to acknowledge her dedication and support. Her service and support of me personally is something that I appreciate in every second of every minute but her support for the university is something that I would like to take a moment to acknowledge. She has worked hard to be the best buckeye possible this last year and I'd just like to thank her for that.

And finally, I'd just like to say that again, thinking of the people, the programs, and the successes that we have been able to acknowledge this morning, things that make us all proud to have any small part in these things or to be able to get into bask in the glory is a great life privilege and I appreciate it more than I can say.

Great to see all of you today. Go Bucks!

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you President Drake.

At this time we move into our committee reports. We will start off today with Abigail Wexner on the Wexner Medical Center Board update.

Mrs. Wexner:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Wexner Medical Center Board has met twice since the last meeting of the Board of Trustees. I will give a brief update on both of those meetings.

The Board met on December 12. At that time, Dr. Gabbe gave an update regarding the medical center initiatives and Mr. Geier gave a report regarding the medical center financials. I’d like to note that on the day of our meeting, that was the day patients were being transferred into the new James hospital and by all accounts this was an amazing feat of coordination that required literally hundreds of volunteers. It was an emotional day, I know for all of the staff, all of the doctors, all of the patients, and really could not have gone better. We are very grateful for that transition.

Dr. Susan Moffatt-Bruce, the Chief Quality Officer, then presented the Clinical Quality Management, Patient Safety and Service Plan to the board. This is a fully integrated quality plan which brings all of our hospitals together under one plan. This item was approved by the Board.

The James Hope Awards were then presented by Dr. Caligiuri. The James Hope Award is presented annually to individuals or organizations which have made noteworthy contributions to improve cancer healthcare access, patient care, research, and education for the citizens of Ohio and beyond. The recipients of the 2014 James Hope Awards were Senator Scott Oelslager and Mr. Bob Massie. Again, this was a very emotional and gratifying award ceremony.

The board then met in executive session.

The Wexner Medical Center Board also met on January 28. Dr. Gabbe gave his CEO update where he reviewed the Wexner Medical Center’s initiatives scorecard. Overall the scorecard was positive but we are watching several areas. Those include total NIH awards, development dollars, and overall patient satisfaction.

Mr. Geier gave an update on the operating and financial highlights through December 31 for the health system. Inpatient admissions, total surgeries, and outpatient visits are all exceeding budget and prior year numbers. We are watching several of these metrics very closely now that the new hospital is open and patients have moved into that new facility.

Dr. Gabbe then presented the trauma verification resolution to the board. In order for our trauma center to apply for a level 1 trauma verification by the American College of Surgeons, the board must endorse this resolution. Again, as Dr. Drake mentioned, there are over 100 hospitals in the United States which are verified as level 1 trauma centers. We were incredibly pleased to learn that the OSU trauma center again is national champions ranked number one. That’s really tremendous recognition for the incredible hard work that our doctors and staff perform.

We then reviewed and approved two resolutions which we are recommending to the full board for approval. They are the Upper Arlington Ambulatory Center and the Brain and Spine Hospital. Both resolutions are on the consent agenda and were also reviewed by the Board of Trustees Finance Committee.

We then met in executive session and that concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you, thank you very much. Any questions or comments? If not, the next report is from our Advancement Committee, Dr. Reid.
Dr. Reid:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Advancement Committee met yesterday and we began with several items for action.

Mr. Eicher, Mr. Monda and Dr. Wampler provided the University Foundation Report. As Dr. Drake has cited, the Bucks vs. Ducks Giving Challenge was quite another victory for us. I also want to note that the concept of a giving challenge is something which originated from our university and has been cited in several development publications as being effective and unique.

As it relates to fundraising activity, at the conclusion of the first six months of Fiscal Year 2015, the university documented $175.3 million in new gift activity. This amount was $23.7 million less than the documented total of $199 million for the same time period in Fiscal Year 2014, however we worry not about that.

The development office, in partnership with Advancement IT, will be launching a new dashboard tool next month that will enable a quick, high-level review and analysis of fundraising progress to help ensure that we are making appropriate progress toward our fundraising goals. Submitted for approval with this University Foundation Report is the establishment or revision of endowments totaling over $10.5 million.

Mr. Ripple then presented the namings and the distinguished service awards to the committee. The namings relate to the North Campus Residential District and internal spaces within the new James and the new Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering and Chemistry Building.

The committee is recommending that Distinguished Service Awards be presented to the following individuals: Jameson “Jim” Crane Sr., Mabel G. Freeman, Stephanie A. Hightower, Robert C. “Bob” Hummel, Christian K. “Chris” Zacher, and Nancy L. Zimpher.

These resolutions were passed by the Advancement Committee and are included in the consent agenda today.

Mr. Ito then provided an overview of the Bill and Susan Lhota Office of Alumni Career Management which was launched in August 2012. This office creates value by providing service for Ohio State alumni to aid them in their career path and service to employers who know we can provide quality candidates.

Mr. Eicher then provided an update on the Advancement Scorecard. Overall the scorecard is green. Overall event attendance has significantly surpassed where we were this time last year and we are certain to reach our goal for 2015. We are seeing that our overall Net Promoter Score this year, at 63, is lower than this time last year when it was 79. The primary reason for this decrease to an increase in the number of “major events” we execute. Major events are events that are attended by large numbers and what we’re finding is that the smaller more intimate gatherings are the ones that have higher scores.

Our Key Media Quality score through December is 453,500. This is almost more than double the 218,400 that we received at a similar time. As a reminder, this score is a cumulative measure of media coverage nationally, combining reach and positive sentiment. Overall our positive score is slightly ahead of projected progress.

Finally, Dr. Fincher and Ms. Schmied presented an update on the Buckeye Room. The Buckeye Room is off to a very promising start with over 7,000 members in just over 4 months. The update included how far we have come with the Buckeye Room, who is in the Buckeye Room, and an overview of key data we are gathering to learn from our alumni community’s perceptions, needs, and behaviors.

The committee then met in executive session. That concludes my report Mr. Chairman.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much, Dr. Reid. Any questions?

The third report is going to be presented by Mr. Gasser, Audit and Compliance.

Mr. Gasser:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Audit and Compliance Committee met yesterday. Mr. Jurgensen could not be there so I pitched in for him, thus I am giving the report on his behalf today.

The first item for discussion was an update from our external audit partner, Ms. Krista Dewire from PwC, regarding the current status of the deliverables from our fiscal year 2014 audit. There have been no changes overall since our last committee meeting and, I am pleased to report that in December, the A-133 compliance report over federal expenditures was issued with no reportable findings. It is always good when your external auditor says there is no news. That is always a good sign.

Dr. Wadsworth:

We understand.

Mr. Gasser:

Next, Mr. Chris Culley and Mr. Gates Garrity-Rokous provided the committee with an update on the university’s compliance and integrity program. Mr. Culley began with an update on the Governance Committee’s review and approval of a Statement of Ethical Conduct and Leadership Integrity.

Mr. Garrity-Rokous then provided an update on the university’s compliance efforts and the new administrative training system. He then provided a brief update on the status of the Title IX Office of Civil Rights resolution agreement process and the internal focus on the Clery Act.

Finally, Mr. Kevin Patton presented the Guidelines for the Audit and Compliance Committee and the Charter for the Internal Audit Department to the committee for approval. These documents, which outline the purpose and responsibilities for this committee and the Department of Internal Audit, were reviewed at our November meeting. During the meeting, the committee amended the composition section of the Guidelines for the Audit and Compliance Committee to note the inclusion of community members on the committee and to acknowledge that the graduate student trustee on the board may be a graduate or a professional student.

Amended versions of the guidelines are at everyone’s seat and are available to the public. Both resolutions were then approved by the committee and are being recommended to the full board for approval.

The committee then met in executive session. Mr. Chairman that concludes my report.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much Mr. Gasser. Are there any questions?

If not, I will call on Mrs. Kass to summarize the Academic Affairs and Student Life Committee report.
Mrs. Kass:

The Academic Affairs and Student Life Committee met yesterday. Our meeting began with a review and endorsement of a number of resolutions. These include: Amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty, Personnel Actions, and the awarding of an Honorary Degree. Mr. Chairman, the committee is especially proud to also endorse the establishment of the John Glenn College of Public Affairs. These four resolutions are on the consent agenda for approval by the full board.

We then discussed the Academic Initiatives Scorecard. Overall, the scorecard is solid. We have made outstanding progress in several areas. In the area of eLearning, all metrics meet or exceed our goals and we are continuing to make progress. In the access/affordability/excellence measures, those are specifically scholarships, financial aid and graduation rates, the metrics again meet goals and are trending in the right direction.

We are watching several metrics on the scorecard: the U.S. News and World Report Ranking of America's Best Colleges, the Number of Graduate and Professional Programs in the Top 25, research expenditures, and the number of tenure track faculty.

The committee then heard a presentation from Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston and Dr. William Brustein regarding what Ohio State is doing to prepare students for citizenship in a diverse world. Dr. J. noted that as a land-grant and global university, it is Ohio State’s responsibility to ensure that our students are prepared for citizenship in a world that is increasingly interconnected. To that end, Ohio State offers a broad range of experiences to provide students with opportunities to learn about, give back to, and celebrate a diverse world. Community service, as President Drake said in his remarks, is a value at this university.

These offerings range from immersion programs created for smaller cohorts of students who desire a longer-term, more intense experience, to one-day or even one-hour workshops. This large portfolio allows for a wide array of learning outcomes that students can find meaningful at an individual level.

We heard from Senior Alisha Williams, a sociology and pre-med major from Canton, Ohio, who shared her student experience in a program called Buck-I-SERV, where she lead eight students to Cape Town, South Africa to serve the local community. She characterized her travel as life changing.

The goal is to create a campus environment with a consistent theme of global understanding and appreciation. Many students who serve in “front line” roles for the university, such as Resident Advisors, Community Ambassadors and Commuter Liaisons, are required to complete diversity training. Other student opportunities that were highlighted in the presentation were local service projects and mentoring experiences.

I do want to highlight, as did President Drake a few moments ago, the BuckeyeThon. This is the largest student led philanthropy program that raises money through a dance marathon for cancer research. Last year, the group raised almost $800,000. This year, their goal is to raise $1 million. There will be 5,200 students participating this year.

The committee also learned that Ohio State features a strong study abroad program that is currently ranked 7th in the nation for student participation compared to total enrollment. Ohio State’s study abroad program offers more than 150 programs across seven continents. Ohio State’s goal is to graduate globally competent students and offers the breadth and depth of opportunities to our students to reach that goal.

The committee then met in executive session. That concludes my report Mr. Chairman.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much Mrs. Kass.

Are there any questions? If not, we will go back to Mr. Gasser, who has a two-time appearance today. This time it is with the Finance Committee.

Mr. Gasser:

This is the exciting committee.

The Finance committee met yesterday, Mr. Chairman, and covered numerous items. In the interest of time, I will keep my summary as concise as possible.

During the meeting, six items were presented for discussion.

Mr. Chatas presented the Consolidated Financial Scorecards through December 31, 2014 and the Fiscal Year 2015 Interim Financial Report through November 30, 2014 stating the university and Wexner Medical Center are overall financially on budget, which is very good news. The Consolidated Financial Scorecard also has all metrics listed as exceeding goals through the first six months. This is very positive.

The Physical Environment Scorecard was then reviewed by Mr. Kasey, who briefly discussed those items coded yellow including Facilities Condition Index and CABS Riders and the one metric coded red, the Wexner Medical Center parking garage occupancy rate. They do not believe it will stay red for very long.

Ms. Readey then reviewed the Construction Project Status Report with the committee where it was noted most major projects are rated green on the report as On Time and On Budget to date.

Mr. Riggs then provided an Affinity Partnership update to the board. This included the purpose of affinity partnerships and a review of the major partnerships currently in place: Coke, Huntington, J. America/Lids, and Nationwide. The net benefit of these partnerships includes $20 million per year to support the university, over 60 internships for students, and $100 million for University District loans/investments.

Finally, Mr. Myers presented on the Faculty and Staff University District Homeownership Incentive Program. The program was started in 1998 with a $500,000 commitment, granting down payment assistance to employees who purchased homes in the University District. There is still a cash balance in this program, so it has been decided to increase the down payment amount from $3,000 to $6,000 to garner interest in this district. When the money is gone, then it is gone. There will be no more money added to this program.

The Finance Committee additionally discussed 4 items for action. I will briefly review these resolutions.

Mr. Myers first presented on a joint use agreement between The Ohio State University and LifeCare Alliance, an Ohio nonprofit agency. The purpose is to document the value and permit the release of $1.5 million appropriated in the State Capital Bill for improvements to their facilities on West Mound Street in Columbus. The building improvements will promote the university’s mission to advance the well-being of the people of Ohio and the global community through the dissemination of knowledge.

Ms. Readey presented on professional services and construction contracts. The projects that require approval, as Mrs. Wexner talked about, are the Brain and Spine Institute, Elevator Repairs and Replacements, Arts District Master Plan, and School of Music, and Framework Plan Update.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

Mr. Chatas presented on the approval of Electronic Signature Rules. Due to recent state legislation, we, and other state universities, have a one-time opportunity to pursue the use of electronic signature under our own rules. This will save staff time and increase efficiency. Before the university can submit the proposed rules, they must be approved by the Board.

Finally, Mr. Kasey presented a lease agreement with Medstone Realty Company for the purpose of constructing and occupying an ambulatory care center in Upper Arlington.

These resolutions were passed by the Finance Committee yesterday and are being recommended to the full board for approval.

The committee then met in a brief executive session. That concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much. Are there any questions on finance? If not, let’s go to the final report before the consent agenda.

Mr. Smucker will report out on the Governance Committee.

Mr. Smucker:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Governance Committee met yesterday. We reviewed two items for action and two items for discussion.

First, Chris Culley presented the proposed new Board of Trustees Statement of Ethical Conduct and Leadership Integrity.

As you know, this board’s conflict of interest policies and the processes established under them to monitor and enforce the policies are largely found in the Ohio Ethics laws, but this law does not extend to charter trustees or non-trustee committee members. The Statement of Ethical Conduct and Leadership that was presented to the committee will apply to all board members, regardless of how the individual is appointed to the board or a committee.

Last year, the Governance Committee authorized the Office of Legal Affairs and Office of Compliance and Integrity to launch a process to review the Board of Trustees conflict of interest and ethics policies and processes.

To assist with this review, the university engaged Protiviti, the same firm hired to assist with the university’s compliance assessment leading to the creation of the Office of University Compliance and Integrity, and their assessment included a review of publicly available information from other benchmark institutions of higher education, guidance from the Association of Governing Boards (AGB) of universities and colleges, the accreditation criteria of the Higher Learning Commission, and the requirements for public companies issued by the New York Stock Exchange.

The Statement of Ethical Conduct and Leadership Integrity is designed to address the recommendations noted in that benchmark review and will provide additional protections to the university and individual trustees and members with respect to conflicts of interest and ethical obligations under the law.

Chairman Wadsworth then presented the Ratification of Committee Appointments. This resolution brought forth two non-trustee Advancement Committee members, Samira Beckwith and Craig Bahner. Both of these individuals will bring significant expertise to the Advancement Committee.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

The committee approved both resolutions and is recommending them to the full board for approval.

Chairman Wadsworth then updated the committee on trustee and committee appointments. This included an update on gubernatorial appointees, charter trustees, and an update from Stacie Seger on the student trustee selection process.

Chairman Wadsworth also discussed the formation of two ad-hoc committees. The first being the Talent and Compensation ad-hoc committee and the second being the Master Planning and Facilities ad-hoc committee. Chairman Wadsworth will return to the committee in April with an update on the formation and work of these ad-hoc committees.

Ms. Douglass then provided a brief update on the talent scorecard. The plan is to come back in April with a talent scorecard for the committee to review.

The committee then met in executive session. That concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Mr. Smucker. Any questions from the trustees?

Seeing none, we now will move to the consent agenda which is now before the trustees. I will call on Dr. Drake to present it to the board.

CONSENT AGENDA

President Drake:

Thank you Chairman Wadsworth. Today, we have a total of 18 resolutions on the consent agenda. Please note that item 13, Guidelines for the Audit and Compliance Committee, was amended at yesterday’s committee meeting. We will also hold a separate vote for items 8 and 18, University Foundation Report and Lease.

We are seeking approval for the following:

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORIAM

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees approves the following Resolutions in Memoriam and that the President be requested to convey copies to the families of the deceased.

Dale T. Bonnett

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on October 24, 2014, of Dale T. Bonnett, Assistant Professor Emeritus of The Ohio State University Extension Service.

Dale was born March 18, 1932, in Weston, West Virginia. He received his BS degree in 1955 and his MS degree in 1974, both in agriculture, from West Virginia State University.

His extension career in Ohio began on November 1, 1967 as the County Extension Agent, 4-H in Belmont County. On December 1, 1969 he became the County Extension Agent, Agriculture and Community and Natural Resource Development. He worked his entire extension career in Belmont County; retiring on September 30, 1988.

Professor Bonnett was recognized for his leadership in many agricultural and natural resources programs that served Belmont County as well as the southeast area of Ohio. He served on many committees and was a member of the National Association of County Agriculture Agents.

On behalf of the university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Dale T. Bonnett its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board’s heartfelt sympathy.

Ernest W. Johnson

The Board of Trustees of the Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 18, 2014 of Ernest W. Johnson, MD, Professor Emeritus in the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation in the College of Medicine.

Professor Johnson received his BA from The Ohio State University in 1948 and in 1952 his MD from Ohio State’s College of Medicine. He completed his residency training at University Hospital in 1957 and was named an assistant professor in the College of Medicine. Professor Johnson was a faculty member in the Department of Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation within the College of Medicine for more than 55 years, until his death, and served as (PM&R) chair for 37 of those years (1963 – 1989). Under his guidance, the department became one of the leading programs in the country. Dr. Johnson was a foremost authority on electromyography and his life’s work was dedicated to treating patients with polio, post-polio syndrome, amputation, brain injury, Parkinson’s disease, spinal cord injury, and stroke.

The development of Rehabilitation Services at Dodd Hall can be attributed to Dr. Johnson’s efforts to improve the lives of those with physical disabilities. Additionally, Dr. Johnson co-founded “Creative Living,” the apartment complex south of the medical center for physically disabled adults who need some assistance but still desire to live on their own. When the first Creative Living apartments opened in September 1974, they were the nation’s first privately developed housing facility for the physically disabled.
Dr. Johnson was acknowledged internationally as a preeminent physiatrist, helping to co-found the Association of Academic Physiatrists in 1967. Along the way, he instructed more than 300 physiatry residents, instilling in them the patient-first philosophy that characterized his career. To honor him, graduates of the residency program established the Dr. Ernest W. Johnson Chair in the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

Dr. Johnson was author/co-author of over 150 published articles, 40-year editor of the OSU medical journal and writer of the much beloved “Ernie’s Editorials”. Dr. Johnson is acknowledged internationally as a preeminent physician within the field of physical medicine and rehabilitation. During his illustrious career, he received the Frank H. Krusen, MD, Lifetime Achievement Award from the American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, the Henry B. Betts Award and the Alumni Professional Achievement Award from The Ohio State University. Dr. Johnson also served as president of the American Association of Electromyography and Electrodiagnosis and of the American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

On behalf of the university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Ernest W. Johnson its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board’s heartfelt sympathy.

Sheldon I. Lustick

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 18, 2014, of Sheldon I. Lustick, Professor Emeritus of Zoology, in the College of Biological Sciences.

Sheldon was born in Syracuse, New York, in 1934. He qualified as a Ranger in the Army and served as a military policeman until he was discharged in 1963. He graduated with a BA from California’s San Fernando Valley State College and received his MS in Zoology at Syracuse University in 1965, studying lethal temperatures and thermal acclimation in a freshwater fish. He completed his PhD in the Department of Zoology, University of California, Los Angeles, in 1968.

His dissertation was titled Energetics and Thermoregulation in the Cowbird (Molothrus ater obscurus). For his dissertation research, he quantified the caloric costs of maintaining thermal balance in cowbirds, testing the effects of changing environmental temperatures on energy consumption in both molting and non-molting birds. Subsequently, he examined the interaction of plumage color and radiant energy on thermal balance and then incorporated studies of bird behavior on net thermal input. For example, using a combination of field and laboratory observations of herring gulls, he studied the effect of their angular orientation toward the sun on the effects of varying radiant energy, wind, and ambient temperature on their thermal balance, finding that flocks of gulls minimized their heat loss under low ambient temperatures by basking. All the birds in the flock oriented their bodies the same, both facing toward or away from the sun, and adjusting their posture relative to their light and dark plumage to achieve thermal balance. The study was published in the journal Science, and was awarded classification as a “classic” paper by the journal, due to its influence on the understanding of the interactions between use of behavior and plumage characteristics on thermal ecology of birds. His intellect was sharp and his science was of the highest level.

Dr. Lustick became a Professor of Zoology at The Ohio State University in 1969, where he taught animal physiology, mentored many graduate students, and performed research on thermal balance in birds, mammals, and other animals for over 28 years.
In addition to his contributions to theoretical aspects of environmental physiology, Dr. Lustick’s research had many practical applications. For example, because starlings and blackbirds often occupy large (millions of birds) communal roosts in trees in cold weather, they can cause airplane strike hazards when roosts occur near airports. Dr. Lustick and his students sought to determine the microclimate factors that distinguish areas selected as nocturnal roost sites and to quantify the energetic advantage of roost site selection. They determined that protection from wind was most important and that birds obtained a more than four-fold decrease in heat loss by roosting inside the tree habitat relative to outside it. Thinning the branches in a forest could thus discourage choosing those sites for roosts. They then showed that thermal protection could be further decreased by spraying diluted detergent solutions on the roosting birds, thus decreasing the insulation characteristics of their plumage.

Professor Lustick also used these and related laboratory and field approaches to study the ecological energetics of other bird species, frogs, snakes, shrews, opossums, chipmunks, mice, crayfish, and honeybees, working to expand our knowledge of how behavior, anatomy, and physiological adjustment interact to minimize the caloric cost of living in a varying environment. He disseminated the results of his work in over 35 peer-reviewed publications and two books, contributing to research being performed by others to this very day. Funding for his research came from the National Science Foundation (7 grants), the U.S. Department of the Interior (2 grants), the U.S. Air Force (3 grants), and the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, providing equipment, supplies, and student support throughout his career at the university.

Students in the Zoology, Environmental Biology, and the Environmental Science graduate programs were integrally involved with Professor Lustick’s research. He mentored seven PhD students through their doctorates and 47 master’s students completed their degrees under his direction over his 28 year career. He also served on more than 40 graduate student committees and was the Graduate School Representative on as many as a dozen doctoral exams for students in other departments. These students continue to apply what they learned under his direction in their current employment positions at universities, governmental agencies, and commercial firms. He also was a popular professor with undergraduate students, thousands of whom enrolled in his animal physiology course over the years, earning him an Outstanding Teaching Award. Many of these students now practice clinical medicine or veterinary medicine and perform medical research.

On behalf of the university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Sheldon I. Lustick its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board's heartfelt sympathy.

Richard U. Sherman

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 12, 2014, of Richard Updike Sherman, Jr., Professor Emeritus of Economics in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Born September 28, 1914, Professor Sherman was 100 years old at the time of his passing. Professor Sherman received his BA from Williams College in 1936. After graduation from Williams he worked as a member of the research department of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. During this period he also played center for the now defunct Jamaica (NY) Hawks professional ice hockey team in Madison Square Garden. He later went on to earn his PhD in economics from Harvard Business School.

Professor Sherman joined the staff of the Office of Production Management in Washington, D.C. in 1940. During WWII and post-war, his work with the U.S. federal government and the armed services afforded crucial security and resource roles in the service of his country. In 1948 he accepted a position on the National Security Resources Board, in the Executive Office of the President of the United States. Professor Sherman joined the Operations Research Office (ORO), an Army think tank, in 1950. Early in his tenure at the ORO, he spent six months in Tokyo holding the civilian role of Brigadier General overseeing the Southeast Asia Office.

Dr. Sherman was offered an endowed chair, the Mershon Professor of Economics with a specialty in the Economics of National Defense, in 1961. During a one-year sabbatical from the university in 1964-65, he taught at the National War College in Washington, D.C. In 1985, at the age of 70, Dr. Sherman retired from The Ohio State University. He continued his professional activity as an economic expert witness in wrongful death and permanent disability litigation.

On behalf of the University community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Richard U. Sherman its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board’s heartfelt sympathy.

L. Lyle Spiess

The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow upon the death on November 5, 2014, of L. Lyle Spiess, Instructor Emeritus of The Ohio State University Extension Service.

Lyle was born May 25, 1920, in Napoleon, Ohio. He received his BS degree in 1942, in Agriculture Education from The Ohio State University.

His extension career in Ohio began on July 1, 1947 as the County Extension Agent, Agriculture in Fulton County. He held this position until his retirement on February 29, 1976.

Professor Spiess was recognized for his leadership in the agricultural programs and also guiding the development of one of the outstanding 4-H camping and outdoor education facilities in Ohio at Camp Palmer. He was also instrumental in organizing the Fulton County “T-Bone Club” as a vehicle for an educational program for cattle feeders. He provided leadership to a Dairy Herd Improvement Program for Fulton County and wrote a weekly news column for county and area news media. He appeared on TV programs aired by Toledo TV stations offering outstanding agriculture information. Lyle was a recipient of the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

On behalf of the university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor L. Lyle Spiess its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the Board’s heartfelt sympathy.

We are honest guardians of the interests of our students, faculty, staff, and patients. Our responsibility is to assure leadership integrity in our actions, commitments and procedures, and to conduct ourselves, at all times, in a manner that fosters public confidence in the integrity of the Board of Trustees, its processes, and its accomplishments, and avoids favoritism, bias, and the appearance of impropriety.

Duties

All University Trustees (“Trustee” or collectively “Trustees”), Wexner Medical Center Board Members and Board Committee Members (“Member” or collectively as “Members”) have three primary obligations:

- A duty of loyalty – Trustees and Members shall perform their duties in good faith, in a manner the member reasonably believes to be in, or not opposed to, the best interest of the University.

Conflicts of Interest

A “conflict of interest” may arise:

A) When a reasonable observer, having knowledge of all of the relevant facts and circumstances, would conclude that a Trustee or Member, family member, business associate or related entity has a material interest, financial or otherwise, that is incompatible with the Trustee or Member taking action on a University matter, or such Trustee or Member is using his or her role to achieve personal gain or benefit to family, friends, or business associates;

Commitment of Trustees and Members

Trustees shall follow the protections of the public found in Chapters 102 and 2921.42 and .43 of the Ohio Revised Code which apply to University Trustees and other public officials (“Ohio Ethics Laws”). In addition, all Trustees and Members shall:

- Serve with integrity and professionalism, in a manner that avoids favoritism, bias, conflicts of interest, and the appearance of impropriety;
- Withdraw from any consideration or action, or any participation with University employees, on any matter as to which the Trustee or Member has a conflict of interest. In doing so, the Trustee or Member shall advise the Secretary of the Board of Trustees that the Trustee or Member will recuse from discussion, consideration and vote on the matter on which conflict of interest exists which shall be reflected in the minutes of that Board;
- Accept no compensation or emolument from a source other than The Ohio State University for service as a Trustee or Member or in relation to any matter before their Board or committee;
- Not use membership on the Board, Wexner Medical Center Board or their committee, or the name of The Ohio State University or its acronym, logos, or other official indicia, in the any manner that suggests impropriety, bias, or unapproved commercial use;
- Not use any authority, advantage, or information conferred upon or provided by virtue of their service as a Trustee or Member for their personal benefit or that of their family or business associates;
- Not use any information not available to the public at large and obtained as a result of their service as a Trustee or Member for personal gain or benefit or for the gain or benefit of others; and

- Annually the Secretary of the Board will circulate the Summary of Substantive Provisions of the Ethics Law and Related Statutes prepared by the Ohio Ethics Commission to each Board Member for review.
- The University General Counsel shall supplement the Summary with a brief memorandum outlining any other applicable provisions of Ohio law with which the Trustees must be familiar.
- Each Trustee shall attend annual ethics education as provided by the University, the Board of Regents, or comparable program.
- Each Trustee shall submit to the Board Secretary an annual acknowledgement of the filing of their financial disclosure with the Ohio Ethics Commission.
- Members who are not Trustees of the University or paid employees of the University are not subject to the Ethics Laws but may, at their option, avail themselves of the procedures outlined in B) and C) below.
B) The University shall establish a database of all contracts with third party vendors to the University. Once a year the Secretary of the Board shall circulate a form to each Trustee on which the Trustee may, at his or her option, list any entities in which the Trustee (1) serves as a director or other fiduciary (both for-profit and not-for-profit entities), or (2) holds (individually and/or combined with other members of the Trustee's family and/or the Trustee's business associates) five percent (5%) or more of the ownership of the entity.

- A Trustee is encouraged to update the Trustee's entity list at any time the Trustee agrees to assume a directorship or other fiduciary relation with an entity or acquires a five percent (5%) or larger ownership interest in the entity (individually and/or combined with other members of the Trustee's family and/or the Trustee's business associates).

- Upon receipt of the annual or update entity disclosures, the University shall determine whether the University has made any purchases of goods or services from each identified entity in the last twenty-four (24) months or whether it otherwise has any contracts with each identified entity. Upon completion of its review, the Secretary of the Board of Trustees shall promptly notify each Trustee of any situation in which the University has purchased goods or services from, or has a contract with, any entity listed by that Trustee on that Trustee's entity disclosure.

- The University shall use its best efforts to not prospectively purchase any goods or services, or enter into a contract with, any entity listed by a Trustee on the Trustee's entity disclosure without the prior written consent of (1) the Trustee and (2) the General Counsel of the University.

- The form shall be submitted to the General Counsel along with a request for legal advice pertaining to the Trustee or Member's obligations relating to their service. The General Counsel will provide the Trustee or Member a confirmation letter as well as a summary of preventative actions the University will take as outlined above.

C) The General Counsel of the University shall be available to advise each Trustee with regard to any issue arising under the Ethics Laws. In doing so, the Office of Legal Affairs shall maintain the attorney-client privilege with the Trustee or Member unless expressly waived in writing by the Trustee or Member. If the Office of Legal Affairs is unable to provide representation consistent with maintaining the attorney-client privilege with the Trustee or Member, or otherwise believes a conflict might exist if the Office of Legal Affairs represented the Trustee or Member, the Office of Legal Affairs shall so inform the Trustee or Member.
Board of Trustees Conflict of Interest Protocol

This Protocol summarizes the process by which the Office of Legal Affairs and Office of the Board of Trustees assist individual Trustees of the Ohio State University, as well as members of the Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center Board, and members of any Board Committees, in meeting their commitments under the Board of Trustees' Statement of Ethical Conduct and Leadership Integrity ("Statement") and Ohio Ethics Laws.

Candidate Screening: The Office of Legal Affairs will support the Board of Trustees in pre-screening potential trustees, Charter Trustees, Wexner Medical Center Board members, and members of Board Committees, when known, for possible ethics or conflict of interest issues based on publicly available information, prior to their appointment.

Charter and Committee Members: The Statement of Ethical Conduct and Leadership Integrity applies to both University Trustees ("Trustees") and Charter and Committee Members ("Members"). University Trustees are also governed by Ohio Ethics Laws. Members are expected to recognize potential conflicts of interest and respond accordingly, and the Office of Legal Affairs will assist both Trustees and Members as requested.

Ethics Education: At the time of his or her appointment, each Trustee and Member shall be invited to participate in a one-on-one education session by the General Counsel. The session will cover Ohio Ethics Law as it applies to the Trustee or Member and the Statement of Ethical Conduct and Leadership Integrity.

In addition, the University will provide Trustees and Members with an annual ethics education session that will cover Ohio Ethics Law as it applies to the Trustee or Member and the Statement of Ethical Conduct and Leadership Integrity.

The Board Office will also distribute the Summary of Substantive Provisions of the Ethics Law and Related Statutes prepared by the Ohio Ethics Commission and create a repository of relevant ethics documents that is accessible to Trustees and Members online.

Individualized conflict management plan: Where requested by an individual Trustee or Member, the General Counsel will define a management plan to assist in the management of a potential conflict. Such a plan may include assisting the Board Secretary in reviewing the Board Meeting agenda, prior to a meeting, to identify the potential conflict affecting individual Trustees or Members. Depending on the nature of the potential conflict, the Board materials may be redacted and other steps taken to ensure that the Trustee or Member appropriately recuses him- or herself from the discussion.

Optional Provision of List of Interests: Once a year the Secretary of the Board shall circulate a form to each Trustee on which the Trustee may, at his or her option, list any entities in which the Trustee (1) serves as a director or other fiduciary (both for-profit and not-for-profit entities), or (2) holds (combined with other members of the Trustee's family or the Trustee's business associates) five percent (5%) or more of the ownership of the entity. A Trustee is encouraged to update the Trustee's entity list at any time the Trustee agrees to assume a directorship or other fiduciary relation with an entity or acquires a five percent (5%) or larger ownership interest in the entity. The form shall be submitted to the General Counsel along with a request for legal advice pertaining to the Trustee or Member’s obligations relating to their service. The information so disclosed shall be held in confidence. Members may avail themselves of this process at their own initiative. The General Counsel will provide the Trustee or Member a confirmation letter as well as a summary of preventative actions the University will take to assist the Trustee or Member in managing the disclosed relationship(s).

Potential conflicting vendor list and University purchases: To assist Trustees in meeting their obligations under the Ohio Ethics Laws, and otherwise to manage their potential conflicts of interest, the Board Office, upon request, will provide to the Trustees the University’s vendor list.

Financial Disclosure Filings: Annually, the Board Office will remind trustees of Ohio Ethics Commission financial disclosure filing requirements and upcoming deadlines, pay for filing fees, and confirm with each trustee that he or she properly filed their financial disclosure with the Commission.

Agenda Review: The Board Office will review each Board, Wexner Medical Center Board, and/or Committee agenda to identify items for action on those agendas that may pose potential conflicts of interest for individual Trustees and Members, based on previously disclosed or known information, and will consult with the individual trustee or member and the Office of Legal Affairs, as appropriate.

Exit meeting: At the time that a Trustee or Member retires from the Board or Committee, General Counsel will offer to review the ongoing ethical obligations of the Trustee or Member and offer ongoing support in interpretation of those obligations.

Kathleen Gilligan Sebelius

Kathleen Gilligan Sebelius is a native Ohioan with a long and distinguished career in public service. Most recently, she was the 21st Secretary of the United States Department of Health and Human Services, serving from 2009 to 2014.

As Secretary, Ms. Sebelius led ambitious efforts to improve America’s health and enhance the delivery of human services to some of the nation’s most vulnerable populations, including young children, those with disabilities, and the elderly.

As part of the Affordable Care Act, she strove to implement reforms to help uninsured Americans get health coverage. Under the law, she also carried out policies that put a new focus on wellness and prevention, supported the adoption of electronic medical records, and helped recruit and train more primary care health providers.

She worked closely with doctors, nurses, hospital leaders, employers, and patients to slow the growth in health care costs through better care and better health. In addition, under Ms. Sebelius’s leadership, the Department of Health and Human Services formed a historic partnership with the Department of Justice to eliminate health care fraud, an effort that has returned record sums to the Medicare Trust Fund.

In addition, Ms. Sebelius was committed to ensuring that America continues to lead the world in innovation. During her term as Secretary, Health and Human Services promoted public-private collaboration to bring life-saving treatments and medicines to market. The department also worked to build a 21st century food safety system to prevent outbreaks before they occur and it collaborated with the Department of Education to help states increase the quality of early childhood education programs.

As Secretary, Ms. Sebelius led the nation’s emergency health response to crises and natural disasters, including the Haiti earthquake, the Gulf oil spill, and the Joplin, Missouri, tornado. And as America’s top health official, she worked with our international partners to confront global health issues like polio, HIV/AIDS, and the growing costs of chronic disease around the world.

In 2011, Forbes named Secretary Sebelius the 13th most powerful woman in the world.

Prior to her Cabinet appointment, from 2003 to 2009, she served as Governor of Kansas, where she was named one of America’s Top Five Governors by Time Magazine. From 1995 to 2003 she served as Kansas Insurance Commissioner. She was a member of the Kansas House of Representatives from 1987 to 1995.

Ms. Sebelius is the first daughter of a governor to be elected governor in American history; her father John Gilligan served as Ohio’s Governor from 1971 to 1975. She holds a Master of Public Administration degree from the University of Kansas and a Bachelor of Arts degree from Trinity Washington University.
Jameson “Jim” Crane

Jim Crane has come quite a long way from the time he was a teenage Boy Scout working as an usher at Ohio State football games. He went on to gridiron stardom in that stadium, and has since become a successful businessman “paying forward” in every respect.

In 1960, Mr. Crane joined Crane Plastics, a company founded by his father in 1947, and with his family, he led the company through tremendous growth and ultimately to national and international prominence. Along the way, he led the Michigan Gold Pants Club, procuring the gold pants trinkets awarded to the victorious Buckeye football players whenever the Buckeyes beat the Wolverines (which happened frequently in those years when Woody Hayes was head coach). Mr. Crane now serves as Chairman Emeritus of the Crane Group, a family-owned, private holding and management company based in Columbus.

Recently, three generations of the Crane family made a $13.5 million commitment to Ohio State to create the Jameson Crane Sports Medicine Institute, a cutting-edge facility for Ohio State’s sports medicine collaborative and innovative programs of health care, education, training, and medical research. The Loann Crane Advanced Language Institute will help Ohio State students develop their advanced foreign language skills so they may function effectively as global professionals in fields such as engineering, business, or architecture. And the new Crane Center for Early Childhood Research and Policy will support the internationally renowned facility in their vital role of prospering partnerships to overcome the gap between research discoveries and early childhood practice and policy.

Mabel Freeman

Mabel Freeman played a pivotal role in the lives of a generation of Ohio State graduates. After earning her bachelor’s, master’s and doctorate degrees at Ohio State, she returned to the university and spent 27 years here - retiring as assistant vice president for Undergraduate Admissions and First Year Experience, where she was responsible for directing the recruitment, enrollment and admissions process for all new freshmen and transfer students to the university.

Dr. Freeman spent several years involved in the University Honors and Scholars program, serving many roles including assistant director, associate director, acting director and finally, as director of the program. When she became director, she was given the challenge to take the programming and support that had been available only to honors students and expand it to all 6,000 freshmen and transfer students, so in 2000, she and her staff created the First Year Experience (FYE) program, which is responsible for freshman orientation, President’s Convocation, Buckeye Book Community, Distinguished Speaker Series and other programs that first-year Buckeyes participate in. FYE continues to be identified as an exemplar program in the nation to this day.

Dr. Freeman is a member of the Board of Directors of I KNOW I CAN; a member of the Board of Directors of the Bexley Education Foundation; and a trustee of the Mortar Board National Senior Honor Society Foundation Board.
Stephanie Hightower

Stephanie Hightower’s professional portfolio over the last 25 years includes leadership roles in government, sports, nonprofits, public education and higher education, creating a unique profile among executives and especially female executives. Ms. Hightower currently serves as President and CEO of the Columbus Urban League, and also holds the positions of President and Chairman of the Board of USA Track & Field, the national governing body of the sport.

Ms. Hightower is among the greatest student athletes in the history of Ohio State and one of the highest profile female track athletes of the late 1970s and early 80s, Hightower was world record holder, a 1980 Olympian and was an NCAA and Big 10 champion in the hurdles. In four years at Ohio State, from 1977-1980, she was undefeated in Big 10 competition.

In her leadership role at Columbus Urban League, Ms. Hightower oversees the country’s seventh-largest CUL affiliate in a program that focuses on early childhood, primary, secondary and adult education, housing support services, workforce development and career services and community outreach to special populations. She also has served as vice president of institutional advancement for the Columbus College of Art & Design; as president of the Columbus City Schools Board of Education; press secretary and special assistant in the Columbus mayor’s office; Kipp Learning Academy; the advisory board for US Bank (Columbus Region) and the African American Leadership Academy.

Robert C. Hummel

Bob Hummel is a two-time graduate of The Ohio State University with a BS in Agriculture and a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine in 1961. He began his career in 1961 with American Cyanamid Company and has been involved in the Animal Health Industry for the past 38 years as founder and chairman of Lextron Inc., one of the larger animal health distributors in the U.S., headquartered in Greeley, Colorado.

Dr. Hummel was elected to service on the University’s Foundation Board in 2002. Along with the Foundation Board, Dr. Hummel serves on the Dean’s Development Council for the College of Veterinary Medicine. They have generously supported the College of Veterinary Medicine’s Administration Building and the renovation of the William Oxley Thompson Library. In 2003, Dr. Hummel led the College’s Class of 1961 Scholarship Drive, which led to the creation of new annual and endowed scholarships for veterinary students. Dr. and Mrs. Hummel also established the Claude Hummel ATZ Memorial Scholarship in memory of Bob’s father, a 1930 graduate of Ohio State in agriculture; the fund recognizes scholastic achievements of members of the College of Food, Agricultural and Environmental Sciences’ Alpha Tau Zeta fraternity. Christian Zacher

From his arrival at Ohio State in 1968, Christian Zacher took the initiative to make things happen, dedicating himself to the university and producing tangible results. He worked to improve not only the Department of English but also his college and the university as a whole. That dedication - for which he received a 2005 Faculty Award for Distinguished University Service, continued right through his 2011 retirement from the university.

Now an emeritus professor of English, Dr. Zacher made his name as director of the Center for Medieval and Renaissance Studies from 1984-92 and as director of the Humanities Institute from its inception in 1998 until his retirement. During that time, he also served as co-editor of The Encyclopedia of the American Midwest, and authored The Holbrook Years 2002-2007, which chronicles the tenure of Karen A. Holbrook, 13th president of The Ohio State University, from the extensive search process through her departure.

Dr. Zacher also served numerous terms as a member of University Senate, then two terms as secretary of the Senate, during which time the senate oversaw several momentous changes within the university. His tenure included the merging of the five arts and sciences colleges into a single College of Arts and Sciences; initiated the academic calendar switch from quarters to semesters; and produced an intricate, top-to-bottom review of Ohio State's graduate programs, among many others. Dr. Zacher also served as associate dean of Humanities and as chair of the Department of Comparative Studies.

The Committee consists of at least three members of the Board of Trustees, one of whom serves as the Chair. The Chair for the Board of Trustees will appoint committee members, non-trustee community members, a student trustee member, and the committee chair. BACKGROUND

INTRODUCTION

The Internal Audit Department (Internal Audit) is an independent and objective assurance and consulting activity that is guided by a philosophy of adding value to improve the operations of The Ohio State University. INTERNAL AUDIT PLAN

At least annually, the Director will submit to senior management and the Audit and Compliance Committee an internal audit plan for review and approval. The internal audit plan will consist of a work schedule as well as budget and resource requirements for the next fiscal/calendar year. The Director will communicate the impact of resource limitations and significant interim changes to senior management and the Audit and Compliance Committee.

The internal audit plan will be developed based on a prioritization of the audit universe using a risk-based methodology, including input of senior management and the Board. The Director will review and adjust the plan, as necessary, in response to changes in the organization’s business, risks, operations, programs, systems, and controls. Any significant deviation from the approved internal audit plan will be communicated to senior management and the Audit and Compliance Committee through periodic activity reports.

REPORTING AND MONITORING

A written report will be prepared and issued by the Director or designee following the conclusion of each internal audit engagement and will be distributed as appropriate. Internal Audit results will also be communicated to the Audit and Compliance Committee.

The internal audit report may include management’s response and corrective action taken or to be taken in regard to the specific findings and recommendations. Management's response, included within the original audit report should include a timetable for anticipated completion of action to be taken and an explanation for any corrective action that will not be implemented.

The internal audit activity will be responsible for appropriate follow-up on engagement findings and recommendations. All significant findings will remain in an open issues file until cleared.

The Chief Audit Executive will periodically report to senior management and the Audit and Compliance Committee on the internal audit activity’s purpose, authority, and responsibility, as well as performance relative to its plan. Reporting will also include significant risk exposures and control issues, including fraud risks, governance issues, and other matters needed or requested by senior management and the Board.

QUALITY ASSURANCE AND IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Internal Audit activity will maintain a quality assurance and improvement program that covers all aspects of the internal audit activity. The program will include an evaluation of Internal Audit’s conformance with the Definition of Internal Auditing and the Standards and an evaluation of whether internal auditors apply the Code of Ethics. The program also assesses the efficiency and effectiveness of the internal audit activity and identifies opportunities for improvement.

The Director will communicate to senior management and the Audit and Compliance Committee on the Internal Audit’s quality assurance and improvement program, including results of ongoing internal assessments and external assessments conducted at least every five years.
Before the state capital appropriation of $1,500,000 may be released to LifeCare Alliance, the Ohio Board of Regents requires that a Joint Use Agreement (JUA) between the university and LifeCare Alliance be signed to document the value of the appropriation to OSU and to ensure the benefits to the university will continue for a minimum period of 20 years. In summary, the proposed JUA for this appropriation includes the following provisions:

1. LifeCare Alliance commits to the university that the monies for the project shall be used to fund the renovation and restoration of the buildings at 1699 West Mound Street and 1697 West Mound Street, Columbus, Ohio 43223. The project will include remodeling the Meals-on-Wheels food production kitchen, updating the medical building, and creating a permanent digital mammography center.

2. LifeCare Alliance commits to giving the university the right to use and occupy their renovated West Mound Street buildings for educational and other programs and activities and in connection with any student internship program between LifeCare Alliance and the university. The terms and conditions for this university use shall be more favorable than the terms and conditions of use by any other entity to a degree that reasonably reflects the magnitude of the university’s investment in the renovated buildings for the term of the agreement.

3. The term of this JUA shall commence as of the date of its approval by the Ohio Board of Regents and shall expire 20 years thereafter. In the event that the JUA is terminated prior to the end of the term, LifeCare Alliance is obligated to reimburse the State of Ohio the proportionate amount of the appropriation representing the years of use remaining under this JUA.

4. Except for the funds used to cover the university’s reasonable administrative costs related to the project, the funds provided under this JUA shall be used by LifeCare Alliance only for capital improvements or purchases and shall not be used for operating expenses.

OSU Board of Trustees approval is required before the JUA may be completed and sent to the Ohio Board of Regents and the Ohio Controlling Board for approval and release of funds.

BACKGROUND

In 2010 The Ohio State University Board of Trustees adopted the One Ohio State Framework (Framework) through the passage of Resolution number 2010-117. The Framework include physical planning principles and a long-term vision for the university’s Columbus campus. The Framework recognized the physical environment as a valuable resource for accomplishing the university’s goals and enhancing the quality of life for students, faculty, staff and visitors. In harmony with academic strategic plans, the Framework guides capital investment in the university’s physical environment.

The university is seeking Board approval to reengage stakeholders in a 12-15 month process to update the 2010 Framework plan. The Framework refresh will include the following deliverables:

- Review planning assumptions that have either emerged or evolved since completion of the 2010 One Ohio State University Framework such as, but not limited to, enrollment growth and projections, faculty/staff growth and projections, university Discovery Themes, concession agreement(s), and undergraduate honors college.
- Based on the review of planning assumptions, revise or adjust the Framework principles as necessary.
- Building upon steps 1 and 2, develop or revise strategies for each of the areas identified in the original Framework, including but not limited to the academic core, arts, health sciences, athletics, and partnerships.
- Identify potential capital projects and funding strategies for each focus area.
- Update graphics, tools and collateral materials to support Framework changes.
Proposal to adopt Electronic Signatures Rules, as required by House Bill 488, signed by the Governor of the State of Ohio on June 16, 2014.

CONTEXT

− In 2014, the College of Arts and Sciences undertook a pilot program to convert all hiring processes to electronic signatures using the DocuSign platform. It is estimated that using the DocuSign platform saved approximately 5 minutes each time a document was handled (many documents had multiple signatures) for a total of $23 in labor costs for each new hire processed. The College of Arts and Sciences hires approximately 4,000 individuals annually so the labor savings are significant. It is anticipated that other common workflows will have similar cost savings.
− The pilot program was extended to other units and similar savings were realized as a result of adopting electronic signatures for hiring processes (2.75 FTE reductions in two colleges by the end of the university-wide pilot).
− On June 16, 2014, the Governor of the State of Ohio signed House Bill 488 which, in part, amended Section 1306.21 of the Uniform Electronic Transaction Act to provide that state universities are excluded from the rulemaking and monitoring of the Department of Administrative Services with regard to the use, transmission, acceptance, and storage of electronic records and electronic signatures.
− House Bill 488 became effective September 14, 2014.
− The Electronic Signature Rules must be filed with the Secretary of State and the Legislative Services Commission on or prior to March 3, 2015 (Section 111.15(B)(1) of the Ohio Revised Code) so that the rules are effective no later than March 14, 2015, which is six months after the effective date of House Bill 88.
− A working group made up of members from the College of Arts and Sciences, Office of Academic Affairs, Office of Business and Finance, Office of the Chief Information Officer, Office of Legal Affairs, Office of Student Life, Office of University Compliance and Integrity, University Libraries-Archives, and College of Veterinary Medicine collaborated to review and move forward the option of the university using electronic signatures.

NEXT STEPS

File the rules with the Secretary of State and the Legislative Services Commission.

Establish the Electronic Signature Policy in accordance with the University Policy Process.

Communicate the rules and policy to the impacted university constituents.
3335- 22 -01 Electronic Signatures

(A) This rule was adopted as allowed by Ohio Revised Code 1306.20(J).

(B) This rule applies to electronic signatures involving the Ohio state university, in accordance with Section 1306.20(J) of the Ohio Revised Code.

(C) The university policy governing electronic signatures shall remain consistent with electronic signature requirements in the Ohio Revised Code.

(D) The university shall establish a policy governing electronic signatures involving the university.

(E) Electronic signatures shall only be used as governed by the policy governing electronic signatures involving the university.

(F) The university shall provide guidance for implementing electronic signatures.

(G) When implementing electronic signature systems, the university shall consider types of institutional data, as governed by university policy.

(H) The university recognizes an electronic signature as legally binding to the fullest extent permitted by law.

(I) An electronic signature may be accepted in all situations if requirement of a signature or approval is stated or implied.

(J) The university may designate specific university transactions to be executed by electronic signature.

(K) The university may, at its discretion, elect to opt out of conducting business electronically with any party or in any transaction, for any reason or no reason.

(1) Employees, including student employees, acting within the scope of their employment may not opt out of conducting a transaction electronically.

(2) Individuals and entities (excluding employees acting within the scope of their employment) may seek to opt out of conducting a transaction electronically by providing written notice of a request to opt out of conducting business with the university electronically.

(L) An electronic signature that does not employ a university-approved authentication method at the time of signature may not be binding on the university.

(M) All security procedures and technologies shall provide authentication, nonrepudiation, and integrity to the extent that is reasonable for each electronic signature, as determined by the university.

(N) When at any time during a transaction the university requires a signature or is conducting a financial transaction, the university shall require a separate and distinct action on the part of the person conducting the transaction for financial transactions and each signature. The separate and distinct action shall be clearly marked as indicating an intent to complete a financial transaction or electronically sign a record. The separate and distinct action may include a series of keystrokes, a click of a mouse, or other similar actions.

(O) Electronic signature documentation shall be maintained in accordance with the university record retention schedule and as specified by the university policy governing electronic signatures.
January 30, 2015 meeting, Board of Trustees

(P) The university shall identify responsibilities of individuals and units regarding electronic signatures.

Background

The Ambulatory Care Strategy is a key component of the Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center (OSUWMC) Strategic Plan and its mission to improve people’s lives through innovation in research, education and patient care. The ambulatory plan was first completed in 2006 with input from leading consultants, and then fully evaluated and updated again in 2010. The plan emphasizes strategic growth of programs that are patient and community focused that overall best support OSUWMC’s growth.

The ambulatory plan’s primary objectives include:

- Improve access and quality for our patients
- Lower cost of providing care
- Optimize use of space on campus
- Ensure financially self-sufficient entities
- Become geographically preferable to payers
- Target growth - focus on Signature Programs
- Provide appropriate teaching and research sites
- Aligned management and consistent ambulatory performance standards

Over the last five years, the Wexner Medical Center has successfully implemented many of its ambulatory growth priorities. These new locations equate to approximately 600,000 square feet (SF) of new and accessible ambulatory care space in communities around the greater Central Ohio area.

OSUWMC has now over 50 ambulatory care locations ranging in size from 3,000 SF offering single specialty services such as primary care, to comprehensive ambulatory care centers such as the 320,000 SF Martha Morehouse Medical Plaza on Kenny Road. By the end of FY2014, OSUWMC’s outpatient visits equated to nearly 1.6M patient care visits – a solid 7.3% growth over the previous fiscal year. This significant ambulatory expansion has been essential to fueling the Medical Center’s strategic growth, and will become even more critical in the future as health care reform aims to reduce cost, and improve access and the overall health in the communities that we serve.

Currently more than 4,000 OSU employees and more than 13,000 OSU alums consider Upper Arlington their home. OSU offers more than 200 Advanced Placement courses to Upper Arlington High School students and more than 70 of these students annually choose OSU as their destination for undergraduate education. OSU employees, students and visitors to our hospitals utilize Upper Arlington businesses and the related spending generates significant economic impact. We share roads whose connectivity often depends upon both of us working closely together. We share neighborhoods whose development depends on our cooperation and alignment of purpose. The City of Upper Arlington and OSU are natural partners and our success is truly interdependent.

Project Summary

OSU issued a Request for Expressions of Interest on November 19, 2012 for multi-specialty medical office facility space in the Upper Arlington area able to accommodate up to a 100,000 SF building with accompanying parking, and the University met with certain responsive developers to discuss criteria of the various sites proposed, including access, visibility, strategic fit, cost issues and growth potential. OSU identified the Kingsdale Shopping Center site on Zollinger Road as the preferred site.

On December 8, 2014, the City of Upper Arlington passed an ordinance granting the City Manager the authority to sell approximately 5.35 acres of land on Zollinger Road to an affiliate of OSU for the purposes of constructing an ambulatory medical office building. Medstone Realty Company, LLC, a subsidiary of Campus Partners for Community Urban Redevelopment, an affiliate of OSU, will buy the land from the City and then enter into a series of agreements in order to develop and construct an approximately 100,000 SF ambulatory medical office building with approximately 80,000 to 90,000 SF to be initially finished and the remaining space to be shelled for future growth. Construction of the facility is to commence no later than August 1, 2015 and be substantially completed no later than December 31, 2016. Upon substantial completion, OSUWMC will occupy and maintain the building pursuant to a lease with Medstone Realty Company, LLC, and such lease shall provide (i) for not less than a ten (10) year term, (ii) an option for OSUWMC to purchase the building, and (iii) for all sums paid by OSUWMC to Medstone Realty Company, LLC under the lease to be creditable to the option purchase price.

The proposed new OSUWMC Upper Arlington ambulatory care center will include a multi-dimensional outpatient facility that brings together a wide range of clinical outpatient services, and physicians in a mix-used and revitalized Kingsdale Shopping Center at the heart of the City. When completed, the new center will be recognized as a vibrant community asset that will enhance the lives of the City’s residents and beyond, and provide an economic impact that will benefit the City, local businesses, and their school system. Services to be offered will include primary care, behavioral health, heart care, women’s health, internal medicine specialties, general surgery clinic, ancillary services including lab and imaging.

Location and Description

The property will be located on Zollinger Road at the southern end of the Kingsdale Shopping Center between Tremont Road to the west and Northwest Boulevard to the east.

The site will offer free parking, great access and visibility in a revitalized and thriving Kingsdale Shopping Center.

Today, we are presenting a resolution for approval for OSU to enter into a lease with Medstone Realty Company, LLC.

Board of Trustees meeting minutes, April 10, 2015

The Chairman, Dr. Wadsworth, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on Thursday, April 9, 2015 at 10:19am.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Good morning. I would like to convene the meeting of the Board of Trustees and ask the Secretary to note the attendance.

Dr. Thompson:

A quorum is present, Mr. Chairman

Dr. Wadsworth:

I hereby move that the Board recess into Executive Session to consider business sensitive trade secret matters required to be kept confidential by Federal and State statutes and to discuss personnel matters regarding the appointment, employment, and compensation of public officials.

May I have a second?

Upon motion of Dr. Wadsworth, seconded by Mr. Gasser, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing motion by unanimous roll call vote, cast by Trustees Wadsworth, Ratner, Shumate, Kass, Reid, Jurgensen, Krueger, Gasser, Porteus, Fischer, and Wexner.

Dr. Wadsworth:

The Chairman, Dr. Wadsworth, called the meeting of the Board of Trustees to order on Friday, April 10, 2015 at 9:32am

Dr. Wadsworth:

Good morning everybody. We are going to start the trustee meeting so I’ll ask for order in the house. Thank you all very much.

I’d like to reconvene the meeting of the Board of Trustees and ask the secretary to note the attendance.

Dr. Thompson:

A quorum is present, Mr. Chairman.
Dr. Wadsworth:

Excellent. So that we are able to conduct the business of this meeting in an orderly fashion, I’ll ask that all ringers on all cell phones be turned off. I am doing mine as we speak because one time I gave the announcement and left mine on, very embarrassing. I would ask that all members of the audience observe rules of decorum proper to conducting the business at hand.

Now this part of the meeting is a favorite of all of the trustees because it’s a moment when we get to recognize exceptional students. I am going to ask Steve Loborec to present the Student Recognition Awards. Steve.

STUDENT RECOGNITION AWARDS

Dr. Loborec:

Thank you Chairman Wadsworth. I’d like to at this time ask Chloe and Julianna to join us here at the table. Chloe and Julianna are the two students that we are recognizing today for the Board of Trustees Student Recognition Award.

I would like to start off by talking about Chloe Greene and her achievements during her time here at Ohio State. Chloe Greene graduated from Fort Walton Beach High School in Fort Walton Beach, Florida and is currently a dual-master’s degree student enrolled in City and Regional Planning and African and African-American Studies.

During her time at OSU, she has had a huge impact on the Knowlton School of Architecture’s attention to issues of social justice and diversity. In her first year, she spearheaded the creation of a now annual program of the City and Regional Planning Student Association called Social Justice Week. Prior to this time, the Knowlton School had no student-led programming that explicitly addressed issues of social justice and how they intersect with the planning field.

Social Justice Week educates students and faculty over four days. It begins with a speaker of a national profile who works on topics of social justice, followed by a panel of professionals who work on issues of social justice, discussing how their work intersects with planning as a profession. The third evening is a poetry slam, and the last event is either a volunteer experience or a trip to a city to learn how that city is addressing issues of equity.

Social Justice Week raises the profile of equity planning within the Knowlton School. Chloe’s leadership is recognized by her peers and she was elected to serve as president of the City and Regional Planning Student Association for the 2014-2015 academic year. Chloe embodies the leadership the College of Engineering hopes to instill in their students along with the vision to create change.

After graduation next May, she plans to remain committed to her business, Project Bronze, which is an organization designed to foster economic empowerment through cooperative development.

Best of luck to you, Chloe. Congratulations.

Ms. Greene:

First, I would like to thank God, I think that is very important, and then the Board of Trustees for selecting me for this prestigious award. Although my parents aren’t here with me today, they live in South Carolina and my Dad is recovering from a surgery, I would also like to thank them because they raised me and I wouldn’t be able to do the things that I have been able to accomplish without their continued support.

Steve said that I could talk about a favorite memory that I’ve had at OSU. I couldn’t really pick a particular one but I would like to talk about a moment that I had at OSU that I think really shaped my experiences here.

Last year was my first year here at the university and I recall attending the MLK (Martin Luther King) day celebrations. I called my parents and was very emotional and for people that know me that’s common. I expressed to them that it was a beautiful ceremony and that Donna Brazile said lovely things, there was singing, and it was a great celebration. I was crying and they were like “Oh my goodness Chloe what is wrong with you?” I said, “No, I’m happy because for the first time in my scholarly pursuits, I am at a place that recognizes that I too exist and that I too am important and that allowed me the freedom to flourish in a way that I didn’t feel like I had at other places.”

That’s why I think I’ve been able to accomplish the things that I’ve accomplished and I thank you for that, and I thank the university for that. Again, I would just like to say thank you for honoring me with this award. I am emotional now.

Dr. Loborec:

That was great, thank you. Our next student is Julianna Nemeth. She’s in her final year of her PhD program within the Health Behavior and Health Promotion Division in the College of Public Health. She previously attended high school at Upper Arlington, earned a bachelor’s degree in Religion and a Master’s degree in Women’s Studies. Her dissertation project uses a social contextual model to examine factors surrounding gender-based violence and risky behaviors, such as tobacco use. Her background and clinical experience in women’s health was instrumental to enhancing the examination of social factors such as intimate partner violence. In addition, she has devoted time to conceptually and methodologically refine instruments to measure various dimensions of violence. Her dissertation defense will be held later today, and at least three manuscripts will be ready for submission to public health journals. This is quite the day for you. Most notably, her article published in the Journal of Women’s Health was the number one most downloaded article in 2014.

Julianna also actively participates in several collaborative efforts, including the Center for Population Health and Health Disparities in the OSU Comprehensive Cancer Center, the OSU Center for Regulatory Tobacco Science, and a research residency in the former Department of Human Development and Family Studies. She maintains relationships with the Ohio Department of Health, the Ohio Attorney General’s Office, the Ohio Domestic Violence Network, and the Ohio Alliance to End Sexual Violence. She is currently searching for a post-doctoral position in the Columbus area that will allow her to establish an independent research career.

Congratulations Julianna, and best of luck on your defense!

Ms. Nemeth:

Thank you. It is humbling to be selected to receive the OSU Board of Trustees Student Recognition Award. Thank you for bestowing such a high honor on me.

First, I want to thank my parents, Mary and Julius Nemeth, who always fostered my love for learning in pursuit of a higher good. Next, I want to thank my husband, Aaron Sailing who has been a source of unending support, not just through my academic studies, but also as I pursued my passion through community work in working to prevent and helping to advocate for the needs of sexual and intimate partner survivors in the great state of Ohio. I would be remised to mention the inspiration my children have been to me as well; Emerson, Jonas, and Ashton inspire me to be best example I can be for them. Finally, I wanted to thank Mary Ellen Wewers. She has served not only as my academic advisor and mentor, but she is the embodiment of what I aspire to be, a wise, compassionate, and highly collaborative research scholar.

Within the first few weeks of returning to school and beginning as a mid-life GRA, I am one of four research projects stemming from a federally funded cervical cancer disparity study, I brought forth evidence to show the link between gender-based violence and cervical cancer. Due to her generosity, I was able to place a module of trauma exposure questions on one of her studies and Mary Ellen is, as many of you might be aware, a renowned scholar in tobacco control. Although I might imagine that it would have been a stretch to collaborate with a graduate student focused on gender based violence, she welcomed and was very supportive of the cross topic collaboration and we both have been enriched by her generosity.

Only later did I learn that I could use the data from the study for my dissertation which focuses on gender-based violence and smoking among women in Ohio Appalachia. Findings from our analysis reveal that 57% of women living in Ohio Appalachia are targeted for gender-based sexual and intimate partner violence in their life with 34% experiencing sexual abuse. These numbers are alarmingly high and in a part of the state where victim advocacy programs are sparse and where health disparities abound. In addition, slightly over three in four current women smokers in Ohio Appalachia report sexual and intimate partner violence exposure at some point in their life.

I do believe these findings will help spark several trajectories of research that will eventually work to help to eliminate the health disparities that gender-based violence survivors currently endure. I feel most fortunate to have had the opportunity to work for and with Mary Ellen Wewers. It is through these experiences that I have come to believe it is only through diverse epistemic communities comprised of individuals with situated life experiences as well as multidisciplinary methodological skillsets that we are going to be able to ask the type of questions and conduct socially relevant research which elucidate and ultimately dismantle the social hierarchies and result in adverse health exposures experienced by vulnerable populations, the fundamental determinants of population health disparities.

Diversity, in particular diverse epistemic communities in higher education, shouldn’t just be a goal but an imperative. It is the only way within academia that we have begun to dismantle hierarchical structuring, as Audrey Lord has so eloquently stated, “the master’s house”.

Thank you as well to the Ohio State University for bringing focus to the issue of sexual and dating violence among students on campus. Please let me be of assistance in whatever way I can to thoughtfully work through addressing the issue on campus. I care deeply about both the university and the issue. I am currently looking for a postdoc position which will allow me to stay local so I should be around for the foreseeable future.

Thank you again to the Board of Trustees for granting me the Student Recognition Award. I am honored to accept it.

CELEBRATION OF BUCKEYETHON

Dr. Wadsworth:

Let’s take a moment to again congratulate those two students.

Now before we move to today’s business, the board would like to recognize another group of students, the members of BuckeyeThon. While we know we cannot fit all students who participate in that in this room, because there is 4,000 of them, it was very important to us to celebrate this year’s success by inviting a few members to today’s meeting.

For those of you that aren’t aware, BuckeyeThon is the largest student-run philanthropy at Ohio State. With an ultimate goal of ending childhood cancer, they work to raise money to support the children treated at Nationwide Children’s Hospital. Nationwide Children's is Columbus, Ohio's “Children's Miracle Network Hospital” and will treat any child regardless of a family's ability to pay, which is a spectacular thing to do.

BuckeyeThon hosts events and activities throughout the year to raise money “For the Kids”. Its largest event is the annual BuckeyeThon Dance Marathon which brings together thousands in the Ohio Union for an entire evening of dancing. This year in February, they had a record breaking fundraising campaign where they raised over $1.2 million dollars. Having fun as well, right? What a great thing to do.

I think we’re going to show a video and then we will invite a few leaders to the table to make some brief remarks.

Video

Dr. Wadsworth:

Wow. That’s fantastic. Two of BuckeyeThon’s students and the organization advisor, Jim O’Brian will speak to us. Will you come to the table?

Thank you for everything you have done. I can’t imagine a better statement about the values of the student body than to raise that kind of money through volunteerism in your time.

Mr. O’Brian:

First I’d like to start off and say thank you to the board for having us here. This is an incredible opportunity to come and tell you about what we are so passionate about doing here at Ohio State and in the Columbus community.

My name is Jim O’Brian. I have had the privilege of serving as the president of this great organization this past year and along with my 170 members of this organization, student leaders here at Ohio State, we work towards raising money for Nationwide Children’s Hospital, specifically the hematology and oncology department.

BuckeyeThon is part of a larger movement across the nation led by Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals called the Dance Marathon movement that is over 150 colleges and universities across this nation. I would be really remissed to not acknowledge the great work and dedication of some of the great advisors and leaders that we have had help us along the way.

First off, our advisor Felix Alonso is sitting here to my far right. He has really been the champion for this organization, really supporting the students as they want to, and are following their dreams and their passions to help this community. As well, Dr. J, who has been an incredible support for all of us as we are an official program under the Office of Student Life. She has been a strong advocate for us whenever we need something in order to further our initiatives that way.

Like we said, this year has been an incredible year for us. We broke records in almost every category and pushed ourselves to limits that we didn’t know that we could reach. We set a goal of registering 4,750 dancers and we blew that out of the water by registering over 5,100 students to participate in this year’s dance marathon.
As you saw also we raised $1.23 million for the children battling cancer at Nationwide Children’s Hospital. It has been a tremendous year for us and we are thankful for all the support that we have been given here at Ohio State. Thank you for creating this great opportunity for us to grow and develop as leaders and advocates for citizens in the Columbus community as a whole.

To my right here is Vick Chaba. He will be taking over the helm for next year and is already getting things planned and organized for this next year and is well on his way to another record breaking year.

Mr. O’Brian:

Right. Thank you very much.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Let me just say, I don’t know if Michael wants to say something as well but to me, this is the spirit of the university. It is the values we all care about. It’s what we’re all about.

Alex.

As the chair of Nationwide Children’s Hospital, I know Abigail joins me as well, to put it into context, this has become the largest annual fundraiser at the hospital by student leaders in our community who are doing more than adult leaders in our community. I think that helps to put the magnitude of this effort into perspective. This has quickly, over the last several years, grown from being a $200,000 fundraiser, where is was several years ago, to now being over a million dollars. Absolutely inspirational impact in leadership, which to me is the embodiment of everything that is inspirational about The Ohio State University and the town gown relationship that exists.

Nationwide is the academic medical partner for children in our community with the Ohio State University and is a symbol that we are one and this activity with the students is an embodiment of that.

Great and I corrected my notes, I went from 4,000 to 5,100 and $1.2 million to $1.23 million. I got it recorded. Thank you very much.

Let’s give them a round of applause again.

We will now turn to our agenda. The first order of business is the minutes of the January meeting of the Board of Trustees which were distributed to all members of the board. If there are no additions or corrections, the minutes are approved as distributed. Looking around the table, seeing none.

Mr. President, we will now turn to your report. Thank you.
President Drake:

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I can’t think of a better way to start of the morning than by having a chance to acknowledge our students and the great work they are doing.

The BuckeyeThon, in particular, was a special event. As was mentioned, there were about 5,100 students who participated and danced all night. I remember that there was also a tiger that didn’t make it through the night but the students did. It is a great event and reflects several things. One, as the chair of Nationwide Children’s Hospital was saying, this is a great connection between the university and the community. We are seamless partners in this work. Second, our students come here for academic and research excellence, but also for character and leadership excellence development. They grow into the full leaders and citizens that take our communities forward. Activities like BuckeyeThon provide opportunities for students to learn over time how to work with others, how to organize teams, how to mobilize people to do good for others. They do a wonderful job of this. Jim, who I believe is going into medical school, got a chance to be a real leader in our community and do things that make a difference for the children at the hospital.

There are many things that are inspiring during this event. During the evening before the event, the heroes and survivors were brought forward. It is a magnificent moment for them and their families. To see the enthusiasm that our students display during this event on behalf of others is inspiring. Congratulations on that great work and we are looking for at least $1.24 million next year. No pressure.

It also reminds us of the transformative nature of philanthropy. Nationwide Children’s Hospital is one of the most successful children’s hospital than anywhere in the world. This extra focus allows us to do even more to address things that are critically important.

We have had several things that have happened and it has been a busy few months since we last met in January.

Last month, I had the chance to attend the award ceremony for the 20th annual Denman Undergraduate Research Forum. More than 500 students presented their research. I mentioned academic research and character and leadership; this focused on the research part of the experience. They were focused on issues across the entire spectrum of what we do within the university; biomedical science in some cases and climate change in others, research in humanities, and research in social sciences. It was great to see the creative ideas coming forth from our students and their mentors.

March was also a great month for us in sports. We won the national championship in wrestling. It was our first national championship in wrestling in 94 years. Go Bucks!

We won the national championship in synchronized swimming. It was our 29th national championship in synchronized swimming. Go Bucks! Twenty-nine is the most by any team in any sport at any university in the history of the country. It is the dominant program and they really are outstanding.

We also won our third national championship in pistol. I had mixed feelings because the pistol team beat West Point Naval Academy. I want to make sure that my loyalty is properly focused. I am Buckeye all the way. It was a great competition. The military academy has routinely won this award. We have been able to break that by having an outstanding group of young men and women. Note, the only competition on the target range is done this way.
Last night, Brenda hosted the national championship pistol team for a celebratory dinner at the Pizzuti house. I had the chance, after our board meeting, to say hello to them and to congratulate them.

I also want to take a moment to give kudos to our donors and friends. Wednesday was “Thank a Donor Day,” and our Buckeye community reached out to thank donors for their generosity. We know that great things happen when Buckeyes give. On behalf of the university, I want to make sure that we thank our generous donors and friends everywhere. Thank all of you for the important work that you do in many ways over the years.

Last week, I was humbled and honored to take part in my investiture. It was a privilege for me for several reasons. Personally, it was a privilege to be able to bring the family together. To have our grandchildren and their great-grandmother there was nice. It was like Christmas without all of the hoopla. It was nice to have them all around. It also gave me a chance to prepare remarks for thinking about the university and reflect on what an incredible opportunity this is for me, and all of us, to make a lasting difference. Again an example of that is BuckeyeThon. We have so many ways to reach out to people and try to do things to elevate their lives.

In preparing the talk, I had six to eight weeks of time to think about those things. I became more thrilled everyday with the opportunities that are before us. I was pleased to be able to share those things.

One of the themes that I wanted to make sure to share was the importance of having affordable, accessible, and excellent educational opportunities available for the students of Ohio and beyond. We spoke a bit about that last week. We are going to have an affordability summit that will take place later on this summer. We will talk about these issues in great detail. I look forward to having many of you there. We identified carefully the opportunities that are in front of us. We believe that between now and 2020 we will be able to remove about $200 million in cost by using administrative efficiencies and cost avoidance. We will be able to save about $200 million that we will apply to excellence and affordability.

Also, we will look to do what we can to generate $200 million more in revenue during this time and reinvest it in affordability on one side and excellence on the other. We have the potential to strengthen our sustainability efforts and provide new resources for our academic mission. Our faculty and staff do a great job of creating avenues for our students to learn. They also do creative research for our neighboring communities. We want to make sure that, as we are elevating our university and its impact, we support our faculty and staff in doing those things.

Providing excellence is a crucial variable in this equation and it contributes directly to access and affordability. Efficient educational systems mean higher graduation rates, we have been moving in the right direction, and shorter time to degree. This is very important to us. The best way to do this is to have effective teaching and advising. On May 13th, we are convening a summit of about 50 of our best faculty to focus on two questions: what can the university do to improve teaching and learning, and how can our summer session and other things like on-line learning help our students graduate on time.

When I talk to the faculty about teaching and learning, I never want it to sound like we are looking to improve teaching and learning because it isn't already great. Teaching and learning here are among the best anyplace in the world. We are a best value university, rated by others based on the quality of our educational experience and the cost that it brings to the families. Last year, we were rated 15th in best value out of hundreds and hundreds of schools that were rated. This is a great thing for us to be able to celebrate but we always want to see if we can do a little bit better. We will bring our best teachers and scholars together and ask if we can do this as we wish, how we would work to improve what we are doing and to be the best in the world in teaching and the best value in the world to our students and their families.

We are a global leader in outreach and research. We are a top producer of both Peace Corps members and Fulbright scholars. Our Discovery Themes are expanding our research on a global scale. As you heard from Provost Steinmetz, 93 new faculty have been authorized. At the board meeting in January, we recruited our first faculty member. At this time, we now have a total of 10 accepted offers in Discovery Themes. We are moving forward on filling those positions.

Food security is something that is important to us. We know that 18% of adults and 22% of children in Franklin County are food insecure and do not necessarily know where they will get their next meal. We are investing to do our part to help provide food security for the people of Franklin County, central Ohio, Ohio, and the world. Currently, we have 50 faculty working on food security and we are investing $15 million more from the Discovery Themes to hire new faculty experts. Over the next decade, this will total an investment of about $100 million in food security. We are excited about this and are looking forward to doing things to improve the quality of the community for all.

Finally, we spoke about our opportunity to make Ohio State a model for inclusiveness and diversity. From our student community to the hiring and promotion of faculty and staff, diversity must be recognized and celebrated as a core strength. To achieve this, we are developing university-wide diversity training for search committees. I have charged the task force of individuals from across Ohio State to look broadly at diversity issues that affect students, faculty, and staff. I look forward to hearing their recommendations for how we can improve our inclusive excellence. We want to be celebrated for and want to perform in an outstanding and excellent way based on who we include. We don’t want excellence to come by who we exclude, but rather by who we include. We think that is the way we can move forward to be the best university we can.

This is something where I think were we have different levels of competition. I don’t see why we can’t aspire to be the best in the world. This is our own behavior, our own policies, our own actions and I think we can set the highest standard in the world to make that our goal.

There are many things that we are doing here that give us great success in the areas that I mentioned already. One that we had a chance to celebrate a few months ago was long-time faculty member and scientist Linda Saif who recently became the first woman to receive the prestigious Wolf Prize, joining the likes of Stephen Hawking. She will receive her award in May.

Our Office of Student Life was named one of the 15 Most Promising Places to Work in Student Affairs. The study looked at workplace diversity, staffing practices, and work environment.

Similarly, Forbes named our athletics department one of the 10 best organizations to work for in sports. It certainly is a great organization to work for if you want to win and be associated with national champions and outstanding people. We are really pleased and proud of that work.

This is not in my prepared comments, but has come up a couple of times. I was talking with someone who is a national consultant on educational matters. In talking about our athletics department, I mentioned to him some of the things we have done during the past year that we think are innovative and important. One is that we have an incentive for our athletic director, Gene Smith, who is at the top rank of athletic directors nationally. His incentive package is based on the number of students who are employed after graduation in jobs that require a college degree or are in graduate school or are in the military. We don’t want to only focus on things that happens on the field, although they are important. We don’t want to only focus on our students graduating, although that too is very important. We want to also focus on making sure that they are prepared to be leaders in life as they leave the university. This is part of his contract and I think it is unique and the first step to show that we are interested in their pathway through life. This is something that we reward our leaders for. Gene is excited about this as well.

Over the past nine months, I have spent a great deal of time getting to know Ohio State and identifying some of our challenges and opportunities, and have benefited from the friendship and wisdom of the people sitting around this table. Let me take a moment to thank all of you. This has been great.

We do have a bitter sweet moment that will take place later on today where we will be thanking and saying goodbye to three of our board members who have been quite helpful and inspirational to us. Gil Cloyd, Ron Ratner, and student trustee Stacie Seger are all having their final board meeting today. We will have a moment to say a few things and look forward to sharing and hearing about their contributions. I will mention something about Stacie. We had a board dinner at our home last summer and she sat next to me. I was very impressed with the wisdom and thoughtfulness on the things you were sharing. I look forward to continuing to work with you. I was really impressed with you and it has been reflected in you and so many other students who have done such great work.

As we say goodbye to these exceptional members, we also welcome a new face. This is the first board meeting for Dr. Sheldon Retchin, the new CEO (Chief Executive Officer) of the Wexner Medical Center. It is nice to see you here. Dr. Retchin has all of the attributes we look for in someone who can lead one of the country’s preeminent research institutions.

As Dr. Retchin takes the helm, I want to take a moment to acknowledge Dr. Steven Gabbe for the outstanding job he has done for this university over the past six years. Steve, at the Wexner Medical Center Board meeting a few days ago, we were talking about the quality and safety of the medical center being among the very best of any medical center in the country and the world. We talked about how successfully the medical center has been managed over the year; most successful year in our history. Those are two amazing things that very few places are able to celebrate in any one meeting; being the best in quality and safety and the management is at the top of the heap. As you leave, you leave one of the preeminent medical centers in the world in your wake. I want to thank you again for all of the hard work you have done for us.

I mentioned this before. Steve and Pat are in our community and are working on infant mortality and trying to raise the bar for health. Even though Steve is changing roles, he is still a great contributor to our mission. Thanks again to you and Pat.

Now, I would like to take a moment to remind everyone that ensuring a safe and healthy campus climate for all members of the university community is a top priority for us. Our students are being asked to complete a survey on sexual assault and sexual misconduct administered by the AAU (Association of American Universities). It is a national survey and the results will help us enhance support and service offerings for students in a variety of areas.

This past year’s Undergraduate Student Government President, Celia Wright and many others have taken a national leadership role in this effort. They are raising awareness and fostering change in the university community. I am so proud of their efforts in this important conversation.

I would like to take a quick survey and the audience can participate as well. Do you know a person, man or woman, who was a victim of a sexual assault during their time in college? This is not necessarily an official report that came to you but a colleague, a friend, or someone you know in your life who was a victim of a sexual assault while they were in college. Please raise your hand. I want to take a moment and look at how many hands are raised and what a common thing this is. It isn’t talked about much but it is incredible that each of us know someone who had this happen to them. It is great that our students are taking the lead in trying to push forward this conversation and to see what we can do to make it so that not so many hands will be raised a generation from now. I think it is very important.

I also want to congratulate our newest crop of student government leaders. These two were kind to me and made it so that I didn’t have to remember two different names; I appreciate that. Abby Grossman and Abby Waidelich are the new presidents for USG (Undergraduate Student Government). Are the Abbys here? Yes, I see you both. We also have David Bowers, Karen Munnelly, Guyomar Pillai, and Roger Anderson with the Council of Graduate Students. Are any of them here today? Congratulations in your absence. And, Matt King, Kevin Donnelly, and Noor Abushagur are with the Inter-Professional Council. Congratulations to this new slate of student leaders and I look forward to working with all of you over the years as we make important things happen.

In the midst of all this wonderful news, we have unfortunately faced a difficult challenge in our community this past week. We had a recent arrest of a former staff member with our child care program. This came to our attention about a month or so ago with law enforcement saying that they had information that was pertinent to our community. We assigned a team of university law enforcement and senior leaders to ensure that any potential victims on our campus would be identified and supported. I will say that we were heartbroken and outraged to hear this. Our commitment to the effected community is steadfast. We will do everything we can to support anyone who was affected by this. We have set up a website and an external group for those affected to be able to report this to the group without coming to university officials. We want to make sure their anonymity is protected. We will do everything we can to protect the victims and have cooperated with law enforcement to see that justice is done.

Finally, as we turn our attention to the end of the academic year, I find myself eagerly awaiting my first spring commencement, which will be in a month. This will mark the fourth-consecutive spring that our graduating class has exceeded 10,000 people and their amazing achievements.

They are in for a special treat. Buckeye number one is going to be the commencement speaker. It is a special time for Archie Griffin to be our commencement speaker. He is an outstanding member of our community; a real icon. He has a son who happens to be in the graduating class. This is also the 40th anniversary of Archie’s second Heisman Trophy. It is a great time for us to commemorate the incredible service that Archie has given to our community.

Among the many things that Archie has brought to us, his incredible spirit and generosity, he really has been the embodiment of “paying forward”; doing things today that make the world a better place for people tomorrow. I am so excited and pleased that he accepted our invitation to be the speaker that day.

That concludes my report Mr. Chairman. Thank you for your time.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you President Drake. I am sure, along with everyone else, the breadth and complexity of the topics are immense. I thank you for your leadership. It is a very exciting time for us going forward on so many important things. I think we all have a great sense of optimism that we are in the right place with the right leadership. Thank you.

At this time we will hear the committee reports. I will start by asking Mrs. Wexner to present her report on the Wexner Medical Center Board.
Mrs. Wexner:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Wexner Medical Center Board met on Wednesday, April 8.

We began with our first ever update from Dr. Retchin on the medical center initiatives scorecard. Again, we welcome Dr. Retchin and are thrilled that he is here.

Overall we are very doing well. There are several areas that are trending in the right direction including day’s cash on hand, total operating revenue per adjusted admission, and our ranking in U.S. News and World Reports for best medical schools. While trending in the right direction, we will still continue to watch these metrics. There are a few areas that are currently tracking red that the board is monitoring closely, including overall patient satisfaction, NIH awards, and development dollars. Ms. Patty Hill-Callahan reported that, related to development dollars, there are several verbal commitments so we should see that metric move in the right direction in the near future.

The board then heard a report from Mr. Geier on the medical center financials. We were pleased to hear that all but two metrics are coded as green. The two metrics tracking as yellow are emergency department visits and adjusted admissions. It should be noted that the full emergency department opened this week. We will now see less diversion from our emergency department to others in the community and therefore we expect to see that metric start to trend in the right direction.

Lastly, Dr. Chris Kaeding provided an update on the Sports Medicine Institute. The mission of the Sports Medicine Institute is to “improve people’s lives by enhancing physical activity across the life span”. Some of us are very encouraged to hear that this goes well into our later years.

Dr. Kaeding spent some time reviewing the OSU model for sports medicine which is an integrated, multi-disciplinary, multi-mission program and includes physicians and researchers from a variety of disciplines. Sports Medicine is a broad program which touches not only the Department of Athletics, but also the Office of Student Life and six colleges including Medicine, Public Health, Veterinary Medicine, Engineering, Education and Human Ecology, and Arts and Sciences. Our sports medicine program has numerous partnerships in the community including BalletMet, a number of local school districts, and athletics programs outside of the university. Having an integrated, multi-disciplinary, multi-mission program makes these partnerships possible.

Dr. Kaeding ended his presentation with a video showing the first ever plastic meniscus implant in the United States; which took place here at The Ohio State Wexner Medical Center. This is an innovative and novel way to treat individuals who suffer from meniscus injuries and we are pleased that we are one of the sites in the FDA clinical trial evaluating this treatment.

We then met in executive session. That concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

(See Attachment 2 for background information, page 1179)

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Mrs. Wexner. Are there any questions? I will make a brief comment. We were fortunate to have a guest speaker; the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, Bob McDonald. I think we all learned a lot about that institution that we were not aware of, including, the very high ranking of The Ohio State University as number five. It was very enlightening. We were very pleased to hear that.

If there are no other comments, I will ask Janet Reid to present her report on the Advancement Committee.

Dr. Reid:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Advancement Committee met yesterday and we began with several items for action.

Mr. Eicher, Mr. Monda, and Dr. Wampler provided the University Foundation Report. This included an update on the focus of the upcoming Foundation Board meeting scheduled for April 24, and the development of a scorecard to assist the Foundation Board Executive Committee and Advancement leadership in assessing the overall engagement of the board and in evaluating the effectiveness of the recent restructuring of the board.

The Foundation Board Directorship and Nominating Committee met last month to review 28 candidates for Foundation Board membership. They are looking to add eight to 10 new directors to the board and have identified 14 that we will actively recruit. Their April committee meeting will focus on developing a robust orientation program for new directors. These directors are great contributors to The Ohio State University and are valued.

As it relates to fundraising activity through March 31, 2015, the university documented $255.2 million in new gift activity. This amount was 7% less than the documented total of $275.2 million for the same time period in fiscal year 2014. Please note that the 7% decline is a timing issue, and we have a number of significant gifts in the pipeline that we anticipate closing soon. Our principal gift pipeline is very strong and we are monitoring our progress closely.

Mr. Ripple then presented three namings: the Arne Slettebak Planetarium, Howard & Rene Biel Geography Education Lecture Room, and Internal Spaces in the CBEC (Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering and Chemistry) building.

These resolutions were passed by the Advancement Committee and are included in the consent agenda today.

Ms. Beckwith then provided an overview of the Alumni Association’s Office of Alumni Advocacy. Their mission is to engage, inform, and encourage alumni and friends of the university to communicate and influence elected officials and community leaders on issues of importance to The Ohio State University and higher education. They had a recent meeting in Washington D.C. and a number of people attended.

Mr. Eicher provided an update on the Advancement Scorecard. Overall the scorecard is green. A couple areas of note: we have moved into a steady state with the Buckeye Room. Seven studies have been conducted so far and we have collected great insights from our alumni. Overall event attendance has significantly surpassed where we were this time last year and we are certain to reach our goal for 2015.

Our Key Media Quality score through February is 553,000, which is ahead of our goal of 544,000. The key to this success is a more strategic approach to sharing research stories that carry broad interest. We have wonderful research breakthroughs, and other things as we know, going on here at Ohio State. Having other people know about that too is the focus of this. In line with our annual target, our Social Media score is 6.8.

The president eluded to our “Thank-a-Donor Day” and Dr. Cloyd recapped that during the meeting. I want to highlight a couple of details. Volunteers personally thanked more than 7,000 donors through notes and phone calls. It was designed as a concentrated effort to thank donors and involve the campus community in doing so. Most impressive was the leadership and enthusiasm demonstrated by the students who took charge with involving their peers and thanking donors.

The committee then met in executive session. That concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Dr. Reid. Are there any questions?

Hearing none, I will ask Mr. Jurgensen to present Audit and Compliance Committee report.

Mr. Jurgensen:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Audit and Compliance Committee met yesterday and we had four items for discussion.

The first was an update from our external audit partner, PwC (PricewaterhouseCoopers), regarding the audit plan for fiscal year 2015. As they do every year, they outlined their strategy and approach to the 2015 audit for both the university and the medical center. They discussed the significant risks identified for the university’s audit. There is no substantive change in the list of risks from last year. Those relate to risk of management override of controls, risk of fraud in revenue recognition in certain revenue streams, risk of valuation of alternative investments in our portfolio that are not daily quoted market prices, and risk of valuation in patient revenue and patient accounts receivable.

There will be some new areas of focus relevant for the 2015 audit. Those include GASB (Governmental Accounting Standards Board) changes related to accounting and financial reporting for pensions. This is the one that has me most concerned. It is something that our chief financial officer, Geoff Chatas, is following very closely. My concern is that we are potentially going to be required to reflect in our balance sheet a liability for which we actually have no liability. It is going to change the balance sheet of Ohio State in a significant way if it comes to pass. I worry about the rating agencies. Geoff is on it and we will work our way through it with PwC. The second one is the new federal Office of Management and Budget uniform guidance for entities receiving federal student aid, research grants, and other federal financial support.

Next, Chris Culley and Gates Garrity-Rokous provided the committee with an update on the university’s compliance and integrity program. The committee continued its discussion on federal requirements related to sexual violence and campus safety, through federal Title IX and Clery Act requirements. One item to note is that as part of a federal requirement, Ohio State along with 27 other public and private research universities, including five other Big Ten institutions, is participating in a Campus Climate Survey, what Dr. Drake was referring to, sponsored by the Association of American Universities. We expect the results of that survey in September. Gates also provided an update on the university’s implementation of the required steps identified in our Title IX Resolution Agreement with the Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights. Coming out of that, there was a resolution agreement negotiated between the Office of Civil Rights and Ohio State. We have been in the process of implementing the things necessary to comply with that. All items are complete or remain on track for completion. I think the totality of it should be wrapped up by the fall of 2015.

Gates also provided an update on the Audit Committee scorecard. All items are on track and noted that compliance will be revisiting this scorecard in future meetings. Like all of our committees, we constantly look at our scorecards to ensure that we are following and tracking the right things. I think it is interesting to note that, in Gates’ case in response to a question about this, the kinds of changes that we are considering aren't whether we are measuring the right things but whether our programs are actually effective in accomplishing what lies underneath the point of the scorecard. We look forward to that.

Finally, Chris Culley and Mike Mitchell presented the annual report on the university's affiliated entities. The university has 29 affiliated entities, which are those organizations closely connected to the university, but maintain a separate legal existence. These include organizations such as Campus Partners, the Alumni Association, our Gateway operations in China, India, and Brazil, and Pelotonia. It is quite a varied list of structures. All affiliate entities have reporting responsibilities to two committees, with the Audit and Compliance Committee receiving reports on the entities as business units and a separate committee assigned with programmatic responsibility for the entity. That could be Academic Affairs, it could be Finance; it depends on why the entity exists. It is important that there are two different sets of eyes looking at it.

Through the annual reporting process, the university reviews each affiliate’s financial statements, tax forms, audit reports, and other data, to ensure that they are operating in continued alignment with the university and are adhering to fundamental operational and accounting standards. The committee received detailed updates on those entities with changes in status over the last year. Each of the university’s 29 affiliates fully participated in and complied with the university’s annual reporting requirements and deeper dives on certain individual affiliates will come to the board in subsequent meetings.

The committee then met in executive session. That concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much. I would like to comment about the scorecards. We had a discussion in Academic Affairs and Advancement. Scorecards are a great shorthand way to express how we are doing but they also need to be carefully maintained as to whether or not they still address the right issues. I think we are all paying attention to that. It is a nice way to summarize $5.5 billion a year but we have to be careful to make sure we are really looking at them right.

Are there any other comments? If not, I would like to ask Mr. Shumate to report out on Academic Affairs and Student Life.

Mr. Shumate:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Academic Affairs and Student Life Committee met yesterday. We began the meeting with a review and endorsement of four resolutions. These include: personnel actions; the establishment of a Master of Sport Coaching Degree Program; the establishment of a Master of Learning Technologies Degree Program; and the awarding of degrees and certificates for spring semester at the May 10 commencement where we will have over 10,000 graduates. These resolutions are on the consent agenda for approval by the full board.

President Drake joined the meeting and was consistent with your charge Mr. Chairman. We were focused on his presidential initiatives that were outlined during the recent investiture speech. Our committee is very focused on ensuring the success of those three initiatives and working with the president, as well as our provost to make sure those are priorities and that we are providing the necessary resources as well as review of those items. In particular, there was a good discussion and dialog on the initiative surrounding the issue of affordability, access, and excellence. They are priorities that we are committed to achieving and becoming a model university to make sure we are known as excellent in those three areas.
The committee then reviewed the academic initiatives scorecard. Again, the review was based upon ensuring that we are focused on measuring the right items. In particular, we looked at the scorecard to make sure that there is an alignment with the presidential initiatives. I am pleased to report that the scorecard shows that we are trending very well and there are some key areas that we are watching.

In the area of enhancing the undergraduate and graduate student experience, I am pleased to report that we are currently meeting our 2020 goal for student to faculty ratio. We are closely watching the graduate/professional student academic experience and the number of graduate and professional programs ranked in the top 25 by US News and World Report. This is an area that we are monitoring.

Importantly, the scorecard is currently green in all areas under balancing affordability, access, and excellence. I am very pleased to report that result and as always, we will continue to make that a priority focus, looking at strategies, looking at initiatives, and looking at tactics to make sure we are achieving and exceeding those goals.

The committee then heard from Provost Steinmetz, who provided an update on the Office of Academic Affairs six priority areas. The committee was looking at the six priorities in terms of its alignment with the presidential initiatives, the scorecard, and our academic priority areas.

The provost spoke initially on the quality of our student experience and that we are expanding and enhancing the STEP program, the international student experience, our commitment to career services for all students, and launching new innovative academic programs.

We then took a look at the eLearning focus. The university has developed 15 more online general education courses to add to the 10 launched earlier this year. One of the tactics that the provost and his team are focused on is recently joining the Unizin Consortium, an educational technology consortium that will provide new ways to create and share digital content.

On the topic of improving affordability and access for Ohio State students, the provost reported that the university is a member of the University Innovation Alliance and is developing a presence in predictive analytics to be a measurement that we can use as a tool in accessing our affordability and access. The provost also talked about the Ohio Scholarship Challenge. This is a program that is looking for new strategies to make sure we are focusing on increasing the number, in particular, of need-based scholarships and to add to the focus of being the university known for value as well as dealing with the debt issues that our students face.

Related to the Discovery Themes the provost reported we are hiring faculty for the Data Analytics Initiative, and 42 searches have been approved. Again, to reiterate the fact that we are engaged in a program of training to make sure that as we search for these faculty positions in the Discovery Themes, there is diversity training to improve the pools that we are looking at for hiring. We will expand that program to all faculty searches in the near future. We are also looking at the area of faculty evaluation and rewards; analyzing whether we are consistent with the developments for looking at these categories. The committee is looking at such areas as citizenship, research, team, transdisciplinary research and teaching, and engagement. I think this is an important initiative that will be reporting back to the provost.

Finally, on the priority of enhancing the arts and connections to arts communities. The provost received a plan from the arts district steering committee with recommendations for facilities and programs in the planned arts district.

The committee then met in executive session and that concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.
Board of Trustees meeting minutes, April 10, 2015

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much. Are there any questions or comments?

I think we will all be interested in hearing about eLearning with their expansion and how effective it is. That is an area that we have been paying attention to recently.

I will move on to the Finance Committee, Mr. Gasser.

Mr. Gasser:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Finance Committee met yesterday. There were six items presented for discussion.

I agree with you. The scorecards are one of the items we looked at as well. We need to continue to make sure that the scorecards are relevant. We will continue to review them.

Yesterday we looked at the consolidated, university, and medical center financial scorecards. It was stated that the university and Wexner Medical Center are overall financially on budget.

We also looked at the physical environment scorecard. Mr. Kasey briefly discussed those items coded yellow including facilities condition index and percent of projects completed on time. Jay is monitoring these. The one coded red dealt with traffic accidents. We had two more accidents than we had budgeted. This is a concern and Jay is working on this. The committee will stay on top of this because safety of our students is paramount.

Ms. Readey presented the construction project status report and noted most major projects are rated green on the report as on time and on budget to date.

Mr. Chatas then presented on the current state of tuition and fees, along with State Support for Instruction. The Governor’s budget proposes a cap and freeze for in-state tuition. He proposed 2% for fiscal year 2016 and 0% for fiscal year 2017. Ohio State continues to be one of the most affordable schools in the Big Ten. Geoff shared that we rank fifth most affordable based on in-state tuition for fiscal year 2015. Ohio State has also had the second lowest in-state tuition growth rate since 2006 when compared to all Big Ten schools at 2.4%. I want to stress that this was for information only. The topic of tuition and fees will be revisited at our June meeting and address. We will see how legislation and the governor come out on this.

Mr. Chatas presented the annual waiver report of competitive bids for calendar year 2014. In summary, the number of waivers increased by 88 which equates to a $7 million increase.

The Finance Committee additionally discussed 4 items for action.

Mr. Chatas presented the tuition waiver for study abroad programs. This is policy that we renew every two years and was a tuition waiver relative to Ohio State’s tuition for students participating in Third Party Provider/Direct Enroll study abroad programs. The effect was that students had to pay two different fees. This waiver allows them to only pay one while continuing to be enrolled here at Ohio State.

Mr. Chatas also presented reappointments to the self-insurance board. Four individuals who are on it were re-elected to the self-insurance board.

Mr. Gene Smith and Mr. Chatas presented on athletic prices and fees. Previously, the board approved a proposal to increase ticket prices for up to two home football games that have been designated as “premier” games. For the 2015 season, these games will be Penn State and Michigan State games. Student tickets are not subject to the premier game pricing. In addition and new this year, two home football games will be discounted for the 2015 season, those being the Hawaii and Western Michigan games. Similarly for men’s basketball, we have the ability to designate up to five home games as “premier” if needed. For the golf course, membership dues will increase 2% for 2015-2016 season.

Our final resolution was for professional services and construction contracts for roof repair and replacement on several buildings across the Columbus campus. We didn’t realize that Mr. Ratner was a roof expert but he explained to us that roofs leak all of the time and we need them.

These resolutions were passed by the Finance Committee and are included in the Board of Trustee’s consent agenda today. The committee also met in executive session and that concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much. I had the pleasure of being in that committee meeting for some of the reports and witness the expertise offered by Mr. Ratner.

Are there any other comments or questions? If not, I will move to the last committee report. Mr. Smucker will talk about governance and the number of issues arising from there that we will deal with as trustees.

Mr. Smucker:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Governance Committee met yesterday and reviewed four items for discussion and one item for action. I would like to take a moment to thank the committee’s vice chair, Alex Shumate, for leading the meeting yesterday in my absence.

First, Ms. Douglass presented the talent scorecard. Within the new scorecard, the Office of Human Resources is measuring key drivers of workforce planning and management, including metrics such as faculty and staff FTE’s, hires, separations, age and retirement eligibility, and metrics which track the progress of the classification and compensation project. At the June board meeting, Ms. Douglass will come back to the committee with 2015 data. We will also begin to benchmark against our peer group which will include our Big 10 colleagues as well as other institutions. It was noted by the committee that we should add diversity and inclusion metrics to the talent scorecard. Ms. Douglass indicated that there was a plan to develop and implement those metrics in the near future.

Miss Seger provided an update on the student trustee selection process. Overall the process is going very well. They had a wonderful applicant pool and the selection committee has reviewed all applications. A group of potential candidates has been identified and those individuals will attend the reception that we will host after today’s board meeting. Before you is a list of bios for potential candidates. This is a very impressive list. It will be a hard choice to follow the great leadership that Stacie has provided. The candidates will then be interviewed by the selection committee tomorrow and the top candidates will be interviewed by the governor’s office for final selection of the new undergraduate student trustee.

Our chairman reported on the formation of ad hoc committees. The committee heard a brief update on this at our meeting in January. The first ad hoc committee has grown out of the work of the Governance Committee and centers around the topics of talent and compensation. Trustee Jerry Jurgensen has agreed to serve as chair of this ad-hoc committee. As an ad-hoc committee, it will report in to the Governance Committee. The second ad-hoc committee is that of Master Planning and Facilities. Before his term ends in May, Ron Ratner will lead the convening and early work of this committee. Ron, no rest. You will need to work on this. This committee will work through the Finance Committee.
The committee also reviewed and approved one item for action, Ratification of Committee Appointments, which is on the consent agenda for approval by the full board.

My final item to report on is the election of officers. The committee heard an update on the process for the upcoming year which included a careful and thoughtful review of our current board chair. The board by-laws specify that the officers of the board shall be elected at the February or April meeting of the board.

The governance review discussed the traits and qualities that we, as a board, need to look for in a chair. The chair of the board must be able to build consensus; be collaborative and inclusive; be objective and decisive; be an effective communicator; advance good governance practices; and the chair must put the university and board before self and serve as an advocate for Ohio State.

After a careful and diligent review by the Governance Committee, we would like to place in nomination that Jeffrey Wadsworth serve a second term as Chairman of the board. We would also like to place in nomination Alex Shumate as Vice Chair of the board, and Blake Thompson as Secretary of the board.

Before I make this motion, I know I speak on behalf of all of the board, we are fortunate to have the leadership that Jeff has provided and the willingness to continue to do that so selflessly. We appreciate the continuation of Alex Shumate as the Vice Chairman. Blake Thompson, thank you for your leadership in your new role. You are taking on more than one job. Thank you and I think the trustees are fortunate for all of you. With that, I would like to move that this slate of officers be approved.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Dr. Wadsworth:

Are there any discussions or nominations from the floor? Seeing none, we have a motion and a second.
Upon motion of Mr. Smucker, seconded by Mr. Krueger, the Board of Trustees adopted the foregoing resolution with ten affirmative votes, cast by Trustees Mrs. Wexner, Mr. Fischer, Mr. Porteus, Mr. Gasser, Ms. Krueger, Mr. Smucker, Mr. Jurgensen, Dr. Reid, Mrs. Kass, and Mr. Ratner. The committee then met in executive session and that concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

The consent agenda is now before the trustees. I would like to call on Dr. Drake to present it to the board.

Kay was born April 25, 1915, in Martins Ferry, Ohio. She completed her BS degree in 1941 in Home Economics and her MS degree in 1973 in Extension Education, both from The Ohio State University.

Her extension career in Ohio began on July 1, 1960 as the County Extension Agent, Home Economics in Harrison County. She held this position until her retirement on May 31, 1984.

Professor Whinnery was recognized for her leadership in the many home economics programs which included nutrition programs for both youth and adults, career educational programs for junior high and high school students, and hosting youth activities to develop the leadership skills of young people. She worked with young mothers as well as the elderly at a local health center and in a local cancer clinic.

Throughout her career, Professor Whinnery served on many committees, was a member of the National Association of Extension Home Economists, and was a recipient of the Florence Hall and the Grace Frysinger awards for her team work with her peers. She was recognized by her peers and supervisors as a hard-working, dependable home economist who was sensitive to the needs and interests of people.

On behalf of the university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Katherine F. Whinnery its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed in the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to her family as an expression of the Board’s heartfelt sympathy.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you. Before we adjourn our meeting, we end every April meeting bitterly sweet, where we recognize outgoing board members. I will do a brief introduction and then call upon a trustee to make a comment about the outgoing trustee. The outgoing trustee can then say a few words.

Stacie, Gil, and Ron, get ready. You have been warned.

First, I would like to recognize our undergraduate student trustee, Stacie Seger. We had a very nice evening last night where we were able to also present gifts. I don’t want people to think that you didn’t get a going away gift. That was done last night.

Stacie’s critical thinking and positive disposition have been a great value to the board. We are really going to miss your wisdom and guidance. You have been a steadfast advocate for students and make sure the student voice is heard. We are constantly reminded about how important that is in our deliberations.

You also have a very adventurous side to you. We have two pieces of evidence to support that. Some of us may have more. The first is the corn-on-the-cob eating contest. Last night we watched a video of you skydiving. You are a remarkable person, the best that Ohio State has to offer the world. We thank you for your service to the board.
I would like to ask Brent Porteus to make a few comments on behalf of the trustees.

Mr. Porteus:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. As we, around this table, have experienced, Stacie is an exceptional person. I want to share some thoughts that were solicited from her peers that speak eloquently to what Stacie really embodies. These comments are from those who have served with her as a student trustee.

They call Stacie dedicated to her studies, her college, our university, her friends, and her family. She is always working hard, giving it all that she has. They describe Stacie as very honest, fighting always for what she believes in, and having that tact and wisdom far beyond her years. She exhibits the professionalism that is necessary for the job while still always having fun.

Stacie asks, as we have witnessed, difficult questions. She fully understands the role of a student trustee and has always fulfilled that role with hard work and grace.

Her peers also identify that she is successful in their view because she is smart, direct, and grounded in her value system; always doing what she believes is best for Ohio State.

Stacie, thank you for your service and contributions to this university and to our efforts.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Stacie, would you like to make a few comments?

Ms. Seger:

I want to thank all of you for giving me the opportunity to serve in such a role. Ohio State has 60,000 remarkable students and the fact that I had the opportunity to represent them has really meant the world to me. Sitting around this table with not only the most successful people around Ohio and the nation, I truly feel thankful to call you all friends and mentors.

Although I stand here as a student trustee, you never made me feel that way. I feel as an adequate member of this board; adding a little bit of different expertise and different occupation. You truly have been the leaders for students first and you remember why Ohio State is here and what we do. I am forever thankful to have this opportunity to serve with all of you and to represent this great university. Truly "But for Ohio State", I would not be the person I am here today.

Thank you for believing in me. Thank you for giving me the opportunity. I would also like to give a greater thank you to the OSU community for supporting me in this endeavor. I am not going far and will forever be a Buckeye. Thank you.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Stacie. University trustee boards who do not have student representatives are missing out. It is a big mistake. We are very fortunate.

Next, I would like to turn to Gil Cloyd. Gil has been a tireless advocate for Ohio State for many years. He served on the board as a trustee from 2005-2009, including servicing as chair from 2007-2009. He has been a charter trustee since 2009.

Gil, your service over the past decade is exemplary. That decade does not fully capture your Ohio State life. We heard last night about how Gil started his college career at one of our regional campuses and he continues to remind us of their importance with his own pathway and the opportunities he had.

He graduated from our own College of Veterinary Medicine in 1969. He supported Ohio State and its students throughout a remarkable career at Proctor & Gamble. It spanned four decades. I am not trying to make you feel old.

His contributions to us include invaluable guidance on innovation, technology commercialization, and university advancement. We will greatly miss having Gil’s steady hand guiding us. I want to also add my personal note to this and say how much I have appreciated the discussions we had and the wisdom and insight you bring to the topics we worked on.

I will ask Linda Kass to make a few comments on behalf of the trustees.

Mrs. Kass:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. It is my privilege to say a few words about Gil Cloyd, who has served 11 years as a trustee of this university.

As Dr. Wadsworth mentioned, he began quite a while ago as an undergraduate and then attended graduate school here. To give context around some of the contents that Dr. Wadsworth made, a bit of board history and to appreciate Gil’s role as a trail blazer.

He was appointed by Governor Taft in 2005 as part of an expansion of the board, from nine to 15 members. Those new members were given staggered terms. He was appointed for five years. Significantly, he became the first elected chair of the modern era of the board. Previously, board members served as chair in their ninth year, their final year of their appointment. Gil was an inclusive and consensus chair. He served in that role when I was appointed to the board seven years ago.

Concurrent with the end of his appointed term, Gil retired from Proctor & Gamble and moved from Cincinnati to Austin. During his year of hiatus, the Governance Committee set the policy for Charter Trustees; trustees who live outside of the State of Ohio selected by the board. Gil became our first charter trustee. In fact, Gil’s dedication, knowledge, and passion for Ohio State became the model for what we look for in a charter trustee as we go forward.

Some history about his role at Proctor & Gamble, which is interesting to how he has been such an effective trustee. As research chief at Proctor & Gamble, he interfaced with many universities. As a result, he arrived here with great insight around the workings of academic institutions. He has the researcher’s inquisitiveness, attention to detail, preparedness, and brought with him P&G’s engrained culture of innovation in developing new products and rethinking old ones. He was really equipped to help Ohio State think about how research can be applied and was attentive to the Discovery Themes and how they can impact the greater good.

Gil, from the moment he arrived, never stopped beating the drum for affordability and access, as you are hearing from us today. He really championed those values and was the voice of the board for that. He also led the advancement framework planning team that took about a year to create the blueprint for the strategic integration of marketing and communications, alumni relations, and fundraising that we now know as advancement.

I think he has served on every committee of the board. He has made his mark in so many ways. He has been a role model for many of us here, as trustees, with his passion for the university, steep involvement, thoughtful questions and insight, his frequent affirmation of people and programs, and extensive impact across the university.
We are all deeply appreciative for all that you have done Gil for Ohio State University. We will miss you.

Dr. Cloyd:

Thank you very much for those generous and kind comments. As I said last night, serving on this board has been the singular biggest honor in my life. This is a marvelous institution. This is a marvelous board. The university leadership and the people within this university are all marvelous people.

To be associated with and to be able to provide, in some small way, help to an institution that has such a dramatic positive impact on our society has been a wonderful opportunity for me. We can talk the research and service that this university provides, which adds an unbelievable benefit to our society. The part to me though, that always seems to bubble to the top is the educational component. This university has the ability and does impact and change lives of thousands and thousands of young men and women; opening doors to them in life that otherwise would not open. That is really noble. I was so excited during President Drake’s investiture speech to hear the recommitment and to take Ohio State to even a higher ground, when we talk about what we can do in terms of access, affordability, and excellence in education. I am very confident that this university will go to that next higher plane.

I want to thank all of the trustees. You are marvelous colleagues and great friends, I have learned from all of you. I will miss this but the virus has infected me too. Anytime I can help this university, it will be my pleasure to do so.

Thank you.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much Gil. I am sure you haven’t heard the last from us. We appreciate everything you have done.

Thirdly, I would like to acknowledge the contributions of Ron Ratner. Ron has served over the past year as Vice Chair of the board. Ron, thank you for your wisdom on so many facets of university life. From housing to campus development, you have selflessly given from your deep professional knowledge of these areas in order to dramatically improve the lives of students on our campus. You came to the planning table and the board table ready to engage all in thoughtful discussion. Notably, you always kept the students best interest in the forefront of our conversations. This was noticed and appreciated.

We are going to miss having you as our resident trustee from the Cleveland area. We are thankful though for a continuing university presence in Cleveland due to your efforts in locating our first recruiting office there. I suspect we will see you recruiting there in the years ahead. We thank you for your service.

I would like to ask Jerry Jurgensen if he would speak on behalf of the trustees.

Mr. Jurgensen:

Thank you Jeff. In order to talk about Ron Ratner, I need a brief setup, in the spirit of our president’s capacity. I think we all look at life through a set of glasses. These glasses that we all wear guide what we think and guide what we say. The glasses have two lenses in them. The first lens reflects our personal values set. In the case of Ron Ratner, I think the value lens that he looks through, as I come to know him, are the values of caring, compassion, and common sense. In everything he says, in how he thinks and reacts, I am reminded and see these values in him.
The other lens in the glasses that we look at life through, reflects our experiences. All of us react to issues as a function of the personal life experiences that we each have gone through. In the case of the lens with Ron comes through as competency. A lot of us, over the nine years or length of time that we get to spend here on this board, are all going to get a chance to work on fascinating and interesting things. For the most part, none of us are going to have the opportunity to have something left behind that reflects our values and reflects our experiences.

That will not be the case for Ron. What Ron will leave behind for this university is a comprehensive master plan as to how this university will think about its real property, its physical environment, and the impact that it has on our student’s success here at the university. This master planning exercise, I don’t believe, would have happened if it wasn’t for the commitment that Ron has made to its completion. There was an incredible amount of time spent on the campus working with people on the board and working with people in administration.

This plan has dealt with our infrastructure, it has dealt with our way-finding, it has dealt with the construction of new buildings, the creation of architectural standards, looked at the issue of deferred maintenance, it looks at the issue of logical connectivity between physical assets on the campus and the programs that they drive. All of this has benefited immensely and is from Ron’s competency and lens from personal experience.

I think he has demonstrated to all of us through his contributions why his professional profile is so important to the necessary skills matrix that we discuss with the governor when we talk about his consideration on new trustee candidates. This board needs to have someone in its midst who has a professional profile, who has a set of personal experiences, and who has a set of personal values that reflect Ron Ratner. It has been great and an honor to work with you.

Mr. Ratner:

I never realized what an embarrassing moment this really is. Jerry, thank you. I really appreciate your observations. There have been many times in my life that I wish my parents were here because those values are the values that I think I grew up with and hope that my wife and I have transmitted to our kids.

It is also interesting that Jeff referred to me as the resident Cleveland trustee. I don’t know if that meant that I was resident in Columbus or in Cleveland because I have spent a dutiful amount of time on I-71 driving between the two cities. I am personally familiar with virtually every orange barrel. I might add that it is spring again and they came out yesterday. They are blossoming throughout the entire route, which is always a joy. Tim, you don’t have to drive quite as far but nonetheless, it is always a pleasure to come down here.

It is also interesting, as I sat here listening to many trustees as they have gone through this exit process, every one of them without exception thanks the university for the opportunity to have been of service. I think that signals to this board. I cannot think of another place where I have had the opportunity to serve where I have been thankful for that opportunity. I have had a lot of experiences in the civic community in my life but nowhere have I felt as deeply committed to the institution. And nowhere have I felt that the institution has given back to me.

The other thing that is interesting is that we always thank the other people, specifically the trustees with whom we have served, both who are currently on the board and the whole group of trustees we served with earlier in our career. I might add that Gil was the first trustee I met. He was then the chair and welcomed me with his normal grace and tolerance.

It is interesting today that I am leaving with Gil and Stacie because I was also shocked, as Jeff said, at how extraordinary valuable the student trustees have been. I have been pounding on a number of other institutions that I am engaged with to open their doors to student trustees. Not just to sit on the board but to be an active member of every single deliberation the board has. That I think is really critical and has changed the manner in the work that we have done.

In the way of thank-you, I also would like to thank all of the administrators. We don’t often think about that but the board could not do its work without the cooperation of the administrators with whom we work. Originally I worked with Jeff Kaplan in the physical facilities area and more recently with both Jay Kasey and Keith Myers. They are extraordinary. Their commitment and devotion to the university is remarkable and all of the people who work in their offices, in that case are the people I work with most closely. Throughout the university, Dr. J is in the audience and Dr. Gabbe was earlier, all of us as trustees realize that we cannot do our work without the active support of administrators.

In many cases, there is tension between administration and the board. I don’t sense that tension here at all. I really look at them as colleagues.

Lastly, I would like to thank the board office. They are unsung. As Gil mentioned last night, for those of us who live out of town, they keep us on schedule, they keep us in the right place. They try their hardest to keep us from committing cultural faux pas that don’t always make it because sometimes we do. They are an extraordinary group that work selflessly and with the leadership of Blake, they have been the support that allows many of us to do what we do.

I don’t want to go on any longer. I want to thank everybody again for the opportunity to be of service and as with every departing board member, I am not far away. I will journey again down I-71 at the beck-and-call of the university. I certainly hope that I can find a way to continue to be of service to this great institution. Thank you.

Dr. Wadsworth:

We certainly hope we find a way to stay connected with the three departing trustees. The board has been made so much stronger by your contributions. The role of fiduciary is one that can’t be overstated in its importance in our roles. Everyone has contributed to this. Thank you again for your time and service.

I will remind the trustees that we are meeting student trustee candidates immediately following adjournment.

The next meeting of the board will take place on Friday, June 5, 2015. If there is no other business, this meeting is adjourned. Thank you.

COMMENCEMENT CONVOCATION

Archie Griffin

Buckeye football legend Archie Griffin has devoted his professional career to serving The Ohio State University and its half million alumni. As president and CEO of the Ohio State Alumni Association and senior vice president for alumni relations, Mr. Griffin’s goal is to make it possible for all alumni to stay connected with and strengthen the university.

Mr. Griffin is the only two-time winner of the prestigious Heisman Trophy. A three-time All-American, the former running back is included in the NCAA’s 100 Most Influential Student-Athletes. He is a member of the National Football Foundation & College Hall of Fame board of directors and is in its Hall of Fame.

In 2014, Mr. Griffin was honored as All-Century Player by the Tournament of Roses Association in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Rose Bowl game. He played in four consecutive Rose Bowl games under legendary coach Woody Hayes, who once said of Mr. Griffin: “He’s a better young man than he is a football player, and he’s the best football player I’ve ever seen.”

Mr. Griffin earned his undergraduate degree in industrial relations from Ohio State in 1976. He was a first-round draft choice of the Cincinnati Bengals, where he served as cocaptain and played with the franchise for seven years. He returned to Ohio State in 1984 and rose to become associate director of athletics for sports. He joined the Alumni Association in 2004.

With a commitment to paying forward, Mr. Griffin created the Archie Griffin Scholarship Fund, which benefits Ohio State’s Olympic sports programs. He and his wife, Bonita, formed the Archie and Bonita Griffin Foundation Fund to help develop sports, educational and travel programs for youth in central Ohio. A sought-after speaker and humanitarian, he also serves on many boards and foundations.
RECIPIENTS OF HONORS

Michael L. J. Apuzzo
DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

One of the world’s most-renowned neurosurgeons, Michael L. J. Apuzzo has made countless discoveries that have helped redefine the field of neurosurgery. A native of New Haven, Connecticut, Dr. Apuzzo received his undergraduate education at Yale College, his medical education at Boston University and general surgical training at McGill University’s Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal.

Upon completing his neurosurgery residencies at Yale, Dr. Apuzzo served in the United States Navy’s Nuclear Submarine Service. During this time, he created a detailed protocol for recognizing and managing neurological emergencies during clandestine patrols and received special recognition for his service from the United States Surgeon General and the Atlantic Fleet Admiral. This experience influenced his perspective on using novel technologies to solve neurosurgical problems, which became a central theme in his career.

Subsequently, he pioneered the establishment of minimally invasive strategies in neurosurgery, in particular endoscopy, focused beam radiation and imaging guided navigation as well as the use of computers and microscopes as essential neurosurgical tools. These methods were later adopted by other surgical disciplines. He devised innovative methods for removing brain tumors previously believed to be inoperable. He both envisioned and established the amalgam of cellular and molecular biology and nanotechnology within the neurosurgical field. He identified and later defined the important emerging area of functional restoration in the era of modern technologies such as robotics, stem cell, grafting and modulation.

A prolific scholar, Dr. Apuzzo has shared his ideas and findings in three seminal textbooks, 12 monographs and more than 700 other individual works. He has served on more than 25 editorial boards and as a highly innovative editor-in-chief for two flagship journals in his discipline over a 24-year period.

With a passion for competitive sports, Dr. Apuzzo has acted as the primary neurological consultant for both the New York Football Giants and the University of Southern California Athletics Department. As a special consultant, he also helped create protective protocols for the NCAA and NFL related to cerebral concussions.

Today, Dr. Apuzzo holds many appointments, including the Edwin M. Todd/Trent H. Wells Professor of Neurological Surgery, Radiation Oncology, Biology and Physics at the University of Southern California Keck School of Medicine.
David Lang
DOCTOR OF MUSIC

Among the most-performed contemporary American composers, Dr. David Lang has achieved international recognition for the fierce energy and intelligence of his compositions.

He began his career as a composer after earning degrees from the University of Iowa, Stanford University and Yale University. His extensive catalog of music - described as ominous and ethereal, hypnotic and unsettling - includes works for nearly every genre and instrumentation. Renowned performing arts organizations around the world have presented his work, including the Santa Fe Opera, the Nederlands Dans Theater, the Los Angeles Philharmonic and the Paris Opera Ballet.

In 2008, Dr. Lang received the Pulitzer Prize for Music for his critically acclaimed the little match girl passion, co-commissioned by Carnegie Hall in New York and the Perth Theatre and Concert Hall in Scotland. For his groundbreaking work, Dr. Lang has received many other honors, including the Richard and Barbara Debs Composer’s Chair at Carnegie Hall, Musical America’s Composer of the Year Award, a Grammy Award for Best Small Ensemble Performance, the Doris Duke Performing Artist Award and the International Society for the Performing Arts’ Distinguished Artist Award.

He also has received numerous grants and fellowships from some of the most prominent foundations in the United States, including the Solomon R. Guggenheim Foundation, the Foundation for Contemporary Arts, the National Endowment for the Arts, the New York Foundation for the Arts and the American Academy of Arts and Letters. The French government also named Dr. Lang a chevalier in the Ordre des Arts et des Lettres. In 2014 he was elected into the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Dr. Lang is a well-respected educator and advocate for new music. He is the co-founder and co-artistic director of New York’s famous music festival Bang on a Can. Additionally, he is a professor of music composition with the Yale School of Music.

Kathleen Gilligan Sebelius
DOCTOR OF PUBLIC SERVICE

With an innate calling to serve others, Kathleen Gilligan Sebelius has dedicated her professional career to elevating the quality of life for countless Americans.

Most notably, she was twice elected governor of Kansas, followed by an appointment to President Barack Obama’s Cabinet as Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. In that role, Gov. Sebelius shaped and implemented the president’s signature legislative effort to reform the nation’s health care.

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, Gov. Sebelius is the daughter of former Ohio governor, John Gilligan. She is the only governor’s daughter ever to earn that same title in American history. During her first term, which began in 2003, Gov.

Sebelius became known for her ability to effectively partner with legislators from both parties. She also eliminated a $1.1 billion state budget deficit while championing education spending.

In 2005, Time magazine highlighted her as one of the nation’s top five governors. A rising political figure, Gov. Sebelius delivered the official party response to the 2008 State of the Union address, cementing her credibility among lawmakers.

Transitioning from state government to supporting the White House in 2009, Gov. Sebelius’ expertise in health policy steered a variety of initiatives during her time with Health and Human Services, including the passage and implementation of the Affordable Care Act. She exhibited leadership in women’s health issues, tobacco control, prevention of chronic diseases and mental health parity. She was also responsible for the nation’s response to natural disasters and emerging epidemics, including the 2010 Haiti earthquake and the H1N1 flu outbreak.

In recognition of the weight of these duties, Gov. Sebelius was named one of “The World’s 100 Most Powerful Women” by Forbes in 2013. She stepped down from Health and Human Services in summer 2014.

Gov. Sebelius earned her undergraduate degree from Trinity Washington University and a graduate degree in public administration from the University of Kansas.
Jameson Crane
DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

For nearly seven decades, Jameson Crane has been an engaged partner of The Ohio State University, inspiring generations of Crane family members to follow his example as a philanthropic leader. His relationship with the university began in the 1940s when, after serving in the U.S. Navy during World War II, he used the GI Bill to enroll at Ohio State.

In 1947, following three years on the Buckeye football team, he earned his undergraduate degree in business administration. He then forged a distinguished career with the Plastics Division of Columbus Coated Fabrics Corp. before joining Crane Plastics in 1960. Today, he is chairman emeritus of the Crane Group, a private holding and management company in Columbus.

Along with his family and late wife, Ann, Mr. Crane has provided significant support for academic programs, scholarships and building projects at Ohio State. He has helped make possible the Crane Study Table at the Younkin Success Center, the Crane Designated Professorship of Strategic Marketing and the Jameson Crane MBA Fellowship.

The Cranes also established three vital centers: the Crane Center for Early Childhood Research and Policy, the Loann Crane Advanced Language Institute and the Jameson Crane Sports Medicine Institute, which will be the nation’s largest sports medicine facility.

Mr. Crane has been a member of the Ohio State President’s Club since 1972. He also served on the Foundation Board of Directors from 1991 to 2002 and participated in the planning and execution of the Affirm Thy Friendship Campaign, which raised $1.23 billion for the university.

An active member of the Columbus community, Mr. Crane has served as president of the Columbus Club and Columbus School for Girls boards. He also served for more than 25 years as a director of Bank One Corp.

Nancy L. Zimpher
DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

A three-time graduate of The Ohio State University, Dr. Nancy L. Zimpher is a nationally recognized leader in higher education administration with a commitment to teacher preparation, urban education and university-community engagement.

After earning her undergraduate, graduate and doctoral degrees at Ohio State, Dr. Zimpher devoted more than two decades of service to the university’s College of Education. For 14 years, she was a faculty member in the School of Educational Policy and Leadership and held several vital positions before becoming dean of the College of Education in 1993 and executive dean of the professional colleges in 1994.

As dean, Dr. Zimpher successfully reorganized the College of Education into three schools and transitioned the teacher preparation programs from undergraduate to graduate level. This dramatic change led to higher admission standards, stronger placement records and heightened visibility for the college.

She was instrumental in the creation of Ohio State’s first Academic Plan, the formation of the Younkin Success Center and the establishment of Campus Partners and its activities related to the university’s development work with the city of Columbus. She also served on many University Senate and ad hoc committees, most notably the Senate Fiscal and Provost Search committees.

Since leaving Ohio State in 1998, Dr. Zimpher has become the first woman to serve as chancellor of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, president of the University of Cincinnati and as the current chancellor of the State University of New York – the nation’s largest comprehensive system of higher education.

She is the co-founder of Strive Together in Cincinnati, a national model for fostering collaborations between universities and communities to promote student success throughout the education continuum. She remains active in numerous other organizations, including the National Association of System Heads and the American Council on Education. She also has chaired boards for the Coalition of Urban Serving Universities, CEOs for Cities and the NCAA.

BACKGROUND

TOPIC: Renew previously approved tuition waiver for Third Party Provider/Direct Enroll study abroad programs for fiscal years 2016 and 2017.

CONTEXT: State law only allows a waiver of tuition if it is authorized by law or approved by the Chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents for the period covered by each state biennial budget. The purpose of this request is to outline the need for the continuation of the tuition waiver for students participating in Third Party Provider/Direct Enroll study abroad programs in fiscal years 2016 and 2017.

SUMMARY: Currently, Ohio State students pay a uniform instructional fee and general fee regardless of major or classes in which they are enrolled. Students participating in Third Party Provider or Direct Enroll study abroad programs paid the tuition or charge for the these programs and all related costs in addition to the instructional and general fees at The Ohio State University prior to the establishment of a tuition waiver through The Ohio State University Board of Trustees and the Ohio Board of Regents in fiscal year 2015. If the waiver is not continued, it will result in students either paying in two tuition payments for the term in which they are enrolled in such programs or dis-enrolling at The Ohio State University to reduce the financial burden. Dis-enrolling causes the student to be “off our radar” and to be at risk for travel-related situations such as manmade or natural disasters and medical emergencies.

Therefore, the administration is seeking to continue the tuition waiver for students enrolled in these programs. State law only allows a waiver of tuition if it is authorized by law or approved by the Chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents for the period covered by each state biennial budget. Based on procedures established by the Ohio Board of Regents, the Board of Trustees must first pass a resolution approving the tuition waiver prior to submitting a request for the tuition waiver to the state.

Ohio Revised Code Section 363.230. HIGHER EDUCATION - BOARD OF TRUSTEES

(A) Funds appropriated for instructional subsidies at colleges and universities may be used to provide such branch or other off-campus undergraduate courses of study and such master's degree courses of study as may be approved by the Chancellor of the Board of Regents.

(B) In providing instructional and other services to students, boards of trustees of state institutions of higher education shall supplement state subsidies with income from charges to students. Except as otherwise provided in this act, each board shall establish the fees to be charged to all students, including an instructional fee for educational and associated operational support of the institution and a general fee for noninstructional services, including locally financed student services facilities used for the benefit of enrolled students. The instructional fee and the general fee shall encompass all charges for services assessed uniformly to all enrolled students. Each board may also establish special purpose fees, service charges, and fines as required; such special purpose fees and service charges shall be for services or benefits furnished individual students or specific categories of students and shall not be applied uniformly to all enrolled students. A tuition surcharge shall be paid by all students who are not residents of Ohio.

The board of trustees of a state institution of higher education shall not authorize a waiver or nonpayment of instructional fees or general fees for any particular student or any class of students other than waivers specifically authorized by law or approved by the Chancellor. This prohibition is not intended to limit the authority of boards of trustees to provide for payments to students for services rendered the institution, nor to prohibit the budgeting of income for staff benefits or for student assistance in the form of payment of such instructional and general fees.
TOPICS: Football and Men’s Basketball Ticket Prices
Golf Course Membership and Daily Green Fees

CONTEXT: The Ohio State University Department of Athletics continues to be one of only 18 self-sustaining athletic programs across the nation. Currently, the Department of Athletics funds more than 1,100 student-athletes in successful endeavors of athletic competitions and academic achievement with a graduation success rate of 89%. Yearly, the Department of Athletics contributes more than $30 million to the institution’s academic mission. Funds generated from ticket sales are used to sustain the scholarships for over 625 student-athletes.

In February 2013, the Board of Trustees approved a resolution allowing the Department of Athletics to designate a select number of premier games for football and men’s basketball. Given the success of that program, the Athletic Council and university administrators recommend the continuation of those guidelines for fiscal year 2016 as well as the ability to discount two football games for the 2016 season.

RECOMMENDATION:

For Football tickets (2015 football season):
- Option to designate up to two home football games as premier games and price the reserved public tickets between $79 and up to a maximum $125 and $150 per game, respectively. (Student tickets remain not subject to the premier game pricing.)
- Option to offer discounted rates for up to two home football games and price the reserved public tickets at $65.
- Maintain the reserved public ticket price of $79 for all remaining games, the faculty and staff season discount rate at approximately 80% of public price, and the student ticket price at $34.

For Men’s Basketball tickets (2015-2016 basketball season):
- Option to designate up to five non-conference or conference home men’s basketball games as premier games and price the Personal Seat License and club level seats at $47, reserved public zone 1 (lower level and upper level sideline) seats at $46, reserved public zone 2 (upper level corner/end) seats at $25, and student seats at $13 per game.
- Maintain the non-premier, non-conference and conference game ticket prices as shown in the attached table, and maintain the faculty and staff discount price for season tickets at approximately 80% of public price.

For Golf Course Membership Dues and Green Fees:
- Alumni/Affiliates, Faculty/Staff, OSU Student and OSU Affiliate Family membership dues will increase 2% for 2015-2016 season.
- Daily green fees remain unchanged from last year.

CONSIDERATIONS:

Football Tickets:
- Single-game ticket prices have not increased since 2013.
• Premier game pricing has been successful since being introduced at Ohio State. When Ohio State began premier game ticket pricing, the practice was already in use by other Big Ten institutions and various athletic programs across the country.

• The proposed schedule for the 2015 season would include two premier games: Penn State ($125) and Michigan State ($150), while Hawaii and Western Michigan would be discounted to $65.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Good morning. I would like to reconvene the meeting of the Board of Trustees and ask the Secretary to note the attendance.

Dr. Thompson:

A quorum is present, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

So that we are able to conduct the business of this meeting in an orderly fashion, I would ask that the ringers on all cell phones and other communication devices be turned off at this time, and I would ask that all members of the audience observe rules of decorum proper to conducting the business at hand.

One of our favorite parts of the meeting is to call on our student trustee, Steven Loborec, to present the Student Recognition Awards. Steven.
STUDENT RECOGNITION AWARDS

Dr. Loborec:

Thank you Chairman Wadsworth. We have the honor of recognizing two students today, Zeenia Kaul and Benjamin Rubinoff, and at this time I would like to ask them to join us at the table.

Zeenia Kaul is a working professional Master of Business Administration student in the Fisher College of Business. Born in India, raised in Japan, and educated in Australia, Zeenia appreciates diversity of thought, of people, and of education. It is why she spent last year introducing disadvantaged children at Columbus Preparatory Academy to the benefits of complementary medicine like yoga and meditation. Her 14-week project, the Optimal Health Program, is one of more than 200 Albert Schweitzer Fellowship initiatives aimed at improving the lives of disadvantaged people across the nation. She tackled the emotional, psychological, and academic connections to health. Zeenia is also a cancer geneticist who is in the midst of her post-doctoral fellowship at The Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center. Her project combines her interest in alternative medicine with her desire to give back to the community.

“There are reports that show health disparities in underserved populations,” she said. “Even common diseases are managed differently in underserved populations because of a lack of information and resources.” And that is the goal of her fellowship; to help these populations because they are truly disadvantaged.

She tells her lab partners that they should all be getting business degrees because Fisher has caused her to think differently about her research, particularly how to translate discoveries into useful innovations. She credits the idea for her project to taking business courses. Without them she never would have thought about target segments or how to evaluate risk. This thinking has come only after enrolling at Fisher.

After graduation, she plans to work in the area of social innovation to support patients, physicians, researchers, and life science companies to develop enhanced tools for cancer care.

Thank you, Zeenia, for making a difference in the lives of fellow Buckeyes. Congratulations!

Ms. Kaul:

Good morning. My name is Zeenia Kaul. I am a second year post-doctoral fellow at The Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center and a second year MBA student at the Max M. Fisher College of Business.

To the Board of Trustees, President Drake, Fisher College of Business faculty, Dean Makhija, and Professor Rowe, thank you very much. I am truly and honestly thrilled to be here to receive this award today. This is the realization of a huge endeavor that I, along with many others, undertook last year.

Last year I was awarded an Albert Schweitzer Fellowship. The Schweitzer fellowship is dedicated to serve and empower wonderful people to live healthier lives and create healthier communities. I worked with more than 50 students from Columbus Preparatory Academy to address stress management focusing on physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual well-being of elementary students. I initiated and led the Optimal Health Programs which included yoga, guided meditation, nutrition, and community service to achieve wellness.
I am not a school teacher and I am not a nutritionist who can provide expert nutrition advice, but, I was there. I was there with the kids and can humbly say when I initiated this project I was ignorant of many things. I had to rely on a community of partners and my students. Optimal Health Program participants engaged in mind and body activities, donated 100 meals to Mid-Ohio Food Bank, received expert nutrition advice, and made a “calm down” kit that could help to navigate feelings in high stress situations.

My community partner and I believe all students are capable of learning and succeeding. By creating an environment tailored to the student’s needs, the school and Optimal Health Program have successfully demonstrated that all children can thrive at high levels.

I am very fortunate to be able to pursue and serve along with my other academic responsibilities as it keeps me moving in the right direction and I am building collaborations wherever I can. Most of the opportunities that have risen came about through my connections rather than my academic career. The university, Fisher College of Business, and Albert Schweitzer Fellowship have given me the opportunity to live my passion.

I thank all of you sincerely from the bottom of my heart. Thank you.

Dr. Loborec:

Our second student is Benjamin Rubinoff. Benjamin graduated from Lakota West High School, north of Cincinnati, and is now a junior in the Environmental Science honors program in the School of Environment and Natural Resources within the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences.

He serves as co-chair of the ambassadors of the college and president of the ambassadors for the School of Environment and Natural Resources. He is a member of the Ohio State Buddhist Study and Practice Group and was the sustainability chair in the Lincoln Residence Hall Council.

Ben has extensive research experience as an assistant research associate in the Ohio State Stream and River Ecology Laboratory and he also worked with the Smithsonian Institute last summer. He has received several grants and funding awards, and is now working on his honors research.

To Ben, life is a precious resource. He believes that all life on earth deserves to be celebrated and protected. Early childhood experiences built on his belief that the key to conservation is public awareness. As a result, he strives to promote biodiversity through research and communication with both the scientific community and the general public.

His way of giving back to the planet is by furthering his education and engaging in research opportunities in order to build the necessary knowledge and tools to protect precious marine resources.

After he graduates from Ohio State, he plans on attending graduate school to receive a PhD in marine community ecology. His ideal school is UC Davis; but is also considering University of Washington and Oregon State University. After that he plans to pursue postdoctoral research, eventually starting a career in academia or working for a federal research institution such as the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration or the Smithsonian Institute.

Congratulations Ben, and best of luck to you!
Mr. Rubinoff:

Thank you for having me here. I don’t have anything formal prepared but want to give a few comments on my background and why I am here.

I grew up in Cincinnati. Even though I was in the land-locked Midwest, I really loved the ocean. I had some great experiences on family trips with snorkeling. At first I thought the ocean was a playground or bathtub. As time progressed, I realized it is an ecological bathtub of all different amazing organisms and diverse life. I think it is amazing and great to celebrate.

With my interest in marine biology and marine ecology, I am often asked why I am here at Ohio State. Although Stone Lab has great limnology type courses, the main reason I chose Ohio State is for the people and research. I visited different institutions and universities and had the chance to meet with my academic advisor Dr. Mažeika Sullivan, here at Ohio State.

What I realized with Dr. Sullivan is that although I might not have a great marine experience here at Ohio State, I am able to gain research experience. I am really glad that I followed through and decided to take him on as my advisor and come to school here because within my first few weeks here at Ohio State I was in Darby Creek surveying fresh water mussel populations. That is pretty cool and not many students can say that within their first few weeks of college, they were out doing field work. I am grateful for that.

The other thing I am grateful for here at Ohio State, within the School of Environment and Natural Resources, is the academic and career services side and the administration of the school. Without their help, I don’t think I would have been able to get the amazing internship I have with the Smithsonian Environmental Research Center. That internship showed me that I will be very happy with a research career. I am grateful to not only have that research experience but to be able to bring it back here to Ohio State. I have presented it at the Denman Undergraduate Research Forum and at the College Research Forum.

I would like to thank my advisor. Unfortunately he is unable to be here. Dr. Mažeika Sullivan has been great in supporting me and helping me find amazing experiences like I have had. I am also grateful for my family. My mom and dad, Eric and Nora, are both here. Without their support, I don’t think I would have the drive and ambition.

I would like to thank Ohio State for providing me with an amazing undergraduate experience and helping me prepare to give back to the world.

Thank you.

Dr. Wadsworth:

I would like to take a moment to again congratulate the students receiving recognition today. This is always a special moment for us because it embodies the values and principals, the things that are important to this university and what we should pay attention to.

In addition to recognizing two superb students, today we have the opportunity to recognize three of those who make the Ohio State experience rewarding through the conferring of the Distinguished University Professors.

With us, we have three outstanding recipients who have contributed to the teaching, research and service missions of the university, and have inspired a generation of students like those we recognized. Congratulations to Professors Julia Andrews from the Department of History of Art, James Cowan from the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry, and Ulrich Heinz from the Department of Physics.

I would now like to ask our Provost, Joseph Steinmetz, to present the Distinguished University Professors and then we will take a few moments to hear, in their own words, about their outstanding work from each of them.

DISTINGUISHED UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR AWARDS

Provost Steinmetz:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. This morning, we celebrate the highest honor that the university bestows on a faculty member and that is the conferment of the title Distinguished University Professor. Thus far, the university has conferred this permanent honorific title on a total of only 50 of our faculty members.

This program has a rigorous selection process. Each August, the Office of Academic Affairs sends a call for nominations to recommend faculty for this honor. Department chairs, school directors, and the Faculty Awards Committee forward their nominations to their college deans. The deans develop a review process, solicit support letters nationally and internationally, and forward their final nomination decisions to our office.

Selection committees are chosen from among the members of the President and Provost’s Advisory Committee. I thank this year’s selection committee members for their time and commitment to this prestigious program. Dr. Terry Miller, Ohio Eminent Scholar Emeritus in the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry, served as this committee’s convener. Other committee members included Dr. Yasuko Rikihisa, Distinguished University Professor from the Department of Veterinary Biosciences and Dr. Randy Nelson, Distinguished University Professor, Dr. John D. and E. Olive Brumbaugh Chair in Brain Research and Teaching, and also the Chair for the Department of Neuroscience.

The Distinguished University Professor designation includes automatic membership in the President and Provost’s Advisory Committee. In addition, the Office of Academic Affairs designates a one-time cash award of $30,000 to each of these Distinguished University Professors to be used for scholarly work.

Members of the board, I am honored to recommend three esteemed colleagues for the designation of Distinguished University Professor: Professor Julia Andrews, Department of History of Art; Professor James Cowan, Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry; and Professor Ulrich Heinz, Department of Physics.

Will you three please come forward and be seated at the table?

At this time, I would like to say a few words about each of these distinguished colleagues and will begin with Professor Andrews.

Professor Julia Andrews joined Ohio State’s faculty in 1987. Today, she is widely regarded as one of the world’s leading authorities in the area of modern and contemporary Chinese art. In addition, she is considered largely responsible for bringing modern and contemporary Chinese art as a new area of study in the discipline of art history.

Her meticulous archival in field research is recognized nationally and internationally and her work has garnered many high prestigious awards. For example her book Painters and Politics in the People’s Republic of China won the Joseph Levenson Prize of the Association for Asian Studies. Interestingly, it was named the best book on modern China, not on Chinese art, but on the country and its politics through the lenses of its art.

As a nominator explained, “she surveyed thousands of paintings and prints produced over the first three decades of the People's Republic of China to find those which most tellingly revealed the visual effects of art politics. This scholarship also established her as the foremost authority on the art of the Mao period. In addition, her recent co-authored book, Art of Modern China, won the 2013 International Convention of Asia Scholars Book Prize in the Humanities. In addition to these award winning publications, she co-authored and co-edited five exhibition catalogues and more than 40 articles and essays. She has also won Ohio State's Distinguished Scholar Award.

She has taught classes at all levels and expanded the university’s curriculum in East Asian art in both the undergraduate and graduate levels. This expansion has made Ohio State’s offer in Asian Art among the most comprehensive in the country. Her wide range of university services include serving as the co-founder of the Institute for Chinese Studies, a collaborative effort with the Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures.

Professor Andrews earned a bachelor degree from Brown University, a master degree from Harvard University and a doctorate from the University of California, Berkeley.

Please join me in congratulating Professor Andrews.

Professor James Cowan’s research focuses on bioinorganic chemistry. As one example, a nominator specifically noted that his scholarship “has made outstanding contributions to understanding the inorganic chemistry of biological processes with particular emphasis on structure, mechanism, and function.” In addition to advancing the basic knowledge, his work has led to untangling the complex science underlying many diseases. Furthermore, another nominator explained “his approach is novel and unique in that he is actively trying to move his chemistry from the test tube to the clinic.” The nominator added “the goal requires an impressive mastery of not only chemistry, but also pharmaceutical principles. In short, his unveiling of the connections between inorganic chemistry and biology is leading to the development of drugs to tackle entrenched medical challenges in new ways. This is an elegant example of moving from basic to applied science.”

He is the author of a primary text on inorganic chemistry, now in its third edition. He has written three additional books, holds five patents, and his work has been published in 230 peer reviewed articles. In addition, he has been invited to present at 150 lectures from around the world. He has taught graduate and undergraduate students at all levels and has mentored more than 30 graduate students. In addition, his department, college, and university, national and international services, is extensive and exemplary.

Among his many honors, he won Ohio States Distinguished Scholar Award and is an elected fellow of both the American Chemical Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. In addition, he was elected as a member of The Royal Society of Edinburgh, an honor comparable to our National Academy.

Professor Cowan earned a bachelor degree from the University of Glasgow and a doctorate from the University of Cambridge. In addition, he served as a post-doctoral researcher at the California Institute of Technology prior to joining Ohio State’s faculty in 1988.

Please join me in congratulating Professor Cowan.

Professor Ulrich Heinz is an internationally respected leader in the field of theoretical nuclear physics. He research interest led to robust collaborations with experimental physicists. Together, they dove into possible ways to glean a better sense of the beginnings of our universe. His leadership in this work resulted in his having a huge impact in the discovery and understanding of the quark-gluon plasma, which is a novel state of matter formed when nuclei are heated to trillions of degrees in a collider.

His work has been published in more than 200 peer reviewed articles. With regard to scholarship, a common measure of research impact and relevance is the number of citations from other scholars. Dr. Heinz is credited with an astounding number of more than 13,000 citations by other scientists in their work.

Professor Heinz’s teaching contributions include his work on the honors physics series which is offered to first-year honors students, not just physics majors. He was a leader in revamping the curriculum for this series and introduced a more interactive classroom environment. As an example of the effects of the revised curriculum, his class on electromagnetism achieved the national record for greatest student gains in understanding using a pre and post testing method. His nominator wrote that he is also one of the key instructors of graduate students and that “Professor Heinz brings a level of rigor and clarity that sets the standard for the department.”

Professor Heinz has a distinguished record of service to the discipline, department, college, and university, including services on editorial boards.

Among his many honors, he is a recipient of Ohio State’s Distinguished Scholar Award and a fellow of both the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Physics Society.

Professor Heinz earned his master’s degree and doctorate from Goethe University in Frankfurt. He joined Ohio State’s faculty in 2000.

Please join me in congratulating Professor Heinz.

At this time, we would like to hear a few words from our new Distinguished University Professors. Professor Andrews, would you like to say a few words first?

Professor Andrews:

I was hired by the Department of History of Art in 1986 with an Academic Challenge Grant from the state of Ohio to build upon the department’s excellence in Asian art history. I teach the art of East Asia, from ancient to modern, and my research, perhaps more by accident than design, has been significant in the development of a new area of Chinese art history, the study of art of the modern period. One might think that there would be a lot written about modern Chinese art, as there is about modern art in the West, but when I began work there was almost nothing written in Western languages, and scholarly writing in Chinese still carried heavy political burdens. When studying in Beijing in 1980 I wondered how Chinese artists had come to paint the bombastic political propaganda they had created, and why its legacy remained so strong despite the market reforms and international orientation of the post-Mao era. To satisfy my curiosity, my first book was an institutional study of the Chinese art world from 1949 to 1979 that looked at how painters lived and worked under Mao. This was all a sort of accident, but one enthusiastically encouraged by the History of Art chair who had recruited me to OSU in 1986.
In 1993, just before the book appeared, I had the privilege of organizing a show of post-Mao Chinese art at the Wexner Center for the Arts. All these accidents began to seem like a plan when I was approached by the Guggenheim to curate the modern part of their China: 5000 Years exhibition, which opened in 1998. Our selections yielded the first historically organized display of modern Chinese art ever held in the west. Such a comprehensive show (selected on the quality and significance of the art, not on political criteria) had never been held in China. The large catalogue laid out our framework for post-1850 Chinese art history, and along with a comprehensive online exhibition, hosted at OSU, made the material instantly accessible to students and instructors worldwide. Almost overnight, to our astonishment, universities throughout the English-speaking world began offering courses on modern Chinese art, using the Guggenheim catalogue as the textbook and the OSU website as review material. Modern Chinese art became an important part of our field, and since 2000 about half the dissertations written in Chinese art history are on modern topics. My more recent book, Art of Modern China, continues to have impact in expanding the parameters of global modern art. I hope, as well, that through art, students can understand a wider world, and through knowing a wider world, will better understand our own place.

Thank you and Ohio State for offering me all of these opportunities to help develop my career. Thank you.

Professor Cowan:

I’d like to begin by expressing my appreciation for the recognition and the honor that are being afforded to me today, and I’m particularly pleased to be joined by my family, my wife Ada, daughters Eilidh and Gwynedd, and son Lachlan. This will be as much a memorable day for them as it is for me.

My research lies in the field of bioinorganic chemistry, the study of metals in biology. If you pick up a food item at the local supermarket and look at the nutritional label on the back, you’re going to see listings of the percentage in daily requirements of copper, iron, manganese, calcium, et cetera. These are the mineral ions, the trace elements that are essential for the correct functioning of every cell in our bodies and how cells communicate. Metals promote the biochemical pathways that underlie our metabolic chemistry, replication of our genetic information, how oxygen is carried in blood, the conversion of the energy in food to the movement of muscles, and powering our brains and central nervous system. Metal ions allow chemical reactions and transport processes to occur readily in living cells that would not otherwise be possible except under extreme conditions of temperature, pressure, or acidity.

Over the past two decades we have strived to advance the chemical understanding of metals and life. It’s interesting to look back at how our research has evolved, because it would have been impossible to predict that path ahead of time. We first made important discoveries concerning the metal magnesium, which catalyzes many general reactions in our body, including DNA replication, and stabilization of important structural motifs in RNA and DNA chemistry. It is extremely difficult to study because there are so few ways to investigate it. It is not colored or magnetic so we had to develop chemical and biophysical tools to probe that chemistry.

This led us to discoveries of how magnesium serves as a catalyst to allow reactions to occur so readily under physiological conditions, and we have sought to mimic those processes by developing catalysts that destroy disease-related targets, that break down sugars and provide routes to biofuels.

We also sought to understand the biological chemistry of iron, an essential element, but highly toxic. It requires special carriers to move it around our body. It is also tightly regulated; too little is bad, we would suffer anemia and too much is bad, would lead to a condition known as iron overload. The cell has to know precisely how much iron is present in the cell and develop mechanisms to sense cellular iron concentration and regulate its uptake and movement. We have learned how cells regulate iron, how cells make essential iron cofactors such as hemes that carry oxygen in our blood and Fe-S (Iron-sulfur) clusters that carry electrons and allow the mitochondria in our cells to convert energy from the food we eat to a usable form in the body, and how complex metal species are biosynthesized.

When all of this stuff doesn’t work properly it gives rise to disease states. The biological chemistry of metals is intimately connected to health and well-being. We also seek to understand the molecular basis of many natural disease states through the dysfunction of cellular metal ion chemistry.

Recently we have started to plan for the next phase of our research, as we seek to develop the neurochemistry of metals, to understand their functional roles in promoting memory, cognition, neural health, and making connections with other disciplines in the field of neuroscience. We also plan to build on our prior research in catalysis to learn how to manipulate complex sugars, a frontier area in biomedical science and sustainable chemistry.

In closing, I would like to note that when I was a graduate student and postdoctoral fellow I was fortunate to have advisors, mentors, who were very hands off. They gave me freedom to explore. Benign neglect, one might say. As with the raising of a child, it is sometimes necessary to extend some measure of freedom to allow learning and true exploration and discovery, to be able to fail and stretch boundaries, because in research, by definition, you don't have a roadmap. I have tried to emulate my mentors by allowing a great deal of latitude to my coworkers and I have not been disappointed. I can honestly state that many of the very best ideas we have pursued and findings we have made have extended from ideas that have come from my own graduate students, and to them I am extremely thankful. Were it not for their efforts, and the support of my family, I would not be here before you today.

Professor Heinz:

Thank you. Good morning!

I am a theoretical physicist interested in quark-gluon plasma. This is the matter that filled our entire universe at its beginning, shortly after the Big Bang.

This type of matter is unlike any other type of matter ever seen by man. It exists only at temperatures more than 100,000 times hotter than the center of the sun, or at densities larger than those in the core of neutron stars. This is stuff that gets theorists excited!

Obviously we can't go back in time for 13 billion years to study the beginning of our universe; even our best telescopes don't reach that far, and if they did they wouldn't “see” anything of the quark-gluon plasma, just like they can't “see” what's inside the core of our sun.

Believe it or not, we found a way to make and study quark-gluon plasma in the laboratory. My experimentalist friends perform studies at high energy accelerators, the Relativistic Heavy Ion Collider on Long Island and the Large Hadron Collider in Geneva, Switzerland, where they smash atomic nuclei at almost the speed of light into each other. This creates tiny fireballs of quark-gluon plasma that explode, due their enormous internal pressure, and decay into little fireworks of literally tens of thousands of particles.

With my group I have developed a theoretical approach that allows us to analyze these fireworks. We call them "Little Bangs", and extract from them information about the quark-gluon plasma that existed during the early part of the Little Bang's life. We called it VISHNU (Viscous Israel-Stewart Hydrodynamics 'n' UrQMD). Don't worry about what that means, I can explain it to you later. Just think of it as the Indian god with four arms, who is obviously much more powerful than any human being with two arms.

We found fantastic results. Even though this quark-gluon plasma is hundreds times denser than neutron star matter, a pinhead of it could sink an ocean liner, it flows more easily with less viscosity than any other fluid ever observed by man. We therefore call it “the perfect liquid”.

Some of you will ask why we should care. Why should taxpayers put so much money in these big experiments? What good is such esoteric research for my daughter at OSU who only wants a degree and a well-paying job afterwards? And why make and study stuff that last existed 13 billion years ago?

Let me use my last minute to give you two answers. First, I want to paraphrase Michael Faraday, who when asked by UK Prime Minister William Gladstone about the potential use of his groundbreaking work on electricity, reportedly said “I have no idea your honor, but someday I am sure, you will tax it.” Of course, he was right. Man has always been attracted by physical and intellectual challenges, and fundamental research is the basis for all technological progress. But the latter cannot be predicted, and sometimes it may take decades to turn fundamental discoveries into things like iPhones.

Second, students find this stuff exciting. Through the years, I have been working with dozens of undergraduate and graduate students. I love to see them grow into scientists. In fact, without their work, their ideas, their insights and discoveries, I wouldn’t be here today. I owe them a lot. My students get exposed to cutting edge research at a young age and learn early how exciting, and how hard, it is to find new answers to new questions that you can’t look up in books or on the internet and for which nobody else knows the answer yet. They acquire a broad range of skills and methods, and they learn how to combine them in novel ways to solve problems that nobody else solved before them. We don’t teach them recipes, we teach them how to ask the right questions, find the solutions, and how to check they are correct.

I always tell my students: “Academia is not for everybody but with a degree in physics you can solve any problem, anywhere. You can do anything, even become Chancellor of Germany.” And it’s true, whether at Google, designing cars, performing risk analysis, in the banking sector, analyzing and predicting the economy, in the political arena, in the environmental and climate sciences, even in the patent office, you find us physicists everywhere!

Thank you very much for the great honor you have bestowed on me today.

Provost Steinmetz:

Ladies and gentlemen, please join me in congratulating our 2015 Distinguished University Professors.

Dr. Wadsworth:

It is hard to know how to improve from the history of art to the “perfect liquid” to biochemistry. It is the DNA of a fantastic university to cover this spectrum of work with such depth and with such worldwide recognition and acknowledgement. I think this makes everyone of us proud to be part of this institution. Thank you for describing your work and congratulations on the well-deserved award. Well done.

Mr. Smucker:

Would it be possible to have the Distinguished University Professors provide their comments to the trustees? I would love to have a copy.
Dr. Wadsworth:

Sure. We will ask for them.

Mr. Smucker:

We are learning all of the time.

Dr. Wadsworth:

It is a great idea. They each had wonderful and different messages of excellence. We will have the secretary collect them.

The only thing I can think of to follow this excitement is the approval of the April meeting minutes. They were distributed to all members of the board. If there are no additions or corrections, the minutes are approved as distributed.

Mr. President, we now turn to you for your report.

President Drake:

Thank you very much. It is great to be here. I appreciate that we are able to celebrate at these meetings. I have been in this role for a year now and it has been a fascinating year filled with many firsts and honors.

It has been wonderful to have the chance to meet with people from Buckeye nation here and across the country. Ten days ago, Brenda and I were in a park in France and someone came up and said “Dr. Drake?” I say, “yes, hello.” It was one of our students. We know that Buckeye nation is everywhere around the world.

There are many things that have been special during this first year. One thing that I have enjoyed is the chance to meet and get to know many of our students. We have a wonderful group of students. We have different ways of interacting with them: their maturity, their focus, level of appreciation they have for the opportunity that the university has provided for them, and the great dreams they have for what they plan to do after graduation when they go out into the world, this is something that is inspiring on a daily basis and it is great to be a part of it.

We have many staff. We see staff in a variety of functions; from those who keep our building clean, those who work in our laboratories, those who are police, and other service staff. It is a great collection of people who make the university run. Their dedication and appreciation for what they do for our region, for our university, and for our nation is inspiring.

We have many volunteers, who are not on the staff, our current and former trustees are in that category, carry on their love, dedication, and service to the university for the rest of their lives.

I have been thinking of a few specific highlights. There were some that were early on like the convocation. Student move in dates are wonderful to meet the family. I enjoy meeting mom and dad. I enjoy meeting the suffering younger siblings. They are usually the last to get out of the vehicle. It is great to see the multi-generation buckeyes; siblings joining their siblings or parents bringing their children here to have the same wonderful experience they had. Some of the parents even met here.
We have had several wonderful times in this room. I was thinking that we had a great meeting in January where we acknowledged the formation of the Glenn College. We had John and Annie Glenn here. What amazing people they are and have always been. They exemplify what it means to be amazing people with lives that are almost too magnificent to describe. We also had our National Championship football team here with very thoughtful insights delivered by a couple of the players. It was nice to hear the players, who were not born at the time that Senator Glenn had so many of his great achievements, talk about how amazed they were reflecting on his life.

Today was terrific. In the past, when I received mine, the Distinguished University Professor awards came in an envelope; this is a step up. I remember thinking about decades of consistent work every day focusing on your research. To be acknowledged by your peers as having done work that was meaningful to them and to be able to look at the world to see how people were performing differently is professionally one of the greatest acknowledgements of my life. I know that you are able to feel that strength here on a daily basis.

As the chairman was saying, a comprehensive university has a breadth of things that we focus on: art history and the importance of how people are feeling and living their lives, how this is exemplified by art, learning about people by looking at the art they create, why did they choose to create it, what were the circumstances?

The way the human body works is amazing. Professor Cowan mentioned iron and how you have to have a tiny amount but a tiny amount too much is terrible. Isn't it amazing that it has to be regulated consistently in all of our cells, in all of us, all of the time?

In physics, the origin of the universe. I had a hobby as a star gazer years ago with my younger son. We would go to the planetarium and talk about them and read books. We went home one day, he was eight, holding hands by the front door and he began to cry. I asked him what was wrong. He said he started thinking about how long is forever and how far it is to the end of the universe. These are mind-boggling concepts to think about. It is using ourselves at our highest order to try to make sense. To be able to design experiments that mimic things that happened an unimaginably long time ago. To be able to learn from them inspires us to do our very best. It is great to be part of an enterprise that has this kind of thought and colleagues who work at the highest level in the world this way.

 Congratulations again and thank you for your contributions to the university.

I was awestruck by the power of Pelotonia and how we are able to reach so many families and do well for so many people on a daily basis. Thousands of people come out to volunteer, participate, and support us during this event. It shows that in our land-grant mission, this is one of the many manifestations of it, this is one way that we really touch people in their lives and homes during the most important time when either a family member or they themselves are suffering.

Four weeks ago, we had a graduation ceremony with 11,000 degrees that were passed out. More than half of our degree recipients stay in Ohio. Archie Griffin was our commencement speaker. Many of us had the privilege of being there. To be able to have a real story that is connected to the time and place we were in, but in a magical way, and show what a life well lived looks like, touching something that was important to everyone in the audience, graduate or family member, giving a message to continue to be better people. Archie, we are grateful to you for that, really for the life that you live that is inspiring to all of us.

Archie is transitioning. He has devoted his professional life to The Ohio State University. He will now step into a semi-retired role where he will leave his daily job, although will still be associated with us. He has served the half million alumni and has served the entire country by the example of what a life well lived looks like. I want to say how privileged I am to have had a chance to get to know you, how grateful we are for what you have done for the university thus far, and how excited we are that you will continue your relationship with us.

We had a wonderful time at the investiture to share some ideas and look at where we were as a university and were we might go. As you know, we had a focused theme. The focused theme is affordability, access, and excellence. To make sure, so that everyone is clear, all three of those modify each other. Two of the three is not enough. To make good on our promise to the nation and to take advantage of the opportunities we have is to make good on all three so that our affordability, our access, and our excellence continue to grow.

We looked at ways to do this and at partial lists to address. We developed a few themes that I think are useful for us here on campus. I am pleased that we have the support of our colleagues at the state house as well. The governor, the senate president, and the speaker are all enthusiastic supporters of our university and what it can do. We look forward to the acknowledgement of their support over the next several weeks as we are moving forward.

We are announcing today our Affordability Grant Program. We announced that we are going to dedicate $15 million more to need based aid this coming year. We are doing it in the form of affordability grants. Students who qualify for Ohio and federal aid will be given $1,500. Those who don’t qualify for federal aid but qualify for aid from Ohio will get $1,000 additional. We are extending this further into the middle class. There are some students who don’t qualify for any aid but may also receive $1,000 grants. This means that this coming year, we will have 12,240 students who will participate in this program. We are excited about this. This will start in August 2015.

The grants will cover more than a third of the Ohio undergraduate students on our campus. It is nice to be able to help and do what we can to help lower the debt our student have. We will pay for this by finding efficiencies and devoting this money directly towards our students. One of the things announced this week was the contract renegotiation of office supplies. This renegotiation will save money going forward but we received a $1 million payment from the office supplies contract and that will go into the scholarship fund and will be in our student’s pockets in August. We are doing this over again in different ways small and large. We want to make a difference.

Another thing we believe is important for affordability is having one of the most affordable tuition rates in the United States. Our tuition has stayed level for the past three years. We are going to ask the board to approve extending this flat tuition and flat room and board for the next year going forward. This will mean that a student who graduates next spring will have paid the same tuition all four years while attending classes here at the university. That is almost unprecedented in this day and age. Looking at other efficiencies, we are able to have room and board stay flat this next year. It is about $3 million in savings directly to our students. We are excited to be able to do these things.

As I mentioned, these things help with our affordability. Our excellence requires investments. We are looking for efficiencies that allow us to reinvest in excellence in supporting the great work of our faculty. We have had very positive conversations with our colleagues at the state house regarding the state's role in making sure that public universities in Ohio are supported at a level that is adequate for us to be able to continue to compete with the best in the world. These conversations are going very well and look forward to good results with the budget process that takes place later on this month.

We had a great leadership summit on May 13th. It was an educational summit. Sixty-five educational leaders from campus were brought together for a day-long facilitated conversation on the state of higher education institutions, particularly our institution and institutions like ours, and discussed what things we can do to make our educational product and processes better and how can we make these things available to faculty to get the highest level of teaching possible. We had a very enthusiastic conversation. This is the beginning of a year-long conversation. We offered the ones who attended the chance to continue with the conversation and 100% of them signed up to come back in September for the next iteration. We look forward to doing what we can to set the standard for quality of teaching in research higher education institutions.

We also looked at distance learning, better use of summer semester, more research and applied experiences, and the concept of a teaching and learning institute that would have as a permanent fixture on campus. We will form an advisory council that will meet, as I mentioned, in September. Everyone involved in the initial discussion agreed to come back and participate. We are looking forward to making a real change.

We received a $10 million gift from Stan and Jody Ross to our neurosciences program that will allow us to continue to be at the cutting-edge of neurosciences.

Last week we announced that some of our engineering researchers developed new technology that will enable cell phone batteries to last up to 30% longer. That is amazing.

Last month, we published a study that ties skipping meals to abdominal weight gain, which adds to our understanding of human nutrition and the causes of obesity.

As we are looking forward to the conversation on affordability, access, and excellence. We will have a state tour this summer and visit different parts of Ohio to talk with real people in real time about the things that affect their lives like water, food safety, and security.

As we continue to advance our priorities, what continues to strike me about Ohio State is the power and impact we have, not only locally and regionally, but around the nation and the world. What we do here matters to people all over the world. Because of that, we have a responsibility to be an exemplar of what is possible for a 21st-century public university. People are watching and people care. It makes a difference to them.

We need to be a diverse and inclusive organization with a diverse and inclusive community. We have to be forward-thinking, values-driven, inspiring, efficient but effective, and finally, affordable and excellent. These things are the real challenge but is a real opportunity to make a difference.

My commitment to you is that I will continue to do my best to work with you to advance these lofty goals forward. We have had a great beginning. Through consistency, collaboration, and integrity we will guide forward and continue in our position as one of the leading institutions of higher education anywhere in the world.

Mr. Chairman that concludes my report. Thank you.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much Mr. President. This is another slice through the complexity of the university.

We will hear six committee reports. I call upon six of the chairs to present those. I will comment that all 17 trustees are involved in the work of the university; it is a $6 billion a year enterprise with tremendous challenges and opportunities. The committees that you will hear from also have subcommittees. Those subcommittees usually include outside experts as well as members of the administration. We work together in ways that are not seen because it is rolled up into our six reports. I want to assure you that there is a tremendous amount of work that happens from all aspects of the university to try to ensure we are doing the right thing.

At this time, we will start with Mrs. Wexner and the Wexner Medical Center Board report.

Mrs. Wexner:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Wexner Medical Center Board met on Tuesday, June 2nd. We began our meeting with the recognition of Stan and Jodi Ross. As Dr. Drake mentioned, Stan and Jodi have been long time supporters and advocates of the Wexner Medical Center and have served as co-chairs of the Neuroscience Committee in the But for Ohio State Campaign. They generously funded a faculty chair in neuromodulation, currently held by Dr. Ali Rezaei. Inspired by Dr. Rezaei’s world renowned work and passion, they have committed $10 million dollars to create the Stanley D. and Joan H. Ross Center for Brain Health and Performance in the Neurological Institute. I know I speak on behalf of the board when I say that this gift is truly transformational and we could not be more grateful.

Dr. Ellison then provided the CEO (chief executive officer) update in Dr. Retchin’s absence. There are a few metrics we continue to watch and those include development dollars and NIH funding. We had a robust discussion about one of the metrics we track, patient mortality. There is a slight tick in that number but we realized that we hold ourselves to an incredibly high standard at the medical center. Our performance, in terms of patient mortality, is a leader in the country and we are one of the best in that area. We will continue to monitor this closely.

We heard an update from Mr. Geier regarding the financials. We are currently $104 million ahead of budget, excess revenue over expense, and are beating the prior year in all metrics. This is significant given that as we entered the current fiscal year we were going to be opening a new hospital which carried a significant level of uncertainty.

The board then heard an update from Dr. Mary Nash, Chief Nursing Officer. She reviewed several metrics as it relates to nursing. I would like to highlight that we have a world-class nursing staff at the Wexner Medical Center as recognized by several national recognitions. We have three Magnet Designated Hospitals: University Hospital, Ross Heart Hospital, and the James Cancer Hospital, and five Beacon quality award-winning units. These recognitions demonstrate the excellent care that our nursing teams provide to our patients. All of us who know nurses know that they make a tremendous difference in the lives of our patients. We are grateful to all of the nurses who work hard on behalf of all of our patients.

The Wexner Medical Center board is recommending to the full board the approval of additional funds for the Jameson Crane Sports Medicine project. This will allow us to build out four operating rooms in the new facility. This project is included in the resolution that was reviewed by the Finance Committee.

The board also met in executive session. And that concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

(See Attachment 2 for background information, page 1211)

Dr. Wadsworth:

We had a very good meeting. Are there any questions for Mrs. Wexner? Thank you.

Dr. Reid will present the Advancement Committee report.
Dr. Reid:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. I would like to start my report by acknowledging the two students and three Distinguished University Professors who came in and spoke with us this morning. Research in the area of advancement, as it pertains to Ohio State, indicates that one of the greatest things that attracts potential and current donors to our institution is the quality of research. I see that it also attracts students. We thank you for choosing to come to Ohio State and hope, especially the students, will become future donors, if you are not already.

I must admit to Dr. Cowan, I am a bioinorganic chemist. There are few in the world. To have one honored today makes me feel proud.

Research is certainly one thing that attracts donors to our university. In fact, we have, through April 30th, documented $299 million in new gift activity. Our total Campaign activity is $2.26 billion, almost 91% of our $2.5 billion goal. The pipeline has never been stronger.

We acknowledged the namings related to the Danny Price Student Lounge, Pre-Clinic spaces in Fry Hall, the Stanley D. and Joan H. Ross Center for Brain Health and Performance, and the Geraldine Smith and Arthur Winfough Jr. Executive Board Room. These resolutions were passed by the Advancement Committee and are included on the consent agenda today.

Dr. Wampler provided the University Foundation Report. The Foundation Board has a lot of work to do and many committees are deeply engaged on issues of stewardship and campaign coordination.

We heard from Ms. Beckwith on behalf of the Alumni Association. Ms. Beckwith provided an overview of the Office of Volunteer Relations and their Buckeyes Give: Day of Service initiative. This day resulted in an inaugural event of approximately 150 volunteers coming out to clean up trash and recycling along Livingston Avenue. The idea is to create an event that can be replicated across all 50 states using the similar concept of either recycling or other concepts in bringing people even closer to the university with regard to volunteer activities.

Mr. Eicher provided an update on the Advancement Scorecard. It is overwhelmingly green. We have understood that through large events, we are still engaging donors and potential donors to the university. We have also found out that smaller events have a great impact. We are looking at ways to create smaller events.

Our Key Media Quality score has increased. Much of this is due to the pushing out of the great news on the research we do here.

Finally, Ms. Keyes and Ms. Russell provided background on the Leadership Annual Giving Program. This program targets alumni and friends, who are capable of higher-level annual gifts and pledges in the $3,000 to $50,000 range.

The committee then met in executive session. And that concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Dr. Reid. Are there any questions? If not, I will call upon Mr. Jurgensen to report out on the Audit and Compliance Committee meeting.
Mr. Jurgensen:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Audit and Compliance Committee met yesterday and we had three items for discussion on our agenda.

The first item for discussion was an update from our external audit partner, PwC (PricewaterhouseCoopers), regarding the external audit plan for fiscal year 2015. Planning is underway with no significant changes in the entities to be audited, process to be used, or anything else. PwC had their annual kick-off meeting with our chief financial officer and each of the individuals leading these affiliates to review. For this year, it is business as usual.

Next, Chris Culley and Gates Garrity-Rokous provided the committee with an update on the university’s compliance and integrity program. Gates shared information regarding the annual risk based site assessments that the Office of Environmental Health and Safety conducts of all research labs on campus. This is not a small task. It covers over 800 investigators on campus and over 3,200 labs. Creating a system to ensure that what happens in those labs is appropriate and safe is daunting.

They developed a scorecard to provide quarterly reports at each college level that is given to the deans and department chairs to help monitor and to provide the basis for this risk assessment. Like so many things in the university, it is hard to imagine in any one year how to look at everything that needs to be looked at. Two tools are employed here. One is that you try to take a hard-fast look at all the things you deem to be the riskiest; that assessment is both art and science. The second thing you do is to spread things out over time to ensure that over a reasonable rolling period of time, maybe three years, everything we do need to dig into and look at gets done. That is all part of this planning process.

They also provided an update on the University Ethics Program, including information about new ethics law training sessions and videos that are being provided to all new faculty and staff, university senior leaders, and others serving in managerial roles on campus. Gates reported on the implementation of the university’s new learning management system, BuckeyeLearn. This is an online tool, in part. We will begin with Title IX training utilizing the system next month, with broader and fuller implementation of Title IX and other training modules to be rolled out in the fall.

Finally, Gates provided an update on the university’s implementation of the required steps identified in our Title IX Resolution Agreement with the Office of Civil Rights. All items in this resolution plan are either completed or on track for completion at the appropriate time.

The committee also reviewed the Audit Committee scorecard. Performance is up on all items, although Gates did add a word of caution with respect to the Office of Research’s Annual Compliance Plan, due to an employee transition that has impacted the office’s progress on its annual compliance plan. Whenever we have frequent turn-over, we need to pause and look at the plan. I don’t think there is anything here for anyone to be overly concerned about.

The committee then met in executive session. And that concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you Mr. Jurgensen. One of the interesting parts of the Audit and Compliance Committee meeting yesterday was trying to anticipate problems. We don’t hear about them when they are anticipated.
Mr. Jurgensen:

We always ask them to tell us about what we should be worried about that they don’t know about.

Dr. Wadsworth:

That is exactly the way the question is asked. They try hard to answer it. Thank you Jerry.

The next report is from Mrs. Kass presenting the Academic Affairs and Student Life Committee report.

Mrs. Kass:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Academic Affairs and Student Life Committee met yesterday and we began with the review of several resolutions including: amendments to the Rules of the University Faculty; personnel actions; the awarding of degrees and certificates for summer term, including the awarding of a posthumous degree to Antonio Crutchfield; and the establishment of the Department of Biological Chemistry and Pharmacology. This is the merger of the Department of Molecular and Cellular Biochemistry and the Department of Pharmacology

These resolutions were passed by the committee and are included in the consent agenda today.

The committee reviewed the Academic Initiatives Scorecard. Overall, the scorecard is tracking green in most areas. We are watching a few metrics tracking yellow. In the area of enhancing the undergraduate and graduate student experience, we continue to score green with performance up in the areas of student to faculty ratio and the national survey of student engagement high impact practices participation.

Under the area of developing the Discovery Themes, now coded yellow, we hired 19 faculty and data analytics to date but Provost Steinmetz expects to fill 40 to 50 positions in the fall with one-third being diversity hires.

I am pleased to report that we are coded green and performance is up in all areas under balancing affordability, access, and excellence for our students, and in all areas developing eLearning.

Provost Steinmetz and Vice President of Enrollment Services Dolan Evanovich then presented the new five year Enrollment Plan, which is the cornerstone to guide university enrollment through 2020. Developed over a year and gaining the input of Deans, campus leaders, and students, this plan is thoughtful, fiscally sound, and completely driven by President Drake’s goals of access, affordability, and inclusive excellence. By looking at all facets of enrollment, this plan is an important component in charting the future of Ohio State.

Under the topic of access, Mr. Evanovich emphasized the number of pathways through which students can come to Ohio State, including dual enrollment while in high school, traditional enrollment at the Columbus or a regional campus, or through distance education programs. Objectives include increasing the number of online general education courses, increasing the enrollment of online master’s degree students, increasing the percentage of first-generation students on all campuses, and maintaining, at current levels, the number of post-baccalaureate professional students and Columbus and regional campus freshman.

The affordability goal includes the announcement by President Drake, at his March 31 investiture speech, for an immediate increase of $15 million in need-based scholarships for the 2015-16 academic year. Objectives include strategically holding down future increases in tuition, fees and related costs of attendance; using increased need-based scholarship funds to help Columbus campus undergraduates from low- and middle-income families; and continuing to reduce time to degree completion.

The strategic driver of inclusive excellence states that every student benefits from an environment that embraces our rich diversity of race, class, culture, orientation, and identity. Objectives include increasing the enrollment of underrepresented populations; taking into account, during the admissions process, the value added by students with special talents and unique contributions, and diversifying international enrollments by country of origin. Additional objectives include increasing the persistence rates of regional campus freshmen; holding traditional measures of academic excellence on the Columbus Campus, such as ACT scores, Top 10 and Top 25 percent of high school graduating class; and enhancing the first year retention rate on the Columbus campus to 95 percent and improving the four- and six-year graduation rates.

Fiscal objectives for the viability of the plan include holding traditional enrollment steady at all campuses, we are at 64,500 overall; expanding distance education enrollments; modestly increasing traditional graduate enrollments; and boosting out-of-state students to not more than 35% overall.

The committee was very pleased with this next phase of the enrollment plan and feel that it will drive the land-grant vision for the 21st century.

The committee also met in executive session. And that concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much. There was a nice story in the paper this morning about the grants. There were nice quotes reminding us how significant those $1,500 awards are to individuals.

Next, we will hear the Finance Committee report from Mr. Porteus.

Mr. Porteus:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. During the Finance Committee meeting yesterday, four items were presented for discussion. Those included: University Financial Scorecards; the Fiscal Year 2015 Interim Financial Report; Physical Environment Scorecard; and the Construction Project Status Report.

The Finance Committee additionally discussed nine items for the consent agenda. I will briefly review these resolutions.

Ms. Readey and Mr. Kasey presented the increase to professional services and/or construction contracts. Mr. Chatas presented the request for approval of the fiscal year 2016 interim budget which allows the university to make expenditures consistent with the level of resources approved for fiscal year 2015.

Mr. Papadakis presented on the annual authorization for designated officials to buy, sell, assign, and transfer securities, to deposit or withdraw funds from bank accounts, and to designate depositories, noting no significant changes have occurred since last year.

Mr. Chatas then presented on the authorization for issuance of additional general receipt bonds, commercial paper notes, and subordinated indebtedness, noting the issuance limit of $1 billion which replaces the remaining $200 million from the 2014 authorization of $500 million. I would note that this authorization is until June 30, 2018.
Mr. Keith Myers presented three resolutions to the committee including a joint use agreement with the Holmes County Agricultural Society, which is an Ohio nonprofit agency, and the sales of two real properties: one located off of Home Road/Springmill Road and Walker Lake Road in Mansfield and one located at the Northwest corner of Feder Road and Evans Way Court in Columbus.

I would like to conclude my committee report with the recommendation of the finance committee as it relates to tuition and fees for the upcoming academic year.

The finance committee is recommending the following: 0% increase to tuition, instructional and general fees for students enrolled at the Columbus, Regional and ATI campuses; a 5.0% increase applied to the non-resident surcharge resulting in a 3.1% increase to out-of-state tuition and mandatory fees; and a $940 increase to the international differential for new students only, 0% for currently enrolled international students; room and board fees will experience no increase and dining fees will now roll over until graduation as they previously expired each semester; a 5% increase is being recommended for student health insurance and a 4-6% increase to student plus family health insurance rates; and finally, other course specific fees for specialized graduate and professional programs are included in the consent agenda. I should note that the fiscal year 2016 user fees were amended at yesterday’s committee meeting and the fee increase for fourth year pharmacy students was removed. Updated copies of this resolution are at your seats and are available.

I would be remiss if I did not mention that this is an important moment for Ohio State. It's the first time in at least 40 years that we've proposed freezing tuition and room and board in an effort to curb overall student costs.

It's unique and significant that Ohio State is helping to lead the way on the very important issue of college affordability for students and I want to commend the president for the work being done to help lessen debt.

These resolutions, as amended, were passed by the Finance Committee and are included in the Board of Trustee’s consent agenda today.

The committee also met in executive session. And that concludes my report Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much Mr. Porteus. Are there any questions regarding his report?

Mr. Shumate:

We have mentioned several times the affordability and the Finance Committee is taking steps in that area along with Academic Affairs and the Advancement Committees. We are all working together. I want to take a moment to thank Dr. Drake for his vision on making college more affordable for our students. Steps like the affordability grants are an immediate initiative to carry out that vision and is a significant step to take us forward.

As we all talk about, Ohio State is one of the best values in higher education. I think our commitment to affordability as well as quality going hand-in-hand is important. Dr. Drake, thank you for that vision for this great university.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you. The final report is from the Governance Committee and I call on upon Mr. Smucker to present it.
Board of Trustees meeting minutes, June 5, 2015

Mr. Smucker:

Thank you Mr. Chairman. The Governance Committee met yesterday where we had one item for discussion and reviewed several items for action.

Ms. Douglass provided the committee with an update on the Talent Scorecard. She reviewed current data and also reported that the retirement data that we monitor has been modified to better track retirement eligibility. Metrics are currently being developed for all items on the scorecard and will be added in the future. Once metrics are added we will be able to track progress toward our goals and determine where efforts should be focused.

Chairman Wadsworth presented three resolutions to the committee. The first item was the Appointment of a Charter Trustee, Jim Klingbeil. Jim is a distinguished graduate with a degree in biological sciences and has had a long and successful career in real estate, founding The Klingbeil Company in 1961 and building a nationwide presence in commercial and residential real estate developments. In addition, he has served as President and as a 30-year trustee of the Urban Land Institute, long recognized as one of the world’s most respected sources of leadership in responsible and sustainable urban planning, growth, and development. As our Master Planning and Facilities Ad Hoc Committee begins its work, Jim will provide world-leading expertise to this Committee’s work. We look forward to him joining us at our meeting in August.

We also reviewed an amended ratification of committee appointments and ratification of appointments to the Wexner Medical Center board. These resolutions were passed by the Governance Committee and are included in the consent agenda today.

The committee then met in executive session.

I would like to note that the Talent and Compensation Ad Hoc Committee met on June 2nd. They reviewed a draft committee charter and a draft philosophy document as it relates to executive compensation. The Talent and Compensation Ad Hoc Committee also met in executive session and we look forward to hearing more about the important work of this committee at future meetings.

And that concludes my report, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. Wadsworth:

Thank you very much. Are there any questions?

The Consent Agenda is now before the Trustees. I would like to call on Dr. Drake to present it to the board.

Topic: Fiscal Year 2016 Tuition and Mandatory Fee Rates

Context: To provide clarity to families about tuition and mandatory fees for the coming academic year and to allow us to prepare a fiscal year 2016 budget (to be presented at the August 2015 meeting), the Board of Trustees is being asked to set rates for fiscal year 2016 at this time.

Affordability is of paramount importance, so this summary first lays out the total cost of tuition and mandatory fees. State law requires the board to set rates for individual fees, which are listed below.

Summary - total tuition and mandatory fees for undergraduate students:

Tuition includes instructional, general, mandatory fees and all surcharges.

Factors in these totals:

- Instructional and mandatory fees: 0% change
- Non-resident surcharge: 5% increase
- International surcharge: Increase for new students by $470/term ($940/academic year)

Graduate (Master’s and PhD) program charges:

- Instructional and mandatory fees: 0%
- Non-resident graduate surcharge: 5.0% increase

Requested of Finance Committee: Approval of the attached resolution regarding fiscal year 2016 tuition and mandatory fee rates.

III. What Happens Next

IV. Summary and Conclusions
I. Background

The administration considered a number of factors to arrive at the proposed Fiscal Year 2016 tuition and mandatory fee recommendations. These include:

A. The need to keep The Ohio State University affordable for students.
   - For Ohio residents, Ohio State is expected to remain one of the most affordable selective public universities in the state with the recommended freeze on tuition and mandatory fees. (See Section II-Part A for a comparison of tuition and mandatory fees among main campuses of Ohio schools.)
   - For out-of-state students, Ohio State will remain competitively priced with its peers nationally. (See Section II-Part B for a comparison of nonresident tuition and mandatory fees among main campuses of Ohio schools).

B. The State of Ohio Biennial Budget, as proposed by the Governor for fiscal year 2016 and fiscal year 2017, includes a 2% per year increase of state subsidy funding for higher education. However, the continuing implementation of the state’s new allocation formula has resulted in a reduction in funding for The Ohio State University and our regional campuses in fiscal year 2015. We do not expect to receive a significant increase in funding in the next few years.

C. The State of Ohio Biennial Budget, as proposed by the Governor for fiscal year 2016 and fiscal year 2017, would cap any increases to undergraduate instructional, general and student activity fees to 2% for fiscal year 2016 and 0% for fiscal year 2017. The House version of the budget proposes that these fees cannot increase by more than 2% or $200 for four-year institutions and $100 for regional campuses.

D. The General Assembly continues to work on the fiscal year 2016-fiscal year 2017 Biennial Budget. At this time, the budget bill should be close to a vote in the Senate. We expect the Conference Committee to meet in June, with final passage of the Biennial Budget late in June.

II. Tuition

A. Comparisons to other Ohio selective admissions public universities

The chart below outlines expected tuition and mandatory fees for the six Ohio selective admission public universities for the fall semester of fiscal year 2016. With Ohio State’s proposed 0% change to tuition and mandatory fees for state residents, the university would be the 2nd least expensive.

1. Estimated figures: Some increases announced for Fall FY 2016 are preliminary and may change. Most of these institutions have not yet officially announced Fall FY 2016 tuition rates. Annual Fees and rate increases are an average of the estimated range provided by a campus representative or news sources. Some institutions are moving to tuition guarantee plans next fall - accounting for higher tuition increases.

2. In FY2015, Michigan charged tuition and mandatory fees of $13,486 for in-state students and $41,906 for non-resident students.

3. In FY2015, Rutgers charged tuition and mandatory fees of $13,813 for in-state students and $28,591 for non-resident students.

C. Recommended tuition and fees effective autumn semester 2015 - Columbus

1. Undergraduate

a. By freezing tuition and all mandatory fees, the total cost for undergraduate resident students would remain at $10,036.80.
b. The three Ohio resident undergraduate fees affected by the state cap - instructional, general and student activity fees - would remain at the total of $9,615 under this fiscal year 2016 proposal. This would be within parameters of both the governor’s proposed fiscal year 2016-2017 Biennial Budget and the amended version from the House of Representatives.

i. The governor’s budget set a 2% limit on increases for fiscal year 2016.

ii. The House version sets a $200 cap on increases for fiscal year 2016.

c. No increases are proposed for other mandatory fees that are not subject to the cap, including Recreational, Student Union, and COTA fees.

d. For a U.S. non-resident undergraduate student, the total cost of tuition and mandatory fees would be $27,364.80, a 3.1% increase. That includes an increase of 5.0% to the non-resident undergraduate surcharge, which would make that line item $17,328.

i. The State of Ohio requires that the university charge a non-resident surcharge.

e. For international students, the total cost of tuition and mandatory fees would be $28,364.80 for continuing students and $29,304.80 for new students starting next fall. Those reflect 3.0% and 6.4% increases, respectively, compared to fiscal year 2015 rates.

   The total for new students includes an increase to the international surcharge fee of $470 per term ($940 for the academic year). This increase will begin with new international students beginning fall term of academic year 2016 and will phase in over the course of the four years. Current international students will not pay the increase.

i. The international surcharge will continue to partially support the Office of International Affairs while also providing additional funding for university-wide strategic investment.

2. Graduate (Master’s and PhD) Program Tuition and Mandatory Fees

a. Graduate tuition and mandatory fees (including instructional, general, student activity, Recreational, Student Union, and COTA fees) are proposed to remain at $12,424.80 for fiscal year 2016.

b. Non-resident graduate students would pay a total of $31,896.80 in tuition and mandatory fees, an increase of 3.0%. That includes a 5% increase to the nonresident surcharge, which would cost $19,472.

D. Recommended tuition and fees effective autumn semester 2015 - Regional Campuses and Agricultural Technical Institute (ATI).

1. Undergraduate instructional and general fees are proposed to remain at $7,140 for regionals and $7,104 for ATI.

2. The graduate instructional and general fees are proposed to remain at $11,736.

3. Non-resident undergraduates would experience a 3.5% increase in tuition and mandatory fees, while graduate students would experience a 3.1% increase. For undergraduates this would mean a total cost of $24,468 (regionals) and $24,432 (ATI), and for graduate students at the regional campuses the total would be $31,208. These all reflect an increase to the nonresident surcharge of 5.0% for a full-time student.

III. What Happens Next

A. Approval of User Fees for Fiscal Year 2016 is a separate action at this board meeting

B. The recommended Fiscal Year 2016 Budget will be presented at the August 2015 board agenda for review and approval.
IV. Summary and Conclusions

A. Several Ohio selective 4-year institutions have announced resident undergraduate increases of 0% to 2%, as proposed in the Governor's fiscal year 2016-2017 Biennial Budget. With Ohio State keeping undergraduate instructional fees flat, we will remain a very good value relative to these other Ohio institutions.

B. Other comparable peer universities have estimated resident undergraduate fees increases ranging from an average of -5.9% to 6.0%. The 0% increase at Ohio State places the university 12th in resident undergraduate fees in this peer group.

C. Projected increases to non-Resident undergraduate tuition and fees at comparable peer universities average from 0% to 11.2%. The 3.1% increase for non-resident undergraduates places the university as having one of the lowest charges for non-resident undergraduate fees.

D. The 5% increase in the non-resident surcharge will be implemented for undergraduate students and most graduate programs. Selective professional programs (Law, Optometry, Dentistry) will not be implementing this level of increase due to market pressures.

E. The $940 increase in the international surcharge will allow for the continued level of services provided to our international students and to provide additional funding for strategic initiatives university wide.

Proposal: Comprehensive in-state freeze

MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT MICHAEL V. DRAKE

Dear Students, Faculty and Staff:

I am writing to let you know that today I am proposing for discussion with the Board of Trustees a plan that would introduce a comprehensive freeze on the costs for our in-state undergraduate students. This plan will be presented to the board at next month’s meeting.

Under this affordability proposal, the university would freeze rates on in-state tuition, mandatory fees, housing, dining and all undergraduate program, course and learning technology fees on the Columbus campus. This effort would represent the first cost freeze of its kind in at least four decades at Ohio State and would positively impact nearly 60 percent of our students.

We find ourselves in a unique position to make this proposal after carefully considering the ways in which we can moderate costs for students and increase support for teaching and research. The university will continue to advocate for appropriate support from our partners at the state level as well as generate efficiencies and innovative funding to elevate the excellence that defines Ohio State. Further details are available here.

Let me close by thanking all of you again for a wonderful first year. I look forward to my first Spring Commencement in the Sho and wish you a safe and happy summer.

Sincerely,

Michael V. Drake, MD
President

- FY14: $10,037
- FY15: $10,037
- FY16: $10,037
Recommendation: Freeze mandatory fees
None of the five mandatory fees have increased in the past five years

- General Fee: Funds non-instructional student services such as counseling, health, disability and multicultural support ($372)
  - State law requires a general fee for non-instructional costs

- Student Activity: Supports entertainment and cultural/arts events, along with student organizations ($75)
  - Supported by student governments in a memorandum

- Recreational: Supports recreational sports facilities, programs and services. Students are automatic members of rec-sports facilities. ($246)
  - Supported by student government votes

- COTA: Provides students with unlimited use of COTA buses ($27)

- Ohio Union: Supports the student union facility ($149)
  - Supported by student government votes

Out-of-state students
Philosophy: Out-of-state tuition

Market conditions

- Ohio State attracts top students from throughout the country
- Our costs and financial aid packages must be competitive

Competitive pricing

- Our out-of-state tuition and fees are third-lowest (FY15) in the Big Ten

Fairness supports a differential for out-of-state students

- Ohio families support state institutions through their state taxes
- Ohio law requires a surcharge for nonresidents

Out-of-state tuition and fees

Ohio State is a relative bargain for out-of-state students

International students
Philosophy: International tuition

Market conditions

- Ohio State attracts top international students
- Our costs and financial aid packages must be competitive

Fairness supports a differential for international students

- American families pay taxes that support Pell Grants, federal student loans and research funding
  - Ohio State received about $746 million in federal grants, contracts and student aid (FY14)
- Any increase would affect only new students. Current students would continue to pay the existing international differential.

Recommendation: International

Charge new students $1,940 a year. Fee for current students: $1,000.

Background

Topic: User Fees and Charges for Fiscal Year 2016

Context: Ohio State is committed to a holistic approach to affordability, as shown by our proposal for fiscal year 2016 user fees and charges.

- The university has put a moratorium on any increased costs for undergraduate program, course or learning technology fees.
- For the first time in at least a decade, all undergraduate housing fees have been frozen.
- There are new dining plans that offer more flexibility to students, and all of the new plans are either at the same cost or less expensive than comparable current options.

Proposed changes being brought forward this year include market-based differential fees for graduate and professional programs, a new voucher fee that adds no cost but will make it easier for students to use financial aid for existing charges, new dining plans and changes to student health insurance plans. Ohio State requires students to carry health insurance, but they are not required to use the university's health plans.

Summary:

- Approval of increases in differential fees.
- Approval of the establishment of a voucher fee for the College of Education and Human Ecology, College of Food, Agriculture and Environmental Sciences, the College of Arts and Sciences and the Regional Campuses.
- Approval of new dining plans and rates.
- Approval of the new student health insurance rate structure.

Requested of Finance Committee: Approval of the attached resolution regarding Fiscal Year 2016 User Fees and Charges
Approval of Fiscal Year 2016 User Fees and Charges

I. Student Fees Overview

II. Summary of Proposed Differential Instructional/Non-Resident Fees; Specialized Fees

III. Establishment of the Educator Preparation Voucher Program Fee

IV. Student Life and Designated User Fees
I. Student Fees Overview

In addition to regular instructional and general fees, student fees generally include differential fees, selected clinical and other program fees, regional campus fees, user fees, administrative fees and laboratory, program and learning technology fees. All proposed fee rates will be effective autumn semester of fiscal year 2016.

Differential Instruction Fees

University policy allows professional and Board of Regents-approved tagged master’s programs to charge differential instructional fee rates based on market demand and pricing. Details of the proposed increases are included in Section II and include both the differential instructional fee increase paid by both resident and non-resident students as well as the surcharge fee paid by non-resident students. There is no increase in the base instructional fee for these programs.

Course-based, Learning Technology and Program Fees

There are no requests for any new program, course-based and learning technology fee or increases in existing undergraduate fees for fiscal year 2016.

User Fees

Proposed user fee rates are shown in Section IV. These include:

I. Room and board - Housing rates will be kept flat, except for Buckeye Village and Gateway housing. New dining plans have been developed for fiscal year 2016 that offer additional flexibility to students. The new plans cost the same or less than comparable existing plans.

II. No increases are proposed for other user fees, including the recreational fee, the Ohio Union fee, the COTA fee and the student activity fee.

III. Student Health Insurance
II. Summary of Proposal Differential Instructional/Non-Resident Fees; Specialized Fees

Below are proposed increases for several of the specialized programs offered by The Ohio State University. These programs are designed for specific populations of students and do not follow a traditional academic program structure. Specialized programs have fees for the entire length of the program, which can span several semesters and fiscal years for each cohort.

Fisher College of Business Specialized Programs

Executive MBA

The Executive MBA program delivers global leadership development to successful early- and mid-career professionals. It is a cohort-based, total program experience. It offers significant investments in curricular impact as well as in co-curricular development (e.g., career development, external speaker series, team skills development). The cost of a trip to China, which is part of the program, has historically been billed separately but will be part of the program cost (excluding airfare) starting in fiscal year 2016. Ohio State’s program is the only Top 10 program with tuition of less than $100,000. Rising costs associated with curriculum renewal and co-curricular activity (e.g., career development, alumni engagement, speaker series) require an increase in tuition to stay competitive in our elite bracket of programs.

[1] FY 2016 cost includes $6,000 charge for a China trip (not including airfare) that previously was billed separately. Without that charge, the increase is 15.3%, or $14,500.

NOTES:
[1] Dollar increase may vary slightly from percentage increases due to rounding of fees to per-credit-hour rates.
[2] Instructional fees include tuition and associated operational support of the institution.
[3] Both the base increase and the differential increase are calculated based on the prior year’s Instructional fee. The total dollar increase includes both the base increase of 0.0% and the differential increase by program.
[4] Mandatory fees include the general fee, student activity fee, student union fee, recreation fee, and COTA fee, all of which would be frozen from FY2015. These fees add $865 per year for ranks/programs that attend 2 semesters/year and $1,297 per year for ranks/programs that attend 3 semesters/year, with some exceptions at a lower rate that were allowed due to semester conversion.
[5] Students attend Summer term only.
[6] Distance Learning program: program is 6 hours per semester but full-time rates are presented here (8 hours)
[7] Medicine has now converged into one fee for all ranks.

The SMB-Finance

The SMB-Finance program aims at providing in-depth training and real-world experience for students seeking a professional career in finance. The intensive curriculum is customized to offer advanced coursework, software training, and action-based learning through team consulting projects with real clients. Graduates are employed at multinational corporations, large financial institutions and specialized asset management firms. The increased tuition is needed to keep pace with the costs of the program. Also, additional advising and mentoring are required for this program because the students are younger and more internationally diverse than other Fisher programs. Hence, additional staff is needed to support the coaching and job market placement services for the students in this program.

Masters of Business Operational Excellence

This is a one-year graduate program aimed at mid-career professionals. In the current class, 57% of students are from outside of Ohio. The program curriculum blends classroom and project-based learning, including a coaching component. The increase is needed to keep pace with the costs of the program.

III. Establishment of the Educator Preparation Voucher Program Fee

Currently, students who are accepted as undergraduate majors and enrolled in teacher-licensure programs must pay out-of-pocket charges to third-party vendors for required expenses. This proposal would spread those costs across several semesters as part of the university tuition and fees statement, allowing students to use financial aid dollars to pay these costs. By spreading out these costs, the proposal also would assist students in planning for the cost of their education. These vouchers would simply replace existing charges at no additional cost to students.

Three colleges and the regional campuses will participate in the Undergraduate Educator Preparation Voucher Program:

- College of Arts and Sciences
- College of Education and Human Ecology
- College of Food, Agriculture, and Environmental Sciences
- Lima, Mansfield, Marion, and Newark campuses

In addition, students who are accepted as Master of Education majors must pay for the same type of out-of-pocket charges, therefore we are also proposing to establish a Graduate Educator Preparation Voucher Program for these students.

These proposed programs would bundle existing costs that students must pay to become licensed educators. The voucher would include the costs of:

- the TK20 (an electronic portfolio and online assessment tool that enables students to complete course assignments, build professional portfolios and provide information regarding field experiences, student teaching and administrative internships)
- edTPA (an assessment aligned to state and national standards)
- testing through the Ohio Assessment of Educators (OAE) or the American Council on Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACRFL).

Funds collected via the voucher program will merely pass through to the third-party vendors with the colleges or campuses services as the liaison between the vendor and the student. This is not a revenue stream for the colleges and regional campuses. There is no overhead charged to this service - in other words, students will pay no additional cost by virtue of converting these charges to a voucher fee.
IV. Student Life and Designated User Fees

The Office of Student Life continues to implement costs savings initiatives to keep room and board plans as affordable as possible for students and their families. For fiscal year 2016, efficiencies and university support will allow Ohio State to freeze room rates.

New meal plans are proposed for the 2015-2016 academic year that are designed to increase flexibility, provide affordability and offer a rollover feature for dining dollars. All of the plans either cost the same or less than existing options. These plans are supported by both Undergraduate Student Government and Residence Hall Advisory Council.

The Office of Student Life developed these plans after conducting an analysis and review of the current meal plans that included significant student input that included focus groups. The university also hired an outside expert, formed a cross-sectional university committee to review and restyle meal plans, and prepared qualitative and quantitative benchmark studies with other universities. Among the goals were to address affordability and concerns about unused portions of meal plans.

The new meal plans offer a variable number of weekly meals in the traditional “all-you-care-to-eat” dining facilities, the ability to convert these traditional visits to food purchases at the retail-style dining facilities, and a 10% discount when using the new dining dollars in all dining services locations. Unused dining dollars will also roll over until graduation.

Comparative Room and Board Rates

The following table provides comparative information for Ohio State’s room and board rate based on the lowest cost full board plan, standard double occupancy room (most non-AC) with other Ohio public universities and with the Big Ten.
Student Health Insurance

Ohio State students are required to carry health insurance, but they may choose among outside providers or the university's student health plan.

Student Health Insurance has historically varied dependent rates based on plan utilization, having one flat rate regardless of dependents. But under Affordable Care Act regulations, fully insured rates for family members must be determined by summing the premiums for individual family members.

Federal regulations dictate that rates for dependents cannot exceed the rate for a single student policy holder, nor can the combined rate exceed three child dependents. For fiscal year 2016, the rates for Student & Children and Student & Family reflect the actual maximum charge based on two children.

This is the recommended rate structure for students:

TOPICS: Annual resolution to authorize the university treasurer and/or the university senior vice president for business and finance to undertake a variety of financial transactions on behalf of the University.

CONTEXT: This annual resolution is required by the financial institutions with which the university does business. There are no significant changes from last year’s annual resolution.

SUMMARY: This resolution will continue the current policies in place that authorize the university treasurer and senior vice president for business and finance or their designees to provide oversight and signature authority over the function of buying, selling, and transferring of stocks, bonds, and other financial instruments. The university treasurer and university senior vice president for business and finance are also requesting to retain the authorization to designate depositories and to open accounts at various financial institutions on behalf of the university. The university treasurer will continue to serve as trustee for deferred gifts. In addition the university treasurer and senior vice president for business and finance or their designees are requesting to retain the authorization to sign agreements for bank financing, underwriting, brokerage, leasing, equipment financing, foreign currency exchange, hedging vehicles including forwards, futures, swaps, options, and other financial advisory services.

REQUESTED OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE: Approval of the resolution.
BACKGROUND

TOPICS: Periodic resolution to grant authorization to issue General Receipt Bonds and Commercial Paper Notes (the “Senior Obligations”) and Subordinated Indebtedness (“the Subordinated Indebtedness”)

CONTEXT: This resolution replaces the existing University debt authorization that expires on June 30, 2016. This authorization, as in the past, would authorize the issuance of one or more bond series for the purpose of financing on an interim or permanent basis the cost of University facilities or to retire previously issued debt. Per the resolution, issuance limits ($1 billion) and maximum interest rates (8%) would be preset. The debt authorized by this resolution applies only to issuances completed prior to June 30, 2018. As in the past, this resolution covers both new financings and refinancings.

SUMMARY: Under this resolution the Board of Trustees authorizes the issuance of Senior Obligations and Subordinated Indebtedness by the President and/or the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance after consultation with the Chair of the Finance Committee and legal counsel over the 2-year time period of the resolution. The authorization also allows the President or Senior Vice President for Business and Finance to make decisions related to the tax treatment of the Senior Obligations and Subordinated Indebtedness. It allows the President and/ or the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance to negotiate and execute transactions documents related to the sale of Senior Obligations and Subordinated Indebtedness as they deem necessary to provide for the most beneficial commercially reasonable terms and as they deem not materially adverse to the University. Further it allows the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance to call for optional redemption at the earliest date on which any debt Obligation in the portfolio is eligible. Lastly, it requires the Senior Vice President for Business and Finance to report to the Board’s Finance Committee regularly on all actions associated with this resolution.

REQUESTED OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE: Approval of the resolution.
OSU Mansfield has requested to sell +/- 78 acres of land off of Home Road/Springmill Road and Walker Lake Road, Mansfield, Ohio. The request to sell is consistent with their Framework Plan, and the campus intends to use the sale proceeds to help fund the new entrance road off of Lexington-Springmill Road. The entrance road project is now in schematic design.

LOCATION AND DESCRIPTION

The affected properties are located at the intersection of Home Road/Springmill Road (+/- 60 acres) and Walker Lake Road (+/- 18 acres). Final sale acreage will be determined by survey. The property is currently zoned multi-family residential/low-density residential. The majority of the property is wooded. The Home Road/Springmill property is bisected by a road right of way (not yet constructed). Putting the property into the market may help promote community development and economic growth along this planned transportation corridor.

PROPERTY HISTORY

The property is titled partially to the State of Ohio and partially to the Board of Trustees. Lands titled to the State of Ohio will require state legislative approval for sale. No deed restrictions were noted in the source deeds.

SALE OF PROPERTY

Physical Planning and Real Estate recommends that the +/- 78 acres be sold under terms and conditions that are deemed to be in the best interest of the university.
BACKGROUND

LOCATION AND DESCRIPTION: The university is seeking the opportunity to sell unimproved real property located at the Northwest corner of Feder Road and Evans Way Court, Columbus, Franklin County, Ohio, Parcel ID #010-245518. The property is zoned C-4 (Commercial) and consists of approximately 6.31 acres of unimproved land.

APPRaisal: The property has been appraised by MAI appraiser, Ohio Real Estate Consultants, Inc., with the appraisal report dated April 7, 2015 valuing the property at $1,400,000 or approximately $220,000 per acre.

UNIVERSITY HISTORY OF THE PROPERTY: In 1998 the Wexner Medical Center purchased this real property from Bob Evans Farms, Inc. for $216,000 per acre for the purpose of constructing a single-story, 40,000 square foot Ambulatory Care Center. The property was appraised prior to the 1998 purchase for an average price of $225,000 per acre.

The Wexner Medical Center and appropriate university staff, after physically reviewing the site, have determined that the property is no longer conducive for university or Wexner Medical Center use and are seeking approval to sell this real property. Appropriate State of Ohio legislation was passed permitting the sale of this real property.

The university has entered into a Real Estate Purchase Contract dated May 18, 2015 with Metro Development, LLC for the purchase of this real property for the consideration of One Million Four Hundred Fifty-One Thousand Three Hundred and 00/100 Dollars ($1,451,300) and other, terms to be negotiated in the best interest of the university.

AUTHORIZATION AND APPROVAL: Authorization is requested to negotiate with the identified prospective buyer of the property to enter into a purchase agreement with terms and conditions acceptable to the university, and to complete a sale per the agreed upon purchase contract or at a purchase price no less than 90% of the appraised value of the property. Other terms and conditions of a purchase agreement will be negotiated in the best interest of the university. The proceeds from the sale of the property will benefit the Wexner Medical Center.
