NORMAN KENT BOOTH

Synopsis: The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow regarding the death on April 3, 2023 of Norman Kent Booth, Professor Emeritus of Landscape Architecture in the Austin E. Knowlton School of Architecture in the College of Engineering.

Professor Booth taught Landscape Architecture at Ohio State for 30 years, from 1973–2004, when he retired from academia. He attained the rank of professor and served as head of the Landscape Architecture Section from 1996 to 2003. He was honored in 1999 by being designated a Fellow of the American Society of Landscape Architects.

As detailed in Testing Grounds: 100 Years of Landscape Architecture at the Ohio State University, Booth’s work had an influential impact on the design education model, “integrating elements of traditional site planning and environmentalism with a graphic style derived from 1950s modernism and the new informality of the 1970s.”

In Testing Grounds, Professor Booth reflected on how the Landscape Architecture Section evolved in the early 1970’s

“...about a year or two after Jot Carpenter was hired [1972], at the beginning of a rather rapid buildup and enlargement of the program, so we were all rather young faculty with virtually no teaching experience prior to starting to teach. We pretty much had the ability to shape the program, and during the ’73, ’74, ’75 time period there was a lot of effort put forward to define what the program was all about and to set the course for many years to come. I think the core of that was a weekend retreat - we went to Mohican State Park for a whole weekend - and out of that came the direction that the program would take for the next twenty-five, thirty years. Even though that evolved over time and always changed, the core of that was really set early on in those years, and I think there were a number of things that were unique. One, that we had the ability to do that, and two that there was a lot of emphasis on making a program where the graduates were prepared to walk into an office, either a private practice or government service, so that students we’re job-ready and had the necessary education and background.”

On behalf of the university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family of Professor Norman Booth its deepest sympathy and sense of understanding of their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the board’s heartfelt sympathy and appreciation.

Synopsis: The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow regarding the death on March 13, 2023, of Richard E. Burkart, Professor Emeritus in the School of Music in the College of Arts and Sciences. He was 91.

Richard E. Burkart was born in 1931 in New Orleans, LA. He began practicing and studying the cornet at age 8. He later attended Jesuit High School in New Orleans where he was appointed Solo Cornet in the Band and Orchestra. Burkart later graduated from LSU in 1955 (BME Music Ed., BM trumpet performance, MM trumpet performance). Upon graduation he was hired as the Professor of Brass at Lamar University in Beaumont, TX where he also played Principal Trumpet with the Chicago Little Symphony, and the Beaumont Symphony Orchestra. After 14 years at Lamar, Burkart was accepted into the DMA program at the University of Wisconsin, a relatively novel degree at the time.

After completing his doctoral degree in 1971, Burkart was offered the position of Professor of Trumpet and Graduate Studies in Brass at The Ohio State University. In his new teaching position, he played with the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, the Faculty Brass Quintet, the Lancaster Festival Orchestra, Ringling Brothers Circus, and the Robert Shaw tour of France in 1992. He was also known to have played in and conducted the Longhorn Rodeo Band in Texas, Ohio and around the country. In his retirement years Burkart returned to his musical roots from New Orleans as a member of the Toll House Jazz Band performing Dixieland Jazz around Central Ohio and touring Germany, Austria, and Italy in 1997.

With his colleagues Tom Battenberg and Robert Hightshoe, he co-hosted the 1980 International Trumpet Guild (ITG) Conference at OSU. In 1988 Burkart was instrumental in the partnership between the ITG and The Columbus Foundation to establish the Ellsworth Smith International Trumpet Competition which he hosted at OSU in 1988 and 1994.

Through his teaching at Lamar and OSU, Dr. Burkart has had a profound influence on generations of our nation’s outstanding trumpet players and teachers. His former students have become highly respected band directors, soloists, service band members, orchestral musicians, as well as college professors of trumpet throughout the country.

Above all his accomplishments, Burkart was a devoted family man, who raised six children and dealt with hardships that would have crushed a lesser spirit, including a daughter rendered quadriplegic in a car accident as well as his dear wife Janet’s long battle with Parkinson’s disease.

Richard Burkart died peacefully at his home on March 13, 2023. He was 91 and was preceded in death by his wife Janet in 2014 and his daughter Elizabeth in 2018.

On behalf of the entire university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family and loved ones of Professor Richard E. Burkart its deepest sympathy and compassion for their loss. It is directed that this resolution be inscribed upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that a copy be tendered to his family as an expression of the board’s heartfelt sympathy and appreciation.

Synopsis: The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sorrow regarding the death on January 26, 2023, of Joseph A. Levey, Professor Emeritus in the School of Music in the College of Arts and Sciences. He was 97.

Professor Levy received his BM from West Virginia University Department of Music, his MM from Northwestern University and his DME from the University of Oklahoma. He was a member of the Theory and Composition faculty from 1965 to 1988. His compositions were performed by the Columbus Symphony String Quartet, the Faculty String Quartet, the Brass Choir, the OSU Chorale, the Concert Band, the Jazz Ensemble, and the Dance faculty.

Dr. Levy assembled the Bachelor of Music Degree in Jazz Studies, wrote the curriculum, and became its first Director. He organized the first Spring Jazz Festival and the first Summer Jazz Camp for high school musicians. He acted as jazz clinician at the Pennsylvania Music Educators Convention, the Ohio Music Educators Convention, and the West Virginia Music Educators Meeting. He was a Director of the OSU Jazz Ensemble and his students played in major big bands such as Stan Kenton, Woody Herman, Buddy Rich, Maynard Ferguson, Ray Charles, and Las Vegas show bands.

Dr. Levey performed on tenor sax, clarinet, and flute with the Jerry Kaye Orchestra to back up such performers as Rosemary Clooney, Carmen McRae, Natalie Cole, Mel Torme, Vic Damone, Al Martino, Sonny and Cher, Bob Hope, and many others.

A skilled conductor, Dr. Levey acted as Music Director for several Theater Department musical productions. They included ONCE UPON A MATTRESS, YOUR OWN THING, THE FANTASTICKS, A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM, and MOTHER COURAGE.

He has been published by Broadcast Music Inc., Shawnee Press, Prentice Hall, and University Press of America.

Dr. Levey is survived by his daughter and son-in-law, Jan and Anthony Roppo of Sunrise, FL; granddaughter and grandson-in-law, Emily and John Trahan, of Orlando, FL; niece, Eve Selman of Tampa, FL, and nephew, Jeff Selman of Denver, CO.

He is preceded in death by his wife, Elizabeth Levey, and grandson, Anthony Roppo.

On behalf of the entire university community, the Board of Trustees expresses to the family and loved ones of Professor Joseph A. Levey its deepest sympathy and compassion for their loss. Synopsis: The Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University expresses its sympathy regarding the death on May 19, 2023, of Professor Emeritus Aaron J. “AJ” Miller, who upon his retirement chaired what was then the Department of Educational Studies: Humanities, Science, Technological and Vocational in the College of Education. He was 93.

Miller arrived at Ohio State in 1966 from Oklahoma, where he had earned a master’s in trade and industrial education and an EdD in higher education from Oklahoma State University. While at Oklahoma State, he became an assistant professor and head of the electronics technology department. He then became chairman of the technical education department. He left that role to become director of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education for Oklahoma City Public Schools.

With that substantial experience, which included five years as an electronics field engineer for RCA and service in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean War, he came to Ohio State and joined the Center for Vocational and Technical Education, which later became the National Center for Research in Vocation Education. He rose to the position of associate director of field services and special projects.

While with the center, Miller became well known as project director for one of the first national initiatives in career education. With funding from the U.S. Office of Education, he created and tested the Comprehensive Career Education Model for K-12 schools. Key to the model was uniting students, their parents, schools, the community and employers in a cooperative educational venture. The goal was to ensure students gained information and experiences representing the entire world of work, starting in their earliest years.

During field research, Miller validated a definition of career education, which was not standardized at the time. He then recruited six school districts in different states to develop, test and validate curriculum materials and educational strategies based on the model. The model and the curricula have served as the basis for many career education programs across the country.

In 1973, Miller left the research center to join the faculty of the College of Education as chair of its Vocational-Technical Education Program. He later served as acting associate dean of the college for a period of time.

Miller had a long service record associated with the field of vocational, career and technical education. He was involved with what is today the Association for Career and Technical Education, what was then the Association of Industrial and Technical Teacher Educators, as well as the University Council for Vocational Education. His work is preserved in what is today the ERIC Clearinghouse on Adult, Career and Vocational Education. He authored many papers in professional journals, presented at conferences and consulted in many countries, including Kenya, the People’s Republic of China, the Republic of Mauritius and the United Arab Emirates.

Miller retired from Ohio State in 1993, after which he served as commissioner for what is today called the Accrediting Commission of Career Schools and Colleges.

ADOPTION OF OHIO STATE PHILOSOPHY ON INSTITUTIONAL AND LEADERSHIP STATEMENTS IN SUPPORT OF THE CHICAGO PRINCIPLES

Resolution No. 2024-34

Synopsis: Adoption of The Ohio State University’s philosophy on institutional and leadership statements, which is consistent with the University of Chicago’s 2014 Report of the Committee on Freedom of Expression (“Chicago Principles”), which was created in confirmation of the University of Chicago’s 1967 Kalven Committee Report on the University’s Role in Political and Social Action (“Kalven Report”).

Universities have a vital role to play in contributing to the local, state, and national discourse. Ohio State and other institutions of higher education advance society by supporting the free expression of ideas and providing academic community members the freedom to share their research and study through discussion, debate, and publication of ideas without censorship or limitation.

Ohio State takes seriously its role in promoting and supporting public discourse and is steadfastly committed to protecting the First Amendment right to free speech and expression. Since the university’s founding, its land-grant mission has been to create pathways to accessible education, promote the exchange of ideas, and encourage debate and civil discourse.

The Board of Trustees believes that the Chicago Principles provide an important framework for carrying out this mission. While diverse groups of individuals will naturally and inevitably disagree with each other over issues of consequence, the Chicago Principles recognize that the fact of such disagreement alone is not cause for a university to limit ideas or restrict speech. Further, though the university can reasonably regulate the time, place, and manner of speech to protect its operations, and may address speech that, for example, violates the law or constitutes harassment or threatening behavior, these are rare exceptions to the general rule of supporting free expression broadly.

While universities have an independent right, and in some cases a responsibility, to speak on their own behalf, the Board of Trustees recognizes that institutional speech carries a corresponding responsibility to be judicious and transparently principled in deciding if, when, and how to engage in such speech so as not to harm the core values of free expression and intellectual diversity.

The Board of Trustees therefore wishes to reconfirm the university’s foundational commitment to free speech, register support for the vision set forth in the Kalven Report and the Chicago Principles, and adopt Ohio State’s philosophy on institutional and leadership statements, which sets forth the principles to which the institution holds itself in determining when to engage in speech.

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees recognizes that as the state’s flagship public, land-grant university Ohio State’s mission is to create and support an intellectually diverse community empowered to engage in free and open debate, expression, and research in the pursuit of knowledge and the betterment of society; and

WHEREAS, because of its sustained commitment to supporting this educational community, and because of the exemplary academic work of the students, faculty and staff who make up this community, Ohio State has a reputation for excellence both nationally and internationally, which gives the university’s voice significant weight across the world; and

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees affirms that institutional speech may properly be made to defend and uphold the university’s mission and values, but that such speech must be limited to issues of foundational importance to the university to protect its commitment to intellectual diversity; and
ADOPTION OF OHIO STATE PHILOSOPHY ON INSTUTIONAL AND LEADERSHIP STATEMENTS IN SUPPORT OF THE CHICAGO PRINCIPLES (cont’d)

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees recognizes that the university has established a thoughtful and consistent set of principles for evaluating if, when, and how statements will benefit the university and the state of Ohio without causing unintended consequences to the academic community that drives its success, or its commitment to intellectual diversity and free speech; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Trustees agrees that Ohio State should only issue public statements in situations that directly impact the university and its operations; that impact its students, faculty or staff in such a way that the university must respond to provide support, resources or articulate what the institution is doing to resolve a situation; or that are of importance to the city, region or state and the university can play a vital role in sharing information with the public; and

WHEREAS, regardless of whether the university engages in speech on a particular issue, the Board of Trustees believes the university’s role appropriately includes taking action to support impacted members of its community, and encourages impactful, targeted outreach by appropriate representatives of the university in such situations; and

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees has already adopted a university free speech policy affirming the principles of campus free speech and in alignment with the university’s Shared Values:

NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of Trustees hereby acknowledges support for the Chicago Principles, and adopts the attached university philosophy on institutional and leadership statements.
